The latest news from China says that the disturbed political conditions are somewhat better, so it has been possible for the workers to go out and travel without too much danger. During the last quarter the dispensary gave 2,682 treatments. This work is self-supporting. They are still seeing results of a revival meeting held in Kalgan last September. Rev. Mr. Day is expected to come home soon, and in that case only Rev. and Mrs. C. G. Soderbom and Rev. and Mrs. Horace Williams will be left in this great land of more than 500,000,000 souls.

Children's Home

Although the Secretary of the Children's Home will give you the news from this beloved work, we pause here to pay tribute to the faithful workers who have gone for months without salary and are still carrying on. The story is told by Alexander Irvine of his mother, Anna, who, when he was a lad, put two smooth sticks in his hands, told him to hold tight, look at a tree at the end of a field, close his eyes and plow a straight furrow to this tree. Then she said, "Listen, dear, ye've put yer hand to th' plow; ye must niver, niver take it away; all through life ye'll have them plow handles in yer hands and ye'll be goin' down th' furrow. Ye'll crack a stone here and there, the pow'll stick often and things will be out of gear; but ye're in the furrow all the time. Ye'll change horses, ye'll change clothes, ye'll change yerself, but ye'll always be in the furrow, powin', plowin', plowin'—ye're God's plowman."

Surely, these workers at the Children's Home are God's plowmen, and they can not turn back. They merit our wholehearted support.

Bethel Home

News of this worthy work of ours will also be given by another secretary, but we wish to remind you of the cheerfulness and optimism that emanates from this Home, in spite of physical ills and financial worries. Someone has said that a medical missionary is a missionary and a half. This term could certainly be applied to Mr. Casto.

Pine Ridge

We regret to learn of the serious operation Mrs. Woodford has had to undergo on her eyes to prevent total blindness and of her suffering. Undoubtedly, her physical condition has led to the resignation of Dr. Woodford as Superintendent of Pine Ridge at this time. A successor has not been chosen for this place, but Dr. Woodford in his wisdom has looked ahead, anticipating this event, and he has not left this situation without training someone who could take his place. A successor to this position will be chosen at the May meeting of the Board of Missions.

There are about 105 students enrolled at Pine Ridge this year, 75 of whom are boarding students. Rev. G. W. Andrew is the assistant superintendent and Mrs. Andrew is the office secretary. One teacher, Miss Byrd, has been there 11 years and two other teachers are former students at Pine Ridge. A former student who has taken training for nursing is now nursing Mrs. Woodford. In all, there are about 15 teachers and workers at Pine Ridge. The new Junior High School building meets a great need, not only supplying class rooms, but it also has a good-sized auditorium equipped with a stage.

Dillonvale

A few weeks ago the Dillonvale Mission Station opened up an outpost in a nearby village. De Yarmonville is located about two miles down the valley from Dillonvale. It has a little white schoolhouse where school is held during the week. A Sunday school has been organized with about 50 enrolled. A Vacation Bible School is being planned for the summer in conjunction with the one held in Dillonvale.

At Dillonvale they have a very active Mother's Club that meets every week. Following the devotionals, the members sew and piece quilts, the quilts being sold to help pay the kindergarten helper. Mrs. Greenwald would like to have scraps of printed material, bleached or unbleached muslin and embroidery floss to use in this work.

Mrs. Greenwald is assuming all the expenses of her work outside her salary, since the reduction of the Board's budget. Helping foreigners to get adjusted and to learn the American language is not an easy task, but coupled with this Mrs. Greenwald is doing a great work in sharing the Christian religion with these people. She writes, "How many times we have warmed the half-frozen hands and feet of the less fortunate who have braved the stormy weather to reach the kindergarten."

Results—From Cutting Board Budget

In many areas, both at home and abroad, discouragement has set in; health is endangered; the morale is none too good; while outside of the missionary circle we hear talk of Missions having had their day, being at the end of their cycle. Modern "liberalism" has taken away the faith of many and cut the nerve of missionary giving in many lives.

Although the complex and problematic situation wrought by the chaotic conditions of the present day have caused considerable damage, the home base is holding on tenaciously, with an admirable degree of faith, courage and hope. The situation abroad, though not so hopeful at present, is being firmly held by the strong hands of the courageous few, whose indomitable faith impels them to cry, "It shall be done!"

Let us ask ourselves the question, "Do we need missions?"

It is reported that in one section of Japan a missionary, Rev. Murray Walton, has taken advantage of one of the finest newspaper organizations in the world for spreading the Gospel message by articles, advertisements of meetings, etc. Over 100,000 people have written to him for instruction and spiritual advice, most of these being young people.

News comes from all over China telling of invitations to overworked missionaries, begging them to visit villages with the Gospel.

From India goes up the cry from thousands of needy men and women, boys and girls, for love and care, for truth and light. Men are knocking at the door of Christian hospitals and medical establishments.

Shall we sit idly by and let these cries go unheard and unheeded? They come from every mission country in the world.

What, Then, Shall We Do About It?

1. In the church at home—we need a revival of biblical and evangelical preaching and ministers who will take the whole world for their parish. However hard the going financially, pastors and officers must put the cause of world missions to the forefront of their church program and keep it there if they want the work to go forward.

2. An intelligent backing of the missionary cause must be rooted in missionary knowledge; the fires will burn steadily only as they are fed by the proper fuel. So we need adequate missionary education all the year 'round and all the way from the pulpit to the cradle roll. In this connection, let me remind you of the course in Missions that will be given this summer at Leadership Training School in High Point. The course will be taught by Mr. Minnis. An opportunity that we rarely have is to sit in the classroom of a teacher who has had actual experience and first-hand information regarding our foreign work. Make your plans now to go, urge your young people to go and take the course, and also urge your pastor to take this course.

3. Youth Win Youth to Christ—so we need more youth representation in our Branch and on our Boards. "Hard" things challenge our youth. In a recent missionary address, Dr. Daniel A. Poling said one way to give young people a place in the missionary enterprise was to have a compulsory retiring age for Board secretaries. Perhaps that sounds a little drastic, but we do need to let the youth of our church have a part in the program if we get and hold their interest.

4. We need faithful and specific prayer, public and private, for the varied interests of the missionary cause. Do we pray enough? I have known of Methodist Protestant ministers going to new charges asking some member of the congregation to name those upon whom he might call for public prayer without embarrassment, and the few named could be counted on the fingers of one hand and then some left over. Shame on us who call ourselves Christian not to be willing to humble ourselves, confess our self-righteousness to Him and ask His forgiveness! Someone has said that "during the Great War we prayed to the God of vengeance and not to the Prince of Peace;" in the days of seeming prosperity that followed we sought and rejoiced in the might of the dollar and not in the power of the Holy Spirit; and in the present days of distress we find little of heart searching and true repentance, but rather a feeling that if the NRA, CCC, FERA, CWA and all the rest cannot save us there is no salvation." Do we ever ask our Heavenly Father to help us solve our problems?

5. We need an informed, wise, passionately enthusiastic leadership, full of faith and hope, wholly convinced that Christ is the only Saviour and that the sharing of His gospel with all the world is the Church's first obligation, and a leadership willing to sacrifice with the rank and file for the cause they represent.

Someone has said that "the Church is looking for better methods; God is looking for better men." We have the people, young and old—let's inform and educate them.

Every Nation's Need

"God give us men! A time like this demands
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands.
Men whom the lust of office cannot kill,
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy,
Men who possess opinions, and a will,
Men who have honor, men who will not lie.
Men who can stand before a damagogue
And down his treacherous flatteries without winking,
Pure men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty and in private thinking."

—J. G. Holland.

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. E. LESTER BALLARD,
Sec'y Missionary Education.

EASTER

Easter is the sweetest day of spring
Because of the flowers and songs we sing.
To see the budding trees and the chirp of the birds,
To feel the sweet breeze and the voices we've heard,
That nature has brought back to us so nice;
What can we give as a sacrifice?
Just think of the Savior nailed to the cross,
And the suffering He endured for those who were lost;
Give heed, my dear brother, on this Easter day,
Awaken your soul so you can repay;
Repent of your sins, resolve to do good—
The Church needs your help if only you would—
Not money alone can buy your way
But your talent and time and the things you say
Can win many a lost soul back in the fold—
Isn't that more precious than all of your gold?
Don't judge others by the lives they have lived,
For you're not responsible—just try to forgive,
And don't criticize anything that's bad
But try to build up and still be glad
That you have helped others out of the mires.
Then you are a church-worker that Christ desires.
Why not let Easter be a great day for you
And resurrect that lost soul entrusted to do
Those things for the Master He gives in each lesson—
Then you'll get to share in that eternal blessing.

—Henderson Church Reporter.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Flat Rock Charge.—The rally of the Sixth District of our Annual Conference was held at Flat Rock church last Sunday with a good attendance and an interesting and helpful program was carried out. Rev. J. L. Trollinger, the district chairman, had prepared a good program, which started at 10:30 a. m. with a song and devotional service in charge of Brother Trollinger.

The first address of the morning session was made by Rev. C. B. Way, of Stokesdale, pastor of Flat Rock charge, whose subject was "Our Relationship to the Methodist Protestant Herald." Following this address, Rev. J. L. Trollinger delivered the sermon, using as a subject, "The Church That Ought to Be." The speaker emphasized the importance of making the church what it ought to be, and declared that unless the members of a church measure up to the standards and ideals set by Christ, the church cannot be the kind of organization it ought to be. Speaking of the bankrupt church, the minister said that such a church is a joke in the sight of God. The godly qualities of any church are determined by the character of its members, the speaker asserted. In closing, Rev. Mr. Trollinger stressed the great fact of individual responsibility of the members of a church, and compared the church to a family, in which the spirit of love exists.

During the noon recess period a picnic dinner was enjoyed by the large gathering of church people of the district. Dr. G. R. Brown, of Reidsville, offered the prayer of thanks at the outdoor feast which was spread upon a large table in the church yard.

The afternoon session began at 1:45 o'clock with an address by Dr. G. R. Brown, of Reidsville, who discussed the relationship of the family to the church. In his opening statements the speaker asserted that the two greatest insitutions in the world are the home and the church. He said that the family existed before the church was started, referring to the Jewishs custom of having an altar in the home, and the father of the home serving as priest. Speaking of the present religious life of the people, the speaker declared that the family altar had been almost abandoned, admitting that in some homes there is a kind of knock-down altar which was brought out for use when the minister visited the home. Then the minister made the assertion that it was a sad day in the history of the world when the family altar was abandoned, and it was a sadder day when people became too busy to take time to be holy. Dr. Brown concluded his address by stating that the family and the church should be inseparable, and the tie that binds a man and woman as husband and wife should also bind the home and the church and be the strongest tie known to man.

A period of the afternoon session of the gathering was devoted to the work of the women of the district. Mrs. J. H. Allen, of Reidsville, chairman of the women's work in the district, was introduced and made a brief talk, after which she introduced Mrs. G. R. Brown, of Reidsville, corresponding secretary of the North Carolina Branch of women's work, who delivered an interesting address on the work being carried on by the women of the denomination in North Carolina.

A timely address by Dr. R. M. Andrews, of High Point, president of the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, brought the program of addresses to a close. Dr. Andrews gave an encouraging report of the progress being made by the various churches in the state. Following this address, representatives of the different churches in the district made brief reports of "the best thing in my church."

The Kernersville Charge and Draper Church were not represented in the attendance. Part of the churches on Haw River Circuit and the Reidsville church were reprsented in the attendance.

Our appointments for next Sunday will be at Bethel Church at 11 a. m. and Gideon's Grove church at 3 p. m.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

* * *

Winston-Salem, First Church.—The fact that the reporter has been silent and the preacher has not written is not to be taken to indicate that this church has fallen on sleep. We have been silent because one of us has waited on the other. The consequence is, nothing has ben said, when much could have been said. I shall not take time nor space to say it all in this one article, but just touch some of the high spots.

Perhaps the highest spot in a long time was the "Womanless Supper" put on by our men last Wednesday night. The meal was prepared, cooked and served to about 125 folks, of whom the ladies made up the larger part. Perhaps they came out of curiosity, or to ridicule. But we showed 'em how to cook, and I think they left a bit jealous of their husbands, sweethearts, etc. While the money was not the main consideration, we cleared $25.39. This will be used toward the purchase of a movable-type bulletin board to be placed in front of the church.

Sunday school attendance yesterday was better than the same date last year; in fact, the average for the quarter is considerably better than last year. This in spite of the fact that an attendance contest was on last year. Yesterday we had six new scholars and eight visitors.

I am wondering if there is in any church in our conference such a board of stewards as Winston, First Church, can boast of? Out of the 20 members, most of the time there are at least 17 present. And the session is always businesslike.

The women have entered into the new Branch year with a fine spirit. There was little hesitation on the part of those who were nominated in accepting their offices, and the work is going forward. Another group of the children was organized a couple of weeks ago. Two of the children's groups meet once a month during the preaching hour, and their meetings are well attended and interesting.

Our Sunday school superintendent always has somethig interesting for the closing of the school system. Two weeks, ago, a recognition service, honoring the faithfulness of some of the minor (so-called) officers. Last Sunday, week, a birthday cake was presented to our brother, Claude Shore. Yesterday, the closing exercises of the Sunday school were combined with the church service, which was shortened so we might get away to the District meeting at Shoals. The pastor spoke especially to the children. They seemed to enjoy it.

Three weeks ago we began a campaign to increase our finances by asking the folks to give a dime out of every dollar for the next eight weeks. While the response has not been as good as we had hoped, it is helping us to meet some of our obligations. And when the canvass is completed we probably will have still greater returns.

C. W. BATES, Pastor.

* * *

Mt. Pleasant, North Davidson.—Bro. C. L. Grant delivered a very inspiring sermon the fourth Sunday at the 11 o'clock hour. He took for his subject "Stewardship." The prodigal son went away and spent all his money. He had friends while he had money, but when he had spent all his money he didn't have any. He came to himself and knew he was in sin and he changed his way and went back to his father. Just as this young man did so do people today. They will not live for Christ till they are old and have had the good times with worldly things. They know they haven't long to live and they give their souls to God because they want to live the eternal life with God. Every one has to come to himself to be their best.

The second Sunday in this month Bro. Grant brought a very wonderful sermon on the "Second Coming of Jesus." Jesus is coming again and everyone will see the Risen Lord that died for the sins of the world. The plea of today is "Prepare to meet thy God." Some are looking forward to the second coming and many are fearing it. Be prepared for His second coming and you will not fear it.

Remember our annual Memorial Day the fourth Sunday in May.

The second Sunday in May our pastor will preach a special sermon on "Mother's Day," and are planning to have some special music.

REPORTER.

* * *

Halifax Charge.—On Friday before the fourth Sunday in April, we held our second quarterly conferenc at Eden church. Our attendance was fair, considering some very unfavorable conditions for that time. The regular order of business was carried out. with very encouraging reports from our various organizations, considering the very unfavorable weather conditions for the past few months.

We were especially proud of the reports from our Ladies' Auxiliaries. All reported their budgets for last year paid in full, with Eden having raised their budget for this year—$20.00. Also, we are glad to say that the Eden Auxiliary was recognized at the recent Branch Meeting as one of the very few honored Auxiliaries of the N. C. Branch. The others expressed a determination to become standard Auxiliaries for this year.

Mr. Richard Taylor and Miss Winnie Bert were nominated for the delegate to the Annual Conference. Either of these nominees is well able to represent our charge at Conference.

Our financial report was not as good as could have been. However, Bethesda church reported pastor's salary paid right much in advance. The others were a bit behind with all claims, but we are looking forward toward the end of the Conference year with confidence that we will not be ashamed of our achievement. Because our people of Halifax Charge are of a progressive mind and are interested in Kingdom service.

Bethesda has recently improved their church ground and cemetery by leveling the yard and setting out shrubbery. The shrubbery was donated to the church by Rev. and Mrs. N. M. Harrison. To them we wish to express our deep appreciation. We are also raising funds to remodel the front of the church. Mrs. W. R. Neville is our very efficient leader in this improvement project.

Hollister is planning to paint, and do some repair work on their church in the very near future.

We are glad to say the general interest on our work is encouraging. Our attendance for regular services is good and growing at all churches. We had a special service for young people at Bethesda last fourth Sunday night. We had a large congregation to witness and enjoy the program which was given by the young people of the community. The play, "Saving the Weary World," was the main feature of the occasion. A special offering was taken which amounted to $5.00.

We are not at the top of the ladder, but we are conscious of it, and are still climbing. May God bless us in our efforts, is our prayer.

O. C. LOY.

Siler City Church.—Circles Nos. 1 and 2 met in a joint session at the home of Mrs. C. E. Brady on Monday night, April 9th, with Mrs. L. L. Woody and Mrs. Brady as hostesses. Fourteen members and one visitor were present. Mrs. T. L. Smith, chairman of Circle No. 1, led the devotionals. Mrs. L. L. Woody and Miss Minnie Cooper, delegates to the Branch Meeting in Henderson, then gave a brief outline of the proceedings at the meeting, Miss Cooper telling of the first day's proceedings and Mrs. Woody of the night and last day. These talks were very interesting to the ones who could not attend the Branch Meeting and we all feel very much encouraged to press onward and try to do even better another year than we have in the past. After this, each circle held its business meeting, then all re-assembled and were served delicious refreshments by the hostesses.

Mr. Isley was with us the third Sunday morning and preached one of the best sermons we have heard him preach.

The Woman's Auxiliary met in the Philathea room Wednesday, 18th, with 11 members present and the president presiding. The devotional, led by the president, was very uplifting, giving new courage and zeal for all to press on and launch out to do greater things for our Lord Jesus Christ. As this was the first meeting for this new year quite a little business was transacted and many plans laid for the year. Recently $10.00 was sent to the Children's Home.

We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Smith, former members of our church, but now, of Burlington, in Sunday school the fourth Sunday. We had 105 present that day. Mrs. L. L. Woody's class led the devotionals, consisting of songs, readings and a play, "The M. P. Herald Campaign," also special music by the orchestra. This orchestra is composed of members of Mrs. Woody's class.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cooper, Misses Sallie Smith, Verda Shaw Fox, Minnie Cooper, and Irvin Ellington visited in the home of Mr. F. R. Smith, of Burlington, Sunday and while there worshipped in the First Church.

MRS. J. A. COOPER, Reporter.

First Church, Lexington.—There was no 11 o'clock service at First church Sunday due to the District Rally at Mt. Carmel. At the evening service Pastor Isley spoke on "Standing in God's Smile." His text was I John 1:7, "But if we walk in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his son cleanseth us from all sin."

On Thursday, April 26, the Young Ladies' Missionary Circle held its April meeting at the church with the Circle chairman, Miss Juanita Easter, presiding. After the business was attended to the Circle adjourned to meet with Miss Easter May 21. There were eight members and two visitors present.

The Ladies' Circle gave a dinner and supper Saturday, April 29. The proceeds of the dinner and supper amounted to about $24.00, which will go on the building fund.

The Annual Mother's Day and Home-Coming Day services will be held on Mother's Day, May 13. At 11 o'clock Mr. John Hayes, of Thomasville, a former member of First Church, will deliver the Mother's Day address. In the afternoon the Home-Coming service will be held. Speakers will include Rev. C. L. Grant, Mr. George Berrier, Mr. Walter Easter, High Point, and others. There will be special music at both services furnished by quartets from Thomasville and Winston-Salem, and choruses for Mocksville and Canaan Church. We extend an invitation to all former pastors and members to be with us for this service.

The church extends sympathy to Rev. Atlas Ridge in the death of his wife. Bro. Rridge is a former pastor of First church.

MARGARET LEA SWINK, Reporter.

Welch Memorial Church.—On Wednesday night April 18th, we held our second quarterly conference. We had a good attendance. Several things came up for discussion and were satisfactorily agreed upon. Mr. John Easter and Mr. E. F. Seagraves were nominated as candidates for delegate to Conference. All departments of the church made good reports and showed some gain.

The C. E. Society made an especially good report. They won the shield for the third time at the last general meeting of the societies. They have made some improvements around the church among them being covers for the chairs in the choir., This adds much to the appearance. On Sunday night, April 22nd, they invited all the other societies in town to a special service. Dr. P. E. Lindley very helpfully addressed this meeting on the subject, "Worship." This week they are holding a short service each evening for the revival which is in progress. The revival began Sunday morning—or rather several say it began at a consecration meeting a week ago—and has continued through the past week, with prayer services each night.

Dr. Williams brought us a good sermon at the morning service and Bro. J. L. Trollinger was with us at night and since. The attendance is fine. Especially do we notice a number of unsaved of the community and for whom the church is praying attending these services. We just trust that they will see the need of the Savior and give their hearts and lives to Him.

Lebanon.—Our efficient reporter, Mrs. J. W. Thacker, does so well in keeping the doings of Lebanon before our Herald readers that I do not feel the necessity of writing often, However, I do desire to say a brief word this week.

Among the noteworthy events that are happening at Lebanon is the marriage of one of our splendid young women, and most faithful and efficient workers, Miss Ida Guyer, who recently became the wife of Mr. Glenn B. Lambert. The marriage was solemnized in the church in the presence of a few intimate friends, the writer officiating. Mr. Lambert is a young business man of High Point, and Mrs. Lambert holds a responsible position in the Hood Bank of the city. I heartily share with their many friends in wishing them much happiness and prosperity.

We have been saddened this week by the death of the infant son of Bro. and Sister Dale C. Montgomery. Its three days of earthly life were all too short, but long enough to make it a precious gift to these fond parents. They, of course, feel keenly their loss; but there is consolation in the fact that their angel-babe will bring heaven closer to them, and strengthen the pull on their hearts toward the good place to which it has gone. May God abundantly comfort them and the others who feel most keenly this sorrow.

For some time there has been considerable sickness among our people. Many of our childrn have had measles and mumps, and among our adults there has been more serious illness. But in a large group of people this is to be expected. They all have our prayers and our good hopes for timely recoveries.

In addition to our regular routine work, we have the following special programs scheduled:

1. Church attendance boost. This is a three-months' program, running through April, May and June.

2. Three addresses on Character Building. Mr. R. L. Pope, of Thomasville, pleased a large congregation with the first of these addresses on last Sunday. Prof. T. Wingate Andrews, superintendent of the schools of High Point, will follow next Sunday, and Mr. Grover H. Jones, attorney for the city of High Point, will make the last address on the first Sunday in May.

3. A worship in song next Sunday night (fifth Sunday). Mr. D. R. Connell will assist in this service with his Thomasville quartet, also the Chisholm sisters, of Thomasville.

4. Tithing month. On the recommendation of the second quarterly conference, the month of May is to be tithing month with us. The matter was submitted to the congregation, and received hearty endorsement. Watch for results.

5. Our Hut project. On the third Sunday in April we raised, through our "Dollar-a-Square Chart" $671. This amount will be supplemented by others who wish to share in this undertaking. Besides the members that are represented in the various organizations that pldged, we have 113 individual pledges. an indication of how general the sentiment is for the Hut. We hope to have the building up by an early date.

There are great opportunities at Lebanon church, and we are happy in the fact that the work is in a hopeful and growing condition.

S. W. TAYLOR.

* * *

Gibsonville Church.—Nothing unusual has happened at our church since the last report.

Under the direction of Miss Miunie Kallam, the Young Ladies' Bible Class presented a play, "The Lost Church." A special offering was taken for the Children's Home.

Mr. P. L. Kivett donated enough lumber to build an altar in the church. Mr. J. R. Apple did the carpenter work without charge. The Young Ladies' Auxiliary has furnished material for a cushion.

We are glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Fred Griggs and Miss Annie Griggs, of Oak Grove church, bring their letters and unite with the Gibsonville church. They are making their home near Whitsett, N. C.

Nert Sunday, May 6, there will be no preaching at the church on account of the Baccalaureate sermon at the public school building. Rev. D. D. Holt of Charlotte will preach at the 11 o'clock hour.

We are looking forward to May 13 when our special meeting will begin. Rev. J. E. Carroll will do the preaching.

REPORTER.

* * *

Efland, Orange Circuit.—Efland is still surviving. The reporter has been on the sick list for the past several weeks, but is able to be on the job again and wishes to inform you of some of our work.

The men's supper was a grand success. It was carried out in plenty of style and dignity, along with good "eats" and a general good time. The men were so pleased with it that we think it will not be their last. With part of the proceeds they presented the church kitchen a new stove. This was badly needed and the Auxiliary is especially grateful for it.

The Auxiliary was entertained at the March meeting by Mrs. M. P. Efland. An important part of the business meeting was the election of officers and dividing the Auxiliary into circles. The officers elected were: President, Mrs. O. E. Bivins; secretary, Mrs. G. G. Bivins; treasurer, Mrs. E. D. Thompson; pastor's aid secretary, Mrs. Ed Murray. A number of other secretaries were elected. New Circle chairmen are: Circle No. 1, Mrs. M. P. Efland; No. 2, Mrs. Robert Nichols; No. 3, Miss Pattye Crutchfield.

After a very appetizing luncheon served by Mrs. Efland, assisted by Miss Mary Elizabeth Efland, the ladies spent a most enjoyable afternoon quilting three quils for Pastor and Mrs. Williams.

On April 18 the Auxiliary met at the church for a very impressive installation service, in which Pastor Williams took the leader's part.

A special service was held in our church the fifth Sunday morning by the local Junior Order. A well filled house, about 70 of whom were members of this worthy organization, were informed of its work, its history, and some very inspiring facts pertaining to the organization by Rev. S. F. Nicks, Past State Councilor. We were delighted to have the quartet from the Mebane Lodge, accompanied by Miss Velma Sykes, render two beautiful selections.

Circle No. 2 of the Ladies' Auxiliary will serve Brunswick stew at the church Saturday evening from 6 to 9 o'clock. We hope to have a large number present.

PATTYE J. CRUTCHFIELD, Reporter.

* * *

Corinth, Littleton Circuit.—Our pastor, Rev R L. Vickery, has been sick for nearly three weeks with flu. He is able to be up now and around in the house. We hope he will soon be able to be back with us at church. His wife and son have been down with flu, also, but they are better at this time. Rev. Mr. Miller, pastor of Littleton Baptist church, will fill our pasor's appointment at this church next Sunday at the 11 o'clock service.

Mrs. M. J. Morris has been sick for several days. She is still in bed at this writing, but some better than she has been.

Mr. Whit Harper has been sick for some time, and does not improve very fast. We hope he will soon be able to be back with us.

Our Sunday school is moving along nicely. Our attendance is better and the people are taking more interest.

Misses Edith Carter and Minnie Walker, from our church, will graduate from Aurelian Springs High School this week.

At the call quarterly conference, Miss Emma Hawkins and Mr. Tom Carter were nominated delegates to Annual Conference.

Several of our members attended the Rally Day srvice at Weaver's Chapl Sunday.

The writer and Mrs. B. F. Morris were very glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Bingham and little son, of Creswell, as their dinner guests Monday. We hope they will come again soon.

MRS. B. F. MORRIS, Reporter.

* * *

South China Grove.—Since our last report we have had a one-week revival resulting in 15 professions and are expecting a number to join the church. We held cottage prayer meetings each afternoon and one afternoon during the week we held four such meetings. The homes of the village have been opened to us in an unusual way, and the Lord is blessing us in a great way; it was a great thing to see fathers and morthers come through for God. We were glad to have Bro. W. W. Hartman come to us by transfer and feel sure he can be a great help to us. We have had folks coming to the pastor's home asking for prayer, and we feel sure the revival is going to continue. We now have folks attending our church from old China Grove. The pastor will be glad to help any of the preachers in a revival meeting if called on. Pray for us and our work.

J. O. FRY, Pastor.

* * *

South Winston.—After an absence of a few days I am here again. Have been very busy lately and have neglected making any report. Our attendance at Sunday school seems to be on the increase just a little.

Our pastor hasn't been with use since Easter Sunday, owing to the illness of his wife, who has been in the Davidson Hospital at Lexington until last Thursday at 10:45 a. m. when she quietly passed away to her happy home in Heaven. She was in the hospital about three or four weeks, and she suffered a great deal with a cancer of the stomach. We are very sorry indeed because of this bereavement of our beloved pastor, as we will miss her appearance at church with her husband, but His will be done,, and not ours.

If it is the Lord's will, Bro. Ridge will be with us next Sunday, May 6th, at 11 a. m. for regular service, and at 3 p. m. we will hold quarterly conference, and especially urge that every member and officer of the church be present. Visitors are also welcome. At 7:30 Dr. R. M. Andrews will be with us for the evening service and we want everybody to make a special effort to be present for the servic.

We will also have our communion service at a later date, to be announced later in the Herald.

W. C. MORRIS, Reporter.

* * *

Hickory Grove.—Our Easter program was held on Easter Sunday, April 1. There was a large collection of songs and recitations, especially by the smaller chidren. A large number attended the program and seemed to enjoy it.

Since my last report, the church has organized a new class, a young woman's class. The class seems to be very small now, but we are hoping it will grow into a bigger and better one.

The Willing Workers' Class gave a weiner roast at the home of Mr. A. L. Jones Thursday night, April 12. Weiners, pop-corn, peanuts, candy, and lemonade were sold. The proceeds amounted to about $5.50, which will be used to some benefit of the church. The Willing Workers are expecting to give several entertainments or socials to raise money for the church. The class is planning to meet at the home of Miss Gertrude Gardener on Thursday night.

We are continuing our prayer meetings every Sunday night. Although there are not as many attending them as we would like to have, interest seems to prevail. We want more people to come to help with the services.

The Township Sunday school convention was held at our church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Several special numbers were given by the Colfax quartet and a duet was sung by Miss Florence Crutchfield and Mr. George Higgins, of Pleasant Ridge. There were four speakers for the afternoon. The program seemed to be enjoyed by everyone present.

CELESTE STRICKLAND, Reporter.

* * *

Calvary.—Next Sunday, May 6th, is to be known as Anniversary Day at our church. An effort is being made to make a new record in Sunday school. At the 11 o'clock service the pastor will preach the sermon. The roll of all deceased members of the church will be called, also the roll of the living ones. At this service the tithe of the income of the 72 who have agreed to tithe for the month of April, is to be brought in. In the afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be another service in which it is hoped to have a number of ministers and laymen to make short addresses and bring greetings. We are extending a cordial invitation to our friends to be with us in both services. The usual Sunday evening service will not be held.

Last Sunday morning we had the great pleasure of having Dr. Luther K. Long, of Washington, D. C., preach for us. So many of our people had been reading Dr. Long's articles in the Herald for the past several years that it was a pleasure for them to see him as well as hear him. In the week that he spent with the Editor, Dr. McCulloch, he greatly endeared himself to us all. We shall be glad to have him come our way again.

We have the promise of having our reporter back in the city next week, so I am sure she will have a big batch of news for you all. J. E. PRITCHARD.

Weaver's Chapel, Littleton Charge.—We are very sorry to say our pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, is yet on the sick list, and hasn't been able to fill his appointments for the past few Sundays, which we regret very much, and our prayers are that he be restored to his health speedily, be it the Lord's will. Other members of his family have been sick but have recovered.

The First District Rally was held here at Weaver's Chapel, Sunday, April 29th. A large crowd was present and a very interesting program was rendeded by pastors of other charges and the ladies were given one hour for their program. Everyone seemed to enjoy it very much, and we were glad to have them worship with us, especially our former pastor, Rev. P. E. Bingham. Though we greatly enjoyed the program, our hearts were saddened when we thought of our pastor, as he had the misfortune of being unable to be with us, after trying so hard and looking forward to that day being one of the best, and we trust that much good was accomplished for he Lord. But Bro. Vickery was greatly missed. REPORTER.

Grace Church.—Dr. Joy Harris Glascock was the hostess to the Woman's Auxiliary of Grace Church on Tuesday, May 1, at which meeting the two mission study books for this year were reviewed.

Dr. J. E. Pritchett, of Calvary Church, reviewed the home mission book in the morning entitled "The Christian Mission of America," by Kerr. "Easter Women of Today and Tomorrow," by Woodsmall, was reviewed by our pastor, Mr. Carroll.

There was a large attendance, and the ladies brought their lunch for the all-day session. It was a pleasure to have in attendance at this meeting, Dr. S. K. Spahr, pastor emeritus of this church, and Rev. T. J. Whitehead of West End Church. At the close of a very successful meeting, the president of the Auxiliary, Mrs. E. W. Teague, thanked Dr. Glascock for her hospitality.

M. L. W., Reporter.

Graham.—We were glad to welcome Dr. Andrews to our 11 o'clock service April 29. He brought us a wonderful message, which we hope will inspire us all to greater service to our church and to God. We were also glad to hear his report that conditions among all our churches were so much better this year. Special music was rendered at the morning service by Mrs. Don S. Holt and Miss Elizabeth Byrd.

We observed April as the month of the tithe and a great number of our people cooperated, making it very successful.

A special program is in preparation for our Mother's Day service.

We are happy to report that 51 families among the members of our church are taking the M. P. Herald.

Quite a number of our people have been sick recently. Mrs. J. L. Amick, Mrs. John Parks, Mrs. H. M. Sykes, Mr. T. J. McVey, and little Mary Ellen Sykes. They are all improving at present. We wish for them all a speedy recovery.

We are grieved over the death of Paul C. McPherson. He was the husband of one of our members, Mrs. Christine Whitfield McPherson. We wish to express our deepest sympathy in this bereavement. The funeral services were conducted from the Friends church in Graham, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, by our pastor, Rev. Mr. Auman, and Rev. John McPherson. Burial was in the Linwood cemetery, Graham.

MRS. CHARLES CATES, Reporter.

ESTABLISH FINANCIAL FREEDOM IN YOUR CHURCH—IT CAN BE DONE!

Put your church on a paying basis! Let the time-tested Layman Company's tithing pamphlets do the work. These pamphlets as issued by the Layman Company offer every church a most effective education. They have convinced people by the thousands. Send sixty cents to the Layman Company and you will receive thirty 8-page pamphlets, which can be used for general circulation; three sermons; one account book; two short, convincing playlets; one copy of our new text-book, "The Scriptural Basis for the Tithe."

The church that is carefully, wisely and systemaitcally taught to tithe will become a tithing church, free from financial difficulties. Sample package, sixty cents.

Please mention the Methodist Protestant Herald; also give your denomination. Address The Layman Company, 730 Rush St., Chicago, Ill.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

(Continued from Page Nine)

have four mules, about 25 head of cows and cattle, about 250 chickens to feed, besides the wheat and corn needed for bread. It takes an abundance of grain. Farmers of the Conference can give that grain, which, added to what we raise, will help us not to buy any grain. Will you do it?

That Patch

That leads me to say again, Plant a patch for the Home. It is corn-planting time now. Plant a patch for the Home. Thank you, and God bless you every one.

Yours in His service,

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

NOTE: Just as this report was finished, Rev. G. L. Reynolds brought six cakes for school lunches, the gift of the ladies of Flag Spring, Why Not. Thank you!

—Mary Frances Gerringer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Gerringer, is a member of the graduating class of the Henderson High School this year. Her grades were sufficient to exempt her from the final examinations and because of the excellence of her thesis she has been selected as one of the commencement speakers.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Harris

Brinkleyville community was recently made sad because of the passing of Mrs. H. A. Harris, who had been in failing health for quite awhile. Her suffering was intense for several weeks, but she bore it patiently without a murmur or complaint. Even death had no terror for her. She left this earthly abode with an unfaltering trust in Christ, her Savior. In her suffereing, she expressed to the writer a desire for her Christ to come quickly and carry her to her new home.

Mrs. Harris had a very lovable disposition. She was gentle and kind, and had a smile and a kind word for everyone she met. Her pain was never too severe for her to greet those who visited her with a loving smile. We feel our loss greatly, yet we rejoice because of her gain. Also we are proud of the goodly heritage she has left us. May God give us more such mothers as she.

She was a member of the Baptist church of Littleton, though, for the sake of convenience, she had given her very loyal support to Bethesda M. P. church of Halifax charge for the past few years.

She leaves behind to mourn their loss several children, among whom is Mrs. J. T. Aycock, of Brinkleyville, with whom she was making her home at the time of death; also a number of grandchildren, as well as a host of friends and other near relatives.

The funeral service was conducted in the home by the writer, after which the body was laid to its final resting place in Ring Wood cemetery beside her husband, who preceded her to the spirit world several years ago.

To the bereaved we extend our deepest sympathy. O. C. LOY.

Terrell

Mrs. Nancy Ann Terrell died April 20, 1934. Funeral services were conducted by the writer at Hebron church April 22.

Sister Terrell joined Chestnut Ridge church several years ago, later transferring to Hebron church. She is spoken of as a good woman by all who knew her. A large number of friends and relatives attended the funeral services.

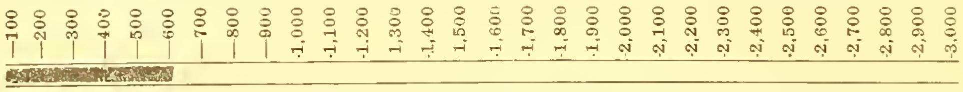
She lived to be more than 85 years of age. We believe she has gone to enjoy the rest "prepared for the people of God."

B. M. WILLIAMS.

—Dr. J. E. Pritchard, who has made an extensive study of the weather, is having plenty of opportunities to tell others about it. He spoke to the Greensboro Kiwanis club last week and the daily press says he received prolonged applause.

—We regret we were in error last week in reporting the wreck of Brother Stubbins' car. He was struck from the rear as he was making a left hand turn and knocked fifty feet forward instead of backward.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
FOUNTAIN PLACE	100
COMMUNITY PLACE	97
CALVARY	72

Well, well Just look at the head of my column this week! Fountain Place is standing up there with her head high up in the air! And she has a right to do so, for she has gone over the top in the Herald campaign. Not all things take place that ought to take place, but I am going to ask you to follow me in your imagination and witness a scene that ought to take place:

"Are you the manager of this hotel? We want you to reserve for us your dining room for tonight with plates for three hundred people. The only requirement we will make concerning the fare is that we must have turkey and ice cream." It is now 8:30 o'clock. The Toastmaster rises and says, "While you are eating your dessert we are going to start the program. We are here this evening to do honor to the Fountain Place M. P. Church in that they have reached their goal in the Herald campaign. It now gives me pleasure to present an official of the city of Burlington who will bring the congratulations of the city." "Mr. Toastmaster, Pastor Bethea, Ladies and Gentlemen: It gives me great pleasure to bring the congratulations and greetings of the city of Burlington to what we consider one of the best churches in our city. Long ago we found out that the church that is worth the most is not always the largest. You have in your membership some of the best people of our city and we did not expect you to do less than the best. We are proud of you and wish you well. May you continue to prosper." This speech was greeted by prolonged applause. The President of the Conference, the Governor of the State and the President of the United States all speak. Their speeches are greeted with prolonged applause, but there is not room to record them here. But let the Herald Committee extend congratulations.

Ten thousand times ten thousand thanks to the N. C. Branch for their HUNDRED DOLLARS ON SUBSIDY.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	9½	$....
Albemarle	17	4	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	22	....
Asheville	14	5¾	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	8.45	....
Bessemer City	..	4.40	....
Burlington, First	71	8½	....
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	11	....
Charlotte	21	6.7	.60
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	..	.32	....
Cleveland	61	8	....
Concord	26	12½	....
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	1½	....
Denton	48	10¼	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	6½	*5.00
Fallston	85	18½	....
Flat Rock	63	12½	....
Friendship	21	1⅛	....
Forsyth	45	6½	2.50
Gibsonville	20	2½	....
Glen Raven	47	2½	....
Graham	27	22.98	....
Granville	59	8½	10.00
Greensboro, Calvary	29	21	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	7	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	2½	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	8.6	*7.50
Greensville	59	6½	....
Guilford	37	9½	....
Halifax	53	6	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	13.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	9½	....
High Point, Lebanon	34	4½	....
High Point, Welch	22	4½	....
KANNAPOLIS	15	15.30	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2½	....
Lexington, First	45	8	1.00
Lexington, State Street	40	1½	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	36	11¾	....
Littleton	50	6	....
Mebane	28	5	....
Mecklenburg	40	1½	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	2½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	2½	....
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	15½	....
Mount Pleasant	62	9½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	23¼	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	....
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	6¾	....
Randolph	74	8½	....
Reidsville	10	7	....
Richland	43	3½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	18	*20.00
Siler City	20	10¾	2.50
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	11½	....
Tabernacle	39	14¾	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	1	....
West Forsyth	62	6½	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	4	....
Winston, First	26	7¼	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	4½	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

---

* Subsidy paid in full.

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher
Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.
PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

A MID-YEAR HERALD HONOR ROLL

The first half of the Conference year will end with about the middle of May. It has been decided to print in the Herald in the issue of May 17 the names of all the charges who have raised as much as half of their quota of subscriptions. This honor roll will be on the walls of Calvary church on Tuesday, May 22, in the mid-year meeting which Dr. Andrews is putting on for the entire Conference. There are several charges that can get on this honor roll by putting forth a little extra effort. Let pastors help Herald Agents and in case there is no Herald Agent at the churches on circuits, let somebody volunteer and help the pastor put the charge on the Honor Roll.

All money sent in as late as Wednesday morning, May 16, will count.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

D. A. McLaurin	$9.60
Mrs. W. A. Cheek	8.60
Rev. G. R. Brown	6.00
Miss Sallie Smith	3.00
Rev. F. W. Paschall	2.00
Rev. J. R. Anderson	2.00
Mrs. J. W. Wright	2.00
Rev. J. D. Cranford	1.90
Rev. H. F. Surratt	1.00
L. F. Ferree	1.00
Rev. H. W. Bell	1.00
Rev. J. O. Fry	.64
Miss Mildred Younginer	.50

—In the death of Richard Shaw, First Church at High Point loses one of its most valuable members. Mrs. Shaw before her marriage was Miss Flossie Stout and is a niece of the late O. R. Cox, who was one of the best known laymen of our Conference during his life time.

—Mrs. M. A. Coble, of Burlington, one of the new vice-presidents of the N. C. Branch of Women's Work, made a fine impression in her address on the Purposes and Programme of the Women's Work at West End church in the District Rally last Sunday afternoon.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

Rev. H. L. Isley 2Aug4 R6

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., MAY 10, 1934 NUMBER 25

Have Faith in God!

Has new-made trouble come your way
With threats to spoil your good new day?
The threats are vain—they have no power,
They'll vanish like a summer shower.

Have former troubles come again
A greater pest than e'er they've been?
Thy would deceive you, heed them not,
They'll leave you soon as free as Scot.

Do fancy's creatures hover near
And threaten all that life holds dear?
They''re weaker than a rope of sand,
They have no power in foot or hand.

Build up you hope on things of might
And let your faith pass out of sight:
God's world is bound for great success.
No need to make of life a mess!

◆

Episcopal Address to the General Conference of Southern Methodism

Sounding the keynote of progressiveness and hopefulness on which the 1934 General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is to base its discussion, action, and legislation, the Episcopal Address, read as the first major item of buiness for the body, which convened on Thursday, April 26, in Jackson, Miss., declared that ‘‘we do not need new laws so much as new life, new vision, and a new adventure.’’ The address, which was written and read by Bishop John M. Moore, was signed by all the members of the Episcopal College.

A large part of the deliverance, representing the composite mind of the College of Bishops on major issues in the life of the church and the world today, was devoted to a discussion of the historic principles of Methodism, its form of government, and points of uniqueness from other denominations. Particularly the office and work of the episcopacy was reviewed, and life tenure of the episcopal office defended.

‘‘Efficiency should be the door into the episcopacy, and essential to its continued occupancy, and when this is not so, the choosing body is at fault,’’ the address declared, adding that ‘‘bishops should be as subject to retirement from service for unacceptability and inefficiency as are ministers in any other relations in the church.’’

‘‘The church that has neither the ability to create nor the courage to enforce provisions for ridding itself of an inefficient and unacceptable man in any place, is itself inefficient, and the victim of its own incompetency. We therefore recommend that this General Conference enact such necessary disciplinary provisions as will accomplish this end.’’

Various aspects of the Methodist point of view were discussed under the head of ‘‘Objectives,’’ enumerated as finance, missions, education, evangelism, and Methodist exposition; and under the headings ‘‘Attitudes and Positions,’’ ‘‘Judicial Council and Else,’’ ‘‘Recommendations,’’ ‘‘Our Forms of Government,’’ ‘‘Our Orders,’’ ‘‘Term Superintendency,’’ ‘‘Additional Bishops,’’ ‘‘The Presiding Eldershsip,’’ and ‘‘Methodist Union.’’

Under the heading ‘‘Attitudes and Positions’’ the address discussed the ‘‘liquor curse,’’ with the statement that ‘‘Methodism stands unalterably for the utter annihilation of this curse in this country and in every country’’; ‘‘war,’’ with the insistence that ‘‘compulsory military training in any school and college, whatever its control and support, is out of harmony with the finest principles of a peace-minded people’’; ‘‘economic justice,’’ declaring that, though the church as such has no economic or political theories, ‘‘our Methodism does have very definite moral principles and convictions which it will unequivocally protect and promote at the polls and in the pulpit’’—‘‘an application of the principles of our Lord and for fair dealing and economic and social justice between employer and employee, whether that employee be man, woman, or child, and whether the issue be wages, bonuses, hours of work, or just and reasonable dividends’’; ‘‘race relations,’’ in which Paine College, at Augusta, Ga., and Bethlehem Houses were praised, and an element among black and white was called upon to allow dividing lines to grow dim in common tasks and effort, and to allow mutual understanding and appreciation to grow brighter and stronger; and finally, ‘‘moral status,’’ on which subject episcopal opinion charged politicians, business, the press, and the church with the importance of ‘‘a reformation and reconstruction if American civilization is worthy to stand.’’

‘‘Recommendation’’ were awaited by the General Conference with interest. The Episcopal Address urged the Conference to make more effective the rural Church by providing for the organization of a ‘‘great unpaid lay ministry’’ and to otherwise aid in the advancement of rural life and the rural church; to provide more adequate administration in the city churches, which in the language of the address ‘‘are becoming the wilderness in which many Methodist people are being lost’’’; to give serious consideration to alterations in the ritual, especially the section for baptism, burial services, dedication of churches and buildings; to appoint a commission to undertake improvement of trial law, reporting its conclusions at the next General Conference.

The address deplored a tendency to discard the official worship in favor of improvisations and innovations, opining that "batons should not be seen in a church, and choir leaders should not appear on the pulpit platform."

A recommendation that is sure to occasion wide interest and to provoke debate on the floor concerned reductions of the number of boards. On this point the address said: "Our Methodist Church has eight general boards—Missions, Christian Education, Church Extension, Finance, Hospitals, Temperance and Social Service, Lay Activities, and the Book Committee. We believe these could be and should be reduced by mergers and adjustments which would allow no loss of emphasis on any interest and would result in such compactness and forcefulness of organization as to give strength and vigor and efficiency to the combined work of the church."

Another recommendation was the suggestion that the General Conference set up a federal body or general council, composed of bishops, ministers, and laymen, as ad interim representative of the General Conference to establish some directive unity and serve as a legal nexus between the various administrativ boards.

Commenting upon questions rife in the church concerning the episcopacy, the Episcopal Address declared that such suggestions as limited tenure and power, or returning bishops at the end of their term of service to the Annual Conferences from which they were elected, or permitting each Annual Conference to elect its own bishop for a term of four years, or allowing Annual Conferences to elect presiding elders and to reduce their number, were "radically revolutionary, and designed to do away with the episcopacy and episcopal government"; and commented on the fact that theh Methodist Church has defended and maintained the genuineness and effectiveness of its episcopacy against attacks for 150 years, and "is in no state of mind to make any surrender of this position now."

"One thing can be said without fear of contradiction, and that is, our systetm has been a success in providing pulpits for ministers and ministers for pulpits. None of the many vacant pulpits and the 20,000 unemployed ministers in this country were in the Methodist Church. But for that reason or any other to claim that ours is a perfect system would be absurd. The question is not one of perfection, but of the highest degree of practicability in getting things done. The episcopal system is finely fitted for getting things done. Deficiencies and inefficiencies will arise in any system and call for correction from time to time, but it may well be asked if they warrant the destruction of the essential elements of that system.

"Whenever Methodism faces a movement to change its form of government from episcopal to presbyterial, a fundamental question arises. Will such a form of government remove our imperfections, cure ou recclesiastical ills, develop a more capable leadership, and bring to Methodism a more vigorous program and policy, greater efficiency and force than is possible under our episcopal form of government? That is the crux of the whole matter.

"What Methodism needs today is not a new system; it needs a virile, creative, powerful leadership of broad intelligence, deep consecration, robust activity, sound judgment, and constructive ability, in the episcopacy and out."

As to the presiding elder, the address declared that he is an indispensable factor in the movement of the church, and that the size of his district should be planned "to give the most effectivep promotional power."

The question of Methodist union occupied an important place in the address, and was the only section to which all the bishops did not subscribe, Bishop Collins Denny appending a note to say that he did not endorse this paragraph for fear it might be construed as recommending unification, which interpretation "might damage the church."

This section of the address said, in part: "We have been looking toward ultimate union for a long time. We need to move toward it and in a way that will effectively promote the interests of all American Methodism. National life and creative church life call for unity and solidarity. Protestantism in this country greatly needs the momentum of a great uniting movement in the mobilization of the ecclesiastical forces of the same origin, same policy, same belief, same spirit, and same purpose. The hope of unity and the union of all American Methodism should never be allowed to grow dim. It should flame forth until oneness is made complete. Union will not come in a day, but it can be promoted by the right attitude every day; and determined purpose, Christian patience, and loyal, persuasive persistence will bring a happy, joy-giving consummation of union in these United States."—Zion's Herald.

CONCERNING FUNERAL SERVICES

The compensation paid to ministers of the gospel for their work of varied duties and multitudes of calls to render service in the various phases of human life is generally regarded as too small, and many people admit that the ministers as a class are underpaid.

There is one phase of the minister's work—that of conducting funeral services—which is considered by the majority of people as an act of charity on the part of the minister. Many pastors are called for by a family of a former charge, and a considerable distance is traveled in order to respond to the call to assist in the funeral service of a former member. In many cases the minister responding to the call is not paid a penny for his expenses of the trip from his home back to the charge he once served. A minister of the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Protestant church told the writer of this article that he had been called at various times to distant places to conduct funeral services or assist pastors in funeral services and did not receive a cent as expense for gasoline and oil.

The custom of calling on former pastors for funeral services is approved if the people calling for the former pastor provide for his expenses in making the trip. But the custom and practice is wrong when the people call for a minister to either conduct a funeral or assist the pastor in a funeral service and then only pay him with words similar to these: "We thank you for your help and appreciate your coming for the service." We are reminded of a statement made by one of the Methodist Protestant ministers in North Carolina to the effect that he served a church once which paid him $20 per Sunday—$5.00 in cash and $15.00 in compliments.

The writer of this article has traveled as much as 220 miles on one trip to assist in a funeral service, paying his expenses, and received only a letter of thanks for the service rendered. People should be mindful of the fact that ministers operate their automobiles by paying for gasoline and oil, and buy tires for their cars, the same as other people. Another pastor related that he kept a record of the miles traveled conducting funerals during one month, which amounted to over 400 miles, and received nothing for his expense.

It is true that some people compensate a pastor for conducting a funeral service or assisting another pastor, providing at least the expense of his trip. When pastors conduct the funeral services for their own members on their charge, they do not expect, and seldom receive, any extra money for the service rendered. But when they are called to another county and travel a considerable distance in order to answer a call from a former parishioner, they should be paid an amount equivalent to the expenses of the trip and more. Pastors are very reluctant to refuse a call to conduct a funeral service on another charge, or assist in a service with another pastor, and he is equally as reluctant in suggesting that his expenses be paid by the person or family calling for his services.

People generally pay for the services rendered by other professional men, such as physicians, lawyers, and others; then why should they fail to compensate the minister for services faithfully and conscientiously rendered in funeral services. The least that should be done is to provide for the expenses of travel when calling a pastor from a distance.

Will our Methodist Protestant people in North Carolina set the example in regard to providing for the expenses of ministers in funeral services in cases where the pastor is called from a distance and from another pastoral charge?

A Reformer.

◆

ERRATUM

It is a likely mistake, Brother Editor, for a publisher to make, and should go unchallenged, were it not that a married man has to defend his position at times.

In the article in last week's Herald bearing my name, in the fifth paragraph, there appeared the sentence, ". . . one of the members of the church, . . . decided, with my permission, to enter the home mission field."

"With my permission"—now, even if that were true, and I wouldn't dare say it were, it doesn't appear so well in print. The phrase should be "with my persuasion." Of course, any wife would prefer it so. Thank you.

E. Lester Ballard.

[We ask pardon. We mistook for a jest.—Editor.]

AN ENJOYABLE VISIT

By Luther K. Long

After an absence of a little more than two months, I am now back in Washington. Approaching the Capital City from the Virginia side of the Potomac, it was pleasant to greet the Washington Monument, the dome of the Capitol, the Library of Congress, and many other public buildings—they certainly presented an attractive appearance.

Florida, with its sunshine and flowers, together with Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia, are all pleasant places in memory. I had previously seen parts of all these states—especially Georgia—but never so much of the others, nor under such pleasant auspices. None of them have ever before appeared so attractive to me. This applies to outward appearances. One soon becomes conscious of former booms and their bursting, and the depression and consequent burdens of debt, public and private. This, unfortunately, constitutes a part of the scenery in all the states.

I stopped at Raleigh, North Carolina, as I went to Florida and as I came back, to visit friends. These friends, the city itself, its surroundings, and institutions, are all interesting. Meredith College, Elon College, and the State University were visited—a number of hours being spent at the two former institutions, during which time delightful musical programs were heard.

Greensboro was my chief objective in North Carolina, because of my old-time friend, Dr. J. F. McCulloch, editor of the M. P. Herald. I had visited him briefly in 1919 and 1920. This time I remained eight days.

Through the courtesy of Dr. J. E. Pritchard, pastor of Calvary M. P. church, I was able to see considerable of the city and surroundings, and to make with him and Mr. J. Norman Wills a trip to High Point College and to look over the beautiful First M. P. church at High Point and the lovely Grace M. P. church at Greensboro.

The lay-out of High Point College is adequate. It was a pleasure to meet some of the trustees and friends of the college, President Humphries, several of the teachers, and some of the students, and to partake of the hospitality of the dining room. There are plenty of problems connected with the institution; but these problems seem to be attacked in a determined and hopeful spirit. May they all be satisfactorily solved!

To be with Dr. McCulloch—or "Flavie," as I am accustomed to think of him—through the eight days of my visit was a great pleasure. I knew he had been in poor health for some time, and I did not expect to see him looking "as young as he used to be." After a day or so—dealing, as we did, with the experiences and interests of former years—his eyes and face recovered more of their old-time appearance, and our fellowship was delightful. Many things and people were talked over. Former personal ideas and plans were referred to and some of them reconsidered and revalued. The intellectual, biblical, moral, and spiritual convictions and truths held years ago were reviewed and revalued, and some of them restated in other words.

Religion seemed to us less and less a matter of a book, or a creed, or a church organization; but more and more a matter of individual convictions and personal relations with God, the truth, and our fellowmen.

Perhaps the ears of some of our associates of years gone by burned—if it is true that the ears of persons who are being intimately discussed do burn. But before we separated, we agreed that, while we handled our friends and their qualities —or their lack of qualities—without gloves, we nevertheless felt kindly toward them all and meant to appreciate their good intentions and plans. The jokes and laughs in which we indulged were all of the kindliest in intention—no matter at whose expense they were used.

At the last handclasp as I left, Mc's eyes were the brightest and his smile the most like himself that I have seen on his face in many a year.

It wa a pleasure to preach in Calvary church, Sunday morning, April 29. The congregation gave every indication of being deeply interested. At the close of the service—and at other times and in other places—there were many expressions of interest in my contributions to the Herald—which have now extended over more than ten years. I am grateful for these expressions. My best wishes and hearty good will are hereby expressed toward all my North Carolina friends.

YOUR RIGHTFUL PLACE

By Grenville Kleiser

If there is anything in your present habits or character which is preventing you from expressing your real self and living your best life, put it from you now and forever. Take an uncompromising stand for truth, be done with timidity and subterfuge, and dare to live your own convictions. Once the pathway of right and duty is clear to you, let no influence entice you from it. Rid yourself once and for all of every weight and obstacle which in the slightest degree retards your highest progress. Proclaim yourself this day a free man, free to work and serve, free to live the big, sincere, useful, independent life made possible to you by the gift of God. Relinquish everything which holds you back from your great heritage.

You cannot afford to dally with wrong, sinful, undesirable thoughts. It is perilous business to let such thoughts occupy your mind an instant longer than necessary to substitute the right opposite thoughts. Make a solemn pledge with yourself that you will always destroy such thoughts on the instant of their appearance. You must not only do right, but your innermost thought and intention should be unwaveringly directed toward the right. If there is a single unworthy thought slumbering in your mind, root it out today by a thorough mental overhauling. Thoughts are real things, governing, directing, and influencing your life and destiny. Keep your thoughts strong, wholesome, and ascending. Think right and you will do right.

Be sincere in your self-judgment. If there is in you any moral imperfection, false pride, indolence, or indulgence, look at it fearlessly and resolve to conform your life to God's perfect plan. Do not defraud yourself by passing lightly over faults which you know should be eradicated from your nature. Subject yourself to a rigid self-examination, and, having found the weak and imperfect things, proceed to substitute and develop the qalities which distinguish greatness of character. Know precisely what you are now and what you intend to be. Know your true motives. Remember there is nothing finer than a spirit of sincere service, which gives generously without thought of recognition or return. True greatness lies in giving rather than in receiving.

Put forever out of yor mind all anxious and self-limiting thoughts. Bend your best efforts toward the big and essential things of life. Intelligent aspiration, coupled with diligent work, will steadily advance you to high and honorable position. There are wonderful powers and possibilities within you waiting to be utilized. Make definite choice today of the material you intend to use from this great inner storehouse. Draw generously, since you cannot possibly exhaust the supply. When you realize fully the immense and inexhaustible mental resources at your command, you will not look to other men for assistance. Your personal powers are sufficient to give you a distinguished place in the world.

THE SECRET OF A HAPPY DAY

Just to let thy Father do
What He will;
Just to know that He is true
And be still.
Just to follow, hour by hour,
As He leadeth,
Just to draw the moment's power
As it needeth.
Just to take the loss or gain
As He sends it;
Just to take the joy or pain
As He lends it;
Just to leave in His dear hand
Little things,
All we cannot understand,
All that stings.
This is all and yet the way
Marked by Him who loves thee best;
Secret of a happy day,
Secret of His promised rest.

—Frances Ridley Havergal

THE BIBLE

A noted orator asked Dickens for the most pathetic story in literature, and he said it was that of the Prodigal Son. Mr. Coleridge was asked for the richest passage in literature, and he said it was the first sixteen verses of the fifth chapter of Matthew. Another asked Daniel Webster for the greatest legal digest, and he replied that it was the Sermon on the Mount. No one has equaled Moses for law, nor David for poetry, nor Isaiah for vision, nor Jesus for ethics, nor Peter for holy zeal, nor Apollos for fiery oratory, nor Paul for logic, nor John's statements of sanctified love. What a ridiculous statement that to study the Bible "marks a step backward in education"! God's Word is the very greatest of all the books, and its Author the very greatest of all teachers. We do well to stay close to its pages. It is THE BOOK.—Unknown.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Pastor's Report Blanks

We are sending out the blanks for second quarterly reports the last of the present week. Would like for them to be returned not later than the last of next week. Please to give the information sought, if possible.

Mid-Year Meet

We are looking for a good attendance at this meeting; expecting to have good reports, a fine program and an enjoyable day. We urge our laymen and laywomen to attend. All workers in the church ought to be there, especially the pastors and church officials.

Obituary Committees

For many years there has been a custom of the conference to recognize the departure from this world of the wives of our ministers by the preparation of and the reading of an obituary notice at the annual conference. In pursuance therewith we are appointing the following persons to act in that capacity: for Mrs. W. E. Swain, Rev. J. E. Pritchard; for Mrs. D. A. Highfill, Revs. W. M. Pike and F. R. Love; for Mrs. Atlas Ridge, Revs. C. E. Ridge, T. M. Johnson, C. G. Isley; for Mrs. A. O. Lindley, Rev. J. A. Burgess.

"The Church Has Many Critics, But No Rivals"

Stanley Jones has never said a truer thing, possibly. The critics arise from all walks of life; are of all grades of intelligence, some of no intelligence at all. But all are equally alert. Yet notwtihstanding they are fruitful in their findings and can point out with ease many mistakes the church people make, none has as yet essayed the task of being a rival in the varied fields of service the curch occupies. It is too bad that our critics refuse to do the better part of showing us by example how to avoid all the mistakes we make and how to do well the things we do so poorly.

Draper Church, Rev. L. S. Helms, Pastor

We dedicated this church last Sunday morning. For thirteen years the little group wrestled with a debt on the church, and while they wrestled with it, the debt doubled; but finally last Saturday the last cent on the debt was raised and we gladly dedicated it unto the service of the Lord.

Our cause here has never been very strong. It never seemed to me that the church was well located, but we have some as loyal people as are found in any of our churches. They are getting on splendidly with Brother Helms. He appears happy in the work and the people expressed themselves as being well pleased with his labors. Draper has already paid church extension assessment, taken care of the Herald subsidy, and raised their quota of subscriptions. They say that all assessments will be paid in full this year. Best wishes go with this little band of loyal souls.

South Winston, Rev. Atlas Ridge, Pastor

We were here at night. The pastor had not been able to meet any of his appointments since Easter because of the serious illness and death of Mrs. Ridge, until last Sunday morning. There was an appreciative congregation present. The house had been ceiled and top floor laid since I was there. It presents a greatly improved appearance and about all paid for, Pastor Ridge tells me. When the interior in finished and the building is painted, it will still be more improved. Here we have a splendid opportunity to render service in that we have a large community of the city which has no church close enough to ours to hinder our work, and we hope that some arrangement can be made whereby the membership can have more services than they at present can get. Brother Ridge enjoys the work there and the people appreciate his efforts; but he has to go from Lexington to his appointments and can give but little time to the development of the work. Here is another band of loyal workers. They have secured their quota of subscriptions to the Herald and expect to care for the conference claims. All praise to those who will not be discouraged with a task because it is hard.

Mr. Luther R. Medlin in Field for Board of Education and College

Mr. Medlin is a graduate of High Point College, class of 1930, and has been engaged in teaching since his graduation. He will begin working for the Board about the 22nd of May. He will have all names of members of Loyalty League and collect their subscriptions, etc., together with other phases of his work as a representative of the Board. He is a fine young man, licensed to preach in the Methodist Protestant Church and is a member of Welch Memorial church, High Point. We bespeak for him the hearty support of all alumni of the institution and friends of High Point College, both in and out of the denomination.

The Churches Which Have Paid Any Claims in Full

We would like to have on the same page in the Herald for May the 17th with those churches which have raised their quotas of subscriptions to the Herald as Dr. Pritchard proposes to run, the names of the churches which have paid any claim in full,—pastor, church extension, A. C. expense, etc. It would be fine to assemble this information on one page in the Herald and put it on display in Calvary church on May 22nd for the Mid-Year Meet. Therefore, let every pastor see that this report is made to me in time for said issue, on a postal card. Report name of charge, claim paid in full for year, pastor paid to date, if you fail to get in time for your quarterly report. Please do this. You will get pleasure from it and it will be worth much to the others who attend that meeting.

Plan of Appointments

May 13—Love-Joy church, all-day services.

May 18—Washington Board meetings.

May 20—Dedication of Spring Hill church, 11 a.m.; Canaan at night.

May 22—Mid-Year Meet at Calvary church, 10:30; all-day program.

May 27—High Point College Commencement.

June 3—Concord 11 a.m.; Love Grove 3 p.m.; Midland at night.

June 10—Liberty Circuit; Shiloh 11 a.m., Hickory Grove afternoon, Liberty at night.

June 17—Chapel Hill church, opening new church; Lineberry, afternoon.

June 24—Seagrove church, opening new church, all-day program.

July 1—Greenville charge.

July 8—Spring church 11 a.m., Lebanon afternoon, Pleasant Hill at night.

July 15—Mebane 11 a.m., Union Grove afternoon, Efland at night.

R. M. Andrews.

LIVIN'

I've heard a lot o' teachin'
  In my day,
An' I heard a lot o' preachin'
  Too, I'll say,
But they all seem long on givin'
But mighty short on livin'
  That a way.

They tell us the transgressor's
  Way is hard,
And quote the sacred Scriptures
  By the yard,
But their livin' every day
Don't line up with what they say
  Is on the card.

There's a lot of folks a livin'
  Here below
What's a hungerin' for a Gospel
  They can know,
And the lives that we are livin'
Is the gospel we are givin'
  As we go.

—A. H. Schilke.

NO ROOM FOR CHRIST

A friend says to me, "I have not time or room in my life for Christianity. If it were not so full! You doh't know ho whard I work from morning till night. When have I time, where have I room for Christianity in such a life as mine?"

It is as if the engine had said it had no room for the steam. It is as if the tree said it had no room for the sap. It is as if the ocean had said it had no room for the tide. It is as if the man had said he had no room for his soul. It is as if the life had said it had no time to live, when it is life. It is not somethihg added to life; it is life. A man is not living without it. And for man to say, "I am so full in life that I have no room for life," you see immediately to what absurdity it reduces itself.—Phillips Brooks.

THE KING OF THE JEWS

The following is a testimony of Schonberger, a Christian Jew: "I was brought up by pious Jewish parents in a Hungarian Roman Catholic village, where as a boy I again and again was arrested by the sight of a crucifix, and people kneeling and praying before it, and I observed at the head of the crucifix four mysterious letters: J. N. R. J. I remember how often I asked myself what all this meant—the crucified figure as well as those four letters—and nobody among my own people would tell me. The riddle and my perplexity about it lasted till I grew up, until for the first time in my life a New Testament fell into my hands. I shall never forget my surprise and sensation when reading for the first time the story of Jesus and His crucifixion as well as the meaning and origin of those four mysterious letters on the cross which had puzzled me so much during my boyhood. The scales fell from my eyes and J. N. R. J., i. e., 'Jesus Nazarenus, Rex Judeorum'—'Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews'—became from that moment my King and Redeemer, separating me for His sake from my own people, ready to live and die for Him. And my case prefigures what will happen one day to Christless Israel as a whole: they will acknowledge and crown Him and live and die for Him. Yes, Christ Jesus is yet to be King of the Jews!"—Selected.

COMPLETE IN HIM

Christ as my Redeemer died,
For my sins was crucified;
On Him all my guilt was laid,
He my full redemption paid.

Now Christ as my Advocate,
As the throne of grace doth wait;
Mercy there to intercede,
And supply my every need.

Some day He will come again,
One with Him, I will be then;
Now to praise, rejoice and sing,
For Christ is my coming King.

—C. J. Hess.

"TASTE AND SEE!"

An infidel was lecturing to a great audience, and, having finished his address, he invited any who had questions to ask to come to the platform. Aftr a short interval, a man who had been well known in the town as a notorious drunkard, but who had lately been converted, stepped forward, and, taking an orange from his pocket, coolly began to peel it. The lecturer asked him to propound his question, but without replying to him the man finished peeling his orange, and then ate it. When he had finished his orange he turned to the lecturer and asked him if it was a sweet one. Very angry, the man said, "Idiot, how can I know whether it was sweet or sour, when I never tasted it?" To this the converted drunkard retorted, "And how can you know anything about Christ, if you have not tried Him?"—Christian Herald.

OUR STORY PAGE

A VERY SHORT LESSON

"Oh, dear," whined James, "I just hate to do errands. Does Sarah need the sugar right away?"

"Right away," said mamma. "She is baking doughnuts and wants the powdered sugar to roll them in while they are warm. Run, dear, and get it as soon as you can."

"When I get big I'll never do a single thing that I don't want to," said James, when he was back at his play once more. "It seems little boys have to do all the mean jobs, and it isn't fair."

"But you like doughnuts so well," said mamma, "and Sarah does so many nice things for you that I should think you would be glad to do errands for her once in a while. Do you think you would be happier if you only did the things you enjoy?"

" 'Course," said James promptly. "I'd like to try that way for a while."

"Well, suppose you do this week. We'll do just the things we like, and see if we get along better. I think you will be ready to go back to the old way before dinner time, though."

"Indeed I won't, Mamma. That is the best thing you could say, for I want to play in the sand pile all day at my fort without having a single thing to do. Are you sure you mean it?"

"Perfectly certain, James. We will wait till you are ready to go back to the old way, if that is a month."

James came into the house for dinner at noon.

"Nothing but bread and butter for dinner?" said James in great surprise. "I'm as hungry as anything."

"I told Sarah to get some other things," said mamma, buttering a slice of bread for herself, "but she said she wanted to finish canning her berries. She hates cooking anyway. Don't you want anything for dinner?"

"Yes, please spread me some bread, Mamma."

"I just hate to spread bread, dear. Help yourself."

"This is the afternoon of the party, Mamma," said James after dinner. "When will you get me ready? I'm afraid I'll be late."

"I don't want to stop reading," said mamma. "I thought we were to do only the things we liked today, and I don't want to leave this comfortable chair."

James went slowly to his room and began to put on his new suit by himself, but everything went wrong. A button came off, and he couldn't find his shoes, and his hands looked dirty in spite of all his efforts, and the first thing anybody knew the big tears were rolling down his cheeks. "I want to go back to the old way, Mamma," he sobbed, throwing himself down on the floor by her side. "I didn't know how horrid it was to be selfish till today."

"Are you sure?" asked mamma, lifting the little head from her lap to look straight into the tearful eyes. "Do you want to do the hard jobs along with the easy ones?"

"Well, well," said Sarah, next day, "how's this? My kindling basket's full and I didn't have to say a word about the scraps for the chickens. I think a small boy must have had a very good time at the party yesterday."

"I did; but I found out before I went that it doesn't pay to be mean and selfish," said James—Publisher Unknown.

◆

THE JUSTICE OF GOD

Once when I was in the vestry, an Irishman came to see me. Pat began by making a low bow, and saying, "Now, your Riverence, I have come to ax you a question."

"Oh!" said I, "Pat, I am not a Riverence; it is not a title I care for; but what is your question? and how is it you have not been to your priest about it?"

He said, "I have been to him, but I don't like his answer."

"Well, what is your question?"

Said he: "God is just, and if God be just He must punish my sins. I deserve to be punished. If He is a just God, He ought to punish me; yet you say God is merciful, and will forgive sins. I cannot see how that is right; He has no right to do that. He ought to be just, and punish those who deserve it. Tell me how God can be just, and yet be merciful?"

"That is through the Blood of Christ."

"Yes," said me, "that is what my priest said, you are very much alike there. But he said a good deal besides, that I did not understand; and that short answer does not satisfy me. I want to know how it is that the Blood of Jesus Christ enables God to be just, and yet to be merciful."

Then I saw what he wanted to know, and explained the plan of salvation thus:

"Now, Pat, suppose you had killed a man and the judge had said, 'That Irishman must be hanged!' "

He said quickly, "And I should have richly deserved to be hanged."

"But, Pat, suppose I was very fond of you, can you see any way by which I could save you from being hanged?"

"No, sir, I cannot."

"Then, suppose I went to the Queen, and said, 'Please your Majesty, I am very fond of this Irishman. I think the judge was quite right saying that he must be hanged, but let me be hanged instead and you will then carry out the law.' Now the Queen could not agree to my proposal; but suppose she could—and God can, for He has power greater than all kings and queens—and suppose the Queen should have me hanged instead of you, do you think the police would take you up afterwards?"

He at once said, "No, I should think not; they would not meddle with me; but if they did, I should say, 'What are you doing? Did not that gintleman condescind to be hung for me! Let me alone; shure, you don't want to hang two people for the same thing, do ye?' "

I replied to the Irishman, "Ah, my friend, you have hit it; that is the way whereby we are saved! God must punish sin. Christ said, My Father, punish Me instead of the sinner, and His Father did. God laid on His beloved Son, Jesus Christ, the whole burden of our sins, and all their punishment and chastisement, and now that Christ is punished instead of us God would not be just if He were to punish any sinner who believes on the Lord Jesus Christ. If thou believest in Jesus Christ, the well-beloved and only-begotten Son of God, thou art saved, and thou mayest go on thy way rejoicing."

"Faith," said the man, clapping his hands "that's the Gospel. Pat is safe now; with all his sins about him, he'll trust in the Man who died for him, and so he shall be saved." —Charles H. Spurgeon.

NOT SO HELPLESS AFTER ALL

"Well, poor, helpless cripple—how are you today?" Phil feeling twice as big and awkward as usual, stumbled over a chair as he tried to enter the sick room noiselessly. Making calls in sick rooms is hard on a boy. But Phil wasn't going to stay away when good, old Donald was laid up with a badly-hurt foot—motor accident.

"I'm fine—all but that bum foot," responded the patient cheerfully. "Sometimes I almost wish I had kept it out of the way when that car came along," and he grinned. But there were lines and hollows in his too colorless face that told the tale of pain which he didn't put into words. He had something better to say.

"Pull up a chair, Phil, and tell me all about the meeting last night. I miss the meeting a lot," he said, regretfully.

Phil hesitated.

"I—I—wasn't out, Don; I'm sorry," he confessed.

"Too bad. I thought you could tell me about the committee work, and about who leads next week, and when that missionary is coming to talk to us," said Donald. "See here, you find out those few little things for me, will you? Just because I can't get out for a while I'm not going to be dropped out of things like that. You've got to go and keep track for me, Phil. Be my proxy, will you, old pal? Then come tell me all the news," and his boyish voice had a wistful note that Phil couldn't resist if he had wanted to.

"I'll do that for you, Don. Glad to help you out that much," he promised. And he kept his promise to the letter. Before Donald was afoot again, he was keeping it in spirit as well; he became an active member, and did good work. When that happened, and Don was told, that astute youth winked solemnly at the ceiling, when he was left alone, and remarked "sotto voce":

"Not such a helpless cripple but that I landed Phil all right, eh?"—King's Own.

THE COBBLER'S MARK

Ross hastened home, and handed the shoes to his mother.

"The cobbler had them fixed, so I brought them home. I told him you would pay him later."

"That was all right," his mother said, giving the shoes close inspection as she passed upon the cobbler's work. "Those are peculiarly marked heels, but they seem to be good work. You can put these on now, and save your better ones.

The telephone rang loud and long. Ross changed his shoes while his mother answered the phone.

"Mrs. Brown wants me to help her for an hour," she said as she hung up the receiver. "You stay here at the house and play until I come back."

"Can I go down to the creek?" he asked.

"Not this morning," she replied.

Five minutes after his mother had gone, Ross was invited to go for a swim by one of his chums.

"Mother said I couldnt go," Ross declared. "But she won't be back in an hour. I can take a plunge, and be back home in that time. You won't tell on me, will you?"

"Of course not," replied his chum. "Hurry up!"

Although his conscience troubled him somewhat, Ross hastened along with the other lad. Into the creek they plunged, swam around for a few moments, and then hurried back home.

When mother returned from Mrs. Brown's home, she cut across the field, and came in the back door by way of the path which led to the creek. Ross was sitting in a rocking-chair, busily engaged in reading a book.

"Did you have a good time down to the creek?" she asked him. "Was the water warm?"

"What?" Ross asked in surprise, his face growing crimson. Knowing that he could not conceal the truth from his mother, he decided to admit his guilt at once, but determined also to find the identity of her informer. "Did Jake tell you?"

"Not a person has told me a single word," said mother.

"How do you know I have been there?" Ross asked, seeing a faint hope of escape.

"A silent witness told me," mother replied. "Come with me, and I'll let that same witness tell you the truth. First, we will look at the heels on your shoes. Do you see those peculiar marks in the rubber? Follow me, now, and we will see where those marks lead us."

Wherever Ross had stepped in a dusty place, he had left that peculiar mark which told the story, and he no longer made any attempt to deny his act of disobedience.

"You can't cover up sin," said his mother. "It will always reveal itself. God will see you if human eyes cannot. Remember these words, "Thou God seest me."—Unknown.

MONEY TALKS, AND IT SAYS:

"Catch me and keep me, if you can, but I have wings. Find me and bind me, and I mysteriously disappear. Dig and delve, scratch and scrape, grind and grasp in order to get me, and lo, I am a broken bauble and a bursting bubble!

"Save me and store me for worthy ends—for budget and bonds, for rainy days, for self-improvement and for service of others, and I will be as faithful a servant as you are an honest master.

"Hide and hoard me for selfish ends, to see me glitter and glow, to hear my clink and crackle, to feel my pressure and power, and I will canker and corrode in your hands. I will pauperize your mind, poison your soul, paralyze your will.

"Give me and guide me to serve and to save others, to meet and to match entrenched human need with incarnate human love, to share and to spend my brightest and best, and I will come back and crown you with satisfaction and success."

Money talks, and it says:

"I am you! You will be what you make of me!"—Publisher Unknown.

North Carolina Annual Conference Leadership Training School

High Point College July 25-30, 1934

(Please keep for reference)

PURPOSE OF THE SCHOOL

It is the purpose of this school to provide Leadership Training Courses for pastors, Sunday school teachers and officers, young people, leaders of young people, leaders in laymen's and women's work, and for others interested in building a Christian world. This school provides a wonderful opportunity for expression, instruction, inspiration, information, study and worship, Christian fellowship, and recreation.

Age: Anyone fourteen years of age and above is eligible to enroll. We welcome people from other churches to enroll in this school.

Expenses: All regular students who live at the college for the week will be expected to pay $5.50. All day students coming to the college for classes and special programs will be expected to pay a registration fee of $1.50.

Registration: Registration will begin Monday, June 25, at 2 o'clock. All students should register some time Monday afternoon or Monday night. The first meal will be served in the college Monday evening.

What Students Should Bring: Each student must furnish his own towels, bed linen and pillow.

Daily Schedule

7:15 a. m.—Breakfast.

8:00-8:50—Class period.

9:00-9:50—Young People's Project Period and Standard Students' Morning Conference.

10:00-10:30—Morning worship.

10:40-11:40—Young People's Classes and Rest Period, and Fellowship for Standard Students.

11:40-12:30—Young People's Project Period and Standard Classes.

12:40—Lunch.

1:30-3:30—Study and Rest.

3:30-5:30—Recreation and Fellowship.

6:00—Dinner.

7:00-7:30—Vesper Services.

8:00-9:00—Evening Services.

9:00-10:30—Social Hour.

10:45—Retiring Bell.

THE CURRICULUM

Young People's Courses

14 years: Our Neighbors—Teacher to be announced.

14 year: Prophet Pioneers—Rev. E. A. Lamb.

15 years: Adventures in Christian Living—Rev. W. M. Howard.

15 years: Our Missionary and Educational Enterprises—Rev. J. C. Auman.

Standard Courses

4—The New Testament—Rev. Fred W. Paschall.

32—Primary Materials and Methods—Miss Kathleen Paschall.

52-62-72—Adolescent Materials and Methods—Miss Annabel Thompson.

102—Studies in the Prophets—Dr. T. M. Johnson.

105—Church History—Dr. C. E. Forlines.

109—Religious Education in the Family—Rev. N. G. Bethea.

118—The Administration of the Vacation Bible Church School—Miss Maxine Taylor.

201—Story-Telling in Religious Education—Mrs. J. T. Bowman.

308—World Missions—Rev. J. F. Minnis.

Use of Art in Religious Education—Rev. E. L. Ballard.

Morning Conferences for Standard Students

General Problem: "What Can Youth Do?"

Tuesday—"What Can Youth Do to Improve Their Own Spiritual Lives?" Leader—Dr. T. M. Johnson.

Wednesday—"What Can Youth Do to Help Build a Christian World?" Leader—Rev. J. F. Minnis.

Thursday—"What Can Youth Do to Improve the Conference Program?" Leader—Dr. R. M. Andrews.

Friday—"What Can Youth Do to Improve Their Own Program in the Local Church?" Leader—Mr. Luther R. Medlin.

Saturday—"What Can Youth Do to Improve the Leadership of the Methodist Protestant Church?" Leader—Rev. T. J. Whitehead.

Morning Worship: These services will be built around some of the outstanding religious pictures. The class in "The Use of Art in Religious Education" will conduct these services under the direction of Rev. E. L. Ballard.

Vesper Services: These services will be built around some of the outstanding religious stories. The class, "Story-Telling in Religious Education," will conduct these services under the direction of Mrs. J. T. Bowman.

Evening Services: Beginning on Monday evening at 8 o'clock, there will be a special service each evening. The following is a schedule of these evening services:

Monday—Musical Program—Rev. E. L. Ballard, director.

Tuesday—Dramatic Program—Rev. J. T. Bowman, director.

Wednesday — Inspirational Address — Rev. Fred W. Paschall.

Thursday—Inspirational Address—Rev. Roy I. Farmer.

Friday—Consecration Service—Rev. T. J. Whitehead.

Young People's Banquet—This banquet will be held Friday evening, June 29, at 6:30 o'clock. The banquet ticket will be included in the meal ticket of the regular students. Day students and other young people who desire to attend the banquet may buy a ticket for 50 cents. Rev. J. W. Braxton will have charge of this part of the program.

Administrative Staff

Rev. T. J. Whitehead, Dean.

Rev. Eugene A. Lamb, Principal of Young People's Division.

Rev. J. Clyde Auman, Treasurer and Business Manager.

Rev. J. W. Braxton, Director of Social and Recreational Activities and Counsellor for Men.

Miss Mary E. Young, Counsellor for Women.

Miss Bessie Holmes, Librarian and Director of Publicity.

Rev. E. L. Ballard, Director of Music.

Rev. T. J. Whitehead,
1800 Spring Garden St.,
Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Sir:

I plan to attend the North Carolina Conference Council Leadership Training School at High Point College, June 25-30, 1934. I will be a Regular ( ) a Day ( ) Student. I will ( ) will not ( ) be present for dinner on Monday evening.

Name ....

Address ....

Church ....

Charge ....

(It is important that you send this information to the dean by June 20.)

OUR L. T. S. CLUBS

The L. T. S. Club in Mebane meets on Friday night of this week to boost High Point Leadership Training School. Fine work for Mebane.

Graham starts her L. T. S. Club with ten members who plan to go to High Point. Are there not others who will join the ranks of these Clubs? Let's get into our Clubs all the persons possible, that will help someone to go, even though they do not plan to go themselves.

IF YOU HAVE ORGANIZED A CLUB, TELL ME SO.

J. CLYDE AUMAN.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COUNCIL OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Sunday schools:
Greensboro, West End	$4.00
Randleman, Mount Lebanon	3.00
Spring Church, Spring Church	2.00
Christian Endeavor:
High Point, Welch Memorial	4.00

J. CLYDE AUMAN, Treasurer.

GROWTH IN GREATNESS OF CHARACTER

Much is said of loyalty, love, and service, but their real significance to you is the degree in which you actually use them in your every-day life. Hence you need time for daily meditation and reflection, that you may better know what you are doing with your time, talents, and opportunities. Greatness of character is something more than a catalogue of qualities. It is greatness of daily living, intention, conduct, and effort. It is actually doing the things which are implied by greatness. It means an alert mental attitude toward opportunities for noble service. It is doing promptly and gladly the duty of the moment, without thought of reward or special recognition. Greatness of life emanates from greatness of thought.—Grenville Kleiser.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Mt. Pleasant, N. Davidson	$ 1.35
English Street S. S.	5.50
Women's Bible Class, R. I. Ave., Washington, clothing child and on furnace	6.25
Kernersville S. S., Kernersville	3.40
Union Ridge, Forsyth	3.45
Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Armstrong, Baltimore, Md.	10.00
Mr. C. E. McCulloch, Wilmington, N. C.	10.00
Fairfield S. S., Guilford	2.00
Whitakers, special offering	11.00
Pleasant Grove S. S.	5.60
N. C. Branch, Woman's Auxiliary, Miss Brona Apple, treasurer	28.50

Clothing and Other Gifts

Enfield, 8 cakes and a package of cookies, and Whitakers, 10 cakes for school lunches. Two little girls of Enfield also sent a package of cookies to Lessie Price, their little girl in the Home.

Sapling Ridge Missionary Society, 2 quilts.

We are thankful for all these gifts. This week closes for this school year the need for school lunches. We are greatly indebted to Mrs. C. W. Bates and to the good women in local churches who have responded to her calls and have baked and sent to us the cakes and cookies for school lunches. It has helped wonderfully, and has also enabled the children to have cake frequently when they would have had only sandwiches. The children greatly appreciate your kindness. We are expecting two lots of cakes this week, and if they come they will be reported next week.

Our Graduates

We have just two graduates this year. Sam Coble, of Fairgrove, Haw River, graduates from Jamestown High School May 16th. Laura Braswell, of Kannapolis, graduates from High Point College on May 28th. Laura has been in this Home since she was four years old. She is an outstanding girl and will be an honor to the Home wherever she goes. She is efficient and thorough in any place we have ever put her to work.

Clothing For Our Boys

We have to clothe our boys as well as we can for the fields and for Sunday school and church for the summer. Overalls, underclothing, shirts, shoes for some summer suits for some. The Women's Auxiliaries help us clothe our girls. Are there 52 men in the Conference who will each take a boy for the summer. An average of $7.50 per boy will cover the cost. Money to buy clothing for one boy is on the way, and three boys are clothed by Sunday schools and classes; so 48 boys are to be provided for. Who will do it?

Farmers, Notice

Following up a good business man's suggestion, we are asking you to join the women of your community in getting ready the Harvest Home offering. Give a bushel or more of grain. We need much more grain than we can produce. Grain of any kind is useful here. Glass jars are ready for distribution. Who will send for them.

The Summer Offering

Avoid the usual summer slump in offerings by seeing that your church and Sunday school keeps the monthly offering up to a good average.

We thank you for your abiding interest in this Home and its children.

Yours in the Master's service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

THE TITHING CAMPAIGN AT CALVARY

Thinking our friends would like to know the results of the tithing campaign at Calvary Church, I have decided to write a brief article and tell the things that can be told about it. There are some things about all church work that cannot be put on paper, and it seems to me that the biggest thing about this campaign is in that particular field.

About the first of April the pastor and officials of Calvary Church asked our people to tithe their income for the month of April and to bring the same to the church not later than the anniversary service May 6. It was specifically stated that this tithe was not to be over and above that which they were already giving to the church and that if they wished to do so they could bring this in the regular Sunday offerings during the month of April. Seventy-two people agreed to do this, though some of them were already giving upwards of a tenth of their income. While it is difficult to determine just what the tithing campaign brought in, we can say that the offerings for the month of April and the first Sunday in May amounted to about three hundred and twenty-five dollars more than the normal monthly offering for the first half of the Conference year. The offering on last Sunday in the anniversary services, morning and afternoon, amounted to about $348.00. But the things that cannot be put down as dollars are the spiritual values, the fine spirit of co-operation displayed on the part of the people. There was more optimism and rejoicing in the steward's meeting Monday evening than I have seen since I came here six months ago. Some stewards said some of the members had called them up and asked that the campaign be continued for the next month. One steward said he and his family had enjoyed tithing so much they had decided to continue it.

Because of this extra money the church has paid some obligations that it was anxious to get out of the way. And all of this shows what can be done when the people are willing to give as the Lord has prospered them—that is what tithing is.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

DR. GERRINGER'S GREETING

Dr. Gerringer's greetings to Calvary church as read in the tenth anniversary service last Sunday:

"L. W. Gerringer, a servant of Jesus Christ, to all the Christian people which are at Calvary Church, with the pastor, Dr. J. E. Pritchard, and all who are co-workers with Him: Grace be unto you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. I thank God when I remember your faith and consecration and progress in kingdom service, and for your fellowship in the Gospel; being confident that He which hath begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ. And this I pray, that your love and labors may abound more and more, and that you may be filled with the fruits of righteousness, which are by Jesus Christ, unto the glory and praise of God.

"The peace of God which passeth all understanding, keep your hearts and minds in the knowledge and love of God, and of His Son, Jesus Christ our Lord; and the blessing of God Almighty, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit, be among you and remain with you always. Amen."

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

IMPORTANT ITEMS FOR AUXILIARIES TO REMEMBER

1. All Thank-Offering counts on your World Service budget.

2. All money paid on Mr. Minnis' salary since last Conference will count on the World Service budget of your local church, but not on your Auxiliary budget.

3. Your College budget counts on the College Maintenance Fund of your local church.

4. Pay something on all budgets during the year so that at the end of the year one budget will not be over-paid and another not paid in full. Save a place on your World Service budget for your Thank-Offering.

5. Make monthly payments and avoid the rush at the end of the year.

6. One-half of your North Carolina budget goes to the Children's Home, one-fifth to Bethel Home, one-fifth to the Student Loan Fund for High Point College, and one-tenth is kept for contingent, out of which all Branch expenses are paid. This division is made by your Branch Treasurer at the end of each month.

7. Sixty-seven per cent of your World Service Budget goes to the Board of Missions and thirty-three per cent to the Board of Christian Education. This division is made by the General Conference Treasurer.

8. Your Branch Treasurer is Miss Brona Apple, 222 North Edgeworth Street, Greensboro, N. C.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE

By this time all Auxiliaries have had a meeting since the Branch Meeting. You have heard your delegates' reports. You know what your apportionment to High Point College is. Some of you may have sent yours in, since Dr. Humphreys asked that we raise this money especially during the months of April and May. April is gone, but you still have the month of May in which to raise your apportionment.

Please do this as soon as possible. I should like very much to have the name of the Secretary of High Point College from each Auxiliary. Please send me your name. Thank you.

MRS. L. W. GERRINGER,
Sec'y High Point College.
416 Charles St., Henderson, N. C.

—Rev. G. F. Millaway was called to Mount Pleasant Church on the Mount Pleasant Charge last Sunday to assist in the funeral of Mrs. John Bowman.

—Charles R. Kennett, brother of Rev. W. F. Kennett, had a stroke of paralysis last week. The last report is that he is somewhat improved.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Grace Church.—The annual congregational dinner, in connection with the anniversary celebration, was held in the church hut last Friday evening. All former pastors now living were invited to be present, or to send a letter of greeting. Letters were received from Rev. J. S. Williams, pastor 1893-1896; Rev. R. J. Tamblyn, Rev. E. L. Ballard, Dr. Lawrence Little, Dr. J. F. McCulloch, and a telegram from Dr. G. I. Humphreys. The former pastors present were Dr. T. M. Johnson, of Lexington; Dr. R. C. Stubbins, of Asheboro; Dr. C. W. Bates, of Winston-Salem; Dr. S. K. Spahr, now pastor-emeritus; and Dr. R. M. Andrews, now president of the North Carolina Annual Conference. They, and Mrs. Norman Kirkman, the former church secretary, made brief speeches. Greetings from West End church were brought by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Whitehead, and from Calvary Church by the pastor, Dr. J. E. Pritchard. The present pastor, Rev. J. Elwood Carrell, closed the program with a plea for greater consecration.

Grace Church was organized in 1891. Its first building was on E. Lee Street, which was later sold to the Moravian congregation. In 1907 the church on the corner of Washington and Greene streets, erected by the Baptists in 1886, was purchased, remodeled and occupied until 1924. It then gave way to the Greene Street widening program and the material was used in the erection of Calvary church, on Asheboro street. A hut was erected on the present lot, corner of Edgeworth and West Gaston streets. The erection of the new church was commenced in 1925 and the first service was held the first Sunday in May, 1926.

Last Sunday was the 62nd anniversary of Dr. Spahr's preaching career. In the morning service, Miss Charlie Hunter read the memorial roll, the list of the names of the members who have died. The entire service was in memoriam.

M. L. W., Reporter.

Tabernacle-Julian.—Last Sunday was a good day for us at both churches. Joash Day was observed at Tabernacle. This is becoming a fixed event with the Tabernacle church. The occasion is observed as nearly as possible on the Sunday nearest the middle of the Conference year. The old Joash Box which is used year after year is brought to the church and placed at the altar. Some time in the service the people are invited to come forward and make their deposits. It was indeed a beautiful sight to see the people coming forward, the ages ranging from near 80 years to six years. The duplex envelopes were used, one side containing the contributions for local interests while the other side contained the contributions for college maintenance. The pastor does not at this time know the exact amount raised for these interests, but it is hoped the contributions will be found to be encouraging.

At night the pastor filled his regular appointment at Julian. The attendance was just a little larger than usual. While the attendance at Julian is not large, it is a very interesting church. It is one of the most faithful bands of church workers to be found in the Conference.

On next Sunday Mother's Day services will be observed at both churches and it is hoped that these services can be made interesting and that they will be well attended.

On the third Sunday of May, Memorial and Home-Coming services will be observed at Tabernacle. Tabernacle has a very large constituency and a very large cemetery. Many people have been brought up in this church and are now living elsewhere. A large number of people who live in the community and elsewhere have friends buried here. All these friends are invited to be present on this day. The church has given to the world at least 11 ministers. A number of our best ministers have served this church as pastor. Out of these groups, Bro. T. F. McCulloch is the only living man who was brought up in the church and also served it as pastor. He is the oldest living man of the two groups. He has been chosen to preach the sermon on the morning of Memorial Day. Rev. J. E. Pritchard, D. D., will bring the message of the afternoon. We would be delighted to have every former pastor with us on this occasion. The cemetery will be put in good condition and it is hoped that where friends can do so, arrangements will be made for the graves of friends to be decorated.

GEO. L. CURRY.

Spring Hill, N. Davidson Charge.—Sunday school was opened Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the usual hour, with a good attendance. Following this was the preaching hour with Pastor Grant in the pulpit. His text was, "Repent, for the kingdom of God is at hand," and the subject was "Repent." Repentance is very important but unpopular today, and we should give it prayerful thought. The earlier we meet it in life the easier it is for us. God commands us to repent. This has been proven true by the prophets of all ages. Jesus began His preaching by saying, "Repent." This is a golden thread of repentance linking the beginning of the Old Testament to the end of it, then the dawn of the New to the end of it. It is a command of God, and is very, very necessary. Why? Because there is no way for forgiveness unless we repent of our sins and turn away and try to live a cleaner life, in order that others may see our good works. We have a heaven to gain and a hell to shun. Voltaire, like many others, was an infidel, but in the end had to repent. It may be termed as a direct rebellion of God. An evidence of repentance would be when Paul was on his way to Damascus and realized that he had some kind of religion, but he decided that it was not the right kind. God commanded him and he realized that it was necessary to repent. Unless we repent our Heavenly Father has no use of us. When we find a defect in our life it is our duty to remedy that defect. There is a story about a girl gathering roses, and one beautiful rose was almost out of her reach, but as she stretched her arm over the bush to get it, a snake coiled around her arm, but she was fortunate not to be harmed. After that day this girl hated snakes with a growing hate. That is the way we should hate sin and shun it, so we will want to repent and lead a Christian life.

After the sermon the children of the Beginner's class sang "Jesus Loves Me."

Many came out for the afternoon service and seemed to enjoy it. We hope they enjoyed it well enough to come back and worship with us often.

Remember that we dedicate our church the 20th of this month, and may we have a large crowd. We will start the day off with Sunday school beginning at 9:45. Then Dr. Andrews of the college will give the sermon followed by the dedication. Lunch will be served on the grounds, and in the afternoon we will have special singing and short speeches. We extend a hearty invitation to everyone and especially to our former pastors.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet with Mrs. Sam York Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. We hope all the young girls of the church will be present as we are planning to organize a Sunshine Auxiliary.

EDITH YORK, Reporter.

Flat Rock Charge.—Since this charge has used considerable space in recent issues of the Herald this report will be brief. Our services at Bethel and Gideon's Grove last Sunday were attended by the usual number and the interest in the services seemed good.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Bethel Church was delighted with the presence of the society from Piney Grove M. P. Church, on the Kernersville charge, at Bethel church Sunday night. The entire program was furnished by the Piney Grove Society. The program was featured with brief talks and special music. A quartet composed of two young ladies and two young men was especially good.

We regret to learn of the illness of Mrs. Hassel Angel, of Gideon's Grove church, who is in the hospital at Greensboro for the second time in recent months. We trust she will have a speedy recovery.

There will be only one service on Flat Rock charge next Sunday. Gideon's Grove will have the regular service at 11 a. m. The appointment at Flat Rock for the afternoon has been suspended on account of the commencement sermon at the Stokesdale school. Rev. W. T. Scott, of Winston-Salem, will deliver the commencement sermon at 2:30 p. m.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Moriah.—Moriah is still doing things. Reporter's on vacation, but expected to return any time. We are glad to report that things are picking up along all lines. Our Sunday school, under the capable leadership of Charles Sharpe, Jr., is growing in interest. The average attendance is around 100. The Young People's class has an enrollment of 35 with about 90 per cent of them attending regularly. Yes, we have as fine a group of young people here as one would hope to find anywhere.

The Ladies' Auxiliary is still active and is doing good work. On April 27th the Ladies' Auxiliary conducted what they called a "measuring party" at the N. C. hut, which is located near Mr. A. V. Kirkman's home, allowing each one who attended to pay a penny for each inch measured around the waist. The attendance was not what we had hoped for, but the measuring line ran well and the proceeds amounted to $8.80, which will be applied on the A. C. B.

About two weeks ago the pastor launched a drive for the A. C. B. He distributed envelopes to each member of the church who would accept them, and asked them to take the envelopes home, make a contribution and return the first Sunday in May.

Yesterday morning at the 11 o'clock service a Joash Box was placed on the table in front of the pulpit to receive the offering. About 90 per cent of the envelopes were returned. The offering amounted to $24.22, bringing the amount up to $33.02. We hope to collect the balance of the envelopes next Sunday. May the Lord bless those who made possible this offering.

A special program is being arranged for Mother's Day service next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to worship with us.

M. P. CHAMBLISS.

◆

Lexington, Mt. Carmel.—The Ninth District Rally was held at Mount Carmel church Sunday, April 29, with a large crowd in attendance. Rev. C. E. Ridge, pastor of Shiloh charge, preached at the 11 o'clock hour, using as his subject "Soul-Winning." The subject for the entire day was along evangelistic lines. Dinner was served in picnic style on the grounds. The afternoon speakers were Rev. Mr. Smith, pastor of Spneer church; Dr. T. M. Johnson, and Rev. C. G. Isley, and the following laymen: Mr. J. B. Leonard and Mr. J. W. Berrier. The day proved to be a great day for the church, having all the neighboring churches to worship with us being a great pleasure.

Rev. Mr. Isley filled his regular appointment the first Sunday morning with a large and attentive congregation present. Subject, "Thou Art the Christ." He preached a very helpful and inspiring sermon.

The attendance seems to be growing since the weather has improved. We had 99 present in Sunday school yesterday.

ZULA FRITTS, Reporter.

◆

Caroleen.—Our Sunday school is moving along nicely. The attendance was off some, which was due to the commencement exercises.

We are planning to paint and do some repair work on the church in the near future.

The Young Girls' class of our Sunday school is still climbing, having 56 on roll. We hope they will continue doing as they have been.

Bro. J. D. Morris delivered a very inspiring sermon last Sunday night on "Personal Responsibility." We have to give an account of what we do and what we have not done. I'm sure everyone enjoyed his message very much.

The third Sunday night we will observe communion service. We hope that each member will be present. REPORTER.

◆

Baltimore.—There was a large crowd at our church Sunday. Mr. Williams preached an excellent sermon which was enjoyed by all present. He read nine verses from the second chapter of Exodus. The subject was "Moses' Mother and the Good Mothers of the American Sons." When Moses was a babe his mother saw he was a goodly child. She hid him three months, and when she saw she could not longer hide him, she took for him an ark of bullrushes and daubed it with slime and with pitch, and put the child therein; and laid it by the river's brink. And his sister stood afar off, to see what would be done with him. And the daughter of Pharoah came down to wash, and when she saw the ark among the flags she opened it and the child wept. Then she told the sister of the babe to go get a nurse for the child. She went and brought——its mother.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely and the attendance is increasing every Sunday. REPORTER.

◆

First Church, Burlington.—The regular services were held Sunday. The Sunday school was well attended. Dr. Paschall, the pastor, delivered a wonderful sermon at the morning hour. He used as the basis of meditation Matt. 28:19-20.

At the evening worship the theme was "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus." For several Sunday evenings we have been studying some of the great hymns of the church. This hymn stands in deep contrast with those of previous Sundays.

On Friday evening of this week a musical program by the LaGrange Melody Weavers will be given at the Municipal Theater. A splendid program, and may be enjoyed by all. Admission 15 and 25 cents. This program is sponsored by Circle No. 3. Everyone is invited. REPORTER.

◆

Bethany, Randolph.—Our work here has been moving along about as usual since our last report. The Sunday school is doing good work, and the attendance is good. Our pastor filled his regular appointment Sunday evening.

Vacation time is here and the young people are looking forward to picnics. Miss Grace Baldwin gave a picnic to her class of girls Saturday afternoon.

Our Memorial service will be held the third Sunday in May. There will be all-day services.

Our revival meeting will begin the third Sunday in July. Let's all pray that this will be a great revival.

Our Ladies' Aid held their regular monthly meeting Saturday afternoon at the church with a few members present. On April 21st Mrs. A. P. Allred entertained the ladies at an all-day quilting party. Pot luck dinner was served to 12 members. All had an enjoyable day. MRS. C. T. REDDING, Reporter.

◆

Friendship, Fallston Charge.—The devotional part of the Sunday school last Sunday was in charge of the Sunshine Band. Dorothy Leonhardt led and Scripture was given by Pauline and Dorothy Lewis, Nathalee Leonhardt and Mary Ella and J. D. Bingham. Once each month this group of younger children lead the service.

The Christian Endeavor program was led by Miss Velma Wright. Six interesting talks were made by members.

In the graduating class of Fallston High School were six members of our church. These were: Thelbert Wright, president of the class; Ellen Baxter, historian; Cerelda Lackey, salutatorian; Vatha Wright, Doyle Martin, and Bessie Wright. We are proud of the record these young people have made in school and are hoping that they will continue their learning at High Point College next fall. J. D. Shelton, son of Rev. and Mrs. A. D. Shelton, of Albemarle, graduated with this class. The plan of the commencement this year was a new one. Everyone taking part was either an alumnus, student or faculty member of the school. The baccalaureate sermon was preached by Rev. Clarence P. Morris, of Kannapolis, of the class of '29. Rev. Mr. Morris used as his theme "Where There Is No Vision the People Perish."

The annual Memorial services will be held at this church on the third Sunday of this month. Sunday school will convene at 10 o'clock, with preaching at 11. The graves will be decorated at 12 o'clock. Immediately after this, dinner will be spread picnic fashion. The afternoon will be given over to singing gospel hymns. Ushers for the day are Doyle Martin, Cerelda Lackey, Thelbert Wright, and Thomas Howard.

The Sunshine Band will meet at the church next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

N. LACKEY, Reporter.

◆

Kannapolis.—In a recent issue of the Herald the reporter from Kannapolis said that Rev. A. L. Hunter assisted in our revival meeting, when it should have been Rev. R. A. Hunter, of Winston. I am sure this was an oversight of the reporter, but credit to whom it is due. MRS. McL.

◆

Lebanon Church, High Point.—Our congregation has enjoyed a series of lectures on the subject, "Character Building," for the past three Sundays in the morning services. The first was delivered by Mr. R. L. Pope, of Thomasville; the second by Mr. T. Wingate Andrews, superintendent of the High Point schools; the third, by a local attorney, Mr. Grover Jones. These gentlemen were very able speakers and our people feel that these services were profitable as well as enjoyable. We also appreciate the fact that many visitors were attracted to these services. We welcome visitors at any time. Hope they will worship with us again.

On the fifth Sunday night we had a Worship-in-Song service which was greatly enjoyed by all present.

In the absence of our pastor, Dr. S. W. Taylor, last Sunday night, Rev. Oscar Easter occupied the pulpit. Dr. Taylor is in Denton assisting Rev. J. T. Bowman in a special meeting.

Something a bit unusual happened to us a few days ago in the form of a lovely surprise. One of our faithful members, who happens to be a miller, buys bags of a certain bag company. Brother Payne (the miller) believes in remembering the Lord's work on Monday as well as on the Sabbath. So when the salesman called to write up an order, Bro. Payne told him about our hut plans. In a few days a neat check for $20.00 came to Bro. Payne to be applied on the hut. Now wasn't that fine! There are sympathetic folks everywhere in the country even yet. There are folks who would gladly attend our services if properly approached and we would win hearts and hands to the Lord's work as well as contributions. Here is my rising vote of thanks to Bro. Payne for his timely word in interest of our hut.

Next Sunday being Mother's Day, the Children's Missionary meeting will be postponed until the third Sunday. There will be an appropriate sermon for that occasion at 11 o'clock. A committee has been appointed to see that each person will be provided a suitable flower to wear. And transportation will be provided, also, for each mother who has not way to ride to church. Please report each person desiring to ride to telephone No. 4257, Montgomery's store, on Saturday, and the way will be provided Sunday morning.

A pageant is being prepared for the Sunday night service.

Two of our number, John Jones and Iris Thacker, represented Oak View School in the district declamation and recitation contest at Allen Jay School recently. In this elimination contest, which is an annual county affair, Iris Thacker won first place. She will, therefore, speak in the final elimination contest to be held in the courthouse in Greensboro next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. At this time three speakers will be selected among the girls and three among the boys to speak in the County commencement program on May 19th in Greensboro. Iris Thacker is the daughter of the late J. Wesley Thacker and Mrs. Lena Thacker, of Lebanon church.

We are glad to report that Mrs. J. W. Montgomery, who has been quite ill for two weeks, is now convalescing very satisfactorily. She will probably be able to be out again within a few days.

Mrs. D. C. Montgomery is also improving. We hope to see her out real soon.

Mrs. Pritchard has been sick this week. The writer has not heard directly from her today.

* * *

Draper Church.—Sunday was a good day for us at Draper. The day was an ideal day and nobody had an excuse for not coming to church. Dr. R. M. Andrews was with us and delivered, in his usual quiet way, a most wonderful sermon, which everyone present greatly enjoyed. After the sermon the church was presented by Bro. W. T. Howell, the superintendent of the Sunday school, for dedication. The service was very impressive. Following the dedication service the communion service was held with a goodly number taking part.

It was a good day and everybody enjoyed it. I believe that the church here at Draper is facing a new day. Brethren, pray for us.

L. S. HELMS.

* * *

Draper.—The Sunday school is still progressing, but due to sickness there were not many present today.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Carrie Lankford is able to be back to worship with us again. She has been very ill recently.

Mrs. Leona Wyatt is very ill at her home on Maryland avenue.

Mrs. J. S. Riddle is sick at her home on Delaware avenue.

Miss Edna Riddle and Mr. Glenn Wilson were united in marriage Saturday, April 14, at Leaksville, Rev. Mr. Peters officiating.

Mrs. Wilson is the daughter of Mrs. J. S. Riddle and the late Rev. J. S. Riddle, of Draper. She is employed by the C. C. and W. Mills of Draper. Mr. Wilson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson, of Draper. He is also employed by the C. C. and W. Mills of Draper. Both are members of the Draper M. P. church. Their many friends wish for them a long and happy married life.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Troxler and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Chandler and daughter, Dorothy, were among the out-of-town visitors present at the dedication service held this morning.

Dr. R. M. Andrews, president o fthe Annual Conference, was present at the Sunday morning service. He delivered a very inspiring message on "Brotherhood," based on the Scripture, I Peter 2:17.

After the message was delivered the Draper M. P. church was presented to Dr. Andrews, free of all debts, to be dedicated.

Communion was served after the dedication service.

We all hope to have Dr. Andrews visit us again. We enjoyed his visit and the messages he brought us.

May God bless him in his work.

BEATRICE SMITH, Reporter.

* * *

West End, Thomasville.—Our meeting began April 22 and lasted through May 2nd. Rev. C. E. Ridge did the preaching.

Our C. E. Society is in much grief over the loss of our president, Charles Nance, who died on May 3rd. His death was a shock to all his friends. Charles had served faithfully for four months as president of the society and we will miss him very much. He was a Christian boy and a faithful worker at anything he undertook. May his death be a warning to all young people. Let us live every day as if it were the last. We do not know how soon our breath shall be snatched away from us. "Be ye also ready, for the son of man cometh at a time when ye think not."

Our C. E. Society had an interesting program Sunday night. The topic was "How Should a Christian Choose His Life Work?" Reid Long was the leader. After the program a memorial service was held in honor of our deceased president.

Sunday night, our pastor, Rev. H. W. Bell, brought an interesting message. His subject was "'Going Farther With Jesus." After the sermon the doors of the church were opened. Those uniting with the church were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hartman, and Garret and Kelly Witaker.

MARY DISHER, Reporter.

* * *

Liberty.—All our church activities are on the upward trend now since the beautiful springtime has given new life and zest, and with thankful hearts we want to use the added hours in the lengthy days for work, for adventure and achievement, for song and prayer.

Our faithful pastor, Rev. Fred R. Love, has filled all his appointments and keeps himself very busy in all the different phases of church work, visiting the sick, comforting the sorrowing, and assisting at a large number of funerals.

Three of our good Methodist Protestant women have died recently: Mrs. D. A. Highfill, Mrs. A. Pressly Brower, and Mrs. A. O. Lindley. God's children are gathering home.

Mr. Love takes a great interest in prayer meeting every Wednesday night. Many people enjoy these mid-week services, the attendance being larger than in a number of years. May God abundantly bless him for these added efforts.

Our revival will begin the second Sunday in June. Pray for us that much good may be accomplished, the church greatly revived, and many souls won for Christ.

Our Christian Endeavor was led by Mr. R. L. Elkins Sunday evening, his topic being "The Importance of Choosing One's Life Work."

Circle No. 1 met with Mrs. J. E. Cox at her home on Fayetteville street Tuesday evening. A pleasant and profitable evening was enjoyed. Circle No. 2 met with Mrs. J. B. York at her home on Swannanoa street on Wednesday evening. "Launch Into the Deep" was the study for the afternoon. There were 12 members present.

The Union League of Young People's Societies of the Liberty Churches held their fifth Sunday meeting, having as their visiting speaker Miss Minnie Mae Wilson, secretary of the Y. W. C. A. of Greensboro. Music was furnished by a double quartet from Elon College.

Our church is being covered with a beautiful new roof. The shrubbery around the church is lending its charm in blossom and greenery sublime.

Rev. Tom Alderman Sykes, of High Point, will deliver the commencement address May 16th at 10:30. Dr. L. E. Smith, president of Elon College, will preach the baccalaureate sermon May 13th, Mother's Day. We are quite proud of such a large number in the graduating class from our Sunday school. They are as follows: Katherine Underwood, Edna Amick, Helen Dameron, Virginia Dare Isley, Paul Shepard Hardin, Lucile Lindley, Emory Davis, Marjorie Elkins and Frank Swaim. Miss Edna Amick has the honor of being valedictorian of the class, and Paul Shepard Hardin, president of the class, which is 24 in number.

May our Heavenly Father give us a renewed spirit of good will toward all our fellow beings. Give us a firmer faith in Thee, and in all the promises of Thy Holy Word.

BERTINE SHEPARD, Reporter.

* * *

Calvary, Greensboro.—Calvary enjoyed one of its best days last Sunday in its celebration of the 10th anniversary of the founding of the church, there being an attendance of 251 at Sunday school, which broke the record attendance of 250. At 11 o'clock Dr. Pritchard preached a very appropriate sermon, using for a subject "Some Essentials of the Glorious Church." Just prior to the sermon the audience stood with bowed heads while our pastor called the roll of all the members of our church who are dead. As the name of each was called a white rose was placed in a basket in their honor by Miss Rebecca Coble. As the name of each living member was called they responded by placing their offering in the Joash Box.

The second service of the day was held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Dr. Pritchard presided and read greetings from the two former pastors, Rev. L. W. Gerringer, D. D., of Henderson, and Rev. C. W. Bates, D. D., of Winston-Salem, and several other ministers who were not able to be present. Brief addresses were made by Rev. Wilson Woodcock, pastor of the Forest Avenue Baptist church, who is president of the Greensboro Ministerial Association; Rev. S. K. Spahr, D. D., pastor-emeritus of Grace M. P. church; Rev. A. G. Dixon, D. D, superintendent of the M P. Children's Home at High Point; Rev. J. R. Hutton, pastor of Midway M. P. church; J. Norman Wills, of Grace M. P. Church; Rev. T. J. Whitehead, pastor of West End M P. Church, and Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, pastor of Grace M. P. Church.

Mother's Day will be observed at our church next Sunday. A special program is being provided.

The Missionary Circles got off to a good start Monday. Circles Nos. 1, 2, and 3 met Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and the Business Women's Circle met Monday evening at 8 o'clock. These were their second meetings since the new missionary year started.

The Friendly class will meet in regular monthly session at the hut next Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Baraca Class held its business meeting in the hut last Thursday evening at 7:30. They report another fine meeting, with everyone enjoying the fellowship that goes with this type of meeting. L. A. Pugh and his committe prepared one of the best suppers given this year, namely, a steak supper. The class is very grateful to Mr. Pugh for this contribution. T. B. Waugh, vice-president of the class, served as toastmaster for the evening. He secured a splendid speaker, who came to most of the members as a stranger, but before the meeting adjourned he had won the affection of everyone present. This speaker was Rev. J. C. Cornett, pastor of Centenary M. E. Church. Our pastor was present at the meeting and made some remarks concerning our revival meeting which is to begin in June.

New class officers were elected as follows: Hester Causey, president; Robah Fields, first vice-president; Charles Coe, Jr., second vice-president, and Ernest Williamson, secretary and treasurer.

The Baraca Class will meet with the J. F. McCulloch class, of which Dr. Pritchard is teacher, for their next business meeting.

Robah H. Fields was recently elected a member of the Boy Scout Troop Committee. He is the successor to W. L. Caudle, who served in this capacity until he was elected assistant Scoutmaster. The boys are still climbing the ladder in Scouting. Some of them are going to be Eagle Scouts in spite of distance. There are 22 registered Scouts in the troop. The next Scout meeting will be a camp-fire program and supper at the home of J. Frank Coble, chairman of the Troop Committee, on the Tabernacle Road. Each boy is looking forward to this with a great deal of enthusiasm.

MRS. HOWARD R. NEECE, Reporter.

St. Paul Church.—We just closed a ten-day revival meeting. Rev. O. C. Loy, of Halifax Charge, was our pulpit help. Brother Loy did gospel preaching that was a pleasure and profit to all who heard him and there were large congregations at every service. The meeting resulted in tn conversions and reclamations, four united with the church, and the church was greatly revived.

The work on our charge is encouraging. The attendance at the regular services is unusually good. The organizations are all active and doing good work. The Ladies' Aid Society recently placed a refrigerator in the parsonage, for which the pastor and family are grateful. The Ladies' Aid also gave a nice quilt to the pastor and his wife, for which they have our many thanks.

Mother's Day will be observed at the 11 o'clock service next Sunday. The Sunbeam Missionary Society will have charge of the program.

We will hold our second quarterly conference on Monday night, May 14th, and we are expecting the best reports to be given by the members of the quarterly conference that have been reported under the present pastorate.

We are hoping and expecting this to be one of St. Paul's best years.

D. I. GARNER, Pastor.

South Winston Charge.—We held our Sunday schol at 9:45 and just before 11:00 our pastor, Bro. Ridge, arrived, bringing with him Bro. Sharpe, of Shelby N. C., and Mr. and Mrs. Deaton, of Lexington. The service was conducted by Bro. Sharpe. He read a portion of the 32nd chapter of Deuteronomy, and his text was the 11th and 12th verses. I talked with several of the congregation after the service and everybody was well pleased with the service. I greatly enjoyed it. The speaker's friendliness made him seem to be one of our own number.

We held our second quarterly conference at 3 p. m. Sunday and there were only three of our official board present but wo had as honorary members Bro. Sharp and Mr. Deaton. All business concluded, we closed at 4 o'clock.

At 7:30 p. m. we again returned for an evening worship with about 40 present. Dr. R. M. Andrews, our president, brought the message of the evening. He made a very interesting talk and the congregation listened very attentively as he spoke. He also commended us very highly for the work we have done on our building since he was here before.

Next Sunday is Mother's Day and the young folks of our church have a program to be put on at 7:30 o'clock and everybody has a special invitation, so be sure and come. On May 20th we will hold our communion service at the 11 o'clock service, if it be the Lord's will, and we especially urge that every officer and member be present.

W. C. NORRIS, Reporter.

Concord.—We were glad to have one of our former pastors, Rev. Lloyd Love, preach for us at our evening service last Sunday.

Our Sunday school attendance yesterday was very good, yet it could have been so much better. We had 300, but now the measles has waned and we are having such pretty weather, I see no reason why we could not have had 600 instead of 300. We have had that many present and if our people would make a little better effort to get there we could do it again.

The Young People's class had their banquet last Thursday. Sixty or more were present. The banquet was held in the basement of the church. A color note of red and white was carried out. The tables looked very pretty with their bud vases, containing red tulips. Miss Maude Winecoff entertained the group with jokes, after which a reading was given by Mrs. Joe McEachern. We then had a short talk from our pastor, Mr. Morgan. The teacher of the class, Ralph Waddell, was asked to say a few words, after which the speaker of the evening, Dr. Rowlett, from the Central Methodist Church, gave a most interesting helpful talk. Everyone seemed to enjoy the evening very much.

We were delighted to see our pastor's wife, Mrs. Morgan back with us Sunday, after an illness of several weeks.

Miss Agnes Litaker, one of our most faithful workers among our young people, has been sick for several weeks. We miss her very much and pray for her a speedy recovery.

REPORTER.

Kernersville.—On Wednesday, May 16th, from 6 to 8:30 p. m., there will be a special meeting of the official members of the Kernersville charge to be held at the Kernersville Methodist Protestant church. The Ladies' Aid Societies of Kernersville church, Pine Grove and Sandy Ridge will serve a picnic supper to the official members at 6 o'clock, and following the supper, which will be served on the church grounds, a mass meeting will be held in the church auditorium with Mr. A. N. Linville, secretary of the quarterly conference, presiding. The pastor, Rev. O. B. Williams, and other speakers are expected to be present. This is expected to be one of the finest meetings that we have had for a long time.

Special Meetings: Revival services have been announced to begin in the Kernersville Methodist Protestant church on Sunday, June 17, and run through the fourth Sunday. Rev. Roy I. Farmer, pastor of the First Church, High Point, is to preach each evening at 7:45.

Our quarterly conference was held last Saturday afternoon at Sandy Ridge church; Mr. A. B. Dwiggins and Mr. Rufus Whitt was nominated for delegate to the Annual Conference.

Special Mother's Day services will be held in our church next Sunday following our Sunday school session at 10:30.

REPORTER.

THE HABIT OF CHEERFULNESS

It will help us in learning the lesson of cheerfulness if we persistently train ourselves to see the good things, the bright things, in our common life. There are some people who seem to have eyes only for the unpleasant things. They find every bit of roughness and hardness in their daily path. They see at once, and see it magnified, every disagreeable thing that comes into their life. They remember all the unhappy experiences they have ever suffered. But, on the other hand, they forget their blessings. They hang up no pictures of the joys they did not lose, which have filled their life on so many bright days. They have no memory for the beautiful things, the things of gladness.

There are few habits more common, even among Christians, than this of remembering the unpleasant things and forgetting the pleasant things; and there is no other habit which is more inimical to joy. He who would always be of good cheer must break this habit—if it has fastened itself in his life—and must learn, must train himself, to see the beautiful things and to be blind to the disagreeable things. The truth is, there are, in the ordinary life, a thousand pleasant things—favors, joys, comforts, things to cheer—to one unpleasant thing, one real cause for unhappiness. It is a shame, therefore, to let one bit of roughness, trial, or suffering, spoil all the gladness of the thousand blessings, the one discordant note mar all the music of the grand symphony. We should learn to look at life, not to find misery and discomfort in it, but to find cheer and beauty.—J. R. Miller.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Moore

Grace Church and Greensboro lost a great spiritual man in the passing of Mr. Rufus A. Moore on April 27, 1934. He had been ill at Clinic Hospital only a few days.

Mr. Moore had been one of the faithful members of Grace Church since uniting with it on confession of faith on February 17, 1907. So it was fitting that funeral services should be conducted from the church of his love on Sunday afternoon, April 29, at 2:00 o'clock. The service was in charge of Rev. J. Elwood Carroll and Dr. S. K. Spahr, pastor and pastor-emeritus, respectively. Interment was at Oak Ridge.

Mr. Moore was born 78 years ago near Oak Ridge. He was united in marriage to Miss Ora Huffines, April 20, 1879, 53 years ago. Survivors in addition to Mrs. Moore are one son, John Moore, Greensboro; one sister, Miss Sarah Moore, Oak Ridge; and four grandchildren—Violet, Howard, Dorothy, and Bobby, of Greensboro.

The life of Mr. Moore seemed to be pervaded by a deep trust in God. The following poem, found in his Bible and read by Dr. Spahr at the funeral service, was his motto:

"When every door seems closed up tight,
I know there is a way through;
Somehow, when I can see no light,
I know there is a way through.
My Lord is Master of the gale,
His precious word will never fail—
Let all the powers of hell assail,
I know there is a way through!

"When comes the final hour of life,
I know there'll be a way through.
When I have done with toil and strife,
I'm sure there'll be a way through!
When I go down through Death's dark door,
On my journey to that Unknown Shore,
I'll trust Him then and forevermore,
Who is the Only Way through."

J. ELWOOD CARROLL.

Williams

Nancy Ellen Lewallen Williams, daughter of Dawson and Nancy Hancock Lewallen, was born in Randolph county April 3, 1863, and departed this life May 5th, 1934, aged 71 years, one month and two days.

For the past five years she had made her home with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Ferree, at High Point, in whose tender care she remained until her decease.

The husband, W. A. Williams, preceded her to the beyond 17 years ago. To this union were born the daughter, Mrs. L. F. Ferree, and a son, A. T. Williams, of Archdale, who survive, also a son, R. E. Williams, who preceded her in death about three years ago. Five step-children also survive her: Mrs. J. M. Hendrix, of Asheboro; Mrs. E. O. York, Mr. A. F. Williams, and Miss Nora Williams, of Central Fals, and Mrs. J. B. Robbins, of Martinsville, Va. There also remains a brother, Dawson Lewallen, and a sister, Mrs. Lundy Frye, both of Asheboro, N. C., and nine grandchildren to mourn her passing.

About 40 years ago Mrs. Williams united with the Giles Chapel Methodist Protestant church on Richland Circuit, of which she remained a faithful and consistent member until called home. For many years during her active lifetime she taught a Sunday school class. Her home was known as "the preacher's home," and many pastors found her hospitality and good wishes a blessing.

Brief funeral services were held at the home of the daughter in High Point Sunday afternoon, May 6th, at 3:15 o'clock, after which final services were held at Giles Chapel. Ministers participting in tributes of respect and words of comfort to sorrowing loved ones, and a large assembly of neighbors and friends, were Rev. Joel B. Trogdon, a former pastor; Rev. R. L. Hethcox, the present pastor, and Rev. R. I. Farmer. Interment was made in the Giles Chapel cemetery.

Of this Christian woman we may well say:

"To have sown in the souls of men,
One thought that will not die—
To have been a link in the chain of life,
Shall be immortality."

R. I. FARMER.

Lindley

On May 1, 1934, at the age of 54 years, seven months and twenty-eight days, Mrs. A. O. Lindley was called home. She left behind her husband and five children. Her life was beautiful. Her death was triumphant. Her end is peace which passeth all understanding. The home is inexpressibly sad, but in some way the Eternal Father will provide. Her body was laid to rest in Center cemetery. Taking part in the funeral service were Drs. Andrews, Lindley, Paschall, Taylor, and Revs. Pike, Love, Bethea, and the writer. J. A. BURGESS.

Montgomery

Dale Clemmons Montgomery, Jr., infant son of Brother and Sister Dale C. Montgomery, passed into the great beyond early Monday morning, April 23, after an earthly life of only three days. The funeral service was held Monday at 4 o'clock at the home on North Main street, High Point, and was conducted by the writer. Interment followed in Lebanon cemetery.

Our hearts go out in tender sympathy to these bereaved parents, and other relatives, who feel most keenly the passing of this precious babe. Despite their sorrow, there is much to comfort them. Their child is forever with Him who said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me." And one day, in God's good providence, they may join it there. May they be kept in the peace of God until that day.

S. W. TAYLOR.

Hanner

As a former pastor for five years, and neighbor during that period, of Mrs. Martha Hanner, wife of Jesse Hanner, I wish to pay tribute to the excellence of her Christian character and the even tenor of her life.

During the five years my family and I were frequently the beneficiaries of the generous hospitality and neighborly kindness of Mrs. Hanner and her equally considerate husband. In the two-fold relation as neighbors and pastor and family, we received a double portion of their kindness. This I may add that it has been my privilege several times since moving from the community to be a guest in the home and to enjoy the same warm-hearted hospitality as when I was pastor.

Mrs. Hanner was always the same—quiet, even-tempered, unpretentious, yet uniformly kind. Her influence consisted of that almost imperceptible, yet irresistible, power that emanates from such a life and character as hers.

Then, too, her religious and church life was regular and consistent. Mrs. Hanner was usually at church. If she was not there, her pastor knew there was a real reason, never a mere excuse. Church attendance was regularly part of her life and activity.

In the going of Mrs. Hanner the community loses part of that silent force that gives tone to the moral and religious atmosphere. But, of course, the greatest loss is to her companion. The hearts of friends go out in sympathy to him. I join in this and also in prayer that he may be comforted and sustained by divine grace. T. M. JOHNSON.

Isley

On April 18 Mr. Albert Monroe Isley (better known as "Bud") departed this life after a brief illness of paralysis. Mr. Isley had lived to the ripe age of 75 years, six months and 3 days.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Barbara Isley; one daughter, Mrs. D. A. Sharpe; one son, Mr. C. H. Isley; three brothers, J. A., C. L., and Augustus Isley, and ten grandchildren. He was a member of Friendship Methodist Protestant church.

The funeral was conducted at Friendship church by the writer, assisted by Rev. D. I. Offman, of the Lutheran church. The body was laid to rest in the church cemetery to await the resurrection.

May the Lord bless and lead those he has left behind in this life.

L. E. MABRY.

Isley

April 24, the infant J. G. Isley, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Isley, passed away to return to the Father after a short life of only nine weeks. After suffering from measles, complications set up. We do not understand why a little life like this is taken away, but we must remember that our Heavenly Father never makes a mistake. He does all things well. This child is survived by the parents, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Isley, of Belmont, one sister, and grandparents, Mrs. A. S. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Isley.

May these, like David of old, not wish for the little one back, but long for the time for them to join it in a better life.

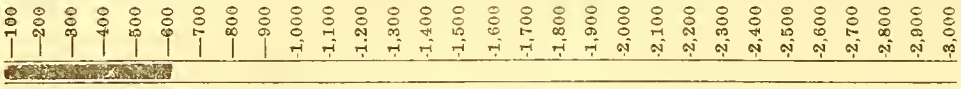
L. E. MABRY.

* * *

—Methodist Protestant ministers living in and near Greensboro organized a Methodist Protestant Ministers' Association on Monday morning. Dr. J. E. Pritchard was elected president, Rev. W. F. Ashburn, vice-president, Rev. J. E. Carroll, secretary, and Rev. T. J. Whitehead, treasurer.

—Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Bates, of Winston-Salem, attended the Grace Church Banquet on Friday evening of last week.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
COMMUNITY CHURCH	107
KANNAPOLIS	102
GRAHAM	85

Now what do you think of this? Somebody has said that the charges have conspired against me to see how long I can hold out in my ravings. Two charges go over the top in one week. Community Church kept threatening to do it and did it. Kannapolis did not threaten very long, but did it.

Now it is difficult to ride two horses or two trains at the same time. But I am going to show, first, some similarity in these two places. They are both on the Southern Railway, both in North Carolina, both in the United States, both in North America, both in the Northern Hemisphere, both in about longitude 80 West and latitude 36 North, both have buildings, pastors and members. Thus far they are alike. But now the difference: Community is old enough to be fairly well established; has a large and fine building; has entertained Conference twice; has a pastor, who by experience, training, enthusiasm and ability for work is second to none in the Conference. Kannapolis is comparatively new; has not entertained the Conference; its pastor, while giving promise of fine things, is still young and without very much experience——AND YET Community Church and Kannapolis come marching side by side and each reaches its goal in the Herald campaign at the same time. It simply shows that where there is a will there is a way. Hats off to both of these charges. And two hats off for Brother D. A. McLaurin, the Herald agent at Kannapolis, who has been rolling the money into the Herald office for the past few weeks.

And, Graham, good for you. Keep up the good work. J. E. PRITCHARD.

* * *

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	9¾	$....
Albemarle	17	4	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	22	....
Asheville	14	6¼	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	8.90	....
Bessemer City	..	4.40	....
Burlington, First	71	11	....
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	11	....
Charlotte	21	6.7	.60
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	..	.32	....
Cleveland	61	8½	....
Concord	26	12½	....
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	1½	....
Denton	48	10¼	....
DRAPER	7	7	2.50
Enfield	15	6½	5.00
Fallston	85	18½	....
Flat Rock	63	12¾	....
Friendship	21	1⅛	....
Forsyth	45	6½	2.50
Gibsonville	20	2½	....
Glen Raven	47	4¾	....
Graham	27	22.98	....
Granville	59	9	10.00
Greensboro, Calvary	29	27	7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	8½	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	2½	5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	9.1	7.50
Greensville	59	6½	....
Guilford	37	9½	....
Halifax	53	6	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	13.55	10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	9½	....
High Point, Lebanon	34	4½	....
High Point, Welch	22	4½	7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	15.30	5.00
Kernersville	31	2½	....
Lexington, First	45	8	1.00
Lexington, State Street	40	1½	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	36	11¾	....
Littletown	50	7¼	....
Mebane	28	5	....
Mecklenburg	40	1½	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	2½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	4	5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	15½	....
Mount Pleasant	62	9½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	23¼	22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	....
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	6¾	....
Randolph	74	9½	....
Reidsville	10	7	....
Richland	43	3½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	19	20.00
Siler City	20	10¾	2.50
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	11½	....
Tabernacle	39	15¾	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	1	....
West Forsyth	62	6½	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	2.50
Why Not	63	4	....
Winston, First	26	7¼	7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	4½	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

 Subsidy paid in full.

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher
Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro. N. C.

MARRIED

Johnson-Whitley

The marriage of Miss Thelma Whitley to Mr. Oscar Johnson was performed by Rev. Clarence P. Morris, pastor of the bride, at Lakewood Park, an open air service, this being the first service of its kind for our young pastor to perform.

The ceremony was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Victor Whitley and Mr. E. H. Steele. At the close of the ceremony Mr. Steele gave them a shower of rice, and along with him their many friends wish for them much happiness.

◆

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Rev. J. E. Pritchard	$11.00
T. S. Coble	5.44
Rev. F. W. Paschall	5.00
Rev. R. L. Vickery	2.50
Ray Leatherman	2.00
Rev. G. L. Curry	2.00
Rev. E. Suits	2.00
Mrs. W. G. Starr	2.00
Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk	1.22
M. P. Chambliss	1.00
Mrs. F. S. Stockard	1.00
Rev. R. S. Troxler	1.00
Rev. C. L. Spencer	1.00
Rev. C. W. Bates	.50
Rev. J. A. Burgess	.50
Rev. C. B. Way	.50

Herald Subsidy Fund

Moriah Charge, total, per Rev. M. P. Chambliss	$5.00
Welch Memorial, per Rev. J. D. Williams, overpaid	7.95

We thank all these givers.

◆

—Rev. W. F. Kennett, one of our best loved Superannuates, has been quite ill for the past week. He has had a long and honorable career among us.

—Rev. and Mrs. E. G. Lowdermilk seem to be happy in their new home at Washington, N. C., but they also retain their interest in Greensboro and in Calvary church.

—While not listed as in the active work, yet there are very few ministers who do more visiting of the sick than does Rev. W. F. Ashburn. He is favorably known and loved by all of the hospitals in this city because of his labors in behalf of the sick.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

Rev H L Isley

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., MAY 17, 1934 NUMBER 26

Realization

I did not fully realize
What privilege to walk,
Until I saw a lame man limp
With sunshine in his talk.

I did not fully realize
What privilege to hear,
Until a deaf man spoke to me
In words of faith and cheer.

I did not fully realize
What privilege to see,
Until a blind man groped along
And seemed to smile at me.

* * * * * *

So when I walk and hear and see,
I pray that I may grateful be.
—Grenville Kleiser.

Herald Mid-Year Honor Roll

Those who raised half their quota or more in half a year: Asheboro; Enfield; English Street, High Point; Graham; Reidsville; Siler City; Tabernacle; Yarborough.

Those who raised all their quota or more in half a year: Calvary, Greensboro; Community Church, Thomasville; Draper; First Church, Thomasville; Fountain Place, Burlington; Kannapolis; South Side, Winston-Salem; Spencer; Whitakers.

Japan and the World

Japan has announced a "Monroe Doctrine for Asia." This statement has been interpreted by the Ministry of War through the Foreign Office. Here we have presented a clear picture of the foolish lengths to which a people will allow itself to be led under the dictatorship of a Military Party. It is perhaps natural that Japan should feel that she, as a rising Power in the East, has special responsibilities for maintaining the peace in China. There is some validity in the parallel that she draws between America's foreign policy as related to the Western Hemisphere and her own recent statement. However, in its most extreme form, the "Monroe Doctrin" has never undertaken to regulate trade in South America, much less set up a general protectorate over a whole continent. Is it stupidity, or is it madness? That is the question that the friends of Japan are asking. Does Japan believe that having defied the League and having bluffed the rest of the world, she can now set herself up as a supreme arbiter of all questions in dispute for a full half of the world?

The other nations have not allowed this challenge to go unheeded. The answer of Secretary Hull is strong, kindly and fully states the situation without making any demands or threats. Japan, in her treatment of Manchuria, tore up the Nine-Power-Treaty, disregarding her pledged word in the Pact of Paris, and broke her Covenant with the League of Nations. Now she goes still further and slams shut the "Open Door" in the Far East. Her spokesman and protagonists deny this, and say that she is simply seeking to maintain peace in the Far East. After all allowances have been made between methods of thought and modes of procedure as between East and West, nothing is likely to occur to soften the criticism levelled at Japan for what she has already done.

That the situation is serious, no one can doubt; that war with Japan is inevitable, no one should admit for a moment.

Just at this time it seems unfortunate that Congress should have passed the Vinson Bill and that the use of more public funds for an increase in Army and Navy should be suggested. It was after the passage of the Vinson Bill that Japan made her preposterous Pronunciamento to the world. We do not want war in the Pacific. No matter how serious the situation, the question at issue can be adjusted by reason and peaceful means. No solution is offered by any threats of war.

The churches and Christian people are on record as opposed to war. A vast majority of our citizens have no economic or financial or trade interest in the Far East and none of our people have interests great enough to involve us in a war.

If you believe that additional Navy building by this country at this time will increase war tension throughout the world, let your position be known by respectfully requesting the President to refuse all demands of the big navy men, ship builders, and munition manufacturers for more contracts now.

League of Nations Petition

"This petition does not seek to coerce the action of our government nor do those who sign it fail to recognize the tremendous burdens the President and his associates are carrying in the readjustment of our domestic affairs. We sign it to let the administration know that it can rely upon the united support of millions of Americans when it finds the opportunity to associate America with those who are seeking to co-ordinate the modern peace machinery and improve it by revision of the covenant."

The above statement made by the Honorable Newton D. Baker serves to clarify the reason for the circulation of this petition now. Some of our members have questioned the advisability of pressing the League issue now. The revision of the League Covenant has been made one of the points in a

"Six Point Program" designed to provide national defense against war. This program was drawn up by a strong group of national leaders in the peace movement, representing 19 world organizations, and was presented to the President and to the Secretary of State on March 24. The six points are as follows:

1. Immediate ratification of the World Court Protocol.

2. A statement by the United States Government of the terms on which it would be willing to join a revised League of Nations.

3. The immediate passage of the arms embargo resolution.

4. Official support for investigation, as provided in the Nye-Vandenerg resolution, of the munitions industry.

5. Energetic action on the part of this government for an effective world disarmament treaty including international supervision of all aviation and progressive reduction of military air forces.

6. Refusal of presidential authorization, as provided for in the Vinson Bill, for further appropriations for naval construction pending the 1935 naval conference.

We urge our members to continue to work on securing more signatures to the League of Nations petition and to return these petitions, when filled, as soon as possible to headquarters.

Since the petition was launched many names have come in with every mail. If you need more forms, please write to us and we will supply them. We feel that this is one of the ways of implementing peace. In the words of the able editor of the Forum: "Let the manifestoes sent to Washington with their thousands of signatures continue. These peace pronouncements are not futile folly. They serve to conteract the incessant lobbies of the armament firms, the daily scares of the munitions manufacturers—the real internationalists on the negative side for whom war means profit and for whom patriotism is subordinate, not to unselfishness, as with the pacifists, but to self-interest."—World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches, 70 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

◆

NOTICE TO ALL PREACHERS OF THE N. C. CONFERENCE

By action of the 1930 Annual Conference (See 1930 Journal) the old Conference Brotherhood was discontinued and upon the death of a member of the Annual Conference an assessment of $1.00 for each $500.00 salary promised for the year is to be laid on every preacher employed by the Annual Conference. As treasurer of this fund I am issuing this call on account of the death of Brother J. W. Hulin. Will each member of the Conference pleas figure out the amount you are due and mail it to me at once so that I can pay this claim.

I am making this call through the HERALD instad of by personal letter in order to save time and expense. Acknowledgement of payments received will be made through the HERALD also.

R. A. HUNTER.

Winston-Salem, N. C., R. F. D. 2.

THE THEORY OF CYCLES

A theory has been widely adopted whose principles state that all forms of life, activity, and existence, move in cycles, or circles. This seems to be universally true; for economic property and depression revolve around a certain period of years. We are at present, I believe, just beginning to come out of a state of financial depression. The situation will possibly clear up within the next few years, a period of prosperity will follow, and the experience will be repeated again and again.

History revolves around a cycle and as you have often heard, repeats itself.

It is also apparent that general climatic conditions revolve around a cycle with alternating droughts, wet years, flood years, famines, storms, ideal weather and various other changes.

As you probably have observed, scientists say that the planets have fixed orbits, or cycles, around which they travel with clocklike regularity. The sun is the point around which they revolve. The moon revolves around earth, and earth, rotating on its axis, passes around the sun. We do not know where in space our solar system is headed for, but we are on our way. While our solar system centers around old "sol," all created things evidently center around God.

It is also to be observed that spiritual interest and power revolve around a cycle, consisting of a fixed period of years. For instance: it has been stated that in children interest in religion occurs markedly at a certain age, say six or sight years, then enthusiasm dwindles until about two or four years later, when interest in the subject revives. These cycles are existent even in adulthood, although less marked. Unless the child himself is interested in matters pertaining to the spiritual, he is not easily won over. However, this does not mean that God can only be contacted at certain "best" times, for He is ever ready to listen to our prayers, and it mainly depends on the attitude of the person.

Therefore, as all being, existence, and life revolves around a fixed orbit of regular, periodical changes, we are led to wonder around what everything revolves and what is the cause. Since He is the creator, it is natural to suppose that God's handiwork should center and be dependent upon Him.

We are all, or should be, one of the great brotherhood of Christ—of the great three in one—Christ, the Holy Spirit, and God. Christ being our High Priest, or conecting link with God.

But things do not naturally move in cycles; they are influenced by other forces on the outside, or within them. They have to be caused—by smaller cycles.

An example: We won't get out the "depression end" of this eternal cycle unless we get busy and get a move on us. Any man who is worth a job isn't without one of some kind, be it working in a bank, planting a garden, or doing odd jobs around his own home. Nothing much exists without some sort of activity.

What infinite, master mind is back of this complicated organization? God is back of it all.

CHARLES WOODY STONE.

Siler City, N. C.

SPURGEON'S STUDYING AND PREACHING

By Luther K. Long

Charles H. Spurgeon, the eminent English clergyman, spent three years in Cambridge, though he never entered the University, nor did he ever obtain a degree. At that time no Nonconformist could be a candidate for a degree from Cambridge University. He studied with a tutor who testified that his pupil would have taken a good place on the list had the way been open.

"I had, however, a better college course," writes Mr. Spurgeon, "for, when I first began to preach, this was my usual way of working:

"I was up in the morning early, praying and reading the Word. All the day I was either teaching my scholars or studying theology as much as I could; then, at five in the evening, I became a traveling preacher, and went into the villages around Cambridge to tell out what I had learned. My quiet meditation during the week helped me to digest what I had read, and the rehearsal of my lesson in public, by preaching it to the people, fixed it on my memory. I do not mean that I ever repeated a single sentence from memory, but I thought my reading over again while on my legs, and thus workd it into my very soul; and I can bear my testimony that I never learned so much, or learned it so thoroughly, as when I used to tell out, simply and earnestly, what I first received into my own mind and heart. I found that I derived greater benefit by proclaiming to others what I had learned than if I kept it all to myself."

This was, perhaps, the best course possible for young Spurgeon to pursue. The young preacher of today—especially if he is not thoroughly well educated—makes heavy demands on the patience of his audience. He is under several serious obligations to his hearers:

1. He should be as brief and concise as possible. One is not likely to make much of a preacher, unless he is considerable of a talker. But verbosity and volubility are terrible temptations to the glib talker who maynot have much to say.
2. He should speak, for the most part, of those things concerning which his information is sufficiently full and familiar to enable him to express his ideas without too much reference to his notes. For how can he expect his hearers to remember the substance of what he has to say, unless he himself can carry the same in his own mind?
3. He should avoid speaking, with any appearance of authority, on controversial subjects—such as evolution, the higher criticism, difficult problems of science, and systems of philosophy—subjects concerning which he can have no adequate knowledge. Time and thought and experience should qualify him for wise utterance later on.
4. He should thoroughly develop in himself the principle and habit of omitting from his sermons and addresses ideas and statements that he is not convinced are true. This would shorten many sermons. That is not a real objection to the plan. People value a speaker on whose statements they can rely, even though the discourse be brief.

Some men have done excellent service in the ministry without a college education. But they have been studious, have worked hard, and usually have been modest in their claims.

MY PHILOSOPHY

Better never cross your bridges
  Till your bridges come in view;
For you're sure to lose your labor
  Crossing bridges, if you do:
And the bridges or the ridges
  You are worrying about,
May be nothing but a cypher
  With the rim rubbed out.

Better never trouble trouble
  Until trouble troubles you;
For you're sure to lose your trouble
  Double-trouble if you do:
And the trouble—like a bubble—
  You are troubling about,
May be nothing but a cypher
  With the rim rubbed out.

Better never spread a scandal
  Till you know the story's true;
For you're sure to make your neighbors
  Needless trouble if you do:
And the matter of the chatter
  You are scattering about,
May be nothing but a cypher
  With the rim rubbed out.

—David Keppel, in Christian Advocate.

I HAVE FAITH

By Grenville Kleiser

I have faith that the inherent common sense of the American people will always prevail in any serious crisis.

I have faith that the organized brains of the American people will solve the country's difficult problems.

I have faith that the sense of justice of the American people will establish right relations between capital and labor, so that all will honorably fulfil their mutual obligations.

I have faith that the sense of honor of the American people will protect them against spurious schemes, shibboleths, and slogans.

I have faith that the inherent independence of the American people will always insure to this country freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and religious liberty.

I have faith that the persistence and thoroughness of the American people will ultimately rid this country of anarchists, infidels, traitors, mischief-makers, and law breakers of every kind.

I have faith that the Christian spirit of the American people will cause them to look more and more to God for guidance, to keep Christ enthroned as the standard of human perfection, and to labor diligently for universal peace and harmony.

Out of the turmoil of social and economic upheaval will come a better day for all classes of people, a clearer vision of life's possibilities, and still great opportunities for useful and unselfish service.

OVER THERE

No more weeping, no more dying,
No more sorrow, no more sighing,
No more care and anxious fretting,
All of this we'll be forgetting
Over There.

No more through a dark glass peering,
No more trouble to be fearing,
No more famine, no more sickness,
We shall know the Spirit's quickness
Over There.

No more straying, no more stumbling,
No more shame nor need of humbling,
No more in the darkness groping,
Heaven at last replaces hoping
Over There.

No more sermons to be preaching,
No more souls who've need of reaching,
No more trials, no misgiving,
We shall dwell among the living
Over There.

No more need of reprimandings,
No more small misunderstandings,
No more poverty nor owing,
Tell me friend—will you be going
Over There?

—C. S. Craigie.

THE ROAD TO HEAVEN

Pointed Out by Billy Sunday

The road to Heaven is not by the bathtub, or Harvard or Yale, but by Christ's Blood. The world today is trying to crucify the fundamentals of religion, and somebody has got to get the world back to its moorings.

The tendency in your day and mnie is to crucify the fundamentals of religion. Social service in its place, is a road to Jesus Christ, but somebody needs to cry like a watchman to call people back to the fundamentals. I believe in books, but I don't believe that they can take the place of faith. I believe in construction and instruction so long as they make people realize that they need also something else—the Lord.

The United States leads all other nations in crime. What we must do is to cleanse the heart. A dressed-up body covering a black heart is like a nice parlor with a pole-cat in it. The Gospel brings a man into the way of obeying the law, and the Gospel is a matter of civilization. The scholar says that the remedy lies in a universal system of education. Forget it! The remedy lies in a pure heart. I believe thoroughly in education, but that won't do the trick. It is the church's business to knock out sin and work for salvation, and when churches turn into amusement bureaus it is time for them to shut up. They call me illiterate and crude and vulgar, but I preach Jesus, and the crowd flocks to hear me while the man that is preaching Schopenhauer and Anhauser Busch talks his ethics to paint and varnish.

There is no substitute for the Gospel of salvation through Jesus Christ. The church that preaches only doctrines may be evangelical, but it is not evangelistic. An evangelical church is a church on ice; an evangelistic church is a church on fire. You might as well turn out the sun and light a tallow candle in the heavens, as to think that a man can be saved by any other method than by faith in Jesus Christ.—The Watchman-Examiner.

THE TALLY

It isn't the job we intend to do
Or the labor we've just begun,
That puts us right on the ledger sheet;
It's the work we have already done.

Our credit is built upon things we do,
Our debit on things we shirk,
The man who totals the biggest plus
Is the man that completes his work.

Good intentions do not pay bills;
It's easy enough to plan.
To wish is the play of an office boy;
To do is the job of a man.

—Richard Lord.

CAST YOUR BREAD UPON THE WATER

Stephen Grellet, a great mission preacher of his time, was directed by the Holy Spirit to take a long journey into the backwoods of America and preach to some woodcutters. He found only empty shanties, for the wood cutters had gone to another location. But he obeyed the Spirit, and, going into a large empty shanty, he got on his knees and prayed, and then got up and preached his message to what looked to him empty walls, and then left, feeling happy that he had obeyed the Lord.

The years passed and one day he was crossing London Bridge, when a man took hold of him and said, "Thank God, I have found you at last."

"Friend," said Stephen Grellet, "I think you are mistaken."

"But I am not," said the man. "Did you not preach one time in an empty lumber shanty in America?"

"Yes," said the good man, "but there was no one there to listen to me."

"Yes, there was," answered the stranger, "I was there. I was one of the woodcutters and had come back to get a lever when I heard a voice, and, creeping up, I saw you through a crack in the wall of the shanty. I heard you pray, and then read the Scripture and preach your sermon, and it put me under conviction and I crept silently away into the forest, and kneeling down gave my heart to God. I obtained a Bible and told the same blessed story to my men and several of them were converted. Three of them became missionaries. Since that time I have had a great desire to meet you. And, now that God has permitted us to meet, I want to tell you that your sermon preached in that empty shanty has been the means of the conversion of at least one thousand souls.—Unknown.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Mid-Year Meet, May 22nd, Calvary Church

10:30—Devotionals, by Dr. S. D. Gordon.

11:00—Reports:

Business management of the M. P. HERALD.

Board of Church Extension.

Treasurer of the Annual Conference.

Superintendent of the Children's Home.

Report of Women's Auxiliary for Conference from November to May 14th.

Report of Committee on Systematic Giving.

Report of the meeting of the Boards of Administration.

Reports of pastors. These reports should include net gain in membership and all churches which have paid any claim in full should be listed.

Exhibit A—This exhibit will show all churches and societies which have paid any claim in full or up-to-date and those which have secured their quotas of subuscriptions for the HERALD and the assessments for subsidy thereof.

Committee on Finding and Resolutions appointed.

Adjournment for lunch.

AFTERNOON SESSION

2:00 p.m.—Report of the Committee on Findings and Resolutions.

2:15—Address by Dr. W. A. Stansbury.

Special music.

2:50—Address by Dr. S. D. Gordon.

Adjournment.

We hope you will clip this program. Bring it with you as a guide for the day. Remember, the ladies of Calvary church will serve lunch at a moderate price; so all may remain at the church until the program is over, which will be at 3:30. Plan to remain to the end.

Those Group Meetings

We have speakers who are ready to aid me in putting on an all-day program at any church upon short notice. The subjects we have put on are Stewardship, Evangelism, Religion in the Home, the Women's Work, the Laymen's Fellowship and Duties of Church Officers, Loyalty to Denomination, etc. Those who help are making no charge for their services. We know that such a program will greatly help your church. If you can arrange a date for such a meeting, let me know at once. I have dates arranged for July; might take on a few in June, if they shall miss the Summer Conferences. Let me know at once if you want such a program, and let me know which subjects you think would help most, and we will do our best to have such topics discussed for your people.

"Our Pastor Makes Us Do Things"

The other day a church member made that remark to me. It came as part of an answer to my question as to how they liked him. The pastor was well liked because he set certain tasks for the people and kept after them until the tasks were performed. I am passing this on to other church members and pastors. There are some people in the church who do not want a task and will not perform it when it is given them. But there are also many who want to be told what to do and how to do it, and these will rejoice with you when the task is done. There are more failures where the tasks are not given than there are where they are given; and more people do not want to do things bcause they do not know how to do them, than there are who know how to do them but are unwilling to do them. Patient insistence after kindly telling them what to do will surely produce good results.

Love Joy Church, Rev. G. L. Reynolds, Pastor

I gave the day to this church. After Sunday school a Mother's Day service was held. I spoke on the subject to a large congregation. It is said that many could not get into the church. After the service we went to the graveyard, the graves having already been decorated with beautiful flowers, loved ones standing at the graves of some departed loved one or friend, while Brother J. H. Trollinger led the prayer. It was a simple, but impressive service.

In the afternoon the church was dedicated. The present building is brick and was erected a few years ago to replace the former one which was burned. It is an unusually good building for a rural church, has an auditorium which is easy to speak in, and four Sunday school class rooms in the rear.

Love Joy church still keeps its "tents" for camp meeting. These are wooden structures and have evidently been there for many years. There is also a large wooden arbor where srvices are often held during the revival meetings. It is large and has sufficient seats to accommodate a splendid congregation. This is one of our most substantial churches, and they appear to be doing well under their pastor. He has a large task, eight churches, and while he does not live on the charge, he gives a good deal of time to the work and is successful in interesting the people in the conference activities as well as in their local projects. He is expecting the churches on this charge to pay all annual conference claims in full. A bountiful dinner was served on the grounds, which afforded opportunity for friendly contacts and thus helped to fill up what may have been lacking in other particulars. We enjoyed both the privilege of speaking to these people and of renewing many friendships of former years.

Plan of Appointments

May 20—Dedication of Spring Hill church, 11 a.m.; Canaan at night.

May 22—Mid-Year Meet at Calvary church, 10:30; all-day program.

May 27—High Point College Commencement.

June 3—Concord 11 a.m.; Love Grove 3 p.m.; Midland at night.

June 10—Liberty Circuit; Shiloh 11 a.m., Hickory Grove afternoon, Liberty at night.

June 17—Chapel Hill church, opening new church; Lineberry, at night.

June 24—Seagrove church, opening new church, all-day program.

July 1—Greenville charge.

July 8—Spring church 11 a.m., Lebanon afternoon, Pleasant Hill at night.

July 15—Mebane 11 a.m., Union Grove afternoon, Efland at night.

R. M. Andrews.

HILLS TO CLIMB

There are hills to climb—why tarry then
To grope in the desert's sand?
Why let a mountain obstruct the view
You may have of the Promised Land?
To climb the hills is no easy task—
It will cost you toil and tears
But the view it gives and the blessings gained
Will repay you through the years.

Why sit and sigh, as with longing gaze
You look at the distant peak?
The Promised Land you will never see
Unless patiently you seek;
Then cast aside all your careless ease,
Gird yourself with faith and will,
Use the helpful staff of a living hope
As you climb the rugged hill.

No weakling ever can reach the top—
It takes strength and will power strong
To cross the desert and mount the slope
For the road is rough and long;
But he who climbs to the very peak,
Though it labor costs and time,
Will gain in wisdom and strength and joy—
Oh, Lord, give us hills to climb!

—Bertha Inwood Michael.

OPEN MY EYES

That I may see God! The Creator of our universe! The Provider of all our blessings! The Ruler of our world! The Giver of His Only Begotten Son! The loving Father of His children! The strength in time of trouble! The Desire of Christian living! The Joy of the faithful Christian!

That I may see others! See their utter helplessness in their own strength and wisdom! See their possibilities when brought to right relationship to God! See their desire to know more about God! See their willingness to be brought to God! See their need for Christian help and fellowship!

That I may see myself! How I need God! How God needs me! How I need other people! How other people need me! Open my eyes that I may truly see myself being obedient to the Heavenly Vision for me in faithful, loving Christian service among others for God.—The Watchman-Examiner.

THE END OF THE ROAD

I have almost reached the end of the road,
It is not far away;
It leads to a Home that is far above,
The Home of endless day.

I can almost see the end of the road,
Stretching away to the west;
Where the saints of God abide with Him,
In that Home of endless rest.

I have traveled this road for many a year,
My race is almost done;
And I long for the rest of my Heavenly Home,
At the end of the setting sun.

There my Savior waits, who died for me,
He who washed me white as snow;
My sins are gone, though the scars remain—
Mem'ries of death and woe.

Christ Jesus has carried my sins away,
He paid for them on the tree,
And God has accepted the sacrifice:
His Son, who died for me.

It almost seems that the Savior's hand
Is beckoning me away;
I shall rejoice to be Home with Him;
I care not here to stay.

I will patiently wait till the summons comes,
And then I'll no longer roam,
But, oh, I'll be glad to hear His voice,
Calling, "My child, come Home."

—Marian Kerr, in Faithful Words.

ENEMY ON OUR TRACK

When we were but small children we went with our mother one evening as she went to care for her turkeys which she kept in a field along the road. Upon reaching the field she found it necessary to take the turkeys to another place. It was inconvenient for us to go across, so we went home along the road while she attended to her duties.

Soon after we started home we saw something coming in the distance which we supposed to be a gypsy wagon. Now we had often been warned against "gypsies," for it was said they sometimes kidnapped little children. Therefore we became very much frightened, ran home and hid far back under the beds. We found a hiding place though our fears this time were groundless.

However, all of us have a real enemy constantly on our tracks. He is the enemy of our souls. He is very subtle and tries every possible means to tempt us to sin, to draw us into a snare and to snatch us away from our loving Heavenly Father. But there is an absoltely safe hiding place for all who will avail themselves of it. "Thou (God) art my hiding place" (Ps. 32:7). The enemy will never be able to lay hold upon us as long as we remain in Him.—Herald of Light.

OUR STORY PAGE

THE LITTLE PREACHER

The shortest sermon I ever heard was preached by the shortest preacher I ever saw, on a small steamer running between Toronto and the Island. Ever since the boat left the wharf I had been amused by hearing a clear, high-set voice asking questions, one after another, as fast as one little tongue could go.

A policeman took his place beside the little boy, who turned up his dear little face and said: "Are you a policeman?"

"Yes," answered the man, looking at him kindly.

"Why are you a policeman?" was the next question. The policeman gave a puzzled look, but took out the key of the patrol box and a pair of handcuffs, and told him they were to put on bad boys when he took them away.

"You won't take me away," said the little fellow bravely, looking him straight in the face.

"No, my boy, I won't take you; but to whom do you belong?" asked the big man still smiling at the mite.

"I belong to Jesus," said the child.

The big policeman got very red in the face, and rising very hurriedly, left his seat. I wil never forget that little preacher and his little sermon. God give us more preachers like this little hero. The sermon was only four words—I belong to Jesus." Can you say that and say the truth?—Publisher Unknown.

PASS IT ON

When the Rev. Mark Guy Pearse was about fourteen years old he went to London. He stayed in London long enough to spend all his money, excepting enough to pay his fare to his home in Cornwall.

He went by train to Bristol, and there took passage on a vessel. He thought that the passage money included his board, and therefore ordered his meals that day.

At the end of the journey a dapper little steward presented a bill for meals to the lad.

"I have no money," said the surprised boy.

"Then," replied the steward, "you should not have taken your meals at the table. What is your name?"

"Mark Guy Pearse."

The steward closed his book, took the boy by the hand, and said:

"I never thought I should live to see you. My mother was in great distress years ago. My father had died suddenly, and your father was very kind to my mother and me. I promised myself then that if I could ever do so, I would show like kindness to some one your father loved."

The grateful steward paid the boy's bill, gave him five shillings and sent him ashore in a boat rowed by five sailors.

Mark's father was waiting to receive his son.

"Father," said the boy, "it's a good thing to have a good father," and then the story of the steward's kindness was told.

"My lad," said Mr. Pearse, "it is long since I passed the kindness on to him in doing what I did. Now he has passed it on to you. As you grow up mind that you often pass it on to others."

Years afterward, when the boy had become a man, he was going by rail on a short journey, when he saw a boy crying bitterly.

On asking the cause of his brief, the boy replied that he had not enough money by four-pence to pay his fare to the town in which he lived.

Mr. Pearse at once bought the boy a ticket, and then related his own experience on the steamer years before.

"And now," he concluded, "I want you to be sure and pass this kindness on to others if you are ever able to do so."

As the train left the station the smiling boy waved his handkerchief and said:

"I will pass it on, sir; I will pass it on."

Good deeds, kind acts—pass them on. Pass them—three hundred and sixty-five days—full of human needs.—The Youth's Evangelist.

A HARD TUSSLE WITH A BIG PROGRAM

"Daddy, I've been thinking."

"Fine, Danny, that's good for you."

"But there are some things I don't understand, daddy."

"That's not strange, my boy. There are lots of things that none of us understand. What is worrying you now?"

"I can't understand about God."

"That's not surprising. Neither do I. There are lots of things about God that none of us can expect to understand. Anything in particular you are worried about?"

"Yes. God made the world and everything in it, didn't He, daddy?"

"That is what I believe."

"Then He must have made tobacco."

"Yes, I think He did."

"Well, God would not make anything bad, would He?"

"I do not believe that He would or did."

"Well, then, tobacco must be good."

"Yes, good for something."

"Well, if God made tobacco and it is good, why is it wrong to use it?"

"Do you know of any boy that ever used it?"

"Lots of them."

"Have they told you what it did to them the first time they used it?"

"It made them awfully sick. They thought they would die."

"Would that not show that it was not good for them?"

"It looks like it but I cannot understand about it."

"Do you have any idea why it made them sick?"

"No, I don't. Can you tell me?"

"What do we call things that are good to eat?"

"Food."

"What do we call things that make folks sick?"

"Poison."

"Which do you think tobacco is?"

"It must be poison."

"Is it a good thing to take poison?"

"No. So I see now why I better not use tobacco. Thank you, daddy. I never will use the poison stuff."—Publisher Unknown.

PRAYING IN HALF A ROOM

In a large boarding school two boys from different towns, and strangers to each other, were compelled by circumstances to occupy the same room together. It was the beginning of the term, and the two students spent the first day in arranging their room and getting acquainted. When night came, the younger of the two boys asked the other if he did not think it would be a good idea to close the day with a short reading from the Bible and a prayer. The request was modestly made without cant of any kind. The other boy, however, bluntly refused to listen to the proposal.

"Then you will have no objections if I pray by myself, I suppose?" said the younger. "It has been my custom, and I wish to keep it up."

"I don't want any praying in this room, and I won't have it!" retorted his companion.

The younger boy rose slowly; walking to the middle of the room, and standing upon a seam in the carpet which divided th eroom nearly equally, he said quickly:

"Half of this room is mine. You may choose which half you will have. I will take the other, and I will pray in that half or have another room. But pray I will ,whether you consent or refuse."

The older boy was instantly conquered. To this day he admires the sturdy independence which claimed as a right what he had boorishly denied as a privilege.—Presbyterian Record.

GOBBLEUTION!

"What's the idea?" I asked.

"Gobbleution!" said he.

"Don't be cryptic," I said. "Just what do you mean?"

"Mean? 'Gobble,' you know, means to swallow fast, and that's what we plan to do. One swoop and it's a scoop! Now we are only putty."

"Did you say 'Nutty'?" I asked quietly.

"No!" he almost screamed. "Putty! Sawdust! Scum! But we're going to change all that. 'Gobbleution' means that we're going to take everything we can get and keep it."

"But," said I, "others may later take away your possessions in the same way."

"Let them try it!" he exploded. "Let them try it—we'll show them! We'll fight for our property! Down with Capitalism!"

"Don't forget," said I, "that Capitalism has built our churches and cathedrals, founded hospitals and homes for the aged, make possible great industrial enterprises, employing millions of men. Capitalism has stimulated personal initiative, inventive genius, the pursuit of high ideals and generous public service. Without Capitalism this country would be chaos."

"I know—" he interrupted.

"There have been injustices," 'I continued, "and much remains to be changed and remedied, but on the whole Capitalism has done more for the people generally than any other form of government. Capitalism means organized brains, without which labor would be hopeless and unprofitable. Freedom of thought and action for the individual, consistent with the rights of others, promotes success and happiness. Personal initiative inspires men to advance and to achieve; the lack or denial of it deadens ambition and paralyzes action."

"Yes, but—" he interposed.

"Your plan," I said, "to confiscate the possessions of one set of men and give them to another set of men is doomed to failure. That is anti-Christian. I am in sympathy with the present yearning of the under dog for a larger share in the good things of life, but the employee must remember that he, too, has responsibilities to fulfil. Both employer and employee must learn that life without God is empty; that life, to be worth while, must be a better and bigger thing than self-seeking. All must rise above the low level of selfishness and seek God's guidance. This is the only way out of tangled and diappointed lives. Shallow self-seeking will not suffice."

"That sounds all very well," said he, "but we will overthrow the social law and order! We want what you have, and we're going to get it by hook or crook!"

"You will not succeed along that line," I said. "I agree that it is necessary for the public welfare to curb monopoly, and restrain rapacity and greed; but this does not invalidate the capitalistic-democratic theory of individual freedom in business within the legitimate range of individual effort."

GRENVILLE KLEISER.

CONSIDER

The Blood of Christ upon the tree
Has won a pardon full and free,
    I've made it mine;
The cleansing fountain flows today,
Its power is certain, no delay,
    Do not decline.
God's time of grace will soon be past,
This offer will not always last;
    O make it thine! —C. J. Hess.

TOBACCO

The boldness and crassness of the tobacco camponies in advertising their product seems to be without limit. Meanwhile the testimony of the church on the use of tobacco by believers seems to have been almost, if not entirely, silenced.

At a time when Satan has become particularly bold, the aggrssive and clear testimony of God's people is particularly needed. The Holy Spirit earnestly reminds the child of God, "Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost * * * therefore glorify God in your body." It does not take special intelligence to see that tobacco does not glorify God in the believer's body.

Billy Sunday was approached by an inquirer who asked, "Mr. Sunday, can a man be a Christian and use tobacco?" To which Mr. Sunday replied with characteristic bluntness, "Certainly he can be a Christian, but he'll be a nasty, dirty, stinking one."—Grace and Truth.

THE OLD-FASHIONED PREACHER

Old Parson Stubbs, he used to preach
At Tobin's school house on the beach;
A preacher of the olden brand,
With Scripture verses right at hand,
With half the Bible learned by note,
Right in his head where he could quote.

I am sure the bells of heaven rang
When he prayed and when he sang!
He raised a loud reproving din
Against old-fashioned breeds of sin.
He spake aloud—some say he raved—
About the need of "getting saved."

He held "revivals" now and then
Where women and grown up men
With tear streams coursing down the face,
Sought "pardon, purity and grace."
He thundered forth "the truth," "the Word,"
In tones that were distinctly heard.
He had one "message" meant for all,
'Twas—"seek redemption from the fall."

The parson died in ninety-three!
His last song was, "Abide with me,"
His last words were, "It is His way,
Good-by—I'm going Home today."

A man now preaches in his place,
Who scoffs the very word of "grace,"
He has A. M.'s and Ph. D.'s,
And other marks of high degrees.
He lectures on the planet Mars,
The glory of the moon and stars,
The beauty of the mountain range
And other topics vague and strange.
His lectures might be very good,
If they were only understood,
But they don't put a man on pins,
And make him sorry for his sins;
They never stir a wicked gent
Up to the point where he'll repent.
I wonder what this man will sing
When slipping off to meet "the King,"
And if like Parson Stubbs will say,
"Good-by, I'm going Home today."

—Herald of Light and Zion's Watchman.

THE UNSEEN GOD

"No man hath seen God." To this Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, for many years pastor in New York, says: "No man has seen gravitation, heat, electricity, or magnetism. No force is visible to the naked eye, and God is the supreme force of the universe. Why should we expect to see Him, when lesser forces are hidden from our eyes?"

But in Jesus, His life, His words, His teaching, and His personality, God became visible and real. "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father."—Copied, in Western Recorder.

MONKEY'S SHOES

They say we came from monkeys,
That's the only good solution.
Instead of God creating us
We came by evolution.

Just imagine for a minute
If it be within your power,
Us, being tiny plants and flowers
And living in a bower.

Then imagine being fishes,
And living in the sea.
Then, when the waters were rolled back,
On land we seemed to be.

Just think, a few poor fishes
Really lived on bone-dry land
And changed their water habits
So they could live on sand.

Somehow in this lengthy process
We got to be up on a par
With apes, orang-outangs, and monkeys,
But now we are just what we are.

You have heard the opinion of others,
Now listen to my point of view:
If God could create this great universe,
Why couldn't He create me and you?

He said we were created in His image,
Now exactly which do you choose?
Did your first parents walk in the garden
Or stand in a monkey's shoes?

—Ruth L. Peckham, in Defender.

WHAT ATHLETES SAY ABOUT THE CIGARETTE

The current campaign on the air offers an Aladdin's lamp to the young woman of the twentieth century. Does she want steadier nerves, a better singing voice, or a more perfect form? Cigarettes are falsely offered as the unfailing answer. Does the schoolboy want to play a better football game? Smoke more cigarettes, is the urge. Do you want to be a hero? Puff cigarettes continually. A cigarette in the mouth of every man, woman and child in the United States—that is the outrageous goal of this advertiser.

Knute Rockne, late athletic director of Notre Dame University, once stated that the makers of a well-known cigarette offered him $2,000 to sign a testimonial to the effect that his athletes always used their brand because it did not hurt their wind. Look at Charles Paddock, the world's fastest sprinter, does he dare to smoke? Could he have established his long string of world records if he had poisoned his system and weakened his heart with nicotine from the cigarette? Ty Cobb, who has retired as an outstanding leader in baseball, says: "Too much cannot be said against the evils of cigarette smoking. It stupefies the brain, saps vitality, undermines one's health, and lessens the moral fiber of the man."—S. S. Times.

North Carolina Annual Conference Leadership Training School

High Point College June 25-30, 1934

1934 Goal—200 Students

JUNE 25-30

This is the date of the Leadership Training School at High Point College this year. Please take note of this correct date. The date, July 25-30, which was listed in last week's Herald, was a mistake.

ARE YOU GOING THIS YEAR?

There is only about a month until time for the school. NOW is a good time to begin to include in your summer's schedule a week at this worthwhile school.

THE EVERYDAY USE AND ABUSE OF MONEY

C. E. Topic for May 27, 1934

The Program:

Call to Worship—The Doxology.

Invocation.

Hymn—"All hail the power of Jesus' name."

Scripture Lesson: Luke 19:12, 13, 16, 17; I Tim. 6:10; Matt. 6:19-33.

Hymn, "O Jesus, I Have Promised."

Leader's Talk, "Money: What It Is and How It Is Used."

Special Music, "Give of Your Best to the Master."

Talks, (1) "Why I Should Give to the Church;" (2) "How the Church Dollar is Spent in My Church."

Discussion Period.

Offertory.

Prayer.

Hymn, "We Give Thee But Thine Own."

Benediction.

For Daily Meditation:

Monday, May 21, Benevolence. Deut. 15:12-15.

Tuesday, May 22, Giving to God. Prov. 3:9.

Wednesday, May 23, Wealth Creates False Influence. Jas. 2:1-6.

Thursday, May 24, Unwise Display. I John 2:15-17.

Friday, May 25, The Hoarder. Luke 12:13-21.

Saturday, May 27, Selfish Use of Money. Luke 16:19-31.

Questions for Discussion:

1. If you make a list of the things that money can buy and another list of the things that money cannot buy, which will represent the greater value?
2. What is poverty? Is it necessary? What causes it? What are its most pitiful results?
3. What is thrift? What principles will make it worthwhile?
4. How may we get the most good out of the use of money?
5. Discuss the way in which you believe Christ would use money.

FROM BRO. LAUGHLIN

I have been thinking for some time that probably my brother preachers and friends would like to know how we are getting along, and it is sure bad. I have now passed the 79th mile-post on life's road. My health is very poor. My wife hasn't been able to do anything for eight months, and no hopes of her getting any better.

I am still marrying folks as they come; married at my home on March 31, 1934, Mr. George Saunders and Miss Martha Jennings, and on the same date, Mr. Robert Millikan and Miss Sarah Craven; on May 3, Mr. Franklin Allred and Miss Lucy Wright, of Cedar Falls, N. C.

We wish for them all a happy married life.

G. A. LAUGHLIN.

◆

CARD OF THANKS

We, the loved ones of Mrs. Catherine C. Massey, wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the many kind expressions of love and sympathy shown us during our recent bereavement, and for the many beautiful flowers sent as a last remembrance of one we held so dear.

HER CHILDREN.

◆

—Ruby Sharron, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sharron, of Palestine church, suffered a broken limb in a fall while playing in the home of a neighbor. She is confined to her home, compelled to be out of school during closing weeks of school. She attends the Summerfield school. She is getting along nicely.

AN INVITATION

Let them come—ministers, laymen, laywomen—to Calvary Church next Tuesday, May 22, to the Mid-Year Meeting sponsored by Dr. Andrews. The meeting opens at 10:30. During the noon hour the women will be prepared to serve 150 at 25 cents for a chicken dinner, dessert extra. This ought to be a great meeting; fine addresses, fine reports, and fine fellowship.

J. E. PRITCHARD, Pastor.

◆

—The daily press carried the information that Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, the pastor of Grace church, Greensboro, is to be married to Miss Elizabeth Shoenfelt, of Altoona, Pennsylvania, on June 29. The ceremony will take pace in the Reformed Church.

—In the death of Mrs. William N. Pegram, our First Church at Winston-Salem lost its oldest member and the Herald one of its original and continuous subscribers, she and her husband having taken the paper since it was started.

—Dr. George R. Brown, of Reidsville, was seen on the streets of Greensboro last week. The presumption is that he was attending the district meeting of the Rotary Clubs, which was in session here.

—Rev. J. L. Trollinger preached the commencement sermon at the Monticello High School a week ago.

—Rev. Joel B. Trogdon preached the commencement sermon for the Randleman High School last Sunday.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Enfield S. S.	$ 7.00
Mr. D. E. Olson, Lynbrook, N. Y.	1.00
Efland S. S., Orange	1.75
Mebane S. S.	6.40
Community Church, Thomasville	9.75
New Salem S. S., Randleman	2.07
Level Cross S. S., Randleman	1.27
Brown Summit S. S., Haw River	1.00
South China Grove S. S.	2.00
St. Paul S. S., Greensboro	6.00
Kannapolis S. S.	12.00
Friendship Station	6.55
Mt. Lebanon S. S., Randleman	5.70
Whitakers Chapel S. S., Enfield	2.25
Lincolnton S. S.	12.00
Concord S. S.	20.00
Pine Bluff, Midland	2.00
State Street S. S.	3.75
First Church S. S., Winston-Salem	8.28
New Hope, Vance	2.00
Calvary S. S. (duplicate for April)	12.00
Corinth Littleton	1.00
Grace Church S. S.	9.00
Vickery's, Guilford	1.00
Concord, Saxapahaw	1.60
Pleasant Hill S. S., Spring Church	1.06
Creswell S. S., Creswell	10.00
Worthville S. S., Randleman	4.50
West End S. S., Thomasvile	9.16
Zion, Liberty	.50
Philathea Class, Gibsonville, May and back payment, feeding child	10.00
First Church S. S., Lexington	4.45
Mt. Hermon S. S., Mt. Hermon	2.43
Kistlers, Cleveland	3.50
Tabernacle, West Forsyth	2.00
Welch Memorial S. S.	6.56
The McCulloch class, Grace Church, shoes for child	2.00
Mitchell's Grove S. S., Guilford	2.70
A Friend, to clothes one boy	7.50
Stony Knoll S. S., West Forsyth	1.79
Denton S. S.	5.00
Whitakers S. S.	15.20
Elbaville church and S. S., Mocksville	2.90
Baraca Class, Gibsonville, clothing boy	10.00
First Church S. S., Burlington	25.47

Clothing and Other Gifts

The McCulloch Class, Grace Church, a box of beautiful clothing for their little girl, with cash $2.00 for shoes.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hoover, High Point, a bundle of magazines.

J. L. Trollinger, Jr., Brown Summit, a bundle of magazines for high school students.

Bethesda, State Street, eight cakes for school lunches.

New Hope, Why Not, 17 cakes for school lunches.

We are thankful for all these gifts of money and substance. Today is the last day for packing school lunches for this school year. We will now have a vacation of a bit over three months. We are grateful to all who have so kindly helped us with this work.

Clothing for Boys

This must be bought and paid for. What man or men's organization will take a boy? A good friend is reported above. We have 220 churches. Surely, 48 men can be found

(Continued on Page Sixteen)

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Albemarle.—There has been much sickness in our church and community, and this has caused a decrease in our attendance in our services. Little Johnny Lou and Faye Anderson, daughters of Pastor and Mrs. Anderson, have been real sick for the past several weeks and much concern was felt for their recovery, but their condition is very favorable at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Burleson, who have been sick for the past month, are slowly recovering.

Mr. Allen Wagoner underwent an operation in the Stanley General Hospital for appendicitis on last Saturday. He is getting along nicely.

Our pastor preached two inspiring sermons Sunday, April 29, and this marks the end of the special campaign for membership which has been held in all the churches in our town during March and April.

The Heinz Food Products Co. gave a supper in the basement of our church on Friday night, April 27. The entire supper was furnished and served from Heinz foods and was sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary. The proceeds amounted to $66.00.

Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson have moved back to Albemarle from Charlotte and we are glad to have them back in our church. They are building a new home on the Charlotte higway. Mr. Johnson has accepted a position with the F. and M. Coffee Co.

* * *

First Church, Charotte.—Mother's Day will be observed with an appropriate sermon by the pastor, honoring both mothers and fathers, at the morning service.

On Sunday evening at 8 o'clock the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society will present a special Mother's Day program. Miss Rachel Tadlock will be the leader. Miss Mary Shaw will sing "My Mother's Bible." Cecil Hollifield will sing "The Eastern Gate" as a tribute to mothers who have gone to their reward.

Ref. Edward M. Graham will speak on "Qualities That Make Good Mothers." Every Christian Endeavorer is expected to bring his or her mother to the service. Those whose mothers have gone to their rewards are asked to bring some elderly person to this service.

The Younf Men's Baraca Class had a record-breaking attendance of 52 present on Sunday morning and $4.16 offering. This class has outgrown their class room and meets in the church auditorium. R. S. Garmou is the capable and efficient teacher and Herbert Garmon is president of the class. The class will hold the regular monthly business meeting at the church on Thursday evening.

The Workers' Council of the church school will meet on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. M. D. Frink, superintendent, urges every officer and teacher to attend.

Circle No. 1 of the Woman's Auxiliary will meet on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 at the home of Mrs. Herbert Garrison on Kentucky Avenue. Mrs. C. H. Dewese is chairman of this Circle.

The Business Women's Circle, Mrs. C. S. Wommack, chairman, will meet with Mrs. Marion Trapp on Pecan Avenue on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

We are glad to welcome Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Hinson and Mrs. J. C. Montgomery into our membership.

Mrs. W. H. Scarboror, who has been quite ill, is improving, we are glad to note.

Mrs. Calvin Beatty has been confined to her bed as the result of a fall sustained recently. We hope that she will soon recover.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor Society is building a splendid library, using the "package a month" plan, presented by the International Society of Christian Endeavor. Other books will be added from time to time.

* * *

New Hope.—We had a revival; the Spirit had right-away; mother and father were filled and how they praised the Lord for joy. All were wonderfully blessed. You know what a shower means to our green when it gets withered, and to the land when it is dry and dusty. That was the same to our thirsty hearts.

The Ladies' Aid will meet May 18 at the home of Mrs. Mary Aycoth. We have $20.75 in the treasury. We had an interesting program. Mrs. Rose Doster, from Monroe, was with us.

We are mighty sorry Mrs. Henderson is sick and had to go to the hospital. We have missed her so much in our Society and on each preaching Sunday.

We had good services Sunday night. Pastor Henderson preached on the return of the prodigal son, and told the people how they would have to clean up and leave it all behind when they came back to Christ. He warned us to do as the prodigal son did: go home to Father, where there is plenty, and peace and happiness for our weary souls. This is a wonderful lesson to the back-slider—that the Lord is glad to welcome us home again.

FAYE AYCOTH, Reporter.

* * *

First Church, High Point.—In the May meeting of the Board of Stewards of the First Methodist Protestant church, High Point, held Monday evening, May 7th, a service of appreciation in memory the late Richard H. Shaw. This impressive and unique service was arranged by the chairman of the board, Mr. A. J. Koonce.

The chairman recalled his own long years of service with Mr. Shaw in many of the positions of leadership in the church, and urged the necessity of the mantle of such a loyal servant of Christ and the church falling on other shouders. Both in the church and in various capacities in the city, such as in the Citp Union of Christian Endeavor, was it the privilege of the speaker to learn deep values of character and service which would always be remembered with gratitude.

Others spoke briefly in sympathetic gratitude. Mr. J. H. Everhart related the event of Mr. Shaw's asking him to teach a class of boys in the old church as he was assuming another place of responsibility. Hesitatingly, but with the assurance of Mr. Shaw that it would be a joy as well as an opportunity and responsibility, the task was accepted. Until his release from the church militant the character and religious zeal of Mr. Shaw grew in the estimation of his friends.

The superintendent of the Sunday school, Mr. J. H. Jennings, spoke appreciatively of contacts made with him by Mr. Shaw and which resulted in his decision for Christ and the church. In business, social and religious ways, the sterling values of a devoted life made its impression upon one who had not given any serious attention to the church and helped change the trend of his life.

The minister of the church, Rev. R. I. Farmer, in a few closing remarks, made reference to the steadfast loyalty and co-operation of this member of the church who has been promoted to the Church Triumphant. He stated that "To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die." The fact of Mr. Shaw's mantle already having fallen upon the present chairman of the board of stewards and the superintendent of the Sunday school, both of which positions he held with credit, evidences that he both did his work well and prepared others to take his place in service. As workers fall out of the ranks, it is a blessed church in which others are ready to take their places. A short season was spent in prayer.

Mr. Rupert T. Pickens, Jr., referred to his appreciation of the life and services of the deceased and to the appropriateness of such a service of memory; he presented a motion, which was adopted, that a record of this service be placed with the records of the board of stewards, the quarterly conference, and that the same be given to the family, to whom goes our deepest sympathy, and submitted to our church papers.

MYRTLE DAVIS, Church Sec'y.

* * *

Shiloh.—Perhaps the people of Shiloh are wondering what has happened to their reporter. Well, there has nothing happened to her except she has almost more work to do than she is able to do. Although we are moving on very well with our church work. Since our last report we have had several inspiring sermons delivered by our pastor, Mr. Ridge. But I will not try to report on either of them this time. Our Sunday school is still growing in number and in the spirit.

The C. E. Society has had several very interesting meetings, and an Sunday evening, April 29, the society met at the church in a group and went to visit the league at Center Church, Welcome. This meeting was much enjoyed. The program consisted of several talks by professors from the county schools. They spoke on subjects concerning the youth of today.

On Sunday evening, May 13th, the church observed Mother's Day. This service was greatly enjoyed by all present.

Next Sunday, May 20, Shiloh will have its home-coming and memorial day combined, as usual. There has been a very interesting program planned for the day, and everyone is invited to come and enjoy the day together. All those who have loved ones and friends buried in the cemetery are asked to place at least a bunch of flowers on the grave and the flower committee will greatly appreciate this.

Our church has been saddened greatly, first, by the death of Mr. Joe Barley, who on April 13 passed from this life into eternity. He professed faith in Christ and joint the church while yet a youngman, and remained a loyal Christian and church member until death. He honored God in his life, and maintained a Christian attitude toward his fellowman. Mr.

Barley was called from this life without very much warning, as he was sick only a few hours. But we feel that he had realized his stay here was only to prepare for another life hereafter; therefore, he had used each day of his life towards making preparations for the setting sun. When the evening came and his day was finished he was then prepared to go meet the Great Judge.

Mr. Barley leaves to mourn his going a wife, one daughter, one son, and one brother, with a number of relatives and friends.

On May 7th, Raiford Waitman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Waitman, was killed in an automobile accident as he was en route to the schoolhouse to receive his high school diploma.

On the following Sunday, May 13, Mrs. Japhine Mosley was laid to rest in the Shiloh cemetery. An account of these two deaths will appear later.

MRS. RAYMOND FRITTS, Reporter.

Enfield.—We are glad to report the epidemic of measles and mumps is almost over and the attendance at Sunday school and church is getting better. Rev. E. O. Peeler preached a wonderful sermon last Sunday on "Judge not that ye be not judged."

A number from our church attended the First District rally, held at Weaver's Chapel, and report a splendid day. The attendance and program was unusually good.

The Woman's Auxiliary met at the hut April 23 with Mrs. Lloyd Matthews, Mrs. Walter Moon and Mrs. Stanley Whitaker as joint hostesses. We had a very good meeting and the delegates to Branch Meeting gave their reports. A mission study cass has been organized and met for the first meeting Monday night, April 30th. Although the attendance was very small, the interest of those present was so great that we are expecting a live organization before the summer is over.

The Auxiliary will serve a supper to the Merchants' Association next Monday night at the hut. We expect to help our treasury a great deal.

Rev. and Mrs. E. O. Peeler spent last Friday and Saturday at High Point College and report a splendid meetting.

Our Auxiliary sent cakes to the Children's Home by them.

With best wishes to the Herald and its readers. REPORTER.

Graham.—We honored our mothers last Sunday morning with a special Mother's Day service. Special efforts were made to bring all of our mothers to church and the response was very gratifying, the church being almost filled. We used old, favorite hymns of our mothers for the service. An anthem, "Mother of Mine," was sung by the choir. Our pastor's sermon was on "Mother's Memorial." We were glad to have a number of visitors from other churches in Graham and from out of town.

There was no evening service Sunday because of special revival services at the Providence Christian church and the baccalaureate sermon at the Graham school.

Our Sunday school attendance last Sunday was the highest it has been this year. We had 151 present, with 106 on time.

We have seven members of our Sunday school among the high school graduates this year: Helen Clark, Ruby Garner, Edith Rogers, Garland Love, William Schoffner, and Howard Ezelle, at Graham High School, and Price Dixon at Haw River High School. We are proud of these girls and boys and are hoping that they may all continue their education.

The L. T. S. Club met last Tuesday night and elected the following officers: Emma Foushee, president; Margaret Owens, vice-president; Laura Jane Neese, secretary-treasurer. The club now has 12 members. The next meeting will be on Friday night, May 18, at the home of Hazel Amick.

At the second quarterly conference, Mrs. S. S. Holt and Mr. John L. Amick were nominated for delegatet to the next Annual Conference.

Our Children's Day program is being planned. It will be given the second Sunday in June.

Mrs. Lee Fuller, who has recently been in the hospital in Greensboro, has returned to her home and is getting along nicely. Mrs. A L. Lewis, who has been sick for some time, is also improving. REPORTER.

Bethel Church, Mocksville Circuit.—The second quarterly conference was held at the parsonage on April 21st with a small number of the official members. The nominees for deegate to Annual Conference were chosen—J. W. Cartner and Bea Bailey. The attendance has been real good considering the sickness and bad roads this spring. Our Sunday school is in good shape. We collected $10.00 on the campaign for the Children's Home to raise the amount the churches were asked to raise. The Ladies' Aid is busy fixing their packages for their Thanksgiving box this fall. We are also getting our money together to paint the church some work has been done on the yard.

Our Sunday school superintendent had a serious operation, but was doing very nicely until recently; he has has been right sick few the past few days.

Our pastor has been real busy, visiting the sick and filling his appointment.

REPORTER.

Canaan, North Davidson.—It's been quite a few weeks since a report from this place, however, we are having some things of interest being worked at. The people get busy in early spring, and this year they topped a number of shade trees on the church and parsonage lots. Also, the parsonage lawn is looking very pretty at this time, having been worked up and sown in gross seed a few months ago; also a few months ago a new fence on the line between this lot and the close neighbor has been placed. Altogether, things are looking much improved.

Bro. Grant has worked faithfully to see this task finished, and being successful in doing so is enjoying it a great deal, as he has a very pretty location in which to live.

Since my last report the second quarterly conference has been held at Canaan church, with the regular routine of business being transacted.

We are sorry to report that another of our oldest members is critically ill. Bro. Luke Weavil, better known as "Uncle Luke." He suffered a stroke of paralysis a week ago and at this time can hardly recognize anyone. We are grieved with the family and pray that he may be in his place soon again.

A community song service was held at our place on last Sunday night sponsored by the Ladies' Aid Society of our church. While the singers did not number very many for some reason the audience was entertained by some good numbers.

Our May meeting was held at the home of Mrs. A. L. Berrier, with 13 present and three visitors. A short program was given, readings and songs carrying our minds back to mother.

Our Sunday school is moving on as usual.

The reporter having read the chart last Sunday notiped six scholars more than last year at this time. We should not be content with this number at least unless the people that are in reach of Sunday school were there. We have a number still out that we would be happy to have in our number that now we are not able to count.

On last Sunday we decided to have a Children's Day program in the near future, which we think a good plan. The little folks must be kept busy and they are faithful little workers. Oh that the grown-ups woud respond to the call as quickly as the children!

On next Sunday night our regular preaching service. Dr. Andrews will fill Pastor Grant's place. We always look forward to his coming with pleasure.

MRS. B. E. WEAVIL, Reporter.

Rehoboth, Creswell Circuit.—I was unable to sit long enough to write a report in April. I am thankful to be able to do so this month. I did not attend services Sunday, it being the first Mother's Day service I've missed in all the years I've lived here. Those of my household that did attend said the services were very impressive. Bro. Bingham's sermon was excellent, after which holy communion was celebrated. We are looking forward with pleasure to have the special service Dr. Andrews wrote Bro. Bingham about. I do hope all will be well, and it will be a great spiritual awakening in our chmurch and community.

Bro. William Wiley died last Monday, May 7th. He had been in failing health some time, but his interest in the church and Sunday school never wavered; as long as he was able he was always found in church on Sunday, and active in its interest.

Mrs. L. L. Everett, of Norfolk, is visiting her brother and family, C. V. White.

The weather is beautiful now; the season is very late on account of the extreme cold weather. REPORTER.

Tabernacle-Julian.—Mother's Day programs were observed at both Tabernacle and Julian churches. At the morning hour the service was observed at Tabernacle. Special music was rendered and the pastor preached, using the subject, "Mothers At Pentecost." Floral designs were given to the oldest and youngest mothers present. Mrs. Emaline Whiteley, 81 years young, received one, and Mrs. Royal, 21 years old, received the other. At night the service was observed at Julian. Special music was also rendered here and they also said it with flowers. Flowers to the oldest mother were given to Mrs. G. A. Garrett, who is 75 years young, while Mrs. Culler, who is 23, received the one for the youngest mother present. Rev. J. W. Braxton, pastor of Mt. Pleasant charge, had been invited to bring us the message of the hour, and did so in an excellent manner. We thank you, Brother Braxton. Come again. We were also glad to have Mrs. Braxton with us, and when Bro. Braxton comes again we shall expect Mrs. Braxton also.

We are now looking forward to next Sunday when Memorial and Home-Coming services are to be observed at Tabernacle. This has been an annual event here for a number of years. The people look forward to it and large numbers are always expected to be present. There will be an all-day service. Bro. T. F. McCulloch will preach in the morning and Bro. Pritchard will bring the message in the afternoon. All the many friends of Tabernacle are invited to spend the day with us and former pastors and ministers who have gone out from this church are specially invited. GEO. L. CURRY.

First Church, Lexington.—The annual Mother's Day and Home-Coming services were held at First Church Sunday. Mr. John Hayes, a former member, but now of Thomasville, delivered the Mother's Day address at the 11 o'clock service. Mr. Wall, also of Thomasville, gave a very beautiful reading entitled, "Mother and Home." Special music was furnished by the Freeman quartet.

In the afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock the Home-Coming service was held. Bro. C. L. Grant, of North Davidson Charge, gave a most helpful address on "Jesus' Power in the Home." His text was "I must abide in thine house." Mr. George Berrier, a former member and Mr. Lee Berrier, of Thomasville, also made short talks. The Canaan chorus was present and furnished special music for this service.

Mr. Hayes was present and conducted the evening worship service. His subject was "Doing the Best We Know How to Do With What We Have for Jesus."

Christian Endeavor meets Sunday evening at 6:30, as usual time, with good attendance. Mrs. C. M. Isley had charge of a very impressive Mother's Day program. A tribute to living mothers was given by Margaret Lea Swink. To the mothers in the spirit land, by Juanita Easter. Mother's Day poems were ready by Lola Mae McCulloch and Ernest Hamilton.

MARGARET LEA SWINK, Reporter.

Shiloh C. E. Society, Shiloh Charge.—Our C. E. Society continues to hold its regular weekly meetings each Sunday night at eight o'clock.

Last Sunday night, May 13, being Mother's Day, we prepared a program and invited our mothers as honor guests. The program was very impressive and well rendered. The program was given as follows: Songs, "Faith of Our Mothers," and "Mother's Prayers Have Followed Me;" Scripture by Miss Grace Evans. prayer, Mr. Ray Leatherman; leader's talk, Miss Mary Edith McMahon; "Memories of a Mother," Mr. Floyd Leonard; song, "If I Could Hear My Mother Pray Again;" "Memories of a Father," Mr. Frank Shoaf; song, "Don't You Love Your Daddy, Too?" by a male quartet; "Qualities of a Good Mother," Miss Blanche Sing; trio, "Old-Fashioned Cabin," Berrier sisters; "How May We Pay Tribute to Our Mothers While They Live?" Miss Lessie Lanning; "Mother," Miss Alma Koonts; solo, "A Boy's Best Friend Is His Mother," Rev. C. E. Ridge; "The White Carnation," Mrs. Willie Kepley; solo, "Tell Mother I'll Be There," Mr. Floyd Leonard; "Spelling M O T H E R," by a group of children; trio, "Shake Hands With Mother Again," Berrier sisters; remarks and announcements by the pastor, Rev. C. E. Ridge.

We are sure that everyone present thoroughly enjoyed the occasion by the splendid attention that was given each speaker. We want to express our thanks to those who so heartily co-operated in carrying out the program, and also we wish to thank Mrs. Raymond Fritts, who prepared the program, and Miss Mabel Berrier, who managed the musical part.

In the midst of life there is death. In the midst of joy there is sorrow. A cloud of sorrow has swept over our community and our church. On last Monday evening, May 7, one of our members, Mr. Raiford Waitman, went from this life to enjoy the happiness of a fuller life in that eternal beyond where there will be no more sorrow. Railford was on the way to his class day exercises and would have received his diploma from Reed High School in about an hour when his father's car was wrecked. He was carried to the Davidson Hospital where he expired shortly after arriving. Raeford was the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Waitman. He leaves to mourn his going his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Waitman, one sister, Julia, and two brothers, Frank and Joe; his aged grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Obadiah Waitman, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tussey, besides a host of friends and relatives. He has left a vacant place that can never be filled in his home, in the Sunday school, in the C. E. Society, and in our hearts. Our sympathy goes out to his parents and friends. Raiford was loved by all who knew him. Even though we mourn his going at the early age of nineteen and one half years, we hope to meet him where there is no sorrow.

BLANCHE SINK, C. E. Reporter.

Denton Charge.—On the first Sunday in May we were delighted to have Dr. S. W. Taylor come to us as pulpit help for our revival meeting. He brought us two splendid messages each day—one at the morning service and one at the evening service. There was much interest manifested through the entire series of srvics and especially large attendance for the evening services. The church was greatly revived and there were 26 conversions and reclamations. We were glad to have with us for special music at different times during the week the Cornell quartette from Thomasville, the Bulla quartet from Asheboro, and the Chisholm sisters, from Thomasville. Each brought us splendid messages in song.

Mother's Day was observed at the Sunday school at Denton church Sunday, May 13th. A special program was presented by the Junior Philathea class, which is taught by Mrs. Moses Sexton. One hundred and seventy-five were present. The oldest mother present, Mrs. Tucker, was given a box of candy, and the second oldest, Mrs. Elliott, was remembered with a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Mrs. Tucker is 87 years old, and Mrs. Elliott is 81. At 6:45 the Junior Christian Endeavor gave a special program centered around the thought of our mothers. The Senior C. E. was invited for this special program.

Two weeks ago revival services were held at Cid with a splendid spirit of fellowship existing. The church seemed to be greatly revived and the Sunday following the largest congregation was present for service that has been present since I have been on this work. On next Saturday, May 19th, at 3 p. m., the second quarterly conference of this charge is to be held at Cid church.

We were delighted to find at Canaan and Piney Grove an increased attendance in the congregations. This was particularly true of Piney Grove. These two churches are doing splendid work, and we feel sure that they are going to continue to do so.

On the first Sunday in June the annual Home-Coming day will be observed at Mount Ebal church. Everyone is cordially invited to come. The program has not been completed, but there will be given a history of the church and some very interesting speakers will be present for morning and afternoon services. J. T. BOWMAN.

Gideon's Grove, Flat Rock Charge. — The Young People's Mission Band of our church held their regular monthly meeting at the parsonage last Saturday afternoon at three o'clock, with Mildred and Louise Way as hostesses. An interesting program was rendered, which had been prepared by the program committee. At the conclusion of the program, refreshments were served. Games were played on the lawn.

This was the second meeting of our Mission Band, and I am very proud of the attendance and interest shown by our children. They are a nice group of young people to work with. We hope to accomplish much good work during the year. We are proud of our membership. We have 32 on roll, and 29 were present for the last meeting. We were glad to have with us two visitors.

MRS. C. B. WAY.

Caroleen.—The annual Memorial Day will be held the third Sunday af this month.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday afternoon, May 14, at the home of Mrs. H. C. Ward. The subject for the meeting will be "Love's Share in Building a New World."

We are glad to report that things are picking up. Our Sunday school is growing in interest. The average attendance is around 100. The young girls' class has an enrollment of 56. We have a fine group of boys and girls as one would find anywhere.

Mrs. Yarborough, one of the ladies of our community, gave nine scarfs to the church to be sold, which amounted to $2.25. This went to help paint the church.

MILDRED TATE.

Stallings, Mecklenburg Charge.—Sunday school was conducted at the usual hour, with a good attendance. Our Sunday school is improving with a large attendance. Bro. Henderson preached our Mother's Day sermon yesterday. He chose his text from the 19th chapter of St. John. He preached a soul-stirring sermon, and we felt the presence of God with us. Our pastor always brings us a good message.

Our Christian Endeavor meets every Sunday night with a large attendance, and they seem to take a great interest in it.

The Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. Jesse Hartis, May 3. Most all our members were present with one new member and several visitors. Each member of our society read a few verses from the ninth chapter of Saint Matthew, and the president, Mrs. Stallings, made a talk on the Scripture. Mrs. Jesse Hartis also made an interesting talk on the reading. Mrs. P. D. Dryer led in prayer, and then we went into the discussion of our business. After the business was attended to, Mrs. Hartis admitted us into the dining room where the table was filled with delicious refreshments. We meet with Mrs. Everette Furr the first Thursday in June.

Mrs. Henderson has returned home from the Presbyterian Hospital in Charlotte, where she underwent an operation, and she is improving rapidly.

Mr. M. L. Stallings was able to be out at church yesterday. He is improving very slowly and he asks all the Christian people to pray that he will regain his health soon.

Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Love and children, from Connelly Springs, spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Stallings Saturday, April 28. We welcome you good people to come back again.

We ask that all Christian readers pray for us.

MRS. M. L. STALLINGS, Reporter.

Union Chapel, Granville Circuit.—Mr. Spencer brought a most inspiring Mother's Day sermon Sunday, using as the Scripture the second chapter of Paul's letter to Titus, and the text from Exodus 20:12, "Honor thy father and thy mother." Two special musical numbers added to the sacredness of the services. The collection taken went to the Annual Conference budget.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Edwards presented their infant son to be baptised.

Plans were made and a committee apppointed to get up a Children's Day program to be given in June.

The Fifth Sunday Rally, given at our church, was quite a success, both in the splendid crowd and excellent programs the visiting churches brought.

On Friday night the Mission Band will give a tacky party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E C. Huff for the benefit of the budget.

We feel very grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Otha Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Stewart for the use of a piano in our church. This makes it possible to have access to either the piano or the organ, which the church owns.

MRS. E. C. HUFF, Reporter.

Flat Rock Charge.—We had a good service at Gideon's Grove church last Sunday. Special recognition was given to "Mother's Day," with special music, a poem and the sermon on the subject, "Honoring Our Mothers." We were pleased with a number of visitors at the service. Among the visitors from a distance were: Raymond Lemmons, of High Point; Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Long, their daughter, Miss Queen Long, a son, Jack Long, Miss Iola North, and Miss Edith Doub, all of near East Bend, in Yadkin county. These people are members of Baltimore church, on West Forsyth charge, and the writer considers it a compliment for members of a former charge to visit his preaching services. The pastor and family were pleased to have the Yadkin county people as guests for dinner. We hope they will come again.

Mrs. Hassel Angel, who has been in Wesley Long Hospital, at Greensboro, for several days, is reported recovering nicely from an operation, and is expected to return to her home this week.

Mrs. Herbert Wilson, who returned from St. Leo's Hospital at Greensboro about two weeks ago, has been recovering nicely from an operation.

Our appointments for next Sunday will be at Palestine church at 11 a. m., and at Bethel church at 3 p. m.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Midway, Haw River Circuit.—Our pastor has filled all his appointments since our last report with good and helpful sermons. On Easter Sunday morning we had an Easter program, which was enjoyed very much. The children did their parts well, much credit being due to Mrs. Joyner Lemons and Miss Christine Johnson. The collection was good.

Last Sunday morning a beautiful program was given in honor of Mother, after which Bro. Trollinger gave a talk in memory of Mother. This was a very sweet service.

Our Sunday school and other organizations of the church are moving along nicely.

The revival will begin the third Sunday night in June with Dr. J. D. Williams as help.

Pray for us.

MRS. G. W. APPLE, Reporter.

Community Church.—In memory of mother, Community church observed the day set aside for her with several appropriate readings and musical numbers.

At the Sunday school service Miss Alma Smith, of Raleigh, a guest of Mrs. Jake Sechrest, gave a very significant reading, and Bob Cranford, of the local church, also gave a reading.

At the morning worship service the choir gave two very fitting numbers. Miss Rena Clodfelter very effectively sang "Mother McCrea," and the choir sang "My Mother's Song," with Norris Perry singing the incidental solo. The pastor's address, "Behold Thy Mother," was taken from John 19:27 and was most impressive and interesting.

The union meeting was held at the Main Street school building on Sunday evening, May 13, at 7:45, at which time Rev. W. A. Lambeth, pastor of Wesley Memorial church, High Point, delivered the baccalaureate sermon.

The Layman's Fellowship held its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday evening, May 2, at the church. Mr. Sam Tucker, of High Point, who has just returned from a trip abroad, gave a most interesting lecture and showed pictures of the Holy Land. At this meeting the church's proportion for the Superannuate fund was raised, an item which we know will be of interest not only to laymen, but also to the Woman's Auxiliary, who have so faithfully worked toward this end.

The various Circles of the Woman's Auxiliary met on Monday afternoon, May 14. Circle No. 1, with Mrs. Virgil Ward, chairman, met at the home of Mrs. J. E. Clodfelter; Circle No. 2, with Mrs. H. F. Surratt, chairman, met at the home of Mrs. T. G. Perry.

The Young Ladies' Circle met at the home of Mrs. Virgil Ward on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The board of stewards held its regular monthly meeting on Monday evening, May 7, and we are happy to report that the finances are well at hand. Eighty-one percent of Annual Conference Budgets are paid and 54 per cent of World Service budget is paid.

We want to impress upon the minds of our members the evangelistic meeting which will begin the 23rd of this month. Dr. J. D. Williams, of High Point, will be the speaker, and we do hope for a good attendance at the meeting.

We also call attention to the prayer services being held at three of our homes on Wednesday evening of this week. At the home of Mrs. J. N. Myers, Rev. H. F. Surratt will conduct the meeting; at the home of Mrs. A. M. White, Mrs. J. W. Boyles will be in charge; and at the home of Mrs. J. E. Clodfelter, C. L. Berrier will have charge.

Members of Community Church offer our congratulations to J. W. Boyles, who has recently been made president of the Rotary Club. To Miss Imogene Boyles, who was crowned May Queen of Greensboro College, and to Miss Isabel Boyles, her maid of honor. Also to Miss Nell Myers, who graduates from Thomasville High School this year.

We extend our sympathy to three of our members: Mrs. Blair, Mrs. Pearce and to Miss Clara Moore, in the loss of their father, Add Moore, aged 53.

ODESSA MYERS, Reporter.

Shady Grove, Connelly Springs Charge.—Our church work is doing very well. We were glad to have Rev. G. B. Tomlinson preach for us yesterday. He delivered a very appropriate message for Mother's Day. Two special songs were sung. I think everybody enjoyed the service.

Our pastor delivered a fine sermon last night with a large congregation present.

The Ladies' Aid Society finished the quilt which has 300 names on it. It is made of red, white and blue. The Society will give an ice cream supper Saturday, May 19th, at the home of Mr. Southerland, near Connelly Springs, and the quilt will be sold.

Our prayer meetings are still good. We had the largest number present last Wednesday night that there has been in a long time. Bro. Lynch will have charge next Wednesday night.

RUTH AIKEN, Reporter.

Hawkins Chapel, Littleton Charge.—We are sorry to report that our pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, has been very ill with flu. It was not so he could be with us the first Sunday night. Mr. Langster brought to us a very inspiring message about the Rich Young Ruler. Our pastor was able to fill his appointment Sunday morning. He brought us a wonderful message. Mother's Day was emphasized.

Mr. E. B. Pair held prayer service the first Sunday after Sunday school. We enjoyed his message very much. The class leader, Mr. C. F. Hawkins, asked someone to volunteer for the next meeting. He is trying to get the young boys moving. The young girls are ahead.

Our Sunday school is getting along as well as usual.

Miss Clara Hawkins is in Roanoke Rapids Hospital, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Rev. R. L. Vickery and family and writer

(Continued on Page Fifteen)

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

DISTRICT MEETING

The annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliaries of the 13th District was held at Shoals church, April 29, beginning at 11 o'clock, with Mrs. T. L. Speas, district chairman, presiding. Mrs. R. A. Hunter conducted impressive devotionals and Rev. A. L. Hunter led in prayer.

We were cordially welcomed by Mrs. O. Hauser, of Shoals church, and Miss Lola Long, of Pleasant Hill, pleasantly responded. The minutes were read and approved. Mrs. R. A. Hunter then gave us some interesting points concerning Branch Meeting; following this, Mrs. C. W. Bates, of Winston, First church, gave us a full report of Branch Meeting. She also told us of the needs of our Children's Home and reminded us of the value of coupons to the Home and urged us to render any assistance possible to this institution.

We were pleased to have with us Mrs. W. C. Hammer, who always brings us a message of inspiration and loyalty. She spoke mainly to the youth of the church, using as her subject, "Launch Out Into the Deep."

An impressive Memorial service was conducted by Mrs. T. L. Speas in honor of Mrs. W. R. Mooney, First Church, Winston. After prayer we were dismissed for lunch.

The afternoon session was opened by the singing of "We're Marching to Zion." The secretary then called the roll of Auxiliaries and eight responded with interesting reports.

Election of officers followed. Miss Anna Cox, as chairman of the nominating committee, presented Mrs. T. L. Speas for chairman of District and Mrs. J. F. Hunter, secretary. Mrs. Hammer took the chair and these were unanimously elected.

An expression of appreciation was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Speas for their loyalty and co-operation in putting across this work.

MRS. J. F. HUNTER.

FROM PASTORS AND PEOPLE

(Continued from Page Fourteen)

were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Pair Sunday.

Miss Esther Hawkins visited Miss Maggie Hawkins Sunday.

Miss Annie Sue Collum, one of our members was united in marriage Sunday to Mr. Willie Green.

Mrs. Minnie King, of Richmond, Va., was her mother's guest Sunday.

MRS. CLAUDE HAWKINS, Reporter.

◆

First Church, Burlington.—Mother's Day was observed through all the services Sunday. At the Sunday school hour two readings were given by Misses Tula Paul and Margaret Phillips. The "Melody Girls" rendered two musical selections. There were 428 present for this service.

Dr. F. W. Paschall, pastor, conducted the morning worship. The large congregation was greatly inspired by his message. At this service Mr. Paul Byce, of the Children's Home at High Point, was taken into this church, his membership being transferred from High Point. We are indeed glad to welcome him into our church family.

Dr. Paschall was also in charge of the evening worship. He used as his theme one of the great hymns of the church, "I Need Thee Every Hour," by Mrs. Annie S. Hawks. Misses Tula Paul and Carlyene Crutchfield brought a beautiful message in song, "Wonderful Jesus."

We were indeed glad to have with us Miss Susie Amick, of the Rainey Hospital staff, who presented a reading entitled "Mother and Home." REPORTER.

◆

Calvary.—Thinking that our friends would like to know what we have done during the first half of the Conference year, I am giving you a few facts.

I do not have definite figures on Sunday school attendance, but will say the attendance seldom falls below 175 unless the weather is very bad, while the highest attendance was 251. The average morning church congregation has been 109, while the average evening congregation has been 80. The highest attendance at the morning services was 192, while the highest evening attendance was 176. Six hundred and fifty-one dollars has been paid on church and parsonage debt, $345.00 having been paid by the church proper and $306 by the Woman's Auxiliary. We have paid on World Service $157.00, $98.00 of this having been raised by the women and $52.25 being by Easter offering and $7.00 being by Young People's Day. Thirteen new members have been received. The Woman's Auxiliary has raised $498.00. The church has paid A. C. expense and Church Extension assessments in full and $25.00 has been paid on High Point College assessment by the women. Herald quota, both for subscriptions and subsidy, has been raised in full. Five hundred and twenty-five dollars has been paid on pastor's salary, and I will say in justice to the stewards that a larger amount would have been paid on pastor's salary had not the pastor asked in some cases that a larger amount be paid on some other interest where it was badly needed.

An Intermediate C. E. Society and a Sunshine Circle have been organized. There is a hopefulness about the church which is refreshing. Our revival begins on Wednesday night after the first Sunday in June, and we are hoping for a great ingathering.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

◆

—Two Methodist Protestants are seeking a seat in the lower house of the North Carolina Legislature. They are J. D. Ross, of Asheboro, and R. M. Cox, of Forsyth County. Incidentally, both of them are Trustees of High Point College. Brother Cox has been a member of the Legislature many times.

—This week the Women's Missionary Convention and the General Boards of our church are meeting in Washington, D. C. Mrs. W. C. Hammer, of Asheboro, is the president of the Missionary Convention.

—Rev. T. F. McCulloch is to preach the sermon at Tabernacle M. P. Church in the Memorial Day services next Sunday morning.

—Rev. R. C. Subbins, of Asheboro, preached the commencement sermon at the Farmer High School in Randolph County last Sunday.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Garner

Mary Hale Garner was born July 20, 1856, and departed this life May 10, 1934, aged 77 years, 10 months and 20 days. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zebulon Hale. She was married to Phillip Garner June 8th, 1880. To this union were born two children, Mrs. Lula Garner Thomas, of Guilford College, and Zeb L. Garner, of Denton. Her husband departed this life February 18, 1930. She is survived by both her children, 11 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

She was first a member of the M. E. Church at Pleasant Hill, near her old home place until after her marriage to Mr. Garner. Then she moved her membership to Canaan M. P. Church, to which she remained faithful until her death.

"When God looked down upon the earth
And chose to put new blessings there,
Gifts from above
To show His love,
And lighten earthly joy and care,
He gave the sky the sunset glow;
Gave fragrance to the lily's blow;
Gave laughter gay,
To children play;
And then to every yearning soul
He gave that gift of tenderest worth—
A Mother."

The funeral service was conducted by her pastor, who was assisted by Dr. S. W. Taylor and Rev. E. A. Bingham.

J. T. BOWMAN, Pastor.

Clayton

Mrs. Rebecca Clayton departed this life on Sunday night, April 8th, aged 68 years and some few months. Mrs. Clayton had been in declining health for the last few years, and had been confined to her room most of the time for the last two years. She bore her suffering well, she was patient, kind and cheerful, regardless of her suffering.

She was always interested in her church and her pastor, and it was always a source of inspiration to visit her in her home. She was always talking about her church and inquiring about some of her former pastors.

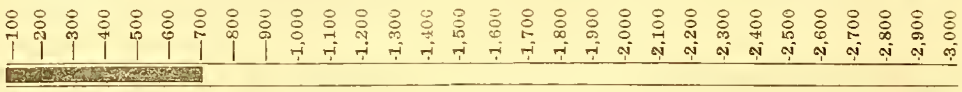
She joined Union Chapel M. P. church when she was just a girl, and was a faithful and consistent member unto the end. She was a good woman, a kind neighbor, and a faithful mother. She will be missed in the church, and the community, but most of all in the home.

Her husband, Mr. Lewis Clayton, died about 10 years ago. She is survived by four sons: F. Q., T. L., H. G., and Z. C. Clayton, all of the Union Chapel community, and 18 grandchildren.

The services were conducted at Union Chapel church by the writer in the presence of a large congregation which had gathered to pay respect to her. Her body was laid to rest in the church cemetery beneath a beautiful mound of flowers to await the resurrection morning.

C. L. SPENCER, Pastor.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
CALVARY	93
GRAHAM	85
REIDSVILLE	70

Well, there they are! One of the pleasant things about my column has been the variety of charges that have been in the place of honor. We are happy to welcome into our midst this week Reidsville and its congenial pastor, Dr. George R. Brown. Reidsville, we have been looking for you for weeks and just wishing you would come to see us! Come right in, have off your hat and coat and have the best seat in the house.

Now, I do not have any charge to rave over this week for having gone over the top. But you just wait a bit. I am not supposed to say anything about a charge until the Herald comes out—that is, I do not give out information in advance. One reason for that is, I would be a nuisance to the Editor and his assistants, running in at the last minute, getting final reports, but let me tell you another charge is going over the top this week and it's the home folks. Watch the new charge bloom out in capitals this week, and it may be many more will do the same thing. After the mail comes in tomorrow I am going to prepare that honor roll that I told you about two weeks ago and it will appear this week.

Be sure to look at the black line at the top of this column this week. Last Thursday there were 676 subscriptions acknowledged on the back page of the Herald and we are hoping it will go to 700 this week and this at the end of the first half of the Conference year.

Until next week let the subscriptions keep coming.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	9¾	$....
Albemarle	17	5	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	22	....
Asheville	14	6¼	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	8.90	....
Bessemer City	..	4.90	....
Burlington, First	71	12½	....
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	12½	....
Charlotte	21	6.7	.60
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	..	.32	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	12½	....
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	1½	....
Denton	48	10¼	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	7½	*5.00
Fallston	85	18½	....
Flat Rock	63	12¾	....
Friendship	21	1⅛	....
Forsyth	45	6½	2.50
Gibsonville	20	2½	....
Glen Raven	47	4¾	....
Graham	27	22.98	....
Granville	59	12	10.00
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY.	29	30	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	8½	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	2½	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	9.1	*7.50
Greensville	59	6½	....
Guilford	37	9½	....
Halifax	53	6½	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	13.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	9½	....
High Point, Lebanon	34	4½	....
High Point, Welch	22	4½	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	16.30	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2½	....
Lexington, First	45	8	1.00
Lexington, State Street	40	1½	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	36	12.35	....
Littletown	50	7¼	....
Mebane	28	5	....
Mecklenburg	40	1½	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	2½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	4	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	16½	....
Mount Pleasant	62	9½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	23¼	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	....
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	6¾	....
Randolph	74	9½	....
Reidsville	10	7	....
Richland	43	3½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	19	*20.00
Siler City	20	10¾	2.50
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	12½	....
Tabernacle	39	20	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	1	....
West Forsyth	62	6½	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	4	....
Winston, First	26	7¼	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	4½	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

 Subsidy paid in full.

◆

—The fellow who blows his own horn is usually badly out of tune.

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher
Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

(Continued from Page Ten)

among those churches who will each clothe a boy; $7.50 will turn the trick. Who will be next?

Children's Home Day

By direction of our Board of Trustees and also by direction of the Annual Conference, we are looking forward to and planning for Children's Home Day some time this summer. At an early date we will set the day and begin working toward it. Between now and that day we are asking the women in each church to hold a supper, or a bazaar, or an entertainment of some kind for the Children's Home, and bring the proceeds to the Home that day and place it in the Joash Box in the yard.

The dear Lord bless and direct in all phases of kingdom service.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

◆

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Rev. G. L. Curry	$8.50
Rev. J. E. Pritchard	6.00
Rev. C. L. Spencer	6.00
Rev. F. W. Paschall	5.00
Rev. H. F. Fogleman	4.00
Rev. L. E. Mabry	4.25
Rev. J. D. Cranford	2.25
Rev. J. R. Anderson	2.00
Mrs. R. M. Robinson	2.00
D. A. McLaurin	2.00
Rev. O. C. Loy	1.00
Mrs. Egbert Barnhill	1.00
Mrs. J. W. Wright	1.00
Q. B. Tesseniar	.80

(Bro. Tesseniar also remitted for three weeks past.)

◆

Herald Subsidy Fund

First Church, Lexington	$9.00
(Previously paid $1.00.)
Pleasant Grove	5.00
Hope, Siler City	2.50

Thanks to each of these givers.

◆

—The death of Bro. Sam Kellam and wife and the serious injury of two of their children in an auto accident sends wide and deep shock. This occurred on Friday of last week.

◆

—The past two days have brought much-needed rain to this vicinity. The showers came at a time when farmers and gardeners were uneasy because of the drouth.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., MAY 24, 1934 NUMBER 27

Rev H L Isley 2aug4 R6

Dancing?

Recently I have read several pieces in the paper about dancing being allowed at High Point College, and if the Editor will allow me space I should like to say a few words.

I have just read Mr. Faulkner's book, called "From the Ball Room to Hell," and I am profoundly moved by it, and would like to pass a few of the thoughts on to those who are interested in the future of High Point College students.

To be Christian is to be Christ-like, and I believe there is nothing Christlike in partaking of such pleasures as have been described in Mr. Faulkner's book.

"The Son of Man cometh at an hour when ye know not."

If He should come and find you at a dance, locked in the embrace of every man there, do you feel that He would consider you ready? Do you believe your Heavenly Father could say to you, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant. Thou hast spent the evening to My honor and glory. Thou art in the world and not of it. Thou hast done nothing that could cause thy brother to offend, but hast set a good and godly example. Thou art letting thy light so shine before men that they will see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven. Thou art denying thyself and taking thy cross daily and following Me. I left My home in glory and lived and suffered and died the death of the crucified that thou mightest take thine ease, dance, drink, and be merry, and then lay down thy cross and take up thy crown in glory to be with thy Savior and be like Him."

Do you think He would say this, or do you not feel the slightest fear He would say, "Depart from Me, I never knew you"?

What have you to say for those who, looking to you for a Christian example, see that you, a church member and professing Christian, dance, and conclude that there can be no harm in it for them, so they indulge and are ruined by it, all because of your example which led them to take the first step on the downward road?

The Christian way to settle such questions is to ask the question, "Would Christ do it?"

Christian friends, a great responsibility rests upon us all, not only to see that we "keep ourselves unspotted from the world"; but that we do all in our power to drive from our fair land this awful blot and curse.

A YOUNG METHODIST PROTESTANT.

◆

—There is no other right so surely and unalterably established as the right of Deity to exercise sovereignty over the workmanship of His own hands.—Selected.

Dancing at High Point College

The same spirit that swept over our country and tore the 18th Amendment from our Federal Constitution, is sweeping the community of church-owned colleges, trying to repeal standards of morality and high ideals that should be fostered by such institutions. It is showing its venemous presence in the life of the youngest institution of our beloved denomination; the long-desired dream of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

WHY HAVE A CHRISTIAN COLLEGE? Because there is need of a place where Christian parents may educate their children amid the best environment. A church-owned college should be the exponent of the highest moral and spiritual life the parent denomination can cause to be maintained. It should be so different in moral tone and idealism that its students and graduates would exert the same morality and high idealism wherever they went. It should be the living exponent of the same idealism fostered by the parent denomination; and when those at the helm could no longer adhere to these, they would have but one alternative.

If the Methodist Protestants of North Carolina had been satisfied with the program and moral life of state-owned schools, High Point College would not have been born. There would have been no need of such sacrifices as many of our people made. Yes, "the old preachers oppose dancing," and the records show that many of those "old preachers" emptied the savings of a lifetime into the hands of Dr. Andrews during the days of beginnings. If we wanted our sons and daughters to be educated under the same influences found at state-owned colleges, such offerings would not have been necessary. Now that we have the college, and it is growing, it is up to the North Carolina Annual Conference to protect that growth. And that means that the parent of the child should keep it from the dangerous things that would destroy that which is necessary to life. When we lower our standards to permit our "Physical Education Program" at the College to be on the level of state-owned schools, we forfeit certain ideals that are worth keeping intact.

An ordained minister of our uown denomination is President of the College. Two other ministers head important departments, and a fourth is Promotional Secretary,—or the man whose business it is to make and hold outside contacts for the college, and to give the college the best publicity in his power to give it. This says to the world that High Point College is a Christian College.

In spite of this, this spirit of low moral idealism is saying "High Point College must be like other colleges." If a Christian man is to be different from the non-Christian man, then THE CHRISTIAN COLLEGE MUST BE DIFFERENT FROM THE NON-CHRISTIAN. If there is no difference, there is no right to be called Christian.

THE FIRST PASTORS' SUMMER SCHOOL WILL BE HELD AT HIGH POINT COLLEGE, JUNE 25 - JULY 6

There is nothing commendable in the so-called "art of dancing." And this is said after several years' membership and participation in orchestras and bands that did their part in the musical end of the dance. Just because one is a student at a church-owned college does not guarantee that one is endowed with different inner impulses, or is in better control of certain desires produced during the experiences of the modern dance. The base and low in men will be aroused and will demand recognition and satisfaction, regardless of who, or where one may be, if occasion for such awakening and recognition is given. So let no one excuse the dance at High Point College on the theory that these young people are different—THEY ARE NOT DIFFERENT. The modern dance may be classed as "Artistic Expression"—it is more—it is the artistic route for the development of the sensual mind of its devotee.

Suppose our Annual Conference should vote to allow dancing taught and practiced at High Point College—(and that is where it will be settled, and not by the Board of Trustees, since the President is passing the question on to them "without comment")—what would be the next request from these moral repealists? Sooner or later, a request that they be allowed "dram drinking and moderate gambling." Dancing and drinking of whiskey always go together, regardless of the "proper chaperones" that are sitting in the far corners of the hall.

These young people may not be "high school children, but young men and women." Some of them have not reached legal maturity, and in spite of their being college students, it remains true that their morals must be protected. The Israelites following Moses to a Land of Promise, were grown men and women, but the Ten Commandments are literally filled with "THOU SHALT NOT." Jesus came centuries later, and in speaking to grown men and women demanded pure hearts, and forbade sensuous eyes and thoughts. Any person who is honest with himself, will say down in his heart of hearts that the contacts and exercises of the dance where both sexes dance together, are conducive to just the things that Jesus forbade.

Brethren of the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina, do not "pass this question without comment" on to some one else.

WHY DON'T YOU SAY SOMETHING?

JUSTAMERE PREACHER.

HIS FACE SHONE

Biographers of Fenelon tell us that he lived in such intimate fellowship with God that his very face shone. Lord Petersborough, a skeptic, was obliged to spend the night with him at an inn. In the morning he rushed away, saying, "If I stay another night with that man, I shall be a Christian in spite of myself." Some one else said of him, "His manners were full of grace, his voice full of love, and his face full of glory."—The Christian Index.

HOW TO FAIL IN THE MINISTRY

By YOURS TRULY

We have known preachers to fail to make the grade year after year and never suspect the reason. Even their best friends cannot often tell them of their faults—they would not receive it kindly. So they change from pastorate to pastorate and lay the blame on such things as the worldly spirit in the church, some former pastor had queered them against him, the folks just did not want gospel sermons, etc.; but they never once appear to think that they may be to blame all the time. This is written with the best feeling and intention. It is the sincere wish to serve in a way the writer could not serve so well were the article changed to a conference with the offending brethren, for many reasons; one is, the writer is not guiltless.

1. Whenever you preach, take all the time you want. Never hurry; it is undignified to hurry. And besides, the people have nothing else to do except to listen to your sermon that day; therefore make long ones. In fact, it might be construed as a reflection upon the preacher's preparation to preach a twenty-minutes sermon. So every time you preach, make it a full hour over and above the preliminaries. The other great preachers like Jonathan Edwards and John Wesley preached much longer than that; why should you not? And if you are sure that your material will hold out to the proper length, repeat statements several times. Be sure to say, "As I have said before," for the congregation may not remember that you said it and therefore give credit to some one else. And as you approach the end of the sermon, say within eight or ten minutes of it, begin to say, "Finally, my brethren,"—these words will bring comfort—they are reassuring to the weary listeners.

2. Spend much time on your announcements. Be sure the people shall know all about the things you have planned for your church and the community. Print them in your bulletin, but that is not enough; read them lest some one should not see the bulletin. Having done that, explain them, and having explained them, tell why you explained them—somebody present might not have understood the words you used in the bulletin. These matters are so much more important than your sermon that you ought to spend much time on them. And make them catchy, or the congregation might not remember them after all of your efforts to put them across. This is a strong point.

3. Never begin your services on time. It might appear to be formal to do that. Begin sometimes several minutes before the time announced to start, the next time begin several minutes after the time. Be versatile, despise formality; it is so dull and unspiritual.

4. In your visiting of the members, never visit all of your people. Pick out a few families, not more than four or five—the most congenial ones you have. Visit them often. Praise them well in public and brag on them in private; be sure that the other members shall catch the idea that these are the choice folk of the flock, and that you are making them examples for the others to see and understand just how well a pastor can love lovely folks and visit people who really appreciate him. It will make them dislike you and keep them from ever inviting you to their homes. A fine way to be ridden of such unattractive people.

5. Talk about your salary in and out of the pulpit. That is what you are working for—the main thing; so unless you emphasize it the people may not understand how much you think about it. Be sure to tell the people in public and in private how much the church is due you on salary and how you think they should pay it, and too, if they do not pay every cent of it by conference they may have a law suit on their hands. That sort of talk surely counts.

6. Never trust all of your people fully. Be suspicious of some. Think of them as being against you. Watch them closely; try to hear what they say when they talk to others, for they are most likely talking about you; you ought therefore to find out what they are saying in order that you shall be prepared for their deeds when they shall act against you. Never visit such people, do not pray for them, nor treat them kindly—they might understand you and like you if you should be considerate of them. This is a most important point; follow it closely and it will keep you from being happy or from staying long on any charge.

7. Expect everybody to be interested in you and in what you do as matters of course. You are the center of the community gravity; the earth revolves around you in that place. You are the "whole cheese," and if there should be some puny mortal who did not recognize it, give them the raspberry every chance you get; show them by word and by deed how important you really are. It will never do for such people to think that you are allowing anybody to make a "footmat" of you; assert your dignity, maintain your ministerial standing; for how else shall they know that you are a real preacher?

8. Major in fault-finding. Never miss an opportunity of showing the people that you know their faults, that they cannot conceal from you their evil intents; even from afar you discern them and quite understand what is meant. Never try to comfort those who are distressed, who are seeking the way to life, or who are sorry for their sins. They can take care of themselves; your task is to lay bare the secret sins of the social and political leaders. None of them may live in your community or state, but that need not matter; give it to them hot and fast. This may cause some newspaper comment even though no souls are saved by it. You can play to the godless crowd whose delight it is to criticise the church and thus make friends of them.

9. Never be greatly concerned about the church; the people might not understand your motive. Tell them frankly that you do not give a rap about preaching anyway, you can make a living at something else and a much better one, too. You have two hands, a strong body, a brilliant mind, why should you worry? If the people do not want to attend church, let them stay away; if they do not want salvation let them alone. Why should the pastor be the only one who worries about the sins of the members? The church ought to take care of itself anyway.

Here are some ways for a preacher to fail. We are quite sure they will work because we have seen them work. While these are not all we might mention, they are sufficient to put any preacher on ice long before he reaches the age for retirement if he will use some of them—he need not trouble to practice all of them. The hope of the writer is that some may be deterred from further practice of any of the above after reading what has been written about such mistakes.

SINGING AND PREACHING

Lawrence Tibbett, the famous Metropolitan Opera singer, once told in an article in the American Magazine how he was taught to pronounce "wind" in the right way instead of "win-ed."

Basil Ruysdael—who had been a successful basso at the Metropolitan Opera House—had gone to Los Angeles to teach singing and to appear with the California Opera Company in "The Mikado."

Lawrence Tibbett, whose home was in Los Angeles at the time, applied for a job. He was sure in his own mind that he would show Ruysdael that there was one man in this California city who could sing in the classical style, pronouncing words as they should be spoken.

"For my tryout," wrote Tibbett, "I sang a love song in my most elegant manner, all about the wafting of the south 'win-ed' and the frisking lambs and the out-of-doors. I expected it would knock Ruysdael over, but when I had finished he was still perpendicular, with his hands on his hips and a cold look in his eye."

"Listen, fellow," called Ruysdael, "what is this south 'win-ed' that seems to be blowing out here in California? What kind of language is this you're talking? What's this 'ahn-da' instead of 'and,' and 'lov-a' and 'kees' and 'Gawd'?"

Tibbett tried to explain that this was the high-class way to sing, but Ruysdael stared coldly and continued to ask why.

"Look here, fellow," he advised Tibbett, "singing is just speaking words to music. Try that song again. Sing it as if you were telling me about it—just speak the words on the tune."

Any one who knows anything about listening to music, understands that to be sound advice.

There are two suggestions for preachers growing out of this incident:

1. The preacher, as well as the singer, needs a wise director. It is as natural — and as disastrous — for the young preacher to get foolish notions concerning principles and methods in public speaking as it is for the young musician to be unnatural and stilted in his style of singing. Fortunate is the young minister who has a discerning wife—or a sensible instructor—who is faithful in setting him right from the start.

2. As "singing is just speaking words to music," so public discourse is just talking to an audience—small or large—in a sensible, understanding way. It is silly for a man to "orate" to two or three friends as they talk together by the fireside. It is equally silly and ineffective to "orate" to 200 or 3,000 people sitting in front of a speaker's platform. He will need to speak somewhat louder to the larger numbers—and it will be more difficult to make them hear if the acoustic qualities or the hall or the church are defective—but the impression should always be that the preacher is speaking to the people in a conversational voice. Effective public speaking is talking to an audience out of a well-informed mind in a simple, natural, unaffected, hearty way.

I am not saying that it is always easy to acquire and to maintain a simple, natural, unaffected, hearty manner of speaking—but it is well worth striving for.

LUTHER K. LONG.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT

You Are Invited

Ministers, laymen, laywomen, and friends are invited to attend the ninth Commencement exercises at High Point College. Because of the expense involved in issuing personal engraved or printed invitations, we are taking this means of reaching you. Our invitation, however, is just as hearty and sincere as if of a more expensive form.

The following is the Commencement program, and to all of these exercises you are invited:

THURSDAY, MAY 24

8:00 P. M.—Recital, Music Department.

FRIDAY, MAY 25

8:00 P. M.—Oration and Essay Contest.

SATURDAY, MAY 26

8:00 P. M.—Class Day Exercises.

SUNDAY, MAY 27

11:00 A. M.—Baccalaureate Sermon, First Methodist Protestant Church, President Humphreys.

8:00 P. M.—Address to Religious Organizations, Mr. J. Norman Wills.

MONDAY, MAY 28

10:30 A. M.—Academic Procession.
Baccalaureate Address, Dr. T. Wingate Andrews.
Presentation of Diplomas.
Conferring of Honorary Degrees.

All exercises will be held in Roberts Hall unless otherwise designated. N. M. HARRISON, Promotional Secretary.

WHAT A BRAVE SOLDIER DID

This is not a story of a bloody battle, but the story of a braver soldier than one who can only face the cannon, but cannot brave a laugh for Jesus' sake.

One day he came to the chaplain, soon after he joined the army, and told him how the other soldiers mocked him when he kneeled down to say his prayers at night. The chaplain told him that it might be as well to try saying his prayers without kneeling by his cot.

The next time they met, the chaplain said, "Well, Sandy, how did it work?"

"It didn't work at all," answered the brave soldier. "I tried it a night or two, but somehow I thought I could hear a voice saying, 'Are you ashamed of Me?' and then I thought I could see His head crowned with thorns for me. So I said to myself, 'I'll never be a coward again.' That night I kneeled and prayed, just as I did at first. The men laughed at me again, but the next night they laughed less, and now they never disturb me at all."—Olive Plants.

THE PASTORS' SUMMER SCHOOL

Place—High Point College, High Point, N. C.

Date—June 25 to July 6. Registration will take place on Monday, June 25, and class work will commence the following day.

Faculty—Dr. Fred G. Holloway, President Westminster Theological Seminary, and Professor of Biblical Languages; Dr. C. E. Forlines, Professor of Systematic and Historical Theology, and Dean of the Pastors' School; Dr. J. M. Shroyer, Professor of Biblical Theology and Christian Sociology.

Curriculum—(1) Old Testament History; (2) Rural Church Administration; (3) Recent Ethical Thinking; (4) Church History; (5) Ministers Use of the New Testament; (6) Homiletics.

Expenses—Room and Board $7.00, Registration fee $1.50; total $8.50.

Aim—The purpose of the school is to meet the needs of ministers who have not as yet completed their theological education or who, as graduates of a seminary, desire to pursue further study. For work done in this school the Seminary will give standard academic credit.

Library—The College Library will be open for the Pastors' School. The collections there will be supplemented by reference material sent from the Seminary library.

Course Load—Each minister may register for not more than two courses, and may make his own selection. The Conference Faculty will give credit on the conference courses for work done in this school.

IN A PULLMAN

To lower your expenses
  To the upper berth you go;
You'll find the lower's higher,
  It's the upper one that's low!
By running up the ladder,
  Expenses down you keep;
It's running up expenses
  To lay you down to sleep!
The laddie with the ladder
  Will help you up to lie,
So hie you to the upper
  If the lower berth's too high!

—Selected.

THE LORD WAS THERE

It was reserved for the creed of the fishermen of Galilee to exalt humanity, and to revolutionize the world; and it did it only because "the Lord was there." It was in this power that the earliest pioneers of the Gospel went forth on their apparently chimerical enterprise, and of their efforts it was recorded, as that which made them truly glorious, that "the Lork worked with them."

He was with them in the synagogue, and with them before the Sanhedrin; with them in the upper room, and with them in the dungeon; and they went forth and conquered in this their strength. And if we would conquer, it must be in the same power.—Canon Hay Aitken.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

REMARKS ABOUT PASTORS' REPORTS

A New Start

Having just closed the first half of the year, what shall we do in the remaining time to make it a better period than the first? Surely now that pastor and people have had these months in which to become acquainted, when changes were made, and all pastors and people have had time to appraise the work and to discover the needs of the work, we can now do with greater despatch and with increasing efficiency the things which shall fall to our lot from now until the Annual Conference meets on November 14.

While some churches have paid their assessments in full for the claims as they were presented — A. C. Expenses, Church Extenion, High Point College, etc., many have not yet done this, and many pastors have not been paid in full to date; there are yet A. C. Debt and Superanuates assessments to be presented to all the churches, and about half the churches have not yet been asked to pay their part of the A. C. expenses. Still there has been made a most commandable showing by many churches. I notice that where the churches accepted the budgets in full or definite parts of them, they are invariably doing better than where they accepted the budgets, promising to do the best they can. This usually means that no definite plans will be laid and no specific efforts will be put forth to take care of such claims, and if they shall not be paid in full, nobody seems to feel that the people have failed, because no one promised to do anything much anyway. We hope that this will be the last year that any of our charges will follow this well-worn custom. Either accept the budgets in full as they were handed down, or accept any amount which the churches are willing to undertake to raise.

It will also greatly expedite matters to hold the first quarterly conference in the shortest possible time after the adjournment of the annual conference. For at this conference plans are to be made for taking care of all the expenses for the year, both local and for the conference, therefore an early start means much toward a splendid ending.

But few pastors confessed to being discouraged with their work. That is fine; a discouraged leader is never a good leader. He cannot do his best work while discouraged, and, like the prophet Elijah, will spend too much time in the shade of the juniper tree to accomplish much in the destruction of baal worship on his circuit. Of course, our best workers sometimes become discouraged; it is no reflection upon us mortals to be subject to discouragement, yet we should fight against the temper of mind with all of our might. And the lay leaders of the work should make every effort to keep their pastors in a good frame of mind—we mean to show them that the people do appreciate them and that they do appreciate what they are trying to do. This wil go far towards saving the pastor from the fits of despondency that we often fall into.

There are still some of the brethren who fail to see any importance in these quarterly reports to the president. They treat a questionnaire with but little consideration. They forget that it may be of much service to the church for the president of the conference to know what is really being done or is not being done on the district. Facts are always important; if the people have done something, it is a fact, and as a fact should be reported. Let that something be for the local or the conference interests. If the people are encouraged, that is a fact of tremendous importance and should be reported. It might mean the turning point in another pastor's work. If the brethren would just report,—answer the questions asked, and do it promptly, it would greatly help in this part of my work.

North Davidson Charge, Rev. C. L. Grant, Pastor

I visited Spring Hill and Canaan churches. Spring Hill church was dedicated at the morning service. This building is the third or fourth building erected here. There appears to be some doubt as to when the church was really organized. It is believed after thorough investigation was made by Brother John York, son of the Rev. I. I. York, whose mother has been a member here for many years, that the church is over 100 years old. Some think it was organized back in 1820-something; that Rev. Alson Gray preached here many times. It is too bad that authenic information is unobtainable.

The present building is brick, with an ample auditorium, choir loft, and space in the basement to house a modern Sunday school. It is a very neat structure, well built, situated on ample grounds, just a few miles out of High Point. There are many young people who attend here, and many of them are actively engaged in the work of the church. Brother Swaim, the superintendent, is actively engaged in the work of the church. Brother Swaim, the superintendent, is a young man, besides many other young people actively interested in the work of the church, there is a class of young men or boys in the teens that is a remarkable class. Its teacher is Mr. Byerly, also a youth. I greatly enjoyed sitting in on this class and was pleased to note how well he was using the members of his class in real class work.

These was a very good congregation, the church was comfortably filled, representing many other churches, some from High Point, other churches on North Lavidson, Guilford, Burlington, and other communities which I did not know about.

I visited Canaan church at the night service. Canaan is one of our active rural churches. The membership is not large, but most of them appear to attend the services. This is the church of Brother George Berrier, who is the father of eleven children and the proud grandfather of more than were the sons of Jacob. Not many laymen in our church will rank with Brother Berrier in expressing their interest in the church. He is a local minister in the church, and many years ago supplied a group of churches for some time. There are other loyal workers here as well as he. Brother Grant has a remarkable grasp on the work to have served for a part of one year. The people think well of his services, and both pastor and people are happy in the work.

The PASTORS' SUMMER SCHOOL is EXTENSION WORK of WESTMINSTER THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

Mail No Letters Without Postage

I have received letters without postage. It costs six cents to get such a letter, and sometimes they are not worth that much to the one receiving them. The post office department has the unfair custom of charging the victim, not the guilty party in this case. It is manifestly unfair and we hope that no letters shall be mailed out without postage, to this writer.

Plan of Appointments

May 27—High Point College Commencement.

June 3—Concord 11 a.m.; Love Grove 3 p.m.; Midland at night.

June 10—Liberty Circuit; Shiloh 11 a.m., Hickory Grove afternoon, Liberty at night.

June 17—Chapel Hill church, opening new church; Lineberry, at night.

June 24—Seagrove church, opening new church, all-day program.

July 1—Philadelphia church 11 a.m., Matthews Chapel afternoon, Wesley Chapel at night.

July 8—Spring church 11 a.m., Lebanon afternoon, Pleasant Hill at night.

July 9—Group Meeting on said charge.

July 10—Group Meeting, Enfield.

July 11—Group Meeting Eden church, Halifax circuit.

July 12—Group Meeting, Corinth church, Littleton circuit.

July 13—Group Meeting, Granville charge.

July 15—Mebane 11 a.m., Union Grove afternoon, Efland at night.

R. M. Andrews.

A SAFE DWELLING PLACE

The signs around now are truly pointing to what Paul wrote in his Epistle to Timothy: "This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come." (II Tim. 3:1.) These really are perilous times, but for the child of God there is safety and security as he abides in Christ.

While thinking of the security there is by abiding in Christ no matter what may happen, we were made to think of the birds, how they build their nests on the rocks by the sea, and sometimes the waves beat high and howl around them, still they do not fear, for they are sheltered and their dwelling place is secure, for they have builded upon the rock.

So if the child of God builds upon the Rock, Christ Jesus, he will be securely established and safely sheltered. He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty." (Ps. 91:1.) Then no matter what the turmoil may be that abounds, by abiding in Christ you will be secure. The cares of life may come, but build on the Solid Rock and He will care for you as He has promised.—E. R. Conway.

THE SAME MEASURE

"According to the measure of the rule which God hath distributed."

There lived long ago in Berlin a shoemaker who had the habit of speaking hardly of all his neighbors who did not think quite as he did about religion. The old pastor of the parish in which the shoemaker lived heard of this, and felt that he must give him a lesson. He did it in this manner:

He sent for the shoemaker one morning, and when he came in, said to him, "Master, take my measure for a pair of boots."

"With pleasure, Your Reverence," answered the shoemaker. "Please take off your boot."

The clergyman did so, and the shoemaker measured his foot from toe to heel, and over instep, noted all down in his pocketbook, and then prepared to leave the room.

But as he was putting up the measure, the pastor said to him, "Master, my son also requires a pair of boots."

"I will make them with pleasure, Your Reverence. Can I take the young man's measure?"

"It is not necessary," said the pastor; "the lad is fourteen, but you can make my boots and his from the same last."

"Your Reverence, that will never do," said the shoemaker.

"It must be—on the same last."

"But, Your Reverence, it is not possible, if the boots are to fit," said the shoemaker, thinking to himself that the old pastor's wits were leaving him.

"Ah, then, master shoemaker," said the clergyman, "every pair of boots must be made on their own last, if they are to fit, and yet you think that God is to form all Christians according to your own last, of the same measure and growth in religion as yourself! That will not do either."

The shoemaker was abashed. Then he said, "I thank Your Reverence for this sermon, and I will try to remember it, and to judge my neighbors less harshly in the future."—Bible Echo.

THE SURE REWARD

Garibaldi, the great Italian reformer of a past generation, in a fiery speech, urged some thousands of Italy's young men to fight for the freedom of their homeland. One timid young fellow approached him, asking, "If I fight, Sir, what will be my reward?" Swift as a lightning flash came the uncompromising answer, "Wounds, scars, bruises, and perhaps death. But remember, that through your bruises Italy will be free." "There," said the young man, "I will follow to the death." Are you not willing to endure the scars in order to liberate souls?—The C. U. Herald.

SEVEN GOOD WORDS

"Mother," said a little girl on coming home from Sunday school, "I want to ask you something."

"Well, dear, what is it?"

"Do you know what is my best text?"

"Tell me, my dear," replied the mother.

"Well, mother, you know that I am just seven years old, and my text has just seven words in it: 'It is time to seek the Lord'."—Unknown.

OUR STORY PAGE

MARY ELLEN'S WAY

Ruth Stern had just received her report card, and her average was the highest in school; yet she was not happy about it.

"It's only that the other girls do not love me, Mother," she replied when her mother had asked her what was the matter. "I make the highest grades every month and study hard, yet none of the children seem glad. When my name was read out, nobody clapped; but when Mary Ellen's name was read out, and it's the first time she ever was put on the honor roll, why they clapped so loud the old schoolhouse rang."

"Perhaps it was because of its being the first time for Mary Ellen," suggested her mother.

"No, Mother, I don't think it was that. At recess she is always followed by all the girls, and the trouble is I don't see why it is. I've watched her, and I can't find out her secret."

"Then watch some more," suggested her mother. "There must be a reason."

So Ruth determined to find the reason, and she could think of no better way than walking with Mary Ellen to school and talking to her.

"Hello," she said as Mary Ellen came running toward her with sparkling eyes. "Let's walk together this morning. I want to ask you a question. I'm trying to find out why everybody loves you so. I'd give anything if they would love me that way."

Mary Ellen looked at Ruth in astonishment. "But I didn't know they did," she declared. "I never thought of it before—I mean I never thought about the children loving me, but I know I think a lot of all of them."

"I don't," said Ruth. "I am too busy."

Just then Elsie Terrence came around the corner. "I've been wishing I could meet up with some one before school who could explain that last problem to me," she said, looking at both girls in turn. "I have worried so over it and don't know what to do."

"It's too late to open our books here; we'll be late for school," began Ruth; but Mary Ellen was already busy unstrapping hers as she walked.

"I had a time with that problem myself," Mary Ellen said, "and I am awful glad to pass it on. Here, Elsie, just glance at it—here, all worked out—maybe you can understand as I tell you how I did it."

The two girls were soon deep in the problem and had entirely forgotten Ruth, who walked silently along by their sides. Here was an opportunity she had avoided, while Mary Ellen had grasped it at once. But what a trouble to put oneself too! Then when Elsie thanked Mary Ellen, there was a light of happiness in Mary Ellen's eyes which would be there all day.

That night when Ruth reached home she said to her mother: "I have found out the secret Mary Ellen has. She doesn't know what it is herself; but I know now, and I will never forget it."

"I think I know already what it is," answered her mother, "but I would like for you to tell me."

"Well, I think it is because Mary Ellen always helps every one she possibly can. I never thought of it before, but I know that is the secret of her popularity, isn't it?"

"Yes, it is, Ruth, and you must follow her example."

"And will all the children love me as they do Mary Ellen?"

"You must not think of that part. Give with your whole heart. Ask nothing in return. That will be taken care of." —Unknown.

"US"

When we're feeling mean and ugly,
  And we want to claw and fight,
When we blame the "other fellow,"
  And it's "us" that's always right—
Then it's time for us to ponder,
  Time to change our point of view,
"See ourselves as others see us,"
  Stubborn—yes, and hateful, too!

If we want folks to be friendly,
  We ourselves must friendly be;
Chances are that many others
  Have more troubles than have we.
What's the use of sadly sighing,
  Fretting, crying all the day?
Let us all be "up and doing,"
  Driving all the gloom away!

This world may be full of trouble,
  Most of us have had our share,
None of us are free from trials,
  All have burdens we must bear.
But there is no use in grumbling,
  Better far a crooked grin—
When we open up the windows
  Of our hearts the sun shines in.

—Publisher Unknown.

GOD'S PLAN FOR US

God has a plan for every life in Jesus Christ. What a wondrous truth is this! And yet how reasonable a one. Shall the architect draw the plans for his stately palace? Shall the artist sketch the outlines of his masterpiece? Shall the shipbuilder lay down the lines for his colossal ship? And yet shall God have no plan for the soul which He brings into being and puts "in Christ Jesus"? Surely He has.

Yea, for every cloud that floats across the summer sky: for every blade of grass that points its tiny spear heavenward, God has a purpose and a plan. How much more then, for you who are His own in Christ Jesus, does God have a perfect life plan!—James H. McConkey.

North Carolina Annual Conference Leadership Training School

High Point College June 25-30, 1934

1934 Goal—200 Students

LET'S GO! 200 STRONG!!

Those who are directing the plans for the High Point Leadership Training School believe in the old saying, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." They believe, also, that there is a great opportunity to educate and to help strengthen the character through directing the recreational activities of the individual. For these reasons we are trying to plan an interesting and well-balanced program of recreation for the Training School this year. This program will vary from a hike across God's great fields and woods to the banquet hall. So make your plans to come along and say with the rest, "Hurrah for the fun; the plans are done; hurrah for the High Point Leadership Training School!"

In order to enjoy the fun to the fullest extent it will be necessary for you to come prepared to take part in he fun. In order to be prepared you should bring a pair of tennis shoes, or a pair of rubber-soled shoes. Bring a suit of clothes that you can wear hiking over rough laces and in playing active games. If you like tennis, baseball, horseshoe, etc., be certain to come prepared for the game. Leave your case and troubles at home with those who want them and spend a week at High Point College in real work and wholesome fun and go back home a bigger and better man or woman than you were when you went there. Will you be one of the 300 to enjoy that week there?

J. W. BRAXTON,
Director of Recreation.

TREASURER'S REPORT

Sunday schools:
Denton	$3.00
Randolph, Bethany	2.00
Orange, Efland	3.00
Christian Endeavor:
Roberta	2.50
Thomasville, First	4.00

J. CLYDE AUMAN, Treasurer.

L. T. S. CLUB

Fourteen members of the Graham Club are working hard to send at least 11 to High Point Leadership Training School, June 25-30. Who else will join the march?

J. CLYDE AUMAN, Organizer.

RIGHT TALKING AS A STIMULANT

Right talking is a stimulant to right thinking. It serves among other things the great purpose of bringing into view valuable thoughts which otherwise would remain dormant. It is significant that most of the world's great thinkers met in groups, to exchange ideas and opinions. There is no better way to supplement the results from reading a great book than to talk the subject over with a congenial and well-informed friend. Thoughts grow and multiply in the process of expression. Uncertain and indefinite thoughts often become clarified when they have been put into actual words. Talking should be reciprocal, not exclusive. To be an interesting talker, you must also be an interesting listener, since one is a complement of the other.—Grenville Kleiser.

◆

—Rev. A. L. Hunter, the pastor of the Pinnacle and Mount Zion charge, stands at the head of the list for long pastorates. He is now serving his 26th year on his present charge, though he has moved two or three times, but has always been called back. He is esteemed as highly now as at any time in his ministry.

—It seems that each of our preachers has decided to take unto himself a wife. This time it is Rev. T. J. Whitehead, the pastor of West End Church in Greensboro. The bride is Miss Hildah Amick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Amick, of Burlington. The wedding took place last Sunday afternoon.

—Rev. W. F. Kennett, who has been quite ill for several weeks, is somewhat improved.

MOTHER

I see you sitting,
  Smiling today,
You who first taught me
  The right way to pray.
No trial too heavy
  For your noble heart;
Your only purpose
  To fill a good part.

True words and golden
  Fell from your lips,
Bringing to me
  Rich-laden ships
Of thoughts of service
  And useful work,
One valued lesson:
  Never to shirk.

My thought of you
  O'erleaps words and rime;
My love for you
  Transcends space and time.
I cannot, dear mother,
  Be with you today,
But your heart will know
  What I wish to say.

—Greuville Kleiser.

◆

—Rev. C. H. Whitaker, of Winston-Salem, attended the Mid-Year meeting at Calvary Church Tuesday. While his physical strength is not sufficient for him to take a charge, yet he has lost none of his interest in the work of the church.

—Rev. N. G. Bethea was kept away from the Mid-Year meeting on Tuesday on account of the illness of Mrs. Bethea. We trust she is better by this time.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

High Point College C. E. Society, clothing child	$15.00
Hickory Ridge, Forsyth	4.01
Fair Grove, Haw River	1.00
Glen Raven, Glen Raven	5.00
Friendship S. S., Shiloh	2.50
Shady Grove S. S., Connelly Springs	1.00
Bethany S. S., Randolph	1.20
Giles Chapel S. S., Richland	5.00
Pensacola, Democrat	2.00
Wesley's Chapel, Greensville	2.06
Graham S. S., caring for child	10.00
Macedonia, Fallston	1.00
Union Grove, Mocksville	1.10
Canaan S. S., Denton	.87
First Church S. S., High Point	17.63
Pleasant Union S. S., Mt. Pleasant	2.43
Stallings, Mecklenburg	1.00
Salam S. S., Saxapahaw	6.00
Cedar Cliff S. S., Mt. Hermon	.70
Pageland S. S., Mecklenburg	1.80
Haw River S. S., Glen Raven	4.60
Lebanon S. S., High Point	7.00
Laurel Hill, Fallston	2.33
Women's Bible Class, R. I. Ave., Washington, D. C.	5.00
Harris Chapel, Vance	2.69
Union Hill, W. Forsyth	3.00
Liberty S. S., Liberty	3.04
Siler City S. S.	4.25
Shilah S. S., Liberty	2.50
A Friend, special	65.37
Sapling Ridge, Alamance	3.04
Calvary S. S.	9.25
Bethel, Randolph	5.00
Harris Chapel, Vance	2.41
First Church S. S., Thomasville	10.00
Roberta S. S.	1.00
Davidson Circuit Ralley, at Chapel Hill	10.02

Clothing and Other Gifts

Mrs. J. A. Gunn, Reidsville, 2 dresses and a hat.

Mr. W. L. Ward, Asheboro, one bolt of sheeting for bed sheets.

Mrs. C. O. Byrd, Worthville, one pair shoes.

Welch Memorial, High Point, and Pleasant Grove, just south of High Point, have agreed to keep the Home furnished with the necessary drinking glasses. Both churches have already sent their first lot of glasses.

J. L. Trollinger, Jr., Brown Summit, one bundle of magazines.

We are thankful for all these gifts. May God richly bless all the givers.

Chapel Hill on Davidson

We were at Chapel Hill last Sunday at a Circuit Rally. We thoroughly enjoyed the day with the good people of Davidson, and were more than pleased with the new church which is nearing completion, and with the improvements on church grounds.

Produce for the Home

We have several hundred half-gallon glass jars for canning fruits and vegetables, and shall be glad to give them out in quantities to the women of our churches who will send for them. Please let us know how many you will take and we will try to have them ready.

We are also asking the farmers of our Con-

(Continued on Page Thirteen)

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Canaan, Denton Charge.—Our Sunday school is moving along about as usual. Our attendance is off some for the last few Sundays. We are hoping it will be back to normal soon.

We were delighted to have with us on last Sunday morning Rev. and Mrs. Brautley, of Decatur, Georgia, guests of our pastor, Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Bowman, who delivered a wonderful message. His subject was "What Is My Life?"

Our church and community has been greatly saddened since our last report. First, by the death of Mrs. Atlas Ridge. Mrs. Ridge was laid to rest in Canaan cemetery on Friday, April 27.

On Thursday, April 3, death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ward and took their 15-months-old son, Frank, Jr. He was laid to rest the following Friday, services being conducted by the pastor, Bro. Bowman, assisted by Rev. E. A. Bingham.

On the following Thursday, May 10th, Mary Hale Garner, aged 77 years, 10 months and 20 days. Mrs. Garner was laid to rest in Canaan cemetery. The funeral service was conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. T. Bowman, who was assisted by Dr. S. W. Taylor and Rev. E. A. Bingham.

LILLY WARD, Reporter.

Fallston Charge.—We enjoyed an hour spent with the Christian Endeavor Society at Hebron church last evening, Sunday. This Society was organized some four weeks ago. There were 63 present for the meeting last night. The regular C. E. subject, "Qualities That Make Good Mothers," was used. The president, Miss Willie Houser, had charge of the program, which included a very fine combination of talks, special music and readings. A Children's Day program as sent out by our Board of Missions is being provided for the first Sunday in June. On next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Woodmen of the World visit this church and unveil a marker to the memory of Julius Cook, who was buried at this church some three months ago. Brother Cook was a member of this order.

Sunday morning marked the annual memorial service at Laurel Hill church. This was a good day and a profitable occasion. The fine attention on the part of the people made it easy to preach. Many members and friends of the church who had moved out to other communities and nearby towns came back to renew old acquaintances. The spirit and fellowship of the day was reflected in the offering, which was by far the largest for the year. The aisles and altar of the church have recently been treated to a new carpet. Miss Florence Sain, who received the money, met with a fine response on the part of all the people. On Saturday evening, May 5, a social was held on the church grounds which netted around $23.00. This money is to be used to give the interior of the church a new coat of paint. Naturally, such gestures as these make the preacher feel that the people have a mind to work.

Sunday afternoon found us at Macedonia church. The people gave good attention to the sermon. Miss Eula Cline and others associated with her are planning a Children's Day service for this church. They will also use the material as sent out by the Board of Missions. Mrs. Bud Davis, of this church and community, has been seriously ill, but is now improving. Mrs. T. P. Deal, wife of our Sunday school superintendent at Knob Creek church, has also been seriously ill, but is now improving. Miss Nathalie Lackey was the leader for Christian Endeavor at Friendship church last evening. Miss Pauline Clay will lead next Sunday evening. On Thursday the people will meet and prepare the cemetery and church grounds for the memorial services on next Sunday. All former pastors, friends and ministers who have gone out from this church are invited back.

H. F. FOGLEMAN, Pastor.

May 14.

Cedar Cliff, Mount Hermon Charge.—On Sunday, May 13, we observed Mother's Day and Home-Coming Day. We had an unusual crowd for both morning and evening services.

At the morning service the choir sang several selections, with a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Boger; also one by Mrs. Boger and Miss Flora Cooper; a quartette. G. H. Enfield and L. E. Mabry were the speakers for the morning. They brought us some very good messages.

Dinner was served about 1 o'clock. A very large table was placed in the yard where the lunches were spread together.

At 2 o'clock we assembled for the evening service. It consisted of singing. Those taking part were: The Glen Hope Quartette, of Burlington; the Central Quartette, of Graham; the Thomas family, from Liberty. Mr. Smith, from Liberty, led the singing. The home choir also sang.

It is with deep regret that we must record that God has seen best to call our dear friend and faithful worker, Mr. A. G. Thompson, home. He was loved and respected by all who knew him. He was a kind father and good husband. He passed from this life Monday, April 31. The funeral service was conducted at Cedar Cliff church, of which he was a member, Tuesday evening.

The friends and relatives showed their love and sympathy by their many beautiful flowers. He was 82 years of age. Surviving are his wife and ten children. We will miss him very much, but let his life inspire us to higher and nobler living.

MRS. R. M. BOGER, Reporter.

First Church, Winston-Salem.—Encouraging reports were made by the various heads of the Sunday school during the adjourned session of the regular quarterly meeting of the Worker's Council of First Methodist Protestant Church last night at the church.

B. K. Milloway, chairman, presided over the meeting following dinner served by the ladies of the council.

Mrs. Roy Hauser was elected assistant superintendent of the junior department and substitute teacher after Mrs. J. A. Gwyn, superinendent, requested an assistant due to the enlarged classes and increased interest.

Miss Helen Bates, superintendent of cradle roll department, and Mrs. J. E. Kirk, superintendent of the Intermediate department, reported increased attendance. Dr. C. W. Bates reported that the Boosters had paid 50 per cent of their annual pledge to the superannuate fund.

The Home Department, which has charge of visiting the sick and shut-ins, was reinstated with Mrs. J. D. Sharpe and Mrs. J. E. Kirk in charge. J. W. Hester, treasurer of the Sunday school, reported the Sunday school had a cash balance of $31.99 with all bills paid.

The council voted to confer honorary memberships in the Worker's Council to the following: W. J. Spainhour, Odell Sapp, Mrs. J. W. Hester, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Wagner, Miss Sara Wagner, and Mrs. Roger Christopher.

English Street.—A revival meeting is now in progress at our church. We are having wonderful services. Rev. J. D. Williams has preached the first week for us. His sermons have been greatly uplifting to us and we feel that much good has been accomplished. As Mr. Williams is to begin a revival this week at Community Church in Thomasville, he can no longer be with us. However, our own pastor, Rev. C. H. Hill, is to continue the services probably throughout the week.

All of our organizations are doing good work. The Sunday school continues in interest and growth. The Ladies' Bible Class and the Philathea Class now have on a contest to encourage Bible reading. The Christian Endeavor Society recently gave a supper in the hut in order to raise money for the treasury. Also, they plan to begin work on a play right away. On Mother's Day the Society gave a program in the church honoring mothers. There was a short play, a dialogue, songs, and readings appropriate for the occasion. We ask the prayers of all the readers of the Herald for our church that we may grow and accomplish something for Jesus Christ. We especially ask your prayers for our revival. REPORTER.

Mt. Pleasant Charge.—Mt. Pleasant Community has been saddened by the passing of three of its members in the past two weeks. Mrs. John Bowman died on Friday, May 4th, after a short illness, and was buried on Sunday afternoon. Then on Friday afternoon, May 11th, Mr. Sam Kellum's family was in an automobile accident, in which Mrs. Kellum was killed instantly, and Mr. Kellum died on Sunday morning. A double service was held at the church on Monday afternoon and the two bodies were laid to rest side by side in the same grave, in the church cemetery. Mt. Pleasant church lost some of its most faithful members in the passing of these people. In the same accident in which Mr. and Mrs. Kellum lost their lives, two of the children were injured. Harvey, who was less injured, has already returned from the hospital. Ruth, who received a fractured skull and other injuries, seems to be getting along fine, and we hope she may soon be at home.

Mt. Pleasant Charge has been doing things; although there have been no reports in the Herald. Since we are at the middle of the Conference year, we are trying to make May Tithe and Pay-Up Month.

The first Sunday in June is Home-Coming and Memorial Day at Mt. Pleasant church. For the morning service we are planning an appropriate home-coming service. At the afternoon service we will pay tribute and respect to those members who have died during the past year. Mr. H. G. Self, principal of E. M. Holt High School, will deliver the memorial address at this service. We welcome all members and friends of Mt. Pleasant church to bring their lunch and be with us on that day. Let the members, especially those who are away, make this a real home-coming day for you.

Plans have been made to hold our Children's Day service at Mt. Pleasant church on the third Sunday in June. Plans are also being made to hold one at Pleasant Union soon. We are planning for a vacation church school at both of the churches this summer. This will be the first attempt at Mt. Pleasant, while it will be the second school for Pleasant Union. We are looking forward to the work this summer and hope to accomplish something worth while for the Master.

J. W. BRAXTON, Pastor.

Flat Rock Charge.—Last Sunday night, May 13th, the Christian Endeavor Society of Bethel Church gave a most interesting program on "The Qualities That Make Good Mothers." The meeting was well attended and everyone seemed to enjoy the program.

Our Christian Endeavor Society is moving along nicely. We have just been organized one month. Our young people seem to be much interested in the Society and all programs have been good. We hope the good work will continue. REPORTER.

Anderson Charge.—As it has been some time since a report from our field has "graced" these pages, lest some think we might be dead or sleeping, may I say, we are neither, but very much alive, we think.

Since the spring-time is here again, the pent-up energy of the long winter months is seeking expression. All our organizations are functioning nicely. Few pastors, I think, on country charges are blessed to serve youth that surpasses the interest and activity seen among the young people on this charge. There is no intermission between S. S., C. E., and preaching services. But it is a rare thing to see a young person leaving the church before preaching. Generally the entire congregation comes and sits through both S. S. or C. E. and preaching services, whether they have any special parts on the program or not. I am proud of our youth, their work, and their aspirations.

Our Women's Societies are doing good work. Their meetings are not "just a get-together" hour, but their programs are devotional, instructive and inspiring. The ladies at Fairview have just purchased, paid for and installed a set of pulpit chairs that does credit to their good taste, and that would grace the pulpit of much finer church buildings. They have also launched a drive for the much-needed Sunday school rooms. This project seems to have been talked for a long time, but now, since the women of the church have undertaken it, you may expect to hear any time that something has really happened. The "God's acre" method will, perhaps, be their means of financing.

The young people of Liberty Hill are behind, and splendidly prosecuting a program for Sunday school rooms there. Their interest has aroused the concern of the older people. They are proud of the ambition and enterprise of their children for their beloved church. And I shall expect the much needed rooms in the near future. But they plan to pay as they go. They have just bought a set of hymn-books for the church.

The annual Mother's and Home-Coming Day at Fairview was a red-letter day. It is said that this was the best day, in every way, they had ever had. The behavior was grand. A former mayor of Greenville brought us the morning address. I wish everybody could have heard him. His tribute to the church, its importance, its mission and message, and the earnestness with which he spoke out of a background of rich experience, and enforced by his splendid personality was, to say the least, a blessing was much spoken of. The afternoon address was given by the Clerk of Court, Anderson, S. C., Hon. Ode Young, and was a good match for the morning address. Liberty Hill was our visiting choir, and brought a fine help to the occasion. The occasion was well attended, and the program chuck full all day. At noon a long table was spread with good things to eat in abundance. By, you ought to see what fine cooks these South Carolina women are! But the center of attraction of the day was the presence of the sweet singer of our old hymns, whose voice rang and echoed over the hills of this hallowed spot, Mr. Fred Gentry, accompanied at the piano by his sister, Mrs. Drake, of Greenville. Handkerchiefs were in profusion as tears were brushed from happy faces as the sweet voice carried the Gospel in song to our hearts through the great hymns of the church we all love. With every seat taken, except a few in the choir loft, and many standing for two hours and a half after noon with but two persons found to be nodding tells the story of the interest and enjoyment of the packed audience.

We will have something good to say about Harmony and Yarborough's Chapel later.

ROBERT SHORT.

Lebanon Church, High Point.—"Abounding Faith" was the sermon subject at 11 o'clock yesterday by our pastor. This was a very vital message. It was good for us. The evening services were all suspended in the interest of the commencement exercises of the city schools. Rev. Tom A. Sykes, pastor of Central Friends church, this city, preached the Baccalaureate sermon in the high school auditorium last night. Mr. Sykes' subject was "What We Are in the World For."

On Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, Mr. O. Arthur Kirkman, general manager of the H. P., T and D. Railroad, and a member of the local school board, will deliver the commencement address before the graduating class. Three of our church members, Doris Welborn, Vesta Cook, and John W. Thacker, are members of this graduating class. Four of our number are member of High Point College graduating class this year, namely, Frances Taylor, John Taylor, Herman Yokely and Jewell Welch. We are justly proud of these fine young people who have attained this degree of success. We wish for them greater successes.

Dr. and Mrs. S. W. Taylor report a very pleasant time during their stay in Washington last week. Dr. Taylor is a member of the executive committee of the General Church, and also a member of the Board of Administration. He attended the meeting of these boards. Mrs. Taylor went as a representative of the N. C. Branch of Woman's Missionary work.

There will be no preaching service in our church next Sunday at 11, because of the High Point College commencement. Many of our people will want to attend that. But there will be Sunday school. The Sunday school will re-assemble in the church at the close of Sunday school and the regular church collection will be received. The is the last of the month's collection, and as it is set apart as "tithing month" it is urged that everyone keep this in mind and thus make the tithe a liberal one.

It has been decided to observe the first Sunday in June as "Flower Sunday." The church will be a veritable bower of blooms. After services these flowers will be sent out to cheer sick people and shut-ins. Each member wishing to contribute offerings of blooms may feel perfectly free to do so.

The flowers on Mother's Day were beautiful. We observed that day with appropriate services. A large congregation was present to worship. At that time our pastor presented a vase of beautiful roses to the oldest mother present. Mrs. J. H. Moton, widow of the late Rev. J. H. Moton, received this bouquet. She was also the recipient of a lovely picture, Whistlers' "Mother," which the Philathea class presented her for their appreciation of her loving service as assistant teacher.

We regret to report sickness in many of the homes of our people. Brother Burley Huff suffered a stroke of paralysis last Monday. He is rick sick. Many prayers will be offered in behalf of him and his family who have been faithful in church work. Brother Huff was church treasurer. Mrs. Huff requested that someone be elected in his stead. So Mr. R. E. L. Hayworth was elected yesterday to serve as treasurer and Mr. Huff was released from the obligation.

Mr. Victor P. Hammer, of Washington, D. C., is visiting relatives in the community.

West End, Thomasville.—Our revival began on April 22 and closed on May 2. Rev. C. E. Ridge came to us on Sunday night of the beginning of the meeting and did all the preaching with the exception of one sermon. Rev. C. H. Hill, of High Point, English Street, came and preached on the fifth Sunday at the 11 o'clock service. Bro. Ridge had to be in the District meeting at Mount Carmel, Lexing. Bro. Hill brought us a wonderful message. Bro. Ridge was at his best all through the meeting. He brought to us messages that stirred our souls. It seemed that if one of the seraphims touched his lips, as the Prophet Isaiah said when he saw the Lord, in the temple. The church was revived as a result of the meeting. There were eight that came to the altar and accepted Christ as their Savior. Four united with the church. Prof. Yokeley led the choir for us throughout the meeting, and did a splendid job. There was special music throughout the meeting by members of the various churches. This contributed much to the success of the meeting.

There are many that we failed to reach during the revival. But I feel very sure that he messages brought by these brethren will bear fruit in the future. We hope to see many come into the Kingdom before this Conference year shall end.

Since the revival we have begun cottage prayer meetings in the community. There is much interest taken in these prayer services. We have two male quartets that organized some time ago. They get out and sing at the other church when they are not in service at their own church.

The Ladies' Aid is doing splendid work. They are the backbone of the church.

The C. E. Society is going forward under the splendid leadership of Miss Mary Disher, who has become the president of the society since the death of the president elected at the first of the year.

We appreciate the interest that is being manifested in the different organizations of the church and on the part of the membership. However, we have some that don't take any active part in the church or any of the programs of the church. We hope to have very good reports at the close of the Conference year. Remember us in your prayers, brethren. You can rest assured that you have our prayers with you.

H. W. BELL, Pastor.

◆

First Church, High Point.—Sunday morning, May 6th, the second regular Communion service was conducted at the hour of worship. A large participation was noted. On the following Wednesday evening the second quarterly conference convened for reports and business. The attendance was not up to par, but other reports were sent. We note the commendable habit here of submitting written reports.

During the session, Mr. W. C. Ferree and Mr. E. L. Douglas were nominated for the election of delegate to the Annual Conference. A new Junior Christian Endeavor Society was authorized with Miss Myrtle Davis as superintendent. It will meet during the morning hour of worship as did the former Junior Church.

Recently the following have united with the church by transfer: Mrs. Dorothy Bencini Armfield, Miss Mary E. Adams, Mrs. Belvin Moore and Mr. Jasper Lee Jones. This makes a total of 14 for the year.

Sunday, May 13th, we observed two special services. In the morning a Mother's Day service with some special features was pronounced by many in the audience as very effective. The choir and Miss Edith Guthrie, of High Point College, assisted in the service entitled, "Songs Our Mothers Sang." The evening worship was devoted to the sixth annual Florence Nightingale service in which the nurses of the city were special guests. The sermon subject was, "Good Samaritans and the Great Physician."

The graduation spirit is with us now. The high school baccalaureate sermon was delivered last Sunday evening at the high school by Rev. Tom A. Sykes. This minister assisted by offering the invocation and reading the Scripture lesson. First Church is honored by having among the graduates Clyde H. Bass., Jr., June Alson Gray, Jr., Robert H. Bass, Jr., June Also Gray, Jr., Robert Blair Rankin, and Misses Ethel Thelma Culler and Vera Agnes York. Next Sunday will be devoted to participation in the annual High Point College baccalaureate and Christian Association services. This is always a red-letter day for us, and we hope to see many guests in the audience.

Friends of Capt. A. M. Rankin, familiar and beloved figure in First Church, as well as in both Annual and Gneral Conference circles, will regret to know of his recent severe illness. At this writing he is somewhat improved, but is still confined to the house. Many friends and neighbors pray daily for his complete recovery.

Visible results are being produced in the Tithing-for-May experience through which we are passing. Many individuals and families are pledged to bring at least one-tenth of their income during May to be applied equally to past due obligations and bills and the July Building Fund interest. For the bulletins we are using for two months the folders from the Laymen's Company, in Chicago, each of which contains a study of scriptural giving. We look not only for immediate results but for some definite continuance of systematic and proportionate giving. "The Tithe Is Mightier Than the Drive." The first Sunday in June will be known as "Clean Up Day," when the Joash Chest service will be used for receiving the balance of the tithing amounts or special gifts with which to meet obligations.

Perhaps the next communication will come from the pen of Mrs. L. R. Peacock, assistant reporter, who was recently elected to assist our regular and efficient reporter, Mrs. R. T. Pickens, until she is able to resume her correspondence. Mrs. Peacock is the society editor of one of our local papers.

With fraternal greetings.

R. I. FARMER, Pastor.

◆

Tabernacle-Julian.—The memorial service at Tabernacle was observed last Sunday in the usual manner. A large number of people were present. The older people said more than usual. Bro. T. F. McCulloch, the oldest minister out of the large number of ministers this church has produced and the oldest pastor, both from the point of his own age and from the point of the time he served this church as pastor, preached the sermon. His message was very fine and fitting to the occasion. He brought us thoughts from Bible accounts of customs and circumstances of the death and burial of the great and illustrious dead. These accounts being the background, he deducted truths and lessons to be applied to the living. After the sermon a memorial service was conducted in memory of those who had passed since last memorial day. The empty chair service was used. Chairs for those who had died during the year were placed in the altar. Then as the names of these, with the dates of birth and death, were called flowers were placed on these respective chairs by young ladies, who took their places just behind the chair, and lastly a beautiful flower chain was presented by a number of young ladies. This was in honor of the unknown and forgotten of the cemetery. The flowers were then taken to the cemetery by the young ladies. The flowers for those dying during the year were placed on their graves and the chain was placed on a large white cross which had been erected in the oldest part of the cemetery. While the flowers were being placed, the people went to the cemetery and stood about the graves of their loved ones as a short service of music and prayer was conducted, being dismissed by Bro. McCulloch.

In the afternoon a song and prayer service was conducted and Bro. Pritchard, of Calvary church, Greensboro, brought us the very helpful message, bringing out the thoughts of what one people of one time owes the people who have gone before them. His message was enjoyed by all. Music was enjoyed throughout the day, being rendered by our own quartette and by the ladies' quartette from the Forest Avenue Baptist church of Greensboro. Bro. W. M. Pike, a former pastor, was with us and took part in the services. We were so glad to have all these good people who helped by contributing to the services as well as all others who were with us. Thank you, and come again.

It is the custom of our people to clean off the cemetery twice each year, once just before memorial day, and the first part of August, just before the August revival. This year the people were very fine indeed in thir response to do this work. Wednesday, May 16, had been appointed as the day for this work, and more than 50 people were on the ground during the day. Men, women and children were here clearing away and beautifying the grounds. It is certainly interesting to see the people from far and near taking so much interest in this sacred spot made so by the many hundreds of burials covering the time of more than a hundred years.

The wedding bells had been silent so long in our midst that it seemed that rust was about to take possession and that the clappers were about to become fixed and stationary. But a short time ago Mr. Grady Fields and Miss Mamie Causey became the happy couple that caused the old bells to ring out with happy jubilation. We were made to know that the old bells could ring as beautifully as ever. Then on last Saturday evening, Mr. Albert Fields and Miss Bonnie Staley caused the bells to ring the sweet chorus once again. These young people were all married in the parsonage in the presence of a few friends by the pastor. Thy all have our most sincere good wishes and hearty congratulations. May the pathway of life be strewn with many beautiful flowers.

GEO. L. CURRY.

◆

Friendship, Fallston Charge.—On Sunday the annual memorial services were held at this church. Sunday school met at 9:45 with 195 present. At 11 o'clock the pastor preached, using as his text, "Other men have labored and ye have entered into their labors." He reviewed briefly the history of our church, first, as a denomination on to our local church. He urged that the present members join hands and push forward where the others had dropped off. Special music was rendered by the Baptist quartet, Wright Quartet, and the Mitchem twins.

After this service the graves were beautifully decorated with flowers. As is our custom, flowers were put on every grave whether relatives of that one was present or not.

In the afternoon the following quartets sang: Knob Creek, Baptist, Wright, North Brook, and a trio from Lawndale. The church was packed at both services and there were over 100 who were unable to get seats.

The Woman's Auxiliary met Monday afternoon with Mrs. J. R. Lackey. The program was in charge of Mrs. Johnnie Lewis. After business matters had been discussed the hostess was assisted by her daughter, Nathalie and Cerelda, in serving refreshments.

Rev. and Mrs. H. F. Fogleman left Monday to attend a meeting at Calvary church in Greensboro. They will visit relatives in Concord and Greensboro before returning.

Mrs. J. M. Morgan and children, Paul and Juanita, of Concord, are spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Will Clay.

Miss Pauline Clay led C. E. last Sunday. About 25 members and visitors were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Moten Glenn and children, of Lincolnton, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pink Glenn.

On Saturday morning, May 19, at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride, Miss Gladys Morris and Mr. Talton Johnson, Jr., were married. Rev. C. P. Morris, of Kannapolis, officiated, using the ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will make their home in Burlington. The groom's father and sister, Dr. T. M. Johnson and Miss Mary Ward, were present at the wedding.

NATHALIE LACKEY, Reporter.

◆

First Church, Asheville.—The Woman's Auxiliary met in regular monthly session on Thursday evening with Mrs. J. F. Minnis at the parsonage. Devotional was conducted by Mrs. Minnis, the subject, "Launch Out," being very inspiring. She is also chairman for Circle No. 2, which led in attendance at the meeting.

Mrs. H. O. Charnock gave an interesting talk on Christian Education. Mrs. D. L. West talked interestingly on Literature. Miss Josie McNeill, a member of the Business Girls' Circle, No. 3, was elected secretary for the High Point College fund, which was fitting, since she is a former student of the college. Mrs. W. H. Baker, president, gave an interesting and enthusiastic talk, outlining some of our goals.

It was gratifying to the delegate sent to Branch Meeting that the members so heartily accepted and approved of the raise of $20.00 in the budget. Well, that is characteristic of the Asheville folk.

MRS. G. P. YOUNGINER, Sec'y.

◆

Asheville.—The reporter for Asheville has been ill for several weeks and has not been able to make reports regularly. Therefore I shall help her out by making my first report since returning from India.

Soon after Rev. H. W. Maier resigned to take a church in the Ohio Conference, I was appointed to take his place. Mrs. Minnis and the children joined me about the tenth of February. We were given a warm welcome by the church and community. The men of the church warmed our bodies as well as our hearts by installing a splendid Heatrola in the parsonage. They have not ceased to shower us with good things for the parsonage and for the pantry. Just after we moved into the parsonage some heavy trucks began backing in, too. The CWA had more earth than they knew what to do with, so they tried to fill up the back lot of the parsonage grounds. Though they moved a great amount of earth from the street to our back yard, yet they have only reached the basement. Digging a basement is quite a job, so we are told, but from experience I can say that filling one is no small job.

During our short stay we have found the people most agreeable; at home or at church we have never met a more friendly people. There appears to be a splendid spirit of co-operation on the part of all the people. The attendance, though not large, is encouraging, and the people excellent listeners. The prayer meeting is quite well attended. Thus far we have made a study of the miracles of the Lord, with a period for devotions.

There are good Christian Endeavor Societies, Senior, Intermediate, and Junior, and these groups are doing excellent work. The Sunday school has about all the children we can well accommodate. The women are well organized and the year looks promising.

We have been very favorably impressed with what we have found and believe that better days lie ahead for the Asheville church.

J. F. MINNIS.

◆

Bethesda, State Street.—It has been so long since we have sent in a report I hardly know where to begin. Sunday school is progressing nicely. The second Sunday in May we observed Mother's Day with special singing by different classes of the Sunday school, after which our pastor preached, taking for his subject "Mothers." The Bible character he chose was Hannah, the mother of Samuel. What the world needs today is more mothers like Hannah of old.

On May 11 we held our second quarterly conference.

We are planning Children's Day exercises to be given in the near future.

The Ladies' Auxiliary is raising missionary chickens to help pay our budget this year.

Rev. T. M. Johnson did some visiting in this community Friday of last week.

The death angel recently visited our community and took one of our much loved little Sunday school scholars, little Winfred Essick, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Essick. Winfred was a sweet little boy, just a little past six years of age. He was a faithful Sunday school scholar, always ready for his speech for any exercise the Sunday school had. He always greeted you with a smile. He leaves, besides his father and mother, four sisters and four brothers to mourn his going. May the dear Lord bless and keep them all and may they ever look unto Him who said: "Let the little children come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Best wishes to the good old Herald and its many readers.

MRS. D. D. BRINKLEY, Reporter.

◆

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge.—The reporter has been on the sick list for the past few weeks, with flu and bronchitis, but now I wish to say I am thankful to be up and able to attend services Sunday. I surely did miss all the services while unable to attend. It was the second C. E. meeting I have missed in the two and one-half years since we organized our society. The vice-president, Miss Lula Pearson, faithfully presided in my absence.

On Sunday, May 5, the choir attended services at Fairview church.

The Ladies' Aid held their May monthly meeting, using for their topic "Mother." A splendid program was carried out, with 10 members present, each taking part. Mrs. N. N. Smith and Mrs. A. A. Foster rendered two beautiful hymns. The president, Mrs. R. T. Bennette, was unable to attend because of the illness of her two children. Their June meeting will be on "Father," and they are inviting all the fathers as honor guests.

For the past few weeks measles has been in nearly every family. But most of the patients are up and getting along nicely.

Mr. Fay Pearson, one of our members, was buried here Monday, May 6.

Our pastor, Mr. Short, is still working faithfully, filling his appointments and visiting the sick. Everyone was glad Mrs. Short was able to accompany him on his last appointment; also she and little daughter join him on his visit to the sick.

We were very sorry to hear of the illness of Mrs. Stout, of Greenville, and hope and pray for her and all the other sick a speedy recovery.

Our song-books are on the way and we hope to have them by next Sunday.

The men met last week and cleaned the church grounds. They look the best we have ever seen them.

LOTTIE L. HARRISON, Reporter.

◆

West End, Greensboro.—Last Sunday at the 11 o'clock hour a special service was held to give recognition to the young people of our church who are in High School, Leadership Training School, Business School and College. Master John Lindley, mascot of the Senior class at High Point College, led the processional line, which was composed of the Senior High School students, marching by classes, the pastor and members of the choir. The Seniors wore their caps and gowns. Special violin music for this service was furnished by Mr. Steadman Clifton, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. R. Holden, our regular pianist. The pastor used as his sermon subject, "The Quest for the Boundless Life."

Monday, May 28, at 9 o'clock our Vacation Church School will open. The school will cover a period of two weeks and will be under the supervision of Miss Maxine Taylor.

The many friends of Mr. L. M. Foust, who has been critically ill at Dr. Long's Hospital, are happy to know that he has sufficiently recovered to be removed to his home, 628 Scott Avenue. Mr. Foust has been a very efficient, faithful and loyal worker in our church since its organization, being one of the charter members, and we have and are missing him very much. May he speedily recover, is our prayer.

Our hearts were made very sad by the accidental death of the little four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Cox, 935 Walker Avenue. The little fellow was attempting to cross the street near his home when he was hit by a passing car and fatally injured. Funeral service was conducted at the home Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. T. J. Whitehead. Our sympathy goes out to the bereaved parents and grandparents. May God's richest blessings rest upon them.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE.

◆

Calvary, Greensboro.—The Woman's Auxiliary met at the church Monday afternoon. A 30-minute prayer service preceded the Auxiliary meeting.

Since our pastor finds it necessary to be out of town the first Sunday in June, quarterly communion will be observed at our church next Sunday morning.

Several of our people attended the memorial services at Tabernacle M. P. church last Sunday. The sermon Sunday morning was delivered by Rev. T. F. McCulloch and Sunday afternoon by Dr. J. E. Pritchard.

Preparations are being made for our revival, which begins Wednesday evening, June 6. Prayer meeting was held on Tuesday evening of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Herudon; on Wednesday evening at the hut and on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Michael. Rev. Roy I. Farmer, pastor of the First M. P. Church in High Point, will be the pulpit help during our revival.

We were very glad to have Mrs. L. A. Michael and her father, Mr. Bobbitt, who have been sick for quite a while, back at church last Sunday.

Mrs. Carey Kirkman and little daughter, Betty Rose, are ill at their home at the present time. We hope for them a speedy recovery.

Our people were greatly delighted with the Mid-Year Meeting, sponsored by President Andrews, which was held at our church Tuesday.

Misses Rebecca Hewitt and Nannie Glass were joint hostesses to the Myrtle Bates class at the home of Miss Hewitt on Monday evening of last week.

Slight damage was done to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Carey W. Kirkmau Tuesday night by fire.

MRS. HOWARD R. NEECE, Reporter.

◆

THE MID-YEAR MEETING AT CALVARY

Dr. Andrews has asked me to write something about the Mid-Year meeting which was held at Calvary Church on Tuesday of this week. This meeting was sponsored by Dr. R. M. Andrews, the President of the Conference, and its purpose was to find out what had been done during the first half of the year and to generate enthusiasm for the remainder of the year. It is usually easy to use superlative terms in describing a meeting, but without any exaggeration I will say that this meeting was one of the best yet. The attendance was encouraging and the spirit of the meeting was all that could be hoped for. The two addresses by Dr. S. D. Gordon, of Winston-Salem, noted for his "Quiet Talks," were of a very high order, and those who heard him had a deeper appreciation of God and His dealings with the human race. The address by Dr. W. A. Stanbury, pastor of West Market Street Church here in Greensboro, was very fine and breathed a most excellent spirit.

The reports from the institutions and Boards and also from the pastors were optimistic. Dr. Andrews reported that only two pastors, out of the 55 that had reported to him, admitted they were discouraged. The Herald Commitee reported that 246 more subscriptions had been sent in the first half of this year than during the first half of last year. Dr. Dixon reported that the receipts for the Children's Home were about $1,400.00 ahead of what they were a year ago. Dr. Humphreys announced that the College was closing one of its best years and that the budget had been practically balanced. Mrs. George R. Brown gave an excellent account of the Women's work. The reports from pastors dealt with increased payments to the budgets, church debts reduced, tithing campaigns, parsonage repairs, church repairs, and lots of good things. No one could sit in such a meeting without catching the spirit of optimism.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

SPRING CHURCH CIRCUIT AUXILIARY

On Wednesday, May 2, at 2:30 p. m., in spite of a downpour of rain, 11 members, two visitors and three Precious Jewels met in the home of Mrs. J. M. Duuham for our Auxiliary meeting. Mrs. Duuham was devotional leader, using the new devotional book, "Launch Out Into the Deep," for the first time. Song, "Give of Your Best," followed by prayer led by Mrs. H. E. Vassar. The Auxiliary then joined in singing our new Missionary hymn, "Launch Out." The society voted to send the Missionary Record to two of the members who do not get to attend regularly, Mrs. Charles Green and Mrs. H. S. B. Thompsou. The society voted to pay our High Point College Budget in full. It was also decided to divide the Auxiliary budget, using one-half for local expenses and the other half for the Branch budget.

Mrs. J. G. Mitchell was program leader. Miss Mary Daniel read a paper, "Youth Movement in the East," and Mrs. J. G. Mitchell read "Youth Movement in the West." The question box was in charge of Mrs. J. L. Glover. The Society closed with the Lord's Prayer in concert.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Durham and daughter, Miss Mary. The June meeting will be in the home of Mrs. L. P. Woodruff.

MRS. Wm. H. NEESE, Reporter.

◆

MY TRIP TO JERUSALEM

October, 1920.

Leaving Haifa, Palestine, at 10 o'clock, I passed through several towns on the way. Ludz being one of the largest and topical of the mud towns. The houses of the entire town are built of mud and straw. Cattle are kept on the ground floors, and people sleep up in a loft, and the heat of animals' breath keeps them warm. So I was told.

I arrived in the Holy City at 1 o'clock the following morning, which is 59 miles by rail, through hills and corners. I took a picture of the train I was on.

My first visit was to the hotel for a few hours' rest and sleep. After breakfast I went to Bethlehem by hack, pulled by two horses. Bethlehem is about six miles from Jerusalem and, as everyone knows, is the birth-place of Christ. The Church of Nativity is a large building and is representeted by all denominations of religion. It is built over the birthplace of Christ and is on a hillside. It has a cellar and a large silver star about three feet in diameter represents the particular spot Christ was lying. The well that was there—people believe the star fell there when it disappeared, so it is still kept up. You can look down it.

Going back to Jerusalem, I passed Rachel's tomb, which reminded me of a dome of a large church in that country.

Having lunch at a hotel, I went to Mount Olive a round-about way; can only travel by foot or ride a donkey. Arriving on the mount I noted the point where it is said that Christ ascended from earth to heaven. His footprints are represented in a stone. The stone, I think, is about three and a half feet in diameter and about 18 inches above the ground with an iron fence around it. I got over in it and stood both feet in the prints. There is also a very large bell up there. I think it is about 18 feet in diameter, and is located on top of a tower about three stories high with winding steps. You can walk all around the bell on a platform and look all over the Dead Sea. The sea has no oulet and the water is perfectly still.

On my way back to Jerusalem I also visited the Garden of Gethsemane. There I found many beautiful flowers. It is said that some of them never die. I sent some back home. There is a deep well of water. It is said that Christ drank from this well. I also drank, and it is good water.

Then to Solomon's Temple, which is built around the large stone which covers the entire building. Of course the woodwork has been changed. Worshipers pull their shoes off and go in at the door; by doing this they believe they have left the sins of earth outside.

I saw where Christ was crucified and saw the remains of a cross on which Christ is said to have been crucified. One side of the cross is broken off about three inches from the stand. The stand is broken just below the cross. The rest is there. I saw where He was buried. I saw the seven or eleven hand-prints Christ is said to have made in the stones on the road up to Jerusalem when He fell seven or eleven times. He is said to have made a hand-print each time he fell. These stones have been taken up and put in the wall along the opposite side to represent the spot.

Back to the hotel and a good night's rest. You might wonder what I had to eat. Well, mutton and goat butter. I never did like mutton, but the goat butter was quite palatable.

The following morning I went over the business section of the city. Most all of the buildings are old and are of stone. The stores appeared very dirty.

People have bad eyes from some disease of unclean living.

I boarded the train early in the afternoon and arrived in Haifa and boarded my ship about night.

I saw those things and many more, but they are the main ones of interest.

This article is written to the best of my memory after more than 13 years.

TOM J. CARPENTER.

◆

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

(Continued From Page Eight)

ference to plan to give us grain of any kind to be used for bread and for feed.

Our Boys

We have had to buy clothing for our boys. Just couldn't wait any longer. But they must be paid for. What man or group of men will help? Please let us hear quickly. Thank you and God bless you.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

◆

—Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk was welcomed into the First Methodist Church pulpit, Washington, N. C., May 20th for the evening service.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Nance

Death has taken our co-worker and Christian Endeavor president, Charles (Jack) Nance, to his reward in heaven.

Charles crowded into his 18 short years a deep Christian attitude, an influential Christian life and a love for the church and Christian work. He was always kind and faithful, yet ever firm and sincere and because of this he was loved by everyone who knew him.

Charles was born September 1, 1915, and departed this life May 3, 1934. About 18 months ago he joined West End M. P. Church, Thomasville, and remained a faithful member until death came suddenly on Thursday evening.

He is survived by his father, one sister, one half brother, his grandparents and a large number of relatives and friends. We all feel that we have lost one of the most influential and most loved young persons that it has ever been our privilege to know.

Charles will be greatly missed in our C. E. Society, but may we all live such lives that when the summons comes to us we may be ready to go.

May God's richest blessings abide in the hearts of the family and in the Christian Endeavor workers where Charles' influence will ever live in the hearts and lives of those who will try, by the help of God, to carry on the work he started.

Massey

On Wednesday night, May 9, 1934, the Death Angel entered our midst and took from this earthly abode to her heavenly home our beloved mother, Mrs. Catherine C. Massey. The call came unexpectedly, she having been ill for only a few days, but she was ready to answer.

Prior to her marriage in 1883 to Samuel Charles Massey she was Catherine Casco Drewett, daughter of the late Benjamin and Julia Drewett. She was born on November 10, 1858, being at her death 75 years, 5 months and 29 days old. Thirty-five years ago she was preceded to the Great Beyond by her life-companion.

Of this union there were eight children, of which there were two, a son and daughter, who died in infancy. Those surviving her are Mrs. E. L. Barnes, of Pleasant Hill, N. C.; Mrs. W. L. Moody, Mrs. J. T. L. Irvin, Mr. W. Roland Massey, and Mr. Samuel T. Massey, all of near Seaboard, N. C., and Mrs. B. M. Pitt, of Nashville, N. C.

She leaves behind 25 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren to mourn the loss of a precious grandmother, and one brother, Mr. George W. Drewett, of Seaboard, N. C., five half-brothers and two half-sisters, together with a host of sorrowing relatives and friends.

As a young girl she was united with Spring Church near Pleasant Hill, where she remained a loyal and faithful member until the time of her death. One of the greatest pleasures of her life was attending the services and doing her bit for her church whenever health and circumstances permitted.

The funeral services were conducted at 2:30 o'clock on Friday afternoon, May 11, from the Bethel Baptist church, by her pastor, Rev. Mr. Neese of Spring Church, Rev. Mr. Watts of Concord and Seaboard Methodist churches. and Rev. Mr. Fountain of Weldon and Bethel Baptist churches, the latter being the home church of her son, Mr. W. Roland Massey, and the church nearest her home where she had ofttimes attended.

During her life on this earth she was a consecrated Christian woman, and a great lover of all that was good and beautiful. Her love of flowers and generous donations of them to the church showed this love and a desire to render every service possible, however small. The many beautiful flowers given as a last token of love and appreciation and the kind words of the pastors expressed the esteem in which she was held. As was said of her, "To know her was to love her."

She was laid to rest by the side of her husband in the old family burying ground near Pleasant Hill. The flowers were borne by eight of her granddaughters.

"The sound of your voice, the light of your smile,
These were the things that made life worthwhile;
The touch of your hand, the warmth of your cheer,
These were the treasures we counted most dear;
The soul of your goodness, the heart of your worth,
We wouldn't forget these for half of the earth."

HER CHILDREN.

Lynch

Again the death angel came and saddened the hearts of the entire community by the death of Mr. Garnett Lynch at his home near Brunswick, Va., on April 3, 1934. He was only 22 years old March 4, 1934. He had been sick since March 8, 1934.

He joined James Square Baptist church when he was 12 years old and has been a faithful member since. No one knows a bad feature in his life. He was of a splendid character and was loved by everyone.

On March 15, 1930, he was married to Miss Nellie Archer. His wife being a member of Matthews Chapel church, he attended our Sunday school every Sunday. We honored him in our Sunday school and especially in the choir for his pride in singing. We know that we will miss him greatly.

Surviving him was a wife, a father and mother, six sisters, and a host of friends and relatives.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, April 4, at Matthews Chapel church. Services were conducted by Rev. Q. L. Joyner, assisted by Rev. L. J. Atkinson of Roanoke, Va., the pastor under whom he gave his heart to God. The presence of grief-stricken relatives and sympathizing friends, and many beautiful flowers expressed the high esteem in which he was held.

Active pallbearers were Howard Connell, Camp Rawlings, Cecil Bowen, George Clary, Milton Moore, and William Norwood. Honorary pallbearers were Eddie Lee Edwards, W. W. Wesson, Clarence Wrenn, Warren Braswell, Harvey Clary, Loyd Rawlings, A. L. Taylor, Bennie Moore, Herbert Norwood, Robert Clarke, Clarence Schulthrope, William Edmonds, Martin Jones, and Otis Whitley.

CLARENCE WRENN, His S. S. Teacher.

Thompson

Alsou Gray Thompson was born July 11, 1851, and died April 30, 1934. On September 22, 1881, he was married to Flora Thompson. To this union 11 children were born. They are as follows: William Ernest Thompson, Mrs. Ollie Evans, Claude Thompson, Bert Thompson, Mrs. Bessie Cooper, Sidney Thompson, Mrs. Maude Reynolds, Mrs. Ethel Price, Dewey Thompson, Mrs. Edna Coble, Mrs. Sallie Ivey.

On May 12, 1906, the wife departed this life. In the year of 1907 he was married to Minnie Hargrove. To this union one son, Vaughn Thompson, was born.

The wife and all the children, except the oldest and youngest, also one sister, Julia Thompson, and 30 grandchildren and three great grandchildren survive.

He united with Bethel church when a young man, but transferred his membership to Cedar Cliff when that church was organized near his home, to which he remained loyal till death.

He was a devoted husband, a kind father, a good citizen, a leader in his church.

His funeral was held at the church, conducted by the writer, assisted by Revs. J. A. Burgess, H. L. Isley and L. E. Mabry. His body was interred in the church cemetery to await the resurrection morn.

G. W. HOLMES.

Wall

Henry Dalt Calvin Wall was born June 26, 1882, and departed this life April 8th, 1934, aged 51 years, nine months and 13 days.

He professed faith in Christ in early life and joined Mount Zion M. P. Church, where he remained a consistent Christian until called to the Church Triumphant.

In 1909 he was happily married to Maggie Aletha Marion, who preceded him in death a few years. He was an obedient son, a faithful husband and a loving father.

He was afflicted for several years and had been confined to his room since last August, during which time he suffered much, but he bore his afflictions with patience and resignation to God's will, always looking to Him for guidance and trying to be submissive to whatever should come to him.

We feel now that he is at the end of his troubles and that he is just beginning a life of eternal happiness in a world where there is no more sufferings.

He leaves two sons, Dave and Claude, who did all that loving hands could do for his comfort while here, and we trust that this bereavements may draw them nearer to the blessed Savior, and when He calls them to leave this world that they may be ready to meet father and mother and make an undivided family in heaven. He leaves a host of other relatives and friends to mourn their loss.

Funeral services were conducted by the writer, after which the remains were laid to rest in Mount Zion cemetery.

A. L. HUNTER.

Robertson

Charles William Robertson was born September 22, 1867, and died February 19, 1934, aged 66 years, four months and 28 days.

At the age of 20 he was married to Delphia Ann Flynn. They lived together 46 years.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Early Randleman, of Pinnacle, N. C., and Mrs. Arthur Sharpe, of Madison, N. C.; and one son, Buryl Robertson. Mrs. Charlie Nance, Madison, N. C., preceded him in death three years ago. He leaves two grandchildren, Paul and Martha Randleman, Pinnacle, N. C.

He professed faith in Christ at the age of 30 years and joined the M. P. Church at Mount Zion and attended regularly as long as he was in reach of there, and when he couldn't attend his own church he worshipped at others, showing is loyalty to Christ and His Kingdom.

I feel that we have indeed lost a good man from our ranks. But we feel that our loss is his eternal gain. While we are losing so many of our good members, let us remember that we must strive to get as many others as we can to fill the vacancies, and may the Spirit of the Lord be with us all and comfort the bereaved ones.

Funeral services were held by the pastor. Burial was in the Mount Zion cemetery.

A. L. HUNTER.

Waitman

Paul Raiford Waitman was born September, 1914; died May 7, 1934.

Just as the twilight shades had fallen on the eve of class night at Reeds High School, Raiford slipped away to go home on an errand. A tragedy occurred which made him unable to return to his school to take part in the long hoped-for event. He went to join the great host of boys and girls who are mingling around the great white throne.

When the news of the wreck reached his class they were shocked beyond words. A tender love cord had been broken. A hushed silence filled the air. Gone! The chair he was to have filled was vacant and draped, never to be filled again. He was greatly loved by his teachers and schoolmates. Always the same even-tempered, unselfish boy everywhere he went. His influence consisted of the irresistible power that emanates from such a life.

His religious and church life was regular and consistent. He filled his place every Sunday in the Y. M. W. A. class. His passing is the first of our number since it was organized nine years ago. He was a member of the Christian Endeavor Society for several years. He loved his church. His example can safely be followed. His school mates and Sunday school mates are going to grow better because Raiford lived.

The funeral service was conducted from Shiloh M. P. Church, of which he was a member, by Rev. C. E. Ridge, Rev. C. G. Isley, and Rev. E. C. Roach, in the presence of a great throng of people with tear-dimmed eyes. The floral designs were many and beautiful. The pallbearers were member of the graduating class of 1934 of Reeds High School, of which he was a member.

Our hearts go out in tender sympathy to the bereaved parents and relatives who feel so keenly the passing of this precious one. Their fairest flower has been plucked, and their house left desolate.

Despite their sorrow, there is much to comfort them. He was a Christian. One day in God's wise providence they may join him there.

He leaves father, mother, two brothers and one sister.

"When every door seems closed up tight,
I know there is a way through;
Somehow, when I can see no light,
I know there is a way through.
My Lord is Master of the gale,
His precious Word will never fail—
Let all the powers of hell assail,
I know there is a way through!
The dead are only so in name,
All 'round they live and move
Unseen, unheard, yet still the same,
Still watching us with love.
When comes the final hour of life,
I know there'll be a way through.
When I have done with toil and strife,
I'm sure there'll be a way through!
When I go down through Death's dark door,
On my journey to that Unknown Shore,
I'll trust Him then and forever more,
Who is the only way through.

RAY LEATHERMAN.

Massey

On Wednesday night, May 9, 1934, the soul of Mrs. Catherine C. Massey answered the call to "come up higher" and went home to her Heavenly Father. Mrs. Massey was sick only a few days, and those nearest and dearest to her did not realize that the end was so near. She died as she had lived, quietly and unafraid. Truly a good woman has gone.

She was the daughter of the late Benjamin and Julia Drewett. In 1883 she was married to Samuel Charles Massey, and to this union were born three sons and five daughters. One son and one daughter died in infancy. Those surviving are Mrs. E. L. Barnes, Pleasant Hill, N. C.; Mrs. W. L. Moody, Mrs. J. T. L. Irvin, Mr. W. Roland, and Mr. Samuel T. Massey, of near Seaboard, N. C., and Mrs. B. M. Pitt, of Nashville, N. C.; 26 grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, one brother, five half-brother, two half-sisters and a host of sorrowing friends.

She was a member of Spring Church Methodist Protestant church, having joined when a young girl. She loved her church and was always interested in it and attended when she was able. She was a great lover of flowers and it was a great pleasure to her to place flowers in the church or by the bedside of a sick friend. She was a consecrated Christian woman and was loved by all who knew her.

Her funeral was conducted from Bethel Baptist church by her pastor, Rev. Wm. H. Neese, assisted by Rev. L. A. Watts, of the M. E. Church, and Rev. R. S. Fountain, pastor of the Baptist church. She was laid to rest in the family burying ground near Pleasant Hill, by the side of her husband who had preceded her 34 years ago.

The many beautiful flowers and the kind words of the ministers proved the esteem in which she was held. Too much cannot be said of a good mother. For more than 75 years Mrs. Massey had lived on this earth, but now she is basking in the sunshine of Heaven. To the sorrowing ones we would say, Do not sorrow as those who are without hope. Put your trust in your mother's God and live as she lived and you will meet her in the sweet bye and bye.

MRS. Wm. H NEESE.

Setliff

Harriet Malinda Butner Setliff was born May 7, 1849, and departed this life March 25, 1934, aged 84 years, 10 months and 18 days.

She professed faith in Christ and joined the church in early life, making a long life in the Master's service. She died in the triumphs of the Gospel, leaving the assurance that all was well with her. What more could she have done?

She was married to Daniel H. Setliff December 18, 1873, who preceded her to the grave. She had made her home most of the time for several years with her only son, R. W. Setliff, of Pinnacle, N. C.

She leaves three daughters, Mrs. J. R. Stone, Mrs. S. F. Fulk, of Pinnacle, N. C., Mrs. A. F. Weisner, of Winston-Salem, N. C.; 22 grandchildren, 23 great-grandchildren, besides a host of other relatives and friends. She had been very feeble for a number of years, but always seemed cheerful and glad to have her friends visit and talk with her, and would pass the time very pleasantly with them.

Funeral services were conducted by the writer. The remains were placed in Mount Zion cemetery to await the resurrection.

Our hearts go out in sympathy for all the loved ones. A. L. HUNTER.

Hill

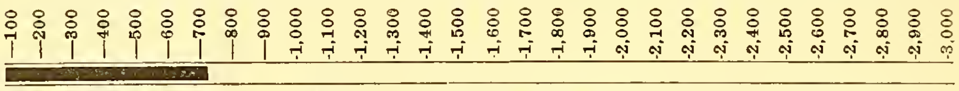
Mrs. Chineta Kersey Hill was born in Guilford County December 11, 1903, and departed this life February 14, 1934. She went to the Guilford County Sanatorium October 9th, 1933, and remained there until she passed away.

She was married to Mr. Joseph E. Hill on April 22, 1932. In early life she became a Christian and united with Mitchell's Grove M. P. Church, where she remained a faithful member until death. Mrs. Hill lived a quiet, unassuming life; everyone loved her. Many good things can be said about her. She had a desire to get well and be with her family but was resigned to her Heavenly Father's will and was ready to go. Some time previous to her passing she had placed a list of songs on the table beside her bed, and some of them were sung at the funeral, which was held in Mitchell's Grove church, conducted by Rev. T. A. Williams, pastor, Rev. D. D. Broome, and Rev. E. W. Jones. Her body was laid away in the church cemetery. The floral designs were many and beautiful.

MARTHA PARSONS.

—Brother W. N. Pegram has changed his address from Winston-Salem to High Point. Since the death of Mrs. Pegram he has gone to live with his adopted daughter, Mrs. Vance.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
CALVARY	103
GRAHAM	85
REIDSVILLE	70

Well, boys, look at Calvary! There she is, away up there on that mountain-top. Look at her as she turns around showing off her beautiful feathers. She is some bird, isn't she?

Now that Calvary has gone over the top, I have decided to leave off a little of my foolishness and say that Calvary's reaching her goal is due in large measure to the love and admiration and esteem which Calvary members have for the editor, Dr. McCulloch. What I say is a tribute from the home folks. Sometimes the prophet has to go away from home to sell for what he is worth. Not so with our Editor. Brought up within a few miles of Greensboro, he is now living close to some folks who have known him all these years. His devotion to the church and to the community and to the cause of righteousness and to all things good has won for him a place in the hearts of the people. They love him and they love the Herald; therefore, they subscribe for the paper. Hush! What is this great throng of people I see? Some of them are old and their step is unsteady. Some of them are strong and have a sturdy look. Some are children, and I can hear their merry voices as they come skipping along the way. What have they come for? It is to bring greetings to our Editor in recognition of the fact that this is the fortieth year of the Herald. So Calvary now adopts this slogan, FORTY SUBSCRIPTIONS DURING THIS FORTIETH YEAR.

Did you see what Rev. G. L. Curry and his Tabernacle people did last week? They pulled right up and got on the Honor Roll. Curry is all right, and he has a wonderful Herald agent in the person of Miss Ola Whitely.
J. E. PRITCHARD.

◆

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	9¾	$....
Albemarle	17	5	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	22	....
Asheville	14	7¼	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	9.30	....
Bessemer City	13	5.14	....
Burlington, First	71	12½	*20.00
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	13	....
Charlotte	21	6.7	.60
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.32	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	12½	....
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	1½	....
Denton	48	10¼	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	7½	*5.00
Fallston	85	20½	....
Flat Rock	63	12¾	....
Friendship	21	1⅝	....
Forsyth	45	8	2.50
Gibsonville	20	2½	....
Glen Raven	47	4¾	....
Graham	27	22.98	....
Granville	59	12	13.50
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY	29	30½	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	8½	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	2½	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	9.1	*7.50
Greensville	59	6½	....
Guilford	37	9½	....
Halifax	53	6½	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	13.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	9½	....
High Point, Lebanon	34	4½	....
High Point, Welch	22	4½	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	16.30	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2½	....
Lexington, First	45	8	*10.00
Lexington, State Street	40	7.36	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	18	12.85	....
Littleton	50	7¼	....
Mebane	28	5	....
Mecklenburg	40	1½	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	2½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	4	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	16½	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	23¼	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7¼	....
Randolph	74	9½	....
Reidsville	10	7	....
Richland	43	3½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	19	*20.00
Siler City	20	10¾	*5.00
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	13	....
Tabernacle	39	20	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	2½	....
West Forsyth	62	6½	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	4	....
Winston, First	26	7¼	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	4½	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

* Subsidy paid in full.

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher
Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.
PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.
Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.
Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.
In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.
We cannot often supply back numbers.
We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.
Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

TAKE EXALTED PLACE IN WORLD

Desire, definiteness, determination, and daring are necessary to successful achievement in any great endeavor. These supreme qualities have characterized the world's greatest men. You can not wish nor dream your way into largeness of life. You must plan and plow and persevere in order to win reward and renown. Life's big prizes and preferences are given to the efficient and worthy. If you would take an exalted place in the world of workers, you must win your way not by wishing, but through wisdom, will, and worthiness. You elect by means of your thought power the precise place you are to occupy. There is nothing more potential than well-directed thought. Seize every opportunity to improve yourself.—Grenville Kleiser.

◆

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Rev. T. M. Johnson	$6.72
Rev. H. F. Fogleman	4.00
Miss Ethel Faw	3.00
Rev. J. F. Minnis	2.00
Rev. R. L. Vickery	2.00
Rev. F. W. Paschal	2.00
Miss Pearl McCulloch	1.50
Rev. J. W. Braxton	2.00
Rev. J. D. Cranston	1.63
Rev. W. H. Neese	1.00
Mrs. J. W. Wright	1.00
Rev. J. B. Trogdon	1.00
Rev. J. E. Pritchard	1.00
Ethelyn Hawkins	1.00
Q. B. Tesseniar	.80

Herald Subsidy Fund

We thank First Church, Burlington, for twenty dollars this week, their full amount.

◆

—Miss Ila Stafford and Mrs. Ollie Moser, two of the most faithful women of our First Church at Burlington, attended the meeting at Calvary Church Tuesday. Miss Stafford is a sister of the second wife of the late Rev. W. A. Bunch, who was so well known among us.

CHURCHES SHOULD SEND THEIR PASTORS TO THE PASTORS' SUMMER SCHOOL, JUNE 25 - JULY 6

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., MAY 31, 1934 NUMBER 28

Rev H L Isley 2aug4 R6

What Can Be Done for the World?

The world has lost its common sense
And follows out its varied bents:
Already is it much depraved
And from itself it needs be saved.

Most hopeless feature of its case—
It thinks it runs a winning race;
It needs to learn who are its friends
And won't deceive with evil ends.

It's clear as day that those who know
Must undertake the way to show.
Those wrong in thought are wrong in fact
And must be led with utmost tact.

Unprejudice against the way
Will not suffice to win the day.
If you would save a soul from sin,
You must not less than soul put in.

If effort fail, then try again;
It's worth all things to bring back men.
Forbear with God the slights of men:
Do all you can and then some then.

The noblest sport is catching men,
And saving from the captor's den.
We all may join in this high game
And have rare fruit to grace our name.

The game is on—choose you your part,
And wait you not for glorious start.
Your name is drawn, your name is called,
Take not a place with those recalled.

The enterprise is all from God,
He'll lead you where the saints have trod.
He gives Himself with heart and power,
Will win the field in final hour.

What men shall be in this great strife
Determines all their rank in life.
What God would make of living souls
Concerns Him more than worldly goals.

And what you do to help men on
In noble way good men have gone
Will lift you up and plant your feet
In goodly place—Celestial Street.

Start the Day Right

By GRENVILLE KLEISER

There is nothing more helpful to you than to begin your day by encouraging your mind to blossom with faith and aspiration. There is a successful person who fortifies himself at the beginning of each day with an inspiring resolution, which he commits to paper and carries with him for easy reference. Here is an example:

"I begin this day with clear purpose and firm faith. I realize that my life is one of great possibilities and that I am capable of large undertakings. I shall, therefore, earnestly try to achieve something worth-while today."

If you have sufficient faith in a purpose, you will toil for it patiently and persistently. No personal sacrifice will be too great, no difficulty too large. It was this unconquerable faith which said, "There are no Alps"; "I shall sit down, but the time will come when you will hear me"; and "We'll fight it out on these lines if it takes all summer."

When you hear a new suggestion likely to advance your personal interests, carefully consider how you can turn it to practical advantage. Study it from every point of view, and if your best judgment approves, use it.

Faith, born of desire, is the motive force in all great enterprises. Be a man an artist, merchant, lawyer, physician, teacher, or scientist, it is principally this driving force of faith which carries him along through difficulty and obstacle towards the realization of his ambition.

History is filled with records of men who have done things, not always because of great natural ability, but because of undeviating faith in themselves. This power of faith will nerve your arm for tireless effort, and make you eager for great accomplishments. Great opportunities are all about you, and once you earnestly set your faith to work, anything within reason is possible for you.

When you feel discouragement stealing over you, change the current of your thought by turning at once to a stimulating book and reading it aloud; or if convenient, take a cold bath, dress in your best clothes, and go for a brisk walk. It will be doubly helpful to you if you can take with you, on a slip of paper, an inspiring quotation to dwell upon during your walk, such as this:

"I sleep, I eat and drink, I read and meditate, I walk in my neighbor's pleasant fields, and see the varieties of natural beauties, and delight in all that in which God delights —that is, in virtue and wisdom, in the whole creation, and in God Himself. And he that has so many causes of joy, and so great, is very much in love with sorrow and peevish-ness who loses all these pleasures and chooses to sit down upon his little handful of thorns.''

Develop right thinking by means of daily affirmations. Just as the constant dropping of water wears away the stones, so a thought repeated often enough at last takes form in action. Make lists of affirmations, and repeat them aloud every morning, in the privacy of your own room, until they become deep-rooted as mental beliefs. Formulate many affirmations of your own, thus:

1. I daily develop faith in myself.
2. I am capable of large and important undertakings.
3. I have unlimited personal power.
4. I am master of myself.
5. I exercise my faith at every possible opportunity.
6. I undertake everything I do with confidence in the ultimate result.
7. I have faith in my future and assurance of ultimate success.

Express aloud these and similar affirmations of your own making in clear, self-confident tones. At first it will be better for you to practice them where you can be alone and undisturbed. Later you will be able to apply this exercise mentally while walking on a crowded street.

Be on constant guard in your thought-habits. When a thought that is in any way detrimental to your best progress arises in your mind, direct your mind at once to some desirable subject and thus drive out the intruder by substitution.

Determine clearly, definitely, and positively the thing you most desire and keep on desiring it until you get it. Be willing to make sacrifices for it. Work assiduously for it. Concentrate all your best powers on it. Anything within reason is possible to you if you follow the motto, ''This one thing I do!''

A deliberately acquired habit of doing things promptly and energetically will give you increased assurance of success. Doing things promptly will strengthen your ambition, will-power, and self-respect. Promptitude and energetic action will gradually build your power for highly productive results.

CHRISTIAN PERFECTION

By Christian perfection I mean:

1. Loving God with all our heart. Do you object to this?
2. A heart and life all devoted to God. Do you desire less?
3. Regaining the whole image of God. What objection is there to this?
4. Having all the mind that was in Christ. Is this going too far?
5. Walking uniformly as Christ walked. And to this surely no Christian will object.

If anyone means anything more or anything less by perfection, I have no concern about it.—Wesley.

◆

''This life is short compared to the future life, and all Christians will be very glad, when Jesus appears, if they have lived for God—rejoicing as though they rejoiced not, weeping as though they wept not, using this world, but not abusing it, remembering that they are pilgrims seeking a better Land.''

AN HONOR ROLL OF CHURCHES

Report of Some Achievements for the First Six Months of the Conference Year

These Paid Pastors to Date

First church, Burlington; First church, Lexington; West End, Greensboro; First church, Concord; Draper.

These Raised Their Quota of Subscriptions to Herald

Calvary; Fountain Place, Burlington; Draper; Kannapolis; Community church, Thomasville; First church, Thomasville; Whitakers; South Winston; Spencer.

These Paid Amounts of Herald Subsidy

Draper; Enfield; Calvary; St. Paul, Greensboro; West End, Greensboro; First church, Henderson; Welch Memorial; Kannapolis; Efland, Union Grove, Hebron and Chestnut Ridge churches, Orange charge; Shiloh, Friendship, and Greer's Chapel, Shiloh charge; Community and First church, Thomasville; Whitakers; First church, Winston-Salem; Pleasant Grove; First church, Lexington; Whitakers Chapel; Moriah church.

These Paid Their Assessments for Debt Retirement Before It Was Called

Gibsonville; Welch Memorial; Whitakers church; First church, Concord; Fairfield, Vickrey, Hickory Grove and Mitchell's Grove, Guilford circuit.

These Paid Their Assessment for Superannuates Before It Was Called

First church, Lexington; Pleasant Grove; Mebane; St. Paul; Shiloh church; Community church, Thomasville; Gibsonville; Canaan church, N. Davidson charge; Spring Valley church, Vance charge; Fairfield, Hickory Grove, Mitchell's Grove, Vickery, Guilford circuit; Love-Joy church, Why Not charge; Graham.

These Paid Their Assessments for High Point College

Greer's Chapel, Shiloh charge; Kannapolis; Gibsonville.

These Have Paid Assessments for Annual Conference Expenses

Community church, Thomasville; Canaan church, North Davidson charge; Gibsonville; Calvary; Kannapolis; Welch Memorial; Shiloh church; Friendship church, Shiloh charge; St. Paul; Mebane; First church, Thomasville; First church, Lexington; First church, Burlington; Enfield; Whitakers; First church, Concord; Wesley Chapel, Greensville charge; Asheboro; Graham.

These Have Paid Assessments for Church Extension

Shoals, Mt. Zion, Pilot, and Pinacle churches, Pinnacle charge; Hickory Grove, Fairfield, Vickrey, and Mitchell's Grove, Guilford charge; Shiloh church; Community church, Thomasville; Efland, Chestnut Ridge, Hebron, Union Grove churches, Orange charge; Mebane; Gibsonville charge; Bethel church, Randolph charge; First church, Thomasville; Welch Memorial; Draper; Bethel, Rock Creek, Center, Sapling Ridge churches, Alamance circuit; New Salem, Randleman, Worthville, Randleman circuit; Kannapolis; Calvary; Mt. Pleasant, Pleasant Union churches, Mt. Pleasant charge; Piney Grove church, Siler City charge; Whitakers church; Whitakers chapel; Enfield; West Thomasville; First church, Concord; Wesley Chapel, Greensville charge; Kernersville, Ai, Sandy Ridge and Pine Grove churches, Kernersville charge; Mt. Pleasant church, N. Davidson charge; Reidsville.

Tithers Reported

Twenty-six pastors reported 386 tithers in their membership.

Of a total of 62 pastors who have returned their questionnaire, two were discouraged with the conditions found on their charge; 60 were encouraged. Among the many reasons given were: congregations much better, better interest in the general work of the church, finer spirit among the members, more willingness to co-operate, the spiritual state of the church was much improved, etc.

The Report of Treasurer Allen Submitted

We invite a careful reading of this report. There is possibly no way this report can be used as a comparison with the first half of last year, but it does show a decided improvement over that period, and if you find that there has been money raised which has not been sent in through neglect, as so often is done, try to get it into his hands at an early date.

We shall face the remainder of the Conference year with a spirit of hopefulness. We believe the future holds for us much for which we have yearned and which shall be ours, if only we shall be faithful and fail not to perform our tasks well.

R. M. Andrews, President.

REPORT OF THE FINDINGS COMMITTEE

Mid-Year Conference, May 22, 1934

We would, first of all, take notice of the spirit of optimism which seems to prevail in this meeting, and which is reflected in the reports from the pastors and in the statements of the Boards and Institutions represented. It seems to us that there is a new note of hopefulness and courage and determination manifest which must mean much for our Conference activity.

We wish to discuss briefly the various items presented in the program:

1. Pastors' Reports. The president stated that he had heard from 55 of the 80 pastoral charges. Of these 55 pastors only two were discouraged with the outlook. That in itself is a most hopeful sign. We cannot get very far when we sit under the juniper tree.

The new plan of raising Conference claims seems to be working fairly well. But we would urge that charges make a special effort to complete their quotas.

We would urge, also, that pastors recognize their obligation as laid down in the Discipline to report quarterly to the Conference President. He would be much better prepared to carry on his work if we would help furnish the information he asks for.

2. The Herald. We rejoice at the increased subscription list and the decreased deficit in the Herald. We commend Dr. Pritchard for his faithful service in this regard.

But we would urge the charges and churches that have not yet raised the amount asked for Herald Deficit to do so at the earliest possible moment. Until we can enlarge the subscription list to the point where the Herald will be self-sustaining, we must depend upon the Subsidy to take care of the deficit.

3. The Children's Home. We wish to commend the authorities at the Home for the fine showing it has made in these times of financial stress. We especially note the low cost—lower than any institution aided by the Duke Endowment in the two Carolinas—of maintaining the Home.

We are still distressed by the fact that there is debt for the running expenses. While it has been reduced, it ought to be cancelled. That can be done by increased offerings of goods and produce and cash offerings from the churches and charges. To that end we suggest:

(a) Keep up the offerings from Sunday schools so as to avoid the summer slump in receipts.

(b) Let the women supply all the canned goods possible. (The Home will supply or exchange containers.)

(c) Let the men give grain or grain products. (The Home cannot produce enough for flour and feed.)

We call your attention to the "Children's Home Day" to be held at the Home in early September, and urge that a liberal and extra offerings be made at that time.

4. High Point College. The report from the College presented by President Humphreys is especially encouraging. To maintain the enrollment and to balance income and expenditures, is no small achievement.

We are especially grateful to the general Board of Education for their offer to give the College $7,500 if the Conference will raise $5,000—the amount apportioned to the charges. The time designated is from May, 1934, to May, 1935. We accept the challenge they have given us. To secure this amount will enable the College to pay long overdue interest, assist our distressed brethren, and enable the College to maintain its good standing.

5. The Woman's Work is to be commended in the highest terms for their loyalty and devotion and sacrifice. We pledge them our earnest effort to help them bring more of the women of the Conference into an active relationship to the work they are trying to do for the church.

We would urge the men of the church to interest themselves in an organized way in the work of missions and education.

6. The Board of Church Extension. This Board through its treasurer has presented a report which calls for our sympathetic interest and co-operation. If the charges will raise the apportionment the situation will be greatly relieved.

7. The Treasurer's Report. Mr. J. H. Allen, the Treasurer of the Conference, submits a report of the amount of money received by him during the high half of the year. It could be considerably better, but has in it a hopeful note. We commend him for his service.

Conclusion. All in all, we are encouraged to press on in the task God has given us. We thank Him for His help as we work together with Him in Kingdom service.

Findings Committee:

A. G. Dixon, C. W. Bates, F. W. Paschall,
J. H. Allen, J. C. Jones.

Semi-Annual Report of Receipts, 1933-34

North Carolina Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church

	World Service	A. C. Exp.	A. C. Debt	Church Ext.	Super.	College
Alamance	$10.85	$13.65	-----	$25.03	-----	-----
Albemarle	3.00	-----	-----	5.00	-----	-----
Anderson	3.00	33.60	11.50	11.50	-----	-----
Asheboro	14.08	73.00	-----	-----	-----	-----
Asheville	12.47	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Bess Chapel	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Burlington, First	33.00	133.00	-----	20.00	-----	-----
Burlington, Fount'n Pl.	-----	4.21	-----	-----	-----	-----
Charlotte	5.12	-----	-----	4.77	10.00	-----
Cleveland	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Concord	6.00	100.00	50.00	50.00	50.00	-----
Connelly Springs	1.80	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Creswell	3.00	-----	-----	3.00	-----	-----
Davidson	89.00	9.20	-----	8.25	-----	-----
Democrat	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Denton	21.69	3.74	-----	-----	-----	-----
Draper	-----	-----	-----	5.00	-----	-----
Enfield	17.50	25.00	-----	4.00	-----	-----
Fallston	7.00	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Flat Rock	2.00	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Friendship	-----	-----	-----	6.50	-----	-----
Forsyth	9.97	-----	-----	8.59	-----	-----
Gibsonville	6.00	20.00	15.00	10.00	10.00	35.00
Glen Raven	13.10	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Graham	27.50	34.00	-----	-----	17.00	-----
Granville	-----	-----	-----	13.10	-----	-----
Greensboro, Calvary	59.25	35.00	-----	17.00	-----	-----
Greensboro, Grace	10.00	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Greensboro, St. Paul	5.00	25.00	-----	15.00	-----	-----
Greensboro, West End	22.00	22.00	-----	-----	16.00	3.00
Greensville	-----	10.47	-----	7.70	-----	-----
Guilford	14.73	3.10	13.00	13.00	20.00	-----
Halifax	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Haw River	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Henderson	18.00	-----	-----	-----	10.00	-----
High Point, English St.	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
High Point, First	20.00	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
High Point, Lebanon	12.00	19.00	-----	19.00	15.00	-----
High Point, Welch	3.55	40.00	20.00	20.00	-----	-----
Kannapolis	10.00	10.00	-----	5.00	-----	15.00
Kernersville	-----	-----	-----	13.00	-----	-----
Lexington, First	21.50	20.00	-----	-----	10.00	-----
Lexington, State St.	13.48	6.77	-----	7.50	-----	-----
Liberty	10.24	6.97	-----	-----	-----	-----
Littleton	2.44	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Mebane	21.00	30.00	-----	15.00	15.00	-----
Mecklenburg	-----	-----	-----	3.00	-----	-----
Midland	-----	15.00	-----	-----	-----	-----
Midway-Shady Grove	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Moriah	5.56	-----	3.40	-----	-----	-----
Mocksville	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Mt. Hermon	26.00	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Mt. Pleasant	12.50	6.50	-----	34.00	-----	-----
North Davidson	15.62	4.20	-----	-----	5.00	-----
Orange	24.00	-----	-----	45.00	-----	7.90
Pinnacle	-----	-----	-----	25.00	-----	-----
Pleasant Grove	27.00	24.50	-----	-----	30.00	-----
Porter	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Randleman	12.00	15.00	-----	22.50	-----	-----
Randolph	-----	10.00	-----	12.00	-----	-----
Reidsville	5.00	-----	-----	10.00	-----	-----
Richland	9.75	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Roberta	4.00	3.00	-----	-----	-----	-----
Rockingham	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Saxapahaw	10.92	-----	-----	-----	-----	6.00
Shiloh	71.00	36.30	-----	21.00	15.00	22.30
Siler City	17.70	2.00	-----	17.81	-----	-----
Spencer	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Spring Church	29.70	38.50	-----	-----	-----	-----
Tabernacle	12.00	23.50	2.00	-----	17.00	-----
Thomasville, Com.	65.00	60.00	-----	30.00	-----	-----
Thomasville, First	22.08	40.00	20.00	-----	-----	2.00
Thomasville West	4.20	-----	-----	5.00	-----	-----
Vance	31.80	2.75	-----	-----	3.00	-----
Weaverville	5.50	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
West Forsyth	5.00	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Whitakers	18.42	15.00	10.00	8.00	10.00	-----
Why Not	1.78	13.75	-----	14.12	7.00	-----
Winston, First	25.50	5.00	-----	18.97	12.50	-----
Winston, South	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
Yarborough	8.00	-----	-----	-----	-----	-----
China Grove	-----	2.00	-----	-----	-----	-----

Distribution of Funds

	Receipts	Disbursements	Balance	Deficit
World Service	$ 906.54	$ 805.00	$ 101.54	--------
An. Conf. Expense	1,045.24	895.24	150.00	--------
An. Conf. Debt	124.90	--------	124.90	--------
Church Extension	596.31	300.00	296.31	--------
Superannuates	327.50	40.00	287.50	--------
College	92.50	209.00	--------	$ 116.80
Specials	17.25	14.75	2.50	--------
TOTALS	$3,109.94	$2,263.99	$ 845.95	$ 116.80

◆

KEEPING INFORMATION AND TEACHING UP-TO-DATE

By Luther K. Long

I well remember hearing Professor George P. Fisher score a good point when lecturing to a class in Yale Divinity School. He was speaking of the inclination of some people to get sore over certain conditions, and then to keep on complaining, whether or not their complaints had become out-of-date. A minister, he said, was reading a paper at an Association meeting on "Some Present-Day Tendencies in the Conduct of Young People," or something of that sort. He was making a doleful story of it. Professor Fisher, noticing that the paper looked discolored, asked to see it. The date on the manuscript indicated that it had been written 30 years previously. Of course bad conditions may not change greatly in 30 years, but condemning them in the same words—and, possibly, in the same whining tone of voice—will not greatly aid in getting rid of them.

A teacher from Pennsylvania wrote to Stuart Chase—a prominent writer on educational and social questions—complaining that "The American history used in our schools was copyrighted in 1896. Our school readers were copyrighted in 1905."

"Between those two dates and the present time," declares Mr. Chase, "came the major changes with which America left behind an economy of scarcity, distinguished by self-supporting agricultural communities, and entered an economy of abundance, distinguished by a specialized, high-powered machine technology. This change is incomparably the most important thing that has happened to America since its colonization, yet the children in the Pennsylvania schools alluded to will never catch an inkling of it from their histories and readers."

This reveals heart-breaking conditions. Here we are in the midst of an industrial and social revolution, the like of which for extent and importance has scarcely ever touched this world of ours, and multitudes of our young citizens have had no intimation of what is going on from the histories and readers they have studied the past 35 years! No wonder inflated demagogues find it easy to stir the people with ignorant and selfish appeals. No wonder that ill-informed and misinformed voters send to our National Congress some men who are but little less ill-informed and misinformed than themselves.

The use of out-of-date histories and readers in the schools and homes is one reason why it is so difficult to get into the minds of our people ideas and plans that are necessary for them to understand and act upon if we are to come into the better things that careful students of affairs say are just ahead of us. The value of popular education consists largely in having the text-book information given to young people in schools, accurate and up-to-date. Popular government is not likely to be much better than the quality of popular education.

How about our religious information and teaching? Are we up-to-date in these matters?

"We have the same Bible that has been with us through the centuries, haven't we?" I hear some one say. "And the great preachers, and the solid theological systems, and the old creeds that were good enough for our fathers? What more do we want?"

It is well for us to hold in due respect the old interpretations and applications of the Scriptures. To keep in memory the lives and services of such men as Martin Luther, John Calvin, John Knox, George Fox, John Wesley, and many worthy men of our own land, is commendable hero worship. But these were only men. They had their thoughts and built their systems.

New light from time to time breaks forth from God's Holy Word. New understandings are arrived at as God speaks in these days to His servants and gives of His Spirit to His people as truly as in the old days. Better understanding of other religions is being arrived at, and we see more clearly than ever how God has spoken in times past not only by the Hebrew prophets, but also by leaders in other religious faiths.

As I grow a little older than I used to be, there are two sorts of people with whom I like to keep in close touch:

1. There are the men and women who have truly thought and wisely lived. They may not have had all the advantages of the schools, and much leisure for study and travel. But they have maintained open minds to see, and open hearts to be impressed with God and His ways of dealing with men. They have been humble and sincere followers of Jesus. And the Spirit has led them into many sorts of truth and into many sorts of service—greatly enriching their minds and lives. They may not know everything, but they are genuine people and belong with the chosen of the Lord. It is good to know them and to love them.

2. Then there are the scholars. Men and women who have given their lives to the careful study of the problems of science and philosophy and religion. Who have not coveted silver and gold, but have sought, in all possible ways and with all possible diligence, the Truth. Who have been supremely concerned with ascertaining what should be thought and felt and done now, rather than what is consistent with what the fathers thought and felt and did in the days gone by. Believing that while our God is the God of the past, He is even more a God who is interested and working in behalf of the present and concerned for those yet to come into this advancing world—they are diligent to discover His present will.

These men and women sometimes have difficult tasks. They must of necessity overcome their own personal inertia, their inclination to accept things as they are and live in the same old way as did their honored fathers. Then they have also to labor against the inertia of those by whom they are surrounded. Some of their neighbors and associates may bitterly oppose them because they seem disloyal to what is popularly thought of as the faith once for all delivered to the saints. I know some of these men personally, and many more through their speaking and writing. Their fine spirit and character give me courage to go on to the end.

Two or three years ago I had occasion to be in a Sunday school class when the lesson was on the book of Jonah. The teacher was a married wman of good intelligence, but had no special preparation for taking this story and giving a helpful exposition of it out of her own knowledge. I was interested to note that the lesson quarterly used contained the combined wisdom of several scholars from some of the leading denominations. The exposition of the book, and the application of its teachings, were thoroughly in harmony with the best Christian scholarship of today. The teacher had studied the helps to good advantage. Because of this, she succeeded in leading the class into a fine appreciation of the great lesson of the book—God's outstanding love and mercy toward all mankind, both Jews and Gentiles. With lesson helps in the hands of the pupils, that were not up-to-date, this teacher would have found it difficult indeed to get the real message of the book of Jonah into the minds of the class.

Much of the reading matter about our homes is so unattractive that it is but little noticed. Wise parents see to it that there is some religious literature within easy reach of the children. The information and teaching need not be extremely "pious," but it should be of a clean, wholesome nature—and entirely reliable. Good stories—children delight in stories—are of prime importance, helping to nourish the young life.

MORALITY AT HIGH POINT COLLEGE

Every Methodist Protestant who reads the HERALD must be impressed by two things: the interest that people are taking in the every-day work of the College, and the wholesome vitality of the church paper. A question is tame unless it has two sides. If both sides are RIGHT and utterly antagonistic, so much the better. The drama is perfect. Neither can annihilate the other, and progress will emerge.

The question at issue is the morality of the students of High Point College. How can it be guaranteed?

There is no occasion to interrupt this hunt and chase every rabbit that crosses the path. Not even the Eighteenth Amendment. When emotional speakers insist with thrilling platitudes that the younger generation is going to the dogs, they may spread the idea that they are crusaders; but we simply recognize another form of intoxication. No one should get drunk while talking about morality.

Confining ourselves to the subject, let us distinguish between the genuine article and its imitation. We can do that, because morality is not hard to identify. Morality, however, is NOT the same as mores or social custom—which may refer to dipping snuff, eating missionaries, attending compulsory chapel, having one or more wives, and laughing when a fat man of great dignity and importance steps on a banana peeling. Morality is more than a local custom. Morality depends upon a man's own sense of honor. The one is conformity, either civic or slavish. The other is inspiration, sometimes noble and sometimes quixotic.

It is an error to suppose that life in a certain atmosphere insures proper morality. A good habit is about as much as can be expected. Without attempting to discredit a life according to habit, we do notice that a habit is a little too anxious to be called character. Although a man who never robbed a bank should be allowed to congratulate himself, he would simply be un-moral unless he had the opportunity and turned it down. A girl who never took a drink of liquor because she couldn't get it, or because social custom kept it out of her way, might go to heaven provided she had a better and more positive score along some other line. Morality is not acting through timidity or indifference, but is a deliberate and vigorous preference for that which is truly fine, no matter what obstacle may stand in the way.

To take the Bible as a guide to noble conduct is to discover new and interesting ways to apply the idealism of that great authority. As long as growth goes on, a person can rise above dull routine and be happy. Because a state school chooses to offer many books instead of one, the church school has an opportunity to make its students supremely well acquainted with a form of culture that is perfectly at home in a liberal arts college. Although narrow by preference, it offers the insight upon which true morality depends.

The history of ecclesiasticism shows that time after time the moral individual and the local mores have disagreed. Each stood facing what seemed to be disaster. Each was right.

Not so long ago the presence in church of any musical instrument except the human nose was thought to be an insurmountable obstacle to a life of morality. The group had said so. Yet now the pipe-organ, having been absorbed, no longer represents a worldly attitude. Formerly Sabbath observance in a certain manner appeared to be ultimate. Since then morality is becoming a full-time job, and modern religion has absorbed the six evil days in the week. So it goes. Things which once seemed hostile have been absorbed and found to be stepping stones to a richer life.

A particular struggle of the same kind is now going on. One writer represents the habits of the group and declares in pontifical manner that there is "nothing commendable in the so-called art of dancing." The very thought of getting close enough to dance gives him some bad moments. Yet he simply means that to be carnally-minded is death. He is right. A dissenter speaks for individual morality when he insists that dancing of the kind desired at High Point College will sublimate crude desire, and by unconscious metamorphosis provide a pleasurable art that is necessary because it overcomes dark brutality. He also is right. Many a student has been amazed and delighted to find after long misinformation that such a miracle can happen. So in expressing their earnestness for a mutual ideal, the two writers clash sharply. The outcome is clear. As long as one stands for social excellence and the other stands for wholesome personality neither can force the other out among the goats on the left hand. A man has a right to be afraid of his own black shadow—and to be glad when he finds a way to escape the danger of it.

To scream of moral let-down when local customs show evidence of growth is unimpressive. To resist the chance to appropriate that which is new and nourishing from the opposition may be suicidal. To expect the Annual Conference to be a great authority on dancing is to misunderstand. In the meantime every student who discovers he can dance without treading the road to ruin will find a veto very encouraging. Parents who inquire with gleaming eyes what their children think about while they are dancing may even get slapped. Such a question is rather insulting.

How can the morality of High Point College students be protected? They must do it themselves by learning that nothing safeguards character so well as a pure heart. Perhaps they have already.

WILBUR STOUT.

THE AIM AND WORK OF A CHURCH

One who came as a stranger, was received kindly, and soon became identified with the church, writes:

"Here one finds a quiet place of meditation when that is needed; a happy fellowship and friendly greeting when one feels alone; a song of cheer and inspiration, a sermon that interprets—or rather applies—our Master's precepts to our individual problems, and helps us to carry on in a difficult world. Last, but not least, is the opportunity for service in church activities."

Another writes:

"The primary purpose of a church is, I suppose, through the message of the pulpit and the custom of common worship, to deepen in the individual the wellsprings of religious feeling and to strengthen the bond of fellowship between the members of the groups.

"Lest this end in weak emotional satisfaction for the individual and exclusiveness for the group, the force thus generated should be harnessed up to service of the community, beginning with the immediate community of which the church is a part, and reaching out in its concern and sympathies to the wider community which is identical with human society."

The first of these two writers has a commendable appreciation of the personal enjoyment and values derived by a stranger from the fellowship of a friendly church. It pays a church to be open-hearted and to manifest this friendly spirit to strangers. Once the stranger has entered other associations and been made to feel at home—though it may not be the best sort of home—the church has lost its special opportunity.

"Emotional satisfactions" in the fellowship of a congenial group, are perfectly legitimate. As long as we are human we need the kindly look, the friendly smile, the warm handclasp, the flow of spirit to spirit. The danger is that we may think too much of this, and become exclusive—seeking enjoyment in our own set. The second writer does well to call attention to the necessity for community and world service. This enlarges our interests, broadens our horizons, and blesses ourselves as we become a blessing to others.

LUTHER K. LONG.

PERFECT LOVE

Give me the love that suffers and is kind,
That envies not, nor vaunts its pride or fame,
Is not puffed up, does no discourtesy,
Is not provoked, nor seeks its own to claim.

Give me the love that thinks no evil thought,
Nor dwells complacent on another's sin,
But in the truth delights, and evermore
Still seeks the erring to the truth to win.

Give me the love that springs from holy faith,
And still believes although it cannot see;
That even for the hopeless hopes the best,
And loves because of what is yet to be.

Give me the love that all things sweetly bears,
Whate'er my Father's hand may choose to send;
Give me the love that patiently endures
The wrongs that come from human foe or friend.

There is but One can live or love like this:
The Christ-love from the living Christ must spring;
O Jesus, ever live Thy life in me,
And all Thy Heaven of love and blessing bring.

—The Elim Evangel.

JESUS CAME

To give, not to receive.
To build new, not to repair.
To redeem, not to entertain.
To serve, not to be served.
To make whole, not to make better.
To release, not to conserve.
To fulfill the Law, not to annul it.
To give comfort and peace, not pleasure and mirth.
To reveal, not to conceal.
To make free, not to enthrall.
To suffer and die that others might live.
To seek and to save, not to condemn.
To be a resident in heart, not a guest.
To be "shepherd," not an "hireling."
To destroy sin, not to suppress it.
To give light where darkness abounds.
To give life to those dead in sin.
To make holy all who believe and trust Him.

To be "the Way, the Truth, the Life" to a lost and perishing world.—Publisher Unknown.

ANCHORS FOR THE SOUL IN TIMES OF DISTRESS

Paul had appealed to Caesar. He was being conveyed aboard ship to Rome when a violent storm arose in the Mediterranean. Hope had well-nigh perished in the hearts of sailors and passengers. In Acts 27:27-29 we read:

"But when the fourteenth night had come, as we were driven to and fro in the sea of Adria, about midnight the sailors surmised that they were drawing near to some country: and they sounded, and found twenty fathoms; and after a little space, they sounded again, and found fifteen fathoms. And fearing lest haply we should be cast ashore on rocky ground, we let go four anchors from the stern, and wished for the day."

Many years ago, in times somewhat similar to those through which we are now passing, Washington Gladden expressed his abiding convictions in lines based on this incident in Acts. They have brought comfort to many. Here they are:

Things I Know

While the anchors that faith had cast
Are dragging in the gale,
I am quietly holding fast
To the things that cannot fail:

I know that right is right;
That it is not good to lie;
That love is better than spite,
And a neighbor than a spy;

I know that passion needs
The leash of a sober mind;
I know that generous deeds
Some sure reward shall find;

That the rulers must obey;
That the givers shall increase;
That Duty lights the way,
For the beautiful feet of Peace.

In the darkest night of the year,
When the stars have all gone out,
That courage is better than fear,
That faith is better than doubt;

And fierce though the fiends may fight,
And long though the angels hide,
I know that Truth and Right
Have the universe on their side;

And that somewhere, beyond the stars,
Is a Love that is better than Fate;
When the night unlocks her bars,
I shall see Him, and I will wait.

It is fine that the poet catches so fully, and expresses so beautifully, the thought of the New Testament writer. In all private and public affairs—and in our intimate personal concerns—we may rest with confidence in the reality and value of Right, Goodness, Love, Generosity, Duty, Peace, and Truth. Let us wait on the Lord—and work while we wait.

LUTHER K. LONG.

OUR STORY PAGE

THE LAMB IN THE JAWS OF A LION

The fair-haired, red-cheeked boy, youngest of Jesse's flock, was not considered of sufficient importance to be called to the family sacrifice and feast until Samuel, the Prophet, directed by Jehovah, commanded it. He comes, breathless and rosy from running. He is bid to kneel down: and there in the midst of his brethren he is anointed with the sacred oil.

"And the Spirit of the Lord came upon David from that day forward." As a result of it, the next event in his ilfe is a miracle. He goes back to his sheep tending, and a lion pouncing down upon the flock, snatches a lamb. He must have been a hungry beast, to come in daylight. David, in his new-born Heavenly strength, catches the lion by the beard, rends the jaws asunder, and rescues the lamb.

Did David but know it, his own soul is the lamb in the jaws of a fiercer lion than any on Bethlehem's hills. Satan, "as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour." Were it not for that greater David, the Lord Himself, he would be as surely lost as the lamb from his flock without him.

Still in the power of the Spirit, he slays Goliath, and brings his head to the king. There is a brief time of popularity at the court; and then the demon-possessed Saul, insane with jealousy, hurries him up and down the hills. The devil, the roaring lion, is after the lamb of David's soul.

After he is king he is fairly in the jaws of the lion, when he falls into the awful sins of lust and murder; and it took a miracle of grace to take him out. But he was rescued, as he witnesses in his confession in Psalm 51.

David fed and rescued his sheep: and Jesus came to feed and rescue helpless souls like his, and yours, and mine in the jaws of the lion. Only the Good Shepherd, who giveth His life for the sheep, can snatch us out.

I listened to a story from a good man's lips once. I'll call him Smith, because that is not his name. He conducted a mission in the slum district of Denver; and one night a degraded, drunken creature in the shape of a woman slunk into a back seat. He asked some of the women workers to talk to her, but they hung back.

"Don't ask us," they pleaded; "she is so filthy, so unutterably vile, we are actually afraid of her."

He went to her himself and talked as a Spirit-inspired man could; and finally induced her to stumble forward for prayers. She came another night, and another. He learned her story, and found, to his amazement, that she was a graduate of Vassar. He clothed her in clean, new garments, over and over, only to have her come back in her rags again. Patiently he worked and prayed, until, one night, the heavens opened, and she saw Jesus.

I never shall forget the shine on that good man's face, as he said:

"Now that woman, a devout Christian, is tutoring on Capitol Hill among the fine families there, making an honest living, respectable and respected, in appearance every inch a lady."

Some years ago I was in a Colorado mining town. As I knelt to pray, one day, there came a message: "Go down on the row."

Now the "row" was a string of old houses and shacks, across the creek, given over entirely to the shameful traffic in women.

"Oh," I said, "there is surely some mistake. With my want of experience in such work, I am not sent there."

So I tried to dismiss the subject, but behold, when I knelt to pray, the Heaven was shut on that side; I simply could not pray.

"Oh," I said, "if that is the case, Lord, I'll go," and go I did, shaking with trepidation, crossed the creek and went toward the nearest house. A woman was outside, and I asked her timidly, "Is this the row?"

"Yes," she replied, "will you come in?" and in I went. When I entered the door, I seemed to be turned into another person. All my nervousness left me, and words were given me, not my own, I am sure. My tongue was loosed, and I found it easy to talk to her about the Lord Jesus, and His power to save. It seemed natural and easy for us to kneel down and pray. When we rose from our knees she said: "Mrs. Hayes, what made you come here?" I answered, humbly enough, "Nellie, I think the Lord sent me."

"Well," she said, "there is a girl across the street that I wish you would go to see. She is very sick; and when the madam, who has charge of the row, saw that she wouldn't be of any profit, she left her alone in the house. I took care of her all I could, and now her sister is with her; but I think that Freddie is not going to get well."

I went over, and I saw that the poor girl would soon go. By that time it was very easy to talk about Jesus. After a while I asked, "Are you getting tired, Freddie?"

"Oh, Mrs. Hayes, I could listen all day," so thirsty was her soul for the Water of Life.

"Can you learn a verse?" I said.

"I'll try."

So we repeated: "The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

I had to leave in a couple of days, but I visited her when I could.

Some time after, I got a letter from Nellie which read like this:

"Mrs. Hayes, you said that God sent you here, and I am sure He did, for Freddie is dead, and she died happy, calling on Jesus to forgive her sins.

"Mrs. Hayes, you told me that Jesus would answer if I prayed to Him; so one day I kneeled down and asked Him to take away my appetite for drink. I have been a dreadful drunkard; I have even sold my clothes for drink. Jesus answered my prayer. It has been weeks since I have tasted it or wanted it."

There will be some renewals of acquaintances in the Glory Land; and I know I shall see Nellie and Freddie there. Lambs that Christ snatched out of the jaws of the lion.—Dinnie McDole Hayes.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

PROJECTS FOR AUXILIARIES

At our Branch Meeting I was instructed to send to the Herald from time to time such projects as should be reported to me by District Chairmen and Auxiliaries.

As a beginning I shall tell you about the discussion in a commission group of which I was a member at the convention. Mrs. Hammer requested the N. C. delegates to attend different groups, so I went with the Commission on Finance, Miss Nettie Johnson, of Pittsburgh, leader.

The leader spoke first of "Our Budget," the women's share of same and its division among branches, auxiliaries, and circles. Then came "Methods of Raising Budget" under two heads, Ideal and Practical. Ideal methods were pledges paid monthly, free-will offerings, life, memorial and perpetual and sustaining memberships, thank-offerings.

Practical were: Dramatics, sales of merchandise, cooking, miscellaneous.

All these were freely discussed. One woman was not in favor of anything except prayer, pledges, and other ideal methods. We all voted that the ideal was the best method, but some of us agreed that nearly all Auxiliaries must of necessity use practical methods also for several reasons. First, we are working toward the goal of "every woman in the church an ACTIVE member;" second, many women can not give money, but are glad to give chickens, eggs, or other food products that can be used for suppers, stews or in other ways, and many who can not give these can give service; third, must our free-will offerings always be in money or wil the Lord accept such things as we can give?; fourth, shall we not call "active" a woman who freely gives of her time, her work and her produce to the work of the Kingdom?

These are things for us all to think about, remembering that prayer must accompany any gift of whatever kind it may be.

Miss Johnston gave each of us an imitation silver dollar booklet showing how each dolar we give to our General Church Budget is divided. I think our Branch treasurer will surprise each Auxiliary with one some day soon.

Mrs. R. M. Robinson, chairman of District No. 1, sends the following list of money-making plans as used in her district:

Selling oysters, oyster supper, selling home-made dresses, aprons and white hats, selling flavoring and such products, selling a bale of cotton collected from various persons, pledges, donations, thank-offerings.

When I hear from other chairmen I will pass the information olong.

MRS. GEO. R. BROWN, Cor. Sec'y.

MT. PLEASANT BUSINESS GIRLS CIRCLE

A program on India was given at the regular meeting of the Business Girls' Circle of Mt. Pleasant church, which was held Saturday night, May 26. Misses Edith and Rebecca Woody Causey were hostesses. This was the third of a series of programs discussing countries in which Methodist Protestant missionaries are located.

"The Play Habits of India" and "The Hindu Religion" were discussed by Misses Una Mae Phillips and Margaret Causey, respectively. Miss Phillips named kite-flying and marbles as two of the favorite games of Hindu children, and Miss Causey related interesting facts about the caste system, the burial customs, and the religious beliefs of the people in India.

Miss Sallie Amick conducted a question box on facts about the country, and various members gave interesting information about customs there. Mrs. H. F. Amick led devotional service. The meeting ended with a social hour, in the form of a backwards party, during which ice cream and cake were served by the hostesses. Mrs. W. A. Stafford presided at the meeting, there being 27 members present.

NOTICE TO AUXILIARY THANK-OFFERING SECRETARIES

We should be thinking of and planning for our Fall Thank-offering service. I am asking that the Thank-offering Secretary of each Auxiliary in the state who wishes information concerning her duties, or who would like for me to send her Thank-offering boxes or envelopes, please notify me at an early date. Some auxiliaries have already secured their boxes and are at work. What is your Auxiliary doing? Please send requests to

MRS. RALPH H. VANCE,
State Thank-offering Secretary.
505 Montlieu Ave., High Point, N. C.

L. T. S. CLUBS

Two clubs have been organized on the Haw River charge. We shall expect big things from this charge. Who will be next to organize an L. T. S. Club, and help their young people to come to High Point, June 25 to 30?

J. CLYDE AUMAN, Organizer.

* * *

—John Watson Austin, of High Point, who graduated from High Point College Monday morning, has a fine Methodist Protestant background, his mother being the former Miss Etta Auman, one of the first matrons of our Children's Home. He is a nephew of Rev. J. Clyde Auman.

—Laura Brite Braswel, who graduated Cum Laude at High Point College on Monday, spent several years in our Children's Home at High Point. She is a grand niece, we believe, of Rev. D. A. Braswell who labored unceasingly in our Conference for a long period of years.

—Brother George B. Harris, one of our outstanding laymen in the Henderson Church for a long period of years, is sufficiently recovered from his recent illness as to be able to attend church last Sunday.

—C. E. McCulloch and wife, of Wilmington, were on their way to Tabernacle, Guilford county, met with an accident which turned their car over. Neither was seriously hurt, but the car was damaged and they reutrned home.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Pleasant Grove, Davidson	$ .75
South Winston, special	2.50
Union Chapel, Mocksville	2.11
Charlotte S. S., Richland, clothing child	5.18
Mt. Carmel S. S., Forsyth	2.30
Henderson S. S.	5.76
Fair Grove S. S., Haw River	2.25
Fair Grove, Why Not	1.43
Love Joy, Why Not	2.29
Flag Springs, Why Not	1.00
New Hope, Why Not	2.00
Shiloh S. S., Shiloh	14.25
Brower's Chapel, Richland	5.10
Lebanon S. S., Spring Church	1.00
Charlotte S. S.	9.00
Tabernacle S. S., Tabernace	2.37
Mt. Zion S. S., Weaverville	1.00
Rock Creek S. S., Alamance	2.60
Spring Church S. S., Spring Church	2.00
Orange Chapel, Saxapahaw	1.50
Mt. Pleasant S. S., Mt. Pleasant	6.70
Pine Grove, Kernersville	1.25
Kannapolis	5.00

Clothing and Other Gifts

Pleasant Union, Mt. Pleasant, 47 quart, 33 half-gallon, and 3 small cans of fruit and vegetables. It is fine to have the donation of canned goods coming in so early in the season. We are thankful for the cash and for the canned goods.

Cans to Give Out

We have several hundred cans we will be glad to give out to the women of our churches who will take them and fil them and return them during the late summer or fall. Let us hear from you.

Gifts of Grain

Besides the usual gifts from our good farmer folks, we are especially asking that you donate grain to the Home this year. Any kind of grain, wheat, oats, barley, rye, or corn. Gather the grain with the other produce and send it to us, or notify us and we will send for it.

Children's Home Day

The Annual Conference directed that an Annual Children's Home Day be held at the Children's Home, the date to be set by the superintendent. The Mid-Year Meeting in Greensboro May 22nd, directed that this meeting be held sometime in early September. The exact date will be announced later. We are asking every church in the Conference to hold an entertainment of some kind and bring the proceeds to the Home that day to be placed in the Joash Box.

Praying God's rich blessings upon all His workers everywhere. I am,

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

* * *

—It is now Doctor N. G. Bethea, this honor being conferred upon him by High Point College on Monday morning. Brother Bethea joined the North Carolina Conference in 1896 and has been faithful in the performance of every duty. Very few men among us have done more preaching in revival meetings than has he. Wherever he has served in the pastorate he has built up the work.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Calvary, Greensboro.—Dr. Pritchard used as the subject of his fine, but brief, sermon preceding communion services Sunday morning, "Now is the son of man glorified and God is glorified in him." One of the thoughts received from this sermon was: When we do our duty, the duty that has been made clear to us, we are glorifying Jesus Christ. Just prior to the sermon Mrs. Robah H. Fields sang very beautifully "The Prayer Perfect."

Dr. Pritchard will be absent from his pulpit next Sunday morning. He is to join in the celebration of the 25th anniversary of his graduating class of Western Maryland College, Westminster, Maryland. Even though we are very sorry to have him absent from his charge on Sunday, we are glad that he has the opportunity of going. He has been so very, very faithful since coming to us and has seemed to think much more of the church and the welfare of others than he has of himself, so we feel that he deserves to slip away for a few days.

Dr. P. E. Lindley, dean of men at High Point College, will speak at the 11 o'clock hour Sunday in Dr. Pritchard's place, and Rev. Eugene Lamb, student in the Theological Seminary at Westminster, Maryland, will speak at 8 o'clock Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fiddler, of High Point, announce the birth of a daughter, Diane. Mrs. Fiddler was formerly Miss Mary Coe. Mr. Fiddler is our choir director.

Joe Coble, member of our church, is a member of the graduating class at High Point College this years. Misses Elizabeth Williams and Hulda Booth, two more of Calvary's members, are graduating from Greensboro College.

Our revival begins next Wednesday evening, with Rev. Roy I. Farmer as the pulpit help. The music during the revival will be under the direction of Rev. John Permar, pastor of the Friends church of Graham, N. C. Mr. Permar has had quite a lot of experience in directing choirs during revivals. We feel sure the people are going to be delighted with him.

The Junior Choir met at the home of Miss Elizabeth Williams Tuesday evening.

Prayer meeting in preparation for our revival was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Parker Tuesday evening. Prayer meeting will be held in the hut Wednesday evening and in the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Curtis Thursday evening.

Our Missionary Circles will meet next Monday afternoon and evening, as follows: Circle No. 1, of which Mrs. J. F. Wiliams is chairman, will meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. A. E. Cansey, 411 E. Whittington Street; No. 2 will meet at 3 o'clock with the chairman, Mrs. David M. Glass, on Andrew street; No. 3 will meet at 3 o'clock with the chairman, Mrs. D. E. Curtis, on Douglas street, and the Business Women's Circle will meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock with Miss Helen Wiliams, 515 Arington street.

Circle No. 1 is planning a lawn party for Friday evening, June 1. It will be given on the church lawn, beginning at 6 o'clock. The public is cordially ivited.

Mr. J. E. Herndon, who has been quite ill for several days, is showing some signs of improvement.

MRS. HOWARD R. NEECE, Reporter.

* * *

Lebanon.—The following statement of the status of Lebanon church for the first six months of the Conference year is not flattering at all, but upon the whole it is gratifying:

Paid on World Service, $67.00, or 27 per cent.

Paid on Annual Conference Expenses, $19, or 38 per cent.

Paid on Church Extension, $19, or 76 per cent.

Paid on Superannuates, $15, or 50 per cent.

Paid on College, $36, or 49 per cent.

Paid by S. S. for C. C. R. E., $5, or 100 per cent.

Paid by C. E. for C. C. R. E., $4, or 100 per cent.

Paid on Herald Deficit, $1, or 10 per cent.

Paid on Journals, $4.50, or 100 per cent.

Paid on salary, $469.00, or 37 per cent.

This statement shows that we have paid on these allotments that come within our schedule for the first six months of he Conference year, 63 per cent.

It will be noted that we do not list Annual Conference debt with the above items. This is explained by the fact that this cause is listed on our calendar for the month of September.

Amount raised by our women: Auxiiary, W. S., -55; N. C. Budget, $89; College, $20; total, $164. Aid Society; Superannuates, $15; other causes, $20; total, $35; grand total by women, $199.

Amount paid to Children's Home, $100.

Amount subscribed on our Hut project, $691.

We have added to the church roll during this period 18 members—seven on confession of faith, and eleven by letter.

The general condition of the church is good. S. W. TAYLOR.

* * *

Gibsonville-Fountain Place.—A good revival at Fountain Place. Four joined the church. The folks enjoyed Bro. R. A. Hunter's plain, practica preaching. The attendance was good. Quite a number rededicated themselves for better living. The best meeting here from a visibe standpoint since I have been the pastor. We had the privilege of having Bro. Hunter in our home during the meetiug, only taking a few meals out. The Young Men's Bible Class presented Mrs. Bethea with a nice purse for taking care of the preacher. This was very much appreciated. Of course Bro. Hunter was remembered also.

The meeting at Gibsonville was not a failure by any means, for here we had the efficient help of Bro. J. E. Carroll, and he endeared himself to all who like plain preaching by giving us a high standard gospel. Of course there is no other kind and he proved his belief in it by preaching it without apology. There were several reconsecrations and the church people who attended were helped. There were many outside attractions to those who were not interested and that caused our congregations to "fluctuate."

This pastor is wondering if there would be any way to prefer charges against another preacher for taking off his members? If there is a chance, charges are preferred against Rev. T. J. Whitehead for taking our church reporter off from Fountain Place. Well, we do not blame him, for the game is well worth the effort. So perhaps it would be better to withdraw charges. We will miss you, Hilda, but our best wishes go with you, and as you have undertaken a place of larger usefulness we pray God's richest blessing upon you and the one that you are to help through the years to come. This marriage is not news to you, as it has been announced through the papers, but I am taking this opportunity to express apreciation.

We are hoping that in a few days we will have more news as to work in the quarterly conferences of the two churches.

We want to exress our appreciation of the attendance upon the two meetings just closed b y the faithful members of both churches. The visiting of the members from the two churches to each meeting helped. We regret that so many missed the opportunity of hearing these men who gave of their best to help us and did help those who came, we are sure.

N. G. BETHEA.

* * *

Haw River Church, Glen Raven Charge.—Rev. Pegg filled his appointment here yesterday. We observed memorial day and all churches in the community took part in the service. The names of all the church members who had died in the last year were called. The congregation stood as a representative from each church presented to their deceased a basket of white flowers. After this the pastor paid tribute to the dead in a very impressive manner. It was a great day for us. The church was filled.

The Sunday school attendance was large, and the Baraca Class of the Baptist church visited our Sunday school.

Our second quarterly conference of this charge will meet on June 16 at Fairview church. At this conference we will nominate delegates to the Annual Conference.

T. S. COBLE.

* * *

Mt. Hermon Church, Mt. Hermon Charge.—Sunday morning, May 20th, the ninth annual meeting of the Mount Hermon Memorial Association was held. A very large number of people were present, probably more than ever before attended. The church soon filled to its capacity with many on the grounds. Sunday school met at 9:30. The meeting of the Association was called to order at 10:30. Music was furnished by members of Friendship and Mount Hermon choirs combined. Rev. L. E. Mabry, pastor of the church, had charge of the devotional exercises of the morning. DeWitt Holt, of Troy, N. C., introduced the speaker, Hon. Johnson J. Hayes, federal judge of the middle district, Greensboro, N. C., who delivered the annual address. His message was very fine and most fitting for the occasion. At noon a long table was spread with good things to eat in abundance. In the afternoon Miss Lillie Mae Braxton conducted the devotions. Our former pastor, Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, present pastor of Grace Church, Greensboro, N. C., brought an instructive and inspiring message. Special music was furnished by the Alamance Quartette. A short business session of the Association was held, and the following officers were elected: L. P. Holt, president; G. M. Holt, first vice-president; J. H. Thompson, second vice-president; E. F. Holt, treasurer, and Mrs. Page Justice, secretary.

The Woman's Auxiliary met in regular monthly session on Friday evening, May 25th, at 7:30 with Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Mabry at the parsonage. The program was in charge of Mrs. Page Justice. Miss Flossie Thompson conducted the devotions. Everyone reported an enjoyable time. The Auxiliary sponsored a musicial program held at Eureka Schoolhouse Saturday evening, May 26. An entertaining program was given and around $11.00 clear profit was realized.

Sorry to report that Floyd Coble, son of J. H. Coble, is critically ill at Rainey Hospital as the result of an automobile accident which occurred on the Greensboro road several days ago. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

MRS. L. P. HOLT, Reporter.

◆

Concord, Saxapahaw Charge.—Although there has not been a report from this church for some time, it does not mean we are silent; it means that the reporter has fallen down on the job.

Our Sunday school is going very nicely. The young people's classes are working to have a partition put in one room of the schoolhouse so they can both have a nice room.

The following committees have been appointed to get up a Children's Day program: Misses Gladys and Margaret Guthrie, Ruby Woody, Mrs. L. E. Moore, and Bessie Coble.

The community singing was held at Eli Whitney High School auditorium Sunday afternoon. This program was especially enjoyed as there were quartets from Graham, Burlington, Greensboro and Durham, and others who endered special numbers.

Miss Edith Guthrie, one of members, was among the number to graduate at High Point College.

We are very glad to know that Brother T. H. Moore is improving nicely at Duke Hospital after a serious operation. Hope he will be home soon, as he has been down there some time. We miss him at church and Sunday school.

Mr. Hoover Lindley and Mr. Roy Roberson are our nominees for Annual Conference. Mr. Roberson is from this church.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

REPORTER.

◆

Greensville Charge.—Perhaps a few remarks from this field would not be out of order and appreciated at least by friends and members who are acquainted with this section of the N. C. Conference. We are not bringing to pass any miraculous feats, or the impossible, however, the spiritual condition of the charge and the outlook of the work appear much more favorable than when we were first located here.

On the fifth Sunday the District Rally at Weaver's Chapel, Littleton Charge, went off with a bang under the able leadership of Rev. E. H. Neese, District chairman. Four churches from this charge were represented.

Mother's Day was observed at Wesley Chapel church by a circuit celebration. Song service and worship in the morning and afternoon. Each church gave a brief program, which was enjoyed by all present. Many substantial gifts have been received by the parsonage family, during our stay here. The truth is, these people only show their appreciation once a year and that is a continuous pounding almost everywhere we visit.

Gifts have been received by a few of the following: Mr. and Mrs. Brewer, Mrs. Norwood, Mr. Edwards, Mrs. Albert Taylor, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Walte Clark, Mrs. Virginia Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Chambliss, Mr. and Mrs. Rook, Mrs. Branscomb, Mr. and Mrs. Archer. Space forbids further mention, however, we wish to express our grateful appreciation and say, May the Father bless and repay thee.

The play given at Philadelphia church the first Sunday night of May, "Farmer Brown's Conversion to the Doctrine of Stewardship," has enlarged the coffers of the Ladies' Auxiliary to a considerable extent. This play will be given Saturday night, May 26th, at Matthews' Chapel church.

Church Extension has been paid, Annual Conference claims are being collected and Superannuates are already in the church treasurer's hands by most churches. Wesley Chapel has all claims paid except College and A. C. B. All claims will be paid by at least three churches.

Q. L. JOYNER.

◆

Friendship, Stanly.—Our pastor, Rev. Mr. Shelton, continues to give us some very inspiring messages at each appointment. The attendance at Sunday school has been very good despite the sickness in the community. Mrs. R. A. Shoe and daughter, Velna, have been sick for the past week. Mrs. Charlie Harkey was to undergo an operation. We hope for each of these a speedy recovery.

Special services were rendered Mother's Day. The young people presented a pageant at the 11 o'clock hour. At the evening service Mr. Shelton delivered an excellent sermon.

The Ladies' Aid gave an ice cream supper, cake and pie sale on the church lawn last Saturday evening. The attendance was good and about $19 was received.

REPORTER.

◆

Enfield, Whitakers.—It has been some time since the pastor of these charges reported through the Herald, for the faithful reporters of our local churches keep the Herald and its readers informed about our work.

On the first Sunday in May we were at Whitaker's Chapel for the 11 o'clock service. Here our membership is small, but the attendance was good and a spirit of worship and meditation was felt throughout the service. It is our hope that we shall enrich our spiritual life and raise our financial part of the church program in full.

On the second Sunday in May we observed Mother's Day at the Enfield church with splendid attendance. Sunday, May 27th, we were again in service at Enfield at both 11 o'clock and 8 in the evening with an increase in attendance and a spirit of good will and worship was felt in these services. It is our sincere hope to do more in service for the Master and to raise our Conference claims in full.

On the first Sunday evening we were at Whitakers. Here our attendance at the service was good. Our young peope furnished the music for the service. Here we have a splendid spirit of co-operation with the other denominations in the town. This led us to work out a union revival program since we have a union prayer meeting.

We began our union revival on Tuesday evening, May 15, and continued through the third Sunday and on through Wednesday evening, with Rev. Charles B. Howard, of Enfield Baptist church, doing the preaching. His messages seem to be fitted to our needs. They were inspirational and helpful. We feel much good was done during these services. A number of our folk pledged themselves anew to the Lord's work, and some gave their hearts to Him who had not before been professing Christians.

We have our Annual Conference Budget and our World Service Budget of the church paid up to date, and we are doing some painting in the church and putting carpet on the floor. We hope to have this work finished in a week or two. The Methodist Episcopal church were very gracious in offering to us their church for the first Sunday evening service in June as our church auditorium will not be finished.

We have a Woman's Auxiliary of both charges, which is doing splendid work.

E. O. PEELER.

◆

Harris Chapel, Vance Circuit.—Yesterday we had an unusually small congregation at the afternoon service. Bro. Broome preached a very helpful sermon, using as his subject, "Money." His text was the 41st verse of the 12th chapter of Mark. I wish more of our members could have heard that sermon. This was the first of a series of sermons that Bro. Brome has planned for us. I hope that we will have a larger crowd to hear the next one. We were very glad to have with us a number of ladies from Rehoboth church, Granville Charge, among them Mrs. Richard Harris, who wishes to organize a Woman's Missionary Society in our church. Due to the small number of ladies present we decided to meet at the home of the writer on Thursday of this week at 3 o'clock for the purpose of organizing. Any of the ladies of our church who may see this in print, please come.

Our Sunday school, though small, is still moving along. We wish more of our people would come out to Sunday school, especially those who live near the church. How can we as parents and older people expect our children to go to Sunday school and take an interest in church work if we stay at home and set the example?

We were very glad to have Bro. Broome's father with us at the last two appointments. We hope he will stay all summer and be at each service.

MRS. J. B. GLOVER, Reporter.

◆

Mebane.—Rev. and Mrs. Ballard recently spent several days in Washington and Baltimore with Mr. Ballard's mother.

Mrs Henry Nicholson attended the Missionary Convention in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Nicholson was a delegate from the North Carolina Branch. She reports a most interesting convention with encouraging reports.

Our new bulletin made its appearance last Sunday. This is quite an addition to our services. Each person having the order of service and the announcemets. The Bulletin was made possible by the efforts of the pastor in securing a mimeograph for the church.

The pastor attended the Mid-Year Meeting at Calvary, and carried a good report. We did not quite reach the goal, but came near enough to be proud of our achievements.

The Woman's Auxiliary will hold its monthly meeting Monday night at the church with the Willing Workers giving the program.

The ladies of the church served a supper Saturday night and cleared around $25.00.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Sides, Mrs. C. D. Sides and C. D., Jr., of Concord, spent last Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Nicholson.

Quite a number of our people are ill, among them being Mrs George McCauley, Mrs. W. J. Sykes, Mrs. Floyd Jobe, and Mrs. Hillary Pane.

We are planning for our vacation Bible school to be held soon.

The Auxiliary observed the study day at the home of the president, Mrs. A. H. Jobe. Rev. J. Elwood Carroll reviewed the Foreign book and our pastor reviewed the Home book. Members of Hebron and Efland circles were present. A picnic supper was spread and everyone enjoyed the social hour as well as the interesting and helpful studies of both books.

Mr. and Mrs. James Blair and Miss Bessie Barnette, of Greensboro, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Barnette.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Keever of Stony Point are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Allen. Mr. Keever taught the Baraca Class Sunday to the delight of all present.

Miss Edna Nicholson leaves Wednesday for Boston, Massachusetts, in company with Miss Mary E. Young, to attend the graduation of Miss Eleanor Young at the Emerson College.

MRS. CALLIE NICHOLSON.

Kannapolis.—Our church work is still moving along nicely. Sunday school and church services are being well attended but we still miss those that are absent and hope for their immediate return.

The Layman's Fellowship was to enjoy a fish fry on the river bank on last Saturday evening, but the fish seemed to be slackers, they would not bite, so the meeting was caled off.

The pastor, Rev. Clarence P. Morris, was absent on last Sunday attending the services at High Point College, and in his absence we had the pleasure of hearing Rev. Earl Cook, of Roberta, at 11 o'clock. From all reports the service was well enjoyed and his service was appreciated very much.

Mr. R. T. Sides was in charge of the evening service; a good meeting was reported.

On Monday, May 14th, the pastor called a mass meeting for the ladies of the church for the purpose of organizing the Auxiliary. At this meeting a committee was appointed to nominate officers. Another mass meeting was held on Monday, the 21st, for the purpose of electing the officers. The officers will be installed on the first Sunday in June. There will be a meeting of the Auxiliary on Thursday night of this week to organize the different Circles and to nominate and elect the Circle leaders.

A fine Children's Day program is being planned under the efficient committee, Mrs. W. T. Kiser and Mrs. C. B. McCommons, to be presented on the second Sunday in June. Co-operation is being asked of all children and parents.

On the third Sunday in June Home-Coming will be observed. We are expecting "Mother and Daddy" Dixon and a part of "their children" to be with us at the 11 o'clock service. The afternoon session will be mostly singing. Several good quartets and duets will be rendered and some solos are expected. Several of the former pastors are expected to be present. Dinner will be on the ground and all are asked to bring well-filled basket.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Steele are planning to attend a surprise dinner on June 3rd in honor of the former's mother, Mrs. S. S. Steele. The table will be spread at Lakewood Park on the Concord highway.

We are glad to report Mr. D. B. Cartner is at home from the hospital and that he is doing nicely.

Sorry to state Mr. D. B. Dwiggens, son of "Grandma" Dwiggens, is in the Mooresville Hospital. He has undergone an operation for appendicitis. He seems to be improving.

We are glad to report Little Carolyn Sherrill, one of Mrs. McCommons' pupils, is at home from the hospital and that she is improving slowly from an attack of pneumonia.

Mrs. W. T. Kiser and children, W. T. and Billie Ross, spent last week with Mrs. Kiser's mother, Mrs. Russell, near Davidson.

I failed to state at the beginning of this item but Mr. C. E. Gabriel was elected president of the Laymen's Fellowship succeeding Mr. D. B. Cartner.

A FRIEND.

Bethesda.—In the absence of our pastor, Rev. Williams Jenkins from Rockingham filled his appointment.

Our pastor is still sick. Hope for him a speedy recovery.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. We expect to have Children's Day the second Sunday in June.

J. R. BOON, Reporter.

Greensville Charge.—You are invited to attend the supper to be given at Hobbs' Chapel on Saturday evening, June 2. The supper will be served from 6:30 to 7:30 at only 25c a plate. Proceeds will be used to pay off some indebtedness of the church.

At 8 o'clock, the Woman's Auxiliary from Philadelphia church will give the church play, "Farmer Brown's Conversion to Stewardship. This play has been given at two other churches on the work and was well attended. The play is very good; it takes in all phases of the budget, Home and Foreign Missions, Children's Home, Superannuates, Annual Conference Claims, etc. The Browns' negro cook, Matilda Johnson, adds enough spice to make the pay amusing. Admission from school age up, 10c. The admission fee will be given to Annual Conference claims. Come and help a good cause. Remember the date, Saturday evening, June 2, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. Come-

DORA PAIR, Reporter.

Mitchell's Grove.—On Sunday, May 13th, we observed Mother's Day. At the morning service two special songs were rendered; a duet by Miss Bessie Cashatt and Mrs. Herman Billings, "Shake Hands With Mother Again," and a mixed quartet by Miss Gwennie Jones, Mr. Dale Cashatt and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Witcher. After which our pastor brought to us an appropriate message on Mother. Communion service was observed.

Sunday evening the Christian Endeavor gave an interesting program on "The Qualities That Make a Good Mother," Miss Gwennie Jones being the leader. The program consisted of a very fine combination of talks, special music, readings and poems dedicated to mothers.

Preparations are being made to give a Children's Day exercise the second Sunday night in June.

The annual Memorial Service was held, May 27th. Mr. R. I. Smith was the speaker. Special music was rendered by Miss Bessie Cashatt and Mrs. Paul Kersey and also a quartet from Hickory Chapel. After this service the graves were beautifully decorated with flowers.

CALLIE BILLINGS, Reporter.

Kannapolis.—Our Home-Coming Day is June 17, 1934, the third Sunday. Former pastors are expected to attend and others are invited. We want this day to be a red-letter day in the history of our church. Come and help us make it so. This will be our seventh anniversary and the Lord has been good to us. Let us give Him the glory for it.

Our program will appear in a later issue of the Herald. Look for it.

COMMITTET.

Seagrove, Why Not Circuit.—On the fifth Sunday in April a District Conference was held in Seagrove Church. Rev. R. C. Stubbins, pastor of Asheboro Church and chairman of this District, presided over the meeting. The visiting ministers present were Rev. Wade Sanders, of Abner; Rev. W. F. McDowell, of Asheboro; Bro. Trollinger, of Rockingham, and Bro. Hethcox, of Richland Charge.

We were glad to have Mr. W. D. Moore, of Darlington, S. C., with us that day. He made an interesting talk. He was the first outside contributor to our new church here and we were very glad to have him with us.

Our church is almost completed except a heating plant and ceiling, which will be provided later.

As our splendid school building here was destroyed by fire six weeks before the school would have closed, the high school department and seventh grade were taught in our basement and Sunday school department. The commencement exercises were held in the auditorium and it was filled.

On the second Sunday night in May we were glad to have Dean Lindley, of High Point College, speak to us. His subject was Religious Education, and he made a splendid address.

A religious education training school began here on Wednesday night, May 23, conducted by our pastor, Rev. G. L. Reynolds, and Rev. R. C. Stubbins, pastor of Asheboro Church. The school closed Sunday afternoon. Bro. Stubbins had charge of the Children's Department under the aged of 16, and he certainly endeared himsef to them. They will never forget him. Saturday night both classes were called to the basement after class periods were over and refreshments were served consisting of ice cram and cakes. We were very fortunate in having Rev. T. J. Whitehead, of Greensboro, at the closing period Sunday afternoon. He made a fine address. There were 51 registered for this school and 47 received certificates. There were a number of listening visitors that didn't take the course.

Pastor Reynolds filled his regular appointment Sunday night, and immediately following the preaching service a Christian Endeavor Society was organized. The following officers were elected: L. A. King, superintendent; Miss Euna Walker, president, and Mrs. Dora Strider, secretary. Mrs. Strider will be pleasantly remembered as Miss Dora Kearns, who was reared in our Children's Home, and is a splendid young woman.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely under the splendid management of S. G. Richardson, our superintendent. We have a splendid Young People's class taught by Mrs. P. M. Eames. Our superintendent gave a weiner roast Saturday night, May 19, in honor of the class getting the most new members in the last six weeks. This honor was won by the Young People's class and was enjoyed by the entire school.

Plans are being made for Chidren's Day program to be held probably the fourth Sunday night in June.

We are looking forward to the fourth Sunday in June as there will be all-day services here. Dr. Andrews will be with us. This is for all of Why Not Circuit and we hope all churches will be well represented.

MRS. NOAH WILLIAMS.

Flat Rock Charge.—Attendance and interest were very good at our services at Flat Rock and Bethany churches last Sunday. We were pleased to receive Bro. Harvey Pegram by letter at Flat Rock church. He had been a member of Goshen M. E. church, South, at Stokesdale, for a number of years, and since Mrs. Pegram is a member at Flat Rock church and both of them attend our church services regularly, Bro. Pegram decided to transfer his membership to our church.

The pastor and family enjoyed a splendid dinner and pleasant visit in the home of Mrs. Nannie Wilson, of Flat Rock church, last Sunday. Before we departed, Mrs. Wilson gave her subscription to the Herald, and we are glad to have her join the circle of Herald readers on Flat Rock Charge. This gives us 13 subscriptions for this year, and we hope that others will subscribe soon, so we will not see that "13" appear after Flat Rock in the list of Herald subscriptions.

Mrs. Hassel Angel, who spent several days in the Wesley Long Hospital in Greensboro this month, has been recovering nicely from an operation since returning to her home in Stokesdale. She is a member of Gideon's Grove church. Mrs. Herbert Wilson, who spent about two weeks in St. Leo's Hospital, Greensboro, has almost recovered from an operation.

Gideon's Grove and Palestine churches are preparing Children's Day program which will be rendered some time during June.

The first of the revival meetings on Flat Rock charge will be held at Flat Rock church, beginning the fourth Sunday in June. More information concerning this meeting will be given in the Herald later.

A number of our young people, representing the different churches on Flat Rock charge, graduated from high school during recent school commencements. They were as follows: Margaret Angel, Notra Gordon, Lucy Middleton and Bennie Landreth, of Gideon's Grove church; Era Combs and Alva Leo Combs, of Bethel church; Iva Friddle and Bruce Phifer, of Flat Rock church, and Lillie Baynes, of Bethany church.

We wish to acknowledge several gifts from the people of Flat Rock charge which have been received during recent weeks. A valuable and appreciated gift coming from Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Friddle, of Flat Rock church, was in the form of a pig. Another gift which was also appreciated came from Mr. and Mrs. John Wray, of the same church, which was a 48-pound sack of flour. Other useful and highly appreciated gifts were: Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sharron, of Palestine church, one-half bushel of strawberries; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Johnson, cherries; Mr. Mrs. Ira Johnson, snap beans. Both of these famiies of Flat Rock church. Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McCollum, of Bethany church, cherries. We are thankful for gifts from neighbors, not members of our church, as follows: Mr. John Flynt and son, Edwin, for ploughing our garden; Mrs. Ed Hilton, for milk and butter; Mrs. J. A. Eller, for a pumpkin.

Our appointments for next Sunday will be at Bethel church at 11 a. m., and at Gideon's Grove church at 3 p. m. We will take the vote for delegate at each church during the month of June.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Midland.—Our second quarterly conference is now history. Bros. O. B. Furr and J. W. Tarlton are the nominees for delegate to Annual Conference. Both are good men.

The spirit of the conference was fine, although marks of the depression were evident in financial reports. Farmers sold their cotton at about 5c and are now getting 59 cents out of their costly dollars. Their hopes lie in this fall's prices of cotton. They are cast down but not discouraged. The people are pressing on.

We had a great day at Love's Grove on Mother's Day. The crowd was large and the program was fine.

We will hold an all-day service at Midland next Sunday. Children's service in the morning; dinner on the grounds, special music in the evening with a sermon by Dr. Andrews, president of the Conference. We want to make this a rallying point for the charge on that day as Dr. Andrews will not be able to visit all the churches.

Midland has made some very attractive repairs on the interior of the church.

We were glad to have Mrs. Bryant and her family of four unite with us last Sunday. They come from the M. E. Church, South, of Charlotte.

W. D. REED.

First Church, Lexington.—"Why I Believe in the Bible," was the sermon subject for the 11 o'clock service Sunday. This was a very vital message. At the evening service the subject was "God and Man Are Friends." This was also a splendid discourse. Messrs. Wilford McBride and James Scott rendered special music at this service which was enjoyed very much.

Our community was saddened recently by the passing of Mrs. Burl Allen. Mrs. Allen was not a member of First Church, but had attended its services when her health permitted her to do so since moving into the community.

Mrs. Leatha Jarvis Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jarvis, was born in Wilkes county, North Carolina, October 18, 1898. She departed this life May 20, 1934. She had been in failing health for quite a while. Her suffering was intense for several weeks, but she bore it patiently without a murmur or complaint. Even death had no terror for her. A short while before her death she remarked to her father that she had hopes of getting well, but if it be the Lord's will she was ready to go. She left her earthly abode with an unfaltering trust in Christ, her Savior.

Mrs. Allen had a very lovable disposition. She was gentle and kind and had a smile and kind word for everyone she met. Her pain was never too severe for her to greet those who visited her. We feel our loss greatly, yet we rejoice because of her gain. Also, we are proud of the goodly heritage she has left us. To know her was to love her. She was a good woman, a good neighbor, a loving wife and mother, and a good Christian. She needs little said of her, for her life speaks for itself.

In early girlhood she united with Lick Creek Baptist Church, High Rock, North Carolina, and on moving to Lexington transferred here membership to the Presbyterian church, where she remained a member until called to her home eternal in the heavens.

On May 22, 1915, she was united in marriage to Mr. Burley Franklin Allen. To this union were born James Franklin and Helen Virginia Allen, who died in infancy, and Elvin, Earl, and Bobby Allen, who survive.

She leaves to mourn their loss beside these children, her husband, father, step-mother, two sisters, Miss Electa Jarvis and Mrs. W. F. Comer, both of Lexington; also the following half-sisters: Beulah, Bessie, Lavone, Lavern, and one half-brother, John Lee Jarvis, all of High Rock.

Funeral services were conducted May 22 at 4 o'clock at Dacotah Presbyterian Church by Rev. A. Odell Leonard, assisted by Rev. C. G. Isley. The large number of sorrowing friends and relatives and the many floral tributes attest to the high esteem in which she was held.

MARGARET LEA SWINK, Reporter.

Chase City.—Our work at Chase City is moving along nicely we only have one service each month and we have missed three appointments, two because of weather conditions in February and March. Then we were sick and not able to be up in April but we were there last Sunday night and were glad to see the house almost full. The people there are willing to go to church and they are doing well with the Sunday school. Our Sunday school is doing fine, with an average attendance of 45. We also have the C. E. Society, and were delighted to see so many taking part in it; about 40 were present for C. E.

R. L. VICKERY, Pastor.

Friendship M. P. Church, Chase City.—The Sunday school meet on Sunday morning at 10 a. m. with 35 present. Our Sunday school has been cut down considerably, due to the epidemic of measles, but we hope now that the number will increase.

The Christian Endeavor was held with 19 members and 21 visitors present. It was held one hour earlier than the usual time on account of the preaching service. The C. E. Society seems to be progressing. It was organized April 15, 1934.

Preaching service was held here at 8 p. m. There was a considerably large number present.

Rev. R. L. Vickery, our pastor, delivered a splendid sermon which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. We truly wish that Pastor Vickery could be with us more, but since he has five other churches it is impossible for him to be here more.

The quarterly conference was held directly after the evening sermon. It was decided that the revival services should begin the fourth Sunday in July with two services each day, and our pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, delivering the sermons.

Union Grove Church, Mocksville Charge.—Spring has awakened old Union Grove, and she has realized that no news has been sent to the Herald for the past few months.

Last Sunday night we heard our pastor, Mr. Ferree, preach an excellent sermon on "The Cross." His text was taken from Luke 19:10.

Our Sunday school is thriving with an average attendance of about 100 pupils. The Juniors and Beginners of our Sunday school are talking of taking a trip to High Point to see the Children's Home.

Christian Endeavor work is coming on just fine. Fleet Madison is president and Hugh White is vice-president. Our Junior Christian Endeavor is working hard, too, and is being very successful with Mayme Harris as leader.

Our Ladies met last Sunday afternoon, and with the aid of Mrs. Koonce, of Lexington, organized an Auxiliary. We are hoping for it to be a success.

Herald readers, please pray for us in all of our undertakings that we may be successful and work for a higher level to please the Lord. Pray that we may be held up by a Higher Power. May God bless and keep each and every one of you, is my prayer.

FLORA MAE WOOTEN, Reporter.

THE SUMMER FOR THE CHILDREN

Schools are all out, commencements are over, and the next thing we naturally look to at the Children's Home is a two-weeks' outing for those children who have loved ones to whom they can go.

Last summer we tried an experiment which worked well for us. Just how well it worked in the homes we will never know. However, here is a slight test of it. Who cares to take one or two children into your homes for ten days or two weeks during July and thus give them a brief summer outing? That, of course, means just the ones who haven't anywhere to go. We haven't a great number of those to send out, so may not be able to supply all who ask. Our plans have to be worked out, so let us hear soon. Thank you.

Yours in His name,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

—Miss Eleanor Young, of Henderson, a graduate of High Point College, will also graduate from Boston College next week. She has specialized in Literature Interpretation. Her sister, Miss Mary Young, dean of women at High Point Colege, wil go to Boston for the graduation.

—Dr. L. W. Gerringer, of Henderson, preached the commencement sermon at Kittrell College, an institution for colored peope at Kittrell, N. C., last Sunday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fiddler, of High Point, are the proud parents of a baby girl. The young lady is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Coe, of Calvary Church.

MY MOTHER

I see you sitting,
Knitting.
Your mind traveling,
Unraveling.
Time you're whiling,
Smiling.
Books you like reading,
Heeding.
I hear you laughing,
Chaffing.
Friends you are meeting,
Greeting.
Tea all are quaffing,
Laughing.
Questions you're asking,
Unmasking.
Your voice is charming,
Disarming.
Sunshine you're bringing,
Singing.
Friends are now going,
Glowing.
Back to your knitting,
Befitting.
Lone in your dwelling,
Impelling.
You are so knowing,
Sewing.
Silence now keeping,
Sleeping.
Resting and dreaming,
Seeming.
Time is so flitting,
Knitting.

—Grenville Kleiser..

DON'T BE FOOLED!

When the market tipster tries
To entice you with his lies,
For a speculative rise,—
Don't be fooled!

When you go ahead and stuff,
After you have had enough,
Nature always calls the bluff,—
Don't be fooled!

When you tell your stories tall,
And you think you know it all,
You are riding for a fall,—
Don't be fooled!

—Grenville Kleiser.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COUNCIL OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Sunday Schools:
High Point, Lebanon	$5.00
Liberty	2.00
State Street	2.00
Christian Endeavor:
High Point, Lebanon	4.00

J. CLYDE AUMAN, Treas.

May 29, 1934.

—Dr. J. E. Pritchard, the pastor of Calvary Church, and Dr. C. W. Bates, of Winston-Salem, will go to Westminster, Md., on Saturday to attend a reunion of their class in commemoration of the 25th anniversary of their graduation in connection with the commencement exercises of Western Maryland College. The president of this class is Dr. Albert Buckner Coe, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Oak Park, Ill., and son of the Rev. S. W. Coe, who was brought up in Guilford County and is now a superannuated minister in the Maryland Conference.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Nance

Charles Nance, a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Nance, was born September 1, 1915, and departed this life May 3, 1934, aged 18 years, eight months and three days. Funeral services were conducted by the writer on Saturday morning, assisted by Rev. A. O. Leonard, Rev. J. D. Newton, and Mr. C. R. Thomas, by whom Charles was employed.

Charles is survived by his father and stepmother, and one sister, Miss Lucy Nance, and his grandparents, three uncles and three aunts, and by a host of friends that mourn his passing.

He finished high school at Berrhill, seven miles west of Charlotte, N. C., with high honor in 1931. His plans were to go to College in the near future.

Charles became a Christian early in his 'teens and united with the West End Methodist Protestant church about 18 months ago. He was elected president of the C. E. Society the first of this year and he served most faithfully for four months until God called him to come and be with him.

Charles was always kind and friendly, but firm and sincere in his ideals to do right. He always had a new idea for his society. He always thought of his Church and others. Charles in person has moved out from us, but in memory and spirit he still lives and will continue to live in the hearts and minds of those that love and fear God. Charles will be greatly missed, both in our society and church and the community in which he lived. He was one among our best young men. But let us live such lives that when the summons comes for us we say, "Good morning, Charles."

H. W. BELL.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Kellam

Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Kellam, of Kimesville section, were conducted at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon at Mount Pleasant Methodist Protestant church by Rev. J. D. Braxton, assisted by Rev. H. G. Fisher and Rev. Frank S. Blue. A large number of friends, something like 1,500, attended the services. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Mr. Kellam, 59, and Mrs. Kellam, 50, both died as the result of an auto-truck collision, Friday afternoon, May 11th, near Burlington. Mrs. Kellam died en route to the hospital, and Mr. Kellam died May 13th in a local hospital. The pallbearers for Mrs. Kellam were members from the Mount Pleasant Baraca Class: H. F. Amick, W. A. Stafford, Guy Alexander, Enos Causey, E. H. Thompson, and Elmer Smith. Pallbearers for Mr. Kellam were members from the Men's Bible Class, of which Mr. Kellam was a faithful member: Chares Coley, J. T. Shoffner, S. R. Stafford, D. E. Smith, Plato Crouse, and E. C. Euliss. The large floral offering was in charge of Callene Phillips and members of the Philathea class: Misses Ruby, Annie, June and Nellie Dace Roberson, Rebecca May, Edith, Margaret and Rebecca Woody Causey, Una Mae Phillips, Barbara, Nellie, Alene, and Amie Euliss, Katherine Crouse, Verta Linnens, Lois Patrnm, Sallie Amick, Mary Clapp, Ruth Phillips, Lois, Madie, and Martha Bowman, Edith and Cordie Myrtle Smith, and Nannie Holt; Mesdames Mary Roberson, Ola Hudson, Maud Smith, Georgia Thompson, Grace Shoffner, Edna Williams, W. L. Overman, Claud Shoffner, and Jenetta Stafford.

Mr. and Mrs. Kellam were both faithful members of Mount Pleasant church, and we feel that we have lost two loyal friends. Mrs. Kellam was a true and faithful members of the Ladies' Auxiliary. In the going of Mrs. Kellam the Auxiliary loses one who will be missed, but we all know that the greatest loss is to her children. The hearts of the Auxiliary and friends go out in sympathy to those children, and we hope for the speedy recovery of the two children still in the hospital. May they all be comforted and sustained by Divine grace.

A MEMBER OF THE AUXILIARY.

Pegram

Mrs. Dorothy Masten Pegram was born on December 14, 1853, and passed on to be with her Lord whom she served so long and so long and so faithfully, on Friday, May 11, 1934. On February 23, 1882, she was united in marriage to William N. Pegram, and for more than 50 years they walked together. The funeral service was conducted from the home in East Winston by Rev. J. E. Pritchard, her pastor for three years, and Rev. C. W. Bates, the pastor at the time of her death. Rev. H. F. Surratt, a former pastor, offered a prayer. The interment was in the Waughtown cemetery.

Mrs. Pegram was a remarkable woman in many ways. But the things that stands out is her Christian character. It is possible to speak of her in superlatives, and still feel that much more could be said. Gentle in speech, sympathetic in sickness and in sorrow, loyal to the services of the church, devoted to her pastor, attentive to all the means of grace,—words fail us when we attempt to enumerate her good quilities.

She has gone in body; yet somehow we feel her abiding presence in the church she loved and in the lives of her frinds. She being dead yet speaketh.

C. W. BATES.

Wilson

Funeral service for Pressly T. Wilson, former citizen of Halifax county, who died at his home in Chase City, Va., October 13, 1933, was conducted at the Wilson family cemetery Saturday, October 14. The Rev. P. E. Bingham, M. P. minister, presided.

Mr. Wilson had been in poor health for several years. He had been confined to his bed two months, and the end was expected. He wa a victim of asthma and heart trouble.

Mr. Wilson was the son of Eaton P. Wilson, of Halifax county, and Elva Shearin Wilson, of Warren county. He was born near Littleton, November 6, 1849, where he spent his early manhood. When at the age of 54 years he moved to Chase City, Va., where he spent the rest of his life.

He was first married to Anna Baker, of Nash county, N. C. To this union was born one child. He was later married to Matilda Shearin, of Warren county. Both wives preceded him to the grave many years ago.

Surviving are five children, G. T. Wilson, W. L. Wilson, H. C. Wilson, and Mrs. Bennie Doggett, all of Chase City, Va., and Mrs. G. C. Edmonds, of Roauoke Rapids, N. C.; 29 grandchildren, 23 great-grandchildren, two sisters and two brothers, Miss Kate Wilson of Littleton, N. C., Mrs. W. A. Whilby of Roanoke Rapids, N. C., Mr. A. B. Wilson and Mr. J. J. Wilson, of Littleton, N. C. A number of relatives and friends also survive.

Mr. Wilson was one of the first to help establish and build Weaver's Chapel M. P. church. He was an active member as long as he lived in this community, and attended often after moving away.

Active pallbearers were Alton Pulley, Alton Waggstaffe, Millard Lee, S. T. Wilson, Ervie Smith, and A. J. Stansbury.

TWO NIECES,
Nancy and Zora Wilson.

Kennedy

Pleasant Grove community was recently made sad because of the passing of J. Marvin Kennedy, son of Andrew and Mary Kennedy, was born September 14, 1877, and died May 16, 1934, aged 56 years, 8 months and 2 days.

He was married to Lydia Moore, December 23, 1896. To this union were born four daughters, Mrs. Lola Ball, Mrs. Beatrice Craven, and Hazel and Lonise Kennedy; five sons, Clyde, Stnart, Paul, Woodrow and Wayne. Stuart preceded his father to the grave ten years ago. Also he leaves one brother, B. E. Kennedy, and two sisters, Mrs. Carrie Newby and Mrs. Patricia Swaim.

The deceased professed faith in God in early life. He has been in ill health for the past eighteen months, and expressed his deep sorrow to leave loved ones and friends. He was always glad and willing to lend a helping hand and give support to the work of the church. His honest dealing in public life is characteristic of his desire to follow the Christlike way of living.

H. L. POWELL.

Tribute of Respect

The Woman's Auxiliary of the First Methodist Protestant church of Thomasville, N. C., wish to offer a tribute of respect in memory of Mrs. D. R. Loftin, better known as "Grandma Loftin." She quietly passed away on March 31, 1934, aged 86 years, 11 months and 19 days. She was the oldest member of our Auxiliary.

Our church has suffered the loss of a faithful member, but we bow in humble submission to God's will in all things realizing that He knows what is best for each of us and He doeth all things well.

May Grandma Loftin's life be an inspiration to relatives and friends to live consecrated lives for Christ. She professed faith in Christ in early life and we feel that when she left us she was prepared to go. May we strive to so live that we may be successful co-workers for Christ and be prepared to go when we are called to answer the death summons. As the poet has said:

"So live, that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan, which moves
To that mysterious realm where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death,
Thou go not like a quarry-slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

Therefore, we desire that a copy of this tribute of respect be sent to the Missionary Record, the Methodist Protestant Herald, the family, and a copy recorded in the minutes of the local Woman's Auxiliary.

Mrs. W. G. Myers, Mrs. T. A. Lloyd,
Mrs. T. G. Madison, Committee.

THE SENATOR

The Senator is eloquent,
He likes to air his views;
At phrases neat he's hard to beat,
He says what he may choose.

The Senator is eloquent,
He has to have his say;
Tho' you implore to yield the floor,
He holds it for a day.

The Senator is eloquent,
He speaks of this and that;
But I attest he's at his best
When he talks through his hat!

—Grenville Kleiser.

SMOTHERS-DIXON-WILLIAMS REUNION

This annual family reunion will be held at Midway church, Haw River charge, at 10:30 a. m. on July 4th, 1934. The members of these groups will please pass along the word to all the kinfolks and friends. We are anxious to have as many present as possible.

Rev. J. S. Williams, D. D., of Asheville, N. C., will speak to the group at 11 o'clock.

It is expected that those coming will bring baskets of eats and serve a picnic dinner.

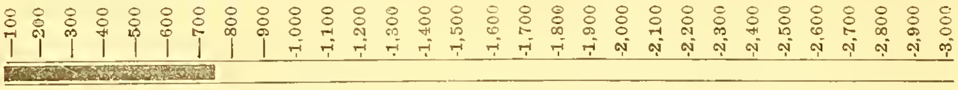
Come and enjoy the day.

Faithfully yours,
A. G. DIXON, President.

* * *

—Ministers' children played a prominent part in the commencement exercises at High Point College last Monday. Those graduating were: Alma Andrews, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Andrews, of High Point; John and Frances Taylor, son and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. W. Taylor, also of High Point; Robert E. Williams, son of Rev. and Mrs. B. M. Williams, of Efland, and Curtiss Groff Humphreys, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. I. Humphreys, of High Point. John Taylor was given the medal for being the best all 'round student in the Senior Class; Alma Andrews was graduated Cum Laude, and Mary Margaret Bates, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Bates, of Winston-Salem, was given the medal for the most improvement in piano.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
GRAHAM	85
LINCOLNTON	71
REIDSVILLE	70

We welcome to our place of honor this week a new charge, Lincolnton. Glad to have you, Lincolnton, and we hope you will keep up the good work.

Since I have no charge to rave over this week I want to say a word about the Subsidy Fund which the charges are to raise. In my enthusiasm for subscriptions I have not said so much about subsidy, and I suppose that is the reason for the slump. While we had a gain in subscriptions of 246 the first half of this year over the corresponding period of last year, we had a loss in subsidy of $187.40. Last year during the first half of the year 44 charges raised something on subsidy. This year 21 raised something for that interest. Last year 19 charges raised subsidy in full during the first half of the Conference year and this year 15 charges raised subsidy in full in the corresponding period. This proves that the charges went to sleep on subsidy. Now, folks, wake up and come on. It is fine to send in subscriptions, but we must have the subsidy also. So take an offering in your church next Sunday for Herald Deficit and send the money in.

So far this year I have raved over charges that sent in their quota of subscriptions whether they sent in subsidy or not, but from this on if you want my harp of ten strings to play on all ten you had better send in subsidy along with subscriptions; otherwise the harp will play on only about five strings and that will not be enough to make music that will make the trees to skip like lambs and the mountains to quake as in an earthquake. So from now on it's going to be—

"Yours for Subscriptions and Subsidy,"

J. E. PRITCHARD.

* * *

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	9¾	$....
Albemarle	17	6	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	22	....
Asheville	14	7¼	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	9.30	....
Bessemer City	13	5.14	....
Burlington, First	71	12½	*20.00
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	13	....
Charlotte	21	6.7	.60
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.32	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	12½	....
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	1½	....
Denton	48	11¼	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	7½	*5.00
Fallston	85	20½	....
Flat Rock	63	13	....
Friendship	21	1⅝	....
Forsyth	45	8	2.50
Gibsonville	20	2½	....
Glen Raven	47	4¾	....
Graham	27	26.98	....
Granville	59	17½	16.55
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY.	29	30½	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	8½	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	2½	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	9.1	*7.50
Greensville	59	6½	....
Guilford	37	9½	....
Halifax	53	7½	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	13.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	16½	....
High Point, Lebanon	34	4½	....
High Point, Welch	22	4½	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	16.30	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2½	....
Lexington, First	45	8	*10.00
Lexington, State Street	40	7.36	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	18	12.85	....
Littleton	50	7¾	....
Mebane	28	5	....
Mecklenburg	40	1½	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	3	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	4	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	16½	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	23¾	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7¼	....
Randolph	74	9½	....
Reidsville	10	7	....
Richland	43	3½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	19	*20.00
Siler City	20	10¾	*5.00
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	13	....
Tabernacle	39	20	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	2½	....
West Forsyth	62	7½	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	4½	....
Winston, First	26	7¼	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	4½	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

---

* Subsidy paid in full.

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

MARRIED

Whitehead-Amick

Rev. Talton J. Whitehead was united in marriage to Miss Hilda Maude Amick at the home of the bride near Burlington, N. C., Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, May 20, 1934. Dr. P. E. Lindley, Dean of High Point College, officiated, assisted by Rev. N. G. Bethea, pastor of the bride.

The spacious room where the vows were spoken was attractively decorated with ferns, flowers and candles appropriate to the occasion. Lovely music was furnished by Miss Dorothy Hoskins and Miss Rosalie Andrews, of High Point. Only a small number of intimate friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony.

Mr. Whitehead, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Whitehead, of Alamance County, is a member of the North Carolina Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church. He was educated at High Point College and Duke University School of Religion, and is a young minister of rare promise and leadership.

Miss Amick—now Mrs. Whitehead—is the accomplished and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Amick, of Burlington. She also was educated at High Point College, graduating with the class of 1930.

After an extended tour at the summer resorts in Western Carolina, Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead will be at home in Greensboro, N. C. Their host of friends and admirers wish for them a very happy wedded life.

◆

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

L. F. Ferree	$14.00
Rev. C. L. Spencer	8.00
Mrs. L. W. Cheek	7.38
J. T. Cozart	3.00
Rev. J. R. Anderson	2.00
Rev. J. T. Bowman	2.00
Rev. O. C. Loy	2.00
Rev. W. D. Reed	1.00
Rev. C. B. Way	1.00
Mrs. D. M. Pender	1.00
Rev. R. L. Vickery	1.00
Q. B. Teseniar	.80

Herald Subsidy Fund

We have the following to thank this week:

Union Chapel, Granvile, per Miss Emily Floyd	$ 3.05

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., JUNE 7, 1934 NUMBER 29

Rev H L Isley 2aug4 R6

"Come, Lord Jesus!"

With deep concern
In hearts that burn
We daily yearn
For Thy return!
Come, Lord Jesus!

With hopes deferred,
Our hearts are stirred:
We have not heard
One warning word!
Come, Lord Jesus.

Must we still wait
Uncertain date?
The time grows late,
Impatience great.
Come, Lord Jesus.

Is Jesus slack?
What does He lack?
Will He turn back?
When white is black!
Come, Lord Jesus.

He cannot fail,
He gave strong bail:
Foes may assail,
They can't prevail.
Come, Lord Jesus.

Can it be true
He's not yet due?
Note what you do
In such a stew.
Come, Lord Jesus.

Before He went
He gave intent:
Just what He meant
Knew those He sent.
Trust in Jesus.

Behold, I come quickly, and my reward is with me to give to every man according as his work shall be.—Jesus.

◆

—Broken homes, abandoned children, can mean only one thing—encouragement of crime.—Edgar S. Vaught.

A Long-Delayed Exposure

Long overdue is the exposure of the machinations of the munition-makers of the world. It is now coming—coming from many quarters, and the rising tide of outraged world opinion threatens to wrest the whole nefarious business away from private manufacturers and convert it into a government monopoly to be carried on only under the strictest supervision. Why? Because it already appears even upon the basis of partial data that in not a few instances munition-makers are really war-makers. For greed they promote conflict between nations and profit by the shedding of human blood.

In a recent article in Fortune which has helped to lift the lid off this colossal iniquity, there appears a paragraph reading as follows:

> "According to the best accountancy figures, it cost about $25,000 to kill a soldier during the World War. There is one class of big business men in Europe that never rose up to denounce the extravagance of the Government in this regard, to point out that when death is left unhampered as an enterprise for the individual initiative of gangsters, the cost of a single killing seldom exceeds $100. The reason for the silence of these big business men is quite simple: The killing is their business; armaments are their stock in trade; governments are their customers; the ultimate consumers of their products are, historically, almost as often their compatriots as their enemies. That does not matter. The important point is that every time a burst-shell fragment finds its way into the brain, the heart, or the intestines of a man in the front line, a great part of the $25,000, much of it profits, finds its way into the pocket of the armament-maker."

On March 5 of the present year, Hon. William E. Borah of Idaho made a speech in the United States Senate entitled "Munition Manufacturers Should Be Curbed;" basing his discussion upon the facts revealed in the Fortune article and upon material from other publications. Senator Borah asserted in the course of his address that "munition manufacturers have been realizing profits of 12 and 20 and 30 per cent. during the depression," and very much more in time of war. HERALD readers would do well to write to Senator Borah for a copy of this speech.

And now comes another searching article, "Slaughter for Sale," in the May number of Harper's Magazine. On the first page of this contribution, written by John Gunther, Vienna correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, we read:

"The world, according to the League of Nations, spent $4,276,800,000 on armament last year. In one year, mind

---

Registration for the Pastors' Summer School will take place Monday, June 25. Ministers should be present then.

you. This sum is too astronomical for ready comprehension. Suppose I had that much money and spent it at the rate of $10 per day. I should still have some left after more than a million years. Suppose it should be transformed into a piece of tape, mile for dollar; it would go around the world 172,169 times."

And who profit by all this? "The great arms firms of the world are Vickers-Armstrong in England, Schneider-Creusot in France, Mitsui in Japan, Bethlehem Steel in the United States, and Skado in Czecho-slovakia," says Mr. Gunther. "They and their subsidiaries probably account for 75 per cent of the world's arms production. Explosives and ammunition are provided by a different group of firms closely allied to the arms firms, like the Du Pont concern in America and Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., in Great Britain."

And who are the customers? Any one who will buy, is the substance of Mr. Gunther's conclusion. He says:

"This brings up another point, the extreme and appalling political impartiality and detachment of the arms companies. They sell to each side in any war. They sell to friend and foe alike. I might add to my modest request if I am killed in the next war: I hope I shall not be shot by bullets made in my own country."

Whereupon he furnishes his readers tables showing the arms sales of Great Britain "to both sides in three recent wars."

But is there, after all, a case against the munition-makers? In 1921 the Temporary Mixed Commission of the League of Nations made an official report charging that armament firms have:

1. Been active in fomenting war scares and in persuading their own countries to adopt warlike policies and to increase their armaments;
2. Attempted to bribe government officials both at home and abroad;
3. Disseminated false reports concerning the military and naval expenditures of various countries in order to stimulate armament expenditures;
4. Sought to influence public opinion through the control of newspapers in their own and foreign countries;
5. Organized international armament rings through which the armaments race has been accentuated by playing off one country against the other;
6. Organized international armament trusts which have increased the price of armaments to governments.

Commenting upon these six points, Mr. Gunther says categorically:

"These charges were made almost fifteen years ago; with increased force they hold good today. I do not think that arms traffickers alone can make a war; they simply supply the fuel for politicians, militarists, "patriots." But armament has, one might say, a certain relation to disarmament. And it is plain that no disarmament can be effective in the world if private arms-makers are free to ply their trade at will."

When shall we common people wake up and realize that we are being bought, sold in the market-place, and slaughtered like cattle by those who profit through the international crime of wholesale murder?

Some one with unusual insight has remarked that "business is war." So it is upon the basis of our present system. Is it to be wondered at that those bent upon gain turn to actual physical warfare as a source of great profit, and that they seek to promote their business? Our whole economic system needs the Christ cure. There is no other.—Editorial in Zion's Herald.

SPEAKING OF WORDS

By Grenville Kleiser

Elizabeth and I were speaking of words. She knows them intimately, their power for good or evil, and deplores the careless use of these sacred symbols. Best of it, we, wife and husband, were in cordial agreement, and so we talked about words: how infinite shades of thought and feeling can be expressed in words of simple character.

There is no need to search for unusual, high-sounding or peculiar words in order to obtain a reputation as a good conversationalist or even as a writer. The English language contains an abundant supply of ordinary, simple words which, if carefully chosen and correctly applied, suffice to express almost any meaning, idea, or shade of thought. Naturally there are, in addition, many words of greater length or rarity, which it is equally permissible to employ when occasion arises, since these words fulfil a special mission that no other words can adequately discharge. They have a subtle shade of meaning peculiar to themselves; there may be, and often there are, synonyms which closely resemble them; but there is always a slight difference. It is this difference that only the diligent student of words can detect, and it is all-important.

Indeed it is only when one comes to consider words—just words alone, apart from literary style—that one realizes the vastness of the subject, the infinite variety of these little cogs in the wheels of speech, their nice adjustment, their delicate grading, their precision and their power.

Elizabeth suggested a few simple examples of closely related words, and asked me how many of them I could correctly define, or correctly apply: inverse and converse; consent and assent; assume and presume; protrude and project; confess and admit; obtuse and abstruse; difficult and hard; correct and accurate; append and suspend; prescribe and proscribe.

I frankly acknowledged that I had often used one or another when its partner should have been employed—a fault which is unwittingly committed every day in every class of society. Yet a little time devoted regularly to the study of words will remedy this, and one will assuredly find a definite and growing pleasure in the correct application of words during one's daily intercourse.

Having reflected throughout the day on this subject of the power of words, I gave to my wife that evening the product of my musing: "Some words transport us to the skies," I said, "others plunge us into abysmal gloom; some hold undisputed sway like absolute sovereigns, others do only menial service; some stab as with a dagger, others soothe like a mother's caress; some have the ingratiating modesty of a highborn maiden, others intrude like an unbidden guest; some sing in the memory like the lingering note of a nightingale, others haunt the mind like an ominous decree; some are like living personalities, others like dim memories of bygone days; some are like the dance of animated sunbeams, others like the sigh of mournful pines; some are like a beacon light, others like a flickering candle; some are like a quivering image on water, others set as a face of flint; some are like a symphony of the stars, others like jangling notes out of tune; some are hot as a fiery volcano, others cold as a winter blast; some are as soft as a whispering breeze, others loud as a cannon-peal; some are as gay as a troubadour, others sombre as a starless night; some are as lustrous as a jewel, others dull as a brooding sky; some are as nimble as dancing water, others heavy as a weary footstep; some are as beautiful as the rosy flush of dawn, other ugly as a venomous toad; some are as definite as the glance of a child, others vague as a fitful dream."

Elizabeth assented.

FAITH AND ITS GOAL

By Luther K. Long

Most Christians endeavor to think and to plan with reference to the here and the hereafter. Two things are found to be sources of considerable worry.

I

They desire a faith, concerning religious teachings and Christian conduct, so definite, so sure, that one thing follows another without any semblance of doubt or failure. They want accurate definitions of God, the Bible, sin, salvation, sanctification, heaven, hell, the second coming, the millenium, eternity—and all the many other things of which Christians think, and concerning which they differ in many ways.

It is refreshing to come across a poet who employs other terms than those that have been so long used—not to say misused—that they no longer yield ideas and feelings that inspire and quicken. Here are a few lines from a poet, to me unknown, who succeeds in fixing the mind on points of interest that bring inspiration and hope:

What is Faith?

"And, what is faith? The anchored trust at the core of things.
Health, goodness, animating strength flow from exhaustless springs;
That no star rolls ungided down the rings of endless maze,
That no feet tread an aimless path through wastes of empty days;
That trusts the everlasting voice, the glad calm voice that says
That order grows from chaos, and that life is born from death;
That from the wreck of rending stars behind the storm and scathe,
There dwells a heart of central calm;—and this, and this is faith."

II

The other thing that many people worry about is the question of a goal toward which we are headed. At what are we aiming? Where will we be when we reach the journey's end? This same poet has a word of wisdom on this matter also. Let no one be disheartened because the goal does not seem as definite as some might wish. Here it is:

The Joy of Going On

"What is the purport of the scheme toward which all time has gone?
What is the great Eeonian goal? The joy of going on.
And are there any souls so strong, such feet with swiftness shod,
That they shall reach it, reach some bourne, the ultimate of God?
There is no bourne, no ultimate. The very farthest star
But rims a sea of stars that stretches just as far.
There's no beginning and no end. As in the ages gone
The greatest joy of joys shall be the joy of going on."

There was the old lady who said, "I sometimes set and think; and sometimes I just set." There was another old lady—perhaps he was a mere man—who said: "I like to go to church, and set and think of nothing." The attitude of these folks is not so much worse than the senseless indulgence in mere motion, without aim or accomplishment.

Longfellow's lines on the purpose of life strike the right note:

"Not enjoyment, and not sorrow, is our destined end or way;
But to act that each tomorrow finds us further than today."

Progress is the word. Going on in understanding, in appreciation, in fellowship with the good. The joy of going on is the joy of enlarging hearts and minds, the joy of seeing and knowing more of this wonderful universe of God, the joy of participating more fully in the life to which He has graciously introduced us.

A LIFELONG REGRET

Some years ago a young man arose at the close of a prayer meeting and said: "I once had a father and mother who cared more for my soul than anything else. At last my father died, after which my mother became more anxious than ever for me and sometimes she would come and put her loving arms around my neck and plead with me to come to Christ. I told her I wanted to see something of the world and did not want to become a Christian in early life.

"Sometimes I would wake up past midnight and hear my Godly mother crying to God for her boy. At last I felt that I must either become a Christian or go away from that mother's influence, and I ran away.

"After a long time had passed I heard from home indirectly that my mother was sick. I knew what it meant; I knew she was pining for me. I knew her heart was broken on account of my wayward life. I though I would go home and ask mother to forgive me, but I knew I would then have to become a Christian and my rebellious heart said, 'I will not go.'

"Later I heard that my mother was worse, and I thought:

Six Courses Will Be Offered the Pastors at the Pastors' Summer School, High Point College, June 25 to July 6.

'Suppose my mother should die. Should I never see her again, I would never forgive myself,' and I started home. I got in just after dark. The moon was shining. I had to go about a mile and a half to my mother's house. On the way I thought I would visit the graveyard and see if there was a newly-made grave where my father was buried. When I drew near, my heart beat more quickly as I saw by the light of the moon the newly-made grave. Mother was gone. Then for the first time the question came stealing over me, 'Who is going to pray for my lost soul now? Father and mother are both gone.'

"Young men, I would have given the world if I could have called my mother back and have had her put her arms around my neck and heard her breathe my name in prayer. But her voice was silent forever.

"I knelt beside the grave, crying that God would have mercy on me. Before morning came I believe that God, for Christ's sake, had forgiven my sins, and mother's God became my God. But, young men, I can never forgive myself. I killed that mother. I trampled her prayers under my feet, and sent her to the grave. Young men, if you have a Godly mother, treat her kindly."—Unknown.

BEECHER'S ADVICE TO HIS SON

My Dear Herbert: You are now for the first time really launched into life for yourself. You go from your father's house and from all family connections, to make your own way in the world. It is a good time to make a new start, to cast out those faults of whose evil you have had experience, and to take on habits the want of which you have found to be so damaging.

1. You must not go into debt. Avoid debt as you would the devil. Make it a fundamental rule: "No debt; cash or nothing."

2. Make few promises. Religiously observe even the smallest promise. A man who means to keep his promise, cannot afford to make many.

3. Be scrupulously careful in all statements—accuracy and frankness, no guess work; either nothing, or the accurate truth.

4. When working for others link yourself out of sight; seek their interest. Make yourself necessary to those who employ you, by industry, fidelity, and scrupulous integrity. Selfishness is fatal.

5. Hold yourself responsible for a higher standard than anyone else expects of you. Keep your personal standard high. Never excuse yourself to yourself; never pity yourself; be a hard master to yourself, but lenient to everybody else.

6. Concentrate your force on your own proper business; do not turn off. Be constant, steadfast, persevering.

7. The art of making one's fortune is to spend nothing unnecessarily. In this country any intelligent and industrious young man can become rich, if he stops all leaks and is not in a hurry. Do not make haste; be patient.

8. Do not speculate or gamble. You go to a land where everybody is excited and strives to make money, suddenly, largely, and without working for it. They blow soap-bubbles. Steady, patient industry is both the surest and safest way. Greediness and haste are two devils, and destroy thousands every year.

9. In regard to Mr. Blank, he is a Southern gentleman; he is receiving you as a favor to me; do not let him regret it.

10. I beseech you to correct one fault—severe speech of others; never speak evil of any man, no matter what the facts may be. Hasty faultfinding and severe speech of absent people is not honorable, is apt to be unjust and cruel, makes enemies to yourself, and is wicked.

11. You must remember that you go to Mr. Blank not to learn to manage a farm like his. One or two hundred acres, not forty thousand, is to be your future homestead; but you can learn the care of cattle, and sheep, the culture of wheat, the climate, the country, manners and customs, and a hundred things which will be needful.

12. If by integrity, industry, and well-earned success, you deserve well of your fellow-citizens, they may in years to come ask you to accept honors. Do not seek them; do not receive them while you are young—wait; but when you are established you may make your father's name known with honor in halls of legislation. Lastly, do not forget your father's and mother's God. Because you will be largely deprived of your church privileges, you need all the more to keep your heart before God. But do not despise small churches and preachers. "Mind not high things, but condescend to men of low estate."

Read often the Proverbs, and the precepts and duties enjoined in the New Testament. May your father's God go with you, and protect you!—Publisher Unknown.

THE PRODUCT OF REPEATED CHOICE

You hve inspired moments, times of mental exaltation, when you feel a sense of unlimited personal power. This is the time to note such thoughts, and to set them down in writing for actual use. Make a record of your new ideas, plans, purposes, ideals, and resolutions. The habit of putting these vital matters into writing will make them more definite and concrete, and serve to remind you of possible negligence. Bear in mind that there is not a moment in which your character is not being shaped in one direction or another, and that your life is simply the product of repeated choices. Grandeur of character is the effect of many habits. Know precisely what you want, proceed directly to it, and the best results will reward your diligence.—Grenville Kleiser.

A MOTHER'S FAITH

They had long been praying for a dissipated son, and one day expressed their hopelessness as to his ever being converted. The mother sat by in silence till all had spoken, when she said: "You are all looking to the wrong place; you are looking for some good to come out of Jacob, and it cannot, for there is none there. I haven't given up God yet." Two weeks later he was converted. Verily none who trust in Him shall be ashamed.—Unknown.

—A great many younger Americans are growing in a religious vacuum.—Charles W. Gilkey.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

A. C. Expenses for June

The following charges should pay their assessments for A. C. in June: Alamance, Anderson, Bess Chapel, Fountain Place, First Charlotte, Draper, Calvary, and Yarborough.

But according to the Treasurer's report Anderson and Calary have already paid theirs in full. We congratulate them on anticipating our needs. Now let the others come forward and make it unanimous for June.

Children's Day in June

For many years our Sunday schools have held their Children's Day program in the month of June. It is a fine day; the month of roses, the children are out of school and the summer heat has not done its worst yet. So let us give the children a good time and swell our offerings for missions. Remember, the money raised by these exercises will apply on your World Service Budget. Order your programs from Dr. G. W. Haddaway, 516 N. Charles St., Baltimore, Md.

Working Together

It is not only fine for a group of workers to work together, it is really necessary, if the best results are to be obtained by their efforts. Yet it often happens that our church officials never practice this. It ought to be a joy for them to cooperate with their fellow officials in doing the work of the church, but it isn't. It is unseemly for a member of a group to fail in this particular. It happens, sometimes, when the church has a definite project which calls for the co-operation of all its members, that some officials seem never to know it. If it is to raise money, there are members of the Board of Stewards who never lift their hands; and thus they stray along until some of the leaders become discouraged and quit. This seems to be the purpose of their failure to be interested.

Conference action has no effect upon them. Like a player ''starring''' in a basketball game, who refuses to let other players have the ball; he must do all the shooting of goals. Such people are temporarily unfitted for church officials, whether minister or steward in a local church. Religious work certainly calls for and requires an unselfish spirit in the worker. If one is afraid some one else will get more praise than he, he will pray very little for that one to succeed. This selfishness is very wicked and no doubt plays havoc with the spiritual life of those who have it. It surely plays smash with the work of the church wherever it control an official.

> ''Real churches aren't made by men afraid
> Lest someone else goes ahead;
> When everyone works and nobody shirks
> You can raise a church from the dead.''

Looking Toward November the 14th

Now that we have passed our mid-year milestone, our thought is naturally turned towards Conference, But some say, Conference is more than five months away, why worry about it now? That is the very point; that it is five months ahead, affords us a fine opportunity to do lots of things before it comes. Some churches are well on the way to a perfect honor roll; others have not yet started. We are concerned about these who have yet to start. Many of them never do much for their pastors or budgets until summer is gone, then they begin to worry and wonder where all this money is to come from. We want to see these people do better by starting earlier. It is like a runner getting off to a bad start, it will be mighty hard to win. I doubt that there are many churches in our entire Conference which would fail to pay pastor's salary in full together with the Annual Conference claims, were they to begin on these in real earnest in December and keep at it until Conference meets in November. I am hopeful of seeing these churches which borrow money to pay up their claims at Conference doing this without borrowing one cent, simply because good methods were used to raise money and they began on the first Sunday of the new conference year.

First Church, Concord, Rev. J. M. Morgan, Pastor

I visited this church at the morning hour of worship. There was the usual attendance, or possibly not so large as usual. Good attention was given the message, and other indications show the work to be getting along smoothly. The bulletin board back of the pulpit showed that of the entire budget up to date, only $54.00 was unpaid. I doubt that many other churches show such a fine record. The church had met fully the assessments for A. C. Expenses, A. C. Debt, Church Extension, and Superannuates. That is fine indeed. This is Pastor Morgan's third year and he appears happy in the work, and from the above it appears that the people are co-operating with him splendidly. There is a large Baraca class in this school. Something like 150 were on roll; not quite a third were present, I believe, but when the president of the class said that their allotment for the Children's Home was $10.00, and the collection was counted, I observed that the amount was gotten. That is fine. Classes such as this one rarely know their strength and very rarely take much interest in any other phase of the church work than attendance upon the class. If only—and how often we use that expression!—if only such a group of men could be fully enlisted in other phases of the work of the church, what a wonderful thing would happen!

I had the great pleasure of being the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Sides. They are graduates of High Point College, and it was my pleasure to give them both their diplomas. Mr. Sides has taught since his graduation, six years ago until now, but he recently resigned his position and is entering upon a buiness career. They have a wonderful baby in the person of C. D., Jr. Our wishes go with them that he shall make a most useful man. We deeply appreciated the hospitality of this young couple, and are very glad that our name shall head the list in their guest book. As we were leaving, Brother L. H. Sides had me back my Ford up to his gas tank and carry away a full tank of gasoline as a token of his good will. We deeply appreciate this gift.

The costs for attendance at the Pastors' Summer Schoolare: Room and Board $7.00, Registration $1.50, Total $8.50

Midland Charge, Rev. W. D. Reed, Pastor

I attended a circuit meeting of the three churches in the afternoon at Midland church. There was a good attendance, all churches were represented, and they had already held Children's Day,—and a good program, it was reported,—before I arrived. I spoke again at night in the same church. Here we had almost a cloudburst, with much thunder and lightning, which hindered the meeting somewhat.

This is only a three-point charge now, Pageland church having been put on Mecklenburg charge at last Conference. It is quite compact, with parsonage at Midland. I found the pastor hopeful and doing fine work. Really, one church, Midland, is just about keeping up the pastor's salary, which is quite unusual for a rural church. All churches have paid their assessment for Church Extension and something has been paid on other claims. All in all, the pastor thinks that there is a better feeling, more co-operation and more hopefulness this year than last. We regret that Mrs. Reed is still unable to take her part in the work, as she once did, on account of ill health.

Plan of Appointments

June 10—Liberty Circuit; Shiloh 11 a.m., Hickory Grove afternoon, Liberty at night.

June 17—Chapel Hill, Liberty church, Lineberry, Davidson charge.

June 24—Seagrove church, opening new church, all-day program.

July 1—Philadelphia church 11 a.m., Matthews Chapel afternoon, Wesley Chapel at night.

July 8—Spring church 11 a.m., Lebanon afternoon, Pleasant Hill at night.

July 9—Group Meeting on Spring Church charge.

July 10—Group Meeting, Enfield.

July 11—Group Meeting Eden church, Halifax circuit.

July 12—Group Meeting, Corinth church, Littleton circuit.

July 13—Group Meeting, Granville charge.

July 15—Mebane 11 a.m., Union Grove afternoon, Efland at night.

July 17, 18, 19—Group meetings on Creswell charge.

July 24—Siler City charge, Piney Grove and Siler City.

July 28—Group Meeting, Baltimore church, West Forsyth charge.

July 29—District Meeting at Baltimore church in the morning.

July 29—Afternoon, District Meeting at Spencer church.

R. M. Andrews.

—Heredity and environment draw a circle around every human being, beyond which no one can go. But within that circle there is more room than most people think.—Kirtley Mather.

SOME REGRETS AND TWO RESOLUTIONS

"I regret not having taken your advice soon after I came to this place." This woman was talking with her pastor on the eve of his departure for another field. Her two sons had been in the town for some time and were members of the church, but the mother was undecided whether to cast her lot with their church or to alternate between that and another. It seems that the minister had advised her to make a choice—preferably the church of her sons—and give it the best service of which she was capable. Now, at the going of the minister whom she liked, she was feeling lonely and unattached—because she was not definitely one with the church.

"I am sorry you are leaving us," declared a banker to his pastor. "I certainly regret that I did not become better acquainted with you when you first came. My wife, as you know, is always in church. I should not have left such matters so entirely to her."

"I am sorry I did not get into the social life of the church," confessed a diffident woman who really enjoyed fellowship with folks when once the ice was broken. "I wanted to go to the pot-luck supper at the church last week, and I should like to be in the gatherings you have in the homes from time to time. I have been away from such affairs so long that I fear—a foolish fear—that folks might give me a surprised look."

"It is too bad that I was not more friendly with that new girl when she joined our class in high school." This was from a fine young girl who was really trying to be helpful in a Christian way among acquaintances of her own age. "This girl," she continued, "was taken up by a different set, not much concerned with religion. Now it seems impossible to get her interested in church and Sunday school. Had our crowd been more cordial, she would have come with us and enjoyed our company."

I wonder how many of you will join me in these two resolutions:

1. I am resolved to live my life in friendly, helpful relations with as many people as possible.
2. I am resolved that, after due consideration, I will begin at once to do the things I am convinced I should be doing.

Luther K. Long.

RURAL CHURCH ADMINISTRATION AT PASTORS' SUMMER SCHOOL

The rural pastor will do well to avail himself of the opportunity made possible by the Pastors' Summer School in offering the course: "Rural Church Administration." This course will be taught by Dr. Shroyer of the Westminster Theological Seminary faculty. In outlining the course Dr. Shroyer has this to say: "We will study the physical equipment of the rural church, its financial program, its worship program, religious education, evangelization, and social welfare in the rural church." Dr. Shroyer will give his group the advantages of years of study of this question. Those who take this course will, no doubt, go back to their work with a greater appreciation of the opportunities of the rural pastor, as well as a saner program of approach to the problem.

OUR STORY PAGE

MAMMY JOE

Several men were walking back and forth upon the platform of a small railway station in Virginia. They had been there ten minutes and were growing impatient. At last one of them drew out his watch.

"Six minutes late," he said discontentedly. "The F. F. V. will be losing its reputation if it doesn't make better time. I hate waiting."

"Perhaps your watch is wrong," suggested one of his companions. "We have been in the woods for a week and our time may not be accurate."

"My watch is all right," was the petulant answer. "It's the railroad."

Crouching near the door of the station was a big, motherly-looking black woman. She had been there since early morning, arriving even before the station master himself. All through the long day she had remained in the same position, watching the trains as they arrived and scanning each face eagerly. As the man put his watch back into his pocket she looked at him wistfully.

"You don't 'spect nothin' the matter, does you, boss?"

"Oh, no; the train is only a few minutes late. Expecting some one?" as he noticed the pathetic eagerness in her face.

"Yes, suh. My boy what's been in the hospital two years, is comin' home all cured and fixed up. The doctor sent word he'd put him on the train that come straight through. I was feared he might mistook the train, so I've been a-watchin' all day."

"Where did he go?"

"Baltimore. You see Henry Clay got hurted when he was a teeny feller, an' he kep' a-growin' more and more crooked, so we feared we mightn't raise him. We try all the doctors 'round here, an' at last one told us 'bout the Johns Hopkins one where they fix such things. He wrote for us, and done make all the 'rangements. But it sure cost heaps of money. Me an' my old man we sell our little place an' go out to work. But we ain't care for that, so long as Henry Clay get well. Bress the Lord!"

"I'm glad they cured him," congratulated the man heartily. "But I reckon he's grown so big and strong and handsome you wouldn't know him when you see him."

"Bress the boy! bress the boy!" ejaculated the black woman, between her smiles and tears. "White folks must have their jokes. But I reckon the boy is sure enough big and handsome by this time. Me an' my old man were jist plump 'stracted when we heard he was all well an' a-comin' home. We sure did hustle and got money for his ticket, an' sent it to him; and now the doctor's done writ he's comin'. Bress the Lord for all His mercies!"

A shrill whistle was heard in the distance. The men gathered up their baggage and stood waiting. Tears of expectation began to stream down the old woman's face. It was a small station and the train stopped but a few seconds. Only one passenger alighted. He was a small black boy of ten or twelve years.

The old woman sprang towards him with an articulate cry. But she stopped suddenly. That was not Henry Clay. True, he did not have crutches, and he did not even limp; but he was small and thin and so weak that he staggered as he walked. And they had written that Henry Clay was well and strong.

The boy approached her timidly.

"Is you Mammy Joe?" he asked.

"I 'speck so," fiercely. "But where's Henry Clay?"

The small figure shrank back.

"I—I done left him in the hospital. He was in the bed next me an' he hear the doctor say I was never get well 'cept I go to a country that's warm, an' live out doors, an' have good nussin'. But I have no folks to send me. I always live on the street."

"What's that got to do with Henry Clay?" The boy began to tremble.

"He—he done give me his ticket, an' make me come. He say his mammy wil be my mammy an' make me well."

"An' ain't Henry Clay a-comin'?" Her voice sounded like the cry of some wounded animal.

"He done got a job washin' dishes in the hospital, an' is savin' money. He say tell you he sure be home next summer, when he have money 'nough. The doctors all like him an' say he is a fine feller. But is you goin' to be my mammy?"

The old woman caught her breath sharply. Then she held out her fat, motherly arms and a smile of welcome lit up her face.

"Yes, honey, I'll be your mammy."—Publisher Unknown.

◆

WHEN TOMMY PUNISHED HIMSELF

Tommy could think of nothing else, he was so excited about Arthur's birthday party, to which he had been invited. It was to be on Saturday afternoon, so that the children could go early and have plenty of time to play. Tommy had a new white sailor suit to wear, and mother had made a lot of little chocolate cakes and packed them in a pretty basket for him to carry, for the party was to be a sort of picnic, and everybody was to take something to add to the feast.

Everything was ready on Friday evening. The chocolate cakes were spread out on a tray, all ready to be packed in the basket, and Tommy's new suit was hanging up, ready for him to put on when it was nearly time to go. Tommy was sure he would not be able to sleep that night, he was in such a hurry to start, but mother told him that the time would seem shorter if he spent some of it in sleep; so, very unwillingly, he agreed to go to bed earlier than usual, so as to be sure of waking up quite early in the morning.

Before he went upstairs, Tommy could not help going to the pantry for one more look at the chocolate cakes. They were all there, though he had been half afraid that something might have happened to them. Tommy stood and looked at them for a few minutes, and then—he put out his hand, very, very slowly, and took one—just one.

But the trouble with taking one was that it led to taking another, and then another. Now there were three gone out of the three dozen. Tommy had been sure that no one would miss—just one, and then two, and then three; but the place where they had been was stained with chocolate. Mother would notice it right away. Tommy tried to hide the telltale brown marks by moving some of the others to cover the place; but somehow it did not look just the same. And how good the cakes were! As he had eaten three, he might as well have another; and at last, I am ashamed to say, there were only two dozn left, and a very frightened Tommy crept upstairs and hurried into bed as fast as he could.

Perhaps mother would forget how many cakes she had made. Perhaps he could offer to put them in the basket for her, and so she might not see how many were gone. Tommy forgot to say his prayers, he was so busy planning how he might keep mother from finding out what he had done.

But when he waked early the next morning, he felt so sick that mother had to know. She did not say much until Tommy felt better, and then she asked sadly, "Tommy, was it you who took some of the cakes?"

Tommy was so ashamed that he cried and hid his face. "I'm sorry, Mother; please forgive me," he sobbed.

And mother forgave him, but he had punished himself, for he was much too sick to go to the picnic, and he could never bear the sight of chocolate cakes again.—Olive Plants.

A GOOD EXPERIMENT

One morning Willie's father brought home a lot of nice things for him to play with. There were a ball, a rocking horse, a wagon, a drum, a lot of marbles and an air gun. It was Willie's birthday, and his parents freely lavished their gifts upon this, their only son.

Willie was very much delighted with his presents, and for a time took much pleasure in them. But that evening he came running to his father, climbed up into his lap, and said, "Papa, I've been thinking of something. I'm going to ask you about it and see what you think. You know little Mary West, don't you?"

"Certainly," the father replied; "she's a poor, little lame girl living down the street."

"Well, I'll tell you what to do," Willie continued. "I'd like to give her my new wagon. You know she can't walk very well and her brother Dick pulls her around in an old rickety box he's fixed wheels to. They went by here today and she looked at my new wagon and said she wished she could have a wagon like that for Dick to pull her in. I guess her papa would buy one if he didn't have to have the doctor to treat her, and wasn't so poor. Would you care if I gave my wagon to her?"

Willie's papa gave him a great big hug, then replied: "No, my boy. I'm proud to think you want to make some one else happy. Just take the wagon over right now and give it to her."

Down Willie jumped from his father's lap, and in a few minutes he was hurrying down the street with his wagon. After a while he came runing into the house, his face all wreathed in smiles and his heart leaping with joy.

"O papa!" he exclaimed, "It's true; as sure as I'm alive, it's true—what my teacher said last Sunday."

"What did she say?" inquired the father.

"Why, she told us if we wanted to be really happy, to do something that would make other folks happy; and when I gave the wagon to Mary and she clapped her hands, laughing and thanking me until she cried with joy, I felt just so good down in my heart that I couldn't help but clap my hands and laugh, too."

Willie's father drew him into his arms and said, "I'm glad to know my little boy has learned the secret of how to be happy."—Children's Visitor.

"IF WE—"

"If we confess * * *." The more I meditated, the bigger seemed that little word—"if." If I were to make out a list of the really big words I would be bound to include this word of two letters—"if." If we do this or that certain results will follow. If we fail to do some things certain results are inevitable. Let us seek to give expression to some great truths.

1. If we do not advance upon our knees there will be no advance.
2. If we are not making good use of what we have, we have too much.
3. If we have the fullness of the Spirit, it will set us doing something for God.
4. If we can't say anything good about a person we had better keep our mouths shut.
5. If we are in the right, we need not lose our temper; if in the wrong, we can ill afford to do so.
6. If we want Christ to give us a Home in Glory hereafter, we must give Him right of way in our lives now.
7. If we do not obey the command to "go" we are guilty of high treason before Heaven.
8. If we have real women for the motherhood of our nation we'll not have much downward drift in our young people.
9. If we are not willing to couple with the Great Educator of the universe we shall not know the deepening of our spiritual lives.
10. If you saturate your mind with the Word of God, you will realize a power that comes only through the Word. No good feeder on the Word has been known to drift away. If we do not read God's words, how can we abide in them, and how can they abide in us? If we study the Word with open minds we'll rejoice in the truth unfolded. If we have more truth than others we should be more earnest and aggressive than others in holding up Christ.—W. S. Bowden.

THINGS TO KEEP IN MIND

The value of:
A clock is in its reputation for accuracy.
A wrench is in its ability to adjust a problem.
A car is in its ability to perform well on the up-grade.
A stamp is in its ability to stick to the end of a journey.
A pair of scissors is in its ability to co-operate.
A tack is in its head that will not let it go too far.
A man is in his ability to combine all these virtues.—Unknown.

North Carolina Annual Conference Leadership Training School

High Point College June 25-30, 1934

1934 Goal—200 Students

ARE YOU REPRESENTED?

Inquiries are coming frequently concerning the organizing and conducting of young people's choirs, as well as the program for Monday night of the Leadership Training School. So, I pass on some general information here.

Instead of a competitive program as of last year, we have prepared a set of standards by which each choir may rate itself. It will take too much space to print it here, so drop a card to the writer and you will receive a copy.

It appears now that Mt. Pleasant, Graham, West End and Mebane will be represented. How about your church? This is the last call, but it is not too late yet. Let us have the name of your church to add to the list.

Wanted—A Trumpeter!

As a call to Vespers, we want to use "God of Our Fathers, Whose Almighty Hand." Choir directors, please have your singers learn the first two and last stanzas. We shall need a trumpeter (or cornetist) to play it for us each evening, while the members of the choirs sing it. Who is coming who plays the trumpet? Will you let me know immediately, please? Thank you.

Yours for better music in our churches, and for the best music yet throughout the sessions of the Leadership Training School.

E. LESTER BALLARD.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE FIRST VACATION CHURCH SCHOOL TEACHERS' MEETING

1. Hold it at least on Friday night before school opens on Monday—earlier, if possible.

2. Assign teachers to departments—give out texts, etc.

3. Plan schedule as it affects whole school—opening and closing hour, recess, chapel, etc.

4. Suggest departmental schedule, if you have inexperienced teachers.

5. Decide whether school will have chapel together. If in the affirmative, make plans and assignments for the worship programs.

6. Decide upon number of absences and tardies to be permitted if student is to receive certificate.

7. Decide whether to have school line up and march in by departments or whether students shall just come in. The former is preferable because it gets the attitude of work to begin with.

8. Discuss methods. Emphasize the fact that no one can or should follow exactly any text—that the best teacher is the one who can catch the point of interest of the child and go on from there. Emphasize the importance of the work being done by the child. The teacher should NOT do the work—only act as guide. The important thing is to develop the teacher who is versatile, interested, and quick to change a plan—and one who recognizes that teaching means more work outside the classroom than inside.

9. Suggest purchase of the following materials: scissors, pencils, crayons, paste, paper. Bring old magazines, etc., for pictures.

10. The New Co-operative Series, published by the Methodist Book Concern (1934, New York) has splendid, experience-centered texts. I am using them now and find a wealth of material. The N. C. Council owns two copies each of the four texts. They can be secured from Rev. T. J. Whitehead or from me for use in the next fortnight. They are already engaged for the whole of July and the first fortnight of August.

11. Determine when and what kind of commencement exercises are to be held.

12. Decide upon a secretary-pianist. If possible, assign no other duties to that person. Use him or her in all departments.

13. If possible (that is, if you have teachers enough) divide each department into three groups—one for each of the ages. The text-books are arranged for such a division. If this is impossible, use one section this year, the next next year, and so on.

14. Suggest sword drills and more memory work, less so-called handwork.

MAXINE E. TAYLOR.

ARE YOU GOING?

It is only a little more than two weeks until we will be at the Leadership Training School. Are you going to be there? For information write me.

The Annual Meeting of the Conference

This meeting will be held at the College Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. At this time we will transact the business of the Conference Council. The pastors and representatives who are elected by the churches will constitute the Council. The church may select its members as follows: "The Committee on Religious Education (or Workers' Conference, or the Sunday school itself) of each local church in the Annual Conference shall have the right to elect one or more representatives as members of the Council on the basis of one representative for each two hundred, or major fraction thereof, enrolled in the membership of the church school, as reported to the last preceding Annual Conference session, provided that every Methodist Protestant church shall have the right to at least one, and not more than three representatives." Select your representatives at once.

School at Anderson Charge, S. C., July 2-7. Watch next week's Herald for the program.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Yarborough's Chapel S. S.	$4.95
Union Chapel, Granville	9.35
Hope S. S., Siler City	1.00
Caroleen S. S.	2.18
Hebron, Orange	2.20
Albemarle S. S.	8.00
Moriah S. S.	5.00
Gillburg, Vance	1.00
Union Grove S. S., Orange	1.45
Bellemont S. S., Mt. Hermon	3.70
Friendship S. S., Fallston	2.55
Glen Raven C. E. Soc., clothing child	5.00
Pinnacle S. S., Pinnacle and Mt. Zion	.84
Harmony Grove S. S., W. Forsythe	1.77
Mt. Hermon S. S., Greswell	2.00
Bethesda S. S., Halifax	2.30
The W. S. Cecil Class, Pleasant Grove, clothing child	5.00
Bethesda S. S., State St.	4.30
Macedonia, Why Not	1.00
Fred, Alfred and Joe P. Henley, three brothers, Asheboro	1.00
Gleaners Class, Fairmont, W. Va., feeding child	5.00
Mt. Ebal, Denton, home-coming service	6.35
Spring Hill, N. Davidson	4.12

Clothing and Other Gifts

Sarah and Josephine Lucas, Warrenton, Va., 6 dresses.

A hearty THANK YOU to all who have sent gifts.

Gifts in Produce

Please be getting your people lined up to make their regular summer and fall donations in produce, and be sure to remember the gifts in grain this time. Thank you.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

* * *

HERALD AGENTS, GREENSVILLE CHARGE

Philadelphia, Melvin Pearson, Ante, Va.; Miss Mildred Clark, Triplet, Va.

Matthews Chapel, Mrs. Arthur Taylor, Vineland, Va.; Miss Lottie Edwards, Brunswick, Va.; Mrs. Willie Bowens, Ante, Va.

Wesley Chapel Church, Miss Maggie Delbridge, Vineland, Va.

Ebenezer Church, Miss Lillie Moore, Barley, Va.; Miss Blanche Hight, Barley, Va.

Hobbs Chapel, Mrs. Tom Bons, Druryville, Va.; Miss Dora Pair, Pair Store, Va.

B. L. JOYNER.

* * *

—Joseph Coble, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Coble and grandson of Rev. and Mrs. T. F. McCulloch, was graduated from High Point College May 28.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Bessemer City Church.—We had services again Sunday evening. Our pastor was unable to be with us as he is in the midst of a revival meeting at Lincolnton. Mr. Bruce Jenkins, of that church very graciously consented to fill Bro. Cranford's place and made a very interesting and helpful talk on The Home and What It Means to Our Nation, Our Schools and to the Individual. He is a very promising young man and does splendid work in the church.

Our Sunday school was not so large as it has been. We hope to get busy and have a school that we will be proud of in the near future, God being our helper. Our revival services are to begin the third Sunday in this month. Pray for us that we may have an outpouring of God's spirit and a revival that will last and put our people on the firing line for the Master. We need the prayers of all Christian people. God help us to forget self and put on the whole armour for the upbuilding and advancement of the Kingdom.

LUCY BRACKETT, Reporter.

* * *

Henderson.—Revival services began at the Henaerson church on May 13th and continued through the evening of the 24th, services being held each evening at 8 o'clock. The pastor had asked the people to name someone to do the preaching with the result that more suggested that the pastor hold the meeting than agreed on any other one preacher. So I held the meeting. I entered into the meeting somewhat with fear and trembling because for some reason it seems difficult for a pastor to hold his own meeting and have the same degree of co-operation that a visiting preacher receives. I suppose this is because it has become an establishd custom among us to have a visiting preacher and so many expect it. However, while the fear and trembling did not entirely disappear, I was very much encouraged from the very beginning with the attendance and interest, and these held up to the very last service.

Beginning with Easter time and extending to and through the meeting I conducted what we called A Spiritual Enrichment Campaign. Such themes as Finishing the Work Jesus Began, The Spirit of Truth, The Spirit of Love, The Spirit of Peace, The Spirit of Prayer, and The Spirit of Victory were used. Beginning with the meeting, I emphasized The Place of Prayer, The Place of the Personal Effort, The Place of the Word of God, and The Place of the Holy Spirit in a Revival. These were used as sermon themes in the first four services and then emphasized throughout the meeting. The people were urged to depend upon these four things rather than upon big preaching and fine singing.

We had a good meeting. I think it was a real revival, though thus far there have been no additions to the church membership. The attendance was much better, I think, than it was two years ago when I held my own meeting, and many of our people gave the most hearty co-operation. Three choirs, the juniors, young people's and the regular choir gave splendid service and the congregational singing was good. There were quite a number rededications during the meeting in addition to a large group of our members who gathered at the altar for a rededication service the second Sunday of the meeting, which was the anniversary of the Pentecost.

I can not recall that I ever enjoyed holding a meeting much better than I enjoyed this one, and I am sure that the church is encouraged and strengthened to continue the work that Jesus began and that He committed to His people to finish for Him. To my surprise, a purse of $17 was presented to me at the close of the meeting. I apreciate the good spirit that prompted the contribution, and I want to thank all who gave their cooperation in any way during the meeting. May the revival spirit continue and increase until there shall be added to our church regularly those who are being saved through our prayers and effots.

L. W. GERRINGER, Pastor.

* * *

Mount Ebal Church, Denton Charge—Home-Coming Day was held at Mount Ebal church Sunday, June 3rd. In the morning, Dr. A. G. Dixon brought a splendid message on "The Meaning of the Cross." A picnic dinner was served on the grounds and a social hour together at noon added to our fellowship. The afternoon message was delivered by Rev. E. A. Bingham and his subject was "Christian Service." Special music was rendered during the morning and afternoon sessions. The following history of the church was read during the afternoon service:

Mount Ebal is the mother church of all the other Methodist Protestant churches within the boundaries of Davidson and Randolph counties.

Before a permanent church was built, services were held for a short time in a nearby log school building, located on the G. B. Sexton farm. The first church was erected on the present site approximately in the year 1872. This first church was built of logs, all the labor on the buiding being donated; all the labor was done by loyal church members, and all material used was made and erected by members.

In a short time after the church was built, an arbor was erected for the purpose of accommodating the vast crowds that attended the annual protracted meeings. This is said to have been the first arbor for services of this kind to have been built in this county.

From 1873 and for many years thereafter, a camp meeting was held in September of each year, people coming from many nearby cities and counties for the annual series of services. At this time there were 22 families who occupied these tents for the 10 days or more during whiih the meeting lasted.

The arbor and part of the tents remained standing until about the year 1924.

The first services held in the old log building was a dedication service, the pastor at that time being Rev. Jack Loflin, who was the first pastor of the church. While Bro. Loflin was pastor, the first Sunday school was organized and had continued from time until about four years ago. This, within itself, is a notable record for any church to make.

The charter members of the church, all of whom have gone to their reward, are as follows:

"Uncle" Billy Sexton and wife; Mr. and Mrs. William Morris; "Uncle" Richard and "Aunt" Emily Crauford; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sexton; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morris; "Bill" Gibson and wife; James C. Morris and wife; Mr. and Mrs. Lin Cranford; "Uncle" Jim Sexten and wife; "Uncle" Lewis Moore; "Uncle" Walsh Harris and wife.

In the year 1883 the old log church was torn down, and the present church was erected, which was 51 years ago. Mr. Alfred Thompson, father of Rev. Walter Thompson, supervised the building of the present church. The church was dedicated about the year 1871. The pastor at that time was Rev. A. W. Lineberry.

In the year 1873 a cemetery was started. The first person to be buried there was Jane Sexton, who was buried December 23, 1873. The present cemetery continued to grow until a few years ago. The last person buried there was in 1932, this being Willie Hughes, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Riley Hughes.

Mount Ebal for a number of years belonged to the Davidson Circuit; several years ago it became a part of the Denton Charge.

Below we have collected a list, as occurately as we were able to learn, of the pastors who have served this circuit:

Rev. Jack Loflin, Rev. A. W. Lineberry, Rev. Lewallen, Rev. A. M. Modlin, Rev. W. C. Hammer, Rev. Joe Dunn, Rev. T. F. McCulloch, Rev. W. A. Bunch, Rev. J. A. Ledbetter, Rev. R. H. Wills, Rev. D. A. Highfill, Rev. J. W. Hulin, who served for 13 years, Rev. W. F. Kennett, Rev. George Reynolds, Rev. D. A. Braswell, Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk, Rev. J. B. Trogdon, Rev. B. M. Williams, Rev. J. E. Carroll, Rev. T. E. Glenn Madison, Rev. M. C. Henderson, Rev. E. A. Bingham, Rev. Robert Short, and the present pastor, Rev. J. T. Bowman.

BLANCHE THOMPSON,
W. M. SEXTON,
G. B. SEXTON,
Committee.

* * *

Siler City Church.—The Philathea Class had charge of the devotionals in Sunday school on Mother's Day and presented a very interesting and appropriate program. Each one present took a part, which consisted of readings, songs and other tributes to Mother by some of our greatest men of the past. Mr. Wrenn, our superintendent, also made a very interesting talk for the occasion.

The Woman's Auxiliary met at the church Wednesday afternoon, May 23rd. Our president was in the chair and presided over the business part of the meeting. The young ladies' circle was present and had charge of the program. This circle is only about a year old but they are interested and have done some real missionary work in this short time. Mrs. E. D. Woody, their leader, was present and told in a pleasing way what they had done; then she asked each girl present questions in regard to our missionaries in the foreign and home fields. Each one could answer them without hesitation. Then they presented a playlet, "A Call From Heathendom," which was enjoyed very much. Circle No. 2 will have the program for June.

On the third Sunday morning our pastor brought to us another good sermon. This was the beginning of our revival meeting. On Monday evening Rev. B. M. Williams, of the Orange Charge, came and did the preaching for ten day.s Mr. Williams came as a stranger to almost all of us, but we soon were made to feel that he was one of us by the splendid messages he presented from time to time.

The Baptist and M. E. First Church also had their meetings at the same time, making it a union affair. The day services were all union and were held in the different churches with the visiting minister of that church doing the preaching. Each minister expressed himself as enjoying these services immensely.

While the meeting was not what we had hoped and prayed for, yet we feel that much good was accomplished through the good gospel messages and faithfulness of Mr. Williams. We were all sorry to say good-bye to him, but hope he can come our way again. We were indeed glad to have Mrs. Williams worship in our congregation on Sunday night.

"Go Forward," was the text and "The Duty of the Church to Carry On," the theme of the best sermon it has been our privilege to hear our pastor preach. This was at the 11 o'clock hour the first Sunday in June. At the close of the service the members voted for delegate to Annual Conference, nominees being Messrs. Arthur Poe and L. L. Wrenn.

Mrs. T. L. Smith is chairman of a committee to get up a Children's Day service to be given some time in June. We are expecting a good program under the leadership of this efficient chairman.

MRS. J. A. COOPER.

Tabernacle-Julian.—On the afternoon of May 26 the Tabernacle Woman's Auxiliay met in the church, having a very interesting program. The interesting and well planned business session was conducted by Mrs. E. T. Coble, the newly-elected president. Among other parts of the inspiring devotional program Mrs. Reba Fields rendered beautiful solos while Miss Vivian Sullivan presided at the piano. These ladies came to us from Calvary church of Greensboro. Helpful and appropriate messages were brought to us by Dr. Joy Harris-Glascock of West End Church, Greensboro, and Miss Elizabeth Hanner of our Julian Church. These visitors are greatly appreciated and we thank you. After the program was rendered all were invited to the Sunday school building where tasty refreshments were served in abundance by Circle No. 3. Meeting on a week day and being entertained by one of the circles is a new experience among our ladies, but it seems to be meeting with delightful approval. Our Woman's Auxiliary is about the best organized body of Tabernacle church and they are doing fine work with high ambitions for this year.

The Julian Woman's Auxiliary met in the home of Mrs. W. T. Hanner on Friday, June 1st. The pastor did not get to attend, but it is safe to venture that they had a fine meeting. The Julian Auxiliary is doing a fine work. Some of the ladies drive more than ten miles to attend the meetings and are almost always on hand. This is a faithful, working band.

Last Sunday was Chidren's Day at Tabernacle. The service took the place of the 11 o'clock worship service. It was a beautiful and inspiring service. The decorations were beautiful and the attendance was good, and the offering was good. We again thank Mrs. Fields and Miss Sullivan for special music. These, with special numbers by the choir and our male quartet, with parts by the children, made the music such as was greatly enjoyed and appreciated. It would be fine to have such days as last Sunday frequently repeated.

In reading the Honor Roll of churches in last week's Herald prepared by President Andrews it was noted that individual churches were given credit as being entitled to honors. The writer did not understand that individual churches were to be reported and the report was made as for the charge without making mention of the inividual churches. It is only fair to say that Julian has paid in full for Conference Expenses, Superannuates, and Herald Subsidy. The Herald Subsidy has never appeared in the list of those who have paid this item. This is because the pastor by mistake sent this remittance to Treasurer Allen instead of sending it direct to the Herald. Bro. Allen gives the information that this amount will be forwarded to the Herald in due time.

GEO. L. CURRY.

Concord.—Having failed to send in a report last month, I would like to mention our Mother's Day service. This service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Nash. The attendance was good and the service was very impressive and well rendered.

We had 295 present at Sunday school yesterday. The closing exercises were turned over to the Baracas. We were favored with several selections by thir double quartet. These men can really sing and we hope to hear them again soon.

It was a pleasure indeed to have a visit from our president, Dr. Andrews. He had charge of the morning service. He gave a most interesting talk on "Discouragement." At the close of the service the Lord's Supper was observed.

The finances of the church have dropped down quite a bit since my last report due to the mills running on short time. We are now $68.00 behind instead of having some in the treasury.

REPORTER.

Kannapolis.—Sunday, May 27th, I was absent from church, attending the commencement exercises at my Alma Mater, High Point College. In my absence the pulpit was filled at the morning and evening hour by Rev. Earl Cook, of Roberta, and Bro. R. T. Sides, of Kannapolis, respectively. I want to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to both Bro. Cook and Bro. Sides for this splendid assistance.

Our Ladies' Auxiliary is off to a good start with a total of about 110 members. Five circles have been organized and each woman and girl of the church placed in one of these circles. They are: Girls' Circle, with Mrs. J. V. Dwiggins, chairman; Business Girls' Circle, with Mrs. D. B. Cartner as chairman; Home Circle, whose chairman is to be selected; Circle No. 1, with Mrs. L. C. Carter as chairman, and Circle No. 2, with Mrs. C. B. Price as chairman. These circles held their first regular monthly meeting Monday evening with good attendance and good interest.

Mrs. W. T. Kiser has been elected as president of the Auxiliary. She is very active in church work and promises to make an efficient president. She is ably assisted by Mrs. H. W. Sides, vice-president, and a number of other officers and secretaries: Mrs. J. V. Dwiggins, Miss Mary Willie Donohue, Miss Beatrice Carntner, Mrs. J. F. Faggert, Mrs. D. A. Abernathy, Mrs. Rena Steel, Mrs. W. A. Christy, Mrs. V. M. Whitley, Mrs. J. S. Marshall, Mrs. Carrie Braswell, Miss Ollie Sloop, Miss Nellie Bounts, Mrs. N. F. Harris, Mrs. D. B. Cartner, Mrs. M. E. Marlow. The first regular monthly meeting of the Auxiliary wil be held at the church Monday evening, June 11, at which time Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, of Mebane, is expected to be with us. All I can say to the women is just to keep the good work going.

Sunday, June 10, will be observed as Children's Day. The children will be given special recognition in the morning service, and at the evening hour a pageant will be presented by a group of children. Mrs. W. T. Kiser and Mrs. C. B. McCommons are directing this pageant.

Everyone is invited to our annual Home-Coming at this church, which will be held Sunday, June 17. Dr. A. G. Dixon and a group of chidren from our Children's Home in High Point will have charge of the 11 o'clock service. Dinner will be served in picnic fashion, and all the ladies are asked to bring well-filled baskets. The afternoon service will be given over to singing and short talks by visiting ministers. We wil appreciate your presence on that day.

In general, our church work here is progressing very nicely. Attendance is good and there seems to be a great deal of interest. However, we are laboring under certain handicaps which slows up our work to some extent. The mills here are running on short time, and this has put us a little bihnd financially. Nevertheless, we are expecting to come through by Conference, as this is the policy and spirit which characterizes this people. The second handicap is by way of church equipment. We are crowded into one little room, with no Sunday school rooms whatsoever. Our efficient suerintendent, Mr. C. W. Tutterow, and his able staff of teachers are laboring faithfully in spite of this handicap. They are to be commended. We hope to be able to do some building before so very long, and, as a matter of fact, we will be compelled to do so. At present we have a building fund of slightly more than $300, but the parsonage debt is greater than that amount. Pray for us that the Lord will show us a way.

I cannot close this report without voicing a word of praise for our Christian Endeavorers. We have the Junior, Intermediate, and Senior Societies, of which Miss Alma Braswell, Mrs. D. B. Cartner, and Miss Beatrice Cartner are leaders, respectively. These societies have approximately 75 members. These young people are to be congratulated for their interest. At present thy are raising money with which to send delegates to the Leadership Training School at High Point College the last week in this month.

It was a pleasure to have Mr. D. B. Cartner back with us at church last Sunday evening. Mr. Cartner has just recenty undergone an operation at Davis Hospital, Statesville, and we rejoice that he is improving so rapidly.

Miss Ethel Harris, of Kannapolis, was received into the church last Sunday on confession of faith. Also, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Galloway, who had moved their membership to the Reformed church of this city, were reinstated as members of this church. This brings our total membership up to 195, making 39 who have joined since Conference, and a total of 99 which I have received into the church since coming here one year from this fall. It speaks well for our Methodist Protestant people here who have given almost perfect co-operation.

We covet your prayers, and may God bess you. C. P. MORRIS.

Corinth, Littleton Circuit.—Our Sunday school is moving along nicely. We have new members to join every Sunday. We are glad to see the older people taking more interest in the Sunday school.

The annual memorial service was held last Sunday morning. Our pastor delivered a splendid sermon. After the service the graves were decorated with flowers and I do not think there was a grave overlooked.

On Friday, May 25th, the writer gave Mrs. Vickery a surprise birthday dinner.

Don't forget the group meeting which will be held at this church Thursday, July 12th.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Partin, Mrs. H. A. Insco, Hazel Insco, and Mrs. B. F. Morris attended the graduation exercises at W. C. U. N. C., Greensboro, Monday. Miss Virginia Insco graduated at this time.

MRS. B. F. MORRIS, Reporter.

Pleasant Union, Mt. Pleasant Charge.—Although very little has been heard of Pleasant Union through the Herald in quite a while, we have been working more than it may appear. Mr. Braxton has been doing some real good and inspirational preaching all the while. Our people are becoming more interested in church work which is of course quite encouraging.

Arrangement is being made to have our Children's Day service the fourth Sunday morning in June. Everyone is invited to this service. We are expecting it to be well worth while.

We are planning to hold our Vacation Bible School beginning with the second Monday in July. We are very fortunate in having Miss Maxine Taylor to direct this school.

Quite a few of our members attended the Memorial Service held at Mount Pleasant last Sunday. Mr. Braxton delivered a very appropriate message in the morning; Mr. Self, principal of the E. M. Holt School, delivered the address in the afternoon.

We wish to congratulate Miss Ola Stafford, of Mount Pleasant church, on her graduation from High Point College last Monday.

Many friends and relatives of Mrs. Charles Pritchard, of Thomasville, were saddened with the news of her passing. Mrs. Pritchard was the step-daughter-in-law of Mrs. Sussie Pritchard of Mount Pleasant Chucrh. Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Causey and Mr. and Mrs. L W. Causey and Mrs. James T. Holt went to Thomasville Sunday for the funeral.

Mr. T. Grady Bowman and Mr. L. W. Causey of our church are candidates for delegate to the Annual Conference.

Plans are being made for the annual Greene Township Sunday School Convention, which is to be held early in July at Brick Reformed Church. Prof. Holt, president of the association, hopes for this to be the best convention in the history of the organization. Come to Brick Church and I am sure you will get something good out of the services.

We are happy to have Mr. and Mrs. James T. Holt with us again. Mr. Holt teaches in the Rural Hall High School. They are spending their vacation with Mrs. Holt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Causey.

We congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Ingold on their marriage. Mrs. Ingold was formerly a Miss Wilson, of Julian.

Misses Frances Causey and Florence Bowman are planning to attend the Leadership Training School at High Point College.

MISS FRANCES CAUSEY.

Kistlers, Cleveland Charge.—Our church work is still moving along nicely. Sunday school and church services are increasing.

Sunday, June 3rd, was our usual memorial and home-coming day. Our pastor, Rev. R. S. Troxler, brought a very helpful message, which was enjoyed by all. A quartet from Shelby and Rev. Mr. Troxler and family furnished some special singing, and we thank them and want them to come again.

We have organied a Woman's Auxiliary in our church, with much interest being shown.

On Easter Sunday morning the hand of death came into our church and community and claimed Mr. A. C. Turner. He had been helpless for some time, but we miss his presence in the church and in the home.

We pray God's richest blessings on our pastor and the great work that he is doing.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

REPORTER.

High Point, First Church.—Sunday, May 27th, was High Point College commencement day. The sermon was delivered by Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president, and was pronounced by many as a masterpiece. Mr. J. Norman Wills, of Greensboro, was the speaker in the evening address to the Christian Associations. It left the impress of his thought-provoking challenge to all his hearers. We are glad to have First Church honored by having among the graduates from its membership Misses Alma Franklin Andrews and Laura Brite Braswell.

"Dan Cupid" is working among our young people. Sunday's paper carried the announcement of the marriage May 19th of Miss Mary Eizabeth Adams, a member of this church, and Eugene H. McIntyre, of High Point. Also, we noted this item: "James S. Moffitt, whose wedding to Miss Hunt Barber, of Reidsville, will be an event of next week, was honored at a Dutch supper given by his attendants and a few additional friends Friday evening at his cabin north of the city." Mr. Moffitt is a member of the church and of the board of stewards. Both of these couples will reside in High Point. Miss Barber has been teaching in the city schools.

Since our last letter Capt. A. M. Rankin has improved from his illness sufficiently to be out of the house. Naturally, the first place he went was to the worship service of his church.

Mrs. L. R. Peacock, who was in a ocal hospital for a few days' treatment, has recovered sufficiently to be at home again.

Mrs. R. H. Shaw and daughter, Sarah, have moved from Montlieu Avenue to an apartment with Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Andrews on West College Drive. Mrs. R. T. Pickens and family are now occupying the place on Montlieu Avenue vacated by Mrs. Shaw.

Last Friday evening in a violin recital given by the pupils of Miss Virginia Frank, in the Elm Street school building, there appeared from our church Misses Margaret and Carlene Ellison and Joseph Farmer. These young violinists showed marked improvement.

At this writing we regret to note the very serious illness of Mr. A. R. Hammer, whose family are members of First Church. Mr. Hammer has been often honored in recent years as the last surviving Confederate veteran in High Point. Yesterday Mr. G. C. Cagle, one of our members, passed away after several months of illness. His loved ones have our deep sympathy.

The entire congregation brought the day's offering last Sunday to the altar of the church upon which was a small chest typifying the ancient "Chest of Joash." That part of the offering which was the result of the May tithing campaign was decidedly gratifying. It indicated that our possible resources as a congregation have not yet been tapped. The board of stewards and treasurer are much encouraged and hope for definite advances in stewardship resulting from the campaign. "At the Beautiful Gate" was the morning sermon subject. In the evening the subject was "The Excellency of Our God." A very marked increase in attendance was noted.

About 75 children were present for the first Junior C. E. Society meeting during last Sunday morning's worship hour. Miss Myrtle Davis is superintending this work. She is also chairman of the committee preparing the Children's Day program for next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. In the morning worship service the sermon will be delivered by Dr. P. E. Lindley. The evening message will be given by Mr. Liston Pope, director of religious education in Wesley Memorial M. E. Church, South. The pastor will be speaking in Calvary Church, Greensboro.

R. I. FARMER.

Denton Church, Denton Charge.—The church-goers of our little town were delighted to see a let-up in the rainy week and found themselves looking out on a bright Sunday morning. With the thought of a pleasant day before them, they turned out 134 strong at Sunday school. Our enrollment was 203 and our offering was $4.03. The members of Mr. C. L. Kearns' class had charge of the program and it was carried out splendidly.

After Sunday school all the churches on this charge were incited to attending a special meeting at Mount Ebal church, the mother church of Denton. Quite a large crowd assembled and the outstanding numbers on the program were: Address by Dr. Dixon, of the Children's Home in the morning; address by Rev. E. A. Bingham, of Davidson charge, in the afternoon; duet by Miss Helen James and Miss Helene Cranford in the morning; male quartet in the afternoon; and history of Mt. Ebal by W. M. Sxton. Mr. Sexton was also pianist.

In the evening at 7 o'clock the Denton Christian Endeavor Society met as usual in the church auditorium. I woud like to state at this time the interest has been manifested and the progress that has been made by our society in the last two monhs. For the first few months of this year our society consisted of about 12 faithful members who were always present on Sunday night. Then a drive for new members was instigated and this small 12 has grown to the startling figure of 64 in two months and it looks now as if practically all of them will be "stickers." This just goes to show what a wideawake society CAN do if they WILL.

An interesting feature of our little bulletin, handed out on preaching Sundays, which contains our program and announcements, was, "Ten Reasons for Tithing," by John Clark Williams.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet at the home of Mrs. A. L. Hill with Mrs. P. H. Sexton, Miss Ruth Lanier and Mrs. B. L. Morris as joint hostesses at 7:45 Monday evening, June 4th.

MAX ROGERS, Reporter.

Rockingham.—Our second quarterly conference was held at Melton's Grove Saturday, May 19. The next conference will be held at Rockingham. The date will be named later. We regret that our pastor, Rev. C. W. Saunders, is ill. We hope that he will soon be well and with us again. Brother W. M. Jenkins has been filling the appointments during our pastor's absence. Brother H. W. Snead and family and Brothers Dunn, Brown and Martin visited the pastor at his home at Abner, N. C., on Sunday afternoon. Our Children's Day program was held here Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. The program was very fine, showing the excellent training of the instructor, Miss Perkins. The collection will be used in helping our missionaries in foreign fields.

Our Sunday school is increasing. We hope it will continue to do so and grow even larger in the future.

REPORTER.

Friendship, Mt. Hermon Charge.—Sunday school was conducted at 10 o'clock by the superintendent. The attendance was good. We welcome all visitors.

Friendship Memorial Association held its annual meeting Sunday, June 3. A large congregation was present and a good program was rendered and enjoyed. The program consisted of special music quartets and a short business meeting.

We were very fortunate to have the memorial address by Hon. E. S. W. Dameron, Burlington. The speaker reminded us that Memorial Day is always in memory of the loved ones who have gone before. "If a man die shall he live again?" Job asked this question many years ago. It has been answered many times. All Christians believe that if a man dies he lives again; if he does not, he is not a Christian. A caterpillar knows that its life is short and that it is going to die; thus it begins to make its own casket. It weaves itself into silken shroud and bursts forth from it in resurrection a beautiful butterfly. Nature confesses that if a man dies he shall live again. Everyone looks forward to the life beyond the grave. We journey on, hoping to meet our loved ones in the great beyond and realizing that death does not end all.

The greatest message that was ever spoken to mortal man was the one at the grave of Jesus Christ by the angel: "He is not here, but risen as he said." The graves at the time of the resurrection were open and people who had been dead many years walked the streets of Jerusalem. When the son of man died the veil was lifted and the people were let in to worship. Nature and our own intuition indicates that there is a life beyond the grave. Before Christ was resurrected His disciples were haughty, but after the resurrection a great change took place. The Bible explains if a man die he shall live again. Death is swallowed up by victory. This answers Job's question. Man's days are few and full of trouble. Others have more trouble than we. It behooves us to live our own lives in cheerfulness and joy and not grudge. The man who goes through life and never forgives lives an unrighteous life. Forgive as you would have the Lord forgive you.

We can pay a greater tribute than flowers, or marble slab, or any memorial to those loved ones by so shaping our lives that the greatest virtues of them will be given by us. The life of those who have died is not made perfect except in us. By these virtues we will erect the best monuments that can be erected. These will be greatest in the eyes of Heaven if not in the eyes of man. Let us so live that we may join them in the life beyond the grave.

We wish to thank all of those who took part in the program, and also those who joined in the worship with us. May they all profit by their good work.

REPORTER.

Gibsonville Church.—Our revival meeting began the second Sunday night in May with Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, of Greensboro, the assisting minister. Mr. Carroll came to us on Sunday night and worked faithfully throughout the meeting which continued until the 23rd. Services were held each evening at 7:30. For a while services were held in the mornings also in order to accommodate the folks who work at night.

Prof. T. E. Stough, principal of the local public school, came in and helped with the singing. Mr. Stough can sing as well as teach. He is always a welcome guest at our church. Special music was furnished by Messrs. Haefenger and Harris, and Mrs. Sisson, of Danville, Virginia.

There was not a great deal of outward response manifested in the meeting; however, all of the services were helpful, inspirational and spiritual. I don't think that anyone could have attended a single meeting without feeling that he had been spiritually benefited.

On Tuesday evening of last week the Young Ladies' Missionary Society met at the home of Miss Marie Summers. The president, Miss Lessie Faucett, presided over the business session and conducted the devotional. The program was in charge of the program chairman, Orpha Burgess. The topic for study was "Love's Share in Building a New World." "The Road of a Loving Heart" was read by Miss Burgess; "The Youth Movement in the West," was read by Miss Gladys May, and "The Youth Movement in the East" was read by Mrs. Irene Summers.

The quarterly conference was held on Thursday evening of last week. Mr. L. D. McCollum and Mr. G. J. Yow were nominated as delegates to the Annual Conference.

The members of the board of stewards will meet in the church hut on Thursday evening of this week. All members are asked to be present.

Our superintendent, Mr. F. R. Owen, underwent a major operation at Duke Hospital a few days ago. We are glad to report that his condition is improving as rapidly as can be expected.

The many friends of Mrs. N. G. Bethea will be pleased to learn that she is able to be out again after being confined to her bed for a few days with cold.

Nathanael Bethea is attending the summer school at High Point Collge.

Miss Olive Thomas, of Mars Hill, was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. K. T. Williams during the week-end.

Mr. Percy Amick and children, of Graham, were the guests of Miss Hazel and Mrs. I. N. Woodard, of this place, last Sunday evening.

Rev. N. G. Bethea left for Winston-Salem Monday evening of this week. He will help Rev. R. A. Hunter in a revival meeting.

REPORTER.

Bethel C. E. Society, Flat Rock Charge.—The Christian Endeavor Society of Bethel church held its first business meeting and social last Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. R. C. Gordon in Stokesdale.

The president, Mr. Pinkney Dwiggins, was in charge of the meeting. The meeting opened by singing "What a Friend," followed by prayer. The seventh chapter of Matthew was read by Reeves Pope. Then a short business session was held, after which a social hour of games were enjoyed. There were 18 members present and five visitors. The hostess served cake and lemonade. The next business meeting will be held at the home of Miss Cora Lee Dwiggins.

REPORTER.

First Church, Charlotte.—A very timely and interesting program was presented on Sunday evening by the Young People's Christian Endeavor with Grady Tadlock as leader. Miss Mary Shaw and Mrs. C. S. Wommack spoke on the topic "What Is Right and What Is Wrong With Modern Youth." Mrs. Wommack stressed the fact that we should appreciate our young people and give them a part in the program of the church, for they are willing to do God's work and as they will be the leaders of the church of tomorrow they must be trained for Christian leadership.

The annual Children's Day program wil be presented next Sunday evening at eight o'clock.

"What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul" was the theme of a soul-stirring sermon delivered by Rev. Edward M. Graham at the evening services in the absence of Pastor Hendry.

The Mother and Daughter social given by Mrs. C. S. Wommack at her home on Commonwealth Avenue in honor of the members of her Sunday school class and their mothers proved a deightful feature enjoyed by everyone present.

We were sorry to note the absence of our faithful Sunday school superintendent, M. D. Frink, who is sick. This is the first time

Mr. Frink has been absent from any Sunday school or church service in more than a year. He is a most faithful and efficient worker.

The Business Women's Circle will hold their regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Wommack, the Circle chairman.

Congratulations are being extended to Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Beatty on the arrival of a son, Dicky Gene. Mrs. Beatty before her marriage was Miss Sara Stegall; and also to Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Ledbetter upon the arrival of a daughter, Mildred Evelyn. They have another daughter, Willie Lee Ledbetter.

REPORTER.

Spring Hill, North Davidson Charge.—Sunday school was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with 96 present, but more came in for the preaching hour. We usually have more folks out for preeaching and feel encouraged because as a general rule most of the people in church nowadays go home immediately after Sunday school. The theme of Mr. Grant's sermon was "The Power of Jesus." We have power in every respect in the different phases of life. The home means a lot to all of us and Jesus should be demonstrated there. Our homes are not perfect unless Jesus is represented. In the past homes were guided by the parents through the power of Jesus. Today we have modern power in every respect, but it seems we fall short in the power of Jesus in our homes compared to the home of old. We have great opportunities to carry on God's work. Life is a narrow channel. The broad road leads to destruction and the narrow leads to the city of God. Which road will we choose to travel? This splendid message was enjoyed by all.

We are planning to have a Children's Day program some time in the near future.

Young People's Day will be observed the third Sunday of this month, with the young boys and girls taking part on the program and the older folks will be visitors.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Mrs. Lawrence Johnson. All members are urged to be present.

The Sunshine Circle meets Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Miss Sadie Swaim. May we have a large number of young girls with us at that time.

Friends of Miss Sadie Swaim will be glad to learn that she is improving from a minor operation last Monday.

EDITH YORK, Reporter.

Pleasant Grove.—It has been quite a while since we have had a report from our church. We are still working and trusting for a year of great success under the leadership of our efficient pastor, Rev. H. L. Powel. Each Sunday he brings a message very appropriate for each of his hearers, which we hope is received with an open heart . The congregations are usually large, although there are quite a few in the community who are not attending this or any other church regularly. We are looking forward to the time when these shall be attending this or some other church.

Sunday was observed as Memorial Day. For Sunday school our attendance was the largest seen in quite a while. Mr. Z. B. Morris, president of the Memorial Association, had prepared a very appropriate program. Mr. L. A. Martin, a prominent lawyer of Lexington, made the memorial address, which was received by a large congregation. The singing was rendered by the Jarrett quartet, composed of Mr. Luth Jarrett, two daughters and son. Also, a young men's quartet, composed of "Buck" Jarrett, Arlie Hill, Marx Teague and Knox Teague, all from the First M. P. Church of Thomasville. We extend to all who took part and visitors a hearty welcome to our church at any convenient time they may be able to attend.

The officers elected for the coming year in the Memorial Association are Carlis T. Kennedy, president; Z. B. Morris, vice-president, and F. H. Clark, secretary and treasurer.

The Sunshine Auxiliary will meet with Mrs. Clyde Payne Monday evening, June 4.

The Ladies' Aid wil meet with Mrs. J. C. Newby and Mrs. Percy Smith Wednesday, June 6.

Children's Day will be held at a later day to be announced soon. The program will be in charge of the Primary and Beginners' teachers.

MRS. CLYDE PAYNE, Reporter.

Whitaker's Church.—Last night, at our regular church service, we had four young people to join with us. We welcome them and do hope they will be useful and happy Christians, an honor to the church and true to the Kingdom of God.

Our Sunday school was very poorly attended yesterday; some on account of sickness; others, I feel, from indisposition from various causes. I do wish there could be something done to arouse more lasting interest in the work of our Master.

One of our members is in the hospital; another has a hospital trip pending and some are shut-ins. Do hope and trust conditions will soon be better with them and they can be back in their accustomed places.

We are having some needed and much-wished for repairs, carpeting and other things done just at this time.

With best wishes to the Herald, its editor and readers. REPORTER.

New Church, Pinnacle Charge.—The following program took the place of the regular preaching day:

Stokes County Sunday School Convention (for all denominations) at Pinnacle M. P. Church, Rev. A. L. Hunter, pastor, Sunday, May 27th, 1934:

Theme: Building Christian Homes

9:45—Song service, Local Choir. Scripture and prayer, Rev. A. L. Hunter.

10:05—Address: Church and School Helping the Home, Miss Myrtle A. McDaniel, director of Leadership Training.

10:25—Special music, Mt. Zion duet.

10:50—Discussion and study groups: Improving Your Sunday School, Rev. Shuford Peeler; Teaching in the Sunday School, Miss McDaniel.

10:20—Business, committees, attendance, reports.

10:30—Address, Mothers and Fathers As Teachers of Religion, Rev. Shuford Peeler.

11:50—Offering for Sunday school cause.

12:10—Hymn and benediction; fellowship dinner on the grounds.

The program in the afternoon was as follows:

1:45—Worship, Building Christian Homes, Miss McDaniel.

2:00—Address, Family Fellowship With God, Miss McDaniel.

2:20—Special music, the Johnson sisters.

2:30—Discussion and study groups: Improving Your Sunday School; Teaching in Sunday School.

3:20—Hymn, attendance, election of officers.

3:45—Benediction.

The program of the evening was devoted to young people, with Miss Jessie Johnson presiding:

7:30—Worship, Youth of the World Unite, Roland Carroll.

7:50—Address: Youth Lays the Foundation for Christian Living in the Home, Miss Edith Kinder, director of Y. P. work.

8:05—Special music, Drexall Flynt and Sam Lewis; offering.

Dramatization: "I Light My Candle," Jessie Johnson.

8:25—Address, I Would Be Christian, Rev. Shuford Peeler.

8:45—Benediction.

The pennant was given to Quaker Gap Sunday school, which made the best record of attendance, based on miles traveled.

REPORTER.

Cedar Falls.—Two old, afflicted shut-ins made happy, both soul and body. During the special meeting of the Baptist church of Cedar Falls the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hancock, came over to my house and said the services would be held only at night. On noting that we couldn't attend any, he askd us how it would suit us to hold an afternoon service at our house. We told him that we would be glad for him to do so. On Thursday afternoon he brought his congregation over for a prayer service. And they brought the answer to their prayers with them in the form of a nice little pounding, for which we are thankful; and to all others that have helped us in any way.

Other old and afflicted people might be helped this way at a very small cost to each individual, so I want to say, Go thou and do likewise.

We both are very feeble, but am still able to marry people and am doing business at the same old stand.

Married at my house, May 25, Woodard Allred of Cedar Falls, and Etta Brower, of Worthville. G. A. LAUGHLIN.

Lexington, First.—Although I have not reported for some time the reporters at both of the churches have. I am sure they have been keeping Herald readers well informed on the activities of the year so far.

Revival services were held at First Church, beginning the first Sunday in April. Rev. L. E. Mabry came to us on Monday and brought able messages throughout the meeting. As a result of the prayers and effort put forth, we had the privilege of seeing 38 conversions and 26 accessions to the church. In all, we have received 30 new members this year. Rev. C. E. Ridge, pastor of the Shiloh charge, directed the choir during the services; his work was a wonderful help to the meeting.

First Church has its Annual Conference Expense and Herald Subsidy paid in full, and has paid more on World Service than last year. We expect to "make" the Honor Roll on all lines this year.

The Mount Carmel people are working on payment of their building debt. They are making excellent progress and expect to have the dedication before Conference.

The outlook at both churches is good. Attendance and general interest in both Sunday school and preaching services continues good, and we are expectig to conclude a successful year this fall.

C. G. ISLEY.

Fairview.—Bro. Pegg invited me to have a part in their Mother's Day Memorial. The young people rendered an interesting program on Mother's Day. We preached a little sermon on Memorial. There was a large congregation. The house was full.

They have a good Sunday school. I was directed to Bro. W. M. Taylor's class of men. Bro. Taylor is one of the most interesting Sunday school teachers I have heard.

I think the church is well pleased with their pastor, Bro. Pegg. He is pleased with his people. Bro. Pegg and Bro. Rich came after us. Bro. Pegg brought us back home. They had a surprise for us. They remembered us in a very helpful way. Thank you, brethren. In my early ministry I assisted in special meetings 19 years in succession, beginning when Revs. W. C. Kennett and S W. Lineberry were on that work.

G. F. MILLAWAY.

Pensacola, Democrat Charge.—Rev. D. T. Huss filled his regular appointment at our church last Sunday. He always preaches interesting and helpful sermons. We had a Mother's Day service at our church the second Sunday night.

Rev. Mr. Huss' daughter accompanied him to our church Sunday.

Your reporter coached and took part in the play, "Here Comes Charlie," which was put on in the school building auditorium last Saturday night. The proceeds went to help pay for our organ. I want to thank the following who took part in the play: Misses Lucille and Virginia Wilson, Kathleen Hensley and Reba Robertson, and Messrs. Charles Silver, Earl Robertson and Benjamin, Ted, and Lawrence Wilson.

Mr. A. G. Wilson has already paid for practically half of the organ himself. We made $21.75 with the play and this will leave only a small balance due on our organ.

Our Sunday school is getting along very nicely.

V. B.

Calvary.—Our Sunday school attendance seems to be on the upward trend, for which we are very glad. We had 211 present last Sunday against 178 one year ago. Dr. Pritchard's "Certificate Plan" seems to be working exceedingly well. March, being the first month the plan was used, there were only 58 certificates awarded. The total awarded last Sunday for the month of April was 85.

We are very sorry Dr. Pritchard's trip to Westminster, Maryland, was both saddened and shortened, caused by the death of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles Pritchard, of Thomasville. She died soon after Dr. Pritchard left home Saturday morning. He returned home early Sunday morning instead of staying longer as he had planned. Dr. and Mrs. Pritchard attended the funeral Sunday afternoon.

Our Missionary Circles met Monday afternoon and evening. The devotional services for each were in the form of a prayer meeting. Circle No. 2 was delighted to have Rev. W. F. Ashburn led the devotions. Good attendance was reported at each meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Friendly class, which is due to be held next Monday evening has been postponed until after our revival, the date to be announced later.

Rev. Mr. Lane, who preached in Dr. Pritchard's stead Sunday evening, was present at the Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening.

We hope as many of you as possibly can will attend our revival services which began Wednesday night of this week. The revival is to continue for 10 days.

MRS. HOWARD R. NEECE, Reporter.

Mount Pleasant.—The oft-repeated "Give me" and the more essential "Make me" were two of the factors presented in Pastor Braxteu's sermon on "Prayer," Sunday, May 27.

The two petitions of the Prodigal Son to his father; the selfish, "Give me my portien," and the more penitent "Make me thy servant," were attitudes cited and thoroughly discussed by the speaker. "The gifts of God without willingness to be made God's servant availeth little," was the lesson received by a large and attentive congregation.

In the evening of the same day Rev. Mr. Braxton congregated the young people in a vesper service on the church lawn.

Annual Home-Coming and Memorial Day is scheduled for June. Interesting speakers, special music, a table lunch on the church grounds are special features. You are invited to join us for the day.

NILA GARNETTE AMICK, Reporter.

BRO. MILLAWAY GOES VISITING

By invitation, we went to visit Rev. A. D. Shelton and family. He came after us on the 18th of May last. They, Mr. and Mrs. Shelton, made it very pleasant for us. We were with them from Friday till Tuesday.

Brother Shelton asked me to preach for him .and I did not have any better sense than to accept his invitation and try. They have four bright little girls. J. D., the only boy, was not at home when we were there; he was visiting relatives in High Point.

Brother Shelton has a good place to live; he is in the midst of a good people. They are well pleased with him and he is with them. We appreciate the kindness of Brother and Mrs. Shelton. Brother Shelton made a drive of 140 miles to get us to his place.

We went from Rev. Shelton's to Charlotte to visit our eldest son. We enjoyed it all. Brother Shelton carried us to Charlotte. Thank you.

G. F. MILLAWAY.

—Dr. J. D. Williams of High Point was in Greensboro recently to see Rev. W. F. Kennett, who has been ill for some time.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

ADDRESS YOUR MATTER TO THIS DEPARTMENT

A proper system saves time. work, and confusion. All matter intended for publication in this department should be so marked on the envelope or should be addressed to Miss Mary C. McCulloch, R. 4, Box 1, Greensboro. You need have no fear that your letter will not be delivered if so directed.

TAKE THIS OPPORTUNITY

Dear Auxiliary Members:

I am this week mailing to the Auxiliaries over the state the bulletin of the Leadership Training School to be held at High Point College, June 25-30. and calling especial attention to the course in World Missions taught by Rev. J. F. Minnis, our returned missionary from India. In cases where I did not have the addresses of the Secretaries of Missionary Education, the bulletins were mailed to the Presidents, trusting them to turn them over to the proper persons.

Let me again urge you to send one or more representatives from your Auxiliary to take this course in Missions. At the recent Board meeting in Washington reports showed that a number of branches are sponsoring such a course and they have proven very worthwhile. North Carolina Methodist Protestants can do as well or better.

MRS. E. LESTER BALLARD,
Secretary of Missionary Education.

ORIGINAL AND CONTINUOUS READERS OF THE HERALD, NOTICE!

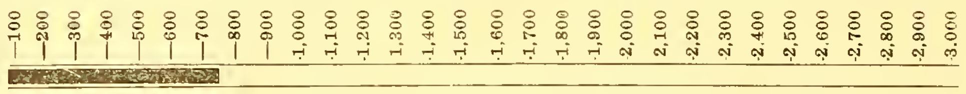
It has occurred to me that since this is the 40th year of the Herald's history, it would be fine to know how many people there are who have taken the paper ever since it was started. The Editor and the printers and I have talked it over and it has been decided that I am to ask for the list of such persons. The only ones who can give such information are the people themselves. To try to search the records in the office would be like looking for a needle in a haystack.

Will not all those who have taken the paper ever since it was started please write me at 804 Brown street, Greensboro, and tell me so. Later on in the year we want to publish a list of the illustrious ones. Rev. W. F. Kennett and Brother W. N. Pegram need not reply to this, as their names are already on my roll of immortals. Now do not overlook this, but write me.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

—Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, the pastor of Grace church, is in Asheboro this week assisting Rev. R. C. Stubbins in a revival meeting.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
GRAHAM	100
LINCOLNTON	71
REIDSVILLE	70

When you see the percentage that Graham is credited with this week, you are going to wonder why I am not raving over them. Well, my rule is not to rave over anybody until the name of the charge is put up in capital letters. Last week Graham lacked two cents of sending in their quota but figured out on a percentage basis it was more than 99½, and my rule is to throw away fractions and give percentages in whole numbers. So we will just let Graham rest up there on that exalted seat this week and maybe next week we can take off our hats to her.

And now I want to take this opportunity to say a word about a whole lot of folks whse charges have large quotas who have been keeping at it all the year, even though they have not been in my column of honor. Last week there were L. F. Ferree of the First church, High Point, and Rev. C. L. Spencer of the Granville circuit, both good former Randolph county citizens, who sent in substantial payments. Then there is a long string of men who keep at it, such as Rev. C. B. Way, Rev. H. F. Fogleman, and Rev. J. L. Trollinger. Rev. L. E. Mabry, Rev. B. M. Williams. Rev. J. T. Bowman, Rev. C. E. Ridge and Rev. D. D. Broom, who have not been in the limelight and yet have done fine work. Keep up the good work and send along the amount asked for on Herald Deficit.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

* * *

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamauce	47	9¾	$....
Albemarle	17	6	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	22	....
Asheville	14	7¼	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	9.30	....
Bessemer City	13	5.14	....
Burlingtou, First	71	12½	*20.00
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	13	....
Charlotte	21	9.2	.90
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.32	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	12½	....
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	1½	....
Denton	48	11¾	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	7½	*5.00
Fallston	85	22	....
Flat Rock	63	13	....
Friendship	21	1⅝	....
Forsyth	45	8	2.50
Gibsonville	20	2½	....
Glen Raven	47	4¾	....
Graham	27	26.98	....
Grauville	59	17½	16.55
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY.	29	30½	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	8½	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	2½	*5.00
Greeusboro, West Eud	26	9.1	*7.50
Greensville	59	7	....
Guilford	37	9½	....
Halifax	53	7½	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	13.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	16½	....
High Point, Lebanon	34	7½	....
High Poiut, Welch	22	4½	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	16.30	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2½	....
Lexingtou, First	45	9½	*10.00
Lexington, State Street	40	7.36	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	18	12.85	....
Littleton	50	7¾	....
Mebane	28	5	....
Mecklenburg	40	1½	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	3	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	4	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	16½	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	24¼	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7½	....
Randolph	74	9½	....
Reidsville	10	7	....
Richland	43	3½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	19	*20.00
Siler City	20	10¾	*5.00
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	13	....
Tabernacle	39	21¼	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	2½	....
West Forsyth	62	7½	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	4½	....
Winston, First	26	7¼	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	4½	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

* Subsidy paid in full.

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro. N. C.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Mrs. C. B. Welch	$6.00
Mrs. B. W. Little	5.00
Mrs. J. J. Mallard	3.00
Rev. H. F. Fogleman	3.00
Rev. G. L. Curry	2.50
Mrs. E. S. Taylor	1.00
Rev. Q. L. Joyner	1.00
Rev. J. T. Bowman	1.00
Q. B. Tesseuiar	.80

Herald Subsidy

Charlotte, per Mrs. B. W. Little	60c

Our thanks for this.

* * *

—Miss Edith Emma Guthrie, of Saxapahaw, in addition to graduating Magna Cum Laude, received two medals at High Point College, the one for the best essay aud the other for the best all-around girl in the graduating class.

—Grenville Kleiser writes anywhere, but gets much of his inspiration from sunshine, sky and sea. He writes standing up, sitting down, on top of a New York bus, in the midst of a London throng, on the deck of an ocean liner, or in the privacy of his book room. One purpose animates him: human service.

—Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Millaway ought to be considered experts in bringing up healthy children. They have five sons whose average height is 6 feet, 2 and 7-10 inches, and average weight is 192 2-5 pounds. Clifton is the smallest, being 6 feet 1 inch tall and weighs 173 pounds. Munsey is the largest, being 6 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 225 pounds.

—Joseph Little, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Little, of our First church in Charlotte, was one of the winners in the state-wide music contest recently held in Greensboro.

—The class in Western Maryland College in which Messrs. George and S. R. Harris, of Henderson, N. C., graduated, held their 60th anniversary reunion last Saturday. Only one member of the class was present, a Dr. Shreeve of Baltimore.

Send your pastor to the Pastors' Summer School at the College—He will return to you able to do even better work.

Methodist Protestant Herald.
ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND BRETHREN.
VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., JUNE 14, 1934 NUMBER 30

Rev H L Isley 2aug4 R6

Praise God!

Praise God!
Grateful for your blessings be;
Know that He provides for you
Life still more abundantly.

Trust God!
Banish every doubt and fear;
Look to Him with confidence,
Feel His full protection here.

Love God!
Listen often to His voice,
Heed His message clear to you,
Deep within your heart rejoice.

Serve God!
Praise, trust and serve today;
Wisdom, strength, and peace from Him,
Will guide you safely all the way.

—Grenville Kleiser.

Ten Strange Sights in Soviet Russia

Vividly Imprinted on the Mind of an American Student Tourist

Carl D. Soule

One. Long queues of people standing on the sidewalk waiting to buy newspapers. This was such an oddity that we could only stop and stare in astonishment. The reasons are these: a scarcity of paper, a limited number of newspapers, a limited number of newspapers printed, a limited number of official newspaper stands, and a strong desire on the part of the people to read. It was really pleasant not to have "the latest edition" thrust before one's face at the busiest corners by boys who should be in school or at play!

Two. A woman welding the iron frame of a grain separator at a farm implement factory in Kharhov. She wore a great mask and welded with perfect ease. It was not a strange task in the eyes of the Russians; for we saw women blacksmithing, tending street-car switches, running street cars, tamping ties on the railroad, sawing horns off the heads of cattle in a slaughter-house, whitewashing the buildings on a collective farm, repairing the roofs of houses, laying stones in city streets, and laying a pipe line. All types of industry are open to women and she has entered those that are heaviest. The government carries on an active campaign of propaganda to induce women to leave their babies in nurseries and enter the factories.

Three. A young man of twenty-one years in Odessa begging for clothes for himself and bread for his baby. He affirmed that because he was a believer in God he could obtain no work in a Communist country. At his request our conversations were carried on in an undertone. At times his cheek trembled and his eyes were always alert for would-be eavesdroppers. He declared that re had been put in prison at the age of sixteen, had been there many times since, and had just recently been given his freedom.

Four. An aged priest in a church in Moscow still wearing his great robe of gold cloth, still blessing the people by the jerks of his censer, his face patient and full of long-suffering. The ecclesiastical procession in one part of the service consisted of himself and a boy of ten, who carried one large candle. The worshipers were five and fifty in number; three of them were men. No one was under thirty years of age. Those present knelt, crossed themselves, and kissed the icons in "orthodox" earnestness.

Five. A football game between Leningrad and Odessa teams. The stands were crowded to overflowing. As in Germany, so in Russia—sport is an essential part of the national program. There were no "hot dog" or peanut venders. Their place was taken by several women who sold small tumblerfuls of sunflower seeds. They did a good business. Later in the day we saw a cellar filled with spring furnace fuel—sunflower seed husks.

Six. A nursery on a collective farm where twenty five-year-old children sat absolutely quiet for five minutes, although thy were seated at the table with spoon in hand! At each meal a different child takes his turn in waiting upon the others. Here certainly was the abnegation of self for the good of the group being cultivated rigorously and at an early age!

Seven. A student house where hundreds of students, men and women, lived, receiving from one hundred to two hundred fifty rubles every month as a stipendium. The exact sum depends upon the student's advancement and his brilliancy. The girls had separate floors; in their rooms pictures of Harold Lloyd and Clark Gable abounded!

Eight. Street cars in Kharkov, the modern "mushroom" capital of Ukraine, so full that as many as ten passengers rode clinging to the doorsteps and frame of a car. Only last year 300 new cars were added to the transportation system, but they are not enough. Five hundred thousand people have moved into Kharkov during the last ten years, tripling its population. One morning I made this calculation of the traffic that flowed past our hotel window during five minutes:

9 street cars (doubles), 8 automobiles, 4 buses, 3 trucks, and 3 bicycles. It was pleasant to walk across broad streets where automobiles passed on the average only once a minute!

Nine. From 25 to 40 people standing in line in an important square in Moscow on May 1 waiting for ice cream sandwiches! There was only one such store on the square. I could not help but observe: Were this scene to be enacted in an American city, the next morning there would be twenty-five stands opened for business, each one with the "best" brand of cream. This store, or stand, of which I speak did not have even a sign up indicating what it sold.

Ten. A city, or nation, without advertisements! There is only one kind of advertising in Russian cities; namely, advertisements of the Communist Party, its leaders, its aims, and its activities. Is there a drug store? It bears above its door the single word "Apetka." Its windows are apt to be barren or filled with dust-covered odds and ends. I asked in a Torgsin store for some crackers that I had seen in the window. The clerk apologetically declared that they had been there for a month or two and were apt to be stale! Electric light signs? Yes, huge illuminated pictures of Lenin and Stalin! An illuminated row of photographs of the best workers in a factory! Hotels for foreign guests usually have their names in electric signs, but nowhere does one see great displays flaunting the names of cigarettes, automobiles, or refrigerators before the public eye. Stores tend to be like post-offices—the worker knows that there are just one or two places at which he can obtain a certain article. He goes there, buys it at the established state price, and takes it home!—Zion's Herald.

THOSE TROUBLESOME WAR DEBTS

By Luther K. Long

The war debt situation is a bad mess. The fault is not exclusively on either side. The people of the United States have been so fully occupied with their own personal troubles—particularly financial—that they seem incapable of contructive thinking on international problems. Nor has there been any indication of special wisdom on the part of members of Congress.

The peace of Versailles was a poor and an unfair makeshift. If Germany had paid the assessed indemnities, and if business over the world had gone on as though nothing had happened, the allies might have paid their war debts to the United States. But the first could not be, the second was impossible in the nature of things, so the third was equally out of the question.

It is irrational to talk of these war debts as though they were ordinary debts. A sensible attitude is necessary if we are to get anywhere in making such a settlement as will contribute to international friendship and the promotion of trade.

A recent editorial in the Christian Science Monitor is notable for its broad-minded appreciation of the situation.

"War debts," says The Monitor, "are unlike commercial debts in that they are contracted for no constructive purpose. In other words, they do not provide for their own liquidation, as is the case, for example, with a loan to build a railroad. The line brings in revenue, and their revenue not only pays the interest on the debt, but also amortizes it. War debts are raised solely to buy such consumables as food and clothing and munitions—bought, incidentally, in the United States at war prices. When they were gone, nothing was left with which to pay the loan."

It was only after the war became of vital concern to ourselves—we were told that Germany intended conquering us after England was subdued—that the greater part of these loans were made. We were, in reality, no longer neutral. We were friends of the allies, and considered Germany our enemy.

"The argument is all the more potent," continues The Monitor editorial, "when one considers what the allies did with their American dollars. They were fighting a nation which had become America's enemy. The United States declared war against Germany on April 7, 1917. Not for 15 months afterward, however, did the United States get into the fighting. Who did America's fighting until then? The allies of course. 'If it had not been that the allies were able to hold the lines for 15 months after we entered the war,' General Pershing says, 'held them with the support of the loans we made, the war might well have been lost'."

The greatest tragedy of these war debts is the international ill will that has been engendered. Millions of Europeans dislike their "Uncle Shylock," and say so. And millions of Americans are not above sneering back, "Defaulters!" Such words get us nowhere. I wish that sufficient good will might be developed to lead to a thorough reconsideration of these debts. The resulting conference should be friendly and permeated with a sense of the folly and the futility of war. The settlement should be frank and fair. It seems reasonable to expect that then there would follow co-operation between Europe and America to promote joint warfare against poverty, crime, ignorance, intemperance, and militarism—common enemies of us all.

I do not believe that England has dishonored herself in declining to make further payments "until," as she says, "it becomes possible to discuss an ultimate settlement of international governmental war debts with a reasonable prospect of agreement." May that time soon come.

THE MAN WHO WAS TEMPTED

A man in a responsible position, intrusted with large sums of money, was one day tempted to put some of the cash to his own account. He knew that it would be a long time before his theft could be discovered. He resisted the temptation, but felt that he must tell somebody the anguish of mind through which he had passed. He went therefore to the man who had occupied the position before him, and told him all about the temptation, and how he had almost fallen. To his surprise, the man did not reprove him, but put his hand on his shoulder in a fatherly sort of way. "I know exactly how you felt," he said quietly. "I went through it all myself when I occupied your position." How good it is to know that we have One who was "in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin."—Christian Herald.

—"They live too long who happiness outlive."—Dryden.

THE MAN WHO COULDN'T LET GO

Walking on a street one day, a man saw a wire lying on the ground. Without thinking much about it, he stopped to pick it up. That was natural enough; why shouldn't he? It seemed harmless, to be sure. But when he grasped it he couldn't let go. He tried to, but he couldn't. It was a "live wire." A strong current of electricity was running through it. It was burning him cruelly, and he cried out with pain. His whole body was writhing in distress. But his hand still gripped the wire, and when men came running to help him, they had to drag him away by force.

That is one of the dangers of a live wire. If you once lay hold of it, you cannot let go, no matter how much it is hurting you. I know a boy who grasped a live wire awhile ago, and it is hurting him cruelly. But he doesn't let go. He says he can't, even though his father and mother are begging him to, and the doctor says it will kill him if he doesn't. The live wire is the cigarette.

The boy is only sixteen years old; but he is a slave. When he began smoking, he was holding the wire; but now it is holding him. He has a weak heart already, poisoned by tobacco. He has to give up some of the sports he loves because of it, and he knows it is killing him. Yet he is clinging to it still, smoking every day, and nobody can stop him. If he were holding a live wire, he might be dragged away from it; but no one can compel him to drop the cigarette.

You can see what habit is. We say a boy "has a habit." But after a while the habit has the boy. The only way to be safe with the live wire is never to touch it. And the cigarette is a live wire.—Unknown.

WHAT EPITAPH?

By Luther K. Long

What would you like inscribed on your tomb-stone? What, in brief, would you like to say to those who look upon your grave from time to time as the years go by? What would it please you to have your loved ones say on the marker that will stand at the head of your grave?

Perhaps it doesn't matter much whether there is a marker; much less an ordinary inscription. Many inscriptions are not significant, and some of them are scarcely true to the facts. If one hasn't said or done anything, while living, that people will care to remember, or speak of, it is without avail to carve a message on marble or granite.

Some, seemingly, would desire such inscriptions as these:

"He accumulated vast riches."

"He held high office."

"He was a man of wide learning."

"He ruled men."

"He was skillful in getting his own way."

Here are some that would look better:

"He was a good neighbor."

"He was a faithful friend."

"He used wisdom as well as generosity in helping people."

"His children are grateful for his kindness and understanding."

"He lived a full and rich life, and served his generation."

"He loved birds and flowers and children."

"He walked with God, as do the hills and trees and fruitful valleys."

Poets usualy go into the matter at greater length than would be permissible on an ordinary grave marker. But they write some things that may well find a place in a scrap book. Mrs. Katherine T. Hinkson has given us something that is especially beautiful. It should help the living to recognize and appreciate in larger measure the wonderful works of God. She calls it:

The Epitaph

Write on my grave when I am dead,
  Whatever road I trod,
That I admired and honored
  The wondrous works of God.

That all the days and years I had,
  The greatest and the least,
Each day with grateful heart and glad
  I sat me to a feast.

That not alone for body's meat
  Which takes the lowest place,
I gave Him grace when I did eat
  And with a shining face.

But for the spirit filled and fed
  That else must waste and die,
With sun and stars replenished
  And dew and evening sky.

The beauty of the hills and seas
  Brimmed that immortal cup;
And when I went by fields and trees
  My heart was lifted up.

Lap me in the green grass and write
  Upon the daisied sod
That still I praised with all my might
  The wondrous works of God.

STOP ABNORMAL HASTE AND STRAIN

Learn to relax, to let go, to do things quietly and confidently. Cultivate cool-headednes, prudence, deliberateness, and self-control. Stop abnormal haste and strain. Take the tension off your body by dropping it from your mind. View things in right perspective. Put a proper estimate upon your work and interests, but do not overestimate their value and importance. Do everything with an inner sense of peace and poise. If you have a fault in your character or method of working, which is retarding your best progress or holding you back from success, resolve at once to examine such fault, to face it fearlessly, and to take special means to eradicate it. Growth in character depends upon intelligent elimination and correction.—Grenville Kleiser.

—I do not believe that liberty is, as we have been told on high authority, a corpse. But neither do I believe it can live only or live forever in the body it inhabited during the nineteenth century. It is rather my conviction that freedom is finding a new incarnation in a new body of principles.—Walter Lippmann.

THE WANT OF THIS AGE IS MEN

The great want of this age is men:

Men who are not for sale.

Men who are honest, sound, true to the heart's core.

Men who will condemn wrong in friend or foe, in themselves as well as others.

Men whose consciences are steady as the needle to the pole.

Men who will stand for the right if the heavens totter and the earth reels.

Men who can tell the truth and look the truth.

Men that neither brag nor run.

Men that neither flag nor flinch.

Men who can have courage without whistling for it, and joy without shouting to bring it.

Men in whom the current of everlasting life runs still and deep and strong.

Men too large for sectarian limits, and too strong for sectarian bonds.

Men who do not strive, nor cry, nor cause their voices to be heard in the streets, but who will not fail nor be discouraged, till judgment be set on earth.

Men who know their message and tell it.

Men who know their duty and do it.

Men who know their place and fill it.

Men who mind their own business.

Men who are not too lazy to work, nor too proud to be poor.

Men who are willing to eat what they have earned, and wear what they have paid for.—Publisher Unknown.

◆

WORLDLY AND EXPENSIVE DRESS

1. Engenders and increases pride.
2. Breeds and encourages vanity.
3. Begets envy and jealousy.
4. Leads to extravagance.
5. Inflames the hearts of men.
6. Leads to debt.
7. Crowds out better thoughts and feelings.
8. Wastes time and money.
9. Is often detrimental to health.
10. Influences others to dress in a worldly way.
11. Excites vain admiration.
12. Robs God.
13. Robs the cause of foreign missions.—Herald of Holiness.

◆

ELEPHANTS KEEP SUNDAY

Several years ago a man who owned a large mill in Africa, sold it to another man. The first owner was a Christian and always closed down on Sunday. He had a number of elephants that were trained to lift and load logs. These elephants were used to resting on Sunday. The new owner was not a Christian man and on the very first Sunday after buying the mill he ordered the men to drive out the elephants and go to work. But do you know, those animals refused to move an inch. They were not in the habit of working on Sundays and they never could persuade them to do it, so the new owner had to close the mill on Sundays just as the other man did.—The Youth's Evangelist.

KEEPING HAPPY IN THE LORD

"Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life."

It has pleased the Lord to teach me a truth, the benefit of which I have not lost for more than fourteen years. The point is this: I saw more clearly than ever that the first great and primary business to which I ought to attend every day was to have my soul happy in the Lord. The first thing to be concerned about was, not how much I might serve the Lord, or how I might glorify the Lord; but how I might get my soul into a happy state, and how my inner man might be nourished. For I might seek to get the truth before the unconverted, I might seek to benefit believers, I might seek to relieve the distressed, I might in other ways seek to behave myself as it becomes a child of God in this world, and yet not be happy in the Lord.—George Mueller.

◆

MY PLEA

Oh, God, hear my plea—impassionate, earnest—
And heed it, Lord, I pray;
Just take me and purge me of all dross—
Of all that stands in the way
To hinder the Spirit from filling my life,
And working through me each day.

Take every little besetting sin—
That temper that throws me low;
That little spirit of jealousy;
That tongue that exaggerates so;
That want of doing things pleasing to man,
That makes me act for show—

Take every one, Lord, out of my life
That the Holy Spirit may fill
Each nook and corner in my heart,
And purge me, Lord, until
He governs all my acts,
And guides me by His will.

And then, O God, my plea shall be,
Just use me day by day
In bringing glory to Thyself,
In Thine own precious way;
That I may on some glorious morn,
My sheaves before Thee lay.

—Mrs. H. F. Lockwood.

◆

PEOPLE WHO WERE RIGHT

Job was right when he said, "Though He slay me, yet will I trust in Him."

Joshua was right when he said, "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."

Daniel was right when he said, "I will not defile myself with the king's meat."

David was right when he said, "I will bless the Lord at all times."

Mary was right when she said, "Whatsoever He saith unto you, do it."

John was right when he said, "Whosoever will may come." —Herald of Holiness.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Making Friends With Youth

Not all of us leaders in church work see the need of doing this. It is so easy for those of us who are growing older to be interested only in ourselves; forgetting the children and the youth who are always about us. They may not always understand us, nor fully appreciate what we say and do. And it often happens that we find it most difficult to converse with them. But all the time here, in these youth, lies the greatest opportunity of the religious worker. It is quite pleasing to find here and there a man or woman who takes time to make friends with youth. Who really understands their attitudes and is also understood pretty well by them. Such a one as a religious worker is most useful to the cause, whether he be preacher, Sunday school teacher, or any other form of religious worker. But the thing that causes me to write this paragraph is the question, Why aren't all of us busy making friends with youth? Why? Let not the echo answer the question. It should have a personal answer.

Setting the Standard

In every community, in every church, there is one or a group of people who set the standards by which the others in that community live. What they say and what they do usually determines what others say and what others do. This applies to moral, religious, political and economic questions. Most any adult who has observed people carefully during his or her life, will substantiate this statement.

About election time this person or group becomes active again and inquires of the young voter, who are you going to vote for in the next election? And when he or they depart the youthful voter will most likely have agreed to support the ticket of this standard setter. Likewise, what is done for social betterment, for moral uplift in that community will be done at the instigation or approval of the standard setter. Shall the church pay the claims? Well, that will largely depend upon whether the standard setter in that congregation permits. There are those who are interested only in the local affairs of the church. They will pay the pastor and keep the church repaired, but when it comes to paying other claims, if the check has to leave the community, it is just too bad for that interest—the check is not issued. Such a policy is suicidal to the church, it is narrowing to the community life and permits graft and all sorts of corruption in politics. The tragedy of it sometimes is the standard setter is not aware of the extent of his influence. He may have to awake to the terrible consequences before God Almighty when it is too late to change his policies.

Liberty Charge, Rev. F. R. Love, Pastor

I visited Shiloh, Hickory Grove and Liberty churches in the order named. Shiloh was put with this group of churches at the Burlington Conference and so far as I heard they are satisfied with the arrangement. It is one of our older and more substantial churches. There has gone out from it numbers of members to strengthen other churches in our denomination besides those who have gone into other denominations. The service was very well attended, the attitude worshipful and the people attentive to the message.

We were at Hickory Grove in the afternoon. This church attended by Revs. W. M. Pike and A. O. indley; both were present at the service. I learned that this church one entertained the Annual Conference. The building which gave place to the present one also had many of our pioneer preachers preach there. Brother Pike told me of hearing a sermon by Rev. Alson Gray in the winter time, there was no way of heating the church, so the seats were moved out doors in the sunshine and there Brother Gray delivered his message.

The service we held was not the regular preaching time but the congregation was good and the message received kindly consideration.

We were at Liberty at night. There was a conflict, a revival meeting was being held at the M. E. church, which the pastor said reduced our attendance somewhat, yet we had a good congregation and good interest.

I was pleased to learn that Shiloh, Hickory Grove and Flint Ridge had paid the Church Extension assessment. Liberty church was being recovered, the street improvement bill which had troubled the leaders there for quite awhile is receiving attention and the pastor is hopeful that it will be taken care of before a great while. The pastor reports that the churches are about four-fifths up with is salary and there is a good interest at all the churches. Improvements of various kinds are being done at other churches. This is Brother Love's second year serving this group of churches and he is happy in the work and we believe the people are co-operating with him splendidly. We are expecting Liberty church to be among the Honor Roll Charges at Conference and we are hoping that the pastor's salary will be put at a thousand dollars for the next year.

Plan of Appointments

June 17—Chapel Hill, Liberty church, Lineberry, Davidson charge.

June 24—Seagrove church, opening new church, all-day program.

July 1—Philadelphia church 11 a.m., Matthews Chapel afternoon, Wesley Chapel at night.

July 8—Spring church 11 a.m., Lebanon afternoon, Pleasant Hill at night.

July 9—Group Meeting on Spring Church charge.

July 10—Group Meeting, Enfield.

July 11—Group Meeting Eden church, Halifax circuit.

July 12—Group Meeting, Corinth church, Littleton circuit.

July 13—Group Meeting, Granville charge.

July 15—Mebane 11 a.m., Union Grove afternoon, Efland at night.

July 17, 18, 19—Group meetings on Creswell charge.

July 24—Siler City charge, Piney Grove and Siler City.

July 28—Group Meeting, Baltimore church, West Forsyth charge.

July 29—District Meeting at Baltimore church in the morning.

July 29—Afternoon, District Meeting at Spencer church.

R. M. Andrews.

WHEN THE QUESTION IS "POPPED"

A physician who has successfully specialized in diseases of women for more than twenty years, in an address to women said:

"When the time comes that the young man 'pops the question,' what are you going to say? Will you hang your head and murmur, 'This is so sudden' when you know very well it is not?"

"No, when that time comes, ask him three questions. Here they are:

"First: 'Do you believe me to be virtuous?'

"Second: 'If so, have you, a young man, lived as you would want me, a young woman, to live? If not, would you expect me to marry you?'

"Third: 'If you have not so lived, how shall I answer your question?' "

Here is indeed the answer to the problem of much sorrow and suffering which comes to women who marry in ignorance. The unfortunate thing about it is that many young women choose to follow the path of emotional desire rather than listen to the calm reasonings of logic and statistics.

The Book of books states a truth which every medical practitioner heartily verifies: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the spirit shall of the spirit reap life everlasting." (Gal. 6:7, 8.)

The harvest of a man's sowing to the flesh is seen in the thousands of little blind babies and imbecile and idiot children, and the numberless invalid women, all unhappy burdens to others. It has been estimated that 94 per cent of the operations for women's diseases are due to sin, either on the part of husbands or of wives.

A girl who had not been informed of the pitfalls which wreck many marriages, seeing only the rosy glow of romance, is captivated by a head of wavy hair, a pair of "soulful" eyes, or an athletic figure. It is only when the romance has faded and when grim suffering and grimmer sorrow stalk into her shattered dreams, that she realizes her fearful mistake. Of what vital importance, then, is the knowledge which can avert this tragedy—yes, and the will to act upon that knowledge! Knowledge which comes too late is vain. It is "locking the stable after the horse is stolen." A weak will may submit to desire; then again is knowledge vain.

It is undoubtedly a fact that many young women, learning some of these things, do not apply them to their own cases. A girl is likely to feel that her own young man friend is above suspicion. Sometimes this confidence is based on his good moral qualities; this confidence is not safe, and should have a better foundation. Other rest on the thought that the man is a Christian. But, my friend, are you acquainted with all his past history? You may even suppose that you are, and be wrong: there may be a dark page unknown to the general public. Besides, many persons become infected in entirely innocent ways. The physician referred to above stated that about 85 per cent of all men are infected at some time in their lives. A man may have a guilty past, and may seek and find God's pardon, and yet his body will retain the marks of sin. A girl needs to be very sure before it is too late.

It may seem embarrassing, this prospect of a frank talk before marriage, but that should never be allowed to prevent it. Life is too serious a matter to risk one's entire future just because a duty is embarrassing. We must not forget that the laws of life are very stern and unyielding. The only way God had to overcome the law of sin and death was to give His own Son as a sacrifice.

It has been said that "A happy marriage is heaven on earth, but unhappy marriage is hell on earth." There is no doubt that this statement is true. How important then is it that every precaution be taken to insure happiness! If the young people will be honest and frank before undertaking the step, they will have gone a long way in the direction of happiness.—Purity Crusader.

SIN, A QUICKSAND

It sometimes happens on the coast of Britain or Scotland, that a person walking on the strand will suddenly find difficulty in walking. The shore is like pitch, to which the soles of his feet cling. The coast appears perfectly dry; but the footprint that he leaves is immediately filled with water. Nothing distinguishes the sand which is solid from that which is not. He passes on unaware of his danger. Suddenly he sinks: he looks at his feet; the sand covers them. He wishes to turn back; but with every effort sinks more deeply. With indescribable terror, he finds he is involved in a quicksand. He throws down his burden; but it is already too late. The slow burial of hours continues. The sand reaches to his waist, to his chest, to his neck; now only his face is visible. He cries. The sand fills his mouth, and all is silent; his eyes, then the night of death. What a striking emblem of the danger of sin!—The King's Herald.

KNOWING THE GOOD SHEPHERD

At a certain gathering an aged minister and a distinguished actor were present. The latter was asked to give a recitation to the company, and at the minister's request he repeated the Twenty-third Psalm. Such was the beauty of his voice and the charm of his manner that a subdued murmur of praise went around at the close. The actor then invited the old minister to repeat the same Psalm. When the minister had ended there were tears in all eyes, for he had spoken with a deep tenderness and spiritual understanding. No one felt the difference more keenly than the great actor. "I know the Psalm," he said, "but you know the Shepherd."—Forward.

OUR STORY PAGE

LOVE

Words flew thick and fast as Don and his playmate, Jimmy, became involved in a heated argument. They were nearly at the point of exchanging blows, and loud above the other taunts, Jim shrieked:

“The next word you speak about my sister—I'll make you eat it!”

“Yah,’” sneered Don with the customary superiority of an older boy. He was a year older than his now infuriated comrade and naturally could best him in a physical struggle.

He taunted, “sing-song” fashion, “Yah! ole Doris ain't a bit pretty. She's snaggle toothed and—”

Jimmy piled into him with ferocity and pounded his small fists bravely on the other's face. It turned into a real battle and poor Jim came off second best with a bleeding nose and totally ruined clothes.

His mother, Mrs. Crawford, was sadly surprised when Jimmy tore into the room sobbing his broken heart out. But she held him close to her while he poured out his pitiful story, and kissed him on the cheek which comforted to some extent, he doubtfully awaited her verdict upon his mishap. He remembered her emphatic abhorrence of fighting.

“You did right. son, in defending your sister in her absence. But about Donald—it is pitiful the way he behaves.” She hesitated thoughtfully and continued, “Don, dear, let's tell God, and ask His help. Wouldn't that be the thing to do?”

“Yes, mother.’”

Little Jim, with profound reverence, knelt at his mother's knees and talked to the Lord in his own trusting childish way; then he went smilingly about his play. He was happy. Now he did not hate. He loved.

However, Don was not so light-hearted, nor did a smile decorate his boyish face, but an unlovely frown rested where it ought not. Something kept beating against his brain. It was something like this, “Do unto others as you would have them do unto you.” The Golden Rule.

The frown slowly faded out and his face flushed with shame.

A few days later Donald was pulling his little red- coaster wagon full of groceries for his mother, up the old, long steep hill that was so hard to climb, yet so easy to coast down, when he heard a familiar whistle and Jimmy bounded into sight.

“Hey,” he shouted. “I'll help you by pushing.” and pretended not to notice how red Don's face was. Don started to speak, but somehow the words hung in his throat and choked him, while Jimmy chatted gayly, although his heart went out to his friend with deepest sympathy.

“You know, Jimmy—” began Don. “I wish, I mean—I I'm sorry for what happened the other day. Doris—is—really the best looking girl in this whole country. I didn't mean a word! forgive me, will ya, Jim?” A tear fell on his cheek in spite of his furious efforts to withhold it.

Jimmy laughed, and ran around to help pull the wagon. “It's all right, ole pal, I forgive you—so does mother and Sissy—and—God,” quietly.

“That's great of you, Jim. I don't see how you could—”

“Sure,” smiled the younger boy, “It's easy, if you love one another.”

In peace, they were again true friends— “loving one another.”

Siler City, N. C.

THE UNSPOKEN WORD

Nadine hummed a merry little tune as she came up to the porch; the realization of a day-dream of several months duration seemed close at hand. To some students the long summer vacation meant idleness, or a rushing from one place to another on pleasure bent, but to Nadine it meant study, for she was fond of her books. She had been ill a part of the semester that had just come to a close, and she hoped by taking lessons from a private tutor in the summer to carry her work along still farther. Vague, but alluring rose the hope that at the beginning of the next semester she could be promoted with her class.

“Listen, everybody,” she called gayly as she came into the large room—half dining room, half kitchen—where the children played around while Mrs. Cummings hovered between the cook stove and the ironing board.

“I am going to help Mrs. Morrow three days each week—of course she will pay me. I'll have enough to pay for my private lessons and these books.”

Nadine placed her package on the table in the living room and then waited, wondering not a little. Her mother seemed to be thinking deeply.

“Seems like you're perfectly crazy over your books,” she said finally. “I thought when you got through in May I'd have you at home to help me, and look after the children, and all that. But now you are planning to be gone again. You can't spend your whole life studying.”

Nadine looked worried. Like a great many girls of fifteen, she loved her mother dearly. And it was in order that she might lighten her mother's burden that she was trying to finish her school work in two years. Her eyes filled, but her voice was fairly steady as she replied, “Of course, you're busy, Mother; yet it doesn't seem as if I could give it up. But if you can't spare me three days and I'm needed here, why—” she choked a little and turned away.

Mrs. Cummings was thinking pretty hard while Nadine was talking—much too hard for more words. After a few moments of silence, realizing that the girl had paused, she looked up from her work and said: “I know you want to get on with your school work so that you can get a certificate and teach. I don't want to stand in your way, that's sure, if you want to go.”

“I do want to go,” declared Nadine earnestly, “and I can help you three days of each week.”

As the girl put the plates around the table for the evening meal she was thinking of her summer plans and her new hope.

When supper was over, and the dishes washed, Mrs. Cummings turned to Nadine, “You can help with the mending. Suppose we take the basket out on the porch where we can be more comfortable. It's going to be warm in the house this evening.'' The elder woman relapsed into her usual subdued self as her needle flashed in and out of the garments she was mending. Mrs. Cummings made all of the family's clothing as well as sewing for others, so that meant that leisure was practically unknown to her. This particular evening Nadine watched her with an interest that grew instead of diminished.

''My mother's life is all sacrifice,'' she said to herself, ''and every day she works so hard for the family.'' And as the girl reached for a pair of stockings from the overflowing basket she mentaly vowed to help her mother every moment that she could spare from her work and study.

Nadine was a very happy girl that first Thursday morning ''when she went back to school,'' as she said to her mother.

''It's perfect—perfect,'' declared the girl as she stood looking around. There was a table near the open window in her room, a box of pencils, and a pencil sharpener, the second-hand books, her recent purchase, and a dictionary. Then she went into the room softly and closed the door.

''I never was quite sure things would turn out this way,'' the girl was saying to herself as she opened the books to the places marked out by her tutor.

It was a week later on Thursday morning that Nadine ran downstairs in search of her mother.

''Have you seen my books?'' she called, coming into the room where the family were seated around the breakfast table.

''Your school books?'' queried mother.

''They were on my table with some catalogues,'' explained Nadine, ''and they're all gone.''

''There was a man here buying junk yesterday. We sold some rubbers. The man asked for papers and old books. I told Tim to go up to the attic and get the pile of papers there and some old catalogues. Did you go into Nadine's room?'' asked Mother. ''Why don't you speak up, Tim? Have you lost your tongue?''

''I sold—all them books,'' stammered the boy. ''I thought they were all catalogues.''

''All of the books on the table? Well, Tim, I never see the beat of you!'' exclaimed Mrs. Cummings.

''All sold to the junk man,'' moaned Nadine.

The girl dropped down on the cushions in the window seat with a weary sense of discouragement. It was no use to say, ''Don't worry about it, Tim. That's all right,'' for she would not mean it. At present she had an uncomfortably keen feeling that everything was all wrong. She went slowly back upstairs and stood on the threshold of her own room. ''And it was only a week ago this morning that I was so happy,'' she thought as she seated herself at the empty table, and laying her head upon it, cried bitterly.

''Crying won't do any good.'' It was Mother's voice. ''I can't always watch the children,'' she went on. ''And yesterday I was very busy with Mrs. Washburns' dress. I'm sorry,'' she concluded apologetically.

But the disappointment that had taken so much of the joy out of her life prevented Nadine from talking and she continued to sob.

''Well, have your cry out, maybe it will help you,'' said Mrs. Cummings on leaving the room.

''Mother wasn't very anxious for me to study this summer,'' thought Nadine, ''or she would have watched the children more closely. If she hadn't mentioned the old catalogues Tim wouldn't have come into my room.''

That night held little sleep or peace for Nadine. It was not easy to bring her mind into any but a resentful attitude. For a long while the girl tossed on her pillow. But as the night wore on, the freshness of the air, the quiet of the house and outdoors, rested and soothed her.

With the morning gentler thoughts came. As she went over the first years of her life she was forced to recall the homelike joys, the interest and constant care of her mother. Her mental accusation against the good woman now seemed very foolish, she would never have had the books sold purposely.

When Nadine came downstairs in the morning she observed that Mother was putting on her street dress.

''Would you mind placing the breakfast on the table when the children get up?'' she asked. ''I've got an errand over at Mrs. Washburn's.''

When Mother had gone the house seemed very quiet and lonely. But presently the children came trooping in to the morning meal and when breakfast was finished the dishes were to be washed. This done, Nadine looked at the cupboard and decided to put clean paper on the shelves. ''If I sit down,'' she said to herself, ''I'll probably cry, and I don't want the children to see me weepy and sniffy.'' So she resolutely kept on with her task.

The morning was slipping away. Almost ten o'clock and she listened to catch the first sound of Mother's footsteps. Presently she heard her enter the hall, but she did not go to meet her until Mother called in a queer, excited tone, ''Nadine.''

At the door of the living room the girl stood still. Mother was standing by the table with a queer expression on her face —a mingling of anxiety and delight. She was looking at a pile of books, well-bound and having the gloss which is so pleasing to book-lovers.

Mother looked up. ''I bought them at Martin's,'' she began. ''I went to your tutor and got the right names. I didn't want to make a mistake. Mrs. Washburn says she'll have enough sewing to keep me busy for several weeks yet, so I'll have the money to pay for them. I told Martin's how it was and they said they were glad to do me a favor—and it sure is the biggest kind of a favor to me.''

A flood of color surged over Nadine's face. ''Oh, Mother,'' she gasped.

''You can go right on with your lessons. And I'll see that Tim doesn't bother things in your room again.''

Nadine found speech at last as she put her arms around her mother's neck. ''There's just one mother in all the world,'' she cried. ''And you are that one. It didn't seem this morning as if there could be any way out of my trouble, for I couldn't earn enough money to pay for two sets of books and my tutor too. But now everything is smooth and straight."

Nadine went up to her room with the new books and was saying to herself, "I'll never again mentally accuse my mother of doing mean, hateful things."

The girl was truly glad that she had kept her thoughts to herself, for she knew that all the power and wealth of the world could not bring back the unkind word when spoken.—The Girl's Friend.

FRED'S BIG SISTER

"I don't go much on sisters," Rodney Black was heard to remark," but I could stand a dozen like Fred's. She's O. K. Fortunate boy, that Fred Wilkins."

"Same here," Tim Welsh added. "She's better posted on fish bait and baseball than Fred is himself, and as to cookies—oh, boy!"

Fred Wilkins' house was the most popular resort for the boys of the neighborhood, but Fred said good-naturedly, "I'm not chalking up any credit for myself for it; it's all Sue."

There never was a girl like her for making mouth-watering tarts and turnovers, doughnuts and cookies; and she knew enough of a boy's appetite to make them by the gross and the bushel instead of paltry dozens and pints. As to skill in bandaging and caring for torn and bruised fingers and toes, even the doctors, so the boys said, had taken a back seat for Sister Sue. Yet, after all, her crowning talent was the wonderful way she had of patching and darning a ragged tear in coats or trousers, so that even one's own mother couldn't discover it.

"Say, she's going to have a birthday next Wednesday," confided one of the boys to the others. "Let's do the handsome thing and get her a present. She's always loading us up with good things and doing things for us generally."

The group of boys hilariously agreed, and it was decided to ask Fred to learn from Sister Sue what she most desired as a gift. Fred agreed, and promised to report promptly. But two days passed, and Fred kept away from the other boys or gave unsatisfactory answers when approached. Finally the boys cornered him. "Well, you see," he said shamefacedly, "Sue ain't like other girls, always wanting things. It is was Bess, now, she'd tell a dozen different things she'd like in one breath."

"Well, it isn't Bess; it's Sue," cried Will Davis. "What does Sue want?"

Fred took a long breath. "Well, you see," he began again, "she couldn't know I was quizzing her for anybody but myself, and she said——well, I ain't going to tell you," he broke off impatiently. "It isn't any of your business, anyway."

The boys grew indignant. "Well," said a voice, "I guess it is our business. If you think it's going to cost too much, we're not a stingy lot. We're ready to do it up fine. Out with it, Fred."

Fred straightened up at that with a "do-or-die" expression on his face. "Maybe you'll wish I hadn't. It is something that'll cost like fun, but I said I'd report, and I'm a man of my word, so here goes. She just said, 'Frederick Jackson Wilkins, if you want to give me a birthday present that I'd like better than anything else, you take a sheet of blank paper and write on it an ironclad promise that you'll stop smoking cigarettes, and sign it.' And that's all I could get out of her."

Fred said afterwards, when he told Sue about it: "You could have sliced up the silence that fell over the bunch of boys with my jackknife." Every boy of them had known that Fred's sister Sue had no use for cigarettes, and they had always been careful to keep them out of her sight. It was Fred who finally spoke again, "Well, I didn't suppose you'd like it a bit better than I did, but you made me tell."

"Say, are you going to give Sue what she asked for?" spoke up a boy shyly.

Fred's face flushed, but his voice had a manly ring as he promptly answered: "You just better believe I am. She's too good a sister to disappoint."

"That's what I say," blurted out Tom Folk. "It would please her mightily to have all us boys do the same thing, too. Let's do it. All in favor say 'Aye.'"

"Aye," was the firm but quiet response from every boy.

* * *

"There's one of the boys wants to see you, Sue, out in the yard," said Fred Wilkins to his sister on the morning of her birthday. "He won't come in."

She smilingly accommodated herself to a boy's whim, and hurried out into the yard, where she found Rodney Black. He handed her an envelope, bulky and broad. "From us boys, just to start your birthday off cheerful," he told her.

Fred lingered around when Sue opened the envelope, and read the promises written in many boyish hands to stop smoking, and heard a fervent girlish, "Bless their hearts! How did they ever know I wanted them to do this very thing!"

She wouldn't have been a girl if she hadn't been wonderfully pleased at the mammoth box of bonbons that came later, labeled in boyish hands: "Bought with the money we didn't spend on cigs." But she always insisted that, delicious as it was, it wasn't to be mentioned in the same breath with the presents that came in the envelope.—Publisher Unknown.

GOD'S JOY

"Likewise, I say unto you, there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth."

—Luke 15:10.

These touching words unfold to us the deep joy of the Lord Himself in the matter of our salvation. This is not sufficiently seen or thought of. We are apt to forget that God has His own especial joy in receiving back to His bosom of love the poor wanderer—a joy so peculiar that He can say, "rejoice with Me," "Let us eat and be merry." He does not say, "Let him eat and be merry." This would never do. God has His own joy in redemption. This is the sweet lesson taught in Luke 15. The shepherd was glad to find his sheep. The woman was glad to fine her piece of silver. The father was glad to embrace his son. God is glad to get back the lost one. The tide of joy that rolls through the hosts above when a sinner returns finds its deep, exhaustless source in the eternal bosom of God.—Scripture Truth.

North Carolina Annual Conference Leadership Training School

High Point College June 25-30, 1934

1934 Goal—200 Students

HONOR ROLL OF THOSE PAYING APPORTIONMENT TO N. C. COUNCIL OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Sunday Schools

Randleman, Worthville.
Fountain Place.
Spring Church, Pleasant Hill.
Alamance, Center.
Glen Raven-Haw River, Haw River.
Albemarle.
Halifax, Bethesda.
Yarborough, Harmony.
Moriah.
Guilford, Mitchell's Grove.
Burlington, First.
Haw River, Mizpah.
Lexington, First.
Greensboro, West End.
Randeman, Mount Lebanon.
Spring Church, Spring Church.
Denton.
Randolph, Bethany.
Orange, Efland.
High Point, Lebanon.
Liberty.
Lexington, State Street.
Liberty, State Street.
Randolph, Bethel.
Graham.
Asheboro.

Christian Endeavor Societies

Denton.
High Point, Welch Memorial.
Forsyth, Maple Springs.
Roberta.
Thomasville, First.
High Point, Lebanon.
North Davidson, Mt. Pleasant.

J. CLYDE AUMAN, Treas.

◆

THINGS TO REMEMBER IN REGARD TO THE HIGH POINT COLLEGE LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOL

1. The date, June 25-30.
2. Registration begins Monday, June 25 at 2 p. m.
3. The price for regular students is $5.50 and for day students $1.50.
4. Students should bring towels, bed linen, pillow and other furnishings.
5. The Conference Council of Religious Education will hold its annual meeting Tues day afternoon, June 26 at 2 o'cock.
6. The Young People's banquet will be held Friday evening, June 29 at 6:30 o'clock.
7. Every young person, Sunday school officer and teacher, auxiilary officer and member should be making plans to attend this school or to help send someone to it.
8. Pastors should be using these last few days to get together a large group from their church and charges to attend this school.

Important Notice

There are certain local conditions which will not permit full attendance to the District school on Anderson charge, July 2-7. That school will be held at a later date.

T. J. WHITEHEAD.

YADKIN COLLEGE

It was my exalted privilege, as a sort of adopted son of Yadkin College, to attend the home-coming June 7th, and be one of the boys just for the day, thanks to considerate friends who had invited me.

While I could claim sonship only by adoption, I did feel a sort of kinship, not by blood or marriage, by association, I suppose it was. It was not a mere make-believe, or play-like; it was genuine—that is, the feeling was. It was a fore-and-after kinship. I went to school to Professor Holmes before he taught at Yadkin and to Professor Simpson after he had taught there. Then there were Curry and Taylor, two of the boys I always feel very much at home with. And, true to themselves, they were very active: they just can't be still when something good is going on. They just have to be in the midst, helping it to go on.

Then again there were members of the devout group I worship with monthly in our church in the village.

The entire program was illuminating as to the far reach and wide extent of the influence of the teaching done there through a period of three-quarters of a century. Those who taught there, most of them gone to their reward, others retired, are still active in the lives of their pupils.

The fellowship was fine, the dinner great.

T. M. JOHNSON.

FOURTH ANNUAL MEETNG OF SALEM MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION

Sunday, June 10, 1934

10:30 a. m.—Song service, P. E. Smith, director; Devotional, Carl Durham; Special music, Thomasvile Choir; Report of Treasurer; Offering; Obituaries; Special music, Thomasville Choir; Sermon, Rev. W. M. Loy; Special music; Announcements; Benediction.

PICNIC DINNER

1:30 p. m.—Song service; Prayer; Business meeting; Minutes by Secretary; Motions and Resolutions; Report of Committees; Special music, Thomasville Choir; Address Honorable J. Dolph Long; Song; Benediction.

◆

PASTOR'S SUMMER CONFERENCE

The Pastor's Summer Conference will begin on Tuesday, July 26, and run three days concurrently with the Summer Extension school. (See schedule for school.) The class lectures will constitute the lectures for the conference. A business session will be held in the College auditorium on Tuesday at 1:30. Registration fee will be seventy-five cents. Room and board may be secured at the college. It is hoped that every pastor will attend.

T. GLENN MADISON, President.

◆

—Mrs. E. T. Coble, a member of Tabernacle church and chairman of the fifth district, Women's Work is a patient in the Wesley Long hospital.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

New Hope S. S., Mecklenburg	$ 1.00
Fairfield S. S., Guilford	2.00
Midway S. S., Haw River	2.12
China Grove S. S.	1.00
Concord S. S., Saxapahaw	1.30
Mt. Pleasant S. S., Mt. Pleasant	6.75
Glen Raven S. S.	4.38
Grace Church S. S.	7.60
N. C. Branch, Woman's Auxiliary	66.95
C. E. Society, Lexington, by Mr. E. M. Hamilton	2.50
Efland S. S., Orange	2.26
Mt. Zion S. S., Randolph	1.00
First Church S. S., Lexington	7.05
State Street S. S.	4.30
Friendship S. S., Mt. Hermon, May and June	10.00
Center, Alamance	3.33
Kannapolis S. S.	5.00
Sapling Ridge, Alamance	2.74
Worthville S. S., Randleman	6.24
Stony Knoll, W. Forsyth	2.00
Friendship Station	5.80
Reidsville S. S.	19.00
New Hope, Vance	2.00
Siler City S. S.	4.03
Bethel S. S., Flat Rock	2.18
Kernersville S. S., Kernersville	3.72
Concord S. S.	20.00
Whitaker's Chapel, Enfield	2.32
Mt. Pleasant S. S., N. Davidson	3.60
Philathea Class, Gibsonville, feeding child	10.00
Fountain Place S. S.	4.87
A Friend, Illinois	2.00
Hickory Grove S. S., Guilford	1.53
Pleasant Grove S. S.	6.86
Welch Memoria S. S.	6.53
Baraca Class, Gibsonville, May and June, clothing child	10.70
A Friend, in memory of Mrs. J. M. Cheek, Chapel Hill, N. C.	10.00
Pleasant Hill S. S., Spring Church	1.33
Mt. Lebanon S. S., Randleman	4.40
Brown Summit S. S., Haw River	1.00
Matthews Chapel S. S., Greensville	1.77

Clothing and Other Gifts

St. Paul M. P. Church, White Plains, N. Y., one box of new clothing.

Mr. E. L. Bennett, High Point, one woodsaw.

We greatly appreciate al these gifts.

For the Summer

Please stand by us bravely and liberally for the summer. It is the summer months with their decreased offerings that put us farther behind. Gifts of money, food, clothing, grain will all help.

Faithfully yours,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

◆

—In the death of A. R. Hammer of High Point, the city of High Point lost its last Confederate veteran. Mr. Hammer was the father of the former Juanita Hammer, now Mrs. Neil Parker of West Palm Beach, Fla., who was secretary of our Conference Young People's Work several years ago.

—It's not the way the wind blows, but the way you set your sails, which will determine the direction you go or the port you reach.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Lincolnton.—It has been some time since a report has appeared from Lincolnton. We hope this has not caused any to think we are suffering from what is termed a summer slump. We are moving forward in a fine way, considering all the disturbing conditions of these very strange times.

We have just passed through a very interesting revival, with some of the finest, plainest, pure Gospel preaching the writer has ever had the privilege of enjoying, brought to us by one of our most able, interesting and practical preachers, Dr. George R. Brown, of Reidsville, and we know of many of God's people here who were deeply blessed by the Gospel messages brought to us by this Godly man. May God continue to bless and wonderfully use Dr. Brown in Kingdom work.

Our Sunday school is the best in the history of the church, having an average attendance of about 165 and an average offering running above $20.00. A very fine spirit is displayed by officers and scholars. We desire to always keep our motto before us: "Onward and Upward."

Our good pastor and wife, Brother and Mrs. Cranford, are performing their duties faithfully and well, and we know our God will surely bless the faithful. We praise His name for the victories and successes of the past and for the wonderful hope and assurance of the future.

We desire the prayers of the faithful that we may continue loyal to our Savior and to our own church. E. E. EUREY.

* * *

Flat Rock Charge.—We had splendid attendance and interest in our services at Gideon's Grove and Flat Rock churches last Sunday. A number of visitors were present at each church. After the service at Gideon's Grove church the pastor and family went to the home of Mrs. Nonie Albert, where a birthday dinner in honor of her mother, Mrs. Susan Lemmons, was enjoyed. There were about 150 relatives, neighbors and friends present for the occasion. It was the celebration of the 78th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Lemmons, who is apparently in good health. All except one of the 11 children of Mrs. Lemmons were present for the dinner.

We were pleased with the presence of Rev. D. I. Garner, pastor of St. Paul Methodist Protestant church, Greensboro, at Flat Rock church Sunday afternoon. He was persuaded to preach and delivered a splendid sermon based on the 137th Psalm, the theme of which was, "Five Experiences of God's People." Mrs. Garner and their son, Albert, accompanied Bro. Garner. The vote for delegate was taken at Flat Rock last Sunday.

We note with regret the serious illness of Mrs. Laura Angel, a member of Gideon's Grove church, who has been in the Twin-City Memorial Hospital at Winston-Salem for two weeks. An operation was performed soon after she entered the hospital, and she has been in a critical condition. She is a sister of Mrs. James Wilson and the mother of Bro. Coy Angel, besides being a relative of many other members of Gideon's Grove church. Other members reported sick include Mrs. J. J. White and Mrs. Scarlett.

The pastor and family have been remembered during recent weeks with a number of gifts for our dining table. We thank the following for appreciated gifts: Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Combs, Mrs. Albert Anthony, and Miss Cora Lee Dwiggins, of Bethel church; Mrs. T. F. Humphreys, of Bethany church; Mrs. John Wray, Mrs. Bryan Wilson, Mrs. Sam Friddle, of Flat Rock church; J. W. Angel, Mrs. James Albert and Mrs. R. S. Lemmons, of Gideon's Grove church; Mrs. Alfred Pegram, a neighbor. C. B. Way, Jr., appreciated very much the gift of a nice poundcake from Mrs. J. A. Eller, a neighbor.

The Children's program which was rendered at Gideon's Grove church last Sunday was well attended. The church was completely filled and many were compelled to remain on the outside during the program. The children did remarkably well in rendering their parts in the service. The program, "World Children," provided by our Board of Missions, was used, and an offering was taken for the mission work of our denomination.

The Sunday school of Palestine church is planning to have their Children's Day service next Sunday, either at the morning hour, or in the evening at 8 o'clock.

Our revival meeting will begin at Flat Rock church the fourth Sunday in this month. Rev. Wayne Curtis, of Burlington, will assist the pastor in the services. Bro. Curtis has the distinction of being both a preacher and a singer, and we shall expect him to do some of both. We are looking forward to the meeting with much interest and anticipation.

Our appointments for next Sunday will be at Palestine at 11 a. m., and at Bethel at 3 p. m. The vote for delegate will be taken at Palestine.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

* * *

English Street.—At our morning service the past Sunday, instead of the usual preaching, a testimonial service was held. At the close of the service, silent prayer was held for the family of Rev. Mr. Moser and for his church. Mr. Moser, pastor of one of the M. E. churches of the city, was killed in an accident Saturday.

Since our last report we have received two new members into the church, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott. We are very fortunate in receiving these two, as both are talented in music.

Plans are being made to sell our church to pay off a debt that has been owing for a number of years. A committee has been appointed to see about purchasing a lot on which to build a new church or tabernacle. It has not been decided which shall be built.

The Senior C. E. Society held its monthly business meeting last Friday evening at the home of the Moore sisters. There was an unusually good attendance. At this time four new members were added to the roll. Officers were elected as follows: President, Charles Loflin; vice-president, H. T. Troxler; secretary, Carrie Moore; treasurer, Era Moore; corresponding secretary, Tressie Caudle. Also, several committees were appointed. On Sunday evening at the usual C. E. meeting an installation service was held, which was in the form of a candle service. The old officers told of their work in the past year, and the new ones told of their plans for the coming year. The service was very effective and impressive.

We are very sorry to report that two of our members are ill, Mrs. H. T. Troxler and Mrs. Ward. Both are regular attendants and their presence is greatly missed. We wish for both a speedy recovery.

REPORTER.

* * *

Graham.—Brother F. C. Clapp had charge of the music for the evening service last Sunday evening and gave a program that was appreciated by all. He will have charge of the music each first Sunday evening. The plan is to have some one to have charge each Sunday evening.

The effort to raise our apportionment to the College is being pushed by the Board of Stewards. They are asking that the nickel chains be returned next Sunday morning.

Preparations are being pushed for Children's Day Sunday morning at the regular worship at 11 a. m. Mrs. C. A. Cates and Miss Dona Parks have the preparation of this program in charge.

At this writing Brother Tommie Ezell is seriously ill and not expected to live.

In my absence, the fourth Sunday in last month, my congregations had the pleasure of having Rev. W. M. Loy, pastor of the Saxapahaw charge, preach for them. While the attendance was small that day, yet those who were there spoke very appreciatively of Bro. Loy's message.

The treasurer of the church, Miss Gladys Amick, is visiting her sister in Washington, D. C. J. CLYDE AUMAN, Pastor.

* * *

Bethesda-State Street, State Street Charge. Our special meeting at State Street, in progress this week, was off to a good start Sunday night. Special effort will be made at the afternoon services to help the young life of the church. Rev. C. E. Ridge is doing the preaching.

The Christian Endeavor Society of this church gave a beautiful and impressive playlet recently as part of the Sunday night services. The C. E. of Bethesda church has a somewhat similar playlet in course of preparation to be given in the near future. Both these societies are providing for the social as well as the spiritual needs of the young people.

The Bethesda Auxiliary recently ordered a batch of 14 copies of the Herald to be sent to the president for three months to be distributed at the church to persons who had given their names. Some of the honorary members were active in procuring the names, hence the women do not claim all the credit. The Auxiliary of State Street has a list for a batch to be sent this week, and some additional subscribers.

The Bethesda Auxiliary staged a tacky party last Saturday night, netting a little more than $26.00 besides lots of fun. The State Street Auxiliary, including honorary members, serves a chicken-pie supper once a month in the basement of the church, netting $34.00 to $40.00 a supper. The Circles of the State Street Auxiliary have found that the people on the streets of Lexington would as soon eat ice cream from a church freezer. All of which affords employment for members and friends of the church.

The Bethesda Sunday school attendance, by intense activities of the classes, is steadily rising until it has almost reached the 200-mark; this in a church of only a little more than 200 members.

Reviewing our financial progress up to the time of the mid-year meeting, May 22nd, I find that Bethesda Auxiliary has paid 64 per cent of her apportionment. Bethesda church had paid 58 per cent of Annual Conference claims and 47 per cent of World Service, figured, as suggested by President Andrews, 25 per cent more than the amount paid last year; 14 per cent of pastor's salary had been paid. More has been paid since.

State Street at the time of the mid-year meeting at haid: Auxiiary, 52 percent; Annual Colference claims, 51 per cent; World Service, 77 per cent; pastor's calary, 38 per cent.

The charge as a whole has paid all of college maintenance and Church Extension, and part of Annual Conference expense and Young People's Work.

As a considerable per cent of the amounts was turned in at the meeting, it was too late to be included in President Andrews' statement or in the treasurer's statement recently published in the Herald.

T. M. JOHNSON.

◆

Stallings, Mecklenburg Charge.—Bro. Henderson preached a very helpful and inspiring sermon Sunday morning. We had real good attendance at Sunday school and preaching services. Our Sunday school is growing in attendance and interest.

The Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. Everett Furr the first Thursday of this month at 2:30 p. m. Mr. Henderson had charge of the devotionals and also made an inspiring talk. Seven members were present and our collection was $1.30. Mrs. Furr served delicious refreshments. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. P. D. Drye.

Mrs. M. C. Henderson and two children, Billy and Ruth, are visiting Mrs. Henderson's mother, Mrs. Love, of Roberta.

Mr. M. L. Stallings is improving rapidly.

Herald readers, pray for us.

MRS. M. L. STALLINGS.

◆

First Church, Concord.—We were very glad to have one of our own boys preach for us on Mother's Day, Rev. D. D. Nash. We call Bro. Nash our boy at this home place, and the church he attended when he was a boy. I suppose he remembers hearing his father preach some time from our pulpit. Bro. Nash used for his subject, "Jesus Never Fails." The service was very helpful and touching. At the close of the sermon Mr. Nash made an appeal to the people to give their hearts and lives to Jesus Christ. Our hearts were made glad when we saw several young men go forward with tears in their eyes and show by their act that they were tired of sin and wanted to come back into the service of Jesus, the one that never fails. About eight people responded to the invitation. We are always glad to have Mr. Nash preach for us. He is always ready to do all he can in the service of the King, helping with the singing, as he has a splendid voice, and in all departments of the church. We miss his daughter, Mary Lillie, since she married and left our city, but we know she is a great help to the church in Hopewell, Va., where she now lives.

We have a bunch of wide-awake women in our church and they all co-operate in Ladies' Aid and Missionary work. Our Sunday school is doing fine, too, but not as well as it ought to know each other better if we are to be one big family of sisters and brothers. So far we have been keeping up better with our church budget and we hope by the end of our Conference year to be paid up with everything.

Our hearts were made sad when death entered the home of one of our members, this time claiming Mr. S. H. Teeter, one of our charter members. Mr. Teeter had been sick for several months and suffered much. The many friends that came to pay their last tribute of respect, and the many beautiful flowers gave evidence of Bro. Teeter's life, and the love his friends had for him. Funeral services were conducted from our church and were in charge of Revs. J. M. Morgan, G. H. Hendry, and D. D. Nash. Our hearts go out in sympathy to the bereaved family. BERTHA EARNHARDT.

◆

Calvary.—Calvary Church is enjoying a gracious revival this week. The meeting started on Wednesday evening of last week with Rev. Roy I. Farmer, of High Point, doing the preaching and Rev. John Permar, of Graham, directing the music. Brother Farmer has done fine preaching and the people are greatly delighted with his work. Brother Permar has done his work well also and the people are greatly pleased. The attendance at the meetings has been very good indeed, several having been heard to remark that the attendance at the services on last Sunday night was the largest they ever saw at a revival at Calvary. Quite a good many have made decisions for Christ and quite a large number have signified their desire to be more useful. In order to know more completely what has been done cards are passed just before the close of the services on which there is room to record one of four decisions. The people also sign their names and give street address. This gives us a complete record.

Sunday school attendance went the highest last Sunday that it has gone this year except on the Anniversary Sunday when a new high mark was reached. Last Sunday it was 233 as compared to 211 the previous Sunday.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

◆

—Rehoboth, Granville Circuit.—It has been quite a while since I have felt like writing any news from Rehoboth, but not because I didn't have anything to report.

Brother Spencer has been bringing us some splendid messages each church day. We are having spplendid attendance at both church and Sunday school.

We are planning a county-wide Sunday school convention to be held at Rehoboth sometime in June. We hope for a good attendance as these meetings are very helpful and inspiring. The revival will be held the first Sunday in July unless a change is made on account of Summer Conference.

We had our Children's Day exercises the first Sunday in June. I think it was one of the best we have ever had. The children were trained by Miss Lucy Rogers, Miss Sue Harris and Mrs. William Floyd. They certainly did their work well and deserve a lot of credit, for it is no easy job to get up such a good program as they did in such a short time.

We are having lots of rain now; for three weeks not a plow has been used in the fields and the grass has almost covered everything. The farmers are getting very much discouraged, but we must have faith and remember God's promise that "Seed time and harvest will never fail."

REPORTER.

◆

Baltimore.—We had a large crowd at Sunday school today. There were 119 present. Our attendance is increasing rapidly. Mr. Williams, our pastor, filled his regular appointment last Sunday and preached an excellent sermon. At night the children rendered their program, "The World Children." After this program an offering was taken for mission work. Then the pastor, Rev. D. R. Williams, made a brief talk.

The ladies' District meeting will be held the fifth Sunday in July, and the special meeting will begin the same day. We are glad to know that Rev. C. B. Way will help in the meeting. We feel we should all put forth an effort to aid and take a part in the meeting.

LILLIE SPEER, Reporter.

◆

Pleasant Hill.—On Sunday night, June 10, at 8 p. m., a splendid chidren's and young people's program was rendered to a large and attentive audience. The program was prepared by Misses Aubrey and Ollie Crew and they deserve much credit for their untiring efforts in making the service a success. The offering was $5.00.

The pastor called attention last night to the revival which is to begin next Sunday night with Dr. L. W. Gerringer, of Henderson, as the visiting minister. Dr. Gerringer is expected to arrive in time for the first service. Everyone is cordially invited to attend these services.

A live Christian Endeavor Society holds its meeting every Friday evening at 8 o'clock. We feel that this is one means of training the young people and children for better Christian service. Recently the society purchased three pot-flowers and sent them to four shut-ins. This is one way of letting their light shine.

MRS. Wm. H. NEESE.

◆

Community.—Beginning with May 23 and continuing through June 3, evangelistic services were held at Community Church. In spite of the fact that during the first week, showers intervened incessantly, we are happy to say that we still had very good attendance. Dr. J. D. Williams, of High Point, was speaker and brought very interesting sermons throughout the meeting when ten persons' lives were reconsecrated.

We are glad to welcome into our church Miss Frances Hodge, who became a member on Sunday morning, May 26, Miss Bessie Berrier and Mrs. Lena Mae Green, who moved her membership from Piney Woods M. E. Church, Thomasville. The two latter ones united with the church on last Sunday morning, June 10.

The various circles of the Woman's Auxiliary will hold their regular monthly meeting this week. Circe No. 1 meets at the home of Mrs. Marlette. Circle No. 2 meets with Mrs. H. F. Surratt at 2:30 Monday afternoon.

The Young Ladies' Circle meets at the home of Miss Pride Everhart on Monday evening at 7:30. The Teen-age Circle will meet at the home of Miss Dot Perry on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Layman's Fellowship held its regular monthly meeting at the church on Wednesday evening of last week. Circle No. 2 served a very delightful meal at 6:30, after which time a short program of speeches by J. W. Boyles, C. L. Berrier and Frank Gardner was given.

At the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning, June 3, which was Chidren's Day, the children of the church, under the direction of Mrs. John Perry and Miss Edith Myers, gave a very interesting pageant entitled "World's Children." The children also sang several appropriate songs, with Miss Dot Perry singing the incidental solo. A total of $21.67 was raised by various departments, which will apply on World Service Budget.

◆

Spring Church Charge.—One Children's Day program has already been given and preparations are being made for the other two. A committee was appointed at Spring Church Sunday to prepare theirs. The committee is composed of Misses Catherine Crew, Virginia Massey and Ine Massey. We believe in giving our young people a responsible place in the church. We are very glad to welcome the following young people home from college for the summer: Misses Catherine Crew, from W. C. U. N. C.; Virginia Massey and Virginia Grant and Mr. James Massey from High Point College.

The following young people graduated from high school this year: Misses Elizabeth Massey, Erlene Barnes and Sara Marie Neese, from Seaboard; Messrs. Lunsford Crew and Edison Burnette, from Roanoke Rapids, and Misses Louise Hubbard, Verlie Woodruff and Mr. Pressley Woodruff, from Gaston. We are proud of these young people and expect them all to make good.

The good people of the charge are still remembering us with good things to eat, for which we are very thankful. Several of our number are sick and for each of these we crave your prayers. They are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Magee, Mrs. Ed Webb, Mrs. Rose Crew, Mrs. J. A. Shaw, Mr. J. H. Camp and Miss Sarah Hodge. Please remember them when you pray.

◆

Mount Pleasant, North Davidson.—The last fourth Sunday was Memorial Day at this church. The day was a great one for those present. At the morning service Rev. J. A. Palmer, from Thomasville, preached an inspiring sermon. Special music was rendered at this hour by the Hedgecock Sisters. At 2 o'clock the people assembled at the cemetery for a few songs, sung by the Davis quartet, and prayer. They assembled again at the church and Rev. Glenn Madison, also from Thomasville, delivered a wonderful address for the occasion. The music was given by the B and C Chorus. After the address the Memorial Association held its business meeting. We had visitors from different places and we were very glad indeed to have them worship with us.

Last Sunday Bro. Grant preached to the children. They did the singing for the service. The young people have a very important part in the world today. Some people think the young people are going backwards, but they are not. The y need more Christian education. Honesty also must be in the life of a child because honesty is the key to success. In the afternoon an interesting Children's Day program was given.

Our revival meeting will begin the second Sunday in July and we are praying for a great meeting.

The Christian Endeavor has increased in number, and we hope to still take in new members. The society sent its assessment to the Council of Christian Education.

The Woman's Auxiliary is sponsoring a lawn party on the church lawn Saturday night before the fourth Sunday, June 23. The public is cordially invited to attend.

◆

Rehoboth, Creswell Circuit.—I am glad to say the cold, stormy weather has passed and that we have at last some balmy June days.. Brother Bingham filled his regular appointment at Rehoboth Sunday, the attendance was small but the sermon was excellent.

Brother Bingham went to Creswell for dinner. Mrs. Bingham was not so well and did not attend the meorning services. They were supper guests of Brother C. V. White's family; he is getting acquainted with the people and they all like him.

The third quarterly conference will meet at Rehoboth, the time to be announced later. Arrangements are being made for visitors from up-state to this section. They will be entertained in this neighborhood on Monday night, July 16, with an all day service at Rehoboth and Tuesday with a dinner on the grounds. How I wish some of the old-time ministers could be with us. I mean those who once served this section and visited here on different occasions. We are hoping and praying for a good time, temporally and spiritually. REPORTER.

◆

Thomasville, First.—Last Sunday was a good day for us. We were honored with a visit from two of our superannuate preachers, each bringing an inspiring message. Rev. T. F. McCulloch preached the morning service and Rev. W. F. Ashburn concluded the superannuate day with a message that was good for everyone present. Many commented that they may be superannuates but they ore not yet superannuated on their preaching. We were so glad to have these men of God with us and hope they can return.

Our Bible school has been in progress over a week. We were very fortunate to secure again as our teachers Miss Anna Belle and Laua Thompson, of High Point, and Miss Margaret Thompson, of this city. We owe these talented girls a debt of gratitude for their excellent services rendered during these two weks. Miss Nll Reece Jarrett and Rev. Mr. Madison are also assisting in the school.

Next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock the Children's Day program will be rendered by the children of the Bible School. Please note the change of the hour. Christian Endeavor has also been changed to 7:15.

The Woman's Auxiliary held its regular meeting last Thursday evening at the church with Mrs. W. G. Myers as devotional leader. The service was opened by singing softly, "Jesus Calls Us;" call to worship, Luke 5:4-5, by prayer by Mrs. John C. Lloyd; theme: "The Deep of Influence." First Scripture lesson, John 1:35-47. Mrs. Myers asked the question, "What was it that made men forsake all and follow Christ?" She gave the influence of Christ, the influence of people.

Second Scripture lesson, Matt. 5:14-16. She closed the devotional period, "Have I been an influence for good in my home, school, office and church?"

Mrs. Myrtle Barber as program leader took charge asking Mrs. J. W. Baity to read, "Native Christian Leaders in Japan," "Are Missionaries Still Needed in Japan?" by Mrs. Lillie Everhart. The question box was conducted by Mrs. Jason Hedrick. The roll was called with 16 members and three visitors present. Reports were heard from different circles. The treasurer made a very good report.

A rfrigerator was purchased and placed in the parsonage the past week. A committee was appointed to buy new curtains for both the junior and senior choir.

Resolutions of respect were read for one of our oldest deceased members of the auxiliary, "Grandma" Loftin.

Mrs. Jason Hedrick gave each member a small apron at the May meeting, asking them to pay one penny for each inch around the waist. She received $6.11.

After a very pleasant social hour during which the social committee served ice cream sandwiches, the meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. A. H. Ragan in July.

The Minnis Circle will meet tonight (Monday) at the home of Misses Nel Reece and Virginia Jarrett.

The Men's Fellowship will meet Tuesday night of this week. A very interesting program is being prepared.

We are very proud of our junior quartette composed of Knox and Marx Teague, Arlie Hill and Buck Jarrett. They sang for us on last Sunday night.

◆

Shiloh.—A very interesting Children's Day program was presented on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock by the Primary department. The program was very interesting and it proved to the older people what training a chid while young was doing for our church. As we looked at those small children as they faced a large audience and recited their parts in the program without being stage-frightened, we could see where each effort which had been put forth to make this training possible was not at all a failure. Those children are being trained each Sunday morning in their Sunday school open, which is held upstairs under the supervision of their superintendent, Miss Emma Berrier, helped by Miss Alma Koonts. After the opening exercise the teachers take charge of the three classes.

The regular monthy prayer meeting will be held next fourth Sunday by the Young Girls' Sunshine Band class. The teacher, Miss Mabel Berrier, and the assistant teacher, Miss Blanche Sink, will have charge of getting up the program. We are sure this will be an interesting program.

We, as members of Shiloh, are very proud of our people. A short while after our pastor, Mr. Ridge, came to this work he placed a cardboard on the wall in the front of our church auditorium. This board contained Shiloh's apportionment for the year. The board now reads as follows: "Pastor's salary, paid to date; World Service, paid in full by the Young Men's Wide-Awake Class; College, paid up to date by Sunshine Band Class; A. C. Expense, paid in full by Brother Hood's Class; A. C. debt, paid to date by Missionary Circles 1 and 3; Church Extension, paid in full by Mothers' Class No. 2; Herald subsidy, paid in full by Missionary Circle No. 2; Herald quota, 100 per cent."

We are proud of our folks and our prayer is that we may do more for the Master in the future than we have in the past.

MRS. RAYMOND FRITTS, Reporter.

◆

Graham.—Our Children's Day service was held Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The attendance and offering was very good. We are planning to honor our fathers next Sunday at the morning service.

Much attention is being given now to our evening services. Special musical numbers are prepared for each Sunday night service. On the fourth Sunday night we are very proud to announce that the sermon will be preached by Junius Neese, young ministerial student of our church.

Dr. Willard C. Goley spoke to the Senior Christian Endeavor Sunday evening on, "The Care of the Body."

We are using the nickel chain plan to raise our apportionment for High Point College. Thirty-one dollars was realied from those chains turned in last Sunday. This plan is under the direction of Mr. P. B. Core.

The L. T. S. club will give a supper at the hut next Saturday evening, June 16, from 6 to 8 p. m. The club will have at least eight members at the High Point Leadership Training school.

Our Herald subsidy has not yet been raised but it will be within the nert two weeks.

We are saddened by the death of one of our members, Thomas Ezzelle, who died at his home in Graham June 8. Funeral services were conducted at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon by our pastor, assisted by Revs. J. M. Permar and Coon Link. Interment was in Linwood cemetery.

Mr. Ezzelle is survived by his wife and one brother, Charlie Ezzelle, of Graham.

Dr. W. R. Goley has been absent from our service recently. We are hoping that he may be able to worship with us again soon.

REPORTER.

◆

Spring Church Circuit Auxiliary.—On Wednesdey, June 6 at 2:30 p. m. our Circuit Auxiliary met in the home of Mrs. L. P. Woodroof with the largest number present that we have had at any meeting. There were 16 active members, one honorary member. and four precious jewels present besides a number of visitors. When the final count was made it was found that we had 46 men, women, young people and children present.

We were glad at this time to receive four new active members and two honorary members. The active members are Miss Lucile Kee, Mesdames Clyde Woodroof, P. L. Thompson, and Tom Barnes; the honorary members are Mr. J. C. Cood and Mr. Tom Barnes. I think the women should feel very much encouraged when farmers stop their work in this busy time and go with their "women folks" to a Missionary meeting. We wish some more of our men would become interested to that extent. It seemed there was a note of optimism felt all through the meeting.

The society was glad to have Mrs. Leon Tucker and small daughter, little Trilby Alice of Murfreesboro to attend the meeting. Mrs. Tucker still retains her membership with us although she is too far away to attend often.

During the business hour it was decided to try out some new plans for raising some much needed money. The plans are as follows: Buy and patch a pair of overalls, letting each patcher place his contribution of money under the patch; another plan was to have cards printed and sent out soliciting money for painting the parsonage and the third and last plan was to have a measuring party and an old-fashioned spelling bee sometime during the month of July. The Auxiliary voted to pay $5.00 on the pastor's expense to the Pastors' Summer school.

The cement has been bought and the sand has been hauled for the new steps at the parsonage. So we are hopeing to soon have the steps built. The meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. John Holt and Mrs. Leon Glover as joint hostesses on July 11.

Mrs. Woodroof served delicious lemonado and cake to all present.

MRS. Wm. H. NEESE.

◆

FACTS ABOUT HIGH POINT COLLEGE

Rating:

Four-year, standard A-grade. Credits accepted by graduate school.

Courses of Instruction:

Engish, History, Mathematisc, Modern and Ancient Language, Education and Psychology, Home Economics, Chemistry, Biology, Chemical Engineering, Music, Art, Dramatics, and Business Administration. These courses lead to A. B. or B. S. degree.

One year business course to train for bookkeeping and stenographic work.

A two-year business course is offered designed to prepare the student for an immediate position in the business world, which should be a stepping-stone to rapid promotion.

Buildings and Equipment:

There are six buildings on a 52-acre campus, all of them red brick, except the store, and are fire-proof and modernly equipped.

McCulloch Hall—The men's dormitory is built in sections two stories high. There eight bed and two bathrooms to the section. In each room is a closet and adequate furnishings, light and ventiation for two occupants. In the center is a club room for social purposes.

Woman's Hall—The woman's dormitory, also two stories in height, is constructed with long corridors from end to end, with rooms on either side in suite of two rooms each with connecting bath. Each room has a closet and running hot and cold water. Furnished for two occupants. Club room on each floor.

Roberts Hall—The Administration building houses the offices, class rooms, laboratories, auditorium, kitchen and tining room.

Harrison Gymnasium—In addition to a large playing court and space for a thousand spectators, the gymnasium houses the sleeping quarters for visiting teams, three large dressing rooms, store room for athletic equipment and offices for the coaches.

"The Store"—A one-story building with commodious basement provides spaces for a canteen and book store, supply room and workmen's shop.

Heating Plant—A central heating plant supplies heat and hot water for all of the buildings.

Boylan Terrace is a four-acre athletic field used by the out-of-doors athletic teams for practice purposes.

A new athletic field, covering ten acres, and including baseball, football playing and practice field, quarter-mile track and space for field events is now under construction.

Extra-Curricula Activities:

Literary Societis: two for men and two for women.

Greek Letter Clubs: three for men and three for women.

Publication: The Hi-Po, a weekly, and the Zenith, an annual.

Athletics: baseball, basketball, soccer, wrestling, tennis and physical education.

Religious Organizations: Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

Music: A Capella Choir, Glee Club, Orchestra and Band.

Forensic: Debating and oratorical.

Dramatic and other departmental clubs.

The Rates, per year:

Day Student, $150.00.

Boarding Student, $380.00.

A student activities fee of $15 is charged all students. This is disbursed immediately to the student organization intended and is not considered an "office" charge.

All bills are due and payable by the quarter, except student activities fee, which is paid by the semester.

Requirements for Entrance:

1. Fifteen units from an accredited high school, entrance examination from non-accredited school.
2. Applicant: Of college caliber, good moral character, and principal's recommendation.
3. Sufficient funds in hand to meet first quarter's bills.

The Calendar for 1934-35:

September 11, 1934—First Semester: registration for freshmen.

September 12, 1934—First Semester: registration for upper classmen.

January 25, 1035—Second Semester: registration for all classes.

High Point College Characteristics:

A school of religiou ideals and influence, with a home atmosphere of culture and refinements. A spirit of determination, and faith that success comes to those who seek it.

◆

—Rev. W. F. McDowell of Asheboro, a Supernumerary minister on Richland circuit preached the sermon in the Memorial Day services at Center Methodist Protestant church, Alamance charge, last Sunday. Bro. McDowel was in the active work a good many years during which time he was pastor of a number of our churches, including the First Church of Burlington.

—Mrs. Kate Harris Kime writes from her home at Miami, Florida that she is interested in every name that appears in the Herald whether it is new or old. She is a daughter of the late Dr. C. F. Harris, one of the ablest of the ministers in our conference and former President of the Annual Conference many years ago. She is also a sister of Dr. Joy Harris Glascock of Greensboro.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Grubb

Mr. Henry Grubb was born November 14, 1850, and died May 26, 1934, aged 83 years, 6 months and 12 days. His first wife was Miss Barbara Cody, who died in 1910. To this union were born 12 children, three of whom died in infancy, and the oldest son died a few years ago.

In February, 1911, he married Mrs. Mattie Beau, who still survives. He is also survived by four sons, Charlie, Grady, Ernest and Bert Grubb; four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Meadows, Mrs. Will Bullard, Mrs. Ernest Floyd, and Mrs. Ivey Workman: thirty-one grandchildren, 22 great-grandchildren, and four brothers.

Twenty-three years ago, with three of his children, he was baptized and joined Liberty Baptist church. For some time he has lived in Denton. The funeral service was held at Denton M. P. church, May 28, conducted by J. T. Bowman, who was assisted by Rev. Mr. Pendry, Baptist minister. The body was laid to rest in Cedar Spring cemetery.

◆

Eller

On Wednesday, May 30th, 1934, the soul of Kate S. Eller took its flight from this world of sorrow and care, into the great beyond to be forever at rest with her Lord.

Sister Kate was only sick for one week; that is, she was confined to her room for only one week. She had not been well for a few days, but kept going until pneumonia developed and she was compelled to go to bed.

Sister Kate, as she was generally known, was born October 14th, 1865, and died May 30th, 1934, being 68 years, seven months and 16 days of age. She was a charter member of Clork's Chapel Methodist Protestant church, and was the last charter member, her register number on the church book being No. 1. She was one of the most faithful members that this church ever had, and always attended upon its service when it was at all possible, and just a couple of days before her passing she said this to the writer: "Preacher, I wanted to go to church so bad last Sunday and hear your message, but I was not able and could not go, that was all that kept me at home." She also gave me every assurance that she was ready to go and had no fear whatever, she really wanted to go, for she said her work here was done, and she felt that she deserved a rest, and she knew that she was going to that rest.

Sister Kate loved her family, her friends, her church, her pastor, but above all, and best of all, she loved her God, and she showed that love in her daily life. She was a friend to everyone and especially was that true where there was sickness or sorrow. Many spoke of her as being a friend that could be depended upon in the time of trouble, sickness, or sorrow. She was loved by all who knew her, and she numbered her friends by the scores, as was attested by the great throng that attended her funeral services and the great mound of beautiful flowers which were heaped upon her grave.

Her funeral was conducted on Thursday, May 31st, from Clark's Chapel church by the writer, assisted by Rev. J. S. Wiliams, of Asheville, an old friend of the family; also Rev. J. L. Love, of Connelly Springs charge, who was helping the writer in a meeting at Clark's Chapel at the time, and Rev. John Greene, pastor of Weaverville Circuit M. E. Church, South. Each of these brethren had a prayer in the service. Larger crowds and more flowers are seldom seen at a funeral service than were seen at Sister Kate's funeral.

Sister Kate will be sorely missed in the community, in the church she loved so well, but most of all in the home. She leaves one son, Carl Eller, and one brother, L. F. Eller, and a great number of other relatives who will sorely miss her and who mourn her going.

The writer counted it a great priviege and a great pleasure to visit in the home, and Sister Kate was always glad to see him and welcomed him and made him feel at home, as she did all guests.

We extend to the bereaved ones our heartfelt sympathy in this trying hour of sorrow, and pray God's richest blessings upon them.

E. G. COWAN.

◆

Ward

J. D. Franklin Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ward, was born February 2, 1933, and died May 3, 1934. Age 1 year, 3 months and 1 day.

He leaves to mourn his going, his father, mother, two sisters, Amaryllis June and Peggy Jane Ward; the following grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ward, of near Denton, and R. F. Jordan, of Thomasville.

Little J. D. will be greatly missed in the home and by all who knew him. His sweet disposition and sunny smile caused him to be the pet of all who knew him

"Why do we mourn, dear father, mother,
Or shake at death's alarms?
'Tis but the voice that Jesus sends
To call him to His arms."

◆

Tribute of Respect

We, the members of the Men's Bible Class of Mount Pleasant Methodist church, Kimesville, N. C., wish to offer this tribute of love and respect for Brother S. M. Kellum, whose sudden and untimely death has removed him from our number. We bow in sorrow, but our loss is his eternal gain. We not only grieve at the loss of Brother Kellam, but also at the loss of his noble wife, Sister Kellam, who was killed in the same auto accident. They were loyal church members, good neighbors and good citizens. We feel our loss keenly and register this tribute of love and esteem for Brother and Sister Kellam.

While we shall see Brother Kellam in our class no more and be pained at missing him, our loss can in no way compare with the loss of his orphaned children. Their loss is irreparable and it is a challenge to each member of this church as well as to each member of the Men's Bible Class to show a practical sympathy for his children so suddenly bereft of the protecting care of father and mother. Therefore, be it resolved:

That we, the members of the Men's Bible Class, make this tribute of respect to Brother Kellam practical in so far as we are able by giving aid and watching over his orphaned children.

That we send a copy of these resolutions to the Methodist Protestant Herald, and a copy to the children of Brother Kellam.

These resolutions unanimously adopted by a rising vote of the class.

W. G. CAUSEY, Secretary.

◆

—The ambitious and determined youth makes stepping stones, to higher planes of living and activity, of the obstacles which come before him. Have a purpose in life, master its situations which would destroy you, and you can realize the loftiest dreams and hopes!

—A college education supplies to the student, as he looks upon the larger and broader fieds of life, an urge for achievement. It also enables him to better measure his capacities for opportunities, and thus greatly aids him in finding his place in life. History shows that college graduates, because fitter for leadership, render larger service to society than those not so trained.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

NOTICE OF MEETING OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The first quarterly meeting of the Executive committee of the North Carolina branch will be held on Wednesday, July 4, at Bethel Home, Weeaverville. This is the date most convenient for Mrs. Hammer.

Mrs. Bates will look after the entertainment of all who can attend. Heretofore, we have each bought various articles of food, all helping with the cooking, dish-washing, etc. Mrs. Bates told me last year that it would be more economical and less wasteful if we would each contribute a smal amount of money and let her do the buying of food. Mr. Casto and the Weaverville Auxiliiary are always liberal in donations and little more than one dollar each would be ample. I think, to buy such things as are needed. I am stating on each card of notification that we will try this plan. If each person attending will carry a sheet, pillowcase and towel it will save Mrs. Bates a laundry bill.

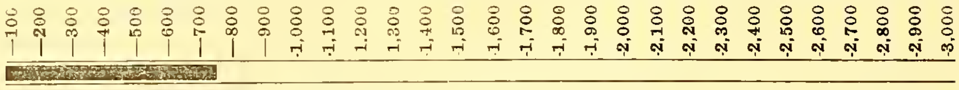
If the members of the committee will let me know a week ahead of the date of meeting I will write Mrs. Bates as to the number to be entertained.

Delegates to the convention in Washington will make reports and plans will be discussed for making this the best year in our history under the present plan of work.

May each member of the committee help to make this a successful meeting by her prayers and her presence.

MRS. GEO. R. BROWN, Cor. Secretary.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
Graham	100
Lincolnton	71
Reidsville	70

In the night time there came to me this day dream. I was passing along a highway and saw a great throng of people in a large field by the roadside. Being curious to know what it was all about, I stopped my car and got out. There had been erected in this field what seemed to be a set of scales similar to those used in stores, except that they were magnified out of all proportions to anything I had ever seen before. The platform on which people usually stand to be weighed was as large as the floor space in a large warehouse. The upright mechanism was a huge steel tower. The arm of the scales was a huge steel beam weighing many tons. The man who seemed to be master of ceremonies beckoned unto me to come near him and said, "Are you the Chairman of the Herald Committee?" I answered that I was. He said, "The Graham church has reached its goal in the Herald campaign and we have constructed these scales in order to see how much this church weighs. Unlike most scales," said he, "these not only weigh the physical part of man but the spiritual qualities also." Then he beckoned the people and they stepped upon the platform—the whole church, and they weighed ten million pounds. The physical part of the congregation weighed 33,750 pounds, or an average of 125 pounds a member. Their interest in the Herald weighed half a million pounds. Their esteem for Dr. McCulloch weighed three-quarters of a million pounds. Their interest in the printers weighed four hundred thousand pounds. Their love for good literature was one million pounds, their devotion to the Annual Conference was one and one-half million. Their love for the Methodist Protestant churuch was two milion and one and on and on. Then the people got off and they put the pastor, Rev. J. Clyde Auman on the scale and his heart weighed ten thousand pounds. His interest in the High Point Leadership school weighed half a million.

I could not stay longer as my letter to the Herald was already late and the printers want it early, but before I left I asked the people to leave the scales right there as I wanted to see how much those churches would weigh who have not done anything for the Herald, also how much those weigh who started their campaign the first of the year and stopped. Then I said, "Be sure to save these scales for I know President Andrews will want to weigh every church in the conference and see just how they stack up." As I started away J. Clyde Auman called and said "Graham will send Herald Subsidy either next week or the next." J. E. PRITCHARD.

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	9¾	$....
Albemarle	17	7	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	22	....
Asheville	14	7¼	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	11.10	....
Bessemer City	13	5.14	....
Burlington, First	71	13	*20.00
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	13	....
Charlotte	21	9.2	.90
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.32	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	12½	....
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	1½	....
Denton	48	11¾	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	7½	*5.00
Fallston	85	22	....
Flat Rock	63	13	....
Friendship	21	1⅝	....
Forsyth	45	8	2.50
Gibsonville	20	4	....
Glen Raven	47	4¾	....
GRAHAM	27	27.00	....
Granville	59	17½	16.55
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY	29	30½	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	8½	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	2½	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	9.1	*7.50
Greensville	59	7	....
Guilford	37	9½	....
Halifax	53	8	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	13.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	16½	....
High Point, Lebanon	34	7½	....
High Point, Welch	22	4½	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	16.30	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2½	....
Lexington, First	45	10	*10.00
Lexington, State Street	40	7.36	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	18	12.85	....
Littleton	50	7¾	....
Mebane	28	5	....
Mecklenburg	40	1½	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	3	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	4	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	16½	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	24¼	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7½	....
Randolph	74	9½	....
Reidsville	10	8	....
Richland	43	3½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	44½	*20.00
Siler City	20	10¾	*5.00
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	13	....
Tabernacle	39	21¼	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	2½	....
West Forsyth	62	8	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	4½	....
Winston, First	26	7¼	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	4½	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

 Subsidy paid in full.

◆

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Ray Leatherman	$51.00
L. F. Ferree	5.00
Miss E. Yow	3.00
Mrs. W. M. Pike	2.00
Dr. Geo. R. Brown	2.00
Mrs. R. M. Robinson	2.00
Q. R. Tesseniar	1.80
Rev. O. C. Loy	1.00
Rev. F. W. Paschal	1.00
Mrs. J. J. Mallard	1.00
Rev. J. Clyde Auman	.04

Note that $51.00. That may be too much for Dr. Pritchard. But the Shiloh people are doing the same way all along the line. We, too, are proud of them.

Herald Subsidy

Union Chapel, Granville	$ 3.05
Piney Grove, Siler City	3.50

Thanks for these much appreciated helps on our constant problem.

◆

DO YOU KNOW?

THAT—It doesn't pay to worry or to give up in despair?

THAT—There are heaps of gladness for you to freely share?

THAT—It doesn't pay to grumble when everything seems wrong?

—Grenville Kleiser.

◆

—Professor W. H. Howard, once of Adrian College, later employed in the Patent Office, died recently at his home in Washington. He was cremated. Rev. L. K. Long was one of the pallbearers and was a college classmate,

Methodist Protestant

Rev H L Isley 2aug4 R6

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., JUNE 21, 1934 NUMBER 31

Attention, Ministers

Any minister in the North Carolina Conference desiring to attend the Pastors' Summer School, and, because his salary is in arrears, is hesitating, may make arrangements with the Director of the School to pay his room rent and board at Conference in November. It is desired that no minister who wishes to attend will stay away on account of the lack of funds. The School is for the ministers and it is hoped that they will avail themselves of this opportunity. The only cost, then, to those who desire to attend on this plan, is $1.50 registration fee. Should a minister feel that he cannot even pay in November, arrangements can be made to take care of him. I hope no minister will hesitate to take advantage of this opportunity.

N. M. Harrison, Director, Pastors' School.

Sample of Attacks on the Civic Bulletin Editor

First Attack

In the midst of one session of the New York Legislature the editor of The Civic Bulletin, being the most active and aggressive lobbyist around the Capitol in favor of the moral reform measures pending, naturally became the butt of attack by those opposed to the moral measures for which he was lobbying.

The first attack was made by the Tammany leader of the Assembly, from New York City. Our work had evidently become so increasingly effective and irritating to those opposed to moral reform measures that it was recognized something must be done to keep him as far away as possible from the members of the Legislature. Therefore, the Assembly Tammany leader introduced a resolution to forbid all lobbyists coming in on the Assembly floor—into the aisles back of the Assemblymen.

It so happened that the editor of The Civic Bulletin had occasion two or three times to pass around the Assembly Hall behind the seats of the Assemblymen, at the time that the Tammany leader was debating and arguing for his resolutions. Evidently our presence was very irritating to him, and while we were passing around on the floor of the Assembly, the Tammany leader said:

"I see one of the worst lobbyists now on the floor of the Assembly. He has not even the decency to keep off the floor while we are debating this resolution. He publishes a little scandal sheet. I would not dignify it by mentioning its name. In this sheet he publishes the records of the legislators, as he calls it, etc."

The fact is that his record and some other Tammany members of the Legislature were so bad that we are not surprised that the publishing of the same in The Civic Bulletin made it seem a scandal sheet, to them. They certainly have a long, scandalous record. Some of them have never been known to vote right on any moral measure that came up. But The Civic Bulletin has been published now nearly twenty-five years, and as long as the Lord spares us and we can get funds to keep it going, we intend to keep on publishing the record of the members of the Legislature, whether they vote right or wrong on moral questions.

Second Attack

One day in our Legislature, a few years ago, when the editor of The Civic Bulletin was on the floor of the Assembly, that is, in the aisle back of the seats of the Assemblymen, but doing no lobby work, Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, the wettest of the wet Tammany Assemblymen from New York City, who has often attacked the Bulletin editor in the past, opened up one of his fiercest assaults and stopped the whole business of the Assembly demanding of the Speaker of the Assembly "that the Rev. O. R. Miller, the lobbyist, be ordered off the floor of the Assembly." Many of our friends in the Assembly turned toward us and smiled, recognizing that it was a compliment to any man engaged in moral reform work to be attacked by Mr. Cuvillier.

Mr. Cuvillier was insistent. He talked and argued for several minutes. He pled. He demanded of the Speaker that no business proceed until Mr. Miller was thrown off the floor of the Assembly. When asked why Mr. Miller should be thrown off any more than many other persons then on the floor of the Assembly, Mr. Cuvilliar said, "Well, Mr. Miller is not here for any good purpose," which produced an explosion of laughter from friends and foes all over the Assembly floor and among the visitors in the lobby. Of course, we were not there for any good to the many bad bills introduced by Mr. Cuvillier.

Speaker McGinnies finally ruled that the editor of The Bulletin had as good right there as any other person on the floor as long as he observed the Assembly rules not to do any lobby work there, and thus that attack on us failed.

Third Attack

About four years ago, a man came into our office whom we supposed was our friend. Sitting down by our desk and speaking in a confidential manner, he said:

"Mr. Miller, your enemies have got something on you and if it comes out it will ruin you. They have it in writing. I have seen it. It is an affidavit, and if they publish it your future is ruined. If there is anything I can do to help you

I will gladly do it. Possibly I may be able to get hold of that affidavit for you and have it destroyed, if you would like me to do so.''

Then he stopped and quietly looked at us, waiting for a reply, and evidently watching to see whether we wilted under such a searching, threatening statement. Looking him squarely in the eye and calling him by his first name, we said:

''I do not know to what you refer, and I have no idea what it could be, but whatever it is, you go and tell the person who has that affidavit that they have my permission to print it tomorrow morning on the front page of the Albany Knickerbocker Press, our leading daily paper. My whole past life is an open book. I have done nothing of which I am afraid.''

That rather stumped our ''friend,'' whom we later found was really an enemy, and evidently was in the pay of the underworld who wanted to stop our aggressive law enforcement work against them. We never heard from the matter afterward.—The Civic Bulletin.

THE FLOWER PARABLE

(The following is a story torn from the back of a real old copy of The Union Gospel News a long time ago. I put it among my clippings and some time ago came across it again. I'm sending it to Brother McCulloch that he may republish it in our church Herald. The ''parable'' seems specially fitting just at this season of the year when so many young people are being brought face to face with definite decision. It goes freighted with prayer that it may help some one to decide now for the Life Beautiful. And just here, too, I want to recommend one of the most helpful books I have ever read—The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life. It may be obtained from David C. Cook, Elgin, Illinois. Price, 50c.—Lucilla Hardin.)

As Fred Barlow came up the walk, he saw through the open door his pretty cousin Lois standing with a bouquet of roses in her hands, the picture of perplexity.

''Well?'' he said, inquiringly.

She turned quickly.

''Well,'' she repeated, ''what do you think of that?'' and she handed him the flowers.

He saw at a glance that the bouquet had been one of rare beauty, but now the flowers had withered. From many of them the petals were fallen, and the ferns and smilax were yellow and drooping. Even as he took it a shower of rose leaves fell at his feet.

''With the love of Mrs. Malden,'' he read from the card attached.

''She hasn't just sent it, of course,'' he said in a questioning tone.

''Sambo brought it in that box to the door not five minutes ago,'' she answered.

Fred picked up the box and looked it over carefully, as if to find some explanation of the strange gift.

''Depend upon it,'' he said at length, ''she must have sent it by him several days ago, and the rascal forgot to bring it. Of course she wouldn't insult you by sending you such a specimen. Come,'' he said, ''let's have a game of tennis.''

In the interest of the game Lois forgot the matter, but when she was alone again her perplexity returned.

''I don't believe Sambo could have forgotten it,'' she said. ''How beautiful it must have been! I don't understand it at all, and when I get a chance I am going to ask Mrs. Malden.''

The chance came sooner than she expected, for that very afternoon Mrs. Malden called and invited her to ride. Mrs. Malden's stylish turnout was the admiration and envy of all the Creston girls, and Lois felt quite elated as she took her seat in the handsome phaeton. For awhile they talked of different matters, and then Lois said:

''Those were very rare roses you sent me this morning,'' thinking, as she slightly emphasized ''this morning,'' that she would find out whether they had been sent before.

''Yes,'' said Mrs. Malden, ''they were beautiful. I gathered and arranged them for you on Monday, but I enjoyed their beauty and fragrance so much I kept them myself as long as I could.''

She spoke seriously, but when she saw the look of amazement on Lois's face she could not conceal a smile.

''If it wasn't a mistake, Mrs. Malden, it must have been a parable,'' said Lois decidedly. ''Please tell me quick.''

''Dear Lois,'' said her friend, ''I wanted to show you how you mean to treat your best Friend.''

If Lois was perplexed before she was wholly mystified now, and begged for an explanation.

''Last week,'' said Mrs. Malden, ''I passed a group of High School girls on the street. I think they were talking about Annie Temple's joining the church the week before, for I heard her name, and then I heard one of them say, 'Oh, of course, I mean to be a Christian when I get to be an old woman, but now I am young I mean to enjoy myself, and have a good time.' ''

''I said that myself,'' said Lois, ''but surely—''

She paused, and after waiting a moment for her to conclude the sentence, Mrs. Malden said: ''There never was a greater mistake than the idea that becoming a Christian lessens the enjoyment of life; but it was not that I wished to show you. Life lies before you, bright with promises like those budding roses when I gathered them. Beauty and health are yours, mental faculties alert and active, unnumbered opportunties, and the energy and enthusiasm of youth. And from the Friend who has given it all to you, and says, 'Give me thine heart,' you turn away and answer, 'Not yet, O Lord, not yet; wait until I am old and feeble, when bodily strength is failing, when mental powers are waning, when life can be of no pleasure to myself and no service to Thee.' Were not those fading flowers a fit emblem of such a gift, dear Lois?''

The young girl bowed her head in assent, but she made no reply.

* * * * *

The next morning Fred ran in to see why his cousin had not been at the party the evening before.

''Oh, I could not go,'' Lois said; ''I wanted to think.''

''To think!'' replied Fred banteringly. ''I was afraid you were sick, but I had no idea it was anything so serious. Have you called a doctor? Does he think you will ever get over it? Is it contagious?''

"Oh, I hope it is," eagerly interrupted Lois. "I was thinking about those flowers," and she pointed to the bouquet still standing on the table beside him.

"Oh, yes, I see," Fred began again; "brooding over the insult you have received, planning for sweet revenge. If you need any assistance, remember I am at your service."

But Lois was too much in earnest to smile at his railery.

"Do you know, Fred, when Mrs. Malden said that she picked those flowers for me Monday, but didn't send them until yesterday, because she wanted to enjoy them herself as long as possible, I was too astonished to say a word."

"I should think so." said Fred. "Did she really say that?"

"Yes; and she did it to show that it was really like you and me putting off being Christians until we are old."

Fred whistled softly, and Lois went on—

"Don't you see, we think that while life is full of hope and promise it is too good for the Lord? but when it is almost gone, when Mrs. Malden says it is no pleasure to us and no service to Him, then we mean to give it to Him."

"Nonsense, Lois," said Fred.

"Oh, of course, we never put the thought into so many words, but it really amounts to that. How do you think it sounds?"

"I think it sounds decidedly shabby, and it strikes me you might get left. What if He should refuse such a gift?"

"Oh, no. He wouldn't," said Lois confidently. "That 'whosoever' takes in the most worn and the most worthless. But though He would not refuse it, I would be ashamed to offer it. I have been thinking it all out. Christ has given His best for me, and I am going to give my best to Him. Will you not do the same, Fred?" and she looked at him with shining eyes.

"Oh, come, don't push a fellow so; I haven't 'thought it all out,' as you say. It seems to me it is asking a good deal," he replied.

"Asking a good deal? O Fred, it is only asking that you treat the Lord honestly and honorably! It is giving you a chance to make the best possible investment of your life. It is offering you all that gives life any meaning or death any hope."

At this minute a morning caller was announced, and Fred took his departure. But her last words followed him. All that day, and for many a day, they echoed through his brain.

Watching Lois closely he acknowledged to himself that she had gained something that filled life for her with a sweet and noble meaning; and standing a few months after at the open grave of an earnest Christian, a young man whose instant death had shocked the whole community, he realized that the religion of Jesus Christ was indeed "all that giveth death any hope."

Today he can say sincerely and joyfully:

"My life I give to Thee,
  I would not be mine own;
O Saviour, let me be
  Thine ever, Thine alone;
My heart, my life, my all I bring
  To Thee, my Saviour and my King."

—Free Church of Scotland Monthly.

NEVER TOO OLD TO LEARN

By Luther K. Long

The following news item from Chicago is worthy of all the publicity it can be given:

"Mrs. Elizabeth Kopp, 75-year-old school girl, faced the world today with a ribbon-tied high school diploma.

"The grandmother of three children was the oldest of nearly 500 students graduated from the special adult classes of Chicago public schools.

"'I wanted to be able to write good letters to my children,' Mrs. Kopp said. She studied English, history, civics, and writing.

"Her teacher, Miss Vina B. Law, called her 'an exceptionally bright student'."

Several years ago I was spending a few days in that fine summer resort, Charlevois, Michigan — on the northern stretches of Lake Michigan.

Wandering along the beach picking up interesting stones and photographing attractive bits of scenery, I noticed a man prancing about in front of a stationary object, and occasionally dabbing at it with something in his hand. Drawing nearer, I saw that he had a canvas on an easel, and was sketching in oil a scene that had attracted his attention. He was a retired business man from Chicago.

"I made enough money in business," he told me, "so that I can live the rest of my life without earning any more. I have for a long time been interested in art, and some other subjects, but had little time for study. Now, I propose to gratify my taste along these lines before I am too old."

Both of these people are blessed with the same type of wisdom—and it is a good type. Life is not merely that one may get and hold things. Life is for growth, for learning, for achievement, for culture, for character, for enjoyment on the higher levels of one's nature. Incidentally, one renders valuable service to one's fellows by being a high type of man or woman.

I realize that study is not always easy, nor successful, for adults. A woman was telling me of the struggles of her husband. He has a position with the District of Columbia fire department, serving on the fire-boat on the Potomac river water-front. His job pays pretty well, but he wants to do another part of the work that pays better. In order to get this he must pass a civil service examination. This he has not been able to do—though he is unusually well qualified for the duties of the job. His step-daughters, high school and business college graduates, have tried to help him. But he has been out of school so long, and for other reasons, he can't get hold of the arithmetic involved.

Usually, however, the testimony is that adults make excellent progress in studies—especially in such subjects as strongly appeal to them. Public schools, correspondence schools, night schools, study at home of books from libraries—these are some of the facilities open to the adult who is willing to give time and effort. Suppose progress is slow, at times. If there is progress, the results are all to the good.

There is opportunity here for the minister and his church to be of service. Groups might well be organized to read and discuss certain books, and subjects of vital interest. The minister, a doctor, a lawyer, a teacher, or some one else, could be the leader of such a group. Or the members could take turns conducting the class. The Sunday evening service for three months, or the mid-week service for a certain time, might be given over to the consideration of questions of community or national interest. An occasional address from the pastor on Sunday along these lines would be helpful. Try it, Mr. Preacher.

SUCCESS THROUGH EFFORT

Without a certain amount of inborn talent and power, no one can become eminently successful in any profession, calling, or art.

Given that certain amount of native talent and power, how does a person achieve eminence? Mainly by practice, by thought, by effort, by work.

It was thus that Paderewski mastered his fingers and the piano. Hour after hour, day after day, year by year, he studied his instrument and himself, and bent himself to his task—and he succeeded.

It is thus that men have learned to lay brick and stone in patterns of beauty and strength; and they have thus achieved the ability to chisel marble and granite into forms that almost live and speak.

In the same way have what we call unfortunates mastered their weak, or deformed, or crippled bodies, and recast them into bodies of beauty and usefulness because of the spirit that was in them.

Demosthenes with the pebbles in his mouth declaiming against the noisy waves of the sea that he might thus overcome a natural weakness of utterance should be an inspiration to every defective speaker who struggles on toward a more perfect gift of utterance.

We need a more perfect human society. This, no doubt, will come largely through the development of more perfect individuals. But not exclusively so. There must be, also a consciously planned movement looking toward a better organization of individuals for group action. Individual character and effort, supplemented by group character and effort, should help us achieve our highest ideals.

Luther K. Long

WHILE WAR CLOUDS GATHER

We are told, I believe, in a certain portion of the scripturese, that there should be rumors of wars, and strife, and that nations shall rise up in battle in those days when the end is nigh and the last dreadful days shall be at hand. We are led to believe that there will be numerous, most terrible wars, and unrest will be incessant, accompanied by plagues. Those shall be the times which will begin the ushering in of the last years of Earth. We need not be alarmed; yet I am alarmed, at the serious turn world affairs have taken. The whole world seems to be in debt, and no one is able to, or willing to pay; and Europe looks on interestedly, anticipating a near "grand" scrap between America and the Far East—which will most likely never happen. Russia seems to have become a very important military power, although she has certainly adopted a most unusual way of doing so, and will probably fail in time. Japan and Russia behave like a pair of selfish children, and China is being devoured effectively by the former while "civilized" countries are too busy to notice; the League of Nations has other things to attend to.

It also appears that Germany has recovered from her defeat not so long ago, and is quietly building another great military machine—which fact evidently annoys France, who feels as does a helpless person near an explosive which is likely to take effect at any moment.

Italy, under the iron hand of Mussolini, has joined the ranks of powerful nations, although she is not a dangerous one. Great Britain alone seems to be unaffected by the rumors of wars; but America is hurriedly bringing her armaments up to par as if she is afraid of being left out of the next fighting tournament.

Thus with the whole world again armed to the teeth despite huge indebtedness and distressing monetary conditions, what must we expect by the year 1936?

Nevertheless, our domestic system appears to be clearing up as far as gangland is concerned, but again there are rumors of communistic agitation. and strikes are widely prevalent.

So you see (and if you do understand this muddle you are undoubtedly a genius and should be named so) that our only course in these troubled seas is to give over the control room wholly to God and be sure that we do not happen to be the "Jonah" aboard the good ship U. S. A.

Each of us must, as part of a nation, emphatically declare that war is not on our program, and that peace is the only thing we will stand for. (Americans are naturally a peaceful people until their tempers are aroused, or their patriotic spirit is awakened by a military hand.)

If America does, by any chance, happen to be foolish enough to get into another scrape like the World War (and I do not think she will) it will be because we forgot how it felt to have our noses and pocketbooks pinched in the previous encounter, and failed to heed the warning of our wise first President, "Beware of European entanglements." The sensible calf does not fall into the ditch twice.

Siler City, N. C.

ONE REASON FOR UNANSWERED PRAYER

"Why is it that the great mass of professing Christians do not get answers to their prayers?" asked the late Mrs. Catherine Booth. "In the first place, they are not the character to whom God has made the promises. These promises are made to God's saints—to those who keep His commandments, who walk in the light and have fellowship with Him through the Holy Spirit, and, therefore, the Spirit can make intercession for them. How can the Spirit make intercession for a man when He is not in him? Those who are walking in the light see what to ask, when to ask and how to ask; they see it all, because they are in the light. Such people ask, and do receive. But, alas! it is because there are so few of these that God's character is abused every day and that infidels laugh at us and at our God, too."—God's Revivalist.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Davidson Charge, Rev. E. A. Bingham, Pastor

This is a rural charge; all churches are in the country, and most of them have been long established, but none has a large number of members. The type of work done here differs from the urban church in that but little constructive work is done. There is but one Christian Endeavor society on the charge, no Auxiliary, but all churches do hold Sunday school. The parsonage is located at the Lineberry church, and not a great deal off the center of the charge. There are six churches. The amount of travel necessary to serve it is not greater than several other rural charges. There are some very fine people on the work—many who are as loyal as can be found in any of our churches. But there is much need of intensive cultivation; I mean, developing interest in the denominational projects, and modern methods in raising their finances. In this respect these churches are not different from many others in our Conference, and as I see it, here is one thing the conference should give serious attention to.

Such charges should be served only by those pastors who love rural work and who have a happy faculty for enlisting the people in the projects of the conference; and there ought to be long pastorates whenever the pastor and people work well together. If the pastor's support could be supplemented and all these eight or six-point charges made into four-point works the deck would be cleared for real constructive work with those remaining churches, and in a few years the wisdom of such a course would be justified by the results which would occur. In fact, the time is here when there should be no charge with more than four churches, and whenever one is able to support the pastor that church should be set off and given a pastor who will give his entire time to it.

I visited three churches on Davidson—Chapel Hill, Liberty, and Lineberry. Chapel Hill church was dedicated; this being the fourth church I have dedicated this year. It is of brick, with two Sunday school rooms, a very good auditorium and neatly finished. Not the least among the good things I might say about this church is that there is no debt. It is fine to see a church erected and paid for as built. Much of the materials were given, and quite a bit of the labor was free; so the cost was just about half of what it would have been had it been contracted for from the beginning.

It was a good service, good attendance, and the people seemed to enjoy their new church home. Pastor Bingham was as happy over it as any of the church officials. An offering was taken to install a lighting system, and I suppose those who only attend the camp meeting this fall will be surprised to see the oil lamps set aside for a modern light. We appreciate the privilege of being present on this occasion. This is the third building here. The first was a log church erected in 1856.

I found a good congregation at Liberty Church. The house had recently been painted and the grounds put in good shape, which made one feel that he was at a church the members really cared for and visitors might be comfortable in. The people in this part of the charge are wondering what the government will do with their church, if it succeeds in making a forest preserve of this community, as is now talked of doing.

Lineberry at night. This church is located at Handy and the parsonage is just across the road from it. Here is a lively C. E. society. It meets just before the preaching service at night, when there is preaching there, and the pastor preaches as soon as the meeting is concluded. There was a fine attendance, most of them young people who were present at the C. E. meeting. This church is also thinking of a new building.

I think the work is going on smoothly under Brother Bingham and the people seem hopeful, although the present wheat crop is light, that they will do better than last year financially. No revival meetings have been held here yet. It was a hard day for the speaker, but the people were so appreciative that I enjoyed the services at every church.

The Pastors' Conference and School Next Week

We regret that so many of our pastors are unable to attend these meetings because of the lack of money to bear the expenses of them. It is true, this is not much as some people count money, but it is quite an item in the household of a pastor who receives a meager support and much of it unpaid untli conference. A little forethought on the part of many would relieve this strain and make these men happy by giving them the privilege of attending such conferences of pastors and for pastors where both fellowship and study would renew their youth for the tasks which remain ahead.

Plan of Appointments

June 24—Seagrove church, opening new church, all-day program.

July 1—Philadelphia church 11 a.m., Matthews Chapel afternoon, Wesley Chapel at night.

July 8—Spring church 11 a.m., Lebanon afternoon, Pleasant Hill at night.

July 9—Group Meeting on Spring Church charge.

July 10—Group Meeting, Enfield.

July 11—Group Meeting Eden church, Halifax circuit.

July 12—Group Meeting, Corinth church, Littleton circuit.

July 13—Group Meeting, Granville charge.

July 15—Mebane 11 a.m., Union Grove afternoon, Efland at night.

July 17, 18, 19—Group meetings on Creswell charge.

July 24—Siler City charge, Piney Grove and Siler City.

July 28—Group Meeting, Baltimore church, West Forsyth charge.

July 29—District Meeting at Baltimore church in the morning.

July 29—Afternoon, District Meeting at Spencer church.

R. M. Andrews.

IT REALLY HAPPENED

It was way down in Arkansas—that center of classical culture and enlightenment—according to Milt Fall, who remembers the event as if it were yesterday. It all happened in the days when wagons were wagons, for autos with their noise and smell and danger had not yet been thought up.

In the town of Pine Bluff there was no more important man, seen from within, than Porter Givens, who had the agency for the Studebaker wagon. It was a responsible position, and he felt that fact very distinctly. There was nothing like having a good wagon in both city and country. In the town there were buggies and surreys and broughams and "democrats" for the passenger traffic, but in the country many a family drove several rough miles to church in the farm wagon, and of these a goodly number were proud of the word "Studebaker" in gilt letters over green appearing on the side of the body.

It was a part of Mr. Givens's mission in life to inform others—as many others as possible—that the Studebaker was not only the best wagon possible, but about the most desirable possession that human beings could aspire to. In other words, he was a natural-born salesman. When a man takes himself and his business too seriously, other are liable to go to the opposite extreme and make a joke of both. That is human nature, especially young human nature. At least it was true in the 1890's.

So it happened that on Hallowe'en night young Fall and a group of young fellows bent on mischief gathered stealthily around Givens's store, which adjoined his house. In a shed in the rear stood Givens's own Studebaker. That was slowly and cautiously taken apart piece by piece. And the pieces were just as carefully and laboriously carried up on the steep roof of the store. Tongue and axles, hounds, bolsters, whiffletrees, doubletree, stay chains, stakes, wheels and body were carried up one by one, slowly and silently to the top of the roof, and there cautiously and quietly the boys, busy as beavers, bolted and pinned, and with infinite care fastened all the pieces together again so that the wagon finally stood assembled astride the roof pole of Givens's store, high up in the air, just as natural as it had been on the ground.

The next morning the Studebaker of the Studebaker man looked down on amazed and amused people from a dizzy eminence. It looked like the work of magic—as if fairies, or imps, had lifted up the wagon bodily and gently placed it on top of the sharp roof of that two-story frame building. And the IMPS certainly had.

But was Givens sore? He was not. He was the best-pleased man in town. He pointed proudly to the unusual sight. That was giving the Studebaker wagon the prominence it deserved. He had pictures taken of it. The pictures duly appeared in the newspapers, and those who had not already seen the sight came to look.

A picture of the wagon on top of the house was sent to the Studebaker company. There again it made a hit. A representative came and looked. He was so pleased that a new wagon for service was presented to Givens, and also $100 in cash for the advertising. Givens put extra supports under the roof and had the wagon freshly painted frequently, and there it stood for years bringing trade and fame and prosperity to the House of Givens.

The consciousness of a trick well played, though it went awry, was the sole reward of poor Milt Fall and his friends who had contributed so willingly and generously of their skill and labor, and who had even risked their lives in the mistaken enterprise. They had picked out a victim who knew how to take a joke and turn it to profit.

P. S.—The moral of this story is to be sure your Hallowe'en victim is a good sport and then hatch up something worth while to pull on him.—The Pathfinder.

WITHOUT THE GATES

On a dark, stormy night in December, in a northern state where winters are extremely hard, a man who was dressed for bed stood at the door of his house, while heavy gusts of wind hurled snow upon him, and called in a loud voice: "Rover! Rover! Doggie, where are you?" He held a lamp, whose flame flickered, about his head, and called again. His faithful pet dog had been caught away from home in a terrific, raging storm of ice and wind before he could return. Outside it seemed that no creature could live. The man went again and again to the door, each time calling loudly and holding aloft his light, in hope of guiding the poor animal home. Yet he could not know that the collie was staggering homeward just a few yards away, unable to bark, and he finally closed and bolted the door in despair. He had a hard day of work ahead and needed rest.

The poor animal, with his waning strength, crawled weakly to the door of his home, but it was closed to him. He was lost—doomed to die and suffer pitifully, just in sight of safety.

Just the same as that poor beast was kept out of the protecting walls of the house, so will you, sinner friend, be forced to suffer terribly and eternally without the gates of heaven, unless you let Jesus save you and make you pure enough to enter the pearly gates. There is yet time, but soon there will be no more time—only eternity. Those who have not come to the light must be forever condemned to stay without that wonderful city, and because of their despair and frightful torture, will weep and wail and gnash their teeth in agony.

A very blessed way—Jesus—has been provided for those who are lost to be saved and rescued from death. Jesus wants to save you. He is willing. He is able, and He loves you. Surrender to Him the burden that is crushing you, and enter into the fold. It is a terrible thing to fall into the hands of the living God! Be not as were the unwise virgins, but be prepared when the bridegroom cometh—lest you be forever left without the gates.

Siler City, N. C. C. W. S.

—A 2,000-acre farm at Warm Springs, Georgia, owned by President Roosevelt, is proving a model to exemplify his large-scale planning. Purchased eight years ago from a neighbor, Mr. Roosevelt declared the farm must be made self-sustaining and without frills or burbelows. Today it is one of the most profitable enterprises of its size in the country, due mainly to a program of intelligent and economical activity.—Pathfinder.

OUR STORY PAGE

THE NEW BOY

"Pudge," they called him, because he was short and fat and round-faced. He was in the sixth grade, and the teacher was at her wit's end.

"I do not know what I shall do," she said to the school principal. "He annoys me all day long, and sets the other boys up to unthought-of-tricks."

"Send him to the office," said the principal.

But the teacher only smiled. She would not send Pudge to the office if she could help it.

One day that very week Pudge read the story of how Jesus went before Pilate, was condemned, and died on the Cross.

"Say, Mother," he exclaimed when he had read the story, "you know Jesus?"

"Yes, Son, why?" questioned the mother.

"Say, but He was a man! Why, He never even answered the soldiers when they said jeering things."

Silence a while.

Then Pudge exclaimed again, "Why, Mother, He never even saved Himself from the Cross when he could."

"No, Son," said Mother softly.

"Mother, why was He killed? Why didn't He save Himself?" Pudge was anxious to know.

"Well, you see," began Mother, "God so loved the world, that He gave us Jesus, His only Son, to show us how to live."

"And the people killed Him," muttered Pudge.

"He tried to show folks how wonderful it was to do only good deeds—not wicked ones; but they would not believe Him—some did, but not many," continued Mother.

"Jesus knew that those who were doing wrong deeds would suffer and never be happy. He showed them that, but they would not believe Him."

"So they killed Him?" asked Pudge. "Was that why?"

"He died so that we might be helped to do right things always and be happy for all time," answered Mother.

Pudge was silent.

"Mother," he said finally, "I don't like those people who killed Jesus. He was so brave! They should have let Him go."

"He could have gone, Son," answered Mother, "but He wouldn't. He died for people—for those people and for us. They hurt Him by doing wrong things, and sometimes we are as bad as they and hurt Him, too."

Pudge walked away thoughtfully. "My! He was brave! Not many men would do that! I wish I'd been there. I would have helped Him. I wouldn't hurt Him."

Then he stopped short. His mother's words came back, "And sometimes we are as bad as they, and hurt Him, too."

"I wonder," he thought. "I wonder if I—if I—hurt Him when I do mean things in school."

The next day Pudge went to school. He had his lessons. He obeyed the teacher. He played fair at recess. He was kind to the smaller boys. After school he went to his teacher, "Want me to stay and help you clean the boards? Then if I have time I can gather up the broken pieces of chalk and also clean the erasers. I know you are very busy and I would rather help you with some of the work than to play."

The teacher was glad to have someone help her. In the midst of his work he stopped. "Miss Harrold," he exclaimed, "I'm not going to hurt Him again. This has been a happy day."

Miss Harrold paused for a moment. Then she asked, "Hurt whom?"

"Hurt Jesus," answered Pudge.

Several days later the principal met the teacher of the sixth grade. "How is your bad boy, Miss Harrold?" he asked.

"I have no bad boy," she answered. "He is a new boy." —The North Dakota Christian.

THE GOSPEL OF JOY

Gladys was very sorry to hear that her friend, Mrs. Barton, was so ill. "She is such a happy old lady," said Gladys, "and I have always enjoyed going to visit her. Now if she isn't ever going to be able to get out of her armchair again, I know she will feel so bad that I will not want to visit her."

"What makes you think she will be so sad?" asked Mother.

"Because I would be," Gladys said positively. "Don't you remember when I was getting better from the measles how cross I was?"

"I don't think any of us are likely to forget," smiled Mother.

"So just think of never getting up again! Poor, old Mrs. Barton!"

"Wait and see," said Mother. "Just now she is too sick to see anyone. But in a little while you can take her some fruit."

When Gladys' mother heard that Mrs. Barton was sitting up in a big chair by the front window, she gave Gladys some fruit and jelly to take to her.

Gladys went slowly, for she couldn't bear to think of her cheerful friend cross and unhappy. Mrs. Barton saw her as she entered the gate and she called to her through the open window.

"Come right in, Gladys! It's a long time since you have been to see me!"

Gladys almost stopped. Mrs. Barton was much thinner and paler and there were dark rings around her eyes, but her smile was just as happy as ever. You would never know that she would be an invalid the rest of her life.

Gladys thought perhaps she didnt know it, but in a little while she mentioned it and talked about it cheerfully.

"I'll have lots of time to myself now," she said, "time to read my Bible and to knit and to make patchwork. See?" She opened her work bag and showed Gladys a block of patchwork.

"Oh, isn't that pretty?" cried Gladys.

"Do you just make it out of scraps? Where do you get them all?"

"Out of the rag bag," said Mrs. Barton, "but I'm pretty well used up now. You see, we don't make many clothes here."

"I'll see what mother has," promised Gladys.

As a result, Gladys often came to see Mrs. Barton, and each time she brought a big bundle of scraps which she had begged from the neighbors. Mrs. Barton was very glad to get them, for she made patchwork quilt blocks out of the large pieces and braided rugs out of the smaller ones, and made hooked rugs with the very tiny pieces, and she sold them in the city.

One day while Gladys watched her singing over her sewing she asked, "How can you be so happy, Mrs. Barton? I was very cross when I was getting over the measles."

Mrs. Barton pointed to a framed motto on the wall. Gladys read it aloud: "Rejoice in the Lord alway: and again I say, Rejoice."

"It's funny," said Mrs. Barton. "Some folk believe in the Lord and trust in Him, and forget to rejoice. Other folk rejoice part of the time, when everything is coming their way. But He wants us to rejoice in Him always—even when we could feel sad, and when we are sick and poor and lonesome. I can't always laugh and shout for joy, but I always rejoice when I remember that no matter what comes I still have Him to comfort me. You know, Gladys, you don't have to be cross or unhappy unless you want to. If you want to put a little effort into it, you can be sunshiny no matter what happens, and bring comfort to those about you."—Picture World.

THE YOUNG MIDSHIPMAN

Many years ago a young midshipman in the Navy entered a shop in a seaport town. In his merry way he said, "I say, have you any songs to sell?"

"No, sir, I have not," was the answer.

"Well, have you any music-paper?"

While producing the paper, the good woman remembered she had some copies of "Divine Songs," by Dr. Watts.

Showing him a copy, she said, "Here are some songs, sir, if you would like them."

He took the book and read the title. "I don't want them; they are religious."

"Sir," she continued, "if you will allow me, I shall be pleased to put a book with your music paper."

"You will never make a fortune, giving things away," he replied; "but you can put a copy up if you like."

As soon as he had gone the woman knelt down and prayed that God's blessing would rest on the book.

Years flew on; ten, twelve years; when one day there entered her shop a lieutenant in the Navy, who asked her if she had any "Divine Songs" by Dr. Watts. On being told she had, he said, "I will buy all you have in the shop."

As she was tying them up, the lieutenant said, "You do not remember me?"

"No, sir, I do not remember having seen you before."

"Do you remember, twelve years ago, a midshipman came into your shop and bought some music paper, and that you gave him a copy of 'Divine Songs'?"

"Yes, sir, now you mention it, I do remember it very well."

"Well," he continued, "I am that young midshipman, and that little book has been, through the blessing of God, the means of saving my soul."

He then gave her an account of how, lonely at sea and in peril, he had found in the words of some of the songs that which had led him to turn to God and to trust in the Lord Jesus Christ as his Savior.

Thus had God answered the prayer of the Godly woman. And such a prayer is indeed in accord with the heart of God, who desires that all men should be saved, and come to the knowledge of the truth, by believing in Christ Jesus.—Gospel Stories for the Young.

WILL YOU NOT COME?

Jesus is waiting with outstretched arms.
  Will you not come? Will you not come?
Out from the world with its fears and alarms,
  Will you not come to him now?
Why do you wait amid earth's wild strife,
Why not accept this new, glorious life,
Filled with His Spirit, blessings are rife,
  Will you not come to him now?

Jesus is wanting you all for His own,
  Will you not come? Will you not come?
Why stay and fight life's troubles alone?
  Will you not come to him now?
He's such a Friend; He gives you such peace,
And from all burdens He'll give you release,
While from Him a new life you may lease,
  Will you not come to him now?

Oh, what we miss if we longer delay!
  Will you not come? Will you not come?
Life is uncertain. Why linger a day?
  Will you not come to him now?
Waiting and longing, what hope we to gain,
Causing Him heartache, and sorrow and pain?
E'en while we sing, each life's on the wane,
  Will you not come to him now?

—Donald E. Belsham.

A MISSIONARY WAIF

Little Maggie was an Italian girl only twelve years old. She lived in a down-town section where there was a mission. She had been coming to the mission for a time, but did not seem to be getting much from the services. Yet her bright eyes were ever on the alert. One day she said to the worker in charge:

"Please give me the little books that's got the Commandments in."

"What do you want with it?" asked the worker.

"I want to learn the Commandments. All the girls in my class know them. I want to know them, too. I'll bring it back again when I learn them."

A Bible was loaned to Maggie and the following Sunday morning she came to Sunday school and brought the Book.

"Did you get the Commandments learned?" she was asked.

"Not all. There were some hard words and I can't say them."

After the service the Christian worker took Maggie aside and helped her to learn the "hard words."

The following Friday little Maggie came to the Junior service with a triumphant look on her face, as she said:

"I got them all. I know them all." Then she repeated the Ten Commandments. For her memory work she was given a New Testament. Some time afterward she told the Christian worker:

"I like that little Book you gave me. It has such nice stories in it. I read it every night to my father and mother before we go to bed. They like it, too. The man we pay our rent to gave me one in Italian just like it."

A few months after this time there was being held a special meeting to which went many of the children from the Mission. After one of the special services for children, little Maggie turned to the Christian worker from the Mission who had charge of them.

"I want to be a Christian. Can I be one today? I want to be an American Christian. Can I tell God today?"

"Yes, Maggie."

"But I don't know how to say it," she said. "I want to give Him my heart. Can I tell Him right now?"

And Maggie gave her heart to Jesus. As a result of this, that very night her mother and older sister gave themselves to Christ. Later her father and an uncle joined the mission, and then the whole family of seven were taken into its membership.

"So shall My Word be that goeth forth out of My mouth: it shall not return unto Me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it." (Isaiah 55:11.)—Christ Life.

FLOSSIE'S DOLL

Mother was reading to little Flossie out of the Bible. "Thou shalt love the Lord * * with all thy heart," she read. "Do you love God, Flossie?" asked her mother.

"No, Mother, I never saw God. How can I love Him?" replied Flossie.

Mother did not say anything then. But in a few days the postman brought Flossie a big brown package. The package had Flossie's name on it in large letters. How exicted Flossie was! She could hardly wait until mother untied it to see what was inside.

At last the package was opened. And what do you think was in it? There was a beautiful doll in it. Oh, but Flossie was happy!

"Where did it come from, Mother?"

"It came from your Aunt Mildred," said mother. "And who is Aunt Mildred?" asked Flossie. "She is your aunt who lives away over in Boston," said mother. "You have never seen her, she lives so far away."

"Oh, how I do love Aunt Mildred!" said Flossie.

"But how can you, dear, when you have never seen her?" asked mother.

"But she sent me this nice dolly and I do love her," said Flossie.

"Do you remember you told me the other day you could not love God because you had never seen Him?" asked mother. "And yet you love this aunt you have never seen because she has sent you a doll. See all the presents God has given you? You have your father and mother and food and clothes and sunshine and the pretty flowers. Can't you love God for the presents He gives you?"—Shining Light.

THE PROOF OF FRIENDSHIP

Just help your friends in trouble,
And cheer them on the way,
'Twill give their lives more gladness,
'Tis well worth while today.
A tear for the broken-hearted,
A word for the man that's blue,
A helping hand for the aged,
Adds strength and courage new.

'Tis a little thing to offer,
Just the light of a quiet smile,
But the joy it brings to others
Will make the deed worth while.
Then watch your step, my brother,
There's service you can do,
It may be time for action,
That proves your friendship true.

—Judge Harry Brokaw, in Smiles and Sunshine.

WHAT ONE MINISTER PAID TO PREACH

When I was a rector of a church in Baltimore (says an Episcopal bishop), I used to see a dear old lady in the garb of a Quaker very often in the congregation of the church. One of the Wardens said to me:

"Mrs. —— is a great friend of yours."

"I am very glad to hear it," I replied.

"Yes," said the Warden, "she said to me, 'I love to hear your pastor preach, but I should like him so much better if he did not receive money for it.'"

"But," said the Warden, "he pays $25,000 a year for the privilege of preaching to us."

"Does he, indeed? And how so?" asked the old lady.

A CHILD'S DEFINITION

A minister was once visiting in a home where there were several children with whom he was talking about the Lord Jesus Christ. He repeated to them the verse from the Bible which says, "To you therefore which believe He is precious." Then he asked them what the word "precious" meant.

None of them was able to answer until it came to the turn of the youngest, who said very sweetly, "Mother is precious; we cannot do without her," and then hid his face in his mother's lap.

This is how Jesus is precious. We cannot do without Him. We need Him as our Savior.—Joy Bells.

North Carolina Annual Conference Leadership Training School

High Point College June 25-30, 1934

1934 Goal—200 Students

LAST CALL TO THE LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOL

You have only a short time now to make or complete your plans to attend the Leadership Training School at High Point College, June 25-30. If you go, you will always be glad of it. If you do not go, you will regret it. Although the time is short, you have time enough to make plans to attend the school.

Remember that registration begins Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Supper will be served in the dining room at 6 o'clock Be sure you register some time Monday afternoon.

Information to Vacation Church School Leaders

Do you need some help before you undertake to put on your Vacation Church School? Miss Maxine Taylor will be glad to give you that information at High Point College next week through her course or through personal conferences.

The Conference Council is considering giving a general Vacation Church School Commencement some time during August. Write Miss Maxine Taylor, Enfield, N. C., for information.

We are making plans for the Conference Council to give certificates to Vacation Church School students. Write Miss Taylor for standards and certificates or see her at High Point next week.

T. J. WHITEHEAD.

YOU TAKE ONE; I'LL TAKE ONE!

Members of the L. T. S. Clubs! Add up your money and divide it according to the number who plan to go to High Point College next week. Pack your suitcases and meet me in front of the College at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, June 25th. I hope you have lots of money to divide and that a large number will represent your club and church at the Greatest of All Schools, High Point College Leadership Training School, June 25th to 30th.

Yours for the Cause,
J. CLYDE AUMAN, Organizer.

CALVARY'S REVIVAL

Even though our reporter is writing this week I want to say a few words about the revival which closed last Friday evening. In many respects this meeting was a very satisfactory one, notwithstanding the fact that not many of the unsaved adults attended. It was most satisfactory from the standpoint of the preaching. Rev. Roy I. Farmer, according to my way of judging is a first class preacher. There was never a dull moment in any sermon. Not only did he make a fine impression upon our own church people but those of other denominations who came to the meeting were also delighted with his preaching. Then the singing was exceptionally good. Rev. John M. Permar, the pastor of the Friend's church in Graham directed the music in such a way as to get the singing out of the falks. Somebody said the congregation sang better than ever before. Finally the meeting was saisfactory in the matter of attendance. The young people brought into the church each evening a group that anybody ought to be proud of. Other denominations in this section of the city came also and helped to make it a success. The results of the meeting are not judged by the number joining the church, even though these that joined are important. Such a mountaintop experience as the people passed through for ten days is not easily forgotten. J. E. PRITCHARD.

◆

—Dr. and Mrs. S. K. Spahr are on their annual pilgrimage to Pittsburgh, Pa. They will be gone several weeks.

—Pastors, limited in funds, should take advantage of the deferred payment plan and attend the Pastors' Summer School, June 25-July 6.

SMOTHERS-WILLIAMS-DIXON REUNION

These families, together with their friends, are asked to meet at Midway Church, Haw River Charge, at 10:30 a. m., on July 4th. There will be a short program of music and short talks, after which the message of the occasion will be made by Rev. J. S. Williams.

Herald readers will please pass on the word to other members of the tribe so there will be a good attendance. Come with baskets of food for a picnic dinner, and come praying and expecting a good day together.

A. G. DIXON.

◆

A SONG, A TASK, A BETTER WORLD

Keep a song in your heart; it will lighten
The duty you hold in your hand;
Its music will graciously brighten
The work your high purpose has planned.
Your notes to the lives that are saddened
May make them to hopefully yearn,
And earth shall be wondrously gladdened
By songs they shall sing in return.

Keep a task in your hands; you must labor,
By toil is true happiness won;
For foe and for friend and for neighbor,
Rejoice, there is much to be done.
Endeavor, by crowning life's duty
With joy-giving song and with smile,
To make the world fuller of beauty
Because you were in it awhile.

—Anonymous.

◆

—The class lectures of the Pastors' Summer School will substitute for the lectures of the Pastors' Summer Conference.

—Room and Board at the Pastors' Summer School is $7.00 and Registration Fee $1.50; tetal, $8.50 for the entire school.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

ALL ABOARD FOR WEAVERVILLE

It will be fine to have a fourth of July picnic at Bethel Home and Hillcrest Cottage (Bates' shack). We are already thinking of our dinner and arranging our beds. We do not know how many names to put in the pot nor how many beds to make, but we have always had plenty and to spare.

Mrs. Brown's estimate for expense is a bit too high. It will be more convenient to me to have the beds all made when you come. Fifty cents each will MORE than take care of the laundry and food necessary and I'm sure no one will go away hungry.

Merrimon Avenue is torn up: watch for detour signs and you'll have no difficulty getting through Asheville. Inquire at the second filling station after coming into Weaverville for the Bates' shack.

MRS. C. W. BATES.

GIDEON GROVE MISSION BAND

The Mission Band of Gideon Grove church held its regular monthly meeting June 16 at the home of Mr. C. J. Angel, with Miss Maurice Gordon acting as hostess.

There were 27 members present and two new members were welcomed into the band, making a total enrollment of 34 members. We were glad to have four visitors present.

A very interesting program was rendered, after which a delightful social hour was enjoyed. Miss Gordon, assisted by her mother and sister, served delicious refreshments on the lawn.

The meeeting then adjourned to meet with Miss Doris Lemons, in July.

ORELIA FRIDDLE, President.
Stokesdale, N. C.

NOTICE

To the Women Attending the Executive Meeting at Weaverville:

We have arranged locally to take care of you without charge. So leave your linens at home, and save your dollars to buy gas.

Drive up and spend the Glorious Fourth with us!

HOMER CASTO.

◆

CORRECTION

I wrote a piece week before last to the Herald stating that Seagrove church was very near complete except a heating plant and seats, and it came out in the paper the church was complete except heating plant and ceiling. The building is complete except a few finishing touches; every room is ceiled.

I would thank you so much to correct this mistake.

MRS. NOAH WILLIAMS.
Seagrove, N. C.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Forsyth.—Since my last report to the Herald we have held two revival meetings—Union Ridge and Maple Springs. Upon the request of the congregation I did the preaching at Union Ridge. The attendance and interest were good from the beginning. There were a number of conversions and reclamations. Three members were received into the church and there are others to follow.

Rev. N. G. Bethea, D.D., did the preaching for us at Maple Springs. It rained every day during the meeting. This kept some of the people away, who otherwise would have attended. Those who did attend were greatly benefited by the splendid sermons Brother Bethea brought to us. One of the most encouraging features of this meeting was the children's service Friday afternoon when 12 girls and boys decided for Christ. One new member was received into the church as a result of the meeting and we are expecting others to join later.

Last Sunday we received three new members into Mt. Carmel church. Our revival will begin at this church Wednesday evening before the fourth Sunday in August, with Rev. D. R. Williams as preacher.

The meeting at Hickory Ridge will begin, as usual, the second Sunday in August, with Dr. C. W. Bates as pulpit help.

The third quarterly conference will be held at Hickory Ridge church this (Monday) evening at 8 o'clock. We are expecting to hear encouraging reports from all church on the charge.

R. A. HUNTER.

◆

Flat Rock Charge.—Last Sunday was a good day for the people of Palestine and Bethel churches. We were honored with the presence of Rev. W. F. Ashburn, of Greensbboro, one of our beloved superannuates, who came to be with us at the two churches upon invitation of the pastor. Bro. Ashburn consented to preach the sermon at each church, permitting the pastor to enjoy hearing two most inspiring and edifying sermons. We pasors do not have many opportunities to hear the Gospel, and when we have an opportunity, it is very greatly appreciated.

We were at Palestine church in the morning, and were pleased to witness the Children's Day program which was rendered preceding the preaching service, taking the place of the regular session of the Sunday school. The program was shortened by the absence of some of the children on account of sickness. Those present performed their parts in a splendid manner. An offering was taken for the board of missions. Bro. Ashburn seemed at his best in the delivery of the sermon which was very edifying. At the close of the sermon a number of testimonies were given by members of the church, who expressed their joy in the Christian life. It seemed that the revival spirit had been felt in the service.

At 3' o'clock in the afternoon we were at Bethel church, where we found a reduced congregation owing to a family reunion at Stokesdale. Bro. Ashburn preached again, and gave the people an inspiring sermon, which was heard with splendid attention and interest. Bro. Ashburn preached with the enthusiasm and power equal to some of our young preachers.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. D. A. Walker, member of Paestine church, is a patient in Wesley Long Hospital at Greensboro at this writing. She was in a critical condition last week, but was reported slightly improved early this week. Special prayer was made in her behalf at Palestine church last Sunday. We hope for her a complete recovery soon.

The revival meeting will begin at Flat Rock church next Sunday morning and will continue for one week. Rev. Wayne Curtis, of Burlington, is the engaged help for the meeting, and is expected to be present for the first service. Bro. Curtis is a preacher and singer and we are confident that the pastor will have splendid assistance in the services. There will be two services during the day, at 11 a. m., and 1:30 p. m. There may be a service at 8 p. m. It is expected that there will be afternoon services during the week, and the regular evening services at 8 o'clock during all next week. We are looking forward to a good meeting.

The pastor will go to Bethany church next Sunday afternoon for the regular service there at 3 o'clock. Rēv. Wayne Curtis, who will be assisting in the revival meeting at Flat Rock church, is expected to preach the sermon at Bethany church. The vote for delegate will be taken at the service.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

◆

Kannapolis.—Sunday was observed as Home Coming and Anniversary Day. This was the seventh anniversary of this church. The church was filled to capacity for these services. Mr. J. L. Fesperman, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and an outstanding religious leader, was present and made the opening address. This was followed by a program by a group of children from the Children's Home under the direction of Mrs. A. G. Dixon. Dr. Dixon then brought the message of the hour. It is always a peasure to have Dr. and Mrs. Dixon. Our folks long ago learned to love them and always look forward to their visits with pleasure. Mr. Littleton, one of the helpers at the Home accompanied them. Miss Laura Braswell sang as a solo "Steal Away to Jesus," at this service.

Dinner was served, picnic style, on the ground and a long table was loaded with good things to eat.

The afternoon service was filled with special music consisting of quartets, duets, and trios. Rev. E. M. Graham, of our Charlotte church, spoke in the afternoon, substituting for Rev. G. H. Hendry, a former pastor, who was kept away on a ccount of a funeral service.

Letters were presented from Revs. E. G. Lowdermilk, J. L. Love and C. I. Smith, former pastors, who could not attend and a brief historical sketch was read by the pastor, Rev. C. P. Morris. Kannapolis church was organized in June, 1927, by Rev. G. H. Hendry, who was then pastor of the Concord church, with 15 charter members. Mr. Hendry supplied until Conference of the same year when Rev. E. G. Cowan was assigned to the work. Mr. Cowan served one year and was followed by Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk, who also served one year. In 1930 Rev. J. L. Love came upon the scene serving two years, 1930-31, under his leadership the present building was erected and the church made a good increase in membership. Mr. Love was followed by Rev. C. I. Smith, who served one year. He also did splendid work and the church enjoyed a good increase. At the 1932 Conference, the present pastor, Rev. C. P. Morris, came to the work and under his eadership and untiring efforts the church has steadily gone forward. Mr. Morris has taken in around 95 members during his pastorate, making a total of 195 membbers now. The congregation has outgrown its present quarters, and plans are on foot for a larger and more adequate building. The Sunday school has an enrollment of over 200 and Sundeay school rooms are needed badly. The church is well organized and all departments are working.

We are very fortunate in having one loca preacher in the church, Mr. R. T. Sides, who has meant much to the work. Mr. Sides and his splendid family came to us from Trinity M. E. church, and all are good workers. We are also fortunate in having Miss Laura Braswell here now. Miss Braswell was raised in our Children's Home, and was graduated from High Point College last month. She is with her mother, Mrs. Carrie Braswell on Chestnut Street.

We were glad to have lots of visitors in these services. Among them were Miss Nelie Morris, sister of the pastor, who will spend sometime with him, and Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Johnson, Jr., of Burlington, the latter a sister of the pastor, and several friends from Albemarle church.

Some of our young people will attend the Leadership Training school in High Point.

MRS. D. A. McLAURIN.

◆

Davidson Charge, Chapel Hill New Church.—For several years some of the members of Chapel Hill church had dreamed of a new church. But only about a year ago did they muster the courage to build. The third Sunday in June, 1933 the congregation voted to apppoint a committee to canvass the members to see what they would pledge toward a new stone or brick church. The committee was asked also to secure estimated cost of the proposed new church for the information of the members when the vote was to be taken the third Sunday in July.

The committee reported that they had secured more than $800 in substantial pledges. Practically all the members offered free labor. The proposed new church was to be 50 feet long and 34 feet wide. It was to have a Sunday school wing on either side 12 by 14 feet. The estimated cost for brick, lime, cement, plaster and the laying of the brick, plastering and finishing material was from $1,000 to $1,200. We calculated on getting the most of the other building material and labor free. It was estimated that a brick and tile church would cost less than a flint stone church. The vote was almost unanimous to build a new church. A large majority voted to build the brick and tile. The building committee was instructed to begin preparations for building at once.

The building committee bought most of the building material before the NRA prices came into effect. The laying of the brick started the first of September. The members waited on the masons. The most of the framing was given by the members. Forest trees were given by members and friends for putting heart shingles on the church. The members cut the trees, hauled them to the sawmill and shingle mill, sawed them, and put them on the roof all with free labor. Some of the logs were hauled after night by men who had already done a day's work. The rind board off these trees brought more than $50.00. Red oak trees were given by friends and members here and there. They were cut, sawed, kiln dried, etc., free of charge. We have a good oak floor, and had enough left over to pay for the dressing and matching of the lumber. The windows were given in memory of friends. The ladies of the church through a name quilt and various other ways have raised almost $11 toward the painting and finishing of the church. The money spent at present is $1,500. All bills are paid to date. I think the free labor and materials would amount to as much as has been paid in cash. The building is almost compete. The roof is to paint and the carbide lights to be installed.

Sunday, June 17, 1934, was a red letter day for Chapel Hill church. Rev. T. F. McCulloch, a former pastor, made a good address on the Sunday school lesson. Two former pastors, Rev. C. E. Ridge and Rev. Robert Short sent written messages to be read at the dedication service. Dr. R. M. Andrews preached an impressive sermon, after which he dedicated the new church.

Dr. Andrews also preached at Liberty in the afternoon, and Lineberry at the evening serivce. There was good attendance and interest at each place. We were glad to have our President with us and hope he will come again soon. E. A. BINGHAM.

* * *

Calvary, Greensboro.—Our revival began on Wednesday evening, June 6, and closed on Friday evening, June 15. Never before have we had the opportunity of listening to more spplendid messages than those brought to us twice daily by Rev. R. I. Farmer, who came to most of us as a stranger, and, who before he had hardly been here a day had won the affection of every one who had the privilege of listening to him. Much interest was manifested throughout the entire meeting. It seems to have been the most blessed and inspiring revival ever held at Calvary. Rev. John Permar of Graham was another major feature of the revival, he was such a help being present at each evening service to direct the singing. He and Mrs. Permar brought us wonderful messages from time to time by singing together very beautifully some familiar hymn. Their singing seems to have brought the people closer to God.

"So many people take the same attitude toward things now as did Felix when he said 'Go thy way for this time; when I have a convenient season, I will call for thee.'" Acts 24-25, said Dr. Pritchard in his evangelistic sermon Sunday morning, the subject of which was "The Dangers of Delay." In every phase of life delays are always disastrous and Christians neglect the same as other people." He urged that Christians never put off until tomorrow doing the things that they feel the call to do today, for tomorrow sometimes never comes."

Just prior to the sermon Sunday morning Dr. Pritchard received the following children into the church: Clyde Friddle, Vernon Friddle, Margaret Parker, Charles Causey, Mary Ellen Causey, Frances Smith and Gladys Smith. We were all very glad to have these young people unite with us. Another opportunity will be given next Sunday morning for people to unite with the church.

The votes will be cast next Sunday for the delegate to the Annual Conference. The nominees are J. A. Cox and Howard R. Neece.

Miss Jane Greer is visiting her aunt at Hamlet, N. C. She expects to spend two weeks at the beach before returning home.

The Anna Starr Bible class will meet on the church lawn Friday afternoon.

The Woman's Auxiliary met at the church Monday evening. Miss Velua McCulloch conducted the devotional exercise, during which time the members were given the opportunity to tell, "What the passing revival had meant to them."

Mrs. J. B. Richardson and Mrs. C. E. Causey were joint hostesses to the Friendly class at Mrs. Richardson's home Tuesday evening, with 19 members present. The next meeting will be in the form of a picnic for the class members including their families at Douglas park.

Rev. T. F. McCulloch went to Chapel Hill church on the Davidson charge and made a talk on the Sunday school lesson last Sunday. He was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Fearl McCulloch.

Mrs. J. E. Pritchard is visiting relatives in Siler City and Bonlee this week.

About 50 young people of the church who so faithfully had attended the young people's meeting held each epening in the hut during the revival before the regular evening service were entertained Saturday evening on the church lawn by the Womna's Auxiliary.

We are so sorry to learn of the automobile accident in which Rev. and Mrs. E. G. Lowedrmilk were injured last week. We hope they are not seriously hurt.

We were delighted to have G. F. Millaway in the congregation one evening during the revival, wish he would visit us more often.

MRS. HOWARD R. NEECE,
Reporter.

* * *

Creswell Charge.—Dear Editor and readers of the Herald. We have not been reporting much to the Herad but that does not mean that we have been idle by any means. Things were in a rundown condition when we came here after conference. Since then many improvements have been made. The Woman's Auxiliary of the Creswell church has been re-organized and is doing good work. At the first of the conference year they repainted much of the parsonage inside, placed two new wood heaters in it, and put up new screens to the back porch. They also put up a new pump in the back porch and made other improvements. The Mt. Hermon Ladies' Aid society furnished one bedroom in the parsonage complete. Mt. Elma purchased a new piano for the church last month.

We have four Sunday schools doing very good work. Also the young people of Mt. Hermon church have organized a Christian Endeavor society which we are very anxious to see succeed.

The Creswell Woman's Auxiliary held a sock social at Mrs. Alfred Alexander's last week, at which we all had a general good time. I am sure it brought us closer together both socially and spiritually. The net proceeds from this social amounted to $14.50.

Recently two of our best loved and most loyal members went to receive their crown of life. They were: Mr. William Wiley of Creswell and Mrs. Abe Davenport of Woodley's Chapel. They will be greatly missed in the church and community in which they servved. We extend to their friends and relatives our tenderest sympathies.

The people have been very considerate of their pastor and family. All along they have been good to give us meat, vegetables and other things. We take this opportuniy to thank them for all. The work in general is moving along very nicely, we think. We desire your prayers that the work of the Kingdom may be built up at this place.

P. E. BINGHAM, Pastor.

* * *

Caroleen C. E. Society.—A social was enjjoyed by the Caroleen M. P. C. E. Society at the home of F. O. Upton, Avondale, N. C. Practically the entire membership of the Society was present. Parlor games were enjoyed, refreshments were served consisting of ice cream, cake, lemonade, crackers. Everyone enjoyed the occasion greatly.

We are hoping our C. E. Society will create a more determined spirit of progress by having our social meetings at regular intervals.

May the best of progress and fellowship abound in all C. E. Societies.

A MEMBER.

* * *

Concord. — Our Sunday school attendance was good yesterday. We had three hundred and fourteen present. It would be so much better for us and our pastor too, if every one would not only go to Sunday school, but would stay for preaching. We did not have so many present at our morning service.

Due to the absence of our pastor, Rev. Shelton has consented to preach for us next Sunday at our morning service. Prayer meeting Wednesday will be in charge of several of our young people. There will be no evening service next Sunday.

Several of our people are attending the World's Fair in Chicago this week. They are Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Sides, Mrs. E. F. Litaker, Mrs. J. L. Sides and our pastor, Rev. Morgan. We hope for them a delightful trip.

We are sorry to report that two of our young people, Miss Marjory Burris and Miss Nita Blackwelder are in the hospital having undergone an operation for appendicitis. Miss Burris is in the hospital here, while Miss Backwelder is at Charlotte, both girls are doing nicely. They are both members of our Intermediate choir and we will miss them, but hope they will soon be back with us.

We were glad to welcome into the church Mr. and Mrs. Corneius Sides and baby.

REPORTER.

* * *

St. Paul, Greensboro.—On next Sunday night, June 24th, the Children's Day program will be held. Mrs. D. I. Garner has charge of training the children and Miss Lillian Wade has charge of he music.

We are glad to report that little Charles Parr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Parr, is able to return to his ohme after an operation at the Clinic Hospital two weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wilson and family returned home Saturday night from Goldsboro where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Wilson's father, Mr. J. A. Huneycutt. Mr. Huneycutt was 89 years old and the last Confederate veteran living in Goldsboro, and was a charter member of St. Paul church, but for the last 15 qears he had lived in Goldsboro, and at the time of his death was a member of the Friends church in Goldsboro.

Miss Martha Cloutz, of Hickory, returned home Saturday night after spending a week with Miss Lillian Wade.

The Ladies' Aid held its monthly meeting with Mrs. C. E. Wilson. Mrs. D. I. Garner had charge of the devotional. Twelve members were present. After the business meeting was over Mrs. Wilson served delicious refreshments. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. W W. Oaks at her home in Bessemer.

For the past two Sundays we have had special music at the 11 o'clock services.

First Church, Burlington.—Last Friday marked the close of a very successful vacation Bible school in this church. The commencement program was presented Friday evening, at which time the Children's Day offering was taken.

Father's Day was observed Sunday. The Golden Rule Sunday school class, Mrs. F. W. Paschal, teacher, was in charge of the Sunday school. A special program, consisting largely of music, was prepared for the occasion. At this hour a Bible was presented by the Golden Rule class to the oldest father present. Prof. Stout, a very sincere member and teacher in the Sunday school, was presented the gift.

The morning worship was also in keeping with Father's Day. Dr. Paschall, pastor, preached a very inspiring sermon on "The Father's Place in the Home." In this message he stressed the importance of the father being Christian.

At the close of the service an invitation was given to the fathers who were not being fair to their children and themselves by living in sin to give their lives to Christ. The same invitation was given to the sons.

We are indeed grateful to Dr. Paschall for his many efforts in trying to hold the membership together for the evening services during the summer months. Especially is he due praise for the wonderful sermons he has been preaching at the evening services. We trust that God will give him strength to carry on his wonderful work. REPORTER.

Draper Church.—Since our reporter has not kept the Herald readers informed of the work here, we will try to give a few items of interest.

Yesterday was a very good day for us at Draper. Sunday school was good, attendance was larger than usual and a fine spirit prevailed throughout the entire Sunday school period. The young people's class of which the writer is teacher, wil go on a weiner roast next Friday evening. This class is composed of about 25 young boys and girls from 14 to 20 years of age. They are on interesting bunch. We are trying to double the attendance in this class.

The preaching service was well attended and a fine interest was manifested. We announced that the A. C. B. claims for this church had been called for this month and at the night service Bro. N. H. Stewart, the treasurer of the church, asked for the full amount, and in less than five minutes it was raised in cash and pledges and one dollar over. This is a loyal group. If you ask for anything for church and for the cause they do it. We are hoping to get plans on foot to remodel or build a new church. Our present building is in need of repairs and is not well located. The problem is whether to build on the present site or to move down town. The mill company has offered us a lot to build on and well help in the building. This remains to be decided yet.

Brethren, pray for us.

L. S. HELMS, Pastor.

New Salem, Randleman Charge.—There was very good attendance at Sunday school and preaching services Sunday. Pastor Trogdon delivered another of his good sermons, which was very inspirational and worth while, as all of his sermon are. There are great truths driven home in each of his well-prepared messages.

We are very glad to report that our pastor's wife, Mrs. J. B. Trogdon, is still improving. We hope she will soon be able to attend services with him.

We regret to report that Mr. M. C. Henley fell from a ladder and broke both arms a few days ago. Mr. Henley is teacher of the Young Ladies' Class and attends regularly when able. We hope he can soon come back and fill the place where he is missed so much.

Miss Ruby Hinshaw and Mr. Curtis Brookshire were united in marriage Saturday, June 2, at Jamestown. Rev. T. A. Wiliams was the officiating minister.

The annual Home-Coming Day will be held at our church next Sunday, June 24. All friends, members, former members and former pastors are invited to come and enjoy the Home-Coming with us.

MRS. R. F. WARD, Reporter.

Moriah.—Children's Day was observed with special services for the children yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. The collection amounted to $7.25.

M. P. CHAMBLISS, Pastor.

Liberty.—"The Reward of Faithfulness" was the subject of Mr. Love's sermon the fourth Sunday evening. The Scripture lesson was read from Matt. 27:39-43. This sermon, like all of his sermons, was full of the Gospel of Christ, commending Christ as our Guide and Friend.

Dr. Andrews, president of our Annual Conference, and former president of High Point College, brought a message for the evening service, June 10th. His messages are always full of spiritual food. We are very glad indeed that his health is greatly improved.

Our attendance at Sunday school is splendid these beautiful June days.

Our Christian Endeavor has some new recruits since a number of boys and girls are at home from college for their vacation. Mary Bowman Shepard was leader Sunday evening, using as her topic, "How Can We Be More Christ-like."

Children's Day program is being prepared to be given next Sunday night, June 24th. Miss Lora Bowman is director. Miss Nancy Josephine Crotts has been the guest of her aunt, Miss Lora Bowman, for several days.

Miss Dorothy Isley, who has been a patient in St. Leo's Hospital, Greensboro, is able to be back in Sunday school again, to the delight of her many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Reitzel entertained the Philathea class at their home on Fayetteville street last Monday night. A peasant and profitable time was enjoyed.

Circle No. 1 of the Woman's Auxiliary met with Mrs. A. D. Gregg at the May meeting. Circle No. 2 met with Mrs. W. M. Hanner at the same time.

We are glad to report that our church has been re-covered and will be painted inside at a very early date.

Rev. and Mrs. Fred R. Love, Mrs. M. J. Hodgin and Miss Bertine Shepard were visitors in Greensboro Monday.

O Father, empower Thy Church to win great victories over evil.

BERTINE SHEPARD, Reporter.

First Church, Lexington.—There seems to be an increase in attendance and interest in all phases of the work here. We had 285 present for Sunday school Sunday, which is a good increase over the attendance of a year ago. The offering was double that of a year ago.

The auditorium was almost filled for the 11 o'clock service. Pastor Isley brought a good message entitled, "The Call of the Crucified Christ." His text was the 11th verse of the twenty-eighth chapter of St. Matthew. The Mount Airy Quartet was present and sang several numbers which were greatly enjoyed.

The evening worship service was in charge of Rev. Luther R. Medlin, in the interest of High Point College. After an inspiring message, "The Efficient Life," text Jer. 21:8, he presented the cause, which met with favorable response.

On Monday evening of last week Mrs. Hattie Isley entertained the Christian Endeavor Society at her home on Market Street. The devotionals were conducted by the president, Ernest Hamilton. After the secretary's report, the following officers were elected: President, Ernest Hamilton; vice-president, Paul Wallace; secretary and treasurer, Margaret Lea Swink; reporter and pianist, Lola Mae McCulloch. Various committees were also appointed. Following the business meeting various games and contests were enjoyed, after which refreshments consisting of cake, ice cream and fruit were served to a large number of Endeavorers.

The Young Men's Sunday school class entertained the Young Ladies' class at a weiner roast last Friday evening. A large number of both classes was present. The Ladies' Auxiliary held its picnic Tuesday evening with a good number present.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Barber and family, of Salisbury, were guests of Pastor Isley and his mother Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Everidge and daughters, Jessie and Margaret, and Misses Hilda and Charlotte Adkins, of Kernersville, visited friends in Lexington Sunday.

MARGARET LEA SWINK, Reporter.

Friendship Church, Fallston Charge.—Bro. Fogleman filled his regular appointment at this church Sunday, using as his text "Enoch walked with God and he was not, for God took him." Special music for the morning service was furnished by the Fallston quartet. We were glad to have worship with us Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Lippard and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lippard and children, who were spening the day with Rev. and Mrs. Fogleman.

The church treasurer, Mr. M. W. Wright, reported that the offering of each third Sunday this year had shown an incease over each previous offering. This is an encouraging record which we hope will not be broken during the year.

On Saturday night the Christian Endeavor Society held an ice cream social at the parsonage. After playing games the endeavorers enjoyed ice cream and cake. About 60 members and guests were present.

The Woman' Auxiliary met Monday afternoon at Mr. W. A. Gantt's. The subject of the program, which was led by Mrs. William Clay was "The Deep of Influence." Papers were read by Mesdames Pogleman, Toney, and Lewis. The apron contest was won by Miss Eva Wright. The total amount of money was $10.48. The women are planning a social for Saturday night, June 30.

Rev. and Mrs. W. L. McSwain and family, of Harmony, pent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Gettys Bingham.

Mr. Furman Wright, who is a ministerial student at High Point College, is spending the summer months with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wright.

Misses Ruby Warlick and Nathalie Lackey attended the graduation exercises at High Point College.

Several people of our community attended the singing at the Bellwood Schoolhouse Sunday. Quartets, choirs, and music lovers meet there every third Sunday afternoon to sing.

NATHALIE LACKEY, Reporter.

* * *

Greensville Charge.—At 6:30 o'clock on Saturday, June 23, the Ladies' Auxiliary of Ebenezer church are giving a lawn party at the church. We are selling ice cream, lemonade, pies, etc., and are taking guesses on a cape. Everybody is invited to attend, so please come. The admission will go to help cover the church. LILLIE MOORE, Reporter.

* * *

BRIEF HISTORY OF FRIENDSHIP M. P. CHURCH

By J. WESLEY WALSER

Friendship church (near old Yadkin College), celebrated her one hundredth anniversary Sunday, June 10, 1934. A large congregation gathered for the occasion and the pastor, Rev. C. E. Ridge, preached the sermon. Dinner was served in picnic style and the afternoon program was in charge of W. M. Byerly, who acted as chairman for the meeting. The program consisted of special music by the men's chorus from Union Ridge church, Forsyth charge, the Berrier sisters from Shiloh church, Shiloh charge.

Short talks relative to the history of the church were made by W. M. Byerly, Friendship; Dr. Baxter Byerly, a physician of Cooleemee; Ed C. Byerly, of Lexington; M. L. Craver, Welcome; A. A. Young, Churchland; W. J. Berrier, Shiloh, and others.

According to the best information I can get, the church was organized in the year 1834 by Peter Byerly, a resident of the community. I am told also that Geo. F. Byerly gave the land for the church and cemetery. Peter Byerly and wife, Geo. F. Byerly and wife, Sanford Phillips and Peggie Phillips were among the charter members. The first building to be erected here, I was told, was a small log house. I do not have the names of pastors who preached here prior to 1873.

I began attending Sunday school at this church when I was about six years of age. This was in the year 1873. In that day very few aprents took any part in Sunday school, and very few who came could read. In this school we had two classes; the adults formed the Bible class, while the children composed the other class, and the text book was Webster's blue-back spelling book. Our teacher assigned us a lesson in this book each Sunday.

As well as I can remember, my first Sunday schol superintendent was E. L. Owen, of Yadkin College; my second Sunday school superintendent was A. D. Wilson, also of Yadkin College; my third was T. W. Hartley, of Friendship community. These brethren, all of sainted memory, served the church faithfully and efficiently for a long period of time.

Church Repair

The church was repaired the first time, so far as I know, in the year 1873. At this time a new floor was put in, the church was ceiled, windows installed and a pulpit erected.

The second repair was made in 1883, or about ten years later. At this time the building was raised, the walls were straightened, the church weatherboarded and recovered.

In the year about 1920, a new pulpit was made and other improvements amounting to $25. This was a donation from W. M. Byerly. The third and more extensive repair took place in the year 1923. At this time the church was completely overhauled, and Sunday school rooms added, the cost of which in money and labor amounted to about $4,000.

The fourth repairing took place in 1932. At this time two more Sunday school rooms were built and the entire building was brick veneered. Concrete walks were laid and other improvements to the amount of $2,500 to $3,000. I think it should be stated here that the brick for this church was a gift of M. L. Craver as a memorial to his wife of sainted memory. This gift was greatly appreciated by all our people.

The Pastors

I will now proceed to mention the names of pastors who served this church during my recollection, although I am not able to give the exact number of years all of them served. The list is as follows: Rev. R. W. Pegram, Rev. R. H. Wills, Rev. R. R. Hanner, Rev. A. W. Lineberry, D.D., Rev. T. T. Ferree, M.D., Rev. C. A. Pickens, Rev. C. A. Cecil, Rev. W. E. Swain, Rev. J. H. Moton, Rev. Geo. E. Hunt, Rev. J. H. Stowe, Rev. C. L. Whitaker, D.D. These brethren all served the church faithfully and have gone to their reward. A Rev. Mr. O'Briant was sent here for one or more years as a supply, and he was well liked by the congregation, but somehow his name disappeared from the conference roll. I am told he is in the M. E. church, South. The names of living pastors are as follows: Rev. N. M. Modlin, who served for three or four years, who is now a superannuated minister in the M. E. church, South; Rev. H. L. Powell served the church for a period of seven years. He was followed by Rev. R. S. Troxler, who served as pastor for nine years. The present pastor, Rev. C. E. Ridge, is now serving the church in his first year.

Looking at the past history of our church, and seeing it at present as I do, I think it has had a remarkable career. She has made progress during the past century and today we are proud of her history. Words fail me to tell of all the souls that have been saved here, and of the great contribution this church has made to the moral and spiritual growth and development of this community for the past one hundred years.

We are indeed thankful for our church building; for its membership of 190; for our Sunday school with an enrollment of nearly 200, with nine classes, all equipped with capable and consecrated teachers working under our very faithful and efficient Sunday school superintendent, W. M. Byerly, who has served in this capacity somewhere between 39 and 41 years. To him more than to any other one man is due the credit for the growth and development of this church, and for the splendid work being done in our Sunday school.

Today, as we face the New Century of Progress for this church, I feel that she is better prepared in every way to render more efficient Kingdom service than ever before. So let us face the future with greater vision, "let us be strong and of good courage."

May Friendship church ever be as a house set upon a hill that cannot be hid; that its power and influence for good may ever point men to "the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world."

Lexington, R. 3, June 10, 1934.

* * *

ORIGINAL AND CONTINUOUS SUBSCRIBERS

In response to my request for names of all those who have taken the church paper through its forty eventful years, first when it was called OUR CHURCH RECORD and later M. P. HERALD, several have sent in their names. A place in my files has been provided for these sacred names and they be kept for a while and then printed. If you have not sent yours yet, please let it come right on in. Address it to me at 804 Brown street, Greensboro. Thank you. J. E. PRITCHARD.

* * *

—Dean Lindley of High Point College spoke to the Greensboro Methodist Protestant Ministers' Association Monday morning in Grace church but on the subject, "E's in Preaching," defining this as Encouragement, Enlightenment, and Evangelism. One minister said he had hoped that Dr. Lindley would tell how ministers could preach without perspiring so much these hot Sundays.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Cline

Mr. W. L. Cline, father of Mrs. N. Brittain, passed away at his home in Hickory Sunday afternoon, after an illness of nearly a year. He was buried in Marvin church cemetery near Hickory Monday evening.

◆

Ridge

Mrs. Margaret Ridge, daughter of Emsley and Marinda Gallimore, was born December 24, 1879, departed this life April 26, 1934. She was married to Rev. A. Ridge, February 17, 1902. To this union were born three daughters. Bessie and Lillie died in infancy. Myrtle lived to be fifteen years of age when the dear Lord took her to her heavenly home.

Mrs. Ridge professed faith in Christ in early life, and later when her husband was converted she was baptized along with him, and they first united with the M. P. church at Piney Grove.

About 23 years ago Mr. and Mrs. Ridge moved their membership to Canaan M. P. church, where she remained a faithful member until death.

When Brother Ridge became a preacher of the Gospel, Mrs. Ridge also entered joyfully and whole-heartedly into that phase of the work that belongs to the pastor's wife, and she was greatly admired, her service highly appreciated, and the congregations whom they served had great love and respect for her.

Perhaps her saddest experience, and deepest sorrow, came during their pastorate on Mecklenburg charge, I believe it was, when they lost by death their only daughter, Myrtle. She was a sweet girl, the joy and sunshine of the home. It must have been a happy meeting when, on April 26, she went to live with her children and all the heavenly host, there to enjoy the bliss of heaven forever.

In her last illness she endured untold suffering, but she was submissive to it all, and bore her affiction with great patience; being conscious that the end was near, she gave her husband full assurance that she was ready to go.

She leaves husband, two brothers, Branson and Jesse Gallimore, two step-daughters, Mrs. Marvin Bisher and Mrs. Mood Hunt, of near Farmer, Randolph county, and many other relatives and friends.

The funeral service was held at Canaan church, Denton charge, April 27, 1934, at 3 o'clock, in charge of the writer, assisted by a former pastor, Rev. J. B. Trogdon, and others. Ministers present were Brothers Trogdon, C. G. Isley, E. A. Bingham, Shelton, Bowman, Bell, and Hill. The deceased was laid to rest in the church cemetery beneath a beautiful mound of flowers, there to await the resurrection morn.

"Servant of God, well done; thy glorious warfare past; the battle fought, the victory won, and thou art crowned at last."

C. E. RIDGE.

◆

Teeter

S. H. Teeter was born August 1, 1877, in Stanley county, a son of the late J. Frank and Esther Hartsell Teeter. He departed this life Friday night, May 11, 1934, after a week of critical illness from Bright's disease. He had been in failing health for more than a year.

Mr. Teeter had lived here for more than 30 years, and was widely known throughout the city. For the past 14 years he had been associated with the Crystal Laundry.

He was a charter member of Concord M. P. church, and had remained a loyal member. Funeral services were conducted from the church and were in charge of the pastor, Rev. J. M. Morgan, and assisted by Revs. G. H. Hendry, G. W. Fink, and D. D. Nash.

The floral offering was large and beautiful, showing the high esteem in which he was held.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Effie McCommons; three daughters, Mrs. C. E. Gray, Miss Kathleen Teeter, and Mrs. Margaret Smith, all of Concord; one son, Corum, of Fort Riley, Kansas; three brothers, Robert B. and Cleveland, of Salisbury, and William, of Albemarle; one sister, Mrs. Laurence Plyler, of Albemarle, and nine grandchildren, besides a host of relatives and friends who are saddened at his going.

LOUISE ROBBINS, A Niece.

◆

MARRIED

Sides-Whitten

Mr. Hoke Sides and Miss Macie Radis Whitten were happily united in marriage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Dwiggens, Kannapolis, N. C., Saturday ofternoon at 1 o'clock, June 2, 1934. Rev. C. P. Morris, pastor of the Kannapolis M. P church, of which both bride and groom are members, officiated.

The room was beautifully decorated with flowers; red, pink, and yellow roses. Only a small number of intimate friends witnessed the ceremony; Misses Elva and Lena Mae Sides, Mr. Edward Sides, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Kiser, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Dwiggens, and little Leroy and Bobby Dwiggens were the lucky few.

After a tour of western Carolina, Mr. and Mrs. Hoke Sides will return to Kannapolis to make their home. Their many friends wish for them a happy wedded life.

◆

—Registration for Pastors' Summer School will take place Monday, June 25, 2:30 p. m. Class work commences at 8:30 Tuesday.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Hickory Ridge, Forsyth	$ 5.31
Macedonia, Fallston	1.00
Liberty S. S., Liberty	3.50
Haw River S. S., Glen Raven	4.00
Fair Grove S. S., Haw River	1.75
Friendship S. S., Shiloh	2.25
First Church S. S., Winston-Salem	6.29
Baltimore S. S., W. Forsyth	1.35
Giles Chapel S. S., Richland	3.20
Bethany S. S., Randolph	1.50
Asheboro S. S.	30.00
New Zion, Why Not	.70
Love Joy, Why Not	2.32
Mt. Hermon S. S., Mt. Hermon	2.59
Shiloh S. S., Liberty	2.30
Asheville S. S., May and June	8.53
Union Grove, Mocksville	1.00
Whitakers S. S.	5.00
Bethesda S. S., State St.	3.06
Pageland S. S.	1.25
Calvary S. S.	12.00
West End S. S., Thomasville	4.13
Gleaners S. S. class, Fairmont, W. Va., clothing child	5.00
Enfield S. S.	4.00
Mebane S. S.	6.60
Union Chapel, Mocksville	1.00
Lebanon S. S., High Point	5.58
English St. S. S., High Point	7.06

Clothing and Other Gifts

Mr. Phil Siler, Siler City, two beautiful small cedar chests, hand-made.

We greatly appreciate these gifts of money and of the chests.

A Fine Prospect

The outlook for gifts in produce this summer and fall is good. We are sending out about 25 dozen glass cans this week. These will come back filled later, and will also be accompanied by other produce.

We have a great many more empty cans. Get yours soon.

And wheat and oat harvest is on. If your community or circuit will get together ten or more bushels of grain please place it at your nearest mill and let us know. We thank you.

Coupons

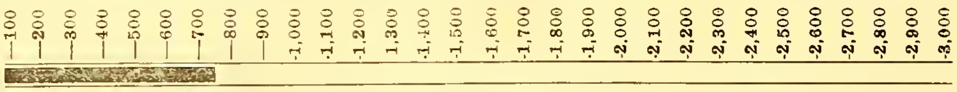
Please keep gathering and sending to us the coupons from Octagon products. They help. Also please keep up to the highest notch possible your money offerings for the summer months. Thank you and God bless you every one.

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

◆

—Dr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Brown, of Reidsville, Dr. and Mrs. N. G. Bethea of Gibsonville, Rev. C. B. Way of Stokesdale, Rev. F. R. Love of Liberty, Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Braxton of the Mount Pleasant charge, and Rev. J. A. Burgess, the pastor of the Alamance charge, were in Greensboro Monday attendingt he Greensboro Methodist Protestant Ministers' Association.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
REIDSVILLE	80
LINCOLNTON	71
SHILOH	70

WELCOME, SHILOH, to our place of honor. Wish I had two places of honor to put you in, and if I had on three hats I would take all of them off in your honor. While Shiloh Charge has not yet reached its goal, it has the distinction of having raised more subscriptions than any other charge in the Conference this year and also has the distinction of having sent the biggest check that has been sent in this year. What has already been done is an indication of what we may expect of them in the future. Let them go on and raise their quota in full and we will have a celebration in keeping with their achievement even if we have to secure the Liberty Bell that was cracked when it sounded out in such thunderous tones that the Declaration of Independence was signed.

And now, just a word to those that are not sending in much for the Herald these days: Let me remind you that your quota of subscriptions and Herald Deficit are standing right between you and a perfect honor roll at the Annual Conference. This matter of the church paper is not my pet scheme, but it is a part of the Conference programme, and no charge can have a perfect honor roll without every interest being brought up. It will not be long until Conference, so do not delay, but get busy now.

Thanking all those who are doing their best and urging those who have not done their best to get busy, I shall await the results of this week with a great deal of interest.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

* * *

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	9¾	$....
Albemarle	17	7	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	24	....
Asheville	14	7¼	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	11.10	....
Bessemer City	13	5.14	....
Burlington, First	71	14	*20.00
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	13	....
Charlotte	21	9.2	.90
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.32	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	13½	....
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5½	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	1½	....
Denton	48	11¾	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	7½	*5.00
Fallston	85	22	....
Flat Rock	63	13	....
Friendship	21	1⅝	....
Forsyth	45	8½	2.50
Gibsonville	20	4	....
Glen Raven	47	4¾	....
GRAHAM	27	27.00	....
Granville	59	17½	16.55
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY	29	31½	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	8½	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	2½	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	9.1	*7.50
Greensville	59	7	....
Guilford	37	9½	....
Halifax	53	8	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	13.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	18	....
High Point, Lebanon	34	7½	....
High Point, Welch	22	4½	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	16.30	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2½	....
Lexington, First	45	10½	*10.00
Lexington, State Street	40	7.36	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	18	12.85	....
Littleton	50	7¾	....
Mebane	28	5½	....
Mecklenburg	40	1½	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	3½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	4	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	16½	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	25¼	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7½	....
Randolph	74	9½	....
Reidsville	10	8	....
Richland	43	3½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	44½	*20.00
Siler City	20	10¾	*5.00
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	13	....
Tabernacle	39	21¼	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	2½	....
West Forsyth	62	8	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	4½	....
Winston, First	26	7¼	*7.62
WINSTON. SOUTH	3	4½	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

 Subsidy paid in full.

* * *

PRAYER ASKED

Mrs. J. L. Love, wife of Rev. J. L. Love of Connelly Springs Charge, is ill. They request the prayers of all the Christian people,

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher
Published weekly in the Interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

CONFERENCE BROTHERHOOD NOTICE

I have received the following response to my call in Herald of May 17:

Rev. A. L. Hunter	$2.00
Rev. G. F. Reynolds	2.00
Rev. J. F. Minnis	2.00
Rev. E. O. Peeler	2.50
Total	$8.50

This call was issued on account of the death of Brother J. W. Hulin. Every minister employed by the Annual Conference is supposed to pay $1.00 for every $500.00 salary promised for the year. Those who have not yet responded will please do so at once, as this claim should be paid.

R. A. HUNTER,
Treas. Conference Brotherhood.
Winston-Salem, N. C., R. F. D. 2.

* * *

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Rev. R. C. Stubbins	$ 4.00
Rev. J. D. Cranford	3.65
Prof. Paul S. Kennett	3.00
Rev. F. W. Paschall	2.00
Mrs. E. S. Taylor	2.00
Rev. W. D. Reed	1.00
Rev. P. E. Bingham	1.00
Mrs. J. J. Mallard	1.00
Rev. E. L. Ballard	1.00
Rev. R. A. Hunter	1.00

An error was made in crediting Subsidy last week; $3.50 should have been $2.50 for Piney Grove.

* * *

REV. M. P. CHAMBLISS SUDDENLY TAKEN

Yesterday Brother M. P. Chambliss walked the streets of Greensboro, seemingly in good health. This morning he lies in the embrace of death. He fell suddenly in front of the King Cotton Hotel while passing along. His body was at once sent to Long's Hospital but on arrival was found to be dead. A case of heart failure. He was a quiet, earnest worker, filling a unique place in our Conference. May God comfort the devoted mother, brothers and sisters.

* * *

—Rev. R. I. Farmer is assisting Rev. O. B. Williams in a meeting at Kernersville this week. All the churches in the town called in their evening services last Sunday in order to attend the meeting.

—Pastors' Summer School at High Point College, June 25 to July 6.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

Rev H L Isley 2aug4 Rb

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND A[illegible] ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., JUNE 28, 1934 NUMBER 32

Both Wisdom and Integrity Needed

By Luther K. Long

President Roosevelt has been thinking and talking of three kinds of "security" for Americans: (1) "Security of home", (2- "Security of livelihood", (3) "Security of insurance." In a recent message to Congress he summed it all up, saying:

"We are working toward the ultimate object of making it possible for American families to live as Americans should."

This is a worthy ambition. Many millions of American men and women have been working toward that same end for many years. They have not been working consciously to the end that each of their fellow citizens shall have the same measure of comfort and well-being. Rather, they have felt that if each one sees to it that he himself is provided for, the entire list of Americans will be secure. As Arthur Brisbane remarks: "Hitherto, Americans themselves have expected to make it possible to live as Americans should by working and saving." Now, for something more than a year, the Government has been taking a considerable part in making it possible for many distressed people to live at all.

Is there any difference between the President's plan and the hitherto American plan? There certainly is. Never before have farmers been paid for plowing under fields of cotton and young corn. Never before have they been paid for slaughtering mother hogs and small pigs. Never before have they been paid for slaughtering mother hogs and small pigs. Never before have so many citizens been fed without working, or paid——eometimes better than current wages—for doing work that has little or no commercial value.

Is there advantage, or danger, in these changes of method? Both advantage and danger are evident. Many of our people have been hungry and cold and without sufficient clothing. They had to be cared for. This has opened the way for considerable graft, and other abuses.

For many years we have been heading toward a larger participation of the Federal Government in the business and industrial affairs of the country. This has been necessary, in part, because there has been entirely too much tendency on the part of financial and commercial interests to concentrate wealth and power in their own hands, and to administer affairs without due consideration for the well-being of the people.

The time is ripe for the Federal Government to take a decided interest in these matters that are the vital concern of all our people. No one need worry if some flavor of socialism, or even of communism, gets into the methods of doing

(Continued on Page Six)

Developing Will-Power

By Grenville Kleiser

Will-power is the great distinguishing quality of highly successful men. Will-power is the propelling force which drives a man on to ultimate achievement. Will-power is the greatest factor in constructive success. When you have this power at your ready command, you will think no enterprises too large for you, nor recognize any limit to your possibilities of achievement.

You are daily making your own character. Your will is guiding you in a thousand directions, and you are shaping your destiny by every thought you think, every resolution you make, and every act you perform. Your will is the supreme power within you, and the principal guide and director of all you think and do.

The term "will-power" may suggest to your mind such ideas as: decision, determination, purpose, resolution, stamina, backbone, self-control, pluck, audacity, firmness, tenacity, energy, stability, vigor, enthusiasm, manliness, courage, and invincibleness. The more you entertain constructive ideas in your mind, and habitually dwell upon them, the more rapidly will they become manifest in your daily life.

It is important that you train your will-power in very high degree, because you must thoroughly master yourself before you can master others. Believe in yourself and in your innate abilities, and instantly your will-power begins to grow. Have faith in your own powers and your will immediately begins to assert its supremacy. Every time you think confidently and hopefully of yourself you add something to your will-power.

When you want a thing deeply, earnestly, and intensely, this feeling of desire reenforces your will and arouses in you the determination to work for the desired object. When you have a distinct purpose in view, your work becomes of absorbing interest. You bend your best power to it; you give it concentrated attention; you think of little else than the realization of this purpose; your will is stimulated into unusual activity, and as a consequence you do your work with an increasing sense of power.

It is of great value to you to be known as a man of will. It tends to disarm opposition, causes the timid and cowardly to capitulate, and stamps you as a natural leader. Discriminate, however, between will-power and mere stubbornness or obstinacy. Always be just and reasonable, even though you have unlimited power to enforce your will. If you have started on the wrong road, have the will and courage to turn back. The same great power of will which makes you power-

(Continued on Page Four)

MORE ABOUT CHURCH FINANCES

On May 10, the North Carolina Christian Advocate carried the following interesting statement concerning the work of the recent General Conference of the Methodist Church, South, held in Jackson, Miss.: "The most important business before this conference was the adoption of a new financial plan that will relieve the confusion and unrest that have characterized the church for the last few years."

The full plan as worked out and adopted by the conference may be found in the above paper, issue May 17. The following is quoted therefrom, which seems to be the gist of the plan as it relates to the local church and charge: ". . . the presiding elder shall present to the (first) quarterly conference the amount apportioned to the charge by the district stewards, for general and conference benevolences. The quartetrly conference may accept, increase or decrease the amount. Th amount voted by the quarterly conference shall be the apportionment for the charge." This is progress in church finances with a "bang."

However, these facts which announce the inauguration of a new financial system for the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, are presented here by way of remembering that our representatives from North Carolina in our last General Conference three years ago had in their possession a resolution which they either neglected or refused to present, yet one which if presented to and adopted by the Conference would have set up within our denomination a financial system with one exception identical to all intents with the above. Accordingly, and as a result of this failure, we now see a denomination with a bishop giving to the individual churches and charges the right to determine their budgets while we as a denomination still cling to the old system of "handing down budgets."

Our most recent public defense of this inadequate, outworn system is to be found in an address delivered by our highest denominational official at a meeting of our Board of Administration assembled in Washington City, May 18. The following comes from the address as published in the Methodist Protestant-Recorder, issue June 1. "We hear criticism of our budget plan: our system may have reduced our income but it certainly has increased our harmony and solidarity."

The most interesting thing about this declaration is that it shifts the defense from one foot to the other, so to speak. Formerly, the system in the sight of its advocates had one outstanding virtue, it got the money; whereas, we are now called upon to reverence it because it produces "harmony and solidarity." The moral, if any, is this: by and large our denominational leaders are still wedded to the system of "handing down budgets," and if forced by events to give up one reason for defending it will find another even though the reason advanced may be less plausible than the one just discarded.

Previously it has been stated that the resolution which was in the possession of our representatives in the last General Conference would have if presented and adopted given to the denomination with one exception a financial plan to all intents identical with the one now being instituted in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, as a medium through which they may the better cope with the problems of reconstruction and lead their people into a larger and more consistent liberality. The one exception referred to is to be found just here: the resolution as written required the last quarterly conference rather than the first to set the budget.

To have the last quarterly conference determine the budget has two noticeable and distinct advantages: first, it permits each annual conference while in session to know exactly how much money it may reasonably expect during the year and legislate accordingly; second, it gives the conference an opportunity to review the pledges and, if necessary, address special appeals. The system without these two advantages is hardly complete. In a measure they are the crux of the entire system, giving full play to the principle upon which it is established. It is from this vantage point that the real, telling contact with the people is to be made and sustained.

Two years ago the North Carolina Annual Conference, in response to a growing demand within the conference leading in this direction, granted to the local churches and charges a noticeable amount of latitude in determining the budgets. However, out of this concession which was made independent of the general church and which was followed by a more reasonable annual conference assessment had developed the following trend: lead the quarterly conferences to accept all annual confrence assessments as obligatory, use discrimination in regard to general conference assessments. On the surface this breeds denominational disloyalty, deeper it announces the fact that the concessions thus far given by the conference are only temporary. Under more favorable conditions, and sooner than we think, the degree of self-determination in setting budgets now enjoyed by our churches and charges will have slipped away and become once more a thing of the past.

The remedy is to be found just here: a deep, whole-hearted recognition of the fact that no group, however wise, has a right to dictate, or personally create a financial situation that dictates to the great body of church-goers how much they shall or shall not give. More, leaders who will diligently and faithfully work this principle out in the life and program of our denomination. To do less than this is to legalize, Judaize Christianity and rob it of its spirit, power and enthusiasm. That people will give without being told how much to give is revealed in the requests sent up to the North Carolina Branch Meeting held in Henderson, April, this year: "Eleven auxiliaries sent in requests to the finance committee to increase their apportionment."

This much is certain: any real progress that our denomination may make in the future will be intensive rather than extensive. Great sections of our conference and denomination have never as yet been touched by our program and ideals. To do this we must have a financial system that will coordinate rather than alienate. The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the words of the Christian Advocate, adopted the plan of letting those who pay the budgets determine the budgets "to relieve the confusion and unrest that have characterized the church for the last few years." The same plan would have the same results in our church; at least, it should be given a chance.

Finally, everything in the early life and history of our church suggests such an approach to the problem of church finances. More, every urge looking toward the future welfare of our denomination demands it. In the words of our most distinguished American: "It is childish to talk about recovery first and reconstruction afterward. In the very nature of the process of recovery we must avoid the destructive influences of the past." Our next General Conference will do one of two things: either give to our church the stimulus that would come from such a financial plan, as outlined above, or begin to make ready to "ease in" through the back door of some other denomination which has perhaps already had the courage to do so.

H. F. Fogleman.

THE ESSENTIAL GOSPEL

By Luther K. Long

I do not recognize any vital difference between the gospel in the New Testament and the gospel in the Old Testament. The gospel of the grace of God is one gospel. It was mediated in the Old Testament by Prophets and Psalmists, in the New Testament by Jesus and the Apostles, and in our own times it is mediated by men and women whose hearts and minds are tuned to receive what the Spirit of God would now say to mankind.

Bound up with the essential gospel—in the two Testaments, and in pulpit and other utterances—is much of human speculation, tradition, and perverted or mistaken opinion. Here are some of the settings-forth of the essential gospel:

In the story of the transgression in the Garden of Eden—after Eve and Adam had partaken of the fruit of the forbidden tree—the Lord God is represented (according to the margin of the Standard Revision) as saying to the serpent: "I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed: he shall lie in wait for thy head, and thou shalt lie in wait for his heel."

This is not a prediction of a personal Redeemer who, in the far distant future, would come to the world and then begin to destroy the power of sin and Satan. It is, rather, a prophetic utterance—a gospel, good news—to the effect that wrong, evil, sin, was then and always will be in the process of being crushed. God, who is the central reality and power in all progress, is the author of that gospel. He himself injects that bit of good news into human life and history. Humanity, with God's help, is thus pledged and empowered to win in the conflict.

The prophet Micah, conscious of the dreadful fact of human sin and alienation from God, is desirous of finding how men may come into peace and harmony with Him. He asks: "Wherewith shall I come before Jehovah, and bow myself before the high God? shall I come before Him with burnt offerings, with calves a year old? will Jehovah be pleased with thousands of rams, or with ten thousands of rivers of oil? shall I give my first-born for my transgression, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?

Evidently these traditional paths of approach to God are dismissed by Micah as ineffective and discredited. He then answers the question out of his own Spirit-filled heart and mind: "He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth Jehovah require of thee but to do justly, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

In the 51st Psalm, the penitent sinner comes directly to God with this plea:

Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy loving kindness.
Wash me thoroughly from my iniquity,
And cleanse me from my sin.
I know my transgressions;
And my sin is ever before me.
Create in me a clean heart, O God;
And renew a right spirit within me.
For thou delightest not in sacrifice; else I would give it:
Thou hast no pleasure in burnt offering.
The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit:
A broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise.

This is the essential gospel! This is good news for the penitent sinner. Here is access to God without the mediation of a priest bearing to the altar the blood of an animal sacrifice.

In the story that is above all other stories—the story of the wayward son who came back home—Jesus gives expression to this same gospel. The father waited and watched longingly while the son wasted his substance with riotous living, drank the dregs of want and misery, and came to himself. Before the returning penitent could complete his confession, the arms of the father were about his neck and a kiss was implanted on his cheek. Clothing, a ring, and a feast were ordered—"for this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost and is found." It was fitting, in the father's mind, that the household be called to feasting and rejoicing.

Once more let me quote from the words of Jesus in which the moral, spiritual, and rational approach to himself is made prominent: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light."

This invitation is so familiar, its sound is so gracious, that we are in danger of passing over its strenuous requirements—thinking only that it provides an easy road to "rest." Two things in it are important: (1) We are required to take the "yoke" of Jesus—submit to Him, yield our powers to Him in loving, obedient service. (2) We are required to study in His school, to "learn" of Him, to understand His ideas and ideals, to serve Him and our fellow-men after a rational fashion. Only to the extent that we can fully meet these two requirements can we enter into the permanent "rest" promised by Jesus.

An echo of this invitation of the Master is found in the book of Revelation: "And the Spirit and the bride say, Come. And he that heareth, let him say, Come. And he that is athirst, let him come: and whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely."

Here again is the essential gospel. Here is no animal sacrifice, no blood atonement. So it is throughout the teachings and deeds of Jesus. There is always plenty of sacrifice and suffering—vicarious sacrifice, and suffering, if you will. The good shepherd suffers and sacrifices for the lost sheep. The father suffers on account of the wayward son. God and Jesus continually suffer in bearing the sins of men—but not to appease anybody's wrath. In it all is manifested the love of God for His wayward children, and His desire to bring them into union and fellowship with himself.

PREDICTIONS OF PROHIBITIONISTS SUSTAINED BY REPEAL EXPERIENCE

At least four of the generally expressed opinions of prohibitionists are being borne out by experience with repeal. These prophecies were:

1. Typical saloon evils would reappear.

2. It would be impossible to protect prohibition territory under repeal conditions.

3. The general legalized sale of alcoholic beverages is impracticable in a nation which makes such large use of machinery.

4. Tax receipts from the liquor trade would be disappointing.

The results as they are being disclosed by news reports and official statistics show:

1. The saloon is back in many communities and typical saloon evils obtain in communities which do not allow "perpendicular" drinking. We have the same control of local politics by the saloon machine, the waste of meager incomes and relief funds of the poor in these establishments, a great increase in drunkenness and debauchery in close connection with the retail sale of liquors.

2. Increased drunkenenss in territory which is still covered by state and local prohibition laws indicates the disastrous results of the constant suggestion to drink conveyed through anti-prohibition propaganda and liquor advertising. When we had prohibition, the weight of the influence and counsel of government was against drinking; now there seems to be a tendency to show sympathy with all federal policies by patronizing the legalized liquor trade. This tendency has also been marked by an inclination to manifest contempt for local laws, as in Georgia where beer has been on sale in violation of the state statute. These unfortunate psychological results of repeal menace the womanhood and childhood of the nation and justify anticipation of disastrous social results in the next decade unless there is a complete change in the governmental attitude toward drink.

3. The motor car accident rate is rising rapidly in almost all parts of the United States. Many of these accidents are due to drunken driving; many more are undoubtedly due to "the dangerous undrunken driver" who has consumed liquors only moderately but has slowed his reactions and inclined himself to recklessness.

4. It will be remembered that the repealists promised the United States that the tax on beer alone would be no less than one billion dollars annually. The total amount actually collected by the Bureau of Internal Revenue for all liquor taxes during the calendar year of 1933, when beer was generally on sale for approximately eight months, amounted only to $137,906,015.82. For the period December 1, 1933, to March 31, 1934, a "repeal" period, with distilled liquors generally on sale in addition to beer, the total amount collected by the Bureau of Internal Revenue from all liquor taxes amounted to $98,078,213.87. If the liquor traffic is charged with the actual economic loss due to motor car accidents caused by drink, it is probable that the entire federal receipts will be offset by this item alone. The United States is undoubtedly suffering in comparison with various European countries due to the want of a uniform federal policy and to the lack of temperance effort on the part of government.

NEEDED IN EVERY HOME

More frequent reading of Bible selections.

More regular returning of thanks at family meals.

More singing of religious hymns.

More prayers, however brief.

More devotion to the privileges and duties of religious worship.

More telling or reading of Bible stories to children.

More attention to personal appearance, neatness, and cleanliness; cheerful countenance; controlled speech.

More thoughtfulness by husbands and wives towards each other in kindly courtesy and in little remembrances.

More partnership and consultation about finance — in spending, saving, and giving.

More reading of religious literature, the church paper, the missionary magazine, the church school youth publications.—Unknown.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS ON ALCOHOLISM IN LONDON

The Twentieth International Congress on Alcoholism will be held in the Imperial Institute, London, July 30 to August 3 under the presidency of the Right Hon. Viscount Astor. This will be the first Congress in many years in which the government of the United States will not be officially represented, as no invitation has been received from the British government. The Congress will survey the situation concerning alcoholism in various countries of the world and its membership will enroll some of the most distinguished educators and scientists. The Hon. Convener is Dr. Courtenay C. Weeks, 33, Bedford Place, London, W. C. 1.

Developing Will-Power

(Continued from Page One)

ful in doing the right thing, should also serve to restrain you from doing the wrong thing.

Say "I will!" to yourself many times a day, and at the end of the week you will be conscious of greatly increased self-reliance. Say "I will!" whenever you enter upon a new or difficult task, and the way will become clearer to you. Say "I will!" when you have some special work to do within a limited time, and you will more readily accomplish that work. Say "I will!" to yourself, say it aloud, over and over again, and you will realize that you are gradually becoming master of yourself.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Th Following Charges Pay A. C. Expenses for July:

Cleveland, Connelly Springs, Creswell, Davidson, Friendship, W. Thomasville, Vance, and Weaverville charges.

All Charges to Raise A. C. Debt Budget for July

This makes it necessary that the charges above listed accommodate themselves to the two as best they can. Some of them have been taking offerings at each service all along for these claims; they must continue the plan, but an earnest effort should be made to complete these budgets at this time.

We shall call for the Superannuate assessment in August. This will complete the roll call of assessments for A. C. budgets except for those charges which will not at that time have raised their A. C. Expense budget, and this will give September and October for the completion of all budgets which were not fully raised when presented also for paying pastor's salary and catching up with the World Service budget. In other words, there will be two months and two Sundays to complete all budgets after August.

We do hope that every one, pastor and people, will give these matters their most prayerful attention. So much depends upon the raising of these budgets in full that no effort should be spared in completing this part of our tasks.

Revival Season is Upon Us

Our fathers handed down to us the custom of holding our revival meetings in the hot summer months, and we are passing it on to our successors. Whether it be a good custom or not, I shall not comment now. But I do urge that every one make the most of it he or she can while we have the opportunity. With most of our churches no effort is made to win converts except in this period; so if we fail in these weeks the ingatherings will surely be small. We ought to be much in prayer, thoughtful of the best approaches to the unsaved, and busily engaged in trying to bring them to a decision for Christ and the Church.

Is it Necessary to Open Caskets in Churches?

Would it not be well to discontinue entirely the custom of opening the caskets in the churches at funeral services? As a rule those who know the deceased have had ample opportunity to look upon them before the church is reached; the curious and those who feel that they must go when the undertaker comes to their seat and invites them to go, although they may have just seen the face of the deceased, will go and thus prolong a service to the heart strain and discomfort of the loved ones. We should be more thoughtful of their feelings than to continue a custom which can possibly mean nothing to the dead nor the living. A mutual understanding of the undertakers to discontinue this would greatly decrease the custom; and the pastor can do much to form sentiment against this profitless practice.

Two Pastors in the Active Work Called Home

Rev. M. P. Chambliss fell in the foyer of the King Cotton hotel in Greensboro Wednesday, May 20, and died immediately. A brief service was conducted in a funeral parlor in Greensboro Thursday afternoon, and Friday he was buried from his home church, Philadelphia church, Greensville charge. Obituary committee will be appointed at an early date to prepare a suitable memoir for the Annual Conference. Our prayers and sympathy go out to the aged mother, brothers and sisters and other relatives.

Brother C. W. Saunders died in Duke hospital early Friday morning, May 22. He had been in poor health for many months, but he struggled to live, and his visit to Duke was made with the hope that some relief might come. He was buried from Flinthill church Sunday. It was in this cemetery that his parents were buried. Other members of an obituary committee will be appointed to act with Rev. G. L. Reynolds, his pastor, to prepare a memoir; Brother Reynolds is chairman. Our prayers and sympathy go out to his widow and children. Many ministers attended both of these services, thus attesting their brotherly interest.

Seagrove Church, Why Not Charge, Rev. G. L. Reynolds, Pastor

This was the formal opening of this church and there was held an all-day program. I spoke in the morning. In the afternoon Brother J. G. Rogers presented the Layman's Fellowship, and Mrs. W. C. Hammer and Mrs. R. M. Andrews presented the work of the women's organization of the conference. We appreciate the co-operation of these helpers.

The church was organized in 1929 while Brother Trogdon was pastor. The membership is not yet large, but it has shown its vitality by erecting one of the most attractive and convenient rural churches in our conference. The building is of brick, with large auditorium, choir recess, eight Sunday school rooms, and large room on basement floor which will likely be used as a social center for the church. The church is yet to have a heating plant installed and new seats. These will possibly complete the furniture and equipment. And a fine thing about it all, they have been paying as they go. Much credit is due the pastor and building committee for erecting such a modern house of worship. It will doubtless take care of the needs of the community for many years to come. We enjoyed our visit here and hope to hear of their rapid growth in the near future.

The Group Meetings

Some seem not to understand the purpose of the group meetings we are putting on in the local churches. The purpose is to secure the attendance of the officials of the church and all others who can and will attend. The object is not to take offerings nor to talk about money primarily. The purpose is to try to create and quicken interest in the work of the church. So we are taking with us to each church three others speakers and the following are some of the topics which are discussed: Duties of church officials, or what it means to belong to the church; evangelism; stewardship; the work of the women in the church; the Laymen's' Fellowship, etc. It would greatly delight all of us to have large attendance upon these meetings. Opportunity will be given for free and frank discussion of any church project or problem there shall be time for doing. The next group will begin at Spring Church and close with Union Chapel, Granville Charge, from July 9th-13th. I will be assisted in these meetings by Revs. L. W. Gerringer, W. H. Neese, and Mrs. J. H. Cutchin.

Plan of Appointments

July 1—Philadelphia church 11 a.m., Matthews Chapel afternoon, Wesley Chapel at night.

July 8—Spring church 11 a.m., Lebanon afternoon, Pleasant Hill at night.

July 9—Group Meeting on Spring Church charge.

July 10—Group Meeting, Enfield.

July 11—Group Meeting Eden church, Halifax circuit.

July 12—Group Meeting, Corinth church, Littleton circuit.

July 13—Group Meeting, Granville charge.

July 15—Mebane 11 a.m., Union Grove afternoon, Efland at night.

July 17, 18, 19—Creswell charge; Group meetings at Rehoboth, Mt. Hermon, and Mt. Elma.

July 21—District meeting at Hebron church.

July 22—Siler City charge.

July 28—Group Meeting, Baltimore church, West Forsyth charge.

July 29—District Meeting at Baltimore church in the morning.

July 29—Afternoon, District Meeting at Spencer church.

R. M. Andrews.

◆

Both Wisdom and Integrity Needed

(Continued from Page One)

things. A measure of these systems has—and has had from our early history—a place in our way of doing things.

When, however, officialdom takes an increasing part in the management of the production and distribution of goods, the working hours and wages of labor, the prices to be paid for goods and service, and assumes responsibility for housing and feeding the people, two things become of supreme importance: Wisdom and integrity. Without these we are in a bad way. There is at present more desire for place and profit among public officials than is consistent with assurance of the largest measure of wisdom and integrity. The N. R. A. is rightly under fire, and President Roosevelt is justifiedly backing off and promising considerable in the way of modifications.

My impression is that this is a time for both a critical and a co-operative attitude toward present governmental plans and attitudes. Every citizen is under obligation to use his intelligence in judging, and his constructive powers in aiding national recovery.

BROKEN PROMISES OF REPEAL

The foes of prohibition made three major pleas for repeal: the first, to promote temperance; the second, to save youth; the third, to reduce taxes. But new high records of arrests for drunkenness have been set up in nearly every city, village and hamlet in the nation. This golden promise has turned to dross. The courageous press is horrified at the sickening debauchery of youth, and even childhood, since repeal. "Young Girls and Boys in Liquor Joints," heads an editorial in the St. Paul Daily News, which tells of young barmaids freely selling liquor to boys and girls, some of whom appear not more than fourteen years of age. The editorial details the sodden drunkenness of these children and youths, and tells of the vile stories told aloud to young ears, and of disgusting obscenity. News stories in the Chicago papers tell of liquor-saturated children "necking" in public, of shocking obscenity and debauchery, and of the tragic consequences, beyond belief, as school girls, their inhibitions shattered and their emotions aroused by drink, reel on to ruin. So this second promise has turned to bitterness and gall. As a bribe to American voters to vote for repeal, Congress wrote into law a provision that certain surtaxes should be inoperative if prohibition were repealed. This surtax was a two per cent addition to taxable incomes in the lower, and four per cent in the higher brackets. But liquor taxes have fallen far below the pre-election "guesstimates" of the brewers, greedy of gain, and the politicians, hungry for graft. So the government offers a new surtax of ten per cent on all taxable incomes, large and small! Thus the third promise of a two per cent to four per cent tax credit flops to a ten per cent debit.—W. G. Calderwood, in Prohibition Facts Service.

◆

GAVE ALL SHE HAD

A Sunday school missionary in the West was visiting a friend's house. He had gathered the family about him, and with a map spread out on the floor was showing where he had organized Sunday schools, and was explaining his work to a deeply interested circle of hearers. Among them was little Helen, the four-year-old sunshine of the home, who was nestled up under his arm, listening with the others.

"Here is the place," said the missionary, a shadow falling on his genial face, "where the people want a Sunday school. They are begging hard for it. but they must wait. The money does not hold out."

Soon after, little Helen slipped out of his arms and ran away. In a few minutes she came back, and stretching her small arms across the map, laid a bright gold dollar on the spot on the map where the school was wanted.

"There," she said with satisfaction, "that's all I've got. That's for the Sunday school. Can they have a Sunday school now? Is that enough?"

It was enough. The missionary took it with him and preached from it. and it proved a powerful text, for as he told of the little girl's gift it touched many a heart, and moved many others to give. Those people in the West had their Sunday school, besides many others were helped, and it came from the cheerful gift of a little girl only four years old.—Unknown.

OUR STORY PAGE

ALTON'S HOME RUN

By Charles W. Stone

Alton Cummings liked immensely to play baseball; in fact, it was his chief sport, game, diversion, or whatever those things of which one is exceedingly fond of doing are called; and he spent every spare moment of his most valuable time on the old vacant weedy corner lot with his inseparable companions, Bill, Harry, and Willie, not to mention the kids on the next street. Al, as he was called by his playmates, was in his estimation about the best player among them, and Mrs. Cummings was frequently disturbed when he brought up the subject of his long "Babe Ruth" swats; and how the pitcher, although he was older than Al and his eleven years, could not put one past his bat. The fact that he was not boasting but merely telling "gospel truth" was often declared by him in the progress of his quite interesting monologue.

"Why, Mom," he said, "you should have seen me at bat this morning! Let me tell you: Now Bill was pitching and I got up to the plate, you know, and sort of dared him to put one by me. Well, sir, he threw a high one and I reached up and pulled it down by third base for a home run! You should have seen that "apple" travel—over everyone's head and bumped into Mr. Williams' house. Yes, sir, that is the truth, exactly," he finished, out of breath.

Clearly disturbed and anxious concerning Alton's recently acquired, undesirable habit, she asked severely:

"Now, Alton, do you mean to say that you knocked the baseball completely across that lot against the Williams house? Why, that must have been nearly two hundred yards. Impossible!"

"Yes, Mom, I did, too."

"Alton!" she exclaimed sharply, "aren't you exaggerating a little? Come now—why——"

"Well, maybe I was—but it almost did," he replied, still maintaining the truth of his former statement.

Alton's mother had nothing more to say, but dressed for her trip to town, and after the usual farewell kisses, departed with the promise of a pleasant surprise on her return.

It was late afternoon when she again saw Alton and inquired, as she usually did, if he had minded the house, and behaved himself correctly as all gentlemen did; then she said with a perfectly honest-looking countenance:

"Alton, dear, you remember that I promised something delightful for you? Look on the table in your room. There is a bag full of chocolate candy that is yours."

"Thanks, Mom," cried he, skipping joyfully down the hallway.

However, in his room he found a surprise of rather a different nature than he had anticipated; and Mrs. Cummings was aware of it when the evidence of his displeasure reached her ears.

"Hey, Mom," he shouted, bringing the bag "full" of candy disdainfully before her. "This is not a sack full of candy—only two pieces! Didn't you stretch it a bit?"

"And so it is full of candy, isn't it, dear?"

"No!' his mouth curled scornfully.

"Yes, my son, the bag is, I insist, full of chocolate candy."

"But, Mother!"

"At least," she quietly continued, "is is as true that the bag is filled, as it is true that you knocked a baseball absolutely so far that it rebounded from Mr. Williams' house, is it not?"

Wide-eyed and very astonished, he watched her, amazed; then his really beautiful long curling eyelashes covered his big brown eyes and he went into her arms.

"Well, I guess it didn't exactly go as far as I said, but it did go a very good distance. Not quite that far, you see—oh, gee, Mom, I did sort of stretch the truth, didn't I?"

"Yes," smiled his mother, planting fondly a kiss on his adorable boyish mouth, "you did exaggerate a little bit in your narrative. And now you see that the bag, too, is not really full of candy. It isn't exactly to be called the truth. You will be more careful next time, won't you, darling?"

Siler City, N. C.

* * *

WHEN POOR JIM FOUND A HOME

Jim was the boy that left Miss Fisher's Evening Journal at the front every night at six o'clock. As regular as clockwork was Jim, nothing delaying him but a late mail train. Miss Fisher was a young woman, nearly thirty, who lived alone in the big brick house out on the end of Garfield street. Without parents or near kindred, she still was cheerful and busy alone in the old family home. Why she had not married no one knew; for she was far from plain, and had as sweet and lovable a disposition as one could wish for.

Miss Fisher sat down to her supper, after bountifully supplying Tabby with a saucer of milk and Tige with a plate of meat. The clock struck six and she went to the door for the paper; she always read the "personal" column while eating. But no paper was there. The wind was blowing and it was bitter cold, and she hurried in and shut the door.

"Jim is late tonight," she remarked to Tabby, who sat by the fire washing her face.

When she had finished her supper, Miss Fisher went to the door again, but still there was no paper. Scarcely was she seated in the sitting room, however, when she heard a slow, shuffling step outside, and returned to get the Journal and bid Jim good-evening. As she opened the door she stumbled over a dark object crouching on the step. It was Jim, and he was crying.

"Why, Jimmy, what's the matter?" said Miss Fisher, stooping down and touching his shoulder.

"O Miss Fisher," he sobbed, "I'm s-so c-c-cold."

"You poor boy; come right in by the fire; it is a bad night," and she helped the lad into the warm room and placed a chair by the fire. As Jim's fingers began to grow warm he cried with pain, but Miss Fisher took his hands in her own and rubbed the warmth into them.

"You're so good," he said. "That makes 'em feel a lot better," and his cheery smile came out in spite of the tears which still lingered on the long, black lashes.

"Now you sit right here and get good and warm, and I'll come back in a few minutes," and she slipped out into the kitchen where Jim could hear the dishes rattle. In a very short time she appeared again, and, setting a tray down on the table, turned Jim's chair around, and asked him if he would not like a bowl of chicken broth. There it sat, steaming hot, and crackers and sandwiches with it.

"My! but don't that look good!" he exclaimed, as he proceeded to make way with it.

Miss Fisher left the room, and in a moment returned with a plate of delicious looking cookies and gingerbread. Gingerbread! Jim didn't even know what it was, but decided immediately that it was something "dretfully good."

"Were you hungry?" she said. "How fortunate that I happened to have some of that broth left! It was just the thing to warm you up this cold night, wasn't it?"

"Oh, it was so good!" said Jim, between the bites of gingerbread.

"Now that you have finished eating, tell me about yourself and where you live," said Miss Fisher, when he finally said that he had "surely had enough of everything."

"I don't live nowheres in particular," said Jim. "Just now I'm sleeping over in Joe Skinner's shed; he said I might while 'twas so cold."

"But haven't you any home?" asked Miss Fisher in surprise.

"No, Ma'am. I ain't got no folks like most boys; I don't remember as I ever had any; I've always just lived around."

"But what did you do before you slept in the shed?"

"Oh, I slept some in Dolan's shop—he don't never lock it up; and I've stayed some nights in the big barn up there on the hill; but they've got an awful fierce dog, and I don't go up there if I can find any other place to stay."

"Poor Jimmy!" she thought, as she noted the thin coat and mittenless hands. At last Jim rose to go, but held his hand out toward the fire as though loath to leave it. Going to the clothes-press, Miss Fisher brought out a coat and a pair of mittens.

"Here, Jim, put these on; they will keep you warmer this cold night," she said, holding them out to him.

"O Miss Fisher!" he exclaimed, and for a moment his face was buried in the folds of the coat which she held, while her hand rested lightly on the silken black hair. In a moment he was gone, wearing "Brother Freddy's" coat and mittens.

Long into the night Miss Fisher lay thinking. "Poor Jim! What a life to lead—no 'folks', no friends, no home," and tears came into her eyes as she thought of Freddy, now a man grown up, but gone, no one knew where—perhaps wandering somewhere in want, like the prodigal son!

"Oh," she almost shuddered. "If Freddie were out on a night like this! If Freddie were without a home and friends, I would want someone to be good to him—my little brother; and I'll be good to Jim."

When she awoke the next morning it was storming, and it continued and increased all day. At night, just as she was about to sit down to supper, she heard Jim's step on the porch. Immediately she arose and opened the door.

"Good evening, Jim. Won't you come in and get warm?"

Jim came in and sat by the fire till he was warm, then Miss Fisher asked him to stay for tea. There were creamed potatoes and tea, and what seemed to Jim a mountain of beautiful white bread.

"How'd you come to have so much of everything just for you alone?" asked Jim, as he took another slice of bread. "Did you plan for me to stay for supper?"

"Yes," relied Miss Fisher, "I am getting tired of always eating supper alone, and I want you to always take tea with me."

At this Jim's big black eyes opened wide. "Always? Every night?"

"Yes, every night. And Jim, there's a little room upstairs with a bed all ready for some one to sleep in, but there's no one to sleep in it; suppose you stay and occupy it, will you?"

"Really, Miss Fisher?"

"Yes, really; stay and be my boy—my little brother," and Miss Fisher's eyes suddenly grew moist.

Two little arms stole round her neck, while a trembling voice said, close to her ear, "Sure, I'll stay, if you really want me, Miss Fisher; and O, I'll try to be so good—for y-you've been s-so good to m-me!" and he caught his breath and swallowed hard. "I don't know what makes me cry now—only I'm so happy. I've got some folks now, that I belong to."—The Junior Herald.

DON'T FORGET YOUR LANTERN

"It will be quite dark before you return, Charley; don't forget your lantern," said a mother to her son, who was going to spend his half-holiday at a farm about two miles distant.

"I'm not afraid in the dark and I know my way well enough," he muttered. "No, I shan't take the stupid old lantern; it will only be in the way."

Off he went and spent a merry afternoon with his companions, never thinking of his mother's words, or troubling about the journey home. It was quite dark when he said good-by to his friends at the farm, and as there was no moon the night was very dark, so they kindly offered to lend him a lantern. But he was too proud to accept it after boasting to his mother that he knew his way so well, and declared more loudly than ever that he knew his way blindfolded and would be half way home before the lantern was lighted.

He ran down the path, along the road and across the field. In the corner of the field was a broken stile which had to be crossed in order to enter the wood. Part of the stile had rotted away, but the long nail which had fastened it still remained, and, catching Charley's jacket as he climbed, it tripped him and threw him suddenly into a bed of sting nettles in the dry ditch beyond. Bruised and smarting and mortified he began to make his way through the wood. There were several paths, but the widest and most frequented was his nearest way.

Perhaps it was the pain he was suffering or the annoyance he felt which caused him to forget to take the turning on the right, for after walking a short distance he found the bushes were close to him on either side, and he felt sure that he had strayed into one of the narrow pathways which crossed the wood in every direction. How he longed for his lantern! He had no idea which way to go, but wandered on and on until he grew tired and footsore.

At last he came to a more open space and, thinking he had reached the road, he pressed boldly on, but found the ground gave way beneath him, and in another moment he was struggling in the water. There was a large pool in the midst of the wood, and into this he had fallen. Happily, it was not very deep, and, after groping about for something to which he could cling, he seized hold of a tough bough, and by its aid managed to scramble out of the water into the pathway.

Some time later, bruised and bleeding, with clothes torn and stained with mud and weeds, and soaked with water, he reached the gate of his own home where all the family were assembled, wondering what had become of him.

"Mother," said the miserable but penitent boy, "I've been very foolish; but I will never go without the lantern again."

Four years passed and Charley, a fine, tall lad, stood again by the gate saying farewell to his mother, not for a few hours but for months—perhaps years.

"Don't forget your lantern, my boy," she said, as she placed in his hand a small Bible. "Let God's Word be a lamp to your feet and a light to your path." Whenever you are in doubt as to the way you should take, let the light of this Book shine upon your path and the way will be plain.—Sparkling Waters.

SMALL SISTER'S VICTORY

Nan was a little Dutch girl keeping house for her small sister. Nan was not so very big herself—only eleven years old—much too little to be keeping house all by herself. Small sister was four.

Daddy had been taken sick the night before and the doctor had taken him to the hospital. For a while they thought he was going to die, and when they found out that he might get better Nan was so happy that she didn't mind sweeping and washing dishes at all. The worst thing was cooking. She didn't know anything at all about cooking!

Small sister was not at all polite about things. If she didn't like them she didn't eat them. Nan was ready to cry before the first morning was over. Small sister had not eaten much breakfast because the oatmeal was burnt, and the egg wasn't cooked enough, and then it cooked too much.

In the middle of the morning Nan found the child on her knees with her hands folded. "What you doing?" she asked. Small sister's lips moved for a moment, and then she jumped up.

"I was praying," she said. "I was praying for somp'n good to eat for dinner."

"I dont know where it's coming from," said Nan. "Daddy didn't leave us any money and I couldn't cook anything if I had it. You'll just have to get along the best you can with what we've got."

"God'll send us somp'n," said small sister serenely.

Nan didn't say anything to that. She knew that God could do it, but—somehow—she got down the thumbed old cookbook that had been their Mothers, and which Daddy still used sometimes when he wanted to make something extra good for birthdays or Christmas.

My, there was a lot of things in that cookbook! Some of them she had never heard of before! She wondered what you did when you had only four eggs, butter, and sugar, and bread. There didn't seem to be anything in the cookbook that needed just those except cake, and Nan was wise enough to know that they couldn't live on cake.

She was still wondering about it as she was knitting when there came a knock at the door, and outside on the back step stood the next door lady.

"Hello, Nan," she said, "I just heard about your father. I hear he's lots better this morning, though. Who's doing for you?"

"Nobody," said Nan. "I'm trying to. But he was taken sick so quick he didn't leave any money nor nothing much. And everything burns."

"You poor child!" cried the next door lady, so sympathetically that Nan's eyes filled with tears. "You just get the house nice and clean and forget about cooking and I'll bring you something nice for dinner." She darted out without waiting for Nan to thank her, and in about an hour she was back with a tray.

"What is your sister doing?" asked the next door lady when she set the tray down.

"I don't know, Ma'am. She's playing in the yard, I guess. I have been too busy to notice."

"She's spreading newspapers over the doghouse and the ground and putting stones on the edges to hold them down. What were you doing?" Small sister stopped shyly at the door.

"Putting papers down to catch the stuff."

"What stuff?" asked the next-door lady.

"Good stuff," said small sister. "God is sending us good stuff for dinner. I asted Him to, and so He is. I had to put something out for it to drop on so's it wouldn't get dirty. O-o!" She saw the good things on the table—chicken, and bread, and butter, and preserves, and cake.

"You precious baby!" cried the next-door lady. "God wouldn't throw things down to you."

"Well, anyway, He sent them," said small sister. "I knew it when I asted Him."

The next-door lady squeezed small sister hard. "Truly," she said, " 'this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith.' Don't you forget to ask God for what you need, and believe with all your heart that He will give it to you, and nothing can ever hurt you." And small sister nodded wisely.—Picture World.

DO YOU KNOW

That you will shine the brighter by giving up your own brilliancy; go the faster by walking softly with your God; grow eternally tall sitting on a low bench; reign over others by letting them reign over you; yea, save your life by losing it? The God of Jehovah and Jesus is still able to take care of His own.—The Evangelical Beacon.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE TAKE NOTICE

Notices concerning the Executive Committee meeteing of the N. C. Branch of Womens Work, at Weaverville, July 4, have been sent out, and from reports there will be a record-breaking attendance. Cars are going from High Point College, Winston-Salem, Asheboro, and Greensboro, and it has been suggested that the party meets at State Street parsonage, Lexington, at 9 o'clock as heretofore, Tuesday morning, July 3rd. If any one who is to take a car has vacant seats, or if anyone has not made arrangements, please notify me quickly, also send a card to Rev. Homer Casto or Mrs. C. W. Bates, Weaverville, that you will be a member of the group.

MRS. WM. C. HAMMER.

◆

THE GAME OF LIFE ...

All play the varied game of life
  With chance to win or lose;
The game goes on from day to day
  To baffle or amuse.

Some play the game with confidence,
  Some paralyzed with fear;
Some play with high expectancy,
  Some fail when victory's near.

Some play it nervously and fast,
  Some stack the cards to cheat;
Some play to pass the time away,
  Some white-faced meet defeat.

Everyone must play the game
  For better or for worse;
All will find the game of Life
  A blessing or a curse.

Play well, my friend, the game of Life
  No matter how you fare;
Play on, play hard and play to win,
  But always play it square.

—Grenville Kleiser.

◆

DON'T TELL ME!

Don't tell me what you will do
  When you have time to spare;
Tell me what you did today
  To ease a load of care.

Don't tell me what you will give
  When your ship comes in from sea;
Tell me what you gave today
  A fettered soul to free.

Don't tell me the dreams you have
  Of conquests still afar;
Don't say what you hope to be,
  But tell me what you are-

—Grenville Kleiser.

◆

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for the kindness shown to us during the illness and death of our loving husband and father, Rev. C. W. Saunders. Your thoughtfulness was shown by the beautiful floral ogerings and services. May God's richest blessings be with each of you.

MRS. C. W. SAUNDERS and FAMILY.

BETHEA AND WALTON RECEIVE DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF DIVINITY

High Point College conferred the degree of Doctor of Divinity upon Rev. N. G. Bethea of the North Carolina Annual Conference and also upon Rev. C. W. Walton of the Alabama Conference at the commencement exercises Monday, May 28, 1934. These men amply deserve this distinction and I feel that special attention should be called to the event.

In presenting Mr. Bethea for this degree, the Dean of the College said:

"Neil Graham Bethea, a minister. Admitted to the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church in 1896. Member of the Conference Faculty since 1906, and secretary of that body since 1919. For three years was Secretary of the Annual Conference, and for two years was Secretary of Missions. He has served the religious educational interests of the church in North Caroina, Texas, Arkansas, and Oklahoma. Elected to the last six sessions of the General Conference. A fearless preacher, a church builder, and a friend of higher education. He is now presented for the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity."

Mr. Walton was presented by the following words:

"Charles William Walton, a minister. Became a member of the Alabama Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church in 1905, since which time he has served the leading pastorates of the Conference. He has been actively engaged with all the Conference Boards and Committees. Was a member of the General Conferenc of 1928, also of 1932. He is now president of the Alabama Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, which office he has occupied since 1929. A faithful Gospel preacher, a denominational leader, and a lover of Christian education. Is now presented for the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity."

Our people will be glad to learn of this honor going to these men who so well deserve it, and I thught it good to make this specific report.

P. E. LINDLEY.

◆

A WORKMAN'S PRAYER

Lord, give me strength
To do my work today;
Be Thou my guide
Along the rugged way.

Lord, give me faith
To conquer doubt and fear;
To feel within my heart
That Thou art always near.

Lord, give me rest
When evening shadows fall;
And as I kneel in prayer
May I know Thee as All.

◆

God is Mind, and so He speaks to His children through spiritual ideas. Suppose something difficult occurs, and we have to decide what to do because there is no person present from whom we may ask advice. There is no need to get anxious or worried or frightened. God does not have to be looked for or called from far away, for He is Mind, filling all space. We need only keep quiet and listen trustfully, and then wise and orderly and clear thoughts will come to us. And, just where there seemed to be no way to go, Truth will shine out and show us exactly what is right to do, and how we are to do it.

—Grenville Kleiser.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Charlotte S. S., Richland, clothing child	$ 5.15
Union S. S., Alamance	16.92
Kannapolis, program	6.00
Baraca Class, Gibsonville, clothing child	5.00
Henderson S. S.	6.44
Maple Springs, Forsyth	5.00
Oak Grove, Cleveland, May and June	2.88
New Hope S. S., Mecklenburg	.50
Shady Grove S. S., Connelly Spring	1.00
Pine Grove S. S., Kernersville, April to June	1.52
Shiloh S. S., Shiloh	5.00
Mrs. E. S. Welborn, clothing child	5.00
Mt. Carmel S. S., Forsyth	2.35
Friendship S. S., Haw River	5.00
Bethel S. S., Alamance	3.25
Knob Creek, Fallston	3.58
Daurel Hill, Fallston	2.00
Albaville Church and S. S., Mocksville	3.55
Community Church, Thomasville	4.60
West End S. S., Greensboro	4.15

Clothing and Other Gifts

Mrs. W. P. Pickett and Mrs. Minnie P. Harrell, High Point, The New Practical Reference Library, 6 volumes, and a three-piece living room suite.

The Woman's Auxiliary, First M. P. Church, Elkhart, Ind., 2 quilts.

We greatly appreciate these gifts of money and substance. God bless the givers.

Empty Jars for Canning

Thanks to the good women, we have quite a number of glass jars to deliver within the next few days. We are hoping many will call for empties during the Summer Conference which is opening at High Point College today. We still have a supply on hand. Please get them soon, or furnish your own and fill them with fruit or vegetables of any kind and save for us. They will greatly help next winter.

Grain

We are confidentely counting on our farmers to donate grain. Grain of any kind will be helpful. Let a circuit combine in this effort and place the grain at your nearest mill, and let us know.

Children's Home Day

The trustees directed that an Annual Children's Home Day be held each year at the Children's Home, the time to be set by the superintendent. The Annual Conference approved the plan, and a group of ministers in Greensboro during May suggested September as the best time for such meetig. So lay your plans to be here with your picnic baskets to enjoy a good day on Thursday, September 13th. We want all the ministers of the Conference and their families to come, the trustees of the Home, every layman and laywoman possible, with their children, and also those who were reared here. We want every friend of the Home who can possibly do so to come and enjoy the day to the full.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

◆

—The greatest known depth of the Atlantic ocean is near Porto Rico where it has been determined that the water is 27,972 feet deep.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Hickory Grove.—Since our last report the Willing Workers' class gave a box party on June 1 at the home of Miss Lillian Hassell. Ten dollars and ninety-seven cents was cleared, making a total of more than $16.00 in the class treasury which is to be used to the benefit of the church.

The Willing Workers will hold their next meeting Thursday night at the home of Miss Bertha Rule to decide on some other way to raise money.

Mrs. Julius Tedder, Mrs. Clayton Edwards, and Mrs. Ella Strickland are directing the Children's Day program which is to be held Sunday, June 24. The recitations, mostly by the small children, will be in the morning. If everyone will bring a well-filled basket we will have a large picnic dinner on the grounds at noon. Then in the afternoon a pageant will be given by the larger girls.

CELESTE STRICKLAND, Reporter.

◆

Eden.—Many things have taken place at Eden since the reporter last wrote. We are still working and trusting for a year of great success under the leadership of our efficient pastor. Mr. Loy has been doing some real good and inspirational preaching all the while. The services are well attended and much interest is being shown in various ways.

On the third Sunday we had our Children's Day program. The children did honor to their directors, Mrs. Henry Willey, Mrs. Vernon Locke and Mrs. R. G. Willey. The offering was gratifying.

The Woman's Auxiliary met with Mrs. E. S. Hamill June 19th. Mrs. Moore, the president, presided over the meeting. After the business session a surprise shower was given Mrs. Loy, our pastor's wife. She was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts both for the home and personal use.

The pastor and wife are such an appreciative couple that we find it a pleasure to do for them. REPORTER.

◆

South Winston.—After a few weeks' absence I am back again. Haven't much excuse for not writing, but just kept putting it off as lots of us do other things through an act of carelessness.

We have started the work of wiring the church. We hope we can soon complete it.

Our Senior class gave a lawn supper recently and cleared enough money to help materially with the wiring of the church. And now the Farmers' Bank and Trust Company which was closed a little over a year ago has again opened and we have a little money there which we can get now and we sure do appreciate it.

When our pastor, Bro. Ridge, came up Sunday morning he began to look around and he seemed to be pleased very much at what we had done since he was down here two weeks ago. He brought us two very interesting sermons.

We were sorry to learn of the death of Bro. Harvey Speaks, of our church, who had been at Morganton, N. C., in the hospital for about 3 years, was buried June 5. He leaves a wife and five children to mourn his passing.

We are planning a Children's Day program some time in July; will announce the date more definitely later. Everybody is invited. Visitors are always welcome.

W. C. NORRIS, Reporter.

◆

Union Grove Church, Mocksville Charge.—In my last piece I wrote to the paper I believe I said that the Beginners and Juniors of our Sunday school were talking of going to High Point to see the Children's Home. But, instead, all the Sunday school has decided to go We haven't set the date yet but we think it will be the latter part of July.

In spite of the small congregation ast Sunday night, Pastor Ferree delivered a good sermon.

Our Sunday school is starting an interesting contest. The whole Sunday school was divided into two groups. The groups were the Reds and the Blues, and each group has a captain. When one of the members brings a new member to class, points are awarded. Additional points may be obtained in other ways.

The average attendance for Sunday school during the last quarter was 92.

Our Christian Endeavor is still working.

May the Lord bless and keep you all!

FLORA MAE WOOTEN, Reporter.

◆

Orange Charge.—Splendid Children's Day services have been held at each church during this month. The total offerings are 40 per cent more than last year. We wish to thank all who had any part in making the above possible.

Special revival meetings have been planned as follows: Efland, fifth Sunday in July, Rev. C. L. Spencer to assist; Union Grove, first Sunday in August, Rev. Edward Suits to assist; Hebron, second Sunday in August, Rev. J. W. Braxton to assist; Chestnut Ridge, fourth Sunday in August, Rev. H. L. Isley to assist.

We are very much encouraged at the prospect of having a Daily Vacation Bible School in July at Hebron church. Mrs. J. Sam Nelson and others are planning for this.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

◆

Calvary, Greensboro.—"Serving God All the Time" was the subject of Dr. Pritchard's sermon Sounday morning. He made the statement that every pastor thanks God for the church member who can be depended on all the time. He said people of that kind might be classed as experts in the kingdom of God. "The only person who gets anything worth while out of life is the one who goes into it wholeheartedly," said Dr. Pritchard. "The man who is lukewarm or indifferent does not get anything out of the game, whether in athletics, business or religion." The work of the Kingdom which Christians are able to do is broad enough that each one can find something to do that is in keeping with his or her ability." "The work of the Kingdom covers all phases of life." "The Sunday school teacher who teaches the truths of the Bible is doing more than teaching religion; he is teaching good citizenship as well."

Dr. Pritchard, Rev. T. F. McCulloch and Rev. W. F. Ashburn are attending the Pastor's Summer Conference which is in session at High Point College this week.

Miss Polly Coble is spending this week at High Point College where she is attending the Leadership Training School.

Our pastor will meet with any children who are interested in uniting with the church next Saturday afternoon at the church at 4 o'clock to give them further instruction as to church membership.

Our Missionary Circles will meet next week as follows: No. 1 meetings Monday at 3 p. m. with Mrs. James L. Spencer; No. 2, Monday at 3 o'clock with Mrs. Otis Campbell; No. 3, Monday at 3 o'clock with Mrs. J. W. Tucker; the Business Woman's Circle Monday evening at 8 at the home of Miss Rebecca Coble with Mrs. J. N. Kirkman, Misses Claudine Kirkman and Rebecca Coble as joint hostesses, and the Young People's Circle, of which Mrs. James L. Spencer is chairman, will spend the entire day Friday at the home of Miss Polly Coble. They will hold their meeting and have a picnic during the day.

MRS. HOWARD R. NEECE, Reporter.

◆

New Hope News.—We have been sleeping for a while, but are still alive. We thank the Lord for the good rain and sunshine we have been having recently. The farmers have had to fight to save their crops. The crops around New Hope are clean at the present time. If people could only see the grassy sin of today and get the hoe and plow and go to work there would be a great change in our lives. Rev. Henderson gave us a good message as usual. We are always glad to see him and hear the messages he brings to us. We are sorry Mrs. Henderson has not been able to be with him in a good while. We are hoping she will be able to attend our coming meetings. It seems so good to think old revival meeting times are almost here. Our Ladies' Aid is going to have an ice cream supper July 7; hope to raise lots of money for the benefit of our church.

REPORTER.

◆

Roberta.—Since there has been no report from our community lately I will try to make a brief one. There are a number of things I would like to say but time will not permit just now.

First, I want to express my regret for not being able to attend the pastors' summer school at High Point, but conditions will not permit me to attend. Our prayers are with the work that is being done there.

Our ladies are still wide awake. I understand that a payment on the budget has recently been sent to the treasurer, after they had paid insurance and other minor bills to almost the amount of $200. They are planning to pay out at least 30 days before Conference. The Ladies' Auxiliary has just bought 75 new hymn books for the church.

The writer had the privilege of filling an appointment recently for Brother Morris at Kannapolis. This was our first time to see the Kannapolis church. We came while Sunday school was in session and we sure found a full house. Then we were honored by having been invited by the pastor, Brother Reed, to preach at Love's Grove last Sunday afternoon. The pastor and about 16 from Roberta were there.

We feel that our spiritual conditions are improving. Greater interest is being taken in all the services. Our morning attendance is growing fast, and more older people are taking interest in the evening services.

Our Sunday school is still growing, the 200 mark is not far off. Mr. Z. D. Cochran, our good superintendent, offered an ice cream supper to any of the 10 classes that would show the best record for new members in two months; the Senior girls won the supper. He is now offering a supper to the class that will show the best average attendance record until the middle of August.

Our revival is to begin the second Sunday in August. Brother N. G. Bethea will be the pulpit help. Brethren, pray for our success.

EARL A. COOK, Pastor.

◆

First Church, Lexington.—We reached our goal in the Sunday school attendance Sunday and went over. Our goal for next Sunday is 325. The preaching services were also well attended Sunday. The auditorium was completely filled for both services. Mr. John Hayes, a former member, was present and conducted both services. The subject for the 11 o'clock service was "The Story of a Beautiful Garden." The text was John 18:1: "When Jesus had spoken these words he went forth with his disciples over the brook Cedron, where was a garden, into the which he entered." The subject for the evening discourse was "The Darkest Hour the World Has Ever Known." For the Scripture lesson he read Luke 23:33-46. We were also glad to have Miss Myrtle Chisholm and Miss Miller, who sang several selections, worship with us.

A Children's Day program is being prepared under the direction of Mrs. L. B. Koontz and Mrs. C. M. Isley. This program will be presented the second Sunday evening in July.

Mr. Ernest Hamilton entertained his class of small boys at a picnic Monday evening at Wood's Island. A large number were present.

MARGARET LEA SWINK, Reporter.

Mt. Hermon Church, Mt. Hermon Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. L. E. Mabry, filled his regular appointment the third Sunday in this month. His sermon was very inspirational and worth while, as all of his sermons are. At this service we were very glad to have some of our members from Burlington worship with us, Mrs. H. A. Sharpe and Mr. Lewis Sharpe and family. It seemed very good indeed to have them. Mr. H. A. Sharpe is one of our oldest members and one of the most faithful. Before moving to Burlington there was seldom a Sunday that he was not present at Sunday school and church services. He was teacher of the Young Men's Class for a number of years. It was very hard for this class especially to give him up when he left. Mr. Lewis Sharpe was our Sunday school superintendent for several years and was a splendid leader. We were glad to have them back to worship with us.

Sunday school seems to be going very nicely and is planning a Children's Day service to be held as soon as possible. Plans are being made for a Daily Vacation Bible school to be held the last week in July.

Our revival meeting will begin the third Sunday in July. We trust that we will have a good meeting.

The Woman's Auxiliary of this church held the monthly meeting last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. J. V. Wood. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. G. F. Holt. Devotional exercises were conducted by Miss Ruby Isley. This part of the program was very good and showed much thought and consideration of Miss Isley. A discussion was held of our missionaries of Japan and then a business meeting was held, after which we went to the porch and had an enjoyable hour there where the hostess served ice cream and cake.

The Christian Endeavor Society is beginning a contest. The captains of this contest are Misses Joy Thompson and Lola Thompson. These young people seem to enjoy working hard and they have our prayers for success.

MRS. L. P. HOLT, Reporter.

◆

Haw River Church, Glen Raven Charge.—Mr. Pegg filled his regular appointment here at 11 o'clock and brought us a very good message. After the sermon, communion was observed. The night service was given over to the children for their service. They rendered their parts well and mucr credit is due Misses Thelma and Louise Thompson for training the children.

We are sorry to report that Miss Espa Bullard is in Duke Hospital. We are sure the family and she have our sympathies.

Mr. Charlie Coble, one of our members, is at High Point taking a young people's course.

T. S. COBLE.

◆

Mitchell's Grove.—Our Children's Day service was given the second Sunday night in June. These children did some fine work. Recitations, exercises, songs, pantomime and also a pageant were presented. The attendance and offering was good. The envelopes were given out one week before the program and to the child that got the most money a prize was offered. Doris and Glenn Meisenheimer tied on this, each collecting $1.14. The offering was $9.55. More plans are being made to raise money for another Sunday school room. A lawn party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Billings. Ice cream, lemonade and cake were sold and $15.50 was added to the treasury of the building fund. This is only a start, but we are hoping that more will be aded until we can have another room in the near future.

Mr. Williams, our pastor, filled his regular appointment last Sunday night and preached a very helpful and inspiring sermon.

◆

Union Chapel, Granville Circuit.—In spite of the hot weather, the attendance at both church and Sunday school has been splendid so far this summer. We are especially glad to see the new interest the young people are taking.

The Missionary Society held its regular monthly meeting Friday night with Mrs. C. L. Spencer as hostess. A large part of the spacious parsonage was filled almost to overflow, since the other churches on the circuit, Mount Carmel and Rehoboth met with us. We always look forward to the jont meetings. The program was splendid, each church contributing several good numbers. The different churches also showered Pastor and Mrs. Spencer with foods and household articles.

The Children's Day program was given Sunday with about 45 faithful children taking part. They were so patient about coming to practice that the committee is trying to repay them in part by giving them an all-day picnic Wednesday. We have a splendid number of young people in our church and all seem to be willing to work. The collection taken amounted to $16.68. A large crowd attended.

The revival at our church will begin in the near future. May we ask that all the Christian people in our midst pray that it may be a great success.

MRS. E. C. HUFF, Reporter.

◆

Friendship, Haw River Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. J. L. Trollinger, filled his regular appointment the first Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and gave to us a very inspiring sermon.

We are having good attendance at Sunday school, church service and C. E. at present, yet we want to urge all those that are not attending regularly to be present at our next services and make our attendance even better.

Our special meeting begins the third Sunday in July, and that day has been set aside as Home-Coming Day at Friendship, and we insist that all former members and friends everywhere come and be with us on that day. Dr. G. I. Humphreys from High Point College will preach the 11 o'clock sermon. Dr. Humphreys is well known here and we are glad of the opportunity of having him with us that day. Dr. Fred Paschall, of Burlington, will assist the pastor in the meeting again this year. Dr. Paschall doesn't need an introduction here, having been with us at special meetings the two previous years. We wish to say we are glad to welcome him back again.

Again we invite all who can be with us on this Home-Coming Day to do so. Dinner will be served on the grounds.

MRS. B. R. WAGONER, Reporter.

◆

Granville Charge.—We have held a Children's Day service at each of our churches. We held the Children's Day service at Rehoboth on the first Sunday in June at 11 a. m.; offering, $11.25. We held the Children's Day service at Mount Carmel on the third Sunday in June at night; offering, $7.27. We held the Children's Day service at Union Chapel on the fourth Sunday in June at 11 a. m.; offering, $17.00. The programs were exceptionally good at each church.

We held a joint meeting ow the Woman's Auxiliaries of the charge here at the parsonage on last Friday night, June 22. All three of the Auxiliaries were well represented and we had about 60 present. Each Auxiliary had a splendid program and all seemed to enjoy it. But no one enjoyed it any more than the inmates of the parsange. We were surprised to find the table loaded with all kinds of packages. Well, it was just another big pounding. When we looked into the packages we found we had sugar, coffee, rice, meat, meal, jelly, preserves, irish potatoes, peas, etc., and also a shower of towels, guest towsls, bath towels, cup towels, etc. We want to thank each one for this kindness and we will try to render better service as a token of our appreciation.

We will begin our revival services next Sunday, the first Sunday, at Rehoboth church, and on the second Sunday at Mount Carmel church, and on the fourth Sunday at Union Chapel church.

There will be a Circuit Rally at Union

Chapel church on Friday, July 13th, with morning and afternoon programs, with lunch on the grounds. Dr. R. M. Andrews, president of the Conference, and other speakers will be present. We want all of the churches to be well represented.

C. L. SPENCER.

* * *

Pine Grove C. E. Society, Kernersville Charge.—The C. E. Society of Bethel church visited our church last Sunday evening and gave a splendid program. The entire service was turned over to them. The topic used was "A Christian's Duty Toward His Body." The program consisted of short talks, readings and special music. The talks and readings were very good. Some of them were excellent. The musical numbers, a piano solo, violin duet, and two selections by a string band, were very enjoyable and inspiring. The music with the exception of the piano solo, was furnished by Professor Whitaker and his band from Oak Ridge.

The Bethel C. E. Society is a young organization, only about two months old, and is already doing some fine work. It is composed of some fine and talented young people. Their president, Mr. Pinkney Dwiggins, was a member of our organization when his church did not have one. We miss him in our programs but are glad that he is leader of another unit of a great young people's organization.

Perhaps some readers of the Herald have thought we were dead or asleep. We have not sent in a report for a long time, but our society has been moving along since it was organized over three years ago. Sure, we have room for improvement but we are alive. We have given two programs at other churches this spring, one at Bethel M. P. church and the other at Union Grove Baptist church, and we have an invitation to give a program at an M. E. church. We like to visit other churches and to hear programs given by other young people, not only of our own denomination, but those of other churches. It helps us to gain new ideas and promotes interdenominational good will.

Miss Bessie Cooke is representing our society in the State Convention behind held at Guilford College this week. A number of us are planning to attend one of the evening addresses. Three or four of us are making plans to attend the Leadership Training School. So you see we are living yet.

BLANCHE INGRAM, President.

* * *

First Church, High Point.—Recognition of the spirit of Father's Day was made in both morning and evening services last Sunday by the minister, Rev. R. I. Farmer. His morning sermon subject was "God's Measure of a Man." The text was Luke 12:15, 31: "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth. . . . Rather seek ye the kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you."

He said in part: "A man's measure is not in power nor possessions held, but in his capacity for experiencing God. The poet of Avon said: 'He is but the counterfeit of a man who hath not the life of man.' Every man's life is a book. If good, it is written by the finger of his Maker. If bad, it is penned by Satan. His conduct shows how he wishes to be valued.

"Mere things choke, stifle, cramp the spirit of a real man. If Father's Day would result in rich fruitage it will say to us that no man is in his right place out of Christ and the church. He is less than a man who sends wife and children as a widow and orphans. Men need the courage not so much to die decently but to live manfully. Only Christ in the hearts of fathers, sons, brothers and lovers can make this real.

"What men love most is the key to their character. By that scale Walt Whitman was of large measurement—he said, "I love God and flowers and little children.' No man is the absolute lord of his own life. He belongs to others and works for them. By worldly standards Nero was a prince and Paul a pauper. But by their aspirations and labor, Paul was immortal and Nero lived on a beastly level. 'If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature.' In the kingdom of God necessary things are added."

Children's Day was observed during the Sunday school hour on June 10 with all the departments of the Sunday school taking part in the beautiful and well presented pageant, "By the River's Brink," under the capable directorship of Miss Myrtle Davis. An attractive and appropriate setting was created on the rostrum of the assembly room by the use of hand-painted scenery suggestive of the theme of the pageant, and harmonizing decorations. Effective costuming also added much to the beauty of the presentation. Mrs. T. R. Ballard was in charge of the setting and Mrs. P. E. Lindley of costumes. The leading parts were well presented by Misses Anne Robbins, Ina McAdams, and Julia Coe, who were supported by a cast of about 50.

A delightful meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, which was also the annual birthday party of that organization, was held at the hospitable home of Mrs. C. C. Robbins south of the city Monday afternoon. Mrs. S. S. Coe conducted a most inspiring devotional, after which Mrs. P. E. Lindley and Mrs. R. M. Andrews gave interesting reports and descriptions of Bethel Home in Western Carolina, telling of the splendid work done there.

Following the program, a brief business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. J. C. Whitesell, was held. During the social hour Miss Alma Andrews delighted her audience with a beautifully rendered piano solo, "Liebestraum," and Miss Anne Robbins, in her usual lovely manner, sang "Trees." A. Coke Cecil, popular local magicion, was present and entertained the ladies with an interesting program of magic, after which delicious refreshments were served to the 70 members present.

Circle No. 4, Mrs. J. R. Meredith, chairman, was awarded the attendance prize and Circle No. 3, Mrs. H. U. Oakes, chairman, won the prize for turning in the greatest amount of birthday money.

Mrs. W. M. Crouch returned to her home on the Winston road Monday from the Burrus Memorial Hospital, where she recently underwent an operation.

Rev. R. I. Farmer is in Kernersville this week where he is assisting Rev. O. B. Williams in a series of meetings.

Mrs. A. M. Rankin, Jr., is a patient in the Burrus Memorial Hospital.

Miss Margaret Opal Neese, who was recently operated upon at the Burrus Memorial Hospital, is now convalescing at her home on Montlieu avenue.

In the absence of the minister, the Baraca class is sponsoring the Wednesday evening prayer and praise service and are presenting J. O. Barrett, editor of the High Pointer, as leader.

REPORTER.

MARRIED

Brookshire-Hinshaw

Miss Ruby Alice Hinshaw and Mr. Curtis B. Brookshire, of Randleman, were married Saturday night, June 2, at the M. P. parsonage in Jamestown by Rev. T. A. Williams. Only a few friends and relatives were present.

Mrs. Brookshire is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hinshaw. Mr. Brookshire is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Brookshire.

We wish for them a long and happy life.

MRS. T. A. WILLIAMS.

Foster-Thompson

Miss Swannie Thompson, of Saxapahaw, and Mr. Hugh L. Foster, of Mebane, were united in marriage in a simple but impressive ceremony at the home of the bride's uncle, E. W. Mann, Friday afternoon, June 15, at 5:30 o'clock. Dr. P. E. Lindley, of High Point College, officiated, using the ring ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, E. W. Mann, was dressed in a white ensemble with white accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of pink rosebuds and valley lilies. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Edward Foster. Little Miss Marie Thompson, niece of the bride, carried the ring on a satin pillow in a basket of daisies.

Just prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Ira Mann, of Carrboro, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Hoover Lindley, of Saxapahaw, sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." After a musical interlude, Mrs. Mann played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin as a processional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March as a recessional.

A motif of green, white and yellow was employed in the altar decorations. At either side of the altar tall candles shed their soft glow over the effective setting.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thompson, of Saxapahaw, but for a number of years has made her home with her aunt, Mrs. E. W. Mann. She was educated at Eli Whitney high school and at High Point College. The bridegroom is the son of James Foster, of Mebane, and is at the present employed by a local manufacturing concern.

After the vows were spoken, the wedding party, which consisted of immediate relatives and friends, was invited into the dining room for the cake-cutting. The finding of various symbols furnished much amusement. Refreshments were served buffet style.

Upon the return from a short bridal tour in Eastern Carolina, Mr. and Mrs. Foster will be at home in Saxapahaw, N. C.

◆

—It is said that the nickname, "Uncle Sam," originated in 1812 when the United States purchasing agent at Troy, N. Y., was Samuel Wilson. Boxes of army supplies were marked U. S., and it was facetiously remarked that they belonged to "Uncle Sam Wilson."

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Burris

Jessie Franklin Burris departed this life on Sunday at 1 o'clock, a. m., May 27, 1934. He was born June 4, 1884, in Stanly county, Love Grove community. He lacked nine days of being 50 years old. Mr. Burris had been in declining health for several months, and was confined to his room most of the time. All that loving hands could possibly do was done, but God took him; it was His will.

Mr. Burris united with Love's Grove Methodist Protestant Church when a young man, but in later years brought his membership to Roberta Methodist Protestant church, where he was a member until his death. He was a good and kind neighbor, husband, and father. He was loved and highly esteemed by all who knew him.

On August 20, 1903, he was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Smith. To this union eleven children were born, of which all are survived: Mrs. Rilla Auten, of Harrisburg; Mrs. Lona Lambert, of Concord; Cleadus Burris, Roberta mill; Mrs. Carrie E. Linker, Concord; Sherrill Burris, Roberta; Mrs. Gladys B. Smith, Charlotte; Miss Gertie Mae, Miss Ruby E., Ottis Lee, Carl G., and Bettie Irene Burris, of Harrisburg. Also surviving are the wife, father, three brothers, three sistes, and twelve grandchildren.

The funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. Earl A. Cook, assisted by Rev. J. A. Ricks, pastor of Rocky River Presbyterian church, and Rev. W. D. Reed, pastor of Love Grove M. P. church, at Love Grove, in the presence of a large congregation of relatives and friends.

He was laid to rest in Love Grove cemetery beneath a beautiful mound of flowers to await the resurrection morning.

REV. EARL A. COOK.

Williamson

Mrs. Lucina (Allred) Williamson was born in Moore County, N. C., October 30, 1848; died in Altamahaw, N. C., June 6, 1934, aged 85 years, seven months and six days.

She was married to Mr. C. C. Williamson January 25, 1863. To this union 12 children were born, seven of whom are living. The sons: C. B., W. A., M. F., and J. W.; daughters, Lorena, Georgie and Martha; one brother, M. F. Allred, of Greensboro, survives.

The deceased had 48 grandchildren, 36 great grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.

In early life she professed faith in Christ and united with the church in Chatham County. On moving to Alamance County about 40 years ago, she placed her membership in Fairview M. P. church, where it remained until death called her home.

For five years she had suffered very much but was patient and hopeful through all her afflictions. Thirty-eight years ago she prepared her burial clothing and preserved it for this purpose.

On Wednesday, May 30, she fell and was crippled and suffered severe pain until Wednesday, June 6th, at 6:40 p. m., when the end came.

The funeral service was held in Bethlehem Christian church at Altamahaw on Thursday, June 7, 1934, at 3 p. m., by Rev. J. P. Pegg, pastor of Fairview church, and the writer. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Frienrds and flowers were in evidence to witness the high esteem of the community for this aged and faithful worker in Christ's kingdom. Peace to her memory and all good wishes to her relatives, her friends and to her church.

J. H. ABERNETHY.

Shaffner

Death again invaded Mount Pleasant community on June 5, 1934. This time Mr. A. U. Shaffner was called to his reward, leaving a vacant chair in his home, community and church. In his home he was a good husband and a loving father. In his community he was a highly respected citizen and a good neighbor. To his church he was a loyal member and in its service he took an active part until ill health forced him to lay down the implements.

Mr. Shaffner was 55 years of age. He was born in Alamance County on August 5, 1878, and died at Wesley Long Hospital in Greensboro on June 5, 1934. He leaves behind to mourn their lass, but to glory in his victory, a wife, who before marrying him on July 26; 1903, was Miss Fairy Coley; two sons, Coley V. and Howard E. Shaffner, both at home; three sisters, Mrs. R. B. Shaffner, Mrs. Lillie Eulis, of Alamance, N. C., and Mrs. J. W. Sharpe, Graham, N. C. Two brothers, W. B. and J. G. Shaffner, Burlington, N. C.

The funeral service was conducted at Mount Pleasant church on Wednesday afternoon, June 6th, by his pastor, Rev. J. W. Braxton, and Rev. Herman Fisher, of Alamance. A large crowd of friends gathered to pay their last tribute to this loved one. His body was laid to rest in the church cemetery under a large offering of flowers. We feel that we can say of this soldier of the cross, in the words of Lord Byron:

"Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare's past,
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last."

Penninger

Jeremiah Penninger was born in 1855, departed this life June 14, 1934. He was 79 years and 4 days old. He was the son of the late Paul Penninger.

He was first married to Miss Sallie Taylor, to which union were born two children. Mrs. Penninger lived only eight years after their marriage. He was later married to Miss Gussie Ferrel. To this union were born 12 children, eight of whom survive.

In early manhood Mr. Penninger joined St. John's Lutheran church, of this county, and was a faithful member of that denomination. About fifteen years ago he brought his membersship to Roberta Methodist Protestant church, where he remained a faithful member until his death.

He had often requested that "Rock of Ages," "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and "Asleep in Jesus, Blessed Sleep," be sang at his funeral, and this request was carried out. He lived an humble life in the sight of God and man. He was kind and considerate to his family and all who came in contact with him. His son-in-law and daughters-in-law say proudly that he never spoke an unkind word to them, and that he was really a father to them.

For some time before his death he expressesd to different members of his family that he was going to soon depart this life, and that he had no fear of death. He said to his wife on the first day of his illness that he was going to pass over the River.

He is survived by his wife, ten children, eleven grandchildren, and a host of relatives and friends. He is also survived by one brother, of Salisbury.

The funeral services were conducted at Roberta Methodist Protestant church by the pastor, Rev. Earl A. Cook. Interment was in the church cemetery.

REV. EARL A. COOK.

Chambliss

On Wednesday evening, June 20th, 1934, at the end of a beautiful day, symbolic of his life and death, the soul of our friend, brother, and pastor, Rev. Maney Peebles Chambliss, took its departure to live with his Heavenly Father.

Mr. Chambliss lived a life of great usefulness to the church and the community in which he lived. Only those who had the privilege of a very intimate and close acquaintance could fully appreciate the warm heart and kindly disposition that endeared him to all with whom he came in contact.

Therefore we the members of Moriah church feel most keenly our loss and we extend our heartfelt sympathy to his aged mother, sisters and brothers.

We realize he has earned a lasting reward by a life of service to God, and we believe his influence will continue to guide and bless us.

"You may break, you may shatter the vase if you will
But the scent of the roses will linger still."

J. S. WOOD,
C. F. SCOTT,
E. P. SHARPE,
C. T. MOSER,
Committee.

Saunders

Rev. C. W. Saunders, son of Harris and Mary F. Saunders, was born in the northwestern part of Montgomery county June 28, 1892, and died in the Duke Hospital, Durham, N. C., June 22, 1934.

He made profession of religion and joined Flint Hill M. E. Church, South, when about 19 years of age. Later he transferred his membership to the Methodist Protestant church, and some time thereafter was licensed to preach. He was admitted to the Conference class in 1926 and was ordained in 1931. His first work was Chase City and Bethesda in Virginia, where he served for two years. At the end of the second year, Chase City and Bethesda became separate charges, and Bro. Saunders had charge of Bethesda for one year. He was next assigned to Rockingham, which charge he served for about one and one-half years, to the time of his death.

On December 23, 1913, he was married to Miss Myrtle Cranford, which union was honored with five children, three boys and two girls, all of whom are living. He has one brother, Elsie Saunders, of the old home community, and four sisters living. In addition to these he has many friends. This was clearly proven by the large number who attended the burial service. His body was placed in the old Flint Hill cemetery, where his father, mother, and other reatives are buried. The funeral was conducted by Dr. R. M. Andrews, president of the Conference. Rev. G. L. Reynolds, pastor of the deceased, read a short obituary and made a few remarks. Rev. E. A. Bingham read from the Psalms and Rev. J. H. Trollinger led the prayer. Rev. G. A. Langhlin, of Cedar Falls, was also present and made a few remarks. The choir from Love Joy, the church where Bro. Saunders and his family hold their membership, did the singing. This choir is led by A. H. Reynolds with Mrs. Reid Morgan, pianist. They sang several very appropriate selections, after which the body was placed in the church cemetery.

The pallbearers were nephews of the deceased and his nieces carried the flowers.

GEO. L. REYNOLDS.

Sexton

Mrs. Margaret Nance Sexton was born September 20, 1861, and died at her home near Love Joy church, May 1, 1934.

In early life she professed religion and joined the church and lived a quiet Christian life from the day of her conversion to the time of her death. She was a good neighbor and was loved by those who knew her best. Some time during the year 1877 she was married to Obediah Sextou. They lived happily together until 1932 when her husband was claimed by death. She now goes to join him, leaving to mourn her departure one son, James Sexton, three grandchildren, seven great grandchildren, and a number of friends.

The funeral service was conducted by her pastor on May 2 and her body was laid to rest beside her husband in Love Joy church cemetery.

GEO. L. REYNOLDS.

DISTRICT MEETING

There will be a missionary meeting at Hebron church, Fallston charge, Sunday, July 1, at 2:30 p. m. There will be several short talks by the pastors and others. The presidents of all Auxiliaries, Circles and Aid Societies are asked to be present and to give a report of the work being done in their church.

This district includes the charges of Fallston, Cleveland, Bess Chapel, Caroleen, Lincolnton, and Connelly Springs.

This is not our regular district meeting, however, we are planning an all day meeting to be held later, at which time we hope to have some of the Branch executives with us.

MRS. B. L. HEAVNER, District Chairman.

DID YOU KNOW—

THAT—It doesn't pay to dawdle when there's urgent work to do?

THAT—A clear and noble purpose will inspire the best in you?

THAT—It doesn't pay to sorrow over chances missed and gone?

THAT—However dark the midnight there will surely come the dawn?

—Grenville Kleiser.

THESE BETHEAS

(By Power W. Bethea, Clan Historian, Greenville, S. C.)

Two sons once dwelt in this fair state.
Their sire near Suffolk town;
They settled east of Great Pee Dee,
A stream of much renown.
They went to work and took up land,
And planned in various ways;
They had their wives and children, too—
They were the first Betheas.

One brother camped near old Buck Swamp,
The other bode nigh Sweat;
They titled all the acres 'round
By either grant or let.
They cleared the soil and drained the bogs,
And labored with a craze;
They rose at dawn and toiled till dark—
These pioneer Betheas.

They built their homes and filled their barns,
And purchased many slaves;
Their children married here and there
And multiplied in waves.
They formed a Sunday school and church,
They sang high heaven's praise;
They worshiped God and lived good lives—
These pious old Betheas.

These sages organized a school—
Old Hofwyl—what a light!
They hired the learned of the day
To lead their youths aright.
They worked and strove and spared no means
These seers of olden days;
They left their children more than wealth—
Oh, they were great Betheas!

When Revolution's war was rife,
The noise of battle heard,
The fighting men of this brave clan
Arose and quickly stirred.
When Civil War was in the land,
With volunteers to raise,
Among the ones who heard that call
Were many young Betheas.

Then when the war clouds rolled away,
And Northern rule was 'gun,
The bleeding heart of this fine tribe
Pulsed on from sun to sun;
And when the Southern ship of state
Was snatched from Satan's blaze,
Among the first to heal those wounds
Were the battle-scarred Betheas.

When Europe's millions clashed in arms
With battle flags unfurled,
When Uncle Sam's fair lads were sent
To calm an angry world,
With all the force of this great line,
As in the olden days,
Its valiant sons went forth to war
And fought like real Betheas.

The family name is scattered far,
With kith in every state;
A few have played the statesman's role,
With some were preachers great.
There are school folk and business minds,
Then meds with Latin phrase,
And master farmers by the score—
The rest just plain Betheas.

This story is but canting verse,
This picture stark and cold,
Without the women of this clan,
Whose hearts are purest gold.
They gave their all for loved ones; aye,
And helped with no displays;
They are sweet heaven's beacon lights
That guide the men Betheas.

Dame Rumor whispers with a smile,
They are a clannish flock—
Their blood when mixed with other tribes,
Betheas are nobler stock.
This may be true for aught I know—
God works in wondrous ways;
But seems to me He did his best
When He fashioned these Betheas.

This was read at the Annual Bethea Reunion, Dothan M. E. church, South, Dillon, S. C., Thursday, June 11, 1934. Mrs. Bethea and I attended this year and there were about 40 present of the Bethea name, together with their kin.—N. G. B.

THE ROAD

The long road, the short road,
  The road we all must wend,
The road that leads to Somewhere,
  Leads to the journey's end.

The plain road, the vague road,
  Where men and women go
With eager, hopeful, rapid pace,
  Or laden steps and slow.

The high road, the low road,
  The path of joy or pain;
The pilgrimage to Somewhere
  That never turns again.

The path of flowers and sunshine,
  But few will tread that way;
For most the path is stony,
  The sky o'ercast and grey.

By long road or short road,
  A road that all must wend,
We'll surely meet at Somewhere
  That marks our journey's end.

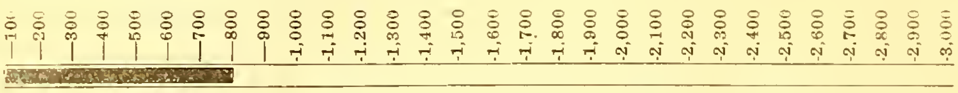
—Grenville Kleiser.

ARE YOU ILL OR DISCOURAGED?

Health, harmony, and happiness depend primarily upon thought habits. The predisposing cause of sickness is sin, and sin is thought in action. True harmony comes from right adjustment of thought. Happiness is the product of habitual right thinking. You carry with you wherever you go your own thought world, wherein you determine day by day your degrees of health, harmony, and happiness. Whatever your present condition or environment may be, you can perform a seeming miracle by simply changing your thought. Your thought world is a sacred place and your exclusive possession. Keep your mental kingdom holy and you will be whole.

(This is one of 366 essays of encouragement in "Inspiration and Ideals," by Grenville Kleiser; Funk and Wagnalls Company, Publishers, New York.)

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
REIDSVILLE	80
LINCOLNTON	71
SHILOH	70

Well, you see that the percentages at the head of my column this week are the same as last week. This is true according to the plans we agreed upon in the beginning and yet I wish it were possible for me to make one change without discarding the basis upon which we are working. For instance, I have Shiloh credited with having raised 70 per cent of their quota when as a matter of fact the individual church, Shiloh, the one that sent in the big check of two weeks ago, has raised a hundred per cent of its quota. If I should say Shiloh 100 per cent then it would seem that we had no further claim on that charge. The truth is that these quotas are for the entire charge and not for the individual church where there is more than one churuch on a charge. When you do not know what to do you seek help, so I am going to ask advice of the committee this week how I can give credit to an individual church when the charge has not gone over the top, without destroying our system. Anyway, I want to express my admiration to Shiloh church for having reached that part of the charge's quota that was assigned to them as a part of the charge. They have certainly done their duty. Ladies and gentlemen, meet the pastor, Rev. C. E. Ridge, and his most efficient Herald Agent, Mr. Ray Leatherman. Whatetver disposition we make of their case they are certainly entitled to a whole train-load of credit for what they have done and the whole crowd of us down here are standing with our tongues almost hanging out of our mouths and our heads bare in this hot sunshine out of respect to this noble church. Long may it live, and may its influence continue to march on.

And if you will look at the mercury in the thermometer at the top of the page you will see that we have jumped square over that 800-mark without even touching it. That is good in so far as it goes, but we are yet a long way from the THREE THOUSAND MARK which really is the goal set. Come on and help us reach it!

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	9¾	$....
Albemarle	17	8	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	24	....
Asheville	14	7¼	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	11.10	....
Bessemer City	13	5.14	....
Burlington, First	71	16½	*20.00
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	13	....
Charlotte	21	9.2	.90
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.32	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	13½	....
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5½	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	1½	....
Denton	48	11¾	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	8	*5.00
Fallston	85	22	....
Flat Rock	63	13	....
Friendship	21	1⅝	....
Forsyth	45	8½	2.50
Gibsonville	20	4	....
Glen Raven	47	7¼	....
GRAHAM	27	29.50	....
Granville	59	17½	16.55
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY	29	32½	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	8½	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	2½	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	9.1	*7.50
Greensville	59	7	....
Guilford	37	9½	....
Halifax	53	8	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	13.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	18	....
High Point, Lebanon	34	7½	....
High Point, Welch	22	4½	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	16.30	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2¾	....
Lexington, First	45	10½	*10.00
Lexington, State Street	40	7.36	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	18	12.85	....
Littleton	50	7¾	....
Mebane	28	6	....
Mecklenburg	40	1½	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	3½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	4	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	16½	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	25¼	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7½	....
Randolph	74	9½	....
Reidsville	70	9	....
Richland	43	3½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	45	*20.00
Siler City	20	10¾	*5.00
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	13	....
Tabernacle	39	21¼	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	2½	....
West Forsyth	62	8	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	4½	....
Winston, First	26	8¾	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	4½	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

---

* Subsidy paid in full.

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

NOTICE, THIRD DISTRICT

The Third District, consisting of Mebane, Orange, Saxapahaw and Alamance Charges, will hold a rally Saturday before the fourth Sunday, July 21, at Hebron church, Orange Charge.

The following is a provisinal program:

10:30—Devotional period in charge of Mrs. J. Sam Nelson, followed by a presentation of the Woman's Work.

11:30—Address, President R. M. Andrews. Lunch.

1:30—Devotional period, in charge of Rev. E. L. Ballard, followed by an address on Evangelism by Rev. T. J. Whitehead.

Brief reports from pastors and Auxiliary representatives. Reports of encouraging things is what we want.

Come and bring your lunch.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

T. S. Coble	$5.85
Rev. F. W. Paschall	5.00
Rev. C. W. Bates	3.00
Rev. J. E. Pritchard	2.00
Rev. J. R. Anderson	2.00
Rev. G. R. Brown	2.00
Miss Blanche Hardee	1.00
Mrs. A. K. McAdams	1.00
Rev. C. E. Ridge	1.00
Mrs. O. B. Williams	.50
Q. B. Tesserion	.25

Herald Subsidy

Union Chapel, Granville, by Miss Emily Floyd	$2.10
Graham, by Rev. J. C. Auman	7.50

We return thanks for this timely help.

"Did you hear Miss Croonissimo's audition on the radio last night?"

"Yes, I listened to it very carefully."

"Do you think her voice ought to be cultivated?"

"No. I think it should have been harvested long ago."—Exchange.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE B[illegible]REN.

Rev H E Isley 2aug4 R.6

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., JULY 5, 1934 NUMBER 33

Six Months Trial Proves Repeal a Tragic Failure

Statement of F. Scott McBride, General Superintendent, Anti-Saloon League

The results during the first six months show that repeal has deplorably failed to solve the liquor problem.

So increasingly tragic are these results that the ignoble control experiment is tottering toward collapse.

Predictions of improvement have been proven disastrously false, and wet promises have been contemptuously broken.

Saloon Is Back

The saloon is back, with added evils, in New York, headquarters of the repeal movement, and in Chicago, where both the Republican and Democratic parties made their most solemn declarations and platform promises that the saloon must not come back.

In Washington, where Congress voted for repeal and passed what the wet Crusaders praised as a model control law, drunken driving, according to a traffic official, has caused an increase of 63 per cent on traffic accidents during the first four months of this year. Governor Ely, of Massachusetts, who attacked the Eighteenth Amendment while nominating Al Smith in Chicago, recently declared here in Washington that "unless our present record improves the time is not far distant when it won't be safe for anyone to venture on our streets after the cocktail hour." Here in the nation's capital an appalling record of drunken attacks, murders, suicides, crimes, and misfortunes of all kinds, refutes the claim of the Crusaders that repeal would bring "true temperance."

Auto Accidents and Fatalities Increase

The American Automobile Association reports that "a wave of recklessness is sweeping the nation's highways," and quotes figures showing a 34 per cent increase in railway crossing accidents under repeal.

Bootleggers have not disappeared with repeal. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau is quoted as saying that the illegal liquor business is "as bad as ever," and Mr. Joseph H. Choate, Federal Alcohol Control Director, states emphatically that lawless liquor now exceeds the legal supply. Repeal has simply added a legalized trade to the lawless traffic.

Cocktail Hour Ruinous to Young Women

The cocktail hour, ingeniously popularized for profit by the big hotels of Washington, New York, and other large cities, is more perilous and ruinous to young women than the old-time barroom treating custom ever was to young men. Employing the insistent influence of social custom to promote alcholic habits and liquor sales, the cocktail hour alone is sufficient to condemn repeal as an inexcusable crime against American youth.

Rioting and Bloodshed Accompany Strikes

Widespread reports of rioting and bloodshed in connection with strikes are but another indication of the regrettable consequences of repeal. The contract between turbulent conditions in strike areas in recent weeks and invariable orderliness during labor troubles under prohibition demonstrates the stupidity of adding drink to discontent.

Many recent misfortunes and disasters of carelessness, like train wrecks and fires, were undeniably caued by the drinking of beer and wine, conveniently obtainable almost everywhere since repeal.

The granting of 2,400 Federal retail liquor dealers' tax receipts in the dry state of South Carolina, and the sale of revenue stamps to a brewery in dry Georgia indicate the futility of promises to protect dry territory—promises made not merely by candidates and in party planks, but in the repeal amendment itself.

Political Corruption

The fact that wet officials apparently neither care nor dare enforce effective restrictions in either wet or dry territory proves the rule that politicians who choose to march in the wet parade are expected to go the whole route for the liquor interests.

My own personal observations in the eighteen states from coast to coast which I have visited in the past three months are confirmed by reports from our Anti-Saloon League offices in all parts of the country.

The first six months under repeal have provided convincing evidence that there is absolutely no hope for a cure of liquor evils in any of the various control systems.

League Redoubles Efforts to Hold Dry Territory

Conditions under repeal, already terribly bad, will constantly become worse with the further development of gigantic liquor sales systems and fabulously financed advertising campaigns—plus the inevitable operation of the habit-forming effect of intoxicating beverages.

Accordingly, all our Anti-Saloon League superintendents and workers are being urged to redouble the efforts to prevent repeal of state and local prohibition laws, the last and best remaining defense against repeal evils.

◆

—The nation's gross public debt, according to figures from the Treasury Department, reached a new high record during the past week—$27,005,438,125.

THE BEGINNINGS OF LIFE

By Luther K. Long

(Note: Life continues to be one of the absorbing subjects. Life's changes, its processes, its improvements, its significance, its gains and losses, its culminations—all these topics, and many more, call for attention. I have read nothing of more intriguing interest along these lines, than a book by Professor Nathan Fasten. I am transcribing extensive paragraphs from his excellent discussion of the origin of life. In order to get the material inside reasonable space, I have done considerable condensing, though the thought is not mutilated. —Luther K. Long.)

So far as anyone now knows, life and living matter arise only through the giving-off of minute living particles from living organisms; but in the history of this universe there must have been a time when the first living matter first made its appearance. This question, of course, is not a new one; it is as old as human thought. Man became interested in it when he reached the level of a thinking being, and since then he has been trying to find a satisfactory answer to it. In general, four main theories have been developed to account for the first creation of life on earth.

Perhaps the oldest conception is that of special creation. We must emphatically asert that scientists as a whole do not accept this view of creation, because it is contrary to all known facts. One of the most firmly established principles of all science is embodied in the law of change—that transformations have been taking place in this universe, particularly on the earth, for many millions of years. Geologists and paleontologists have shown conclusively that transformations have occurred and that diffeernt types of organisms have populated this earth in bygone ages.

The second hypothesis is that of cosmic-panspermia, which originated in the nineteenth century. The theory was propounded in 1865 by Richter, a German scientist, and it immediately received the endorsement of Helmholtz, one of the great scientific leaders of the time. According to this view, life is as old as inorganic matter itself, but it originated on some cosmic body of the universe other than the earth. It is assumed that in those places where life happened to be, minute living particles, in the form of cosmei dust, were constantly being given off to the external surroundings; and when some of them happened to drift to other celestial bodies, where conditions were favorable for life, they then developed into living forms.

There are numerous objections to this conception. It is estimated that if living germs were carried through the ether, by luminous or other radiations, it would take them about 9,000 years to be transported from the nearest stellar system to the earth; and from Mars, which is the planet nearest to the earth, it would take about twenty days. It is inconceivable that these minute living particles could withstand such a long and strenuous journey.

In 1871, Lord Kelvin of England propounded a different version of the cosmic-panspermia conception; namely, the so-called meteorite theory. A meteorite is a huge metallic mass which is broken off and flung out into space when two celestial bodies of large magnitude collide. Many meteorites are constantly moving about and occasionally one finds its way to the earth. Lord Kelvin assumed that if one of these masses which happened to fall upon the earth came from a cosmic body upon which life existed, it might easily bring life germs with it; and these could then afford the means for the origin of organisms upon our own planet.

There are serious objections to this plan. It has been estimated that it would take a meteorite about 60,000,000 years to travel from the nearest stellar system to the earth, and from the nearest planet, Mars, approximately 150 years. Furthermore, the heat engendered by the meteorite during its passage to the earth, as well as its terrific impact when it rached our planet, would be so great as completely to destroy all life that might be carried by it.

The third conception is that of spontaneous generation, which states that living organisms have arisen in perfect forms, and are always originating, from the non-living environment of the earth. Although this theory has now been abandoned, it has played a very important role in the history of science. It held sway from the time of Aristotle, who lived between the third and fourth centuries B.C., to the latter part of the nineteenth century.

During the seventeenth century the first critical investigation to disprove the theory of spontaneous generation was started. An Italian physician, Francesco Redi, in 1668, was the first to question the idea. In his experiments he covered meat with fine gauze and wire netting, which prevented insects from coming in contact with it, and he showed that under these circumstances no maggots developed.

It was Louis Pasteur's experiment, performed in 1861, that settled the matter. He devised a peculiar glass flask which was completely closed except for an opening in one of its sides, to which was fused a glass tube that had been bent in two places, so that it first went down, then up, and finally dow nagain. Prior to the attachment of the tube the flask was half filled with water contaminated by a large number of microscopic organisms. By boiling at intermittent intervals, all of the living forms were completely destroyed, and the contents of the flask were rendered sterile. At the same time the esecaping steam tended to condense and accumulate in the lowest portion of the bent tube, so that a complete water barrier was formed there. After the flask had cooled sufficiently to allow the outside air to penetrate its interior, it was noticed that the water which had collected in the tube acted as an effective screen, capturing all the dirt and germ particles, so that the air which finally reached the sterile mixture at the bottom of the flask was thoroughly pure and clean. The result was most striking, for in the flask proper no life developed, whereas in the water barrier in the bent tube a host of minute, free-living organisms soon came into existence.

The fourth and last conception regarding the origin of living matter is the physico-chemical evolution theory, which states that living matter slowly evolved from the simple non-living materials of the earth when conditions on our planet became suitable for the occurrence of such a phenomenon. At first the living substance was exceedingly elementary, probably much more so than any with which we are now familiar, but gradually, as the environment evolved into a more complex state, the living material adapted itself and similarly became transformed.

This view assumes the spontaneous generation of the first living matter upon the earth, but it differs considerably from the crude idea of spontaneous generation which has been discussed. The physico-chemical evolution theory states that the first, simply living stuff originated spontaneously, probably many millions of years ago, when forces and conditions made such an occurrence possible. As soon as life made its appearance, it evolved, through adaptation resulting from the action between itself and the environment, into higher and more complex forms.

In considering geological evolution we pointed out that as the earth developed into a larger and more complex sphere, the lithosphere consisting of the various rock formations, the hydrosphere embracing the waters, and the atmosphere containing the gases, took on definite shape. To bring about these transformations tremendous stores of energy must have been present within the earth itself. Many scientists, visualizing the origin of living matter, are of the opinion that during these early periods, when there was tremendous heat and energy on the earth, the various elements such as carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, and nitrogen combined into a sort of primitive compound which possessed some of the properties of living matter. Slowly, but definitely, more and more intricate combinations emerged until a simple living substance was formed, and this gradually evolved to higher levels of complexity, ultimately culminating in all of the diversified types of plants and animals.

Although no one, under laboratory conditions, has succeeded in manufacturing living matter out of the non-living materials of the environment, yet in nature the green plants are constantly doing this very thing. For the benefit of persons who are not familiar with plant physiology, it may be stated that in every green plant there is an efficient agent, chlorophyll, capable of extracting energy from sunlight and utilizing it to initiate transformations in such simple substances as water, inorganic salts, and carbon dioxide, which enter the plant through the root system or leaves, and lead to the formation of such complex organic compounds as the carbohydrates, fats, and proteins. Ultimately portions of these compounds are converted into the essential parts of the living matter of the plant itself. The initial process of this entire cycle is known as photosynthesis, and it is quite efficient in starting the reactions which finally lead to the construction of living matter.

An analysis of the complete cycle reveals the fact that three things are essential for its proper operation: first, simple chemical combinations such as carbon dioxide, water, and organic salts; second, energy, such as that contained in sunlight, for performing the chemical transformations; and third, a suitable compound, similar to chlorophyl, which can act as an efficient machine for the purpose of utilizing the available energy to bring about the necessary changes in the simple stuffs of the environment, so that they may be combined into the higher and more complex substances, and eventually culminate in the formation of living material. Since this is the logical procedure in nature, is it not reasonable to assume that before any living substance could come into existence upon the earth, some similar three steps were necessary?

It has been an interesting question whether the first organisms were plants or animals, or types of a distinctly different character, and here, once more, a positive assertion becomes impossible. Most students believe that these primitive forms possessed many of the combined features of the plant and animal world, so that they were really organisms of a plant-animal nature. Numerous similar types are in existence today. The botanist often claims them as representatives of plants, whereas the zoologist no less often classifies them as animals. Strictly speaking, they must be regarded as plant-animals. Undoubtedly the primordial living combinations were very much simpler than any of the plant-animals of the present time, and from them, through adaptation and specialization, the distinctive plant and animal kingdoms have evolved.

(Another Note: This seems to me a fair and understandable setting forth of past and present scientific thought on the origin of life. That God has something to do with the origin and development of life, the scientist—as a scientist—neither asserts nor denies. Christians believe that He has much to do with life; though they do not generally claim so much detailed knowledge concerning these matters as some of them once did. Most thoughtful men in our times are seeking to establish the truth, rather than confirmation of views that may have been questionable.—Luther K. Long.)

RATING OF YOUNG PEOPLE"S CHOIRS

As commendable as were the results of our first attempt to interest the young people of our churches to form choirs, and have them sing at our Leadership Training School last summer, this year's effort was quite an improvement over that of 1933. Five, instead of four, choirs contributed toward the program on Monday night. Two of these, from Vance charge and Henderson, sang last year also, which gives evidence of their usefulness in their home churches for a year or more.

Instead of placing the singing of these choirs on a competitive basis as of a year ago, we prepared a scoring chart for them, and let them grade themselves, according to the following schedule:

1. Period of organization;
2. Number of singing parts;
3. Regularity of performances in church;
4. Outside performances;
5. Number of trained voices.

It was very improbable that any should attain a perfect score of one hundred; eighty was considered an excellent rating. The results were as follows:

Mt. Pleasant charge, Mrs. Carl Jones, Director, 55 points;

Vance charge, Mr. B. B. Baskett, Direitor, 55 points;

Calvary, Greensboro, Miss Elizabeth Williams, Director, 70 points;

Henderson, Mrs. H. A. Jordan, Director, 80 points;

West End, Greensboro, Mr. L. M. Foust, Director, 90 points.

We were proud of them all for the quality of their selections, as well as the degree of perfection of their renditions.

The scoring system was not perfect, we know, hence we cordially invite suggestions for improvement in any way. Is the competitive method preferable to the scoring method, or is the latter of a higher standard?

It is hoped that our pastors and church leaders understand that the chief purpose in encouraging the organization and operation of young people's choirs is to provide a richer, deeper, and more worshipful quality of music for our churches and for the glory of God. We know some so-called music teachers who are ruining the voices of children and young people, as well as impairing their appreciation of the best in religious music, by training them to sing syncopated, discordant, highly emotionalized tunes. It is a sin, and we should discourage it whenever and wherever possible!

If the writer can assist these choirs already organized, or aid in organizing new choirs, he will gladly do so.

E. Lester Ballard.

ALL I HAVE LEFT

A boy found joy and peace and believing on the Lord Jesus Christ, and then sought to win others for his Savior.

His father forbade him ever to enter the mission school where he had heard the simple gospel which had given him rest and gladness. He knew that he ought to be obedient to his father, and said to him:

"Father, I will obey."

The boy kept his word; but it was observed every morning and evening he went away, and stayed some time alone.

His father followed him on one occasion, and found him under a clump of trees, reading his much-loved Bible. Rushing forward, his father said:

"Why, this is as bad as going to the school. Give me that book."

"Father," he replied, bursting into tears, "it is all I have left."

The parent's heart was touched by the earnestness of his child, and he wept with him, and gave him permission to return to school, and to read his Bible without fear.

Is the Word of God precious to you, dear young reader? Have you found it a joy to your heart and food to your soul?

To the Psalmist it was better than thousands of gold and silver, sweeter than honey and the honeycomb. To the little boy it was all he had—his all—when he was no longer allowed to hear the gospel preached.

What is the Word of God to you, my dear reader?

"Blessed are they that keep His testimonies, and that seek Him with the whole heart." (Ps. 119:2.)—Messages of Love.

◆

—The Capital City of Virginia is again being invaded. This time it is by an army of caterpillars. Millions of these pests are devouring the leaves of shade trees and flowers, dropping down on people's backs, crawling over porches, and even invading the inside of homes. In no recent year has the city been subjected to such an invasion, and the director of public works has hired additional help to combat the invaders.

WHO SHOULD DETERMINE OUR ACTIONS?

By Luther K. Long

I have a friend—president of a bank here in Washington—who talks with me quite freely on many matters.

Some time ago—before repeal was voted—we were talking of the drink situation. "I don't drink," he said, "and I wish there weren't any of the stuff used. If the law were enforced, I should advocate retaining the eighteenth amendment. But the fact is—an uncomfortable fact—I serve more drinks in my home now than I ever have at any time before."

That surprised me, and I asked him how it came about. "Well," he answered, "people who come to my house, socially, are accustomed to having liquor at home and other places. They expect me to serve it, and if I don't, they are not pleased."

I questioned then—and I question now—the right of guests to dictate what a host and hostess shall serve. Their tastes, properly enough, may be considered; but the host and hostess are to decide on matters of conscience and expense. Some guests may be displeased and prefer to go elsewhere. That is their privilege, and all parties concerned should make the best of it.

I have just been talking with a good woman from the Pacific coast. She has had her problems. "I have never used cigarettes," she remarked, "I have no use for them. But at weddings, and some other gatherings where liquor has been served, I have taken a little. I don't like it at all, but I don't feel free to decline on such occasions." When with her late husband at parties, she did the same thing, in order, as she says, "not to throw cold water over a well-meaning host and hostess."

Again I feel that the individual guest has his or her rights, and should not be dictated to by persons of other tastes. Of course there is no justification or propriety in being rude to our companions whose habits differ from ours. Neither is there any wisdom or kindness in subjecting our judgment and conscience to their ideals, or lack of ideals.

Whether or not we have prohibition in our city or state, temperance people should continue to advocate total abstinence from beverage alcohol. This advocacy is most effective if we are loyal in our personal habits. Let no one yield to social pressure. Others may—with more or less reason—claim their right to drink. We should maintain unwaveringly our right to let it alone.

HIS ANSWERED PRAYER

He asked for strength that he might achieve; he was made weak that he might obey.

He asked for health that he might do greater things; he was given infirmity that he might do better things.

He asked for riches that he might be happy; he was given poverty that he might be wise.

He asked for power that he might have the praise of men; he was given weakness that he might feel the need of God.

He asked for all things that he might enjoy life; he was given life that he might enjoy all things.

He received nothing he asked for, all that he hoped for. His prayer is answered. He is blessed.—Unknown.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Charges Which Pay A. C. Assessment in July

Cleveland, Connelly Springs, Creswell, Davidson, Friendship, West Thomasville, Vance, Weaverville.

ASSESSMENT FOR A. C. DEBT IS CALLED FOR JULY FOR ALL CHURCHES

Group Meetings Next Week

Spring Church, Monday; Enfield, Tuesday; Eden, Wednesday; Corinth, Thursday, and Union Chapel, Friday. The speakers will comprise Revs. L. W. Gerringer and W. H. Neese, Mrs. J. H. Cutchin, Mrs. Eli Bellamy, and the President of the Conference. Meetings begin at 10:30 and close in the middle of the afternoon. Subjects discussed will be Religion in the Home, Stewardship, Women's Work, Laymen's Fellowship, and the Meaning of Church Membership.

Who should attend? All church members who want to be more useful to their Lord and Master by becoming more efficient in church work. All church officers are especially invited. Bring a lunch.

Growing Smaller

It is a rather strange way to grow. But there are those who do it. People who are selfish grow less spiritually and do less real service as the days go by. Those who think so much of themselves that they don't have time to think of others are closing the affections of others for themselves quite rapidly. They become sticklers for recognition and for place, and protrude themselves upon others so constantly that even their best friends cease to love them and studiously avoid them. Leadership may encourage this and may cause a person to shrivel up while he is trying to lead others into a good work because HE must be recognized, folks MUST know that HE conceived the idea and HE should receive FULL credit for it. But this is not the Jesus way of life. Our Lord said he that is chief among us serves. Such a thing as being selfish should be far from a religious leader.

The Pastors' Summer School

It has been quite a pleasure to the writer to attend some of the lectures during this school. Doctors Holloway, Forlines, and Shroyer have made a splendid contribution to the pastors' work during their stay among us. We have no doubt that every pastor who sat in their classes has been helped thereby, and we hope that the school may be made permanent. There was a gratifying increase in attendance upon the Workers Conference. A larger number of young people took courses which should greatly help them in their preparation for life service.

Greenville Charge, Rev. Q. L. Joyner, Pastor

I visited Philadelphia, Matthews, and Wesley Chapel on this work. This is a five-point charge. It is the first year of the present pastor. The work is quite removed from the other churches in our conference, all of the five being in Virginia. The three churches had already paid their assesments for Church Extension, Superannuates, and Annual Conference Expenses, and had made contributions to other causes. Some of the churches were well up with the pastor's salary, but others too far behind. If our people could form the habit of paying all claims monthly they would greatly simplify their financial problems and make them much easier to carry. But to wait until a few weeks before the annual conference is to meet, and then become concerned about the financial obligations, usually means that a few must do most of the paying and naturally do not enjoy having to do it. They, however, are thus penalized for not getting a workable financial plan on their charge.

The people speak well of Brother Joyner, and he appears to be doing good work. At the time I was with him he was greatly distressed by the accident which had befallen his son, and he has our profound sympathy.

Mrs. W. L. Harris Called Home

The older members of the conference remember Brother W. L. Harris, who was for a great number of years a minister in our church. Mrs. Sarah Harris, his wife, passed to her reward last week. We are asking Brother E. O. Peeler to prepare a memoir of her life for the annual conference.

Rev. J. E. Pritchard is appointed with Brother Q. L. Joyner as obituary committee for Brother Chambliss.

Plan of Appointments

July 8—Spring church 11 a.m., Lebanon afternoon, Pleasant Hill at night.

July 9—Group Meeting on Spring Church charge.

July 10—Group Meeting, Enfield.

July 11—Group Meeting Eden church, Halifax circuit.

July 12—Group Meeting, Corinth church, Littleton circuit.

July 13—Group Meeting, Granville charge.

July 15—Mebane 11 a.m., Union Grove afternoon, Efland at night.

July 17, 18, 19—Creswell charge; Group meetings at Rehoboth, Mt. Hermon, and Mt. Elma.

July 21—District meeting at Hebron church.

July 22—Siler City charge.

July 28—Group Meeting, Baltimore church, West Forsyth charge.

July 29—District Meeting at Baltimore church in the morning.

July 29—Afternoon, District Meeting at Spencer church.

R. M. ANDREWS.

◆

WESLEY'S ANSWER

Seeing John Wesley coming along the street one day, Beau Nash straddled the pavement and said to him, "I never get out of my way for a fool."

"But I always do," replied Wesley, as he stepped aside into the gutter.

A fine illustration of the injunction, "Answer a fool according to his folly."—Rescue Journal.

THE STUDENT REVOLT AGAINST MILITARISM

Some Reasons for the Growing Unpopularity of the R. O. T. C.

There are many reasons to justify the increasing revolt in colleges and universities where there is enforced military training. In the first place, the juxtaposition of the military and civilian in the curriculum is contradictory and Un-American, and often leads to direct contradictions in teaching. The violation of freedom of conscience in the matter of bearing arms is obvious, yet nothing could be more sacred than that in any liberal and democratic community. There is no possibility of reconciling the military ideals and the ideals of a free society of scholars and pupils, certainly not in a democracy.

The plainest proof of that lies in the following excerpt from the official War Department Manual on "Citizenship," prepared for the instruction of military officials detailed to colleges. It is this definition of democracy:

> "Democracy: A government of the masses. Authority derived through mass meeting or any other form of direct expression. Results in mobocracy. Attitude towards property is communistic—negating property rights. Attitude towards law is that the will of the majority shall regulate, whether it be based upon deliberation or governed by passion, prejudice, and impulse, without restraint or regard for consequences. Results in demagogism, license, agitation, discontent, anarchy."

If this is not treason to American institutions, what could be? Is it conceivable that any civilian instructor in any American college would teach such stuff? Certainly at best it shows such a gross misconception of what the American democracy stands for and what it has actually achieved that it seems incredible that even the most stupid secretary of war could permit such a thing to go out with the approval of his department.

Against the training itself there are numerous arguments that can be made. In the first place, it is as remote from modern warfare as anything could well be. It is not only no preparation for the trench warfare of the last war, it bears no relation to the new tactics that are being evolved in Europe, notably in Germany, which make the Germans feel that they can bid defiance to even the newest French fortifications. No one denies that in the next war poison gas and possibly even bacteria of deadly diseases will be the chief weapons. What instruction can there be given on a university campus in gas warfare, except perhaps the use of gas masks, as to which no one knows whether they will really be of avail against the new and more deadly gases that have been invented? A former head of our chemical warfare service has declared, for example, that three drops of our own Lewisite gas falling upon any human being will shrivel him up whether he has a mask or not. The only real test of gas masks is in a gas chamber full of the deadly fumes. No one has yet suggested such a chamber on any university campus, yet the military man says that the R. O. T. C. is useful, as it teaches habits of command, subordination, and discipline. To what extent anywhere? Enough to fit a boy to take immediate charge of men on the front line? I have not heard of any officer would would suggest such a thing.

Let me quote here from Beverley Nichols after an investigation of an R. O. T. C. at the English school from which he was graduated. You will find it on page 96 of his "Cry Havoc!" He quotes the headmaster as writing that "there is no question that the War Office considers the O. T. C.'s are valuable to provide a reserve of officers in the case of war." Mr. Nichols then continues as follows:

> "Indeed! And for this reason, we are to suppose, it encourages the youth of England to exercise themselves in maneuvers which bear less relation to modern warfare than the antics of the back row of a charity pageant! For this reason it spends 100,000 pounds a year in keeping from the youth of this country any suggestion of the word gas. For this reason, to 'provide a reserve of officers,' it teaches them to stand in rows, and gaze down antiquated rifles at meaningless targets, in the vague idea that somehow or other they are doing something gallant, and being of service to their king and country!
>
> "If the O. T. C.'s are 'valuable to provide a reserve of officers,' it is high time they ceased their hypocrisy and came out into the open as military institutions. At the risk of seeming wearisome I really must emphasize the alternative . . . either the corps is a military institution or it is not. You really cannot escape from it. You cannot go shuffling about between your two stools ad infinitum. And if it is a military institution, as by now you may be inclined to admit, you must open your eyes and prepare to be honest enough to grant that it is an insitution which is, or should be, primarily devised for killing, and that if you allow your boy to join it, this is what you are encouraging him to do. The object of an army on active service is to kill as many enemy soldiers as possible, in the shortest time, with a minimum expenditure of the taxpayers' money. The object of the O. T. C., therefore should be to teach boys to kill other boys. If it does not do this it is a mere waste of time. It would be far better if the boys took off their heavy tunics, with the tight collars, and the puttees that are the best recipe for varicose veins yet invented, and did a little morris dancing."

May I point out further that the National Education Association has declared that "it is the almost universal testimony of educators and physical training instructors that military training and military drill, in the sense of training with a musket and military accouterment, does not give school pupils the best possible physical development"? Then let me cite right out of the military camp itself, from the lips of Lieutenant-Colonel Herman J. Kohler, who was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for training 200,000 army men in the system of physical training in use during the World War, these words, which ought to be over the portals of every university gymnasium in the country: "It (military drill) is, in my opinion, positively injurious. I deny absolutely that military drill contains one worthy feature which cannot be duplicated in every well-regulated gymnasium in the country today. Thorough physical training develops all the necessary soldierly qualities to the greatest degree, and does it without injury." I could cite a number of other similar quotations, but this is the most valuable, coming as it does from a distinguished army officer for many years in charge of the physical training of the West Point cadets. It is the more striking because of the common assertion on the part of military men that military exercises afford the best way of training youth in obedience, truthfulness, cleanliness, order, promptness, industry, team-work, and subordination. Of course, when military men admit that the training makes for subordination they confess what must be the greatest indictment against the whole system. The military system forbids thinking; it trains men to act on specific order, it tends to destroy individual initiative—the best proof of which is the familiar army habit of dodging responsibility and "passing the buck."

In most colleges the detailing of officers is an injustice to enterprising and able men in the service. Outside of a few larger insitutions, like the University of Illinois, where there is a large body of men to handle, most of the actual drilling could be done by non-commissioned officers. There is evidence that the War Department itself recognizes this in that the new proposal before Congress for creating additional R. O. T. C.'s calls for the detailing of a retired officer and a non-commissioned officer to each new R. O. T. C. unit, and not active officers. Certainly no one could maintain that an army officer is thereby advancing himself professionally if he drills boys in a college or a high school for four years.

But, after all, it is the compulsory feature which is the worst of all. The whole trend of education is, or should be, toward greater and greater self-government. We are getting away from the regimenting of pupils' minds and, despite certain reactionary tendencies in our universities, it is only fair to say that the principle that, barring certain prescribed courses, usually a few in number, the best thing is for the student to pick his own course of instruction, is more and more being followed. There are constantly growing protests against the rigidity of the curricula in the preparatory schools, the responsibility for which those schools lay at the door of the colleges. But that is a different thing, after all, from compelling students to learn how to kill their fellow men. For that is the essential purpose of military instruction if it is any good whatever. I know very well that in the land-grant colleges it is assumed that the Morrill Act compels this. There is considerable doubt as to the correctness of the interpretation, but if it is correct, then what we should do is not to continue to drill boys inefficiently for the next war, but to demand that Congress repeal that feature of the Morrill Act. Instead of which we see thousands of boys dragooned into drill which they perfunctorily perform with all the reluctance that comes when boys are unwillingly compelled to do something that they do not like. And that the great majority does not like these drills is shown by the convincing fact that only a relatively small group of men continue to drill after the compulsory requirement is withdrawn.

The University of Wisconsin has abolished compulsory military drill, and within the current academic year DePauw University, having abolished the compulsory feature in 1928, voted to request the War Department to withdraw its R. O. T. C. unit altogether. Other institutions should follow the lead of these two without loss of time. Certainly there are infinitely better ways of using the money expended by the Federal Government. But if the Federal Government will not come to the support of higher education as it should in this national emergency, then at least let the colleges and universities refrain from wasting the time and effort now bestowed upon training for war when the whole moral and spiritual world is doing its uttermost to abolish that institution, rightly called the "sum of all villainies," from this earth. The preparation for it can never be anything else than instruction in an anti-moral, anti-social, and anti-Christian form of human behavior.—Oswald Garrison Villard, in Zion's Herald.

A GREAT AWAKENING

The Catholic crusade for cleaner films has become a national movement and the offending producers are volubly promising improvement. The wave of indignation which started a year ago caused comparatively little annoyance in Hollywood till it assumed its present large proportions.

Unfortunately the first sufferers must be the exhibitors, the men who take what the producers give them or go out of business. Already they have felt the pinch. The producers know by this time that they are going to feel the same pinch in a much bigger way unless they pinch themselves into a realization that the box office value of dirt is not a true manifestation of American taste.

The Catholic bishops at Cincinnati speak for the Catholics of the nation, and they have the enthusiastic support of non-Catholics. The resulting popular and unofficial censorship promises to be more rigid and more thorough than any legal censorship hitherto established. It should cleanse the screen of all sexy slop.

After all, the producers have given the public what the public was willing to pay to see. Their fault has been a gradual demoralizing of public taste. Now that it is apparent that a large section of the public will not pay to gasp at improprieties the reaction of the film makers is immediate and inevitable.

Already the demand for decency has gone so far that it should be unnecessary to resort to the always deplorable device of legal censorship. The public is, after all, its own best censor. The public needed an awakening, the awakening is complete and the fight is on. What is now needed is to keep the public awake.—Editorial in Cleveland, Ohio, Plain Dealer.

—Not this country alone has been hounded by drought this year. Other countries are feeling its pinch as well. England is suffering a water shortage which, in some regions, is said to be the worst in a century. King George has ordered that watering of the royal gardens at Windsor be discontinued. In France the water shortage is said to be becoming serious. In Russia, drought has caused a spiritual twist that is upsetting to some extent Communist leaders.

OUR STORY PAGE

BEA'S SECRET

The sun was shining, the air was crisp and delicious, and Dolcie May skipped blithely along to school feeling more carefree than she had felt since the beginning of school in September. And the reason she was light-hearted was that her best friend, Beatrice, had told her a little secret the afternoon before.

Bea always received high marks in all her school work. In fact, she had been at the head of the class from the very first day of school, and Dolcie May had wondered and wondered how her friend managed to get such good grades every day. Dolcie May never knew her lessons. The grades she received were low—so very low that Dolcie May dreaded to bring home her report card. Her mother would be disappointed, her father would be disappointed, and they would both be ashamed of their little daughter's poor record. It would soon be time for tests, and right after that it would be time to bring home the report card. So you can see for yourself that Dolcie May was indeed not very light-hearted until Bea told her the secret that sent her happily on her way to school this morning.

Bea knew, of course, being right in the same class, what awful recitations Dolcie May always made. And when Dolcie May told Bea how she dreaded to bring home such a poor report, and begged her friend to tell her how she always managed to have such perfect recitations and get such high grades, Bea told her the secret gladly. Bea was just as troubled about her friend's failure as Dolcie May was herself, for unless Dolcie May did better work and made higher grades she would not pass. And then they could no longer be in the same room at school. That, of course, would be heart-breaking, but now that Dolcie May had the secret of Bea's high marks there was no reason to worry any more, she thought. It was easy to get high marks when you knew the secret. So Dolcie May skipped into school and into her seat with a mind at rest.

She looked over at Bea and smiled to let her know that she had remembered and that all was well. Later, when the teacher called her name she whisked out of her seat as though sure she could recite, and instantly, instead of wriggling out uncertainly and slowly. But when it came to really answering the question put to her—oh, dear, oh, dear, it was just as bad as ever or worse! She looked at Bea appealingly. It had not worked. No answer came to her mind. There was nothing to do but to sit down in her seat again with another zero mark to her discredit. She had done just as Bea had told her to do. And it had not helped one single, solitary bit. Well, she had done her best. The Lord must favor Bea. That was the only reason for Bea's success and her failure.

Dolcie May was kept in at recess, so she and Bea had no chance to talk the matter over until after school. Then Dolcie May complained in a most discouraged voice, "You see it didn't do a bit of good."

"Did you do just as I told you?" came Bea's troubled question.

"Yes," declared Dolcie May, "I prayed just as hard as I could, over and over, 'Please make me get good grades today,' just like you told me to."

"And did you study hard with your mind right on your work, like I said?" asked Bea.

"Why—no," slowly answered Dolcie May. "It was so nice out of doors, you know, that I looked out the window and wished that I could be out playing. So I didn't get much studying done, but I thought praying was enough if I had plenty of faith."

"O, Dolcie May! How could you when you have heard over and over at Sunday school that faith without works isn't enough? And I did not say to pray, 'Please make me get good grades today.' What I said was, 'Please help me to get good grades today.' You would not expect God to fill your garden full of flowers and vegetables just because you prayed for them if you did not plant any seeds or tend it, would you?"

"Why, of course not," said Dolcie May.

"Well, asking to get good grades without studying or trying to learn is just as unreasonable," declared Bea. "But if you ask your Heavenly Father to help you and then do your part, you won't fail. You just try that, and you will see if it isn't so."

And as soon as Dolcie May really understood the secret of Bea's success, she did try the right way. And I wish you might have seen the shining pride in her parents eyes when they read her second report card!—Publisher Unknown.

OUR KING

My Lord is now in heaven seated,
His work forever is completed;
The Cross is past, the crown is waiting,
For that great day of undertaking.

Dear saints of God, let praises ring,
We'll all be there to crown Him King;
May gladness now dispel your fears,
'Cause then there'll be no room for tears.

—C. J. Hess.

JOHN WESLEY ON INSPIRATION

We quote the following from an address by John Wesley on the Inspiration of the Scriptures:

"The Bible must be the invention either of good men or angels, bad men or devils, or of God.

"It could not be the invention of good men or angels, for they neither would nor could make a book and tell lies all the time they were writing it, saying, 'Thus saith the Lord,' when it was their own invention.

"It could not be the invention of bad men or devils, for they could not make a book which commands all duty, forbids all sins, and condemns their own souls to hell for all eternity.

"Therefore, draw the conclusion that the Bible must be given by Divine inspiration."—The Elim Evangel.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Friendship, Fallston	$ 3.00
Caroleen S. S.	2.45
Union Ridge S. S., Forsyth	8.00
Julian, Tabernacle	12.80
Mitchells Grove, Guilford	2.00
Gillburg, Vance	3.40
Mr. W. J. Spainhour, Winston-Salem	1.00
Mt. Pleasant, N. Davidson	1.40
Hope S. S., Siler City	1.45
Bellemont S. S., Mt. Hermon	4.67
Canaan S. S., Denton	1.07
Midway S. S., Haw River	3.26
Ladies Bible Class, R. I. Avenue, Washington, D. C., clothing child	15.00
Hickory Grove S. S., Guilford	2.04
Tabernacle, Tabernacle, June and July	16.18
Haynesville Auxiliary, Arkansas Branch	11.90

Clothing and Other Gifts

E. L. and F. R. Auman, High Point, a good used truck.

The women of Graham church, one quilt, and the Daily Vacation Bible School, some nighties and wash cloths.

The women of First Church, Burlington, one quilt and 13 tea towels.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones, First Church, Burlington, 3 rugs.

We are thankful for all these gifts of money and substance.

A number of churches have gotten the empty glass cans for fruits and vegetables during the last few days, and during this week others are to go out. We shall be glad to let you have them as long as they last. If you do not get them here perhaps your women will furnish cans and fill them. This will be of great help next fall.

Don't Forget the Grain

Grain of any kind will be helpful for food for our tables and feed for our cows. Let the people of the various circuits agree upon some nearby mill and place your gift of grain there and let us know.

Just Once More

Last year several families took children from the Home for a week or ten days,—such children as had no relatives to whom they might go. This year a few have asked for two children for a few days. This is our last call. If you will take two boys or two girls, or just one of either, please write and tell us just as soon as you read this. If many write we may not be able to supply you, but we will work it out the best we can. This must be done very promptly, or it cannot be worked out well.

Thank you one and all for your deep and abiding interest in the Home and all its work.

Yours in the Master's service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

◆

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation and thanks for every act of kindness and expression of sympathy during our recent bereavement.

MRS. ROSA CHAMBLISS AND FAMILY.

◆

—The entire United States fleet, now in the Atlantic, is to return intact to the Pacific about November 1.

HOW ELEPHANTS DIE

It has often been said that no white man in South Africa ever sees a dead elephant; that is to say, an elephant that has died a natural death. How then does an elephant die?

A traveler answers the question in a most romantic way. He tells that when an African elephant feels the pains of old age stealing across the vast energy of which he has been master for so many years, he moves away from the herd, sniffs the air, and then with solitary determination, makes his way slowly and sorrowfully to the appointed place of death. The journey before him may take a month or a year, "but in majestic solitude the way is plodded, unerringly the path is trod." Instinct guides him to the great cemetery. Somewhere near Lake Nyanza, it is believed, lies the amazing graveyard, the goal of the dying elephant. It is a vast pit filled with blackness into which for thousands of years dying elephants have cast themselves with the last remnants of their ebbing strength.

Arriving at the pit, we are told, the monarch of the African forest raises his trunk high in the air, snorts defiantly, and then hurls himself over the edge. His last death cry, says the traveler, vibrates through the great forest, and lions hearing that mighty cry, slink away into greater darkness, while the smaller animals crouch as if in reverence of the death of something great and splendid. If this story from Lagos, Nigeria, is true, it is at once a telling example of the wonders of instinct, and a most touching instance of the pathos of death.—Our Dumb Animals.

◆

BIGGEST SHIP UNDER WAY

Present big ocean liners will have to hand their honors over to the Normandie when she sets forth to conquer the seas next year. This great 75,000-ton, 1,027-foot vessel is now under construction in shipyards at St. Nazaire, France, and is due to sail for New York on her maiden voyage next June. Her closest competitor in size will be the British liner Majestic which has a registered tonnage of 50,600 and is 916 feet in length. All these gigantic ocean liners are bound to be a waste of money in the end—but when it is money that is due the United States, it is a good policy for the European nations to put this money into boats rather than pay it to us.—Pathfinder.

◆

A CORRECTION

In mailing in my report from Friendship, Haw River Charge, on the 25th of June, I made a slight error in the first paragraph. I gave the first Sunday as our last preaching day and it should have been the third Sunday. MRS. B. R. WAGONER.

◆

—The Leadership Training School at High Point College last week was the largest in several years. It was thought by those who have been attending each year that those in attendance were the most thoughtful and serious-minded this year of any year yet.

MARRIED

Walker-Apple

William Fred Walker and Eula Elizabeth Apple were married by the writer at the M. P. parsonage, Efland, N. C., June 30th, 1934. A few friends of the happy couple were present for the ceremonies. The ring ceremony was used. Mr. and Mrs. Walker will reside in their new home near Efland.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

◆

Carroll-Shoenfelt

Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, pastor of Grace M. P. church, Greensboro, and Miss Elizabeth Claire Shoenfelt, of Altoona, Pa., were united in marriage Friday, June 29, at Christ Reformed church in Altoona.

The ceremony was solemnized at 10 o'clock in the morning with Rev. Charles D. Rockel, pastor of the church, officiating, assisted by Dr. S. K. Spahr, of Greensboro, pastor emeritus of Grace church.

The bride was escorted by her brother, Oscar Shoenfelt, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., and attended by a maid of honor, Miss Lois Patterson, of Altoona. Joseph Loy, of Altoona, attended the bridegroom as best man.

Before the ceremony Mrs. Charles D. Rockel, of Altoona, sang, "I Love You Truly" and "Because." The organ sounded the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" for the entrance of the bridal party and played "Liebestraum" while the vows were taken.

The bride wore a gown of white organdie with hat of the same material and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and delphinium. The maid of honor was in yellow organdie with hat and sandals to match and carried Sunburst roses and delphinium.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Carroll left for a trip to Washington. They will come back through the Shenandoah valley and be at home in Greensboro after July 7 at the Grace church parsonage, 222 North Edgeworth street.

Mrs. Carroll is the only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Shoenfelt, of Altoona. She attended Indiana Normal school, Indiana, Pa., and Columbia university, New York city, and has been teaching in the Miller school of Altoona.

The bridegroom is the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Abner Carroll, of Reidsville. After his graduation from High Point college he attended Duke university, Durham, from which he holds master of arts and bachelor of divinity degrees, and did special study at Yale university, New Haven, Conn. He came to Grace church less than a year ago from Asheville and before that served pastorates in Mount Hermon in Alamance county and Denton.—Greensboro Daily News.

◆

—Iowa's recently passed old age pension act has gone into effect.

HISTORY OF THE HORSE

The horse has always been a friend to mankind. Far back in the shadows of pre-historic time he furnished primitive man with food, and aided him in his labors. The ancient caveman in the early stages of history decorated the walls of his cave with pictures of the beast, and graphically depicted the earliest associations between man and horse.

The first complete record of the development and evolution of any modern animal is a collection of fossil horses which modern scientists have assembled after continued research and undaunted efforts. It is from this fossilized record that we gather data concerning the early history of the horse.

Strangely enough, the earliest known direct ancestor of the modern horse is the Eohippus, or dawn horse, which lived in the western sections of the United States about three million years ago.

In a region of warm, moist climate with abundant forests and luxuriant vegetation, this small fox-like animal lived peacefully on the rich, grassy meadows and plains. Unlike the modern horse with its cloven hoof, the Eohippus had four distinct toes on each front foot, and three toes on the rear. In size, it never reached a height of more than twelve inches.

Almost contemporary in development with the Eohippus came the Orohippus, which ranged in a region extending from Europe to the state of New Mexico. This latter type, although slightly smaller, was similar to the "dawn horse" in general appearance. On the foot, however, the middle digit became stronger and more dominant.

Gradually through the thousands of years which followed, the middle digit showed greater development, and the remaining digits slowly disappeared, until in the Mesohippus, an early horse comparing in size to the modern prairie wolf, we find three digits on each foot.

Fossilized remains of the first one-toed horse, the Pliohippus, have been found in North America and Eurasia as well. In size, the Pliohippus surpassed its earlier ancestors and probably reached a height of three feet. It also differed from its predecessors in a more elaborate arrangement of teeth more adequately designed for grazing purposes.

In more recent years man, himself, has influenced the development of the horse. He has produced slender, long-legged types for speed and fleetness, and he has produced great muscular types for heavy burdens.

Of the true wild horses, however, only the Mongolian type remains in regions of central Asia. Three other types of true horses have been domesticated by man—the Celtic pony, the Norse forest pony, and the swift, graceful Arab steed. It is from these true types that all of our present domestic breeds have evolved.—Emory Ward, in Our Dumb Animals.

I'M THE DOG

I'm the dog
They drag along
Dust-strewn streets,
Through jostling throng.

I'm the dog
All chocolate-fed;
Wonder is
I'm not dead.

I'm the dog
They hourly praise
With honeyed words
My tricks and ways.

I'm the dog
They worry so;
Though often tired,
I have to go.

I'm the dog
They pet all day;
From talking bores
Relief I pray.

I'm the dog
That likes night best;
When they're asleep,
I get some rest!
—Grenville Kleiser.

GOOD HEALTH

THINK health
Yourself as healthy see;
As you think within your heart,
So you'll be.

TALK health
Speak words of truth and praise;
Know that wisdom's tongue
Is life and length of days.

ACT health!
Let manner, mood, and mind
Show purpose, poise and power
In high degree combined.

BUILD health!
By thought and word and deed;
Look high, have faith, be brave,
Persist and you'll endure.
—Grenville Kleiser.

THIS MORNING

Life begins each morning,
To use it as you choose;
A golden opportunity,
A day to win or lose.

New aims, new plans, new vistas,
Now open wide to you;
For brain and hand and spirit,
There's useful work to do.

Life begins this morning,
Be up and strong of heart;
Ignore past fears and failures,
Fill well today your part.
—Grenville Kleiser.

◆

—The Executive Meeting of the North Carolina Branch of Women's Work was held at Weaverville yesterday. Those going from Greensboro were Miss Brona Apple, Dr. Joy Harris Glascock, Mrs. E. W. Teague, and Mrs. J. E. Pritchard.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

According to Bureau of Agricultural Economics figures farmers' cash income from the sale of farm products and benefit payments in May was over $440,000,000.

Milk production per cow in this country on June 1 was the smallest on record for that date, due to poor condition of pastures hit by the drought. Incidentally, the drought has caused the AAA to somewhat modify its crop slashing program to include thought of food and feed grain reserves for lean years.

The cotton production program of the AAA, now in force, is declared to be causing considerable suffering to share croppers. In many cases, it is alleged, tenants on plantations have been evicted while the owner collected the government checks for plowing under cotton.

Because the drought ruined many early farm and home gardens in the Central West late gardens are being planted to yield food for fall and winter use, according to Department of Agriculture officials.

There were fewer chickens in farm flocks on June 1 and hens were laying fewer eggs. On that date farm flocks contained 10 per cent fewer chicks and young chickens than on the same date last year.

Despite AAA cotton reduction program, reports from the South say bol weevil infestation is the heaviest in years.—Pathfinder.

WHAT A CLERGYMAN SHOULD HAVE

When Grenville Kleiser was instructor in public speaking at Yale Divinity School, Yale University, he was asked by a student what he thought were the qualifications for success in the ministry. The next day Mr. Kleiser handed to the student the following answer:

A clergyman should have:

The innocence of a lamb.
The wisdom of an owl.
The cheerfulness of a cricket.
The friendliness of a squirrel.
The complacence of a camel.
The adaptability of a chameleon.
The diligence of a beaver.
The fleetness of a deer.
The vision of an eagle.
The agility of a panther.
The patience of an ox.
The endurance of an elephant.
The tenacity of a bull-dog.
The courage of a lion.

FIFTH DISTRICT, NOTICE.

The quarterly rally of the Fifth District will be held at Tabernacle church next Sunday afternoon, July 8, at 3 o'clock. Rev. N. G. Bethea will deliver an address on Stewardship and the drama of our boards and institutions will be repeated, Mr. Luther Medlin taking the part that was taken by Rev. M. P. Chambliss when it was given last January.

Remember the time is Sunady afternoon, July 8, at 3 o'clock, and the place is Tabernacle church.

J. E. PRITCHARD, Chairman.

◆

—Calvary church was fortunate in having Dr. Forlines as the preacher last Sunday, both at the morning and evening hours. Dr. Forlines is a great scholar and always gives his hearers something to think about.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Bethesda-State Street.—Our pastor, Rev. T. M. Johnson, filled his regular appointment the fourth Sunday and preached a very inspiring sermon. We are having very good attendance at Sunday school; had 184 present last Sunday. We are hoping to reach the 200 mark before the summer is gone.

Our Children's Day services wil be held next Sunday, July 8, at 11 o'clock.

Our special meeting begins the second Sunday in August and Home-Coming Day will be observed at that time. It has been our custom for several years to have Home-Coming the fourth Sunday in June, but it was thought best to change it to August this year. We are hoping to have a large crowd present. We especially want all of our ex-pastors present who may be able to attend; also all that have gone out from this church and community. I think every church sohuld observe Home-Coming once a year. No matter where we are, our hearts go back to the church of our childhood. We are planning to have some special songs and speeches. Don't forget the date and plan to meet and spend the day with us.

The C. E. Society had a social at Mr. S. R. Wagner's last Saturday night and reported a good time.

Miss Frances Wagner attended the Leadership Training School at High Point College last week.

MRS. D. D. BRINKLEY.

◆

Flat Rock Charge.—Our services at Bethel and Gideon's Grove churches last Sunday were not as well attended as usual, due to other meetings in the community. The people who were present seemed interested and gave splendid attention.

Last Sunday night the Mission Band of Gideon's Grove church rendered an interesing program, which had been prepared under the direction of Mrs. C. B. Way, the leader of the organization, and Mrs. S. G. Lemmons. The boys and girls performed their parts in a splendid manner. Rev. Wayne Curtis, of Burlington, added much to the program by directing the singing and rendering two solos.

The revival meeting began at Flat Rock church the fourth Sunday morning and closed the following Friday night. Rev. Wayne Curtis, of Burlington, was the pastor's assistant, and directed the song services; he also sang solos at the services. Bro. Curtis preached at two services. The writer did the preaching at all other services. The atatendance was the best that the church has had in their revival services in several years, according to some of the members. There were 25 professions and 23 persons united with the church at the two last services. Four persons came by transfer from other churches, and 19 united on profession of faith. Nearly one-half of the 23 members received were adult persons. The people of Flat Rock church were well pleased with the singing of Bro. Curtis, and also the personal work he did. Some of the members said it was the best meeting the church has had in several years. An offering of $23.70 was given to Bro. Curtis at the close of the meeting.

The revival meeting will begin at Gideon's Grove church next Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service, and continue for one week. The pastor will have the assistance of Rev. J. D. Williams, D. D., of High Point, pastor of Welch Memorial church. Dr. Williams will arrive on Monday afternoon and preach at each service during the meeting. Services will be held each afternoon, probably at 4 o'clock, and each night at 8 o'clock. We are expecting a successful meeting.

We are glad to report that Mrs. D. A. Walker, member of Palestine church, who spent ten days in a Greensboro hospital, has recovered sufficiently to be able to return to her home. Her many friends hope for her a speedy recovery.

The pastor and family are thankful to members of Flat Rock church for several gifts for the dining table during the week of the revival meeting at that church. The gifts included a sack of flour, a young chicken, a quantity of sugar, cereals, canned goods, coffee, vegetables and other useful things. Other gifts were received prior to the Flat Rock meeting, and we thank each one who has remembered us with gifts.

The appointment for Flat Rock church next Sunday afternoon has been cancelled on account of the revival services at Gideon's Grove church. The services at Gideon's Grove church will be at 11 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. The people are expected to bring dinner to the church, as is their custom on the first day of the meeting.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

◆

Dulin's, Mocksville Charge.—Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. The young people are very busy working and planning to erect Sunday school rooms. Our pastor's wife started a quilt and each one has made a square and gathered names for it, and they are trying to raise money other ways.

Our pastor, Rev. G. B. Ferree, fills his appointments with splendid sermons.

The revival meeting will begin and Home-Coming Day will be held the first Sunday in September with Rev. T. Glenn Madison as pulpit help. We are delighted to have him with us this year. We wish to ask the readers of the Herald and our former pastors to join us in prayer for a great revival this year.

LEONA HENDRIX, Reporter.

◆

Liberty, Davidson Charge.—On the past third Sunday our pastor, with President R. M. Andrews, came to our church and filled the regular appointment. Mr. Andrews did the peaching to a very good congregation. He delivered a good sermon. I think all enjoyed the sermon very much.

Our pastor held election the third Sunday for delegate to the Conference.

On the past fourth Sunday the Township Sunday Schoo Convention met with fairly good attendance.

Our Sunday school reorganized in May after an epidemic of measles. Mr. John Cagle, a fine young man, is superintendent. He has been in ill health, but has improved, and is able to fill his place at church. We are very thankful for this.

On the 14th day of June Uncle John Brewer was buried at this church. He was a member of New Hope church but attended this church regularly when able to do so. His wife preceded him five years ago. They had no children. He was a devoted Christian and lived to be 80 years old.

The revival meeting will begin at this church the third Sunday in August, if it is the Lord's will. We hope that much and lasting good will be accomplished.

The hour of Sunday school has been changed to 10 o'clock except on preaching days when 1:30 is the hour. Preaching at 2:30. We invite one and all to attend church.

ANNIE HILL.

◆

Concord.—Due to the absence of our pastor, Rev. A. D. Shelton filled our pulpit at our morning service last Sunday. We were glad to have him visit us; his sermon was very inspiring and helpful.

Our attendance at both Sunday school and preaching has dropped off quite a bit. I feel sure that after the vacations are over, everyone will take a renewed interest in their work.

Our Children's Day program was given last night under the direction of Miss Agnes Litaker.

REPORTER.

◆

Concord, Saxapahaw Charge.—After the sermon the third Sunday afternoon in June, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hargrove brought their infant son, Thomas Marion, to the altar to be christened. This was a very beautiful service.

Mr. Loy had a good message for us again Sunday morning. He used as his subject "Steadfastness."

Our revival meeting will begin the third Sunday in this month. Rev. O. C. Loy will be the pulpit help. There will be all day services on Sunday, with dinner on the grounds.

The Children's Day program was given Sunday evening.

Miss Margaret Ferguson and Mr. Mark Baxter were united in marriage Friday. They plan to make their home in this community.

Mr. T. H. Moore is stil very ill. We pray that he may soon recover his health.

REPORTER.

◆

West End, Thomasville.—On June 26th a group from our C. E. Society met at the home of Carlos Hill to organize a Tithers' Club. We have 22 members on roll. We have made some interesting plans for the future and hope to carry them out. Our club will meet the last Tuesday in every quarter. Our next meeting will be on September 25.

Mid-week prayer meeting was held in the basement of the church Wednesday night, the Ladies' Aid having charge. Mrs. David L. Disher, vice-president, had charge of the devotional service. The program was based on the Beatitudes. We have been having some interesting meetings with large attendance. There were 53 present Wednesday night.

The C. E. Township Union held their regular monthly meeting Thursday night, June 28, at Emmanuel Reformed church. We had an interesting program. The First M. P. church carried off the banner. The next meeting will be at Calvary Reformed church.

The Bible School, which has been going on in West End church came to a close last Friday. The commencement program was presented Friday night, which was enjoyed by all present.

Saturday night, June 30th, the C. E. Society gave a social at the home of David S. Long.

Our C. E. Society is putting on some fine programs. Our society is also growing in size and in interest.

Rev. H. W. Bell, our pastor, who has been away in revival meetings and Bible schools, was back with us Sunday night for regular evening worship. Bro. Shoffner and Bro. Madison preached for us while our pastor was away.
MARY DISHER, Reporter.

Mount Zion, Randolph Charge.—Many things have taken place since our last report.

Our Sunday school is going along nicely in spite of small attendance.

Mr. Suits filled his regular appointment the first Sunday in July.

There will be a township Sunday school Convention held at our church the second Sunday in July. Reports from the different Sunday schools, speaking and good singing will make up the program. The public is invited.

On the fifth Sunday in July our revival meeting will begin. We trust that we may have a good meeting.

CLARICE PEARLE HOOVER, Reporter.

Fallston Charge.—All the churches on this charge are situated in a section that is predominantly agricultural. There are perhaps few sections of our state where the rural population is more thickly settled, or where a larger percentage of the acreage has been cleared and made ready for cultivation. During an extended period in early June the farmers were forced out of their crops because of continued rain. For a time it looked as though some of the crops would be a total loss. Today the picture is changed. Blessed by three weeks of favorable weather under the care of a kind Providence, the fields now hold the promise of a fair harvest. This spirit of hopefulness in some degree projects itself over into the work of the church.

The outstanding event of the day yesterday, Sunday, July 1, was the Missionary Rally held at Hebron church. The meeting began at 2:30 in the afternoon, with Mrs. B. L. Heavener, district chairman, presiding. The attendance was good. The people came early and gave good attention to the program throughout. The following in addition to the chairman are amon gthose who took part on the program: Mrs. Quincy Hartman, Rev. R. S. Troxler, Miss Avis Hull, Mrs. James Peeler, and Rev. J. D. Morris. It developed that Bess Chapel has the oldest auxiliary in the district. Accordingly, they reported by far the most extensive work done. However, all the reports given were hopeful. Five auxiliaries from three charges made reports either through their presidents or some one speaking for them. The next meeting will be held at one of Brother Troxler's churches on Cleveland charge. Mrs. Fogleman was made secretary.

All the churches on the charge are now nearing their annual revival season. Our first meeting will begin at Friendship on the third Sunday in July. The other meetings will succeed each other in the following order: Knob Creek, fourth Sunday in July; Macedonia, fifth Sunday in July; Hebron, first Sunday in August; Laurel Hill, second Sunday in August. The most striking thing about the meetings thus far is that no one from either of the churches has as yet asked me who is to assist me in the preaching. To me this indicates a proper poise on the part of the people and a willingness to go along with the preacher that is altogether commendable. May God so help us to approach the Throne of Grace that He may build up His Church and add thereto such as should be saved.

The people gave good attention to the sermon yesterday morning at Hebron church. The Christian Endeavor at this church held a social some two weeks ago and realized around $19 therefrom. They are going to use this money to buy new lights for the church, as I understand.

We had 32 present for Christian Endeavor last night at Friendship. Thelbert Wright led the program. Miss Ceo Wright will lead next Sunday evening.

In accordance with the announcement as made by our reporter, the Friendship auxiliary gave a social Saturday evening on the church grounds at the parsonage. Deespite the large servings of cake and cream given, they realized $12.40 therefrom.

Next Sunday, July 8, is our regular appointment at Laurel Hill church, with an appointment at Macedonia in the afternoon. The church treasurer at Knob Creek church, Theodore Hartman, is especially pleased with the reesponse given to the envelope system. He tells me that through this system, more money was realized in the first six months of the year than in the first eleven months of last year under the old system.

Three deaths should be recorded: Mrs. Henry Pool, of Knob Creek church; Owen, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Pink Detter, of the Macedonia community; also another infant in the same community, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pink Heaveuer.

On the other side of the ledger we have one marriage—Miss Ilene Bingham, of the Laurel Hill church, to Howard Crow of the same community. Both are talented and highly respected young people. The marriage was performed on Friday, June 1, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Bingham. A large circle of friends wish for them a long and happy married life.

H. F. FOGLEMAN, Pastor.

First Church, Lexington.—In the absence of our pastor, who filled his appointment at Mount Carmel, Mr. C. L. Hedrick conducted the 11 o'clock worship service. He chose as a text Romans 6:23, "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Mr. Hedrick stated that everyone should be as much interested in the wages of sin as he is in the wages of the material world.

Pastor Isley conducted the evening service, bringing a very helpful message entitled "Making a Decision." The decisions of Abraham and Lot as recorded in Gen. 12:1-10 were used as the theme of the discourse. The Canaan chorus could not be with us as had been planned, but they expect to come at an early date.

Our mid-week prayer services are being well attended. For the past several weeks we have had popular business men of the town as leaders. Last week Dr. J. D. Andrews, a popular physician, was in charge. This week his brother, Rev. Joo Dixon Andrews, a ministerial student, led. Next week we are expecting Judge Adrian J. Newton to be with us.

Sunday evening at the regular worship hour the Children's Day program will be presented. The service will consist of speeches and a pageant entitled, "The World Children." This program is under the direction of Mrs. L. B. Koontz and Mrs. C. M. Isley.

On July 15 the 11 o'clock services will be in charge of the older members of the church. Rev. T. F. McCulloch, of Greensboro, will deliver the sermon.

Circle No. 2 will give a supper on the church lawn Saturday evening. Ice cream and drinks will be sold.

Mrs. Mary Jane Lookabill, one of our faithful members, has been quite ill for the past two weeks. We hope she will soon be able to fill her place at church.

Pastor Isley is engaged in a revival meeting near Kernersville this week.

MARGARET LEA SWINK, Reporter.

Bethel C. E. Society, Flat Rock Charge.—The C. E. Society of Bethel held its regular business meeting and social at the home of Miss Cora Lee Dwiggins, Wednesday night, June 27th.

The president, Mr. Pinkney Dwiggins, presided over the business meeting. The meeting open by singing "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" by the society, followed by the Lord's Prayer. The first Psalm was read by Miss Avalee Combs. The secretary, Mrs. Bernice Pope, read the minutes of the last meeting. After the business was discussed and reports from the committees given a social hour was enjoyed. There were 24 members and five visitors present.

The hostess served tempting refreshments, consisting of tempting, chess pies, banana splits, cakes and lemonade.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Dura Pearmau. REPORTER.

Liberty.—Our pastor, Rev. Fred R. Love, filled his regular appointment the fourth Sunday morning. This was another good sermon.

The fourth Sunday evening a pageant, "The Children of the World," was beautifully presented under the capable directorship of Miss Lora Bowman. This was in observance of Children's Day exercise. Misses Mary Bowman Shepard sweetly sang "The Unfinished Task."

Our Sunday school and Christian Endeavor are doing good work with a fine attendance.

Miss Pauline Frazier was leader of Christian Endeavor Sunday evening.

Our pastor, Rev. Fred R. Love, is attending the Pastors' Conference at High Point College.

Miss Marjorie Elkins and Miss Verle Ward attended the Leadership Training School at High Point College last week.

Circlie No. 1 of the Woman's Auxiliary met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Brown on Fayetteville street.

Mrs. J. E. Cox led the devotional; after the study period the hostess served dainty refreshments.

Circle No. 2 met with Mrs. F. A. Shepard at her hospitable home Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Cruup Brower led the devotional and Mrs. Clarence Highfill had charge of the program. Delicious refreshments were served by her daughters, Margaret and Mary Shepard. Circle No. 1 will meet with Miss Bertine Shepard for the July meeting.

Circle No. 2 will meet with Mrs. Brower.

Miss Ina Isley and Miss Nell Straughn, of Greensboro, were guests of Misses Helen, Dorothy and Annie Dare Isley Sunday and worshipped with us.

Mrs. Brower and Miss Bertine Shepard were visitors in Greensboro Saturday.

Rev. and Mrs. E. G. Lowdermilk, Mrs. Pritchard and Mrs. Causey were guests of Mrs. F. A. Shepard and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Shepard and Miss Bertiue Shepard last week.

We were saddened to learn of the sudden death of our former pastor, Rev. M. P. Chambliss, last week. He was pleasantly remembered here and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. We, the members of Liberty Methodist Protestant church, extend our deepest sympathy to the aged mother, of whom he ofen spoke in private conversation. May the Great Comforter be with her and also the brothers and sisters in their sad bereavement. O, Father, draw these sorrowing ones close to Thyself, in the person of the sympathetic Savior, is our prayer.

BERTINE SHEPARD, Reporter.

◆

Lincolnton.—Our church work is moving along nicely. Our Sunday school attendance is very good. Beginning today we put on a contest in our school which, we believe, will increase our attendance a great deal.

We have as fine a group of boys and girls as you will find anywhere.

Our pastor, Bro. Cranford, brought an excellent sermon at the 11 o'clock hour. It was a very fine message for the times in which we are living. God has been wonderfully good to us through all of our trials and tests. If we but look to Him I know that He will never leave or forsake us.

Herald readers, please pray for us that in all our undertakings we may let the Holy Spirit lead.

May God bless and keep each and everyone of you, is my prayer.

HATTIE JOHNSON.

◆

First Church, High Point.—Sunday schools can never become larger or of greater influence than that enjoyed as a result of leadership. In this connection much can be said of the First Methodist Protestant church of High Point. As general superintendent, J. H. Jennings has proven himself master of leaders. Yet, to talk with him or to watch him work through the classes and various departments one would think him to be of far less importance than he is. In fact, when talking with Superintendent Jennings it is his teachers, departmental superintendents and others than he himself who is responsible for the present success of the Sunday school.

And, in return, teachers and others active in Sunday school confer upon Mr. Jennings those honors which he endeavors to thrust upon various and sundry assistants. And, without a doubt, this spirit is slowly but positively spreading throughout the membership and is rapidly developing one of the finest spirits of fellowship the church has ever experienced.

In the regular church service Sunday morning, Rev. Roy I. Farmer presided and the sermon was delivered by Rev. Fred G. Holloway, D. D., president of the Westminster Theological Seminary, of Westminster, Md. As one of the younger ministers of the Methodist Protestant church he has made a profound impression with his able preaching and his sermon on Sunday morning measured up to his high standard and was greatly enjoyed by his audience.

In the evening service, M. J. Shroyer, D. D., professor of Biblical Theology, in the Seminary, brought a most interesting and helpful message to the congregation.

First Church feels quite fortunate in having had two such able speakers present for the services.

ASSISTANT REPORTER.

◆

Caroleen.—Our attendanhe for the past six months has been 2,091, or an average of 83 per Sunday. The Ladies' Auxiliary paid a visit to Tulaka Sunday. A group of the C. E. members met Monday and cleaned the church. The C. E. elected new officers last Sunday. Mr. Grady Waters was elected president. Our C. E. is looking to a prosperous year.

Our church paid $17.00 to Orphans' Home. Collection of $65.00 for six months. Brother J. D. Morris has great influence in leading our people at Caroleen.

GOLDIE A. UPTON.

◆

First Church, Charlotte.—Father's Day was observed with an appropriate program.

The Wilma Shaw Bible class held a most delightful meeting at the home of Mrs. J. C. Penny on Thursday evening.

The Cradle Roll Department is happy to welcome the following new members: Dorothy Pauline King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. King; Virginia Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Phillips; Ellen Louise Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Smith; Ruth Rea Hager, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Hager; Mildred Evelyn Ledbetter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Ledbetter, and Dickey Gene Beatty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Beatty.

Miss Ruby Stegall represented the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society at the Leadership Training School at High Point College. She gave a very interesting account of the meeting at he Young People's Christian Endeavor Society meeting on Sunday evening. So interesting, indeed, was her talk that many others expressed the hope that they might be able to attend next year. Misses Marguerite Helms and Wilma Robinson represented the Intermediate Society.

The annual Sunday school picnic will be held on July 4 at Sustar's pool and picnic grounds at Matthews, N. C.

The Sunday school attendance is exceptionally good. The following received rewards for perfect attendance in the Junior and Intermediate Departments: Catherine Garmon, Carl Queen, Lynwood Smith, Joseph Garmon, Virginia Stelle, Louise Hendry, Marguerite Helms and Fred Love, Jr.

The Sunday evening Gospel Song Reveries are greatly enjoyed by large audiences. We were glad to have the Good Will Quartette and the Short Sisters sing on these programs. Their good old Gospel songs are an inspiration to everyone present.

Special recognition was given Dickey Gene Beatty, five-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Beatty, who first attended church on Sunday evening, July 1. "His parents are giving him the right start in life," said Pastor Hendry as he held the young man and introduced him to the audience.

Mrs. J. H. Montgomery has returned to her home much improved after an operation at the Mercy Hospital. Mrs. R. S. Garmon continues ill, but is slightly improved. We miss her in the church services and hope for her speedy recovery. Mrs. J. M. Fowler is quite sick, we are sorry to note. Little Jimmy Haigler has been sick for about two weeks but is slowly improving.

Sincere sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Litte in the death of Mr. Little's father, J. P. Little, who died at his home in Carrolton, Georgia. "Grandpa" Little, as he was affectionately called by his many friends here, always attended our church when he visited Mr. and Mrs. Little here.

◆

English Street.—We are planning for a big day at English Street on the coming Sunday. At the morning service we are going to have a sort of "family reunion service." All families are requested to sit togoether. The pastor will preach a sermon appropriate for the occasion. At the evening service, Misses Annie and Myrtle Chisolm, of Thomasville, will be present to sing for us. We are expecting good crowds for both services and are hoping for a good day.

Since our last report, one of our most faithfu members has been taken away, Mrs. Luella Ward. She lived a quiet Christian life and was a faithful church member. We offer our deepest sympathy to all friends and loved ones.

We are very glad to report that Mrs. H. T. Troxler has been removed to her home from the Guilford General Hospital where she has been a patient for the past few weeks.

Our C. E. Society is planning to give a program and organize a society at the Ward Street Church of this city on next Sunday evening. They are also planning a picnic on next Friday evening. Too, we are glad to report that our C. E. president, Charles Leflin, who has been ill at his home for the past week, is able to be with us again in the society.

REPORTER.

◆

Hollister, Halifax Charge.—There has not been a report in the Herald from Hollister in quite a while, so I will endeavor to pass along to the readers a few items. Our reporter, Miss Gladys Crawley, has entered training in Park View Hospital in Rocky Mount, N. C., and we haven't elected a substitute reporter.

We are having a good Sunday school under the leadership of our superintendent, Mr. L. W. Gupton. There were 78 people present Sunday, an increase of about 10 over the previous Sunday. We were delight to have a number of visitors in Sunday school Sunday. Among these were Mrs. Holland, the wife of Dr. Holland, of Hollister; C. C. Camps and Mrs. Ballance, of Norfolk, Va. We are always glad to have visitors. Come again; we welcome you. Mrs. Ballance taught the Bible class Sunday. She is a splendid teacher.

In the beginning of the last Sunday school quarter our superintendent promised to give all those in the Sunday school a gift who were present every Sunday in the quarter.

Mr. Gupton gave out those gifts Sunday and the following people received gifts: Beaulah Gupton, Willis Gupton, Edward Gupton, Jack Shearin and Kathleen Shearin. We are glad to see the attendance and interest increasing in the Sunday school.

The Christian Endeavor Society has recently been re-organized and we hope to have a good society in the future.

Rev. O. C. Loy brings to us very interesting sermons at every appointment. On the fourth Sunday morning he delivered a wonderful sermon from Luke 3:14. His text was "And what shall we do?" Mr. and Mrs. Loy and children were the dinner guests of Mrs. Mae Alston on the fourth Sunday morning.

We will observe Children's Day service on the fourth Sunday morning in July.

Our revival will begin on the fourth Sunday morning in August. Rev. C. G. Isley will be the assisting minister.

The Woman's Auxiliary will meet on Tuesday afternoon, July 10, 1934, with Mrs. C. C. Satterwhite. We are hoping to have Mrs. Robinson, our district chairman, present with us in this meeting. The Auxiliary has recently had the piano at the church tuned and repaired.

The Sunday school has planned a weiner roast at Hollister on Friday evening of this week.

Several Hollister people are planning to attend the group meeting at Eden church on July 11th.

Best wishes to all the Herald readers.

KATHLEEN SHEARIN.

◆

Lebanon Church, High Point.—"Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." Matt. 5:6.

Verily, we have had feasts of spiritual food set before us in Lebanon church. Our pastor has not failed. In love, and marked earnestness, he has preached the pure Word, even Jesus' Christ the Savior, our Risen Lord. With grateful hearts we observe that the faithful in attendance have grown in Christian graces. They have enjoyed these love feasts and are spiritually blessed. Any who are not hungry and thirsty after righteousness in our community are missing a great blessing.

"The harvest truly is great. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that he will send laborers into his harvest."

Dr. Taylor preached wonderful sermons a week ago, both morning and evening, on the same subject.

Last Sunday he brought a very vital message of real interest and help to every person present. His subject was "A Young Shepherd and His Sling," and his text was "Five Smooth Stones." What a great sermon that was!

A vote for delegate to the Annual Conference was cast. Messrs. F. S. Pritchard and Stokes Gallimore were the nominees. Either one of these splendid young men will make a good delegate.

Our third quarterly conference will meet on Wednesday night, July 11th.

Mr. Oscar Easter, one of our splendid young men who recently joined the church, was married a few days ago. He is at Altamahaw where his father, Mr. F. W. Easter, is manager of a silk mill. The bride was Miss Ollie Bryant, of Rocky Mount, Va. They will, no doubt, take up their residence again in High Point in the fall, as Mr. Easter is a student in High Point College.

Dr. Holloway, president of Westminster Theological Seminary, preached a splendid sermon Sunday night. At this service the local Junior Order members were our guests.

The Circles of our Woman's Auxiliary will meet this week as follows: No. 1 with Mrs. J. W. Montgomery; No. 2 with Mrs. J. W. Reavis; No. 3 with Mrs. W. L. Lee and the Mission Band with Mrs. S. W. Taylor.

Young People's Week began Monday night, June 18, and continued for four nights in succession, ending Thursday night, June 21. The object was to deepen the spiritual life of the young people of the church and to intensify their sense of responsibility to God and to the programs of His Kingdom. On Monday night Dr. P. E. Lindley discussed "The Religion of Young People." Mr. Arnold Koonce was the speaker Tuesday night. His subject was "Christ's Call to Youth." On Wednesday night, Mr. Luther Medlin spoke on "Why the Gospel and the Program of the Kingdom Make a Peculiar Challenge to Youth." The last address was by Rev. T. J. Whitehead, his subject being "Youth Consecrated to Christ and the Program of His Church." All speakers were heard with interest and helpfulness. The attendance was good each night, and the young people enjoyed the programs.

On Wednesday night the Young People from English Street church attended, and contributed to the service by singing two selections. The pastor and the young people are grateful to the visiting speakers and all others who contributed toward making these services a success.

The laymen of the church are active in their efforts to boost the finances. They are asking all members who have incomes to pay at least 3 per cent of their incomes weekly to the church. They have designated the third Sunday in July as Joash Day. It is our hope now that everything may be paid in full when the year ends.

The pastor and his family have been the recipients of pleasing and heartening expressions of interest and esteem. On Friday night a large group of members stormed the parsonage and left a generous supply of needful things for the pantry and other family necessities. And on Saturday morning they climaxed this gracious generosity by placing a New Perfection, five-burner oil stove, brand new, in the home. The pastor and his family have been deepy moved by this kindness, and they hope to prove their appreciation by every possible service.

REPORTER.

◆

Mebane.—The Woman's Auxiliary met at the church Monday evening, June 25. The program was in charge of the president, Mrs. A H. Jobe.

Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Ballard, Nancy Bennette, Delores Nicholson, Enid Smith, Pauline Christopher, Marie Smith, Margaret Wyatte, Ellen Sykes, and Madge Nixon attended the Leadership Training School at High Point College the past week.

The Ladies' Aid met Monday afternoon with Mrs. J. W. Nicholson with 20 members present.

The Sunday school picnic for the year will be held at Gantz Lake, Graham, Friday afternoon. We shall leave the church at 3;30. We are hoping that every member of the Sunday school will be present at this outing.

Little Marion Foust has returned from Rainey Hospital where she was taken for treatment. We were glad to have her back in Sunday school Sunday morning.

The first vesper service will be held on the church lawn from 7 to 8 o'clock next Sunday evening.

MRS. CALLIE NICHOLSON.

◆

Welch Memorial, High Point.—We had our revival the first and second week in May, with Bro. J. L. Trollinger as pulpit help. We feel that much good was done through his preaching and we enjoyed having him with us. He led prayer meeting for us last Wednesday night and was appreciated very much.

Our church services and Sunday school are holding up fairly well during the hot weather and vacation time. The finances are coming up better than usual.

The different classes and organizations are "dressing up" the inside of the church. The interior and pews have been completely done over. The Baracas have also refinished their room.

Mr. Stamps, of Lexington, has recently taught a ten-day singing for us. Several of our people took advantage of this, though quite a few of them were so tied up at the time they could not attend.

Dr. Williams has been bringing us such good messages each service that we wish everyone would attend and hear him. We appreciate him more the longer he is with us.

◆

—Rev. W. F. Kennett attended services at Calvary church last Sunday. His many friends will be glad to know that he is gradually recovering from his recent illness.

—The training school for pastors, conducted at High Point College last week and this, seems to have been very successful. Even those who took the full course in our Theological Seminary have found the work very helpful this year. The members of the Seminary Faculty, Drs. Holloway, Forlines and Shroyer, seem to have made a great impression. It is planned to have the school begin next year on Wednesday following the High Point College commencement.

—Very few of our ministers have enjoyed the Pastors' Training School any more than have Revs. W. F. Ashburn and T. F. McCulloch, both of them Superannuates.

—One of the new features of the World's Fair this year is what is claimed to be the world's largest fountain. Its flow of water is said to be enough to supply a city of 1,000,000 inhabitants, and is spectacularly lighted in five colors.

—The Russians say they want nothing at all from "capitalistic" America—except some capital.

—Reports of banks and trust companies show large increases in deposits.

—There are now approximately 600 broadcasting stations in this country with prospects of a large number of small, low-powered locals being added in the near future.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Rev. C. W. Saunders

Our hearts were made sad
When we heard of his death.
Why should our tears in sorrow flow
When God recalls His own
And bids him leave a world of woe
For immortal crown?

Is not e'en death a gain to those Whose life to God is given?
Gladly to earth their eyes they close
To open them in Heaven.

Their toils are part, their works are done,
And they are fully blessed;
They fought the fight, the victory won,
And entered into rest.

The flock must feel the shepherd's loss,
And miss his tender care,
But they who bear with joy the cross,
The crown shall soonest wear.

And is not he who called him home,
Still to his church most high;
To bid yet other laborers come,
And all her reed supply.

And let our sorrows flow!
God has recalled his own,
But let our hearts, in every woe,
Still say, "Thy will be done!"

MR. IVINS DUNN.

Neal

After a lingering illness, lasting through several years, Mr. Henry C. Neal passed away at his home in Enfield Saturday evening, June 23, at 9 o'clock at the age of 56 years. The funeral services were conducted from his late home Sunday afternoon at 5 o'cock, and the interment took place in Elmwood cemetery with his pastor, Rev. E. O. Peeler, officiating. The pallbearers were Messrs. R. E. McDaniel, William Dickens, Johnny Burt, W. R. Garrett, Gus Neville and Eli Bellamy.

Mr. Neal had been a life-long resident of this section and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He was a faithful attendant at church, Sunday school and Christian Endeavor as long as his health permitted. He will be greatly missed by his church, friends and loved ones. His friends will remember him by his faithful works and his patience and faith during his illness.

He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Nora Willey, who died in 1911. His second wife, who was Miss Lessie Mae Parks, survives him, together with four children—one son, Gilbert, by his first marriage, and two sons and one daughter by his second marriage, Marion and Harry Lee and Miss Patty Ruth Neal. He is also survived by two brothers, Mr. Will Neal of Battleboro, and Mr. J. G. Neal of near Greenville.

MRS. ELI BELLAMY.

Wilson

Miss Rosa A. Wilson, better known as Aunt Kate Wilson, was born June 4, 1851, and was called away to be with the Lord June 26 of this year. She was 83 years, 22 days old. She was the oldest member of Weaver's Chapel M. P. church at her death. She was one of the first members, even when there was a Bush Arbor before there was any church at Weaver's Chapel. Miss Wilson was an invalid all her life, yet she bore her pain patiently and was ready with a smile for every one. She was not able to attend the church for several years before her death, yet she loved the church and attended as long as her health would permit, and her last testimony was that she was not afraid to die, for she had a Home waiting for her.

She is survived by two brothers and one sister, Mr. Archie and Mr. Josh Wilson, of Littleton, N. C., and Mrs. W. A. Whitby, of Roanoke Rapids, N. C., and a large number of nieces and nephews, besides other relatives, and many friends.

The funeral was conducted at the grave by the writer, assisted by Rev. Hilliard, pastor of a local Christian church near the home of Miss Wilson, and her body was placed in the family cemetery.

The bereaved have our deepest sympathy.

R. L. VICKERY.

RAILROADS

President Roosevelt has signed the railroad labor act passed by Congress which will assist workers in wage disputes by abolishing present mediation board and setting up new adjustment board composed of representatives of carriers and labor. It also provides for annuities for all wokers who have been employed by a railroad for 30 years or more and who have reached the age of 65. This pension is expected to cost the railroads 65,000,000 a year, so they plan a court fight.—Pathfinder.

—More than 2,000,000 persons have been to the World's Fair this year.

—Three religious faiths, Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish, join in a fight to help clean up the nation's motion pictures.

—Thirty-five CCC youths have composed a book on their experiences which tells what the CCC is doing for the youth of America.

—The National Hall of Representatives, with its rich carpets and upholstered chairs, is unsurpassed in the world as a legislative chamber.

—A new stainless and non-corrosive alloy of iron, nickel and chromium may replace silver and gold now employed in the making of wire and plates for use in bone surgery.

—A seven-year-old girl in San Juan Capistrano, California, was locked in a filthy chicken-pen by her parents because the tot had "an evil eye" and to prevent her from casting a "spell" on the family.

MUST HANDLE CHILDREN WISELY

Experience has taught that the parent who strikes the medium in the training of children will have the best success. Neither the "strong-arm" method nor the one which neglects disciplinary measures entirely has been very satisfactory. Try to instill a sense of duty into the child, but don't try to drive it in with a club.

However, unless you want your children to be criminals, you should make them understand that there is such a thing as right and law. In later life, they will have to face the law and feel its lash if they defy it. You cannot expect the rest of the human family to be as lenient toward your children as you yourself are. So if you send them out into the world with the idea that they can do as they please and not suffer any consequences, you are simply preparing them for trouble, and plenty of it.

While it goes against the parental grain to use physical force on a child, there are some children to whom a little spanking will do more good than a whole day of arguing. Children love dearly to argue, and the modern child is so smart that he will out-argue his parents on almost any subject.

The argumentative child is a special problem. As a rule they "get over it" when they come to have more experience of the ways of the world and learn that arguers and grouchers are not popular. No set rules can be laid down for bringing up children, since no two children are alike. What will make an angel of one child may bring out a devil in the next one.

Parents ought to take their job seriously and avoid showing anger to their children or getting excited. After all, they are your children, you know; they didn't ask to be born.

Even at their worst they are a delight; they are worth a fortune. Parents who work and sacrifice and manage so they they can bring up their children in a decent way are entitled to the greatest credit. A hundred such people are worth more than a million of the supercilious and super-cultured rich families, most of whom are too busy drinking and playing around to have any children and too inhuman to care anything for them if they do have them. Blessings on the parents—their task was never harder than it is today.—Pathfinder.

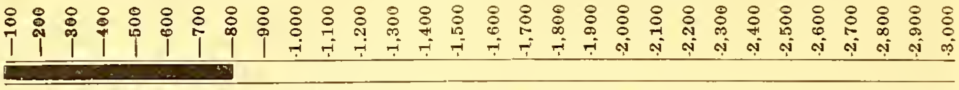
CASTE SYSTEM IN EDUCATION?

Lillian Herstein, prominent Chicago educator, says a caste system is growing up in the United States as one of the tolls of the depression as well-to-do parents are withdrawing their children from public schools because the depression has caused retrenchment on "frills and fads" subjects.

Approximately 10,000 educators attended the 72nd annual convention of the National Education Association at Washington for the purpose of reviewing the entire educational system.—Exchange.

—Mental obsessions similar to those which cause people to step into the path of oncoming trains and leap from high buildings are thought by an English doctor to cause many auto accidents. Experiments show that many drivers have an insane desire to speed, regardless of the danger.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
LINCOLNTON	81
REIDSVILLE	80
SHILOH	70

Now just look at the head of my column this week. There stands Lincolnton right up there at the top, having outdistanced all the others in the race for first place. And in fairness to them I must say that they deserved to be up there last week but by an oversight they were not given full credit in the received column two weeks ago and last week I figured out their percentage on the basis of the received column and thus they did not get their dues, but we offer our sincere apologies to them and hope they will forgive the oversight. Brother Cranford and his people are to be commended greatly for the fine work they have done at Lincolnton. Accept the congratuations of the Herald Committee. When they do reach their goal, my, what a celebration we will have for them! That will be something to look forward to and I will be studying the dictionary in order to have plenty of words to use in saying things about them that will be in keeping with their achievement.

And Graham did the honorable thing last week by sending in Subsidy in full. They have now reached their quota in subscriptions and in Subsidy. No wonder they are all pepped up. And Rev. H. L. Isley tells me that they have sent in their subsidy in full from Siler City charge. Fine for Siler City! There is where I got my wife, and from the way they are doing things down there it seems like they might have a lot more people that are capable of making good preachers' wivves. So when I see a preacher who wants a good wife or somebody who wants a good husband I will just send them to Siler City charge where they have so many fine people.

So good folks, just come on with your subscriptions and subsidy.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	9¾	$....
Albemarle	17	9½	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	24	....
Asheville	14	7¼	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	11.10	....
Bessemer City	13	6.33	....
Burlington, First	71	16½	*20.00
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	14	....
Charlotte	21	9.2	.90
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.32	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	13½	....
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5½	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	1½	....
Denton	48	11¾	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	8	*5.00
Fallston	85	24½	....
Flat Rock	63	14	....
Friendship	21	2.52	....
Forsyth	45	8½	2.50
Gibsonville	20	4	....
Glen Raven	47	7¼	....
GRAHAM	27	29.50	....
Granville	59	17½	16.55
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY	29	33	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	8½	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	2½	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	9.1	*7.50
Greensville	59	7	....
Guilford	37	9½	....
Halifax	53	8	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	13.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	22	....
High Point, Lebanon	34	7½	....
High Point, Welch	22	4½	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	16.30	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2¾	....
Lexington, First	45	10½	*10.00
Lexington, State Street	40	7.36	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	18	14.75	....
Littleton	50	7¾	....
Mebane	28	6	....
Mecklenburg	40	1½	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	3½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	4	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	18½	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	26¾	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7½	....
Randolph	74	9½	....
Reidsville	70	9	....
Richland	43	3½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	45	*20.00
Siler City	20	10¾	*7.50
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	13	....
Tabernacle	39	21¼	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	2½	....
West Forsyth	62	8	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	4½	....
Winston, First	26	9¼	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	4½	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher
Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro. N. C.

LETTER OF SYMPATHY

It was voted at the Pastors' Summer Conference that a letter of sympathy be printed in the Herald in behalf of those who suffered the loss of the following ministers: Revs. D. A. Fishel, J. W. Hulin, M. P. Chambliss, and C. W. Saunders; also ministers' wives, Mrs. W. E. Swain, Mrs. D. A. Highfill, Mrs. A. O. Lindley, Mrs. Atlas Ridge.

Therefore, be it resolved, that we extend our sympathy to the bereaved, and may the sustaining power of the Heavenly Father comfort these and give them grace to trust in Him more.

D. D. BROOME, Secretary.

◆

REPORT OF TREASURER OF COUNCIL OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Sunday Schools:
Mebane	$4.00
Thomasville, Community	4.00
Asheville	3.00
State Street, Bethesda	3.00
Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Pleasant	5.00
Enfield	2.00
Christian Endeavor Societies:
Siler City	1.00
Thomasville, Community	2.00
Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Pleasant	1.00
Enfield	3.00

J. CLYDE AUMAN, Treasurer.

◆

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

L. F. Ferree	$8.00
Rev. H. L. Fogleman	5.00
Rev. L. E. Mabry	4.00
Rev. J. R. Anderson	3.00
Rev. J. D. Cranford	2.20
Miss L. Yow	2.00
Mrs. C. E. Taylor	2.00
Rev. C. B. Way	2.00
Rev. A. D. Shelton	1.80
Mrs. J. W. Wiliamson, Calvary	1.00

Herald Subsidy

Orange Chapel, Rev. W. M. Loy	$5.00

Thanks to all friends there.

Individual churches on circuits raising their quota in full are: SHILOH on Shiloh Charge, EFLAND on Efland Charge.

---

* Subsidy paid in full.

Rev H L Isley 2aug4 R6

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., JULY 12, 1934 NUMBER 34

The Herald's Vacation Week

According to our custom of suspending publication one week for mid-summer vacation, there will be no HERALD issued on Thursday, July 26. The paper will appear as usual next week, Thursday, July 19. Please take note of this and send in your announcements and other matter for publication in time for publication next week.

◆

God's Presence With Us

By J. E. PRITCHARD

The theme for our brief meditation is God's presence with us. There are three passages of scripture which I shall use which clearly set forth the thought which I have in mind. The first is found in the book of Exodus, chapter 33, verse 15, "If thy presence go not with us, carry us not up hence." The second is found in the first chapter of the gospel according to Matthew, verse 20, "And they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted, is, God with us." The third is found in the 28th chapter of the gospel according to Matthew, verse 20, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

In the first of these passages the Children of Israel were thinking in terms of the Promised Land. They had started on their journey, being miraculously delivered at the Red Sea, and having been led by the Pillar of Cloud by day and of Fire by night. But having wandered in the wilderness for about a year, their faith began to weaken and they began to go off after false gods. Moses took the matter to the Lord and the Lord told him that he would send an angel to drive out their enemies before them, but that He would not go up with them, lest He should consume them, for they were a stiff-necked people. Moses, who realized his dependence on God, said, "If thy presence go not up with us, then carry us not up hence." Moses realized that a land flowing with milk and honey would be a poor gift without God. Even in his day, Moses realized that mere material things cannot satisfy the cravings of the human heart, and that even if an angel should drive out their enemies, there would be an enemy from within that would destroy them unless they had God with them.

The second passage is a statement by an angel announcing the birth of the Savior, saying, "They shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us." In this we see that God came down in the person of his dear Son, in order that He might be closer to us, yea, one with us in our trials. Our Lord brought God down so close to us and lifted us up so close to God that we can walk life's pathway together and we can be conscious of His presence.

The third and last passage follows a command from our Lord as he met with his disciples in Galilee after the Resurrection when he said, "Go, teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, Son, and the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all things that I have commanded you," and he said, "Lo, I am with you always." What a blessed promise! Think how much it meant to them! The small company of disciples had forsaken their Lord and had gone back to their fishing boats. One of them had expressed, perhaps, the sentiment of them all when he said, "We had hoped that is was he would should have redeemed Israel," indicating that their hopes had been abandoned and their high ideals had been lost. But our Lord said, Go and I will be with you. Think what this promise meant to them. It transformed their lives. It put new life into them. Whereas they had been timid and afraid, they could now stand before kings and rulers and declare the whole counsel of God. Whereas there had been bickerings and strife among them, they were transformed into the most unselfish band of men on earth, having all things in common, and no man claimed anything in his own right.

But someone may say, That was in the long ago, and that those things do not apply in our day. But these things do apply today just as much as in the days gone by. Some time ago I sat for almost an hour and listened to one of God's saints who had recently returned from the hospital, recount his experiences from the time he was left an orphan boy on the plains of a mid-western state until that hour, and how that God had been with him as he was with Moses and as he promised to be with the disciples. This man told how he had spent almost an entire night in prayer just before going to the operating room in a hospital, and how that in the early morning hours Jesus seemed to come and stand by his bedside and assure him that all was well. This servant of God said, "From that time on it made very little difference. I realized that Jesus was with me here and would be with me yonder, and so whether I lived or died I was his." Do you say this is mere sentiment? Well, if it is, let us have more of it. As the great Gipsy Smith recently said, "If this be dreaming, let me dream on." No, this is not mere sentiment. The church and all that is dear to us was fostered by men who have had such experiences as this. It was such faith as this that brought our forefathers to these shores, that they might establish here on our shores a republic where they could worship God in a way that seemed good to them. It is such faith as this that has enabled men to suffer for righteousness' sake, to bear the shame and reproach of the enemies of religion. It is the consciousness on the part of men that God was with them that has enabled men to build churches and schools and hospitals for the poor and to carry on the work of the kingdom. Yea, this is the victory that overcometh the world.

Since the gospel is for us today just as much as for the people of any age, let us think for a few minutes about some of the situations in which we have a right to claim the promise, "Lo, I am with you always." Every minister who goes into his pulpit to preach has a right to claim that promise. He does not go to preach himself, nor his own greatness, but Christ crucified. If he preach Christ, surely he has a right to expect that Christ would be with him. And unless he can feel that Christ is with him it is not much worthwhile to try to preach. He might deliver a nice little oration that would please the fancy of some, but unless he can feel that he is commissioned of High Heaven to declare the truth he will not have much courage. I believe in an educated ministry and believe that a man ought to have all the training that it is possible for him to have, but I also know that the man will need faith in God and faith to believe that God is with him for him to be the greatest success.

Also, every Sunday school teacher has a right to expect that God will help in the presentation of the truth. Surely this matter of presenting the Bible to the boys and girls and men and women and applying its principles to every-day living must be close to the heart of the Great Master of us all. And if the work be dear to His heart He will be with us. And I confess it is not always an easy task to preach. Many times it taxes the resources of the most resourceful, and then you feel that you have done a poor job, but if you have done your best God does not think of it as a poor effort. God says, "My word shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that whereunto I sent it."

Then, too, God's children who are having a hard time making a living have a right to feel that God is near. Our Lord knows what poverty is. He stood by the carpenter's bench, and after he had started his public ministry he could say, "The foxes have holes and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man hath not where to lay his head." He associated with humble fishermen, died upon a cross, was buried in a borrowed tomb, therefore he knows what it is like to suffer. And having passed through all these experiences he knows how to help us and to comfort us. With these things in view, may we not say with the poet:

"Jesus, these eyes have never seen that radiant form of thine,
The veil of sense hangs dark between thy blessed face and mine;
I see Thee not, I hear Thee not, yet Thou art oft with me,
And earth hath ne'er so dear a spot as when I meet with Thee."

Hester loved to do errands for her mother. One day she had been talking with her mother about God, when she quickly raised her head and said, "Why, Mother, then God is sending us on errands all the time. I am His little errand girl as well as yours, am I not?"

"Yes, dear; God has given us errands to do and a Book telling us how to do them."

"I like to be God's errand girl," Hester said.—Child's Gem.

MUCH ABOUT SEVERAL THINGS—OR ALL ABOUT ONE THING?

By Luther K. Long

I had a letter from a friend a few days ago. Referring to two of my recent articles in the Herald, "Never Too Old to Learn" and "Success Through Effort," he said:

"There is always something ahead, or just around the corner, which we can't quite grasp at the present time. As for myself, to be contented I must always have in mind some question, problem or study which I can keep thinking about. I have always been that way; but I have been interested in so many things and have not had the energy to follow out any one line of effort to completion."

Two or three things in these remarks are worthy of note: Perfection, satisfaction, continually eludes us. It is always ahead, just around the corner, beyond our grasp. But isn't this state of things exactly as it should be? That condition adds interest, spice, to what would otherwise be a dull round of effort. Is it unfortunate that my friend is interested in many things? I do not think so. His energy is limited, of course; but would it be wise for him to strictly limit his problems, confining his effort to the one or two whose solution he might hope to complete in a life-time? I doubt if it would—though there are cases in which a man may wisely do that very thing—for life and labor are meant to make men rather than solve problems, even though the solution of problems is an important part of the processes of life.

His expression, "I have always been that way," is interesting. He refers to an inborn disposition. How true it is that only what is in us can come out—only what is involved can be evolved. That unique, distinctive thing that constitutes our personality, your individuality, belongs to you. You should neither crush it nor allow it to run wild. You should trim it, discipline it, develop it toward noble ends. This is a great mystery, and a high privilege: a man, a child, can work upon himself for good!

My own life and work have been varied and mixed. I might have become a pretty good lawyer, as I once thought of doing. With more effort and concentration on the task, I had it in me to have become a much stronger preacher. With years of devotion I might have done a good day's work as a teacher. It is possible I should have become a successful writer, had I concentrated on that job. And I am quite sure I could have cut some swath as a farmer—with a variety of field crops, fruits, flowers and live-stock—had I stuck to the land on which I was born.

But, by concentrating on a single interest, would I have been happier? Would my life have been more useful? I am not sure. It requires a variety of experiences, observations, occupations and interests to develop liberal and sane views on many subjects. There are some things that the general practitioner understands and appreciates better than does the specialist. The expert writer may say a lot of things he would not say if he knew more about other subjects and other people. The preacher who just preaches may not be as wholesome and helpful as the minister who goes into the homes of the people, sits where they sit, feels the burdens that rest upon them, knows the children by name, and appreciates their school and occupational problems, and—when the mating time draws on—is a sympathetic friend and counselor. Fatherhood and motherhood are among the great occupations. A wide range of knowledge and experience come in handy as parents associate with and advise their growing sons and daughters.

General education, a somewhat universal culture, seems to be indicated as the best plan of study for most people. On this basis special courses and lines of investigation may be built up—with here and there concessions to the few individuals who do not care so much for culture and life as they do for a single intricate problem that they may follow to the heights and the depths.

MY UTMOST FOR HIS LIFE

By Fred G. Holloway

President of the Westminster Theological Seminary
Westminster, Md.

The first heresy of the Christian church was that which maintained that Jesus was all divine and in no sense human. It seems strange to us who today struggle against those who hold that Jesus was in no sense divine to think of a day in which there were many who insisted that Jesus was in no sense human. And they comprised no small group, against whom the church was able to prevail only after a continuous and bitter struggle. Those who held this heresy were brought up in a philosophy which held that everyone is composed of two parts—flesh and spirit; that the spirit is intrinsically good, and that the flesh is by nature sinful. If the latter were the case (as they believed) then a Jesus who possessed a body of flesh and blood must by nature be sinful—and so—in order to hold to the doctrine of the sinlessness of Jesus—he only appeared to have one.

If this heresy were to occur, we would immediately stamp it out. We would cry out for a real Jesus—"one tempted in every point such as we, and yet without sin." For we believe that his real divinity is seen, not in any absence of flesh, but in his victory over it. Give us a Christ who faced life with its problems, perplexities, its trials and temptation. Give us a Christ who tasted life to its most bitter dregs—and yet is spotless! We insist upon it, not only because that is the kind of a Jesus we need, but because we believe that to be the kind of Jesus he was!

Again we bear in mind that Jesus is not a philosopher giving his views on life. He is one who lived his life in a certain way, to prove the validity of his teachings—and then cries out "Live as I live." Back of that command lies not only the authority of Divine Presence, but the authority of a life that was spotless. Here is one whose teaching motivates his life and whose life vindicates his teaching.

There are three factors, I think, which helps to shape the life of Jesus. The first was his knowledge of historic religion. Here is a striking thing which ought not escape our attention. With all the daring and newness with which Jesus approached life, he had the utmost respect for the past and for the history in which his nation's religion has been rooted. His use of Scripture suggests a youth who had not simply learned vast portions of it by rote, but who had loved it and whose deepest thought had been challenged by its subtle meanings. We cannot pass this matter by without paying tribute to his parents. The more one meditates over it the more one is convinced that Jesus was blessed, not only with godly parents, but with parents who were skilled in bringing into the lives of their children the essential truths of religion. To be sure, Jesus far outstripped them in his conceptions of life. To be sure, there is always the matter of the divine in Jesus which must be reckoned with. But let us remember that the same home that reared Jesus, reared James and Jude as well, the latter two in themselves enough to make a mother famous.

In the second place, Jesus was also greatly influenced by his sense of man's needs. Whenever you meet a great man, you meet a person who is a keen observer of life. Jesus is no exception, and the Gospel record is clear upon that issue. Everywhere about him he heard the cry of human needs; man burdened down under physical oppression, his spirit striving under a religion that was too stale and shallow to satisfy. Such things as these cried out to Jesus for solution.

In the third place, Jesus' life was greatly influenced by the presence of the divine in him. This presence of the divine created within him a sense of his own capacity, to which he was so alert that he could not help but feel his great responsibility.

These three things operated to produce the only life which has been perfectly selfless. His knowledge of religion and history, his appreciation of human needs, and the consciousness of his own capacity worked together harmoniously and perfectly to produce a life that became the Saviour of the world.

We today who would recognize the highest which is to be found in his life must emulate his example and endeavor to bring to play in our lives the same selfless spirit which dominated his. For here we find one who grappled with life just as we must, but yet with the mastery and the perfection which lead us to see in him the Son of God.—Methodist Protestant-Recorder.

TEACHERS VS. SOLDIERS

A report from San Jose, Costa Rica, states that figures submitted to Congress in President Jimenez's annual message demonstrate that Costa Rica has more public school teachers than soldiers.

The message disclosed that the Ministry of Public Education spent nearly twice as much in 1933 as did the Ministry of War. And here is another point that may be stressed, many people object to the term "Secretary of War," being of the opinion that this designation is a constant impediment to a better understanding between nations, or world peace. In Costa Rica this office is designated "Ministry of Public Safety."

It costs the average Costa Rican citizen approximately ten times as much, in taxes, to maintain the public schools as it does to maintain the army.—Selected.

◆

—St. Joseph's Guild asks Jews and Gentiles to set aside three days in September for Nationwide Prosperity Prayers.

FOR BETTER MOTION PICTURES

The Executive Committee of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, at its meeting held on June 22, took further action for strengthening and uniting Protestant activities in behalf of better motion pictures. The statement adopted by the Council expressed gratification at the recent action of the Roman Catholic Church with reference to motion pictures and urged Protestants to "co-operate with the objectives of the Legion of Decency by refusing to patronize objectionable films." Strong opposition to enforced block-booking and blind-buying was also expressed. A special Sunday, the third in October, was designated as a time when all Protestant pastors are urged to present the motion picture problem to their congregations and to secure a concerted emphasis upon it in all the organizations of the churches.

The full statement, as adopted by the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of Churches, is as follows:

"The Federal Council of Churches can see as yet little evidence of intention by the producers of motion pictures to improve the moral quality of films. While there has been marked advance in other respects, the indecencies, false ideals of life, incitement to drinking, gambling and sensuality, and the cynical attitude toward the sanctities of life remain unchanged.

"The statement so often made by representatives of the industry that suggestive pictures are produced in response to an insistent public demand, the implication being that the public mind itself is salacious, should be resented by the public. Most people are wholesome and desire clean pictures. There is revolt in all parts of the country against the character of films being forced upon audiences. We are deeply gratified at the aggressive position recently taken by the leaders of the Roman Catholic Church on the subject, and at the resolution adopted by the Central Conference of American Rabbis at their recent meeting.

"As yet, protests of parents, the churches, the schools, the organizations of women, and those who are interested in safeguarding children and youth have been treated with scant respect. The Federal Council, therefore, considers that the time has come to use more drastic measures. It therefore recommends:

"First, that members of the Protestant churches, their families, and citizens generally, co-operate with the objectives of the Legion of Decency by refusing to patronize objectionable films. The binding pledge of the Legion may or may not be signed, according to the individual conscience, but its purpose should be kept.

"Second, that they do not patronize motion picture theatres which persistently show indecent or otherwise objectionable pictures or offensive vaudeville features, or which use objectionable forms of advertising.

"Third, that the churches exert continued pressure on the industry and at Washington to secure abolition of enforced block-booking and blind-buying of films.

"Fourth, that pastors in all denominations throughout the country be urged to use the third Sunday in October as an occasion for discussing the motion picture, its potential value to society and religion, and the issues involved in improving the moral and social qualities of films; and that the Department of the Church and Social Service be requested to take such steps as are necessary to secure the most effective observance of the day, and also the participation of church organizations, including young people's societies, in the movement.

"In determining what pictures are indecent or otherwise morally objectionable, and what local theatres should be denied patronage, the individual must be guided by his own conscience after reading photoplay review services or after making personal inquiries. Such inquiry should also be made about other features of the program, for it is a frequent practice of exhibitors, in order to please other patrons, to show an objectionable short subject with a clean and desirable picture.

"The need of Better Films Councils in communities, which the Federal Council has been urging and helping to organize, and the need also for a national photoplay review service for the Protestant churches which the Council plans to issue as soon as it can be financed, are emphasized by the present movement. Thousands of people will now want guidance on films which they will often find it difficult to get. The community itself should be in a position to act on these problems through a Better Films Council, representing the religious, civic, educational and welfare organizations of the community."

DISCIPLESHIP

Have you and I today
Stood silent as with Christ, apart from joy or fray
Of life, to see by faith His face;
To look, if but a moment, at its grace,
And grow, by brief companionship, more true,
More nerved to lead, to dare to do
For Him at any cost? Have we today
Found time, in thought, our hand to lay
In His, and thus compare
His will with ours, and wear
The impulse of His wish? Be sure
Such contact will endure
Throughout the day; will help us walk erect
Through storm and flood; detect
Within the hidden life, sin's dross, its stain;
Revive a thought of love for Him again,
Steady the steps which waver; help us see
The footpath meant for you and me.

—Selected.

MEETING ON METHODIST UNION

Representatives of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Methodist Protestant Church, met together recently to consider Methodist union. It was decided to call a joint meeting of the several Methodist Commissions on Church Union, to be held in Chicago on August 28 and 29. This gathering promises to be one of unusual significance and fruitfulness.

HARRY EARL WOOLEVER,
Secretary of the Joint Committee.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Remember the A. C. Debt Assessment for July

Look up the assessment in the Conference Journal and plan to raise it during this month so it will not be in the way of the Superannuates for August.

The Meaning of Church Membership

Summer is a good time for our pastors to emphasize the meaning of church membership, as this is the ingathering period. No one should be received into the church until fully acquainted with the duties and privileges of such a membership. The fact that so many are received who know practically nothing about what is expected of them as church members explains why we have such a large number who live as they did before they joined the church.

Scanning the requirements set forth in our Discipline, we see that the major objective in joining the church is to "flee the wrath to come." That is, so to live that the condemnation of the unrepentent sinner shall not be their lot. Therefore those who join are urged to do the following:

Live a prayer life. To form the habit of prayer; praying when in health as in times of sickness; in days of prosperity as in times of adversity, etc. Only such a life of prayer really finds the deeper meaning of prayer.

Then all who join are exhorted to study the Bible; to know its contents so well that he or she can find what he wants in times of distress and to encourage his spirit by its words of admonition.

To set a watch on thoughts, words, and acts. A thing so many members of the church know but little about. They speak and act as they think, and their thoughts have not been guarded, therefore, they fail to impress the world with their changed life.

They are also exhorted to co-operate with the pastor—not criticize him; to co-operate with other members who are trying to do good rather than to oppose them.

To observe the rules of the church; to keep them faithfully. And to contribute to the benevolent enterprises of the church as God gives them ability. Think of it. Here is set forth something of the meaning of membership in the M. P. church. There is so much to do and to know and yet it often happens that a pastor will receive a member into the church without ever even instructing them privately or publicly as to what it means so to be received. Is there much reason to hope for better conditions, a more efficient church membership, and a different type of people in the church from those on the outside, so long as we neglect so generally to instruct our members in the meaning of church membership?

New Entrance Requirement

There was adopted at the last annual conference a resolution which requires those applying for admission into the Conference Course of Study to have completed the first and second years of college work. That is, such an one should be ready to enter the junior class without condition in an A-grade college. See Resolution on page 64.

This means, of course, that all applicants for the Conference Course of Study shall be thus prepared. The local church may still encourage young men to seek the ministry and license them to preach, but they cannot be used for the itineracy until they are admitted into the annual conference course of study, and to do this they must meet the requirement of the resolution just mentioned.

It is hoped that this will in some degree relieve the handicap of the ministry of those who are too poorly prepared to remain in the ranks of the conference, and when they are forced out they are usually most unhappy and often refuse to perform the work they did so well before they entered the pastorate. It should not be forgotten that an earnest Christian can find many things to do that are worthwhile besides to preach.

Spring Church Charge, Rev. W. H. Neese, Pastor

This is a three-point charge. I visited all the churches, Spring Church, Lebanon, and Pleasant Hill, in the order named. This is Pastor Neese's third year. The parsonage is located at Pleasant Hill. The work is compact and for that reason easy to serve. The work of Brother W. D. Fogleman persists here. He rebuilt Spring Church, the parsonage, and I believe organized the Pleasant Hill church. We have had some fine builders who had the genius of enlisting the people in new enterprises for the Lord.

Brother Neese appears to be getting on splendidly. He is using a poster in each church to show the financial obligations of the church for each interest, and exhibiting the amounts paid. It is a fine plan and worthy of being tried out in other churches.

The people and pastor think all annual conference claims will be met this year. We have great concern for our work in eastern Carolina, but have not despaired of it although our losses have been heavy within the past three decades. We believe there must be a constructive policy used, however, and an unquenchable optimism by the worker to bring about the desired results.

Group Meetings Next Week

Group Meetings on Creswell charge will be held next week. Revs. B. M. Williams and J. E. Pritchard, and Mrs. H. C. Nicholson will assist me. Brother Williams will speak on Stewardship, Brother Pritchard on a Bigger M. P. Church, Mrs. Nicholson on the Women's Work, and I will speak on the meaning of church membership. All-day programs will be given.

Plan of Appointments

July 15—Mebane 11 a.m., Union Grove afternoon, Efland at night.

July 17, 18, 19—Creswell charge; Group meetings at Rehoboth, Mt. Hermon, and Mt. Elma.

July 23—District meeting at Hebron.

July 24—Piney Grove and Siler City churches.

July 28—Group Meeting, Baltimore church, West Forsyth charge.

July 29—District Meeting at Baltimore church in the morning.

July 29—Afternoon, District Meeting at Spencer church.

R. M. Andrews.

THE DEPARTMENT OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION of the CHRISTIAN EDUCATION BOARD

Echoes of Leadership Training Schools—1934

The leadership training series for 1934 was launched June 11, at Fordland, Missouri. Our goal for the summer was 30 schools with 3,500 students finishing for credit and a popular attendance of 15,000. To date six schools have been held, and according to reports, there has been an increase over last year in each of these schools. If the season continues as successful as it has begun, the above goal will more than likely be realized.

Southwestern Christian Education Conference

June 6-8, in connection with the Southwest Group Conference, we held a conference with our leaders in that territory. Much enthusiasm was expressed for the work being done in co-operation with them through the Department of Religious Education. Upon the recommendation of the leaders, the conferences in the southwest adopted the following goal for this coming summer: 10 leadership training schools, 1,000 students finishing for credit, and a popular attendance of 3,000. These ten schools have already been set up and much enthusiasm has been manifested in carrying them out.

Missouri, Fordland, June 11-17

Under the efficient leadership of President W. A. Wilson, the Missouri School was well advertised, and as a result there was the largest attendance Missouri has ever had. The school was well graded, having access to a modern school building near the church. Everything in the way of equipment was provided. There were 121 in attendance and 21 signed the ife Service Declaration cards. In addition to the regular school, a Vacation Church School with three departments was conducted. Graduation exercises were held on Sunday morning with 12 graduates. One afternoon was devoted to the women's work, at which time the president of the Missouri Branch, Mrs. Bishop, had charge.

Iowa-Missouri, Kookuk, June 18-24

The attendance in Iowa-Missouri surpassed all previous records, there being about 140 students in all classes. With such a large attendance it kept the entire faculty and all officials on their toes the entire week providing for the needs of those attending. One of the outstanding features of the week was the service on Friday evening at which time 71 signed Life Service Declaration cards. Another outstanding feature was a lecture given each morning on "The Program of My Church," by Rev. B. H. Finch. It was indeed a full week and we feel that all those who were in attendance received a greater vision of service and they will go back to their local churches and mean much to the success of the Iowa-Missouri Conference.

Illinois, Lewistown, June 18-24, 1934

The writer was called to Illinois from Keokuk, Iowa, to bring the Decision Message on Sunday morning, and the commencement address on Sunday afternoon. We found 95 students enrolled for credit in the Ilinois School, being much larger than the school last year. Very few of our conferences have as beautiful a camp as does Illinois. On Sunday morning 22 signed Life Service Declaration cards and a number of others were genuinely converted. In a called meeting of the Executive Committee, plans were laid for an even greater school in Illinois next summer. Dean Langdon and his helpers should be congratulated upon such a splendid school.

Michigan, Miller Lake, June 25-July 1

This was a new school for Michigan. A second one will be held at Gull Lake as usual. Miller Lake is one of the most beautiful lakes we have ever seen. One may enjoy boating, bathing, and fishing to his heart's content. There were 33 registered in the regular courses and 25 in the Vacation Church School. During the decision service on Saturday morning, 28 signed Life Service Declaration cards and a goodly number of those in the early teens confessed Christ for the first time. On Sunday, July 1, a Young People's rally was held at which time the commencement services for the school took place, and following the rally, a baptismal service in the lake.

Reports have come to the office from two schools that the writer could not attend. North Carolina, which met June 25-30, reports 140 credit students. This is about one-third more than attended last year. This should encourage Rev. T. J. Whitehead and those who are working with him in North Carolina, for they have indeed put much into the planning for this school. Reports have also been received that Indiana, which met June 25-July 1, had the largest attendance, there being more than 200 students in the school.

In all of these schools we are endeavoring to get before our present and future leaders the whole program of the Methodist Protestant church. In addition to the training in the classes, we endeavor to keep alive the evangelistic and missionary spirit. Tihs atmosphere greatly enriches the lives of those who are in training for service.

The above indicates the fine beginning for our 1934 series. The season has just begun. There are five schools to be held next week, July 9-18. They are West Virginia, Eastern, Onondaga, Georgia, and West Texas. There will be 16 others to follow these five.

We earnestly request our leaders everywhere to co-operate to the fullest extent so that the splendid spirit in the first six schools of the series may continue in all those held during the rest of the summer.

F. L. Gibbs,
Director of Leadership Training.
3267 W. Liberty Ave., Room 208,
Pittsburgh (16), Penna.

OUR STORY PAGE

THE TRULY GREAT

"Gerald, will you run to the store and get me some eggs?" asked mother. "Aunt Helen has just telephoned that she is coming, and I must make a cake."

Gerald put down the book he was reading. "I don't want to carry bundles," he said. "Big people who are doing real things in the world don't carry bundles. Imagine Sir Galahad with a box of eggs tied to his saddle!"

Mother laughed. She could not help it. Then her face grew sober. She thought a minute, and then she began.

"Once upon a time," and Gerald sat down with a happy little sigh—mother was going to tell a story. That was like mother; a fellow never knew how or when she would tell them, but they were always worth listening to.

"Once upon a time," began mother again, "there was a little girl whose name was Dolly. She lived long ago, in the days when twenty miles from home was a long journey to take. This was her first real journey, not just to go by stage coach to the next town to see her cousins and stay all night, but a real journey on the railroad that had lately been built through the town.

"She had not slept all night with the excitement, and now she stood at the gate beside her little trunk of calfskin, studded with bright brass nails, waiting for the expressman to come.

"She watched and waited, but he did not come, and mother and grandmother watched, too, with anxious faces. The expressman must have forgotten. What could they do? It was before the days of telephones, and there was no man in the family to go for them.

"Just as Dolly was about to break down and cry, a tall, ungainly man came in sight. Dolly had never seen him before, but as he glanced down at the anxious little face, he stopped.

"What is the matter with this little girl?" he asked mildly. And Dolly told him all about her visit, and how the expressman had not come, and she was afraid she would miss the train.

" 'I will be your expressman,' said the tall man, picking up the trunk and placing it on his shoulder. Then he took Dolly's hand and away they went, down the street, up another street, and they were at the station, just in time for the trunk to be put on the train, and for Dolly to be settled in a nice, comfortable seat by the window before the engine started. Dolly sat by her window and waved 'Goodbye' to the tall man until he was out of sight.

"She did not know who he was, but years later one day she picked up a paper, and there was the same face, grown older and care-worn, and as she looked at the picture of the man who had been elected President of the United States, she saw again the little white gate, and the tall, ungainly man who loaded the trunk on his shoulder, and took her hand in his, and she knew that the kindly stranger of that morning was the wonderful Abraham Lincoln."

Gerald was very still for a minute after mother finished, and then he grabbed his cap and said, "I'll be back with those eggs in no time, mother, and any time you want any bundles in a hurry just call on me," and away he went as fast as he could run.—Congregationalist and Herald of Christian Liberty.

BE A MARTHA ANN

Martha Ann was out in the yard, brushing up the leaves that had fallen after a frost. As she toiled she sang loud and clear a merry little song.

The grocer's boy, trudging along in the dusty street, heard it, and whistled the same tune, forgetting that the basket which he held was almost too heavy for him to carry.

Mrs. Brown heard it, too. Poor Mrs. Brown! She was always at work in her stuffy little house, always tired, but the song flew through the open window, and she smiled at it, because it was a careless, happy little thing; and before she knew it she was singing as she moved about—something she had not done for many a weary day.

Baby May heard the rippling sounds. Her little white teeth were pushing their way up into sight. They hurt the little maid, those hidden teeth, so that she fretted uneasily and cried to be comforted. But the merry song laughed at her, and she listened and cooed and dimpled with delight, and she reached out her pretty arms as if she could catch and hold it fast.

A little girl who had been shut in for several weeks, and was downhearted and blue because she could not go about with the other girls, also heard the song and she unconsciously hummed the merry tune.

Just a little song, such as any one might sing, quickly sung and quickly sinking into silence, but what a pleasant mission it had in the world!

It is worth while to be a Martha Ann; to drop a little oil of gladness on the grinding wheels of life, to make them run a little easier and a little smoother. Even you and I may do that.—The Herald and Presbyter.

THE DIRTY WORK AGAIN

Now that all the mighty, the polite and the "sensible" people have paid their respects to the return of liquor and the elite have moved on to some other passing interest, the liquor gang is getting a little freedom to behave according to its true nature. The liquor-filled candy is coming back. One concern reports 50,000 boxes sold in Chicago in three days. These chocolate-covered candies contain cordial, brandy, bourbon, cognac, Scotch, etc. Six pieces contain enough poison to intoxicate the average child. Each piece contains a teaspoonful of rum. In this way the trade builds up the habit, and insures for itself a customer who will buy until he sinks into an untimely grave, or goes broke.—The Presbyterian.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

MT. PLEASANT BUSINESS GIRLS' CIRCLE

The Business Girls' Circle of Mt. Pleasant met for their June session Saturday night, June 23, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Smith, where Mrs. Carl Clapp and Miss Lillian Smith were hostesses for the evening. There were 20 members and some visitors present.

Home Missions was the topic around which the program was built for this month. Miss Sallie Amick led in an appropriate worship service, after which Miss Edith Causey discussed the Pine Ridge school, showing the contrasts between the scene at the school now and at the time when it was first started. Miss Pearl Coble outlined the life and work of Dr. and Mrs. Woodford, emphasizing the service which Dr. Woodford had rendered to Pine Ridge.

During a business session, with Mrs. W. A. Stafford presiding, the members discussed plans for the bazar and ice cream supper to be held by the auxiliary of the church Saturdaynight, July 28, on the church grounds.

TWELFTH DISTRICT MEETING

A meeting for the missionary workers of the 12th district was held at Hebron church, Fallston charge, Sunday afternoon, July 1st. The meeting was opened with hymn No. 128, "I Love to Tell the Story."

The scripture lesson was read and commented upon by Mrs. Quincy Hartman, of Knob Creek church, after which Rev. J. D. Morris led in prayer.

Rev. H. F. Fogleman spoke words of welcome. In response, Mrs. B. L. Heavener, district chairman, gave an interesting review of the work in the district, and challenged the auxiliaries to "Launch out into the deep."

Five auxiliaries were represented at the meeting,—Bess Chapel, Kistler's, Caroleen, Knob Creek, and Friendship.

Rev. R. S. Troxler, of Cleveland charge, gave an interesting talk on "Missions," growing out of Romans 10:13-15. Mrs. Troxler joined him in this talk, relating a number of incidents from the experiences of Rev. J. F. Minnis, our missionary from India.

Miss Avis Hull, of Bess Chapel, read a thoughtful paper in which she discussed "The Why of Missionary Education." This was followed by an interesting talk by Mrs. James Peeler of Belwood, "The Missionary Work of Our Church."

At this point the chairman, Mrs. Heavener, called for reports as follows: Shelby, Mrs. Frank Glenn; Friendship, Mrs. F. B. Toney; Knob Creek, Mrs. A. J. Jeffers; Caroleen, Mrs. Risbeth Webb; Kistlers, Mrs. Alvin Ivester; Bess Chapel, Mrs. Virginia Eakers; Girls' Circle of Bess Chapel, Miss Blanche Houser. Bess Chapel, the oldest auxiliary in the district, was organized ten years ago, during the pastorate of Rev. E. A. Bingham.

Musical numbers were rendered during the program by the following: Solo, Mrs. D. H. Bess, Bess Chapel; duet, Misses Lottie and Kimmie Beam, Bess Chapel; quartet, Theodore Hartman, P. L. Peeler, John Queen and Miss Ruth Hartman, Knob Creek; song, Girls' Circle, Bess Chapel.

Rev. J. D. Morris in brief words gave his hearty approval to the nature and purpose of the meeting. The chairman, Mrs. Heavener, was instructed to prepare the program and select the date for the next meeting, to be held on Cleveland charge.

MRS. H. F. FOGLEMAN, Secy.

GIDEON GROVE MISSION BAND

The Gideon Grove Mission Band held its regular monthly meeting Saturday, July 9, at the home of Mrs. Sam Lemons, with Miss Doris Lemons acting as hostess.

There were twenty-seven members present. We were glad to have two visitors present. Mrs. Sam Lemons acted as leader in the absence of Mrs. C. B. Way.

A splendid program was rendered, and everyone was surprised at the progress the band has made since it has been organized. After the business was discussed, a delightful social hour was enjoyed. Miss Lemons, assisted by her mother and sisters, served delicious refreshments.

The meeting then adjourned to meet with Miss Orelia Friddle next month.

ORELIA FRIDDLE, President.

FIRST QUARTERLY EXECUTIVE MEETING

On Tuesday afternoon, July 3, the officers, secretaries of departments of the N. C. Branch of Women's Work, together with some visitors, arrived at the Bates Cottage in Weaverville, N. C., to be welcomed by Mrs. Bates and members of the Weaverville Auxiliary. After a brief rest, the supper gong sounded and we found our places at the table where a bounteous supper was served, which was concluded with the famous Altman ice cream. After supper a visit was made to Bethel Home. Here the Boss, Mr. Casto, greeted us with his usual smile; also Mr. Altman and other inmates of the Home gave us a hearty welcome. After a pleasant visit we returned to the Bates cottage for the night.

Wednesday morning, July the fourth, we returned to Bethel Home where the first quarterly executive meeting was held. Mrs. W. C. Hammer, the president, was in the chair, Mrs. R. M. Andrews, of High Point, conducted a beautiful devotional service, using for subject, "My Utmost for the Highest," after which the business was taken up.

Mrs. George Haltom, the new recording secretary, called the roll. Mrs. George R. Brown, the corresponding secretary, made a most encouraging report, stating that the Auxiliary reports for the first quarter of this year were better than for the corresponding period last year. Eight new Auxiliaries have been organized, also the reports showed an increase in finances over the same period of last year.

Miss Brona Apple, of Greensboro, the new treasurer, reported that money was coming in monthly from most of the Auxiliaries, and that the same was being disbursed in accordance with instructions.

The secretary of districts, Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, was absent, but her report was read by Mrs. Geo. R. Brown. It was stated that the Districts had been rearranged to conform with the Annual Conference Districts. The chairman had attended and had spoken in several district meetings, also in several Auxiliary meetings, and had attended the General Missionary Convention held in Washington in May.

Mrs. J. T. Bowman, Secretary of Spiritual Life, made a good report. Many suggestions for use in local Auxiliaries were given which will be mailed to Auixliaries soon.

Mrs. Ralph Vance, of High Point, Secretary of Thank Offering, reported that she had placed much literature in the hands of local Thank-Offering Secretaries, and urged that local Auxiliaries plan now to use this in the services in October.

Mrs. W. F. Redding, Jr., of Asheboro, Secretary of Literature, made a splendid report of work done and urged the use of year-books, devotional books, leaflets, The Missionary Record, and study books in making programs for Auxiliaries.

At this time the meeting adjourned for lunch, which was served by Mr. Casto and his helpers, and a most appetizing meal it was!

After lunch the meeting reconvened. Mrs. W. F. Redding, Jr., of Asheboro, had charge of the devotions, using for her subject, Stewardship. After this Mrs. Geo. R. Brown and Mrs. R. M. Andrews gave "High Lights of the Missionary Convention" recently held in Washington.

Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Minnis told most interestingly of the work they did while missionaries in India. They said the greatest need now was to re-open the Hospital that was closed some time ago. It was voted to work out some plan and present the same to the Auxiliaries, looking toward the opening of the Hospital.

The report from the Children's Home urged larger monthly offerings and that the summer specials be given consideration, such as canning fruits and vegetables and that Auxiliaries plan a sewing day to make clothing for the children. It was suggested that Auxiliaries write Mrs. Dixon to find out the particulars concerning the work. It was also urged that the people begin now to plan for the annual Children's Home day, which will be held at the Home this year on September 13th, and that each church plan some money-raising project for their gift for that day.

The needs of Bethel Home were presented by a special committee, some of which are: Pillow cases (standard size), sheets, wool blankets, for single beds, tray covers 14 by 19 inches, ice tea glasses, etc.

Dr. Joy Harris Glascock, Secretary of Benevolences, reported that she was especially pleased with the renewed interest in the subject of tithing and reported that more people were tithing now than at any time in the past.

The afternoon session then adjourned and after an inspection of the Home's beautiful

(Continued on Page Fifteen)

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Spring Church, Spring Church	$ 1.60
Moriah S. S.	3.10
Matthews Chapel S. S., Greensville	1.00
Glen Raven S. S.	3.58
Gibsonville S. S.	8.18
Mt. Lebanon, Randleman	4.90
Friendship Station	4.04
St. Paul S. S., Greensboro	9.50
State Street S. S.	4.39
Kannapolis S. S.	6.25
Fountain Place S. S.	5.32
Whitakers Chapel, Enfield	4.00
Siler City S. S.	2.67
Mt. Pleasant S. S., Mt. Pleasant	6.00
First Church S. S., Burlington	38.14
First Church S. S., Winston-Salem	10.00
Worthville S. S., Randleman	7.57
Graham S. S.	10.00
Mebane S. S.	5.35
Fairfield S. S., Guilford	2.00
Philathea Class, Henderson	5.00
Albemarle S. S.	4.00
Concord, Saxapahaw	1.50
Concord S. S.	20.00
Mizpah S. S., Haw River	2.80
Kernersville S. S., Kernersville	2.82
Bess Chapel S. S.	2.60
Friendship S. S., Mt. Hermon	5.00
First Church S. S., Lexington	4.63
Zion, Liberty	.30
Philathea Class, Gibsonville, feeding child	10.00
Canaan S. S., N. Davidson	6.00
Fair Grove, Haw River	3.47
Roberta S. S.	3.50
Melton's Grove S. S.	1.20

Clothing and Other Gifts

Junior girls, Conley, Ga., one quilt.

Rev. T. M. Johnson, Lexington, one box of clothing.

Canned Goods and Produce

We are getting out, early in the year, more empty glass jars this season than ever before. This promises a large Harvest Home Offering this fall. Let every charge prepare for it. Be sure to round up some grain, either now or after corn harvest, or both.

The Coupons

Please send along the coupons. We need a large quantity of them to pay for some much-needed painting.

Children's Home Day

This special annual day for the Home has been set for the second Thursday in September. Make your plans to come. Every church in the conference is asked to hold a benefit social of some kind for the Home before that day. Plan a program, or a supper of some kind, and give the proceeds to the Home. Let each church hold such a service, secure the largest amount of money possible, put it in a package plainly marked and put

(Continued on Page Sixteen)

THE HIGH POINT LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOL

The slogan, "Our Times Demand Trained Leaders for Every Church," seems to be an attainable one, judging from the number of young prospective leaders who attended the Leadership Training School this year. According to numbers, this was one of the largest schools on record for our state. One of the ministers said it seemed to him that the young people were more serious and had a more definite purpose than any group to ever attend a Training School.

Along with the work there was much fun and recreation. Every day was full. Breakfast was at 7, then classes began at 8. Each person had two 50-minute periods. Between these class periods was a Conference period, morning worship and a rest period. Lunch came at 12:40, followed by a time for rest and study. From 33:30 to 5:30 was spent in recreation and fellowship. At 6 we had dinner. Vesper services lasted from 7 to 7:30. The inspirational evening services began at 8. These were followed by a social hour and a retiring bell at 10:45. At 10:30 some of the groupscame together for a brief prayer service each evening.

The morning conference periods were very interesting. The general theme, "What Can Youth Do?" was discussed from five angles. Each period was led by a different person on a different phase of the general question. The subjects and leaders were, "What Can Youth Do"——

1. To Improve Their Own Spiritual Lives? Dr. T. M. Johnson.
2. To Help Build a Christian World? Rev. J. F. Minnis.
3. To Improve the Conference Program? Dr. R. M. Andrews.
4. To Improve Their Own Program in the Local Church? Mr. A. J. Koonce.
5. To Improve the Leadership of the M. P. Church? Rev. T. J. Whitehead.

The worship services were planned and given by members of the class in "The Use of Art in Religious Education." Rev. E. L. Ballard was the director of this group. Each morning some outstanding religious picture was used. The general theme for these periods was "The Triumphal Entries of Jesus." Five sub-topics were worked out as follows:

1. Into the world, or the Nativity.
2. Into the home; picture of Mary and Martha.
3. Into Jerusalem.
4. Into the soul, or the Resurrection.
5. Into the field of service.

The recreational and scial programs were under the leadership of Rev. J. W. Braxton. One afternoon's program consisted of games in the college gymnasium. Another time about 75 of the group went on a long hike. On Friday afternoon a tour was made of the city of High Point.

The vesper services were quite interesting and inspirational. They were built around some of the outstanding religious stories. The class, "Story-Telling in Religious Education," conducted these services under the direction of Mrs. J. T. Bowman.

The Monday evening service consisted of music. Choirs from five churches took part. Each choir gave one or two numbers. The churches taking part were Henderson, Vance, Mt. Pleasant, Calvary and West End. These choirs showed training and an interest in this phase of their church work.

Some young people from Denton gave an interesting dramatic program on Tuesday evening under the direction of Rev. J. T. Bowman. One of the numbers was written by Max Rogers of Denton.

Rev. Fred W. Paschall, of Burlington, brought an inspirational address on Wednesday, and Rev. Roy I. Farmer of High Point, on Thursday evening. Both these services were very helpful and full of thought. Friday evening was the consecration service led by Rev. T. J. Whitehead. After a short message in the auditorium a candle lighting service was held on the lawn in front of Woman's hall. This was a beautiful, quiet, and impressive service.

All of the time spent in the dining room was very pleasant. Much fun and fellowship was manifested at each meal. Dr. E. C. Forlines was always ready with a "Br'er Rabbit" story if asked for. The climax in the dining room came with the banquet on Friday evening at 6:30. There was much merriment throughout the meal, but Dr. F. D. Holloway, president of the Theological Seminary at Westminster, Md., closed with a number of his witty sayings and jokes.

The school closed aturday at noon with a brief address and the giving of certificates to all who had completed the work for the week. Most of us left the college feeling as one young person expressed herself, "I'm tired but I have had such a good time I wish we could stay another week."

Viewed from every angle, this was one of the biggest and best Leadership Training Schools ever had in our state. The most encouraging part of such a school is the number of young people in the local churches who are interested in the work of the church, but are conscious of the great need for training and desirous of such.

A STUDENT OF THE SCHOOL.

◆

A CORRECTION

The printer made me say that there were about 40 at the Bethea reunion, Dillon, S. C., recently. I waited till I had the copy returned to me to see if I was to blame for that, but the copy said about 400 which was correct. When there are about three counties down there full of Betheas besides those that came from other states, we could hardly hold the number down to forty. Will thank you to make this correction.

N. G. BETHEA.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Flat Rock Charge.—Large congregations attended the revival services at Gideon's Grove church last Sunday. The church was almost filled for each service. The writer preached at both services. We were pleased to receive by letter Mrs. Clara (Morris) Lemmons, wife of Bro. D. P. Lemmons, as a member of the church. The Angel Quartet, of Stokesdale, was present and sang at both services. The people brought dinner which was spread on a long table in the grove and thoroughly enjoyed. The afternoon service began at 1:30 o'clock. We were glad to have a large number of visitors at both services. The largest number of visitors were from Flat Rock church, there being seven or eight families from that church. A few members from Bethel church attended. Rev. J. D. Williams, D.D., of High Point, is the pulpit help.

The revival meeting for Palestine church will begin next Sunday morning. Rev. Wayne Curtis, of Burlington, will be the help in the meeting. He is expected to be present for the first service, to render service in the capacity of preacher and singer. We are looking forward to a good meeting.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

High Point, First.—The first of the series of Union Sunday evening services being held by eight co-operating churches in High Point during July and August convened in Wesley Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, South, last Sunday evening, July 8. It was enjoyed by a large audience, many of whom were lavish in praise of the plan as well as of the inspiring and helpful message delivered by the Rev. H. S. Hartsell, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church. His subject was "The Hiding of God."

The chairman of the ministers co-operating, Rev. R. I. Farmer, minister of our First Methodist Protestant church, was asked to make a statement concerning the purpose of the union services. "When this request came," he said, "I was reminded of the boy who came home from school, and said, 'Dad, the teacher told us that we are to help others.' The father replied, 'That is correct, son.' But the boy philosophically asked, 'Then what are the others for?' In this union effort lies mutual helpfulness. There is the problem of the summer slump in attendance; the economic question of opening several churches; and the need of rest for ministers in a day of arduous tasks.

"But there is a deeper purpose," Mr. Farmer stated. "It is a spiritual one. There is a value in better acquaintance through fellowshsip. We ministers need to hear others—our souls need the bread of ife broken to us as much as do any of the laity. Together we all need to show the world our spiritual unity. This precedes human or social unity. If ever we are one it is when we pray together. We must not arise to go to battle in our opinions. The spiritual unity of the churches must be made so plain to the man of the street that he will see it.

"Somewhere Carlyle wrote, 'Men's hearts ought not to be set tagainst one another, but set with one another, and all against the evil thing only.' We believe that cheap competition wastes energy—that men and women become controversial when they become unspiritual. The true unity of the churches is not in the method of utterance but in the substance of the declaration. If there be disunion and weakness in denominations, which I doubt, the cure is not in the eradicationof sects but in the elimination of sectarianism.

"There are many people but one human family; many ways but one motive; many forms but one sympathy; many opinions but one central truth. We seek to enter into and demonstrate the basis of real unity—living sympathy and service with Christ. Real Christian unity is not formal but spiritual; not argumentative but practical as human life. We here seek to see the Christian in other people and to see Christ in the Christian. When Jesus prayed (John 17:21) 'That they may al be one,' it was no basis of regulation, compromises or even what is commonly sensed in toleration. It was more; He prayed for identification with Himself in spirit, purpose, and labor.

"Our aim is larger love and loyalty to Christ and His teachings. To this end we urge loyalty to Christ and His church on the part of His followers. We ministers desire our laymen to cooperate with us in bringing to these union services those citizens of High Point who probably never come to any of our churches. They are Christ's 'other sheep.' In union there is strength—as we demonstrate sincere spiritual unity God will bless our efforts."

ROY IRWIN FARMER.

Kannapolis.—The pastor, Rev. C. P. Morris, preached a splendid sermon Sunday morning, using for his text Matt. 24:13, "But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved." Four new members were received at this service and are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Goodman, and Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Goodman; all are splendid people, coming from Trinity M. E. church. Since our last report, Mr. C. H. McDaniel also came to us from Trinity M. E. church.

The Laymen's Fellowship held their meeting recently with a good number present. Rev. M. L. Kester was the guest speaker and made a splendid address on "Cross Bearing." The Fellowsship club adopted the constitution as given out by President Rogers of Denton. The secretary, Mr. R. T. Sides, presented a beautiful pulpit Bible to tho church from the club, and Rev. C. P. Morris, pastor, accepted the gift, dedicating it to the church with a beautiful prayer.

Circle No. 1, Women's Auxiliary, met with Mrs. J. W. Whitley on North Juniper street last Monday evening, with 11 members and one visitor present.

Circle No. 2 met with Mrs. C. B. McCommons on North Walnut street, with 10 members present.

The Business Girls' Circle met with Mrs. Victor Whitley on Ridge avenue with 14 members and two visitors present, and the Young Girls' Circle met with Mrs. J. V. Dwiggins on Juniper street with 11 present.

There will be a general meeting at the church tonight (Monday) of the Auxiliary with Mrs. W. T. Kiser, president, presiding.

The following young people attended the Leadership Training School at High Point College: Misses Laura Braswell, Zula Carter, Beatrice Cartner, Mary Frances McCommons, Lucile Ruth, and Messrs. Arthur Tetterow, Edward Sides and the pastor.

Miss Gaynell Price has returned to her home on North Walnut street after undergoing treatment for several days at the Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, Charlotte, N. C.

The Daily Vacation Bible School begins July 23, running two weeks.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered next Sunday.

The pastor, Mr. Morris, is enjoying a few days' rest and recreation at Lake Waccamaw this week.

MRS. D. A. McLAURIN.

Piney Grove, Siler City Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. H. L. Isley, was with us Sunday afternoon and filled his regular appointment. As usual he gave us a very inspiring message.

The revival meeting will begin the fourth Sunday in this month, with Rev. H. C. Hill of High Point as pulpit help. Dr. R. M. Andrews is expected to be present and to preach at 11 o'clock on Sunday. The Children's Day exercises will be given in the afternoon. We hope that both these services and also the services during the week will be well attended.

The sad news of the death of one of our members, Mr. James M. Vestal, came early Sunday morning, July 1st. Although it was not unexpected, since he had been ill for several months, his large circle of relatives and friends are grief-stricken.

FANNIE LOUISE POE, Reporter.

Halifax Charge.—We are glad to report that many phases of our work are encouraging. The attendance at most of our appointments is constantly growing. Many of the members manifest great enthusiasm for their chorch and the entire program of our Conference. While some of our churches are small in membership, yet in some of them we find much spiritual life and love for the Great Cause of the Master. This, of course, means invincible strength and power. We have not done in a financial way such great things, yet I feel quite sure that we have done as well or better than the average rural charge. We are systematizing our work of finance in some of our churches, which is proving very helpful in raising money.

We recently organized a C. E. Society at Hollister, which I am sure will mean much to our young people. Here we have a large number of youth who are of a high type. We also have a Young People's organization at Eden which has been doing a splendid work for some time. We are proud of the interest in church work that the young people of our churches are showing. We believe the youth of Halifaz Charge are going to make this charge of tomorrow a greater charge than it is today.

The women's work of this charge is the best organized of any charge I have ever served. Five of our churches have organizations. Each is working in a splendid way. Some of them are raising more money this year than they have ever raised before up till this time. Eden increased its budget for this year, and I believe some of the others will be ready to increase theirs by the next Branch Meeting.

At the last meeting, the Eden Auxiliary surprised Mrs. Loy with a miscellaneous shower. She received many useful and invaluable gifts. This was carried out in a very clever manner by Mrs. Gene Hammill. These gifts were appreciated very much.

Our revivals will begin at the various churches as follows: Eden, first Sunday in August, Rev. W. M. Loy preaching; Bethesda, second Sunday in August, Rev. J. L. Trollinger preaching; Hollister, fourth Sunday in August, Rev. C. G. Isley preaching.

We invite all who can to attend these meetings, and request your prayers that our efforts may be blessed. O. C. LOY.

◆

Friendsship, Mt. Hermon Charge.—A large number were present July 1 to enjoy the Children's Day program. The program was carried out very beautifully. The children knew their parts to perfection. Much praise is due Mrs. J. M. Murray, who gave them the training to make the day a success.

We are gad to report that our Sunday school is gradually gaining ground. On July 8 a committee reported that a library would be in service in the near future. We hope those who are fond of reading will take advantage of this service.

On the week of the Fourth a large number spent the week at the seashore or in the mountains of western North Carolina. Those who did not leave the community enjoyed the local attractions.

The Missionary Society meets with Mrs. H A. Garrett Saturday, July 14, at 2:30 p.m.

A MEMBER.

◆

Kernersville Charge.—The Kernersville church is steadily going forward in all of its program work. The Sunday school, Ladies' Aid Society and two Christian Endeavor Societies are doing good work. We have two new classes in our Sunday school with Mrs. John Corum and Mrs. O. B. Williams as teachers. We had our Children's Day program on the second Sunday night in June; the pageant, "World Children," was rendered by our young people in the usual splendid way. The third Sunday in June was the beginning of our annual revival services continuing through the fourth Sunday. Rev. R. I. Farmer, of High Point, was the pastor's help. We had fine attendance and co-operation from the other churches of the town. The preaching by Bro. Farmer has become "the talk of the town" as being above the average. Our church is revived and we have added the following new members: Miss Meta Ragland, Miss Evelyn McCuiston and Miss Luray Blackburn. We have applications from others who desire to join the church. Mr. M. E. Swain, of Walkertown, led the singing and proved a great help in our meeting. Miss Lucile Ingram, one of our fine young girls, is in the Forsyth Sanatorium. Please join us in prayer for her recovery. We were pleased to have Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Wiliams, Dr. and Mrs. N. G. Bethea and Dr. J. E. Pritchard in attendance at our meeting. Dr. Pritchard was accompanied by 20 of the members of Calvary church, Greensboro. Welcome, delegation and pastor! Come again.

Sandy Ridge: We closed a ten-day meeting at Sandy Ridge last Friday night. The pastor's help there was Rev. C. G. Isley, of Lexington. The attendance was good throughout the meetings. Bro. Isley is a delightful character to work with. His preaching was full of spiritual enthusiasm that moved the people to action. There were 14 professions and reclamations. Five new member have been added, and others are expected to join later. The church seems to be revived and we expect this to be a good year for this church. Bro. Isley was accompanied by his mother one day during the meeting. She was of great help in the services of that day.

Mr. Walter Westmoreland and Miss Hettie May Shields were married last Saturday evening at Guilford College. Mrs. Westmoreland is the superintendent of our Sunday school, and Bro. Walter is the assistant superintendent. They are members of our church and are considered our finest young people.

We were glad to have Rev. C. B. Way, of Stokesdale, in attendance at our services one day. Rev. Mr. Knuckles and Rev. Mr. Farrington attended our meetings and were of great help in the services. Bro. Knuckles is pastor of Smith Grove Baptist church.

Ai Church: Our revival services are in progress at this church this week. The pastor is preaching every evening. Yesterday we had two services with dinner served at the church.

Bro. Webb Peoples recently had a barbecue supper at his home and the profits amounted to $11.00. The pastor and wife attended and enjoyed the affair and we greatly appreciate the gift that Bro. Peoples gave the pastor. The gift was the profits amounting to $11.00. Thanks, my brother, and we hope you have another affair at your fine home some time.

Pine Grove: The third Sunday in July we will begin our revival services at this church. Rev. E. A. Bingham, of Denton, will be the pastor's help. The Ladies' Aid Society and the Christian Endeavor Society combined their efforts to earn some money. They held an ice cream and cake supper on the church grounds last Saturday night. The attendance was good and both societies have more money in their treasury.

Miss Blanch Ingram and Miss Rachel Ingram attended the Young People's Conference at High Point College.

O. B. WILLIAMS, Pastor.

◆

Calvary, Greensboro.—The Friendly Class had a picnic at Douglas Park Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock with members of the class and their families participating. This replaced their regular July business meeting.

Members of the J. F. McCulloch class and the Baraca class will meet jointing at the High Point Municipal Lake Thursday evening where they will enjoy a watermelon feast.

The Myrtle Bates class, of which Mrs. J. E. Pritchard is teacher, held its regular monthly business meeting at the hut Monday evening. They are planning a picnic for their August meeting.

Several members of the Young People's Circles with their chairman, Mrs. James L. Spencer, and three visitors, Miss Phyllis Yeunginer, Mrs. Spencer's sister, and her niece, Miss Neville Younginer, both of Asheville, N. C., and Mrs. Howard R. Neece, spent last Friday at the home of Miss Polly Coble, who is a member of the Circle. The girls held their regular business meeting and enjoyed swimming and playing tennis. A picnic dinner was enjoyed in the garden.

The third quarterly conference was held at the hut Tuesday evening. It was announced at the meeting that Howard R. Neece was elected as delegate to attend the Annual Conference .to be held at Grace church in the fall.

Ninety "Certificates of Appreciation" were awarded last Sunday to the members who had not been absent from Sunday school during the month of June. Seventeen members have made a perfect attendance record since the certificate plan was started in February.

Dr. Pritchard spoke to us from the 10th chapter of Matthew last Sunday morning, using as his subject, "What A Man Is Worth," and as his text, "Ye are of more value than many sparrows." "If God, our Father, watches over the little sparrows, that are so little in value and are here today and somewhere else tomorrow, how much more He will watch over us who are of much more value." This was just one of the thoughts received from his fine sermon.

Children's Day service wil be observed at our church next Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock hour.

Sixteen Boy Scouts of Troop No. 7 enjoyed their first outing since the troop was organized last October last week when the troop committeemen and assistant scoutmaster carried them out to Camp Graystone during the last days of the Scout camping period. They spent two days and nights camping and were under adult leadership during their stay. Committeemen J. Frank Coble and Robah H. Fields; Scoutmaster Floyd L. Reynolds and Assistant Scoutmaster W. L. Caudle were with the boys part of the time during their stay at camp. They are planning a whole week in outdoor camping next year.

Harry Julian, Jr., and Walace Siegmond recently passed off the tenderfoot requirements, making them full-fledged Scouts.

MRS. HOWARD R. NEECE, Reporter.

◆

West End, Greenshoro.—Monday night, July 9th, my wife and I attended the Woman's Auxiliary meeting of West End church at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Stafford. The women seemed to be very anxious for us to attend the meeting. As it happened, we arrived before several of the members did. They came in carrying boxes and packages. One lady said that she had to take her package to the room and put it in the "traveling basket." This is a method the Auxiliary uses to raise money. After some time, the president called the meeting to order. We heard reports, considered various business matters and then heard a very splendid report on the course, "World Missions," which Mrs. S. H. Stapleton took under Mr. Minnis at the Leadership Training School at High Point College. Then Circle No. 1 served delicious refreshments. We thought that the meeting was completed and we were about ready to go home. The president suggested that Mrs. Stafford show the group over her very beautiful new home, as several of the members had never seen it. We all fell in line for the tour. We were carried all over the house with the exception of two rooms before we realized what was "in the air." Just as we came to the breakfast room Mrs. Watts, the president, said the rain had been pounding on the outside all night and there had been some pounding going on in the house, too. We found the breakfast room table covered with many useful and helpful gifts.

There have been many reports in the paper about the poundings by Drs. Bethea and Taylor and others. Then "I saw through the glass, darkly," but now I know of the deeper feeling of appreciation that is back of such articles.

Thank you, and God bless you, people of West End.

T. J. WHITEHEAD.

Pine Grove, Kernersville Charge.—Although there has not been a regular report from our church recently, we are still moving along nicely.

Our pastor, Rev. Mr. Williams, brought us another good sermon on the first Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Our Sunday school, Christian Endeavor Society and Ladies' Aid are still doing fine work. Our pastor is a great help and is very interested in all the organizations.

Our revival meeting will begin the third Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Picnic dinner at noon and services in the afternoon. Rev. E. A. Bingham will be the pulpit help during the week with services each afternoon and night. We are hoping for a successful meeting.

Miss Sallie Barrow was guest of her nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Barrow, on the first Sunday in July.

A MEMBER.

Spring Hill, N. Davidson Charge.—Due to much sickness throughout the community, our congregations have decreased for the past two Sundays, but we are hoping to see the faces of absent ones soon.

The North Davidson Annual Rally will be held at Spring Hill Thursday, July 12, and we are looking forward to a great day.

On the third Sunday of this month Children's Day wil be held at 11 o'clock . Then at 2:00 in the afternoon the revival will begin. Rev. C. G. Isley, of the First Church at Lexington, will help Mr. Grant throughout the week. We desire the prayers of all the Herald readers for a great meeting.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Colin Haynes, a daughter, on June 26.

Friends of Mrs. Robert Swaim will regret to learn that she is seriously ill at the home of her mother.

Mr. Bennett Hilton is confined to his home with a sprained ankle. We wish for all our sick members a speedy recovery.

EDITH A. YORK, Reporter.

Pleasant Grove.—Revival services began at our church Sunday. Bro. Powell is doing the preaching. Services will be conducted for the first week at 7:45 p. m. Next week there will be two services each day. Bro. Powell's text for the initial service was "Wilt thou not revive us again, that thy people may rejoice in thee?" Ps. 85:6. With a continuance of the great message brought, great things are expected before the close of the meeting. A cordial invitation is extended to all who can attend.

Children's Day service was held the last Sunday in June. A very inspiring service was rendered by the younger children under the direction of Mrs. R. J. Kennedy, Mrs. Wallace Kennedy and Miss Ye Sable Hedrick. The collection amounted to $12.00. Dr. Dixon was a visitor to the church during the day, reviewing the Sunday school lesson for the quarter.

The Sunshine Auxiliary held its regular monthly meeting on Monday evening, July 2, with Miss Louise Powell. A large number was present.

The Ladies' Aid met on Thursday afternoon, July 5, with Mrs. A. L. Cecil at her home in High Point.

The yearly Sunday school picnic was held on July 4 at Crystal Lake. All present had an enjoyable time.

MRS. CLYDE PAYNE, Reporter.

North Davidson Charge.—The special meeting at Canaan will begin the fourth Sunday in July. At 11 o'clock there will be a Children's Day exercise in the afteroon at 2 o'clock the first service of the revival will be held.

Rev. J. D. Morris, of Fallston, will be the pulpit help. The public is invited to attend these services.

The special meeting at Spring Hill will begin the third Sunday in July. In the morning of the third Sunday there will be a Children's Day exercise; in the afternoon, a sermon. Services for the week will be at 2:30 and 8 . m.

Rev. C. G. Isley, of Lexington, will be the pulpit help. The public is invited to attend.

C. L. GRANT.

Asheboro.—Our last report of a few weeks ago failed to appear in the Herald, so will try again.

We held our spring revival the first week in June. Our people were delighhted with the strong preaching of Rev. Elwood Carroll and his address to the Rotary Club made a fine impression.

Baby Day service was held Sunday, June 17th, at which time the Cradle Roll Department, under the direction of Miss Kate Hammer rendered an enjoyable program. Eight infants were christened at the service and their names are: Ben Dixon Routh, Sara Elizabeth Trollinger, Emma Lou Lowdermilk, Helen Rebecca Presnell, William Buren Parks, Jr., Alice Ray Morgan, Mary Katherine Ridge, and Jefferson Davis Bullard.

Father's Day was observed with quite a number of fathers and their whole families present.

Last Sunday, being membership day, we received six new members: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Burrow, Dorothy Burrow, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Trollinger and R. A. Geddis.

We are holding no evening service at our church for the months of July and August, but the extra attendance at the morning service more than brings up the average day's attendance.

Picnic parties are being given every month to some department of the Sunday school, taking those first that make the best average attendance for the month.

Children's Day was observed the first Sunday in June. The Junior Department gave a short but interesting program, which was directed by Miss Thyra Wright, Miss Beatrice Lowdermilk and Mrs. Rufus Routh.

A recent addition to our Cradle Roll is Sarah Joan Hurley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Page Hurley. Mrs. Hurley was formerly Miss Sarah Jones, sister of our Herald reporter.

Mr. R. R. Ross seems to be standing summer heat very well. Mr. Ross lately had a very enjoyable visit and long chat with Ambassador to Mexico Josephus Daniels. They have been long time friends and had many things to talk about.

Our nominees for delegate to the Annual Conference are Mr. J. R. Brown and Mr. L. F. Ross. The vote will be taken next Sunday morning.

The following is a brief account of what is going on with our Woman's Auxiliary, one of the most spiritual and wide awake organizations we have known:

Our Mrs. Wm. C. Hammer was re-elected General Chairman of the Woman's Work of our denomination at the Washington Convention in May.

Mrs. W. F. Redding, Jr., and Mrs. Hammer of our local Auxiliary attended the State Executive Committee meeting at Weaverville, N. C.

The men of the church are asking to be allowed to entertain the entire Auxiliary, which includes all women and girls of the church, at the annual picnic in August. This looks like "a good time for all."

The Mission Band is outstanding in our Auxiliary, having won the attendance record in our last two meetings. The leaders of this band are Mrs. Claud Winningham and Mrs. Dewey Bulla.

R. C. STUBBINS.

Midway Church.—We are having preaching services at 11 o'clock each Sunday now and a larger congregation is the natural consequence. Many new families are showing an interest in our little church.

The Ladies' Aid Society had a most interesting program last Friday at the home of Mrs. John A. Suits. It looks as if we may soon become an Auxiliary and be a part of the whole church program. This has been a dream of ye scribe for years, and we are most happy.

Dr. and Mrs. Dixon, with some of the children from the Home were to have put on a program at Midway last Sunday evening, but inclement weather prevented. We are looking forward to their coming in the future.

The children of the Sunday school gave an interesting Children's Day program Sunday at 11 o'clock under the leadership of Mrs. Everett Walters, Mrs. Auman and Miss Christine Suits.

Sunday at 8 p. m. the Ladies' Aid study group will meet at the church. The speakers will be Mrs. Leo Palmer, Mrs. W. A. Lamb and Mrs. Byron Lamb. The subject is "Parents and Their Children." The public is cordially invited.

MRS. LEO PALMER, Reporter.

Graham.—Our regular services were held last Sunday. The sermon for the morning service was on "Spiritual Weakness and the New Deal in Religion," and for the evening service, "The Downward Tendency." Music for the evening service was in charge of Mrs. C. C. Burke and Miss Thelma Clapp.

Rev. Mr. Auman and the following young people attended the Leadership Training School at High Point College: Emma Fonshee, Laura Jane Neese, Katherine Love, Junius Neese and Price Dixon. These young people with Junius Neese as leader had charge of the Sunday school Sunday morning. They gave very interesting reports of things that interested them most at the Training School.

Two new members were received into our church Sunday morning, July 1. Mr. and Mrs. Willard R. Kirkman. We are glad to welcome them to our church and feel that they are going to be a great help to us in our work.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held at the church Monday night, July 9. Mrs. Heenan Hughes conducted the devotional exercises. The president, Mrs. C. C. Burke presided over the business session.

Our revival services will begin on the fourth Sunday night of this month. Dr. J. E. Pritchard will do the preaching and Rev. E. L. Ballard will lead the singing. Prayer services will be held each night during the week preceding the revival.

Our pastor is spending this week in Atlanta, where he is in the Georgia Conference Leadership Training School at Clifton Methodist Protestant Church Camp Grounds.

REPORTER.

* * *

Stallings, Mecklenburg Charge.—We had Sunday school Sunday morning at the usual hour. Our Sunday school is growing in attendance and interest.

Bro. Henderson preached a soul-stirring sermon at 11:00 o'clock; he used his subject, "Encouragement to Christians." We enjoyed his sermon. After his sermon he made a proposition that all that wanted to renew their covenant to the Lord to come up and give him their hand. There was a goodly number that went up. We felt that the church was greatly revived.

The Ladies' Aid Society met the first Thursday of this month with Mrs. P. D. Drye. We had 8 members present. Our collection was $1.25. After our business session Mrs. Drye served delicious refreshments. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. H. B. Furr.

Our Christian Endeavor Society meets each Sunday afternoon at 6:30. The young people are taking great interest in this work.

Our revival starts the first Sunday in August. We ask the prayers of all Christian people to pray for our meeting.

Bro. M. L. Stallings is improving. He was at church Sunday.

We hope and pray that Mrs. J. L. Love, of Connelly Springs is better.

Master Jimmy Lee Stallings, of Norfolk, Va., is spending a while with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Stallings.

We were glad to have our former Sunday school superintendent visit us Sunday morning July 1, at Sunday school.

Christian readers, pray for us that we may go forward.

MRS. M. L. STALLINGS, Reporter.

* * *

Hawkins Chapel, Littleton Charge.—On the first Sunday night Rev. R. L. Vickery gave us a wonderful message; also on the second Sunday morning. At this service Messrs. Paul and Clifton Hawkins, Mr. Leo Pittard and Mr. Bert Butts sang a quartet.

Everyone seems to like our pastor very much.

Last third Sunday morning Mr. Leo Pittard held prayer service; first Sunday morning, the writer. The class leader asked Miss Erma Hawkins to hold it the third Sunday morning.

Our Sunday school is getting along nicely. For the first Sunday night Rev. R. L. Vickery asked Mr. Leo Pittard to preach. We are very proud of Mr. Pittard, as he is just a young boy; has been in college two years taking ministerial work.

There will be an all-day group meeting held at Corinth church Thursday, July 12; all day at Weaver's Chapel, third Sunday, July 15; preaching in the morning. After lunch the third quarterly conference will be held.

We are planning for an all-day program the second Sunday in August; Children's Day in the morning. This will also mark the beginning of our meeting.

We are very sorry to note Mrs. R. L. Vickery is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Carence Hawkins visited in the home of her brother, Mr. Irvin Hawkins, Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth Dickens, of Weldon, spent last Sunday with Miss Mary Virginia Hawkins.

Mrs. Buck Morris was the guest of Mrs. Baldy Green a while Sunday.

Mr. John Pepper and family, from Hopewell, Va., were guests of his father, Mr. Will Pepper, and sisters, Misses Dollie and Gertie Pepper Sunday.

Mrs. Jimmie Pittard is spending a while with Mrs. J. D. Pittard.

Misses Elizabeth and Fannie Mae Hale and Clyde Hawkins were in the home of Miss Maggie Hawkins Saturday.

MRS. CLAUDE HAWKINS, Reporter.

* * *

Friendship.—On next Sunday, July 15th, Home-Coming Day will be observed at Friendship. Rev. G. I. Humphreys, president of High Point College, will speak at the 11 o'clock service. Dinner on the grounds will be followed by a special afternoon service. Sunday also starts off the yearly revival services. The pastor, Rev. J. L. Trollinger, will be assisted in these services by Dr. Fred Paschall, of Burlington. Two services will be held each day, one at 10 o'clock in the morning and one at 8 in the evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these services.

REPORTER.

* * *

Community Church, Thomasville.—The Layman's Fellowship held its regular meeting on Thursday evening, July 5, at which time Circle No. 2 served a delightful meal with the Young Ladies' Circle assisting in serving. Members of the Fellowship were honored by the presence of Dr. F. G. Holloway, Dr. C. E. Forlines, of Westminster, Md., Seminary, and Dr. M. J. Shroyer, who gave a very interesting address, basing his remarks on how to spend one's leisure time to the best advantage.

As we all know, cottage prayer services are being held weekly at different homes of the members of the church with some one member officiating. This week they are being hed at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Everhart on Salem Street and Mrs. Tom Kennedy on Randolph Street.

Our Vacation Bible School will begin on July 23 with Miss Maxine Taylor in charge of the school. We are anticipating a very good attendance by our younger folks of the church.

Our membership welcomes Mr. and Mrs. George McAdams and family back to our city and church. They have just returned from Darlington, S. C., where they spent several months.

We feel that mention must be made of our Sunday morning services. Despite the fact that the weather has been very hot, the attendance has been quite good. We must say, however, that this credit is due our pastor for his very intertsting sermons and the choir's addition of very appropriate musical numbers. On last Sunday morning, July 1, we were favored with an address by Dr. M. J. Shroyer, of Westminster (Md.) Seminary.

We can't say so much for the evening attendance, however. On last Sunday evening the rain must have kept our members away. There were three present besides the pastor. But the service was not in vain. Due to the absence of the pianist, Mrs. H. F. Surratt practiced on the hymns selected for the evening and was in fine condition to play for the service. But we feel sure that this ability will keep and our pianist will probably be absent again so Mrs. Surratt will have an opportunity to play the piano.

Our membership extend deepest sympathy to Mr. C. F. Finch, who was hurt in an automobile accident on Saturday, June 30, at Winston-Salem. Also to his son, Harry Brown, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Rex Hospital in Raleigh. To Mrs. C. L. White, who is taking treatments at High Point Hospital. We sincerely hope these will soon recover. We extend our sympathy to Mrs. C. M. Stone in the loss of her sister, Mrs. M. L. Suggs, of Thomasville.

The various circles of the Woman's Auxiliary held their regular monthly meetings on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Circle No. 1 met at the home of Mrs. Virgil Ward on Chestnut Street; Circle No. 2 met at the home of Mrs. Glen McAdams on Highland Avenue; the Young Ladies' Circle met with Mrs. W. T. Taylor on Lexington Avenue; the Teen-age Circle met with Miss Virginia Boyles on West Main Street.

ODESSA MYERS, Reporter.

* * *

First Church, High Point.—In the usual Sunday morning church service Sunday, July 8, Rev. R. I. Farmer had for the topic of his interesting and helpful discourse, "The Life of Victory in God."

The evening service was united with the central service which was held in the Wesley Memoria church with Rev. Howard S. Hartsell, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, bringing an inspiring message.

Eight churches of the city are uniting in union services in the evenings during the months of July and August and our church is co-operating in these services.

The Auxiliary Circles held meetings this week as follows: On Monday afternoon, Circle No. 1 met with Mrs. Gorrell Payne, 1106 Blain Avenue; No. 2 with Mrs. W. C. Ferree, 302 Otteray Drive; No. 3 with Mrs. D. A. Dowdy, 228 Woodrow Avenue; and No. 4 with Miss Margaret Walton, 223 Montlieu Ave. Circle No. 5 met Monday evening with Mrs. C. L. Gray, 306 Lindsay street, and on Tuesday evening Circles Nos. 6 and 7 held a joint meeting at the Koontz cabin. All of the meetings were well attended and much enthusiasm was shown in plans for carrying on the work.

The Christian Endeavor Society held their meeting on Monday evening at the Koontz cabin. After a study of the topic with Miss Josephine Ferguson as program leader, a

(Continued on Page Fifteen)

MARRIED

Stallings-Chichester

On June 20, Mr. Albert Stallings and Miss Maudine Chichester were united in marriage at the M. P. parsonage of Halifax charge by the pastor. The close relatives of the bride and groom were present to witness the ceremony.

The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. N. H. Chichester, a prominent farmer of Halifax county. She is a member of Bear Swamp Baptist church.

The groom is a very promising young man, holding an important position with the Gate City Life Insurance Company of Weldon, N.C. He is the son of Mr. J. C. Stallings, also a progressive farmer of Halifax county. He is a member of Eden M. P. church of Halifax charge.

After the ceremony the bridal party left for Asheville, N. C., to spend a few days.

O. C. LOY.

◆

Payne-Green

Harrell Payne and Ruth Green were united in matrimony by the writer at the parsonage June 30, at four o'clock, in the presence of a few close friends.

Mr. Payne is the son of W. D. Payne, of near High Point. Mrs. Payne is the daughter of F. R. Green, of near High Point.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Payne are members of Mt. Pleasant M. P. church. After a short honeymoon tour to Carolina Beach, they will be at home near High Point.

We wish for them a long and useful life.

C. L. G.

◆

Manson-Kernodle

Miss Attrice Kernodle and Thomas R. Manson were married June 25, at 10 a.m., at the home of the bride in Burlington. Only a few friends witnessed this marriage, and the happy couple left immediately for a bridal tour north.

The bride has been a teacher for some time in the Burlington High School, and was listed as one of the best on the faculty there. The groom holds a place with the Federal Land Bank, a successful business man. His home is in Kenbridge, Virginia. His headquarters will be in Burlington after this, where they will make their home. Our best wishes follow them.

N. G. BETHEA.

◆

Connelly-Lamar

Beauty and simplicity characterized the wedding of Miss Helen Connelly and Mr. Knox Lamar, which took place at the home of the bride's mother on Friday at 2 o'clock p.m., July 6th. The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. Robert Short, in the presence of a select number of friends. The ring ceremony was used to solemnize the vows.

The bride is the second daughter of Mrs. Eugene Connelly, of near Easley, S. C. She is a very attractive and efficient leader and a loyal member of Fairview Methodist Protestant church, and greatly loved in her community. She is a graduate of Easley High School.

Mr. Lamar is a son of Mrs. W. A. Lamar, of Miami, Fla. He attended school at Edwin M. Holt school, Burlington, N. C., and is at present engaged in business in that vicinity. He is a splendid young Christian gentleman and of pleasing attainments.

Immediately after the vows were taken, they departed for a short honeymoon trip, and upon their return will take up their residence in Burlington, N. C. We bespeak for this promising couple a very happy and peaceful voyage on the sea of matrimony. May God bless them.

ROBERT SHORT.

◆

MODERN DRESS CONDEMNED

"He that rebuketh a man afterwards shall find more favor than he that flattereth with the tongue."

We would like to know what the people of God think about the way our land and country have drifted into. We had always thought it was against the laws of our country for people to expose their person. It seems if the church does not try to do something about this state of affairs, we are sure the world will not. Then we will ask the question, how can we endure such? For some time it has seemed some wanted to dress like men. The Word says the woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment, for all that do so are an abomination unto the Lord thy God. We feel it a shame for the people who claim to be God's children to wear men's clothes, and we are very sure we all should dress like ladies—Christian ladies. We find before Adam and Eve ate of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, and they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed, but when they disobeyed and ate of the forbidden fruit the eyes of them both were opened and they knew they were naked, and they sewed fig leaves together and made themselves aprons, and they heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the garden in the cool of the day, and Adam and his wife hid themselves from the presence of the Lord God, and the Lord God called unto Adam and said unto him, "Where art thou?" and he said, "I heard thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid because I was naked, and I hid myself." We are living in a testing age and it seems to me that if the preachers and leading members of the church do not rebuke this sin, we will be found wanting, weighed in the balance and found wanting. We look about us and we are alarmed when we see so-called Christian mothers dressing as they do, and dressing their children, or rather, not dressing them, it seems a perfect shame the way things are going when we have been bought by the precious blood of Jesus Christ. It seems the church should be protected from such sin and disgrace by the laws of the country. Should we not rise up and let our enemies be scattered? Can Christian mothers endure such? If there is a remedy it seems it should be applied. May the Lord deliver His people from such shame and disgrace to womanhood and help us to do something to change the condition of such, because we all know it comes from sin, not knowing God. A missionary went to the foreign field to work and returned in some time to find the people in America going about naked just like the heathen. They said he had gone to the wrong field, should have stayed at home where they were doing just as the heathen, and worked at home. We sure feel such conduct is abomination to the Lord. A city that is set on a hill cannot be hid. We are the light of the world. If we have Christ in our life, so may we let our light so shine that others may see the Christ.

MARTHA PARSONS.

◆

THE CLUB PLAN FOR SUBSCRIPTIONS

Recently the Herald Committee had a meeting and decided to recommend the club plan for getting the Herald into the Homes of the people. This plan is something like this: You agree to sell or give away so many copies of the Herald each week. You pay for the papers at the rate of four cents a copy. If some class or organization will pay for the papers you may give them away if you like; otherwise you will sell them for five cents a copy. Now do not use this plan until you have made a desperate effort to get folks to subscribe by the year, paying in advance. But if you have failed to get them to subscribe, then use the club plan.

J. E. PRITCHARD,
For the Committee.

◆

TO BE OMITTED

Owing to the fact that the ministers have spent so much time together in the recent school at High Poin College, it has been decided not to have the July meeting of the Greensboro Methodist Protestant Ministers' Association.

J. ELWOOD CARROLL, Secretary.

◆

—Dr. F. W. Paschall, of Burlington, is assisting Rev. J. L. Trollinger in revival services at Fair Grove church on Haw River Circuit this week.

—Rev. N. M. Harrison was prevented from attending the last days of the summer school for ministers ast week on account of illness. We trust he is better now.

—Captain A. M. Rankin, of High Point, has sufficiently recovered from his recent illness as to be present at several sessions of the Leadership Training School.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Rev. C. W. Saunders

On Friday, June 22, 1934, the sadness of death darkened our home, when God called away our Darling Dad, Rev. C. W. Saunders.

He had been ill for several months, and at times his suffering would become most excruciating. But all his physical agony was borne with greatest patience and submission.

His grieved and anxious friends prayed earnestly that he might be healed and spared, but the time comes when medical aid will not prolong a most precious life, when faith and prayer will not unite, because the Almighty refuses to lengthen the life cord in this world, when yearning and sorrowing hearts can do no more, although they know that no future bereavement will ever be so piercing.

He was a good husband and father, and devoted to his wife and children.

We cannot solve the mystery
Of God's great divine plan,
But some day we'll go and meet him,
And then we'll understand.

He has gone, yes, gone and left us,
Gone to that Eternal Home,
Where no sorrow, pain, or sickness,
Death and heartaches cannot come.

We thought we loved our Daddy,
But Jesus loved him more;
Now with Angels he is singing,
Safe on the Heavenly Shore.

Good-bye, Dad, we'll surely miss you,
For the short time we remain,
But there are others that will greet you,
And our loss is Heaven's gain.

A Daughter, Irene Saunders.

Harris

Mrs. Sarah DeBerry Whitaker Harris was the daughter of the late Ferdinand and Louisa DeBerry Whitaker. She was born September 13, 1858, at "Myrtle Lawn," Enfield, N. C., Halifax county; departed this life June 28, 1934, at 11 o'clock.

In October, 1889, she married Rev. Felix M. Totten, a Methodist Episcopal minister, who died in March, 1898. Two years later, in 1900, she married Rev. William L. Harris, a Methodist Protestant minister, who died in Henderson, N. C., December 23, 1910.

Mrs. Harris was a devoted church worker, being a member of Whitaker's Chapel Methodist Protestant church for over fifty years. Her life was one of a beautiful Christian example, and her sweet, lovable disposition brought her friends, both old and young. All those who knew her loved her. Her life in her church was an inspiration to all those who worked and worshiped with her.

Funeral services were held at the home of her daughter, Friday afternoon, June 29, at 5 o'clock, with her pastor, Rev. E. O. Peeler, officiating. Final rites were held at Whitaker's Chapel, where her favorite hymns, "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Christians Good-Night," were sung by a quartet composed of Mesdames C. M. Miller, Cecil Matthews and Messrs. Plummer Clark and Norman Vick.

Active pallbearers were nephews of the deceased: Messrs. Hubert M. Whitaker, John C. Whitaker, Lawrence Whitaker, Beavans Whitaker, Stanley C. Whitaker, and John B. Bustin.

The nearest surviving relatives are a daughter, Mrs. Charles M. Hodgin; one brother, T. Lee Whitaker, and a sister, Miss Jewel E. Whitaker, both of Enfield, N. C.

The body of Mrs. Harris was laid to rest in Whitaker's Chapel cemetery under a blanket of beautiful flowers.

"Now the laborer's task is o'er;
Now the battle day is past;
Now upon the farther shore,
Lands the voyager at last.
Father, in Thy gracious keeping
Leave me now Thy servant sleeping."

E. O. PEELER.

In Memory of Rev. C. W. Saunders

We miss your face, dear husband,
We miss your loving smile,
But if we're only faithful,
We'll meet you after a while.

The chair you used is vacant,
Your voice is hushed and still;
The place is vacant in the home
Which never can be filled.

No more treading around the altar,
No more humming at your work,
Home is broken, loved ones scattered,
But your church you did not shirk.

Boys, be steady, preach the gospel,
Never shirk your duty here,
Stand for God and wait his coming,
For His coming draweth near.

All is dark, but not tomorrow;
Clouds will pass, the sun will shine;
Then we know a glad reunion
In the Happy Sunny Clime.

His Wife, Mrs. C. W. Saunders.

Clark

Edna Jewell Self Clark was born December 19, 1909, died June 30, 1934, age 25 years. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Self. She was the devoted wife of Volner Clark. She was a loyal member of Sapling Ridge Methodist Protestant church. Her body was laid to rest in the cemetery of Emmaus Baptist church. The funeral service was conducted by the writer, assisted by Revs. R. R. Gordon of the Baptist church, and A. M. Williams of the M. E. Church, South. She leaves behind her husband and three children.

The death was inexpressibly sad. For comfort we look only to God.

J. A. BURGESS.

FROM PASTORS AND PEOPLE

(Continued from Page Thirteen)

social hour was enjoyed, during which delicious home-made ice cream was served.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Robbins will entertain the Board of Stewards and their wives at a supper at their home south of the city, Thursday evening.

Mrs. R. R. Blackburn has been called to Summerfield on account of the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Ogburn. Friends of Mrs. Blackburn and of Mrs. Ogburn are wishing for her speedy recovery.

Friends of Rev. George L. Reynolds will regret to learn that he is ill at his home on Fifth street.

Mrs. W. A. Davis and daughters, Misses Helen and Dorothy Dean, have returned from Indianapolis, where they were guests of Rev. and Mrs. Donald Conrad. Mrs. Conrad will be remembered as Miss Willie Davis.

While away, they attended the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago.

Mrs. Al Foister is ill at her home on North Main street.

ASSISTANT REPORTER.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

(Continued From Page Eight)

flower gardens, a picnic supper was enjoyed at the Casto picnic grounds.

The final session was held at the Bates Cottage in the evening. This consisted largely of hearing reports from special committees, reading of the minutes, etc. The next quartery meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. C. Hammer at Asheboro in October. Thus closed one of the most largely attended meetings yet held in Weaverville, and one of the most interesting. The meeting expressed thanks to Dr. and Mrs. Bates, the Woman's Auxiliary of the Weaverville church, Mr. Casto and Mr. Altman and to any others who had had any part in making the meeting so pleasant.

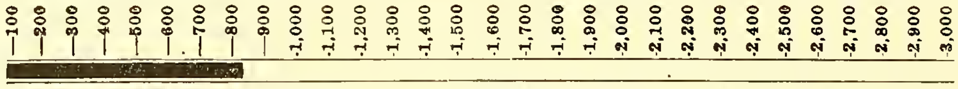
MRS. J. E. PRITCHARD,
Publicity Chairman.

PERSONAL EVANGELISM

This is the season when many of our pastors and churches turn their attention toward special evangelistic services. One of the important phases of this kind of work is to get the people to become interested in helping other people accept Christ as their Saviour and Master. This kind of work needs to continue through the year. Rev. W. A. Melvin, superintendent of evangelism in the M. P. church, has outlined an organization to help promote this type of work. It is known as the "Won by One" band. If you are interested in such a band for your church please write me, or direct to Rev. W. A. Melvin, 1412 William street, Baltimore, Md., for information.

T. J. WHITEHEAD,
Chairman of Committee on Evangelism.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
REIDSVILLE	90
LINCOLNTON	82
SHILOH	70

Well, you see that Reidsville keeps reaching up a little and they are now within striking distance of their goal. Let the good work go on.

Last week we began publishing a list of churches on circuits that had reached their goal. Quotas are made out to charges and a charge may consist of several churches. One church may raise all its quota but the other churches on the circuit keep it from getting full credit. Remember when any church on a circuit sends in what the pastor or somebody thinks is that church's share of the charge's quota the same is to be reported.

And now for this week. Just look at these individual churches in last week's Herald. Shiloh on Shiloh charge and Efland on Orange charge. Some weeks ago I paid my respects to Shiloh, so I will not trouble them this week. BUT THIS WEEK I AM TO SAY HURRAH FOR EFLAND. What shall we say about Efland? It is on the Southern Railway between Mebane and Hillsboro. It is also on State Highway 10 between these same two points. Yes, you all agree with me there. That certainly is a fact. There is no doubt about it. If you do not believe that just go and see. But there are some things about Efland that some people may not know about. In the first place, Efland has a habit of being on the Honor Roll. As far back as 1931 the Conference Journal shows that Efland raised its part of Orange charge's quota of subscriptions to the Herald. In the second place the Journal shows that Efland gave thirteen offerings to the Children's Home last year. They were not satisfied simply to give one each month but they went the second mile and did the extra. And in the third place Efland has the distinction of having one of the most wide awake pastors in the conference in the person of Rev. B. M. Williams. This son of Randolph is always in the very front ranks in everything for the good of the conference. He has a plan and he works the plan. This year his charge was the first charge to send in quota in full for Herald Subsidy, and while the entire charge has not yet raised its quota of subscriptions they are everlastingly at it and will be there to the end. So hats off to Efland, to its pastor, and three hats off to the Herald Agent, Mrs. E. S. Taylor, who has put her church on the Honor Roll.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	11¾	$....
Albemarle	17	9½	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	24½	....
Asheville	14	7¼	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	11.10	....
Bessemer City	13	6.33	....
Burlington, First	71	16½	*20.00
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	14	....
Charlotte	21	9.2	.90
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.32	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	13½	....
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5½	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	1½	....
Denton	48	11¾	....
DRAPER	·7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	8	*5.00
Fallston	85	24½	....
Flat Rock	63	14	....
Friendship	21	2.52	....
Forsyth	45	8½	2.50
Gibsonville	20	4	....
Glen Raven	47	7¼	....
GRAHAM	27	29.50	....
Granville	59	17½	16.55
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY	29	33	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	9½	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	2½	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	10.6	*7.50
Greensville	59	7	....
Guilford	37	9½	....
Halifax	53	8	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	13.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	23	....
High Point, Lebanon	34	7½	....
High Point, Welch	22	4½	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	16.30	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2¾	....
Lexington, First	45	11	*10.00
Lexington, State Street	40	7.36	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	18	14.75	....
Littleton	50	7¾	....
Mebane	28	6	....
Mecklenburg	40	1½	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	3½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	4	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	18½	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	26¾	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7½	....
Randolph	74	10½	....
Reidsville	10	9	....
Richland	43	3½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	45½	*20.00
Siler City	20	10¾	*7.50
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	13	....
Tabernacle	39	21¼	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	2½	....
West Forsyth	62	8	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	4½	....
Winston, First	26	9¼	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	5	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

Individual churches on circuits raising their quota in full are: SHILOH on Shiloh Charge, EFLAND on Orange Charge.

 Subsidy paid in full.

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher
Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.
PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.
Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.
Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.
In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.
We cannot often supply back numbers.
We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.
Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

(Continued from Page Nine)

it in the Joash box in the yard that day. Mark your package so that proper credit may be given.

Recently a little church in the South Carolina Conference held an "old-time box supper" for the benefit of the Home, and as a result sent us check for $19.00. There is scarcely a smaller church than that in the N. C. Conference. May we count on every church in the North Carolina Conference to hold a benefit meeting for the Home between now and September 13th? We believe you will. But some interested person in each church must begin to plan it in time, if it is done.

God bless and keep each one of you.

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Rev. T. J. Whitehead	$3.00
Mrs. W. G. Starr, Grace	2.00
Rev. J. A. Burgess	2.00
L. F. Ferree	2.00
Rev. E. Suits	2.00
Rev. A. Ridge	1.00
Rev. R. C. Stubbins	1.00
Ray Leatherman	1.00
J. J. Mallard, club	1.00

—Dr. N. G. Bethea made a fine address on Stewardship at the Fifth District rally held at Tabernacle last Sunday afternoon.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XL GRETNSBORO, N. C., JULY 19, 1934 NUMBER 35

Rev H L Isley 2aug4 R6

Great Protestant Bodies Demand Action

By Bishop James Cannon, Jr.

Now that the unthinking, reckless, deceptive craze for Repeal has spent its force, the people are discovering the wreckage which has been wrought, for Repeal has developed the most distressing conditions in the country at large that the writer has ever known. The leaders of both political parties declared most positively their opposition to the return of the saloon in any guise, and also for the protection of dry territory. The President of the United States, as late as December 30, 1933, appealed publicly to the Democratic leader of the State of Missouri to defeat legislation which would permit the return of the saloon. But within thirty days the President himself signed the bill which brought back the saloons to the District of Columbia, over which legislation he had absolute veto power.

Notwithstanding, therefore, all the pledges which were made that the saloon should not return, the saloon has returned, not only with its former evil accompaniments, but with the addition of barmaids and with indiscriminate patronage by women. The results have been an unprecedented increase in drunkenness of men, and especially of women, the debauching of young girls and boys, and an outstanding fact is the startling increase in accidents from drunken automobile drivers. Multiplied thousands now realize that they were deceived and betrayed as to the results of Repeal by the leaders of both political parties.

Facing these distressing facts, all the great Protestant bodies which have met within the past sixty days have adopted resolutions which contain no note of Retreat, Surrender, or Compromise, but which express renewed, sweeping, uncompromising condemnation of the liquor traffic, and demand for action. It is heartening to read these declarations:

First, our own General Conference adopted the resolution submitted by the Board of Temperance and Social Service: "In furtherance of this continuously expressed attitude (of our Church) that the liquor traffic should be branded as a national evil and outlawed as other criminal activities, we urge the passage by Congress and the submission to the States of a resolution for a Constitutional Amendment to give power to Congress to restrict or to prohibit traffic in alcoholic liquor. This will make National Prohibition of this national evil a clear-cut issue in the election of every Congressman and every Senator until we have again achieved Prohibition. We urge our people to secure or to retain, where they have it, local and state Prohibition legislation until once again the Congress of the United States, constrained by the inevitable awful results of a legalized liquor traffic, shall give to the country a National Prohibition Law."

Second, about two weeks later, the Board of Missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, in session at Cleveland, Ohio, fully endorsed, as representing their own convictions with reference to Prohibition, the statement of the Board of Temperance and Social Service adopted by our own General Conference as quoted above.

Third, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, in session at Cleveland, Ohio, on May 28, 1934, declared: "The Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. has in no manner changed its attitude of being unalterably opposed to the iniquitous traffic in alcoholic beverages. We pledge our church to renewed effort to create in the church a Christian social mind that shall find expression in strongly advocating the most drastic restrictive legislation which is in keeping with public sentiment, and which will give diligent support to all active law-enforcing officials, to the end that ultimately this evil shall be driven from modern society."

Fourth, the Northern Baptist Convention, in session at Rochester, New York, declared: "We declare our opposition to the whole liquor traffic, and we urge legislators and officers of the law, city, county, state and national, to save the nation, by enacting and enforcing laws to exterminate this traffic at whatever cost."

Fifth, the Southern Baptist Convention, in session at Fort Worth, Texas, declared: "We hereby pledge ourselves to persistent effort for total abstinence and to relentless warfare upon the beverage liquor traffic until every unit of Government, from the precinct to the entire United States, shall be divorced from alliance with evil and shall again place the brand of the criminal and the outlaw upon beverage alcohol. To this end we will use every proper and honorable means at our command."

Sixth, the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, at Oxford, Ohio, declared: "The United Presbyterian Church declares her opposition to the whole liquor traffic. We urge the election of legislators and officials of the law, city, county, state and national, who by enacting and enforcing laws enacted, will exterminate and destroy this traffic. In furtherance of our expressed attitude that the liquor traffic be branded as a national evil and outlawed as other criminal activities, we urge the passage by Congress and the submission to the states of the Sheppard Joint Resolution, introduced recently in the United States Senate."

Following the adoption of these resolutions by these great outstanding Protestant bodies, on June 22, 1934, at the regular meeting of the Executive Committee of the Federal Council, the writer introduced a resolution for the action of the Advisory Committee of the Council, which was as follows:

"The Executive Committee of the Federal Council unites most heartily with the representatives of its constituent bodies in their renewed, sweeping, uncompromising condemnation of the liquor traffic. Notwithstanding the pledges of the advocates of Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, including the President of the United States, that the saloon should not return, the saloon has returned with all its evils in many sections of the nation, including the Capital City, where the President could by his veto have prevented its return. Mr. Choate, the Federal Administrator, has declared that bootlegging continues more flagrantly than before, and that the country is living in a fool's paradise. Fresh appropriations and a large body of enforcement officials have been called for and provided for (4,000 men and $7,000,000), the conditions are far worse than before Repeal, and are steadily growing worse. This Executive Committee stands for an educative and legislative program which will inculcate the value of total abstinence and secure such local, state and national legislation as will protect society and again put the brand of the criminal upon this enemy of individual and social welfare."

Up to the present time the writer has seen no statement from the Catholic Press or from any of the hierarchy condemning the conditions resulting from Repeal or calling for any restrictive legislation. It is an important fact to be reckoned with that the Roman Catholic church has presented and probably will continue to present a well-nigh solid front against Prohibition.

The writer recently attended a great meeting of 5,000 people, assembled from several states, and at the close of his address asked whether those present favored beginning at once a movement to secure a national law against this national evil. The Associated Press reports that "There was a roar of Ayes." The tragic results following Repeal have awakened the people to a realization of the great value and of the absolute necessity of national Prohibition.

◆

HUMILITY IS BEAUTIFUL

What could be more beautiful than old-fashioned humility when properly related to life! Talents are safeguarded by it, natural beauty is enhanced by it, and all the natural and acquired graces look fairer to intelligent folks when they have a humble spirit as their background. Dr. Jowett leads us to the garden of the soul for a view of the same thought, contemplating the beauty of the lowly fern as typical of this rare grace. He says: "There are ferns in the garden of the soul, as well as flowers. The flowers grow best in the sunshine; the ferns grow best in the shade.

"There is the fern of Patience, and the fern of Long-Suffering, and the fern of Meekness. And the great Gardener of the soul delights in the ferns, and purposes to save them from destruction by the garish day.

"And so He takes us into the shade of disappointment, or the shade of sorrow, or the shade of sickness and pain. But it is a very blessed shadow, for it is the 'shadow of the Almighty.' And here the ferns flourish and the cloudy day makes the garden beautiful."—The Way of Faith.

THE NIGHT VISITOR

By Rev. W. A. Ledford

A boy stole a mattock, which caused him to be called "Mattock Joe" all his life. Agood or an evil deed has a far-reaching influence. A fit of anger fixed the destiny of Moses; a lie ruined Ananias and Sapphira; a crime branded Judas; a visit by night classifies Nicodemus, and one act of disloyalty made Benedict Arnold the arch traitor of America.

Nicodemus owes it to the reminiscences of John for rescuing him from oblivion. Much discussion has been provoked over this visit by night. Some hold that the feud between Jesus and the Jewish authorities caused by the cleansing of the Temple, prompted Nicodemus to call on Jesus under cover of darkness, lest his own dignity and safety be endangered. Such picture him as naturally timid, overly cautious and even cowardly. I agree with Henry Ward Beecher in picturing Nicodemus as a man of great sagacity and purity of life—that real soul hunger brought him to Jesus by night, where he could sit down for a meal, pour himself out, and ask for enlightenment.

When the Savior's career was well advanced, and when the templars had determined his destruction, Nicodemus, being a member of the Sanhedrin, occupying the seat to the left of the president, standing among his peers, who were all leagued and banded against Christ, calmly asked this question: "Doth our law condemn any man until he is heard?" Was that cowardice to raise his voice and register his protest against the treatment meted out to Jesus? Especially when others were so fearful in the presence of the mob, howling and demanding the blood of that Justu One. The plea may have been feeble and rather weak for Jesus, but Nicodemus dared to do what others failed to do. How does our plea before an unfriendly bar compare to that of Nicodemus? Ours may be feeble for Him; but His is strong, timely and effective for us.

And when all was over, when the Crucifixion was past; when the terrible drama had been enacted; when the disciples were all scattered, and there was none to take care of the Master, came Joseph and Nicodemus boldly, and took the body of Jesus Christ, embalmed it, and buried it. The gifts of Nicodemus were in keeping with his reputed wealth, and worthy of his love. When the danger seemed the greatest he displayed the greatest courage and bravery. The courage and devotion of Joseph and Nicodemus saved the body of Jesus from the potter's field, and gave Him a decent burial. He was put in a new tomb, where no person had ever been buried, because of later disputes that might arise over what body had really risen from that particular tomb.

The visit by night was not only enlighening to Nicodemus, but set forth for all time some things that are fundamental in Christianity. The church honors the one making a plea for fairer treatment for its Head, and joins in with Joseph of Arimathea and Nicodemus in visiting the tomb of Jesus to offer homage to the Savior of the world. If we get one lesson above all others from the three pictures—an anxious inquirer, a noted lawyer, and devoted friend of Jesus—it is that it pays always to do the thing that is right, and take the side of right in the face of all dangers.

PROBLEMS OF AN INCREASING POPULATION

By LUTHER K. LONG

There is much quarrelsomeness in the world at this time. Different nationalities, sections, and groups are increasingly conscious of each other's presence and competition. The desire for food, control of natural resources, access to seas and rivers and harbors, the gains from international commerce, and the expansion of territory—all these furnish occasions for misunderstandings, and foster opportunities for open conflicts.

Because some nations are ambitious for a larger population and the resources to support their people, they arm themselves in hopes of a chance to acquire more territory. Others, acknowledging only the wish to retain what they already have, and to live secure aginst outside aggression, maintain armaments for self-protection.

While the resources of the world are great, they are limited and can support only a limited population. At the present rate of increase it will not be many years until there will be as many people in the world as can live in a reasonable state of comfort.

The desire of Germany for territory into which her surpluus population could be sent, her supposed need for increased world trade, and her ambition for a place in the sun, largely account for the Great War and the present sad state of the world. Japan, with her little islands and rapidly growing population, seems foolishly following in the not-yet-cold footsteps of Germany along the path toward war and destruction.

In a 1925 magazine article Mr. O. E. Baker wrote discerningly:

"Agriculture, not mining or manufacturing, will eventually determine the limits of the world's population. The reserves of coal and iron are adequate to support our civilization for many hundreds, perhaps for several thousand years. Industry can continue to develop and give employment to increasingly large number of workers far beyond the time when the arable land will have reached such a stage of productivity that further intensity of cultivation is unprofitable. Not many people will starve; but, as in Europe recently, the death rates will rise, especially the infant death rates, while the hours of labor will lengthen and the lower standard of living will make people more susceptible to disease.

"It is certain that if the population of the United States continues to increase for more than another century as it has during the past century there is no means by which the present standard of living can be maintained, except by importation of foodstuffs from other lands—which will need their foodstuffs even more than we. And looking forward 200 or 300 years, which is a shorter span of time than that elapsed since the settlements at Jamestown and Plymouth, it seems necessary to recognize not only a stationary population in this country, but also throughout the world. Whether this stationary state will be one of misery for the majority of the people, as in China and India today, or one of well-being and happiness will depend largely upon voluntary restriction of population."

In all countries the birth rate tends to decrease among the better educated classes and those more prosperous financially. While with the uneducated and less prosperous the births are but little, if any, diminished. It has been suggested that efforts be made "to induce the socially, economically, and in some part biologically, superior classes to reproduce more freely," as a patriotic duty. This is not likely to succeed, for, as an English editor has pointed out: "A man may be induced by patriotic motives to die for his country, but hardly to procreate children for her, unless he can be convinced that these children will find places to fill at least as good as that he occupies. Rhetoric about race suicide, the decline of the empire, and so on, will never be accepted by the potential parent as a substitute for an economic guarantee."

Professor Raymond Pearl, of Johns Hopkins University, pertinently asks: "But if it is not possible to make desirable people have more babies, why not try teaching other people how to have fewer?" Professor Pearl continues: "Many persons object to the birth control movement on the ground that it widens already undesirable class differences in the birth rate, because the intelligent and educated people all practice it while those with the high birth rates will not. But will they not? I am not so sure of this as I once thought I was. The tightest of legal barriers prevents now the diffusion of knowledge as to methods of contraception. The poor in particular are shut off from learning what is the best information available in these directions. . . . Is it any wonder, things being legally as they are, that the poor have a high birth rate?"

The editor of Nature, an English magazine, has recently written: "That some form of birth control is the only means of regulating the tendency of the population of Great Britain to increase beyond the limits of our food supply is a conclusion which has forced itself on more and more thinkers, both in the biological and economic spheres. . . . After all, there is no getting away from the fact that the practice of birth control is widely spread among the middle classes, and to deny the knowledge of the means to the poor, who need it far more than the middle classes do, is a proceeding which no parliamentary language is strong enough to criticise."

I recently met a young girl of 19 who had just come from her home in Virginia to Washington, seeking employment. She failed to secure the job she had in mind. In her distress she told the good woman with whom she spent two nights something of the state of her affairs. She is the oldest of nine children. Her father owns a small house and a few acres of land in the country. His health is poor and his income is small. For several years this oldest daughter has worked away from home, sending all the money she could spare to help maintain the family. Because of some changes in the factory where she worked, her wages fell below the cost of room and board—so she came to Washington. She felt she must have work to aid her parents.

There is another matter to be considered. This healthy, wholesome young girl has a boy friend a little older than herself. He has a steady job at fair wages, and has saved $700. He wants to marry her and start a home. He is willing she should contribute something to her family from what will be their common fund. She hesitates, because she does not want to burden him with her family. But, does she love him, and is he in every way a fine fellow? Yes, she does; and yes, he is. During the three years he has always been kind and respectful to her—and he has no bad habits. She couldn't say as much for other boys whom she had met.

Well, a job was found for her. Also, she was advised to hold the interest and affection of this boy friend.

I can't help feeling that this girl has been cruelly wronged by being burdened with too many brothers and sisters. She needed more schooling than she has been given; and she would have profited by it. She should have been privileged to see less of the seamy side of life, and to have known more of its beauties and joys. Not so much should now stand in the way of love and marriage and a home of her own. She is not to blame. Her brothers and sisters are not to blame. Her father and mother are not altogether to blame. They didn't know. They didn't understand conditions. Certain important information was not available for them. It should now be available for all married people.

A WORTHY HONOR ROLL

Children's Home Day is September 13th, and between now and that day the North Carolina Branch expects me to raise the deficit of the Children's Home through you. If every Methodist Protestant in North Carolina will co-operate, and I mean "the close co-operation of every living soul," we can do it.

If every pastor will see to it that some wide-awake person in each church secures from every member of that church a penny for every year he or she has lived, an amount will be secured sufficient to wipe out the current deficits of the Children's Home. How do I know? Because, according to the last Annual Conference Journal, there are more than 30,000 members of the Methodist Protestant church in North Carolina.

At the recent Branch Executive meeting, it was agreed that it would be a splendid plan to have on display at the Home on September 13th, a book with the name of each individual, the amount contributed, church, and charge. We hope for every member of our church in North Carolina to have his name in the book. We want to lift the indebtedness, and we also want a record of those who contribute in this birthday offering, so we are asking pastors to buy ruled loose leaf notebook paper, to fit in a notebook size 8½ by 11 inches. Have each person of your church write his or her own name or have them all written in a clear, legible hand by one person, with the amount contributed opposite the name. Pastor is requested to see that these lists of names and contributions of churches and charges are at the Children's Home on or before September 13th, to be placed in the permanent records and kept on display. This is much easier than quilt making or ice cream suppers, and it will give us all a share in this so greatly to be desired result. More than one worker can be used in each church, if it seems advisable.

Will any pastor or layman or laywoman refuse to help in this exceedingly important undertaking? Surely not!

There are children in the Home now whose parents fifteen years ago would have thought it unbelievable that their children would ever be there. Life is too uncertain for the adults of our church not to insure the future of this Home by providing amply for it. The women of North Carolina are vitally interested in seeing Dr. and Mrs. Dixon relieved of the tremendous burden of debt on the Home. We believe the membership of our church will be glad to help. Please, pastors, help us put it across!

Once more, what will do it? One penny a year for each Methodist Protestant. Of course we will be glad of the aid of all other friends. Any one who doesn't like to give exact age can give twenty-five cents, if age is less than twenty-five years, or fifty cents, if under fifty years, or seventy-five cents if under seventy-five, etc.

One more word: If you had been working without salary and had asked for money to pay the indebtedness last year and received less than one thousand dollars when several were needed, do you think you would have been able to go on as gracefully as Dr. and Mrs. Dixon have this year? Are you doing to others as you would that they would do unto you? Come on, folks, I have faith to believe that this thing can be done, and that we will have the courage to do it, and then I am sure that we will all feel good over the results. I hope to see an early and vigorous response to this plea in our coming letters to the Herald.

Yours for a Children's Home free of debt.

Mrs. R. M. Andrews.

ENTELECHY

Aristotle, the old Greek philosopher, discovered and developed what has come to be known as a perfecting principle. He gave it a name, entelechy.

It is an important factor in progress, and every living thing that goes on to a full life is blessed with this perfecting principle.

The acorn has it. It wants to become a little oak, then a larger oak, and it continues stretching and growing until it becomes a strong, storm-resisting oak.

A grain of wheat wants to become a wheat plant, then it wants to stool out, sending up many stalks bearing full heads of grain, then it sees itself planted over a wide field and billowing in the wind.

An eaglet in the nest senses the power of the sun in its eye, it feels an urge to try its wings, it spreads them, and eventually finds itself at home on high among the clouds and storms—or above them.

The small boy tries to step as far as his father, tries to ride a horse, wants to be an ice man, then a policeman. Happy is he if he finds his full job and does his work well.

Entelechy is known by other terms than a "perfecting principle." Some speak of it as the "inner urge," the "vital spark," the "creative force," the "long, long thoughts of youth," the "guiding principle," "God stirring in the soul." Whatever it may be called, whatever term one may use to describe it, no one should fail to yield to its inspiring influence. It will make us dissatisfied with the past, stir us to supreme effort in the present, and lead us on to greater heights and nobler achievements.

Luther K. Long.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Rev. J. H. Trollinger Appointed Pastor of Rockingham Charge

We have asked Brother Trollinger to serve this group of churches until Annual Conference.

Rev. W. M. Howard Appointed Pastor of Moriah

At a congregational meeting this church has asked for the services of Brother Howard until he returns to the Seminary this fall. He has been appointed to the work.

Group Meetings

We completed a series of five group meetings last week. Beginning at Spring Church on Monday, where there were 48 present, all churches on the charge being represented.

Tuesday we were at Enfield, sixteen present, all churches represented.

Wednesday at Eden on Halifax charge, 43 present, three churches represented.

Thursday we were at Corinth, Littleton charge, 44 present, three churches represented.

At Union Chapel, Granville charge, there were 43 present, one church represented.

And out of a possible 20 churches, there were 13 represented. All pastors of these charges were in attendance at the meetings on their charges.

Mrs. J. H. Cutchin, of Whitakers, was present at all meetings excepting the one at Union Chapel. Brother W. H. Neese was with me at all meetings; Brother Gerringer was absent from the entire series because of serious illness. We greatly appreciated the services rendered by Mrs. Cutchin and Brother Neese. The people were encouraged and helped by their messages. It was a great disappointment not to have Dr. Gerringer with us as one of the speakers of the itinerary.

As to the general results, we believe these will be fruitful of good works on the part of several who attended the meetings. The meetings being out of the ordinary in their nature, some of the people did not enter at once cordially into them, but soon understood what we were trying to do and gave us good attention, and numbers expressed their deep appreciation of what was said and done. We have not been disappointed in them; nor have we been discouraged by the responses the people gave us. We are greatly indebted to the following for hospitality on this extended trip: the Neeses, who provided for my every need while in their home; Brother J. W. Crew and his fine companion for the joy of "breaking bread" with them; Brother Peeler and his companion for taking care of us one night; Mrs. Ruby Whitaker-Pierson for the hospitality of her home; Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Cutchin for caring for us so splendidly one night; Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Harris for the hospitality of their home and we are very grateful to all who prepared the food for the midday meals which were served on the church grounds each day. Without the co-operation of the people in such ways our visits would not have been so pleasant or so successful.

Mebane Church, Rev. E. Lester Ballard, Pastor

I was at this church at the morning service. The congregation was right good for a hot day. The interest manifested in the service was splendid. Pastor Ballard puts on a good preparation service for the sermon which we appreciate very much.

It was much like getting back home to be here, having served the church many years ago and revisited the church frequently since that time. The work appears to be moving nicely under the present pastor. I think the entire membership is appreciating the type of service Mr. Ballard is giving here. It is constructive and worth much to the future church. Somehow all of our churches must turn their efforts towards the fuller enlisting of the membership, many of whom are now inactive and at the same time try to get the younger member enlisted in the program of the church.

Our church here has felt most keenly the effects of the depression during the present year and is still feeling it, yet they are going forward paying their conference claims and taking care of other financial interests in a splendid manner. Only two Annual Conference claims remain unpaid, and both of them have part payments made on them. We are expecting to have a good report from this loyal group of Methodist Protestants.

Orange Charge, Rev. B. M. Williams, Pastor

I visited Union Grove church in the afternoon and Efland church at night. There was a good attendance upon the services at both these churches. Here is another charge which has made great progress since I served it as pastor. Really, there might be a division made of these churches into two charges that would do far better work than some we now have which have two or three times as many members. But of course no such plan is under consideration. Pastor Williams has done well. He planned wisely and has patiently worked his plans and has remained on the field long enough to see fruitage from his labors. Another instance where a long pastorate is justified. The churches on this work have taken care of the indebtedness on the parsonage and feel proud of their achievement, and when the indebtedness on Efland church is paid, all churches on this work will be free of debt. It is certainly a relief for a church to be without debt and I am sure there would be great rejoicing if the debts which are worrying the life out of some of our people could be paid. We hope to see that day. We are expecting Orange charge to pay all annual conference claims in full and pay more on the World Service than was paid last year. It was a hard day, three services, but we enjoyed our visits to these churches. This week we are visiting some of the churches on Creswell charge, holding group meetings, hoping to stimulate a greater interest in the work down there.

Plan of Appointments

July 22—Siler City charge.

July 28—Group Meeting, Baltimore church, West Forsyth charge.

July 29—District Meeting at Baltimore church in the morning.

July 29—Afternoon, District Meeting at Spencer church.

August 5—On Weaverville charge morning and afternoon.

August 5—First church, Asheville, at night.

August 6—We are giving several days to Democrat charge to be employed as the pastor desires to use us.

R. M. Andrews.

◆

CONGREGATIONALISTS MOVE FORWARD

By Luther K. Long

The General Council of the Congregational and Christian churches has recently held a notable biennial meeting in Oberlin, Ohio.

These two denominations—Congregational and Christian—have united, it will be remembered, and are getting their common affairs and enterprises into more effective working order. This is the first meeting of the General Council since the union was voted at Seattle, Washington, in 1931.

The most outstanding action taken, and enterprise set going, was the formation of The Council for Social Action. Because of conditions in the church, the nation, and the world, it has been evident for some time that the church should do something. For several months—in their state meetings, in clubs, and in the columns of their papers—discussions have been held, narrowing down to practical plans for organization. A strong committee made a report to the General Council, which was adopted. Here are the most important paragraphs:

"Stirred by the deep need of humanity for justice, security, and spiritual freedom and growth, aware of the urgent demand within our churches for action to match our gospel, and clearly persuaded that the Gospel of Jesus can be the solvent of social as well as of all other problems, we hereby vote:

"That the General Council create the Council for Social Action of the Congregational and Christian churches of the United States of America.

"That the purposes of this Council for Social Action shall be to help the churches to make the Christian gospel more effective in society, national and world-wide, through research, education, and action, in co-operation with the Home and Foreign Boards, Conferences and Associations, and local churches. It is proposed that the Council shall increasingly co-operate with the Federal Council of Churches in the creation of a program which shall be genuinely interdenominational. In its research, the Council will aim to be impartial, its only bias being that of the Christian view of life; its educational efforts will be directed primarily toward the local churches but will also envisage the cultivation of public opinion; in action, the Council may, on occasion, intercede directly in specific situations."

Eighteen men and women constitute the Council for Social Action. This Council will, as rapidly as possible, take over the work of the Commission on Race Relations, the Commission on International Relations, the Commission on Citizenship, and the Commission on Social Relations. It will have a standing in the denomination similar to that of the Foreign Missions and the Home Mission Boards. An annual budget of around $60,000 is provided for the expenses of the Council.

The concluding sentence of the constituting act is significant: "Believing that the church will find itself as it loses itself in the struggle to achieve a warless, just, and brotherly world, we launch this venture, dedicating ourselves to unremitting work for a day in which all men find peace, security, and abundant life."

◆

THE SOCIAL INFLUENCE OF MOTION PICTURES

By William H. Short, Director
Motion Picture Research Council

Motion picture producers look upon themselves as "showmen," whose job is just to amuse and entertain. They are generally inclined to resent the idea that they are in any way educating or influencing their audiences.

But parents, teachers, and other thoughtful citizens have long suspected that the movie theatre is doing more than just to amuse. Parents have felt the pull of the movies on their children. Thoughtful theatre-goers have observed the children"s pop-eyed absorption in the show. They are used to seeing children enjoy fun, but this is something different. What does it all mean? It was decided that we ought to know.

At the instance of the Motion Picture Research Council about twenty psychologists set out half a dozen years ago to find out. They were professors and graduate students at Chicago, Iowa State, Ohio State, New York and Yale Universities, and Pennsylvania State College. The Payne Fund financed their studies. They spent from two to five years each getting answers to such queustions as these: How often do children go to the movies? What do they see when they go? Do they take in what they see? Do they remember it? What influences do the movies have on their emotions? On their sleep and their health? On their intellectual and moral attitudes? On their behavior patterns? On their conduct? What relation is there between motion pictures and the rapidly increasing volume of delinquency and crime?

The answers are being publishesd in nine volumes, several of which contain the results of two or more studies. The things in them that the average parent, teacher, and citizen want to know have been brought into one extremely readable book, published by MacMillans. It is Our Movie-Made Children, by Henry James Forman.

The very interesting and important things which these books tell us about our children and the movies will be related in this paper in several brief articles. Here it is enough to say that what parents, teachers, and other observers had been suspecting have been more than confirmed. The movies are having even more influence than they had believed. A new educational system, rivaling the home, the school and the church, has grown up without our being aware of it. And the prevailing teaching of this new movie school is contrary to the ideals and teachings of those time-proven institutions.

There is a set of adjectives, says Dr. Fred Eastman, that fits what home, church and school are trying to teach our children. Among these are honest, courageous, faithful, loyal, competent, patient, wise, and kind. There is another set which represents the spirit of the movie. They include bold, daring, rich, flaming, exciting, thrilling, stupendous. "The first set of adjectives describes roughly the life of the spirit; the second set the things of life. The aim of the first is to produce character. The aim of the second is the gratification of the acquisitive and animal instincts. Between the two a great gulf is fixed."

◆

WHAT THIS NATION NEEDS TODAY

"It doesn't take an alarmist to see that our country is turning backward in the direction of the crime wave that came on the heels of the great war and which we believed was a thing of the past. And even if it does take an alarmist to see the trend of things, he ought to be hailed as a good fellow even as we hail the man who digs a storm pit before the storm strikes. Our newspapers are filled with revolting stories; never a day passes without its toll of murder, crime, and divorce. The secular press is running over with stories of attacks, and divorce suits. In New York, on the eastern rim of the nation, we find the police busily investigating the circumstances surrounding the murder of a beautiful actress, whose nude body was found in a bathtub. Murder is suspected, for New York long ago lost its conscience to things of this kind. On the western fringe of the United States we find an internationally known figure, a prize fighter, in jail held for murder of a woman with whom he had lived as his wife, the tenth wife—although they had never been married.

"What this nation needs today is to turn back to the old-fashioned religion of our forefathers. The present-day decadence of morals was not plunged into in one headlong leap, and it cannot be cured in one day or a year. But in a few years this declension can be checked. The repetition of such cases as has focused the attention of the civilized world upon Chicago can be avoided. Give us a great turning to God in America, and we will see a changed country. Grant us a widespread religious awakening and quickening of conscience, and a vision of what man's true mission in this world is, and there will be a changed generation forthcoming. In other words, give us that good old-time religion, and the mudsills of our American civilization will be grounded upon a bedrock of faith as unshakable as Gibraltar itself. Give us that old-time religion that will carry our fathers and mothers to their knees in daily family prayer instead of into the country after supper on an automobile excursion, and our future will be one peg nearer an abiding security. Show us an America where the Golden Rule is prcticed as well as preached and the Ten Commandments are sacredly kept, and we will present for your inspection a country with fewer gambling dens, less crime, good law enforcement, better homes, more schools, bigger churches, more family altars, nobler men and women, obedient children, less disease, and grander civilization.

"If we are dissatisfied with the direction our nation is drifting, and we want a better day, we must pray for divine guidance, for a return of the true spirit of Christianity, and closer communion with that good old-time religion. And that religion must be carried into our homes. It is here that is the base of our next generation, it is here that the axe must be laid to the evils of the next generation."—Copied from Ad-O-Gram, Weldon, N. C.

◆

THE PASTORS' SCHOOL

While growing up on a farm in southern Alamance county, I noted there was among the grown-ups a sort of notion that the neighborhood doctor who "went off to attend lectures" at intervals was better equipped to diagnose and treat disease than the doctor that didn't. There were both classes, those that did and those that didn't. Somehow the notion prevailed among those who paid the doctor's bill that you were more likely to get your money's worth if you employed the doctor who kept abreast of the times, who kept up with the latest in medicine.

Lately the thought has been revolving in my mind that probably the same principle holds with the pastor-preacher. The thought, I think, was suggested by the Seminary Extension work in the form of a pastors' school recently conducted in High Point College. At any rate, the preacher attending such a school has the comforting satisfaction of knowing that he is trying so to equip himself as to give in service the full equivalent of value received in the form of opportunity that is his when appointed to a pastorate, to say nothing of the money his people pay him as salary.

Then, too, I have a notion that the preacher who brushes the cobwebs out of his mind and the dust off his thinking by active contact with our seminary professors tends to push the "dead line" somewhat farther back. No, I am not arguing that the man who does not attend such a school will cross the dreaded line earlier in his ministerial career than the man who does attend the school. I am not comparing one man with another man; I am comparing the man with himself. That is, what may happen to him if he does not keep the wellsprings of thought and spirit fresh, and the better chance he has if he does.

At any rate, it was a daily thrill to be in the school, although I had only half of it, having taught in the Leadership Training School during the first week of the pastors' school. As Brother Joe Dunn would say: They who were not there ought to have been there to see what they were missing.

T. M. Johnson.

◆

A HOLY LIFE

The personal soul-winner especially must live a life above reproach before he can hope to influence his family, his friends, his neighbors, and his acquaintances. If his life does not adorn his faith, those with whom he is associated will say, or at least they will feel like saying, "Physician, heal thyself." A man who goes out to do personal work, who is not living a correct life himself, is a man who will drive people away from Christ instead of winning them to Him. Genuineness is necessary for the winning of men.—Watchman-Examiner.

OUR STORY PAGE

A TOUCH ON THE SHOULDER

He slouched across the village green with no particular aim in view, and himself dirty and miserable. It was Sunday afternoon, and there was "nothing on," as this young lad thought. John was only seventeen, but he was already thought of as the village "black sheep."

He was the son of a builder, and was supposed to be learning his father's trade. But he shirked more than he worked. He was wild and wayward in disposition, eager for mischief, and the ring-leader of all the crowd who delighted in carrying on mean pranks and jokes. His father was about discouraged over the future of his son.

On this particular Sunday afternoon, as he walked along, he heard quick steps behind him. A firm hand was laid on his shoulder, and a ringing voice said, "John, I want you! Come with me to Sunday school today."

John wheeled around in great surprise and said, "To Sunday school, and in this rig? Not likely! What would the fellows say?"

Yet there came a softer look in the lad's dark eyes, and he stood still while his questioner said again, "The rig does not matter a bit, and I want you. Do come!"

The speaker was a young man of twenty, who had lately given himself to God, and was already the minister's best helper, as well as an earnest Sunday school worker. He lived with his widowed mother keeping a home for her, and neither then nor in all the after years did he have much of this world's goods. But he laid up much treasure in heaven. A great fight went on in John's mind as he compared his own appearance with that of the other young man, and he wondered what would be said by his chums.

The firm, eager touch was on his shoulder, and at last he said, "Well, I'll come just for once, if you want me."

"Great was the surprise when the young teacher walked into Sunday school with his big prize. John noticed the stares and whispers and felt strongly tempted to make a dash for the door.

The minister and the teacher both prayed earnestly that afternoon on John's behalf, and a stirring lesson on the text, "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve," arrested and held the wayward mind.

The next Sunday John met his teacher by appointment, and, with clean collar and well-brushed clothes, he took his place again in the class. He could spell out only the little words, for in those times education, even in the village schools, was slack, and the attendance officer unknown. So John had not been made to attend school. But at the Sunday school something had stabbed his spirit and made him eager.

The dissatisfaction and heart-hunger John had often felt found expression in the cry, "What must I do to be saved?" And it was not long before he rejoiced in full and free salvation. At once he went home and told his father, and then proved that there had been a real change in his heart by giving up his old loafing ways, and going to work heartily in his father's business. But his eager spirit could not be fully satisfied with brick and mortar.

"I want to learn, that I may tell others the story of my Savior," he said.

So he studied in the early mornings, and the minister and teacher had a special class to help him. He sought out all the boys of the village who went nowhere on Sunday, and persuaded them to come to Sunday school. Soon John's class in the corner became the best known in the whole school. At the age of twenty-one, with his father's willing help, he entered college, and after his course there became an earnest preacher of the Gospel, being greatly used of God.

Not long before his death he preached special sermons in the little chapel on the green, and told the story of his life and his wonderful salvation to the crowds that thronged the building.

"Humanly speaking," he said, "I owe everything in life to that touch on the shoulder forty years ago, and the love that brought me to this Sunday school and to Christ."

His old teacher had toiled on as teacher and superintendent through all those years in the old place; and now, as he heard this testimony, he thanked God with tears of joy in his eyes. His had been the humble part, but he had brought to Jesus one who had won many others to the Savior.—Publisher Unknown.

THE BEST WAY

Roger sat looking out of the window. Though the trees and shrubs were covered with ice and the sun shining on them made them glisten beautifully, Roger didn't smile. He really didn't see them, nor the chickadees that were eating the crumbs that mother had scattered over the hard snow on the vacant lot next to their home, nor other pleasant things. All he looked at was a particularly smooth bit of ice on the walk in front of the vacant lot.

He rubbed the bump on the back of his head and frowned. He had slipped on the icy walk in front of Harry Martin's home half an hour ago. Harry had seen him fall, and had laughed. Now Roger was watching, for presently Harry would pass on his way to school and perhaps he would fall on the smooth ice in front of the vacant lot. Then Roger intended to laugh, oh, how he would laugh!

He rubbed the bump again. He grew a bit impatient for Harry to come, for it was nearly time for him to start for school, and he had promised mother to put sand on that smooth bit of ice.

"Nearly time for school," mother called from the kitchen.

So Roger put on his jacket. He went slowly into the kitchen for the pail of sand.

"Sand the walk well," mother said. "Isn't it nice to know that you are saving someone else a bump?"

Roger didn't answer. He closed the kitchen door after him, and trudged up his own well-sanded walk. He saw Harry coming.

"I'll wait until he passes," he told a chickadee. "I'm going to laugh at him just as he laughed at me. He was mean to laugh." Then he stopped talking, for a very startling thought came. If he laughed when Harry fell, he would be mean, too! He would be meaner than Harry, for Harry didn't plan for people to fall.

Roger hurried to scatter sand. He heard a cheery whistle and looked up. There stood Harry.

"Wait until I scatter this sand, Harry," he said. "This place looks terribly slippery."

"Say, Roger," Harry began, "I'm sorry I laughed when you fell. That bump must hurt like anything."

"I suppose I did look funny," Roger said with a grin.

"I brought you this bird house," Harry went on. "Mother said not to take it this morning, for if I slipped and fell I might break it, but I told her I wanted to give it to you now because I felt so sorry I had laughed at you when you fell."

Roger carefully covered every bit of smooth ice on the walk before he took the bird house. "Why," he cried, "it's the nicest one you've made. And you might have slipped here."

"Oh," Harry laughed, "I told mother I would be very careful, and I brought you my best bird house because you're my best friend. I'm going to keep our walk sanded, too."

"I guess it's the best way," Roger said thoughtfully.—Junior World.

BETTER FRUIT

Molly had been cross all day, and others as well as herself had been unhappy because of it. She had disobeyed mother in the morning and had been rude to Mrs. Evans, the old lady next door.

In the evening there was still a frown on her face. Mother asked her to help get supper, but Molly complained of being tired and played with her dolls instead. At supper she was so unpleasant that her father decided to find a way of changing her disposition.

"If your mother does not need you to do the dishes, I should like you to go with me after supper, Molly," said her father.

"All right," Molly agreed, glad to be free of the dishes.

Outside Molly began to think that her father had forgotten her, for he went about his work as though she were nowhere about. But she soon became interested in watching him working at his grape vines. He had a pair of pruning shears and was cutting each branch back to the old vine.

"Why do you cut off so much, Daddy?" she asked. "You didn't leave hardly any of that one. Aren't you afraid you will spoil them?"

"Why no, daughter; if I did not cut them back this way there would be no nice grapes on them in the fall. I must cut all this year's growth away so the vines will not grow so long and the strength all go to the vines. Do you see?"

"But it seems so cruel," she began.

"No, it is being kind to them."

Molly was puzzled, but she watched him silently until he came to the last vine.

"How would you like to trim this one?" he asked.

"I don't know how," said Molly.

"Well, I can show you," and he handed her the shears.

"How shall I begin?" Molly asked.

"How would it be if we made a game of it? We will name the shoots as we cut them off."

Molly thought this would be great fun. "Now which shall I cut first?"

"We'll name this one Selfishness. Cut it off close to the big vine."

Molly looked up surprised and cut the shoot off quickly.

"And this is Impoliteness, and this is Rudeness, and this is Disobedience."

"Oh, Daddy, I know what you mean. This vine is like me, is that it?"

"Well, something like that; these vines we are cutting off are the bad habits, at least."

"Daddy, I'm sorry I was such a bad girl today; I will try to be better after this and cut away my bad habits," Molly said.

"That's the girl I like to have! And if you will do your best to keep your promise I will give you this vine you trimmed to help you remember," daddy said, and Molly promised again.

All summer she watched it grow, and in the fall they found it had larger and better grapes than any of the other vines.

"Look, Daddy," she called, peeping through the vines one evening, "I am going to take this bunch of grapes over to Mrs. Evans; I think she will like this one."

"Fine," said daddy. "I know of another vine that has some lovely fruit on it, too. I never saw such lovely smiles as you have been giving us lately, and I see every one is sharing the good fruit."—E. G. R., in Olive Plants.

HE WAS NO BURDEN

An American who was walking down the streets of a Chinese city was greatly interested in the children, many of whom were carrying smaller children upon their backs, and managing at the same time to play their games, says a writer in the Youth's Companion.

"It is too bad," the American, sympathetically, said to one little fellow, "that you have to carry such a heavy burden!"

"He's no burden," came the quick reply; "he's my brother."

"Well, you are chivalrous to say so!" said the man, and he gave the boy some money.

When the American reached home he said to his family: "A little Chinese boy has taught me the fullest meaning of the words, 'bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ'." He recounted his interview, and added: "If a little Chinese boy can carry and care for his brother and refuse to consider him a burden, surely we ought not to think it a burden to carry out little brothers, the weak and the needy ones, who look to us for help. Let us rejoice as we carry one, and say, by our actions, 'He's no burden; he's my brother'."—Rescue Journal.

GOD-LIKE FORGETFULNESS

God expects us to forgive others their trespasses even as He forgives us our trespasses. We sinned grievously against God, and, in His great mercy, He forgave us. Others may sin against us, and we forgive, we say, but often we fail to forget. Years after our apparent forgiveness, we remember the sting of the words spoken, or we recall the scar left by an unkind deed. We should learn to forget. God not only forgives; He forgets. "Your sins shall I remember no more forever." Forgetfulness, in this sense, tends to peace of mind, and enlarged usefulness. The mind that is filled with remembered grievances has no room for joyful experiences.

A friend, in speaking to the writer, said, "Do you remember what you said to me one day, years ago? I have never forgotten it." A passing remark, forgotten by the speaker, had lodged in the mind of the hearer for years, there to rankle and wound! How foolish! There is no time in a busy, useful life to remember past wounds. "I am the Lord that healeth thee." Forget the slights of men. After all, most people wound thoughtlessly—without serious intent. Learn to forgive, and to forget.—The Pilot.

MY JESUS GUIDES

Though oft perplexed, through life's long day,
  My Jesus guides me sure.
He is the Light, the Truth, the Way,
  With Him my heart is pure.

He leads me o'er the rocky track,
  Through dark temptation's plain,
And when my faltering footsteps fail,
  He lifts me up again.

Without Him, I would surely fall
  Beneath earth's load of woe.
Now, knowing he is by my side,
  Forward I gladly go.

—Donald E. Belsham.

HOW TO SETTLE DIFFICULTIES

Dr. Moses Hoge, of Richmond, Va., tells of two Christian men who "fell out." One heard that the other was talking against him, and he went to him and said, "Will you be kind enough to tell me my faults to my face, that I may profit by your Christian candor and try to get rid of them?"

"Yes, sir," replied the other, "I will do it."

They went aside and the former said:

"Before you commence telling what you think wrong in me, will you please bow down with me and let us pray over it, that my eyes may be opened to see my faults as you will tell them? You lead in prayer."

It was done, and when the prayer was over, the man who had sought the interview said:

"Now proceed with what you have to complain of in me."

But the other replied: "After praying over it, it looks so little that it is not worth talking about. The truth is, I feel now that in going around and talking against you I have been serving the devil myself, and have need that you pray for me, and forgive me the wrong I have done you."—Selected.

KEEP PULLING UP THE ROAD

Up the road of life, my brother,
  You'll find the very best
Of everything worth living for,
  And in the end sweet rest;
Then set your face just like a flint,
  And get beneath your load;
With courage like a hero brave
  Keep pulling up the road.

You'll find a lot of hindrances,
  A lot of stumbling-stones,
And voices of discouragement
  Will speak in thunder tones;
But keep your eyes upon the goal,
  Make this your mighty goad,
And with your faith in God above,
  Keep pulling up the road.

The best and greatest of all men,
  For centuries and ages
Have stood against the mighty foes
  To gain eternal wages;
So if you'll go the way they trod,
  You'll have on you bestowed
The victor's crown some blessed day—
  Keep pulling up the road.

There'll be some flowers on the way,
  You'll have some sweet repose,
As you will have some resting spells
  Among your bitter foes;
But know the best is coming soon,
  If you will bear your load
And be a pilgrim Heaven-bound—
  Keep pulling up the road.

Rejoice and pray as you move on,
  And reach a helping hand
To other pilgrims on the way
  Who may not understand
That they must fight if they would win
  A crown in God's abode,
And be a soldier true till death—
  Keep pulling up the road.

Ofttimes you'll feel like turning back,
  The storms will rage around;
The cloud and fog of dire despond
  About you may abound;
But know that God sits on His throne
  In Heaven's blest abode,
And He will reach His mighty hand
  To help you up the road.

—The Herald of Light.

—Next week being midsummer vacation week for the HERALD, there will be no issue of the paper. It will appear as usual, however, on Thursday, August 2.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

"SHE THAT HATH TWO COATS, LET HER GIVE TO HER WHO HATH NONE"

That isn't just as John the Baptist said it, but it fits the case. Some one by mistake put Mrs. Bates' blue jacket—or whatever you call it—in with hers, and has two coats—or whatever you call 'em—instead of one, leaving Mrs. B. without any. Since there were several such articles, I suppose the person who has this extra coat doesn't know to whom it belongs. This is to inform her, and to ask her to mail it to Mrs. Bates at Weaverville. Except for style, there isn't much need of it now. But she would like to have it when she needs it.

REV. C. W. BATES.

◆

FAMILY REUNION

The annual Williams-Dixon-Smothers reunion was held at Midway M. P. church on July 4th, with approximately 200 present.

A very interesting program was rendered by the children from the M. P. Home, consisting of songs and patriotic readings, after which the Rev. J. S. Williams, of Asheville, made a very interesting talk, referring to his first sermon preached in the old Midway church. Short talks were also made by both Rev. and Mrs. A. G. Dixon.

Election of officers resulted as follows:

A. G. Dixon, president; A. C. Dixon, vice-president; Cordelle Gunn, secretary.

A program committee was appointed consisting of Miss Cordelle Gunn, iMss Dorothy McCollum, and Mr. G. W. Apple, Jr., these to assist the president in the preparation of a program for the meeting next year.

The meeting adjourned to meet at Flat Rock M. P. church at 10:30 a.m. on July 4th, 1935.

A very bountiful picnic was enjoyed during the social hour which followed.

CORDELLE GUNN, Sec'y.

◆

MORNING WATCH SPEAKER

Having promised a number of friends that I would make announcement through the Herad of my appearance on the Morning Watch of WBT, Charlotte, I am to appear throughout next week at 8:30 a. m., and wish to have this notice appear in this week's paper.

G. H. HENDRY.
1205 Central Ave., Charlotte, N. C.

◆

MR. AND MRS. GUNN IMPROVING

Those who attended the Dixon-Smothers-Williams reunion at Midway on July 4th will be glad to know that Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gunn, of Danville, Va., are recovering nicely from a wreck they had on their way over to the gathering, and appreciate the prayers and thoughts of their kinspeople.

MABEL WILLIAMS RUSSELL.

REYNOLDS PLANNING ANNUAL GATHERING

The annual meeting of the Reynolds Reunion Association will be held Friday, July 27, at Tabernacle Methodist Protestant church, nine miles south of Greensboro on highway number 60.

During the early part of the 17th century is the first record of the Reynolds, William Reynolds being the first recorded, born in England, no date recorded. He was married to Margaret Exton, and to this family there were three sons born — John, Francis, and Henry, the youngest born in 1655. At the age of 21 emigrated to America in 1676. The time required for making the voyage was 154 days. He settled in Burlington, N. J.

The program will begin promptly at 10:30 a.m. Rev. Geo. L. Reynolds, of High Point, president of the association, will preside over the meeting. After the devotional exercise there will be a few preliminaries, followed by an inspirational address by Rev. James O. Reynolds, pastor of the Bessemer Baptist church. Mr. Reynolds recently moved his family from Urich, Missouri, after accepting a call to this state. He served as assistant pastor at the Baptist church in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and assistant pastor of the First Baptist church in Winter Haven, Fla. He also has been engaged in evangelistic work as singer.

At 12 o'clock a picnic dinner will be served on a special prepared table out in the beautiful church grove. Everyone is asked to bring a well filled picnic basket.

After the lunch hour a brief business session will be held and a number of three-minute talks from any one who wishes to respond. This is usually a very interesting part of the program. Special music will be another feature of the program. Instrumental solo by A. W. Greeson, Jr., accompanied by Miss Lily McClees; Reynolds quartet; duet by Rev. and Mrs. James O. Reynolds.

Following the afternoon program there will be a social hour and play for all. Daniel R. Neal, Greensboro recreation director, is planning with his leaders a real hour of fun composed of games and stunts, with prizes for the winners. Come prepared for laughter for this hour.

All members of the Reynolds Clan are expected to be present, also their friends.

◆

TITHING LITERATURE AT LESS THAN THE COST OF PRODUCTION

53 Pamphlets and Tabloids, Over 500 Pages, by 33 Authors, 60 Cents

For 60 cents, the Layman Company, 730 Rush street, Chicago, Illinois, offer to send to any address, postpaid, 53 large page, closely printed pamphlets and tabloids, aggregating over 500 pages by more than 30 authors of various denominations. The price is less than the cost of production. Without extra charge, we will include enough copies of pamphlet, "Winning Financial Freedom" to supply a copy for each of the church officials, also an instructive circular on a Ten Weeks' Program of Education in Tithing.

Please mention the Methodist Protestant Herald; also give your denomination.

THE LAYMAN COMPANY.
730 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Welch Memorial S. S.	$7.30
Gills Chapel, Richland	3.25
Friendship S. S., Shiloh	2.50
Pleasant Grove S. S.	5.30
Pageland S. S., Mecklenburg	1.00
Bethesda S. S., State Street	3.80
Pleasant Hill S. S., Spring Church	1.03
Fountain Place S. S.	4.50
First Church S. S., Thomasville	9.00
Haw River S. S., Glen Raven	3.30
Hickory Ridge S. S., Forsyth	4.45
Whitakers S. S.	5.00
Browers Chapel, Richland	4.20
Shiloh S. S., Liberty	2.50
Hebron, Orange	1.00
Pleasant Union S. S., Mt. Pleasant	2.00
Bethany S. S., Randolph	1.80
Mt. Zion, Randolph	1.00
Liberty S. S., Liberty	1.78
Henderson S. S.	6.20
Grace Church S. S.	5.50
Pine Bluff, Midland	1.00
Pensacola, Democrat	2.00

Clothing and Other Gifts

Mrs. J. P. Dodge, Washington, D. C., two boxes of clothing for boys.

The women of Concord church, Saxapahaw, 43 quarts of canned fruits and vegetables.

Empty Glass Jars

By the time this reaches our readers, about all the empty jars we have to spare will be in the hands of our friends to be filled and returned in the fall. If you haven't received any, please fill some for us anyway and gather them with other produce for the Harvest Home Offering this fall.

Clothing for Our Children

Mrs. Dixon has by recent mail sent the measurements of one and two girls to groups of women, asking their help in making the school clothing for this fall. This met a splendid response last year, and we are sure it will again. We greatly appreciate this willingness on the part of our women to help. Good print dresses which will not fade can be worn for a long time by a girl, or if she outgrows it then it can be handed down to another child. Requests for fall clothing for boys will be sent out later.

Vacation

We are glad our Herald force is to rest a bit next week. God bless and direct while they slack up for just a little bit.

A goodly number of our children are away for a few days. Some more of them are to go next week. And your workers will get just a little let-up while these children are away. There seems no way for us to get away from the Home during the summer.

God bless His faithful ones everywhere!

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Draper.—Our church is moving along fine. The congregations are not as large as they ought to be, but our pastor, Rev. L. S. Helms, brings us good sermons twice each Sunday. We feel sure those who stay away miss a great blessing.

The Sunday school is doing well under W. T. Howell as superintendent.

The third quarterly meeting was held July 11. Mr. O. B. Boyles and Mr. N. G. Stewart were nominated for delegate. Mr. Boyles was elected.

There wil be a home-coming day the fifth Sunday in July. A special invitation is extended to all the ex-pastors of the Draper M. P. church. We hope each one can be present.

There will be all day service and dinner on the ground. All members of the church are invited and all who once belonged.

Our pastor has been called to Winston-Salem to hold a revival. We pray that God's richest blessings may attend him and that many souls may be brought in to the Kingdem. A MEMBER.

Fairview Church, Glen Raven.—Bro. R. S. Troxler was the preacher in our revival meeting here last week. Large and attentive congregations came to hear him; and his good sermons and fine fellowship with us was deeply appreciated. There were several conversions and the church was revived in faith and love toward God. Fairview is the home church of both Mr. Troxler and Dr. Gerringer. Each is loved and honored by his home church and community.

We are having a good year at Fairview. All our claims will be paid, we believe.

J. P. PEGG, Pastor.

Mt. Carmel, Lexington.—A large audience was present for the Children's Day program, in which almost all the children of the Sunday school took part. All showed they were very much interested in their program and carried it out in a splendid way. Rev. Mr. Isley gave his regular appointment over Sunday afternoon for this occasion.

Our annual Home-Coming will be observed the first Sunday in August. We are hoping to have a large crowd present. We especially want all former pastors and all who have gone out from this church and community to come and enjoy the day with us. I think every church should observe Home-Coming once a year. No matter where we are, our hearts go back to the church of our childhood. One who was reared near this community will be the 11 o'clock speaker, this being Solicitor H. L. Koontz, of Greensboro. Dinner will be observed on the ground in picnic style, after which a number of short talks will be made by former pastors and laymen. Among these will be Mr. H. H. Koontz, of Lexington. Music will be rendered throughout the day by some outstanding chorus, choirs, and quartets. Don't forget the date and plan to meet and spend the day with us. The revival will begin at this time and run through the following week, with Rev. J. T. Bowman, of Denton Charge, as the visiting minister. He will arrive on Monday and services will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 in the evening through the following week.

Mrs. J. T. Swicegood is slowly improving after being ill for several weeks.

ZULA FRITTS, Reporter.

Gideon Grove, Flat Rock Circuit.—The revival services closed last Friday night. We were glad to have so many visitors from other churches on the charge and from other churches in the community. The Angel Quartet, of Stokesdale, sang at the closing service. Rev. J. D. Wiliams, D. D., of High Point, was the pulpit help, and brought inspiring gospel messages at each service. The people of the church are very grateful to Dr. Williams for his services, and hope that he can come again soon. Seven professed faith and five were received into the church. It is significant that these five were members of one family, the children of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Lemons. One came by letter from Mount Zion M. E. church, Mrs. Irene Perdue. We think there are others to join later. We feel and trust that great good will come from this meeting that is not yet visible.

The Sunday school meets each Sunday morning at 9:30 o'cock. The interest is good. The Ladies' Aid of the church meets on Monday night after each first Sunday. The membership is growing and we hope to do a greater work in the future.

We are sorry to report that some of our members are sick. Mrs. Laua Angel, who is in a Winston-Salem hospital, M. John Lemons, who met with an accident by a mule stepping on his foot. We hope they can soon be well again. REPORTER.

Randleman Charge.—As it seems that all the reporters on this charge have caught the spirit of the times and gone on a strike. I thought perhaps somebody might think we had been annihilaed or translated to some other clime. I will say we are still here, trying to hold the ground we already have, but we are not gaining much new territory. We seem to be satisfied to settle down and stay in one place. But time is moving and opportunity we are losing, and we find ourselves in a state of confusion. And yet we find ourselves on a par with many others we happen to know. But the thing we need above anything I know of is a revival of the divine love of God in the heart of the preacher and the church that will convict the sinner of sin; of righteousness and of judgment.

About the 10th of May Mrs. Trogdon had to go to the hospital and undergo a very serious operation. She had to stay there five weeks and two days. But the kindness and sympathy shown us through it all has proved a great blessing to us, as Paul says, through suffering. The many beautiful flowers brought to her while in the hospital, the gifts we received to help us bear the financial burden: the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Asheboro church, $2.50; Mr. and Mrs. Charley Smith, of Asheboro, $2.00; Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Hughes, of Mount Lebanon, $2.00; Worthville church a free gift of $25.00; our son, S. E. Trogdon, a gift of $25.00; Mr. John Smith, of Levil Cross, $1.00, and many other deeds of kindness and tokens of sympathy have enlarged our hearts and given us a greater conception of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. Mrs. Trogdon and all appreciated so much so many of our ministers and others who came in and prayed for her and we feel God answered prayer and gave her back to our home for a while to help carry on the work He has given us to do. We are more able to praise God today for praying people than ever before.

On the third of this month, my birthday, the church members and others stormed the parsonage and placed on the dining room table just such things as a preacher's family needs, but the spirit that prompted the gifts means more to us than the gifts. So we thank God for the folks and thank the folks for the manifestation of the spirit in their gifts, and ask that they may pray for us that we may render such service in the name of Christ that may prove ourselves worthy of such favors.

Our special meeting will begin at Mount Lebanon the fourth Sunday night in this month. Bro. Edward Suits, of High Point, will do the preaching. Pray for us that we may have a great ingathering of souls.

May God save our college from the blight of the dance hall.

With ove and best wishes to our editor and all our readers.

JOEL B. TROGDON.

Draper.—It has been quite a while since the reporter has sent a report, but we are now trying to send in one every week.

The Sunday school is doing very nicely now; there were 93 present this Sunday.

The C. E. Society is getting along fine. The members are taking part each Sunday night and each meeting is very interesting.

We are planning to have a Home-Coming Day the fifth Sunday of this month. We do not have the program fully made out, but the day is going to be filled with splendid services, with special singing at each service.

Everybody is cordialy invited to attend. Dinner will be served at the church is picnic style. A more complete program will appear later.

We are sending invitations to all the ex-pastors of the M. P. church of Draper and their families. We are hoping all of the friends and members of our church will be with us on that day, the fifth Sunday, July 29, 1934.

BEATRICE SMITH, Reporter.

Calvary.—As our reporter, Mrs. Neece, would not want to blow her own horn, I am writing a few words about Calvary's fine Children's Day program given at the morning hour yesterday. This program was gotten up by a committee consisting of Miss Elizabeth Williams and Mrs. Howard R. Neece, and the service went off splendidly. The recitations by the children were well rendered and th singing was good. No particular effort was made for a large offering as was made for the arge Easter offering, but the congregation gave $15.08 for Missions. The entire congregation was pleased with the service.

One other thing I will mention. The third quarterly conferent last week voted to ask the membership to tithe again in he month of September, the results to be divided aqually between local running expenses and the church debt. If this goes over as we expect it to, then we will be able to say that that part of the church debt due each year has been raised in full.

In the closing moments of the service yesterday morning Mr. Luther Medlin presented in a splendid way the claims of the Board of Education in relation to High Point College and pledges amounting to $60.00 were received besides some cash payments.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

* * *

Friendship, Stanly.—Since the last writing we have been having some very fine sermons delivered by our pastor, Mr. Shelton. We have had a visitor at our church recently, Mr. Lester Furr, who delivered an excellent sermon on "Guidance." The possibilities seem to be great for this young minister. We wish for him much success in his ministerial work.

The Sunday school attendance has been very good, although we do not have all the people in Sunday school we woud like to have.

The Christian Endeavor has been doing some excellent work. The programs are splendid. About a month ago they had an ice cream supper on the lawn of the church, and about ten dollars was realized.

The quarterly conference was held a few weeks ago, and delegates for the Conference were elected. In this meeting two were nominated and elected: Mr. Monroe Harkey and Mr. McKenzie Hatley. I think we are fortunate in having these two excellent delegates, and they are ones who will fill the place well.

Since the last writing one death has occurred in the community: the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hatley.

The first Sunday in August is Home-Coming Day and the special meeting will begin on that date. Most of the people are looking forward to the day. REPORTER.

* * *

Spring Church.—Since my last report Miss Sarah Hodge, at the age of 85 years, has passed on. Many peope attended the last rites, thus signifying their high esteem for her.

In our meeting at Pleasant Hill Dr. Gerringer was pulpit help. He was at his best. On young people's night a large per cent of the young people rededicated their lives to Christ. During the meeting there were four professions and five united with the church.

Pleasant Hill and Lebanon each have held Children's Day. In each case quite a number of young men and young women participated. Both services were extra good.

On the second Sunday in July Dr. Andrews preached in each church on the charge. We were delighted to have him with us.

Wm. H. NEESE.

* * *

English Street Church.—Our attendance at the Sunday school and preaching services has fallen off considerably for the past few Sundays. However, we hope that it will soon be back to normal again when our members return from their vacations and those who are sick are able to return.

Our pastor brought us an inspiring message the past Sunday morning,

We are glad to report that we have raised over half of our A. C. B. and half of our Herald subscriptions. We hope to be on the honor roll for both of these in the near future.

We will have an ice cream supper at our hut on Friday evening, August 3. Half or more of the proceeds will go to our M. P. Children's Home and the rest to the C. E. Society, who is sponsoring it.

On last Friday evening the C. E. Society gave one of its former members, Mrs. William Cranford, a surprise linen shower at her home in Trinity. Supper was served on the lawn in buffet style. A large crowd of Endeavorers was present to enjoy the evening.

We are very sorry to report that one of our most faithful members, Mrs. S. T. Styres, is very ill at her home. Her presence is greatly missed, for there is hardly a service that she does not attend. Too, she brings flowers for the church every Sunday. We all hope that she will soon recover and be back in our services with us again.

REPORTER.

* * *

First Church, High Point.—In the regular Sunday morning worship program on Sunday, July 15th, Rev. Roy I. Farmer delivered an inspiring and helpful discourse on the subject, "The Tragedy of the Misunderstood." In part, he said: "Misunderstandings cause mistakes and sins to arise. When Peter was facing his death he warned believers against false teachers. In II Peter 2:12, speaking of those who walk after the flesh, he said: 'But these . . . speak evil of the things that they understand not.' The Psalmist (119:100) said, 'I understand more than the ancients because I keep thy precepts.' A clearer knowledge and understanding of the Bible is today's necessity.

"Dismay follows the pursuit of the wrong goal. In a great football game the captain of one team seized a fumbled ball and raced nearly to the goal. But it was that of the opponents'. A touchdown was scored which defeated the captain's team. It was a play dramatic, thrilling, energetic and full of loyalty. But it led to defeat. Momentarily confused, his steps were misdirected. That is the peril of the dominion of things in a machine age. It allows little appreciation or development of the human spirit.

"We misunderstand life when we want all the hazards removed. That inevitably interferes with the natural order of things. In baseball the batter must hit in three strikes. The golfer must not play with large balls. Two chances are given the tennis player in which to make the serve. The joy of the game is to pay within limits. Remove them and the game vanishes. We tend to desire roughing it smoothly. Instead, we need soul capacity—the wings of faith to carry us above the crumbling foundations of this life.

"The experiences of this life, through Christ, are to be blended into the triumphs of the life beyond. Jeremiah failed, Lincoln failed—but only as Christ failed. To fail with Him is to be great. Drawing nearer to one another in Christian fellowship is to be nearer to God and more nearly understood."

Despite the hot weather, the women of the church are energetic and enthusiastic in the work of the Woman's Auxiiary. An interesting meeting of this organization was held in the assembly room of the church Monday afternoon, with Mrs. Ralph Vance in charge of the inspiring devotional. As a prelude, Miss Ernestine Vuncannon rendered a violin selection, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. L. F. Honeycutt.

Mrs. Vance gave an interesting talk on the subject, "Prayer," and Mrs. R. W. Riggins sweetly sang, "Nearer, Still Nearer." Brief instructive talks on "Law Enforcement and World Peace" were given by Miss Myrtle Davis and Miss Grace Koonce, respectively.

The business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. J. C. Whitesell. The reports of the circes showed splendid work accomplished during the last month and plans for the work of the coming month were outlined.

The attendance prize was won by Circle No. 2, Mrs. W. C. Ferree, chairman.

The hostess group, composed of Mesdames W. L. Kivett, S. P. Montgomery, R. H. Davis, L. H. Zimmerman, P. E. Lindley, and Misses Margaret Walton and Ida Davis, had created an attractive setting for the meeting by the use of a profusion of vari-colored summer flowers.

At a recent meeting the newly-organized Junior C. E. Society, which meets each Sunday morning under the leadership of Miss Myrtle Davis, the following officers were elected: President, Garnet Hinshaw; vice-president, Glen Payne; secretary, Mary Ann Coe; treasurer, P. M. Caudle, Jr.; pianist, Doris Koonce; and the folowing committee ciahmren: Missionary, Eloise Cecil; flower, Martha Hayworth; Sunshine, Peggy Teague; look-out, Norman Meredith; program, Margaret Lee.

The A. M. Idol Philathea class will hold their regular business session in connection with a supper meeting at Rendezvous Cabin, east of the city, Thursday evening. Hostesses will be Mrs. W. W. Cecil, Misses Carmen and Elizabeth Oakes, Mrs. Spencer Jackson, and Mrs. L. R. Peacock.

Friends throughout the state of Miss Xannie Stowe wil regret to earn that she is a patient at he Burrus Memorial Hospial where she underwent a serious operation Monday.

ASSISTANT REPORTER.

* * *

Lebanon Church, High Point.—Our pastor, Dr. S. W. Taylor, preached two splendid sermons yesterday to appreciative audiences. In the morning service his subject "Whole-hearted Service." In the evening service he used the subject, "Spiritual Ditching," founded on the scriptural text, "Make this valley full of ditches." (II Kings 3:16). This was a very vital message to Christians. How we wished that the membership 100 per cent could have been present to hear God's messenger expound the Scriptures. It is evident that we do need to open up our hearts for a ful reception of spiritual blessings.

How we do need a great spiritual revival.

The date decided upon for our special meeting is the first Sunday in September. Let us pray very earnestly for a good meeting. "The harvest truly is great but the laborers are few."

Our pastor is out of town this week helping Rev. Geo. L. Curry in a meeting at Julian.

Joash Day, which was announced for yesterday, was postponed until next Sunday, July 22nd. We cordially invite you to come, and may we fill the box full with offerings from cheerful givers.

Announcement has been made that our quarterly conference recommends the erection of the hut on the church lot immediately upon receipt of $400.00 paid pledges.

Will each one who pledged please see one of the following committee and ay all, or a part, of the pledge: Messrs. A. J. Jayne, D. S. Hedgecock, J. W. Montgomery. Under the existing business conditions we do not deem it wise to start work on the hut until at least his amoun of cash is in hand.

A very good number of chidren attended vacation Bible school last week in our church, with Miss Lois Hedgecock supervisor. Misses Doris Hedgecock and Jewell Welch taught the primary classes; Misses Lois Yokeley and Mildred Hutchens taught the junior classes and Mr. Herman Yokeley and Miss Lucille Payne taught the Intermediate. Miss Iris Welch was play director, and Mr. Aubert Smith, of Wesley Memorial church, was in charge of song services.

The C. E. Societies have elected the following officers to carry on this line of church activities:

Senior C. E.—Miss Iris Welch, president; Miss Halcie Welch, vice-president; Miss Juanita Hayworth, secretary-treasurer; Miss Anna Briggs, chairman social committee; Mr. John Wimberly, chairman finance committee; Miss Blanche Leonard, chairman lookout and information committee.' Mr. Leonard also has charge of the scrap-book.

The Sunshine committee is composed of Misses Nona Murphy, Adeline Owens, and Annie Bowles; Miss Lake Montgomery, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Doris Gallimore, music chairman; Mr. C. A. King, quiet hour; Mr. Hermon, superintendent of the Intermediate Department; Miss Jewel Welch, superintendent of the Junior Department; Willard Hill, president Junior C. E.; Betty Welch, vice-president; Marie Setleif, secretary; Irene Harris, prayer meeting chairman; Mary Crouch, missionary chairman; Mary Blackburn, Sunshine chairman; Eleanor Welch, organist; Shirley Welborn, chorister.

Miss Loula Thacker, who has been sick for several weeks, is improving. She is now visiting her sister, Mrs. E. F. Williams, on Route 1.

* * *

Shiloh.—We had Sunday school Sunday morning, July 15, at 9:45 o'clock, and our attendance was very good considering the hot weather. There were 251 present. After Sunday school Mr. Ridge brought us a very interesting message. The communion service was observed.

Death has again claimed another one of our members. Mr.Obie Waitman died on Sunday, July 8. For him it was a journey he had long anticipated and about which he loved to speak. For so many, many years this 85-year-old father in Israel had been walking with God. Never a public speaker nor would he have been called a leader strictly speaking, yet his life was a living epistle, known and read of all who knew him; and all who read were blest. He was an ardent believer in old-time, Holy Ghost religion, and be enjoyed nothing more than to be in a good revival. Nor did he fail to shout the praises of God when his heart was warmed by spiritual fires. He attended revival services at his own church and all others within his reach, going as far as Bethesda, using a horse and wagon. We shall miss him from his old accustomed place. His pastor and Sunday school teacher will sorely miss his sympathetic response and his very tears which flowed when his soul was deeply stirred. He never offered harsh criticism, nor did he use flattery, but was never slow to speak words of appreciation for any blessing received. The high esteem in which he was held was shown by the large crowd attending the funeral on Tuesday at 11 a. m., and the many beautiful floral offerings.

Shiloh has given up one of her most influential and lovabe members, the Brother class one of its choicest and most inspiring supporters, and all Christians of this community a true brother in Christ Jesus. Even though we feel our loss, we would not grieve, but rather rejoice that we have been permitted to know for so long the fellowship of such a gentle and Christian man.

Many times he had said: "Even if I'm lost in the end, I have never doubted my conversion." His was a rich experience which grew sweeter as the years went by, and somewhere yonder in the city four-square, Uncle Obie is enjoying in a far greater measure the peace of those who know and love the blessed Christ.

MRS. WILEY SHOAF,
MRS. RAYMOND FRITTS.

* * *

Friendship, Fallston Charge.—The special meeting at the church began Sunday. Our pastor is doing the preaching, holding two services each day. We are praying for a good revival.

The Woman's Auxiliary met with Mrs. Grier Martin Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The program, the subject of which was "Christian Citizenship," was led by Miss Velma Wright. Papers were read by Mesdames W. A. Grant and D. L. Martin, while "Sweet Peace, the Gift of God's Love," was sung as a duet by Misses Nathalie and Cerelda Lackey. After the program delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mr. Colon Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Wright, was able to return to his home Monday from the Shelby Hospital where he had undergone an operation for appendicitis.

Mesdames F. B. Toney and Clem Martin entertained the members of the Sunshine Band with an ice cream social on last Saturday afternoon.

Miss Annabel Lippard spent several days here visiting her sister, Mrs. H. F. Fogleman, and Mr. Fogleman.

Mr. Dennis Wright, of Lincolnton, is spending the week here visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Moton Glenn and children, of Lincolnton, are spending the week here with relatives. REPORTER.

* * *

Friendship Church, Mt. Hermon Charge.—On the first Sunday in August our revival services will begin. Rev. J. R. Anderson, pastor of Albemarle church, will be the pulpit help. Mr. Anderson is a splendid man and preacher. We are looking forward to having him with us. We trust that he will enjoy the time with us.

We invite all who see fit to come and worship with us during our meeting and request your prayers that our efforts may be blessed. Without prayer all will fail.

We are glad indeed to have Mr. and Mrs. Knox Lamar at home in our community. Both are efficient leaders and are loved by all who know them. We wish for this promising young couple a long and happy voyage as they sail their ship on the sea of matrimony.

Saturday, July 14, the Woman's Auxiliary met with Mrs. H. A. Garrett. Mrs. D. I. Offman had charge of the devotional exercises. The attendance was good. The Auxiliary received two new members, Mrs. Knox Lamar and Mrs. H. T. Patterson. The Auxiliary welcomes these new members.

After the meeting adjourned Mrs. Garrett served deicious refreshments.

The August meeting of the Auxiliary will be held at the home of Mrs. C. M. Mann in Burlington. REPORTER.

* * *

First Church, Lexington.—Attendance was good at al services Sunday. At the 11 o'clock hour a special service was held for the older people. Rev. T. F. McCulloch, of Greensbor, delivered a very appropriate sermon for the occasion. His subject was "God's Attitude Toward Old People;" his text, Psalms 71:18, "Now also when I am old and grey-headed, O God, forsake me not; until I have served thy strength unto this generation, and thy power to everyone that is to come.' The pastor, Rev. Isley, brought the evening message entitled, "The High Cost of Freedom."

On Sunday evening, Juy 8, the Children's Day program was presented. This program consisted of short speeches and the pageant, "The World Children."

Mr. Isley is assisting Rev. C. L. Grant in a revival meeting at Spring Hill church this week. The choir will also go to this church on Friday evening.

Circle No. 1 of the Ladies' Auxiliary will meet Thursday evening with Mrs. Willie Craven.

Miss Beulah McCulloch is visiting Miss Dot Snider at Churchland this week.

Mrs. Mary Jane Lookabill continues ill at the home of her son. We hope she will soon be able to fill her place at church.

Our deepest sympathy goes out to Mrs. C. L. Hedrick in the death of her father, Mr. Obediah Waitman.

MARGARET LEA SWINK, Reporter.

* * *

Philadelphia, Greensville Circuit.—Our revival meeting will begin the first Sunday in August. We feel very fortunate indeed in having Rev. S. W. Taylor, one of God's greatest servants, to be the assisting minister in this meeting. We are praying that many and great things will be done in the Lord's name.

Our pastor, Rev. Q. L. Joyner, filled his regular appointment Sunday night. He preached in a very impressive manner a very interesting sermon, using as his text, "Jesus came to seek and to save that which was lost," bringing out many helpful guides for His people.

The Woman's Auxiliary is off with a good start with Mrs. Jiyner as president. She is very active in church work, and we believe that the Auxiliary will do a fine work with her as leader. They have just purchased a gas lamp for the church and have about $22 in the treasury. We regret that Mrs. Joyner is sick at this time and hope that she will soon be well and with us again.

It was a pleasure to have a visit from our president, Dr. Andrews, on the first Sunday morning. He gave us a wonderful message, using as his subject "Prayer" or "Is There Any Benefit in Prayer?" All who were present were greatly pleased and benefited by his visit. At the close of the service the Lord's Supper was observed.

Arrangements are being made to have our Children's Day service the fifth Sunday night in this month (unless another date is published). Everyone is invited to this service.

We were very sorry indeed to give up one of our most faithful and loyal church members, Rev. M. P. Chambliss. He joined this church at an early age and lived a faithful Christian life to the end, always doing a great work for his Master. We feel that he has been a great benefit to our church and the community in which he lived. The church and many loved ones will miss him greatly. To the bereaved and to the field of work which he was serving, we extend our deepest sympathy. May God comfort them all.

MRS. R. A. SHELL, Reporter.

Shady Grove Church, Connelly Springs Charge.—Our church work is going on very nicely. Attendance at Sunday school and preaching is very good.

The Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. G. M. Ingle Friday, July 6, with 14 members present. One new member was added to the roll. The Scripture lesson, which was five chapters from Genesis, was discussed by our pastor, Rev. J. L. Love. This was very interesting. The society decided to have a fish fry Saturday, July 28, at the crossroads just below the church. There will be sandwiches and cake also.

We have been making very good at our suppere until the last one. It rained us out, and we didn't make but about $2.00 profit. The society will meet with Mrs. H. D. Garmon next month.

We are very glad to say that Mrs. J. L. Love, who has been sick for some time, is now able to be back at church with us.

Mr. Lambrick, from Valdese, is teaching a singing school at our church. He has taught six nights and the choir seems to be improving.

One and all, pray for our revival meeting which will begin very soon.

RUTH AIKEN, Reporter.

Grace Church, Greensboro.—Our pastor-emeritus, Dr. S. K. Spahr, had a birthday last week on the 10th of July. He celebrated his 88th anniversary up in Bradford, Pennsylvania, away from his church family. So we send him our greetings and best wishes for many more wonderful years like those which he has spent with us in the past. May God bless him and be with him through all these years to come!

We had another event in our church of great importance. Our preacher, Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, got married and has brought home a fellow-worker for us. The Ladies' Auxiliary gave them a tea last Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Sharpe on West Market street. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Millikan greeted the guests. In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Teague, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Jabus Braxton, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Whitehead—two other newly-married couples of our neighboring churches—and Miss Juanita Dillon, whose wedding will take place this week. Mrs. T. A. Hunter served punch in the dining-room, assisted by a group of girls from Mr. Carroll's Sunday school class. Mrs. W. A. Hornaday and Mrs. E. E. York showed the way out, and Mrs. Coletrane and Mrs. Dillon said the good-byes.

M. WHITE, Reporter.

Corinth, Littleton Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, filled his appointment here the first Sunday morning. He brought us a good message. He didn't fill his appointment the third Sunday night due to the illness of his wife.

Our Sunday school is moving along nicely. The group meeting was held at this church Thursday, July 12th. We were very glad to have Dr. Andrews, Bro. Neese and Mrs. Cutchins with us on that day, and hope they can come back some other time.

We are very sorry to report that our pastor's wife, Mrs. Vickery, is in Roanoke Rapids Hospital. She underwent an operation Monday morning and reports from the hospital last night were that she was doing as well as could be expected. Please pray for her that she may be restored to health.

MRS. B. F. MORRIS, Reporter.

GROUP MEETING AND DISTRICT RALLY AT BALTIMORE CHURCH

Dr. R. M. Andrews, the president of the conference, has announced a group meeting to be held at Baltimore church, West Forsyth charge, on Saturday, July 28. Brother D. R. Williams, the pastor, is announcing the meeting for 2:30 in the afternoon. I am urging that just as many folks from the other churches and charges as can to attend this meeting. Rev. C. E. Ridge and Dr. T. M. Johnson, in addition to the president, will be present and speak. It isn't the purpose of these group meetings to raise money, or to talk much about it, but to discuss the problems of the churches and to plan ways of doing a more effective service through the church.

On Sunday, July 29, we will hold a rally for all the churches in the district. Churches comprising the district are Forsyth, West Forsyth, Pinnacle, Winston, First, and Winston, South.

At the morning hour Dr. R. M. Andrews will preach the sermon. This will be followed by dinner on the grounds. In the afternoon young people of the various churches will present a "Drama of Our Church Boards and Institutions." We should like to see delegations present from every church in the district. Come and fellowship together; enjoy a feast of good things for body and soul. We can help ourselves by helping each other.

C. W. BATES, Chairman.

HOME-COMING AT ZOAR

Home-coming at Zoar church, located some 15 miles below Charlotte, one mile off York higway. All former pastors and members are hereby invited to come. All day, July 29.

COMMITTEE.

—Just as the Herald is going to press, word comes that Rev. L. W. Gerringer, D.D., who has been seriously ill in Duke hospital, is somewhat improved.

FIRST DISTRICT RALLY

On the fifth Sunday in July a rally will be held in Whitaker's Chapel church, five miles east of Enfield. Opening exercises will begin at 10:30. High Point College hour will begin at 11 o'clock. Each M. P. student from the district attending High Point College is expected to have a definite part on the program. Miss Virginia Massey, a senior, is heading this feature of the day's program.

At 2 p.m. Mr. J. W. Crew, Jr., a prominent young lawyer and member of Spring church, will deliver an address on "The Challenge of Youth in the Evangelization of the World."

Other minor items will fill up the program.

Everybody is invited to attend, so come early and bring lunch. If you live west of the A. C. L. railroad, go direct to Enfield, and then go east to the place of rally.

WM. H. NEESE, Chairman.

REITZEL REUNION

The sixteenth annual reunion of the Reitzel family will be held at Richland Lutheran church, about 4 miles east of Liberty, N. C., on Thursday, August 2, 1934.

All relatives and friends of the family are cordially invited to attend, and all are asked to bring well-filled baskets of dinner, in order that every one may have plenty.

It is hoped to have an interesting program, which will begin around 10:30 a.m. Come.

A. RAY REITZEL, President,
Graham, N. C.
V. Y. REITZEL, Secretary,
Burlington, N. C.

DISTRICT RALLY

Please take notice, members of the following charges: Guilford: High Point, English Street, First church, Lebanon, and Welch Memorial: North Davidson, Pleasant Grove, and Thomasville, Community, First and West End.

Rally will be held July 29, 2:30 p.m., at Canaan church, North Davidson charge, Rev. C. L. Grant, pastor. Dr. A. G. Dixon and Mrs. W. C. Hammer will be the speakers.

Please attend these meeetings if possible.

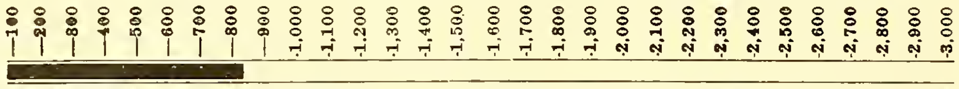
H. FREO SURRATT, Dist. Chmn.

—Dr. J. E. Pritchard returned last night from Creswell, where he had been, in company with Dr. Andrews, Mrs. H. C. Nicholson of Mebane, and Rev. B. M. Williams of Orange charge, in a series of group meetings. The churches visited were Rehoboth, Creswell, and Mt. Hermon.

—Dr. T. M. Johnson reports the opening, on Monday morning of this week, of a Vacation Bible School at State Street church. The school is to last two weeks.

—After two years of work Dr. Luigi Pancera of Sudbury, Ontario, has developed a fluid which he claims will stop the flow of blood from a wound, whether it be large or small. He demonstrated the effects of his discovery to other doctors by severing the jugular vein of a rabbit and then stopping the flow of blood by application of the fluid.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
REIDSVILLE	90
LINCOLNTON	82
SHILOH	71

Since I have no charge to rave over this week 1 have decided to say a few words about two very old letters that my good friend, T. T. Stafford, of our First Church, Burlington, sent me some time ago. One is from Dr. E. J. Drinkhouse, Editor of the Methodist Protestant of Baltimore, Maryland, and was written with pen and ink to William Stafford, father of T. T. Safford, and is dated January 23, 1875. 1n this letter to Mr. Stafford, evidently in reply to one from Mr. Stafford, Dr. Drinkhouse deplores the lack of interest in the church paper on the part of the people of the North Carolina Conference, and goes on to say what could be done with the paper if all the people, or even a large number would take it.

The other letter is addressed to Mr. Wm. Stafford, Bellmonte, N. C., (this is the Bellmonte near Graham) and was written by Rev. J. L. Michaux, of Greensboro. Its date is April 20, 1893. In this letter the Rev. Mr. Michaux, who some year before had been the Editor of the Central Protestant, which paper had suspended publication, was setting forth to Mr. Stafford in an eight-page letter written with pen and ink, the plans for the publication of a paper called the Little Harbinger. I understond the plans did not materialize and the paper was not published. But here is the thing of importance: The Rev. Mr. Michaux said, "We have in North Carolina 15,500 members of the Methodist Protestant Church. About 500 copies of the Methodist Protestant are reaching our people. Assuming that in each home where this paper comes there are four people who read it, that makes only 2,000 of our people who are in touch with our church life. Subtracting from 15,500 we have 13,500 people who are getting absolutely no information about the work of the church."

Well, well, does not this sound modern? Let me write 41 years later and say that we have about 30,000 members in North Carolina. About 1,500 copies of the Herald are sent out each week. Multiplying this number by four we would say that about 6,000 of our people are keeping up in a way with what the church is doing, while 24,000 are not. How do these 24,000 get along at all? I simply would not know how to get along without the Herald.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	11¾	$....
Albemarle	17	9½	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	26½	....
Asheville	14	7¼	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	11.10	....
Bessemer City	13	6.83	....
Burlington, First	71	16½	*20.00
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	14	....
Charlotte	21	12.2	1.50
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.32	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	13½	7.50
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5½	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	1½	....
Denton	48	11¾	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	8	*5.00
Fallston	85	24½	....
Flat Rock	63	14	....
Friendship	21	2.52	....
Forsyth	45	9½	2.50
Gibsonville	20	4	....
Glen Raven	47	7¼	....
GRAHAM	27	29.50	....
Granville	59	17½	16.55
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY	29	33½	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	10	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	2½	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	10.6	*7.50
Greensville	59	7	....
Guilford	37	9½	....
Halifax	53	8	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	13.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	24	8.00
High Point, Lebanon	34	7½	....
High Point, Welch	22	4½	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	16.30	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2¾	....
Lexington, First	45	11¼	*10.00
Lexington, State Street	40	7.36	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	18	15.35	....
Littleton	50	7¾	....
Mebane	28	6	....
Mecklenburg	40	1½	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	3½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	4	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	20	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	26¾	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7½	....
Randolph	74	10½	....
Reidsville	10	9	....
Richland	43	3½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	45½	*20.00
Siler City	20	10¾	*7.50
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	13	....
Tabernacle	39	21¼	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	3½	....
West Forsyth	62	8	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	4½	....
Winston, First	26	9¾	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	5	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

1ndividual churches on circuits raising their quota in full are: SHILOH on Shiloh Charge, EFLAND on Orange Charge.

---

* Subsidy paid in full,

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

SEVENTH DISTRICT NOTICE

The District Rally previously announced for the fifth Sunday in July is postponed until further announcement. This is made necessary because so many of the pastors will be holding revivals in the district at that time.

R. C. STUBBINS,
District Chairman.

July 16, 1934.

ROSS CLAN MEETING

The annual meeting of the Ross Clau will be held this year at Pleasant Garden M. E. Church, South, on Thursday, August 9. Dr. J. E. Pritchard, the pastor of Calvary Methodist Protestant church, will deliver the principal address of the morning. The hour of beginning is 10:30 o'clock.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

L. F. Ferree	$10.00
Mrs. B. W. Little	6.00
Rev. R. C. Stubbins	4.00
Rev. L. E. Mabry	3.20
Rev. J. D. Cranford	2.20
Mrs. E. H. Baity	2.00
Rev. E. G. Cowan	2.00
Mrs. W. G. Starr	1.00
Rev. J. E. Pritchard	1.00

Herald Subsidy

This week we are placed under obligatiou to the following friends:

High Point First	$8.00
Concord, L. H. Sides	7.50
Charlotte, Mrs. Little	.60

—All the gold mined since Columbus discovered America would make only a 40-foot cube.

Methodist Protestant Herald.
ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.
VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., AUGUST 2, 1934 NUMBER 36

Rev H L Isley 2aug4 R6

Armed Again

A gentle dentist came one day
And took my every tooth away:
With hammer and chisel he moved about
Until he yanked the last tooth out.

He'd led me back to pristine days,
Were words he spoke in his own praise.
A blubbering babe he'd made of me,
A thing not fit for men to see.

A new reformer came to town
Whose teaching was of great renown.
He armed me for another fight
And so I come as ancient knight.

Ego Maximation

By Luther K. Long

I trust that no prospective reader will turn from this article because of its title.

Other words might be used that would yield their meaning a trifle more readily. I shall use them later; but I am desirous that ego maximation shall become a familiar part of every reader's vocabulary.

There are five instincts that have large place and influence in human life and experience:

1. There is the instinct for living—for perpetuating one's individual existence. This is called the instinct for self-preservation. Without this the individual would soon cease to be. Because of this instinct we naturally dodge or run if some one starts to strike us—or we brace ourselves to resist the onset. For the same reason we build houses, provide suitable clothing, lay up food, and join with others in defensive warfare.

2. There is the instinct for perpetuating one's kind, for the preservation of the human race. This is called the instinct for reproduction. Because of this instinct the good mother undergoes the pains of childbirth, and gives her best years in service for her children. Because of this the good father restrains his roving disposition, and labors to provide a suitable home and provisions for his growing family. Like all other instincts this one needs to be regulated by the increasing intelligence of men and women. In this interest marriage customs have developed, the relations of the sexes are somewhat regulated, and the number and spacing of children in the home have become recognized subjects of thought.

3. There is the social instinct, the desire to attach one's self to one's kind, to associate with them and to become like them. This is called the herd instinct. This requires a considerable measure of submission, and the standardization of thought and conduct. By this means varied groups become concentrated and strong. This enables a particular group to do effective pioneering. In the forest, on the prairie, or in a valley among the mountains such a group may become strong and largely self-sufficient. Overdevelopment of this instinct may result in fixity of thought and life, narrow clannishness may result, and the members of such a group or clan or herd—being shut off from friendly, competitive intercourse with other groups—may fail to make the wide progress otherwise possible.

4. There is the instinct for owning things, for getting possession of goods, for acquiring property. This is called the acquisitive instinct. This instinct begins manifesting itself early in life. Among the first words the child uses with intelligent application are "me," "my," "mine," and it requires plenty of diplomacy to separate the youngster from his possessions—unless one is willing to resort to force. The small boy's pockets, filled with marbles, tops, strings, knives, apples and nuts, testify to his acquisitiveness. The little girl's bureau drawer, filled with more systematically arranged handkerchiefs, ribbons, belts, rings, compacts, vanity cases, etc., testify that her instincts also are at work.

This noble instinct needs intelligent supervision by the individual himself and by society. Big business men are only boys in their ambition to acquire land, buildings, railroads, ships, financial institutions—for which they have no large-minded use. Many society women—with their elaborate house parties, garden parties, week-end gatherings, with elaborate decorations and service—are only little girls playing tea-party with their dolls and make-believe dressings-up and servings. But some men and women are really grown-up. They do not give themselves to the acquisition of things, they use things to serve people and institutions in a high and worthy way.

5. Then there is one more instinct that should have our attention—the instinct to increase one's self-esteem, to develop self-appreciation, to acquire a sense of personal worth and power. This includes winning the esteem, approval, and respect of one's family and social group. This instinct is called ego maximation. It may greatly enrich one's life and character. By discriminatingly following this instinct one develops self-respect, becomes a real joy to one's self, and increases one's value to other people.

Ego maximation is a technical expression, but it is not difficult to understand. Ego means the I, the self. Maximation means enlargement, going to the maximum. So, ego maximation is the enlarging of the self, the personality, to the maximum; the filling out of one's ambitions and ideals of character and life.

There was Jessie S. I first met her when she was in high school. She seemed attractive and interesting as we talked together in the library. I thought she would be a help among the young people of her age in the church. But I was disappointed. She was exceedingly shy and gave no signs of leadership. Here are some of the reasons: Her father, a copper miner, liked his drink, was careless of his appearance, and had to be apologized for by the rest of the family. Her mother was an excellent, hard-working woman, devoted to her home and church—also very shy. So Jessie studied hard and associated mostly with herself. After high school and normal school she taught. A young school principal, also shy—the son of a minister—became interested, and I married them. They went away and I did not see them for many years.

Three years ago I had dinner with them at their home in Detroit, Michigan. They looked fine, were at perfect ease, and were evidently prosperous. They had done much study, taught in various schools and colleges, associated with fine people, kept up their end in social and religious service, and he held a responsible administrative position in the city schools. In various ways and by many means they had been delivered from the power of hurtful inhibitions, and had followed the instinct of ego maximation with excellent results.

I wish that all of us might realize that self-respect is even more valuable than humility; that self-approval is a necessary basis for confidence in the presence of others; that consciousness of power is an essential and legitimate reason for seeking responsibility; and that the best service we can render young people is to help them wisely to follow their instinct for ego maximation.

The idea of the old hymn, "Oh, to be nothing, nothing," has done untold harm. Let us substitute for it this verse:

"Just as I am, young, strong, and free,
To be the best that I can be
For truth, and righteousness, and Thee,
Lord of my life, I come, I come."

A TEST OF CHRISTIANITY

An aged Christian of Tsining was plodding home from market. Suddenly in the dust of the road before him he saw a leather money wallet. His picked it up and examined its contents—nearly two dollars, Chinese money, equivalent to the earnings of a workman for five days. In the distance he made out two men with a barrow, evidently returning from the market town. They had passed over this road, but were now in a road in another direction from his home. He started to run after them, and when within hailing distance called them to stop, but their only answer was to quicken their pace. When he finally overtook them he asked if they had lost anything. They said, "No." "Search your barrow," he advised. They did so and at first found nothing missing, then noticed that a hole was worn in one corner of the basket. Investigating, they declared that their money bag was gone. The description tallied exactly, so he handed over his find. Surprised, they exclaimed, "You must belong to some religion." He answered, "I do, I am a Christian." "It must certainly be a good religion," they said; "we would like to belong."—Southern Churchman.

HOW THE PEOPLE OF ONE CITY BECAME MORE NOBLE THAN THE PEOPLE OF ANOTHER CITY

Berea and Thessalonica, cities of Macedonia, were cities in which Paul preached. Paul tells us that Berea was more noble, and then gives the reason for its being so. These reasons are given in the text found in Acts 17:11, which reads as follows:

"These were nobler than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether these things were so."

In the text we are told that Berea received the word, and how they received it. We are also told that they searched the scriptures, and how often they searched them, and why they searched them, and last, but not least, the result of their receiving and searching the scriptures.

The manner in which we receive things has much to do with our lives. The purpose we have in mind for studying the scriptures also has much to do with us. We are told that Berea received the word with all readiness of mind. They were fully ready for it. Evidently they were hungering and thirsting for it. Such was, at least, the cause of their receiving the word in the manner they did. All teachers and preachers know how much more easily it is to teach and preach when they find classes and congregations with a readiness of mind to receive it.

They did not stop at receiving the word, but in addition to that, searched the scriptures daily, whether these things were so. It is, indeed, good to know the truth about many things, but there is no truth so profitable as that which makes us wise unto salvation.

The result of Berea receiving and searching the scriptures was that it made them noble, more noble, than another city of their own nation. It seems to me that every home ought to profit, very much, by this lesson on how Berea became more noble.

Can we not safely reason from the above lesson that the same kind of receiving and searching of the scriptures that made Berea more noble, would easily make one man, woman, boy or girl, or even a whole family, more noble. Surely we can safely say that whole churches can be made more noble in the same way.

We are glad that we are not yet limited, but safely go on, teaching and preaching, that the same kind of receiving of the scriptures that made Berea more noble, will also make whole counties, states and nations more noble.

So we have abundant reason to thank God and take courage, remembering that we have the blessed assurance that the earth shall some day be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord as the waters that cover the sea.

E. G. Lowdermilk.

—Rev. L. W. Gerringer now sleeps the sleep of death. How hard to realize! He died Tuesday morning after a few weeks of illness. Spinal meningitis the assigned cause. Funeral was held yesterday in Kernersville church. What a vacancy his death causes. His wife and children will have many sympathizers.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Churches Which Pay A. C. Expenses During August

Why Not, West Forsyth, Rockingham, Roberta, Richland, Pleasant Grove charges.

All churches complete payment of Superannuate assessment in August.

Wanting to Die

Trying to nourish a person back to health who wants to die is a most difficult task. All the coaxing you can do only confirms the desire to die; all the palatable foods set before them just makes them want to fast longer.

Once in a while you find a church whose members have decided to commit ecclesiastical suicide. Nothing appeals to their imagination more than to see their church with crepe on the doors and to hear the rats gnawing the organ to pieces. Like a spoiled boy who, because his mother refused him an extra cookie, sulks and prays to die so as to make his mother sorry for her refusal. These decaying churches — invalids with self-imposed infirmities, are like a cancer in the body of the denomination. They have a program for destruction and will not be interested in the service of the Lord. It never disturbs their leaders to know there is sorrow all about them which they might heal; that there is lots of suffering they could relieve. What they want to do is to write a funeral oration for their dying church; and the funeral must be held whether the church dies or not—their prophecy must come to pass if they have to dive to the devil to fulfill it.

I have known a church to grow from three members to seven hundred in less than a quarter of a century. I knew a church which paid all its claims to the conference in full, paid pastor in full, then ceased to exist; died. That is, it killed itself. I know churches with enough members to accomplish great results, in communities where there is plenty of room for them to grow, which are determined to die. They talk about death and about the dead. They are more interested in cemeteries than in seminaries; more concerned about tombstones than they are about milestones. It is a great sin to destroy a church and it is both a sin and a shame for a few disgruntled people to accomplish this deed just to spite others.

Creswell Charge, Rev. P. E. Bingham, Pastor

In company with Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, Revs. B. M. Williams and J. E. Pritchard, three churches on this charge were visited; this is a five-point work. We held a meeting at Rehoboth, Creswell, and Mt. Hermon churches. The attendance at Rehoboth was eleven, not including the speakers; at Creswell was seven, exclusive of the speakers; at Mt. Hermon possibly 150 were present.

Mrs. Nicholson presented the women's work of the conference, Brother Williams spoke on stewardship, Brother Pritchard spoke on a bigger and better M. P. church, and I spoke on the meaning of church membership. The object was to reach the membership of the churches and enlist them more fully in the program of the denomination.

We greatly appreciate the assistance of these good workers, and enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Davenport at Rehoboth; Mrs. Davenport was well known to the leaders of our denomination a few years ago as Miss Sallie Cheery. These good people took in our entire party and entertained us most splendidly. Dinner was served on the church grounds.

At Creswell Mrs. Nicholson was entertained by the pastor and his wife; the rest of us were comfortably housed in the hospitable home of Mrs. Alfred Alexander. Dinner at Mt. Hermon was served on the grounds.

Third District Meeting Saturday

This meeting was held at Hebron church, Orange charge, Rev. B. M. Williams, chairman. Pastors Ballard of Mebane and Loy of Saxapahaw were present. There were six churches represented. The writer could not attend the afternoon program, but the meeting was going fine; a splendid dinner was served on the grounds, and Brother T. J. Whitehead, who was to speak in the afternoon, was on the grounds when we left them. We enjoyed this visit even though it was brief.

Siler City Charge, Rev. H. L. Isley, Pastor

I visited Piney Grove church in the morning, preaching to a very good congregation. The afternoon was given over to a Children's Day program. It was a good program, the children did well. Much good to both the participants and the cause represented is done by these programs. It should greatly benefit the church to hold such a service.

Piney Grove church has been repainted, inside and outside; beifry built, and bell put in; sections curtained off in the auditorium for Sunday school classes; the church ground beautified. One could not but feel that there was a good interest in the membership for this church. We enjoyed our visit to them.

Siler City church was visited at night. We enjoyed a visit in the hospitable home of Brother and Sister Stone in the afternoon and took supper with them; spent the night with Brother and Sister L. L. Wrenn. It was my good fortune to meet Brother Wrenn when he was a students at T. S. in the long ago and our friendship formed there has matured thrtough the years. He and his good wife know how to make one feel absolutely at home with them; it is always a pleasure to be their guests.

Brother Isley is serving his second year as pastor of this work and he is in great favor with the people. The work has not grown because of certain conditions which are purely local, not because we do not have most loyal members at the three churches, Hope, Siler City, and Piney Grove. We are not discouraged over them at all. Their faithfulness will surely be more fully rewarded in the years to come.

Eleventh District Meeting at Baltimore Church, West Forsyth Charge

Rev. C. W. Bates is chairman of this district, but he had committed the meeting into the hands of Bro. R. A. Hunter, he, Bates, being on vacation. On Saturday we held a group meeting; there were present possibly twenty-five. Brother T. M. Johnson spoke on stewardship, and I occupied the rest of the time. Brother C. E. Ridge was expected, but was called away to conduct a funeral. Only a part of the afternoon was given to this meeting. I was well cared for by Brother and Sister Doub for the night, and the district meeting proper began at 11 a.m. with the president as the speaker. I had to leave immediately. Baltimore is one of the best churches on this work. It has in its membership some of the best people in Yadkin county, as well as those who are best able to care for the work of the church. There is a movement on foot to erect Sunday school rooms which we hope will mature in the near future.

Ninth District Meeting, Rev. T. M. Johnson, Chairman

This meeting was held at Spencer church; there were altogether six churches represented, Mt. Carmel, Shiloh, State Street, Greer's Chapel, China Grove, and Spencer. I did not arrive until the latter part of the afternoon program, but found the people having a splendid meeting. Brother Ridge had carried his C. E. Society from Shiloh over to give a demonstration meeting for the morning program. We hope that this meeting added courage to the hearts of our faithful band of workers at Spencer church.

Plan of Appointments

August 5—On Weaverville charge morning and afternoon.
August 5—First church, Asheville, at night.
August 6-11—Democrat and Pensacola charges.

R. M. Andrews.

WORTHY HONOR ROLL—REPORT ONE

In a little more than a week since the appeal went out, to remove the burden at our Children's Home, twenty-two pastors have written to me or seen me, promising their utmost co-operation in the plan. (See page 4 in Herald of July 19.)

There is considerable enthusiasm evidenced already. One pastor reported the work under way two days after the appeal appeared in the Herald. He is a real WIDE-AWAKE. He and his two wide-awake persons hope to have their church first on the list of those completing the Honor Roll 100%. I hope there are many of this kind who have not yet reported to me.

Of course you want to know the names of those pastors who are getting on the job right away. Here they are: Brothers Ballard, Bell, Bethea, E. A. Bingham, Braxton, Broom, Brown, Cook, Cowan, Hill, Huss, Hutton, Morgan, Neese, Paschall, C. E. Ridge, Stubbins, Suits, Surratt, Taylor, B. M. Williams and T. A. Williams.

There are many pastors away from home holding meetings, who have not written me their response. Someone who reads this please tell them about the plan, in case they have not read the Herald.

May all the work of our church prosper. Please pray for the success of this particular undertaking.

Mrs. R. M. Andrews.

July 31.

◆

"Never be unemployed, never be triflingly employed, never while away time."—John Wesley.

THE VIAL OF PERFUME

There they lay, ready to be packed, some carefully selected gifts for the missionary far away on the other side of the world. The lady who was sending them reached across her desk, and suddenly the room was filled with a strangely sweet perfume. It was as if a gentle breeze had stolen in at the window across a garden of roses—and yet it was winter, and outside the ground was covered with snow. In stretching out her hand the lady had overturned a vial of delicious perfume, a little of which poured out upon the gifts that were to be sent on their mission.

In far-away China a tired little missionary opened a package, and a strange, sweet fragrance greeted her like a breath from a rose garden at home. It brought her an added joy that the gifts alone could not have given.

We are always giving; sometimes because we delight in giving, sometimes because we see the need and feel a sense of duty; but all the time, close beside our gifts, stands an unopned vial, and when we pour out some of its contents upon our gifts it increases the value tenfold.

Oh, the vials of love and cheerfulness unopened in our hearts! Let us keep them sealed no longer, but pour out their contents upon our gifts, whether they are for loved ones or the stranger. How wonderfully the presence of a loving spirit enriches even the noblest of gifts!—Youth's Companion.

WHEN THE BABY CRIED

For many years a certain man lived a life of pronounced infidelity in the city of Edinburgh. He always did his best to hinder the efforts put forth by Christian workers for the salvation of souls. One day Mr. George Muller came to the city, and the auditorium was packed to overflowing. This infidel, longing to hear the man of God, by sheer physical strength and inspired by curiosity, pressed his way into the hall. Just when the preacher began to deliver his message a baby began to cry very loudly. The mother attempted to leave the building but the crowd was too great. Mr. Muller at once came to the troubled mother's help by saying, "Will that dear mother sit down, and we will ask Jesus to put the baby to sleep." The mother quietly took her seat, and Mr. Muller prayed, "Blessed Lord Jesus Christ, be pleased to put this baby to sleep." The infidel was startled beyond measure and said to himself, "If that man has a God like that, it is time for me to seek Him." He became a true Christian, and God made great use of him in winning souls to Christ.—Full Gospel and Rescue Journal.

THE SAFE COMPASS

A country lad, who was about leaving his Sunday school and friends to go up to the Metropolis to take a situation there, was accompanied to his starting place by a Christian friend, who kindly said to him, "Now, my boy, recollect you are going to launch your craft on a dangerous ocean."

"Yes, I know it," said the boy; and, taking a Bible out of his pocket, and holding it up, he added, "but you see I have got a safe compass to steer by." The guide of young Timothy is still the best guide of youth. (II Tim. 1:5, 2:1.)—Sunlight for the Young.

OUR STORY PAGE

AN "INTENDER"

I shall not pretend to tell how many figures there were across the slate. If you have ever puzzled over long examples, as Hervey was doing over one which had kept him busy, without result, for an hour, you may, perhaps, sympathize with him.

Hervey now frowned at the figures, over at the goldfish in the globe, and up at the frescoed ceiling over his head. He gave a weary sigh, drew a long, idle, discontented breath. Then he started up and bent over the slate, and multiplied, and divided, and did all that the puzzling example required, until the last figure was down as it should be, and he leaned back with a gay little whistle and a pleasant face.

Aunt Edith roused up from her nap, and looked to see what the boy was doing. Likely she was thinking to herself, "Whistling as usual, instead of working;" but she only closed her eyes again and Hervey came and stood beside her, folding his arms in a resolute fashion, and looking—well, not exactly like the usual Hervey.

"Auntie," he said, glancing rather at the floor than at Aunt Edith's face, lighted up with a loving smile, which belonged to Aunt Edith herself, and nobody else, "Auntie, it is mean and miserable to be an intender."

"A what, dear?" inquired Aunt Edith, not understanding.

"An intender."

"And what is an intender?" inquired Aunt Edith again.

"An intender is somebody who means to do things, and does not do them."

"What kind of things?"

"All kinds of right things."

Poor Hervey! How sorry Aunt Edith was over him every day. He intended to be early at breakfast; he intended to learn his Morning Watch verse; he intended to be diligent at school, patient with his schoolmates, observant of rules; he intended to be studious at study hour, obedient at all times. No one ever heard Hervey refuse to promise to do right, but—Auntie could not help knowing that Hervey himself was an intender.

"To do is better than to intend to do, dear," replied Aunt Edith, a little sadly.

"You do not say that an intender is mean and horrid, because you know that I am one."

"You are young; you do seem likely to be an intender, but I have faith in you to believe that you will be a doer."

"What makes you think so, Aunt Edith? I disappoint you every day."

"I think so because you are not happy as an intender, and because you cannot honorably serve our dear Father and be anything else than a doer."

"But, Aunt Edith, it is so hard to keep doing, and I don't keep on." Hervery half stamped his foot with the last words. He was so in earnest.

"No, you do not keep on."

"Then what makes you think I ever will?"

"It is impossible to love our Father, and not do His will."

"But—maybe I do not love Him." Hervey's eyes were bent to the floor, and his lips quivered as he added, "How you believe in me!" straightening up again, and folding his arms tighter over his breast.

"Yes, I believe in you," said Aunt Edith; "you will not continue to be an intender."

"I have made you a great many promises; if I could only think of them half the time, I would keep them. Do you think I ever will get to remember them better?"

"Oh, yes, I am very sure of it!"

"Do you know, Aunt Edith, I cannot see how you can be sure of anything about me, except that I am a miserable intender."

Aunt Edith was looking on the floor; she did not raise her eyes; she seemed to be in deep thought.

"How do you think I will get out of it all?" inquired Hervey, still standing with his arms crossed, and a resolution showing in the whole boy, which Aunt Edith had prayed for every day, but had never seen before.

"Out of what, dear?" she inquired, with one of her loving smiles, which told, without words, how dear he was to her.

"Out of all the intender business."

"You will start by remembering one promise better; and after you have practiced on that awhile, you will remember another."

"What else?"

"You will overcome one troublesome habit, and then you will overcome another, and so on until you will get to be a doer."

"I would like to be one all at once."

"A tree never grew to be a tree in one night; an intender never grew to be a doer in one day."

"But I can try."

"By all means try to do right every minute of every day, but do not be discouraged if you only get along slowly for awhile."

"And you think I can be a doer?"

"I never said so." Aunt Edith smiled at his puzzled face. "I said you would not continue to be an intender."

"Tell me how to begin; how to start to get out of it all."

"Are you ready to really begin?"

"I think so, Aunt Edith."

"Hang your clothes up neatly when you go to bed presently, instead of throwing them on the floor, and get up in the morning at the first call; dress promptly, don't dawdle, and leave nothing about your room which you should put away."

"But, Aunt Edith, that is such a funny place to begin; tell me some greater thing to do."

"We will come to greater things after awhile. Starting the day correctly has a great influence upon our ways all day long. You will, at night, feel the benefit of having begun in this funny place."

"But, Aunt Edith, tell me more things."

"Keep to these things strictly and perfectly for one week, and then tell me if the very effort to try to do them has not helped you to overcome something else which you may think to be more important."

"Then you will give me something else to try over?"

"Yes, if you wish, but the days themselves and your own conscience will soon show you something else to try over."

"I never yet got much farther than the promise; but really, Aunt Edith, I always have meant it when I said it."

"Yes, but you do not mean it earnestly enough"

"I wish I could get made clear over again."

"There is nothing to hinder your habits being made over again."

"I mean they shall be, Aunt Edith."

"Then begin with the little things, one at a time every day. After a little while the right way will be the established habit, and it will be no more trouble to you then to do right than it is now to do wrong."

Hervey gave her a new, earnest, manly look. It meant a promise unlike the usual promises which he had given, and she knew that he would not continue an intender, because love to God and the Lord Jesus and manly resolution are all that are required to make any boy a doer.—New York Observer.

THE HIDDEN POCKET

I had been in the home of Mr. Goldman for some months, taking care of his wife, who had been ill. One day Mrs. Goldman was well enough to be taken out for a drive. I had nothing to do for the afternoon and was too nervous to read, so went to the sewing-room and asked Mrs. Brown, the seamstress, to give me some ripping or basting to do, that I might chat and help her at the same time.

She handed me an old skirt of Mrs. Goldman's which had been reserved for remaking until a slack season in the sewing.

"It must be ripped up completely," she said, "lining plaits and drape, for it is to be entirely remodeled."

After I had worked for some time I came upon a hidden pocket, back under the drape.

"Is this to be ripped out also?" I asked.

"Yes, that is worn, you see, and must come out also," said the seamstress.

It was an old-fashioned, very full skirt, with lining, stiffening, and braid around the bottom. As I ripped I felt something bulgy between the lining and the outside cloth.

"What is this wad, do you suppose?" I inquired, and drew out a dirty handkerchief that had evidently been there for years. I untied it and found three five-dollar bills and a ten-dollar gold piece.

"Let's divide it," said Mrs. Brown.

"No, I don't want her money," I said emphatically.

"But you can keep it and I will say nothing about it," Mrs. Brown said.

"No, then you would be as guilty as I."

"I will give it to Mrs. Goldman then, myself, and you shall be present to hear what her story is about it, for you may be sure there is one."

"Oh, you have read too many books; you are always thinking there is a story connected with everything."

"You shall see. A woman could not lose $25.00 and not know it, and she would naturally think someone had taken it. After she has come back from her drive and you are about to leave for the night, you come to her room and ask for some pay and that will remind me of handing her the money."

That evening Mrs. Brown appeared at Mrs. Goldman's bedside and asked her for some money.

"Money, money, money, that is all that I hear," said Mrs. Goldman. "It is nothing but money all the time."

"It is money, money, money all the time with me, also," answered Mrs. Brown. "When I get home it is money for rent, money for laundry, money for groceries, money all the time."

"Money?" I exclaimed; "that reminds me of something I have here," and I drew out the dirty handkerchief from my pocket, and held it before the eyes of Mrs. Goldman.

"Don't shake that dirty old handkerchief over me," she cried.

"It's your handkerchief, Mrs. Goldman," I said, "so if it is dirty it is your dirt."

In answer to her look of incredulity I untide the handkerchief and showed her the three five-dollar bills and the ten-dollar gold piece.

"Will God ever forgive me!" she cried, as recollection flashed upon her.

"Forgive you!" I exclaimed; "you did not steal it, did you?"

"No, but I had an unskilled German girl working for me, from the employment agency. One day about ten years ago, I was going down town for shopping. I asked my husband for some money. He drew out three five-dollar bills from one pocket and asked me if that would be enough. I said it would have to be, if that was all that he could spare. Then he reached into another pocket and pulled out a ten-dollar gold piece, and laid it on the fives. I tied it in my handkerchief and stuck it back in the hidden pocket of that full skirt I told you to make over. But by the time I was to go to town the weather had become warmer and I changed for a lighter dress. When I got down town I remembered I did not have that money, but had the things charged to our credit. As soon as I got home I went to the closet to take the money but could not find it. I went to the kitchen and accused that poor German girl of having taken it. Of course she denied it and even went down on her knees and declared her innocence. But I insisted that she was the only one in the house during my absence and she must have taken it. Her tears and entreaties were of no avail and I went down to that employment office and denounced her as a common thief."

Mrs. Goldman paused and there was a painful silence for some seconds.

"I am afraid she has taken her life," she continued, "for she was an immigrant and this was her first job in America. I read afterwards of a German girl of that name having committed suicide."

I vowed then that I would never believe evil of anyone without knowing that it was true.—Light and Life Evangel.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

MISS LACY'S LETTER

Dhulia, India
May 29, 1934

Miss Bettie S. Brittingham
516 N. Charles Street
Baltimore, Maryland
U. S. A.

Dear Miss Brittingham:

Your letter has just been received and I wish to thank you for your good wishes concerning my health.

It is very hot here now but I am thankful that there are only two or three weeks more before the rains start. It is impossible to work except in the mornings and late afternoons. Our work is going along about as usual. There is not as much sickness during the hot season as at other times but it seems to be much harder on those that are sick. Day before yesterday one of our Christian men died of pneumonia.

A few days ago, when I returned from a short walk, I found one of our orphan girls sitting on the veranda of our home with her sick baby. She was married about three years ago and lives in a village about a days' journey, by bus, from here. Her baby had been sick for about two weeks, and not being satisfied with the treatment she was getting from the local doctor, she sold her chickens in order to get the bus fare to come to us. It was quite the natural thing for her to since she is an orphan and this is the only home she had. On examining the baby we found that she had typhoid fever. Knowing this we could not let her stay with the other orphan children and run risk of an epidemic among them. She was given a room somewhat away from the children but this room had only a tin roof to protect her from the sun, the heat of which is able to raise the thermometer to 145 degrees or more. I did not take the temperature of that room but in the office with a well tiled roof the temperature has been 108 degrees these days (at 5 p.m. today it was 109 degrees) so the temperature in that room must be much above that figure. We couldn't expect a patient running a temperature of around 104 degrees day and night to get well in a place like that. We finally decided we must put her in the hospital building, but there is no one but the poor mother, tired out from over two weeks constant care, to nurse her and a typhoid patient should have such good nursing.

This is only one case but how often our hearts ache when we have to turn a deaf ear to those who plead with us to let them stay and take treatment from us.

Not long ago one might have thought that our home was a hospital. Miss Miskimen had five of the sick babies in her room and two patients were staying in my room.

Our little hospital will take care of 15 patients, and if 15 organizations would each assume the suport of a bed (which would amount to the same as a scholarship, $36 a year) we would be able to care for the sick ones who are depending upon us.

I am telling you these things, because I believe if our people knew how much we need the hospital and what a small amount would overcome this need, they would make a real sacrificial effort to do so. Of course, this $45 a month woud have to come regularly or we would not be able to carry on.

I hope you had a good Conference in Washington.

Sincerely yours,
EDITH LACY.

Methodist Protestant Recorder.

BUSINESS GIRLS' CIRCLE, MT. PLEASANT

Evangelism was the theme of the program for the July meeting of the Business Girls' circle at Mt. Pleasant church. The group met with Misses Margaret, Rebecca, and Katherine Causey Saturday evening, July21, with Mrs. W. A. Stafford presiding.

Mrs. H. L. Phillips read a paper on "World Evangelism," and Mrs. J. W. Braxton spoke on "Christian Experience," after which Miss Rebecca Woody Causey gave a reading entitled, "We Would See Jesus." The devotional service, conducted by Rev. J. W. Braxton, and the songs further carried out the theme of the program.

Games, stunts, and refreshments made up a social session held after the program and business meeting. The society will meet with Mrs. E. H. Thompson in September, having been postponed from the regular date because of revival services during the last week in August.

TO THE TREASURERS OF LOCAL AUXILIARIES AND LEADERS OF CHILDREN'S WORK IN THE LOCAL CHURCHES

Heretofore almost all money from Children's organizations in local churches has been paid to the State Treasurer in with the Women's Auxiliary money, nothing being said about its having come from the Children's work. Therefore the children have not been credited with the full amount of money raised by them. In order to give them proper credit, the Auxiliary Treasurers are asked to designate any amount contributed by the children in sending in remittances to the State Treasurer, and state how it is to be credited, as the children have the privilege of contributing to the North Carolina work as well as the World Service budget.

BRONA APPLE, State Treas.

NORTH CAROLINA SPECIAL FOR DHULIA HOSPITAL

Last year in North Carolina we raised $950.00 on Mr. Minnis' salary above the amount appportioned to our Auxiliaries. Some of our leaders thought that we should do some thing special this year, since the need is so great in all of our mission fields.

India has for many years appealed urgently to our people in this Branch, and, after considering what hase of our work would resent the greatest possibiity, so far as reasing a "special" was concerned, we decided to ask Mr. and Mrs. Minnis for suggestions.

Our first quarterly executive committee meeting was held at Weaverville, July 4 (please note the date) with an attendance of twenty. Mr. Minnis told us many things that seemed to indicate the great need for the reopening of our hospital in Dhulia, and the recommendation that our Branch undertake this "special" for this year was unanimously adopted. Plans were suggested for raising the money. After due deliberation it was decided to use the quilt block system by which we raised money a few years ago for the hospital in China, and a committee was named to put the plan into effect.

Then, even before we were fairly started on this work, we read a letter from Dr. Lacy urging the opening of the hospital and pleading for this assistance in her work. Her letter was printed July 20. Thus again in the history of mission work in the Methodist Protestant Church do we find the words of Isaiah true: "And it shall come to pass, that before they call, I will answer: and while they are yet speaking, I will hear."

What a wonderful thrill, and yet what a solemn sense of responsibility, it gives one to be made to feel that she is an instrument in God's hands to help Him answer prayer in meeting a definite need in far-off India! May we not disappoint God and our suffering sihters, but may we prayerfully endeavor to begin at once to send money for this "special."

MRS. GEO. R. BROWN, Cor. Sec'y.

"A WORTHY HONOR ROLL'

Please refer to the Methodist Protestant Herald for July 19, page four and read again the article by Mrs. R. M. Andrews under the above heading.

We frequently get inquiries as to "How Can We Help the Children's Home?" Mrs. Andrews, directed by the Executive Committee of the North Carolina Branch, has suggested a plan by which every one of us from the youngest to the oldest can help the Children's Home.

We commend the plan, and thank the women for launching it, and also thank Mrs. Andrews for her willinguess to push the plans. Her heart will be made to rejoice if there is a hearty and spontaneous response. The time is short so we must hurry. The plan is simple, but it will not work itself. There must be one or more enthusiastic, willing workers in every church community to put it across.

Some of us have been advocating a benefit social of some kind at which an offering would be taken for the Home, put in an envelope and plainly marked. This to be put into the Joash Box on the Campus at the Home on Thursday, September 13.

The other plan seems a better one, so hold the get-together meeting, if thought best, to get the ball rolling and the list started of the membership and friends of your church community paying the penny for each year of their age.

An Award

An award of some kind will be given by the Children's Home to each local church whose pastor co-operates and that enrolls all its members, or a number of persons equal to the membership. Each church has S. S. pupils and friends who are not members of the church.

Get busy and enroll a number equal to your church membership, and an award will be made; this to be announced next week. Get set, ready, GO.

A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

* * *

—Mr. and Mrs. Clement Huyck announce the marriage of their daughter, Clarissa Aline, to Mr. Henry Harris Meador on Saturday, July the twenty-first, nineteen hundred thirty-four, Jacksonville, Florida.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Calvary S. S.	$ 10.50
Mt. Zion, Weaverville, June-July	2.00
Asheboro S. S.	30.00
Union Ridge S. S., Forsyth	4.25
Baltimore S. S., West Forsyth	5.00
Eden S. S., Halifax	3.11
Flat Rock, Vance	5.00
Lebanon S. S., High Point	4.79
New Hope Vance	2.00
Center, Alamance, June-July	8.00
Shiloh S. S., Shiloh	5.71
H. A. Garrett, interest Manson Fund.	80.55
Mitchell's Grove S. S., Guilford	2.05
The Gleaners S. S. Class, Fairmont, West Virginia, feeding child	5.00
A Friend	5.00
Pleasant Hill S. S., West Forsyth, for the quarter	2.40
Glen Raven C. E. Society, clothing child	5.00
Mt. Carmel, Forsyth	2.30
Efland S. S., Orange	1.40
Harris Chapel, Vance	3.34
Lawndale S. S., Cleveland, for quarter.	9.35
Orang Chapel, Saxapahaw	1.60
Mt. Hermon S. S., Creswell	2.00
Mr. W. T. Wall, Denton	1.00
English Street S. S., High Point	5.90
New Hope, Why Not	5.67
W. J. Spainhour, Winston-Salem	1.00
Midway S. S., Haw River	2.73
Union Chapel, Granville	11.00
Beginner's Class, Harmony S. S., Yarboroughs	2.00
First Church S. S., High Point, June and July	30.06
Friendship S. S., Haw River	5.00
Harmony Grove, West Forsyth	1.93
Bethesda S. S., Halifax	2.00
Caroleen S. S.	2.07
Friendship S. S., Fallston	4.64
Sunshine Band, Friendship, Fallston...	1.00
Bellemont S. S., Mt. Hermon	3.82
Mill Grove, Midland	1.90
Bethel, Alamance	5.50
Mt. Pleasant S. S., N. Davidson	2.52
Bethel, Randolph	2.10
New Hope S. S., Mecklenburg	.65
Bess Chapel S. S.	2.43

The above is our two weeks' report covering the last two weeks in July. We thank every one who has contributed.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Miss Inez Hill, for young women of Denton, eight napkins and 12 tea towels. Misses Mattio and Lucy Hayes, Henderson, 12 dresses.

Children's Home Day

Children's Home Day has been set for Thursday, September 13, program to be given and dinner to be served on the grounds at the Children's Home in High Point. We expect our people to come in large numbers bringing their picnic baskets.

The Executive Committee of the N. C. Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary has laid some definite plans to help the Home financially. Mrs. R. M. Andrews is working those plans. Pastors, S. S. Superintendents and Children's Home Secretaries will be hearing from Mrs. Andrews. Pleases co-operate with her in the most hearty way and we will all be happy.

A Piano Needed

In this day of radios so many people do not use their pianos. We are in great need of one at the Children's Home for the special benefit of our boys. If anyone has a good upright piano which they will donate to the home it will prove a great blessing here.

Please let us hear from you for we ought to have a piano by the first of September.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

THE SEMINARY EXTENSION COURSE

The course put on by the faculty of the Westminster Theological Seminary at High Point College recently was one of the most helpful and at the same time delightful occasions among my recent experiences. Since my work was all under Dr. F. G. Holloway, the President of the Seminary, I cannot speak for any member of the faculty except him, but his teaching was of a high order and was exceedingly interesting. While the problems discussed in the class room were practically the same ones which we wrestled with more than twenty years ago in the Seminary, the years seemed to add some interest, so that the discussions were even more thrilling than formerly.

Having been in the school room for two weeks after being out for more than twenty-two years, I am now convinced that it a good thing for a minister to keep right on going to school. One thing is certainly true, the minister needs to keep brushing the cobwebs out of his mind. In so far as I know there is no better way to do this than to go to school again. The new slant on things, together with the new translations and new commentaries give a freshness to the work of the minister that is very refreshing. So here is one that is glad tht we had a school this year and who hopes we may have one next year. Those in charge may count on me so long as I am able to go if the work continues to be as interesting as it was this year.

Yours for more school,
J. E. PRITCHARD.

APPRECIATION

This is to express my appreciation to Drs. Holloway, Forlines and Shroyer of the Seminary, and to N. M. Harrison and all the others who made it possible to have a Seminary Extension Course at High Point College.

It was interesting to see preachers with such a desire to learn tht they would work until 11 o'clock at night, preparing their lessons.

Another interesting thing was men with Seminary degrees and some with D. D.'s were among the most diligent students. If such men see the need of further study to better prepare themselves for the increasing responsibilities of the ministry, should not all recognize the need for further study.

Personally, it was a great pleasure to me to have the advantages of this school.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

The principal of the school was making a prayer at the chapel exercises. "Oh, Lord," she said, "bless those who are called on to teach."

A voice among the students added: "And also don't forget those called upon to recite."

GUILFORD COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

The Annual County Sunday School Convention for all the Sunday schools of all Denominations in Guilford County will be held in Pleasant Garden church at Pleasant Garden, N. C., on Tuesday, August 14, 1934.

This convention is held under the joint auspices of the Guilford county and the North Carolina State Sunday School Association. The Rev. Shuford Peeler, general secretary; Miss Myrtle A. McDaniel, newly-elected director of Leadership Training, and Miss Edith Krider, director of Young People's work of the State Association will be present and take and active part in the entire program.

This year's program is somewhat different from that of former years, planned especially to help meet the needs of individual Sunday schools as well as a program of inspiration for all Sunday school members. There will be addresses, and special study groups for discussion as to "How to Improve the Sunday School," and "How to Teach in the Sunday School"; also special music and other features.

The theme of the convention is "Building Christian Homes," a very timely theme indeed! There will be morning, afternoon and night sessions. The night session is especially planned in the interests of young people, but will be of intense interest and value to everyone. During the noon recess there will be a Fellowship Dinner on the grounds of the convention church, and everybody is invited to bring their basket lunch and join in this period of fellowship.

All the churches and Sunday schools of the county are expected and urged to send delegates. At the close of the convention a pennant will be awarded to the Sunday school making the best record of attendance based on the number of miles traveled.

Additional information can be secured from your county president, T. E. Stough, or from your county secretary, Josie Wood.

FIRST DISTRICT RALLY

The Rally in historic Whitaker's Chapel church was held last Sunday. The program was fine. Those representing High Point College were Miss Virginia Massey and Miss Virginia Grant, Mr. James Massey, and Mr. Leo Pittard.

Mr. J. W. Crew, Jr., delivered a fine address in the afternoon. Special selections, and brief talks helped to make up the program.

Certain sections of the district were adequately represented. The district as a whole did not meet our expectations.

Wm. H. NEESE.

TROLINGER REUNION

The Trolinger reunion will meet Wednesday, August 8, at the Haw River M. P. church in Haw River, N. C., at 10:30 a.m. Come and bring your baskets.

JAMES H. TROLINGER.

It was a church wedding and the church was handsomely decorated with flowers, the air being heavy with their fagrance. Just as the ceremony was about to begin, little Eleanor Jane exclaimed, in a piping voice: "Oh, Mummy, doesn't it smell awful solemn in here?"

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Haw River Church, Glen Raven Charge.—Rev. Pegg filled his regular appointment here Sunday. The orchestra from the Baptist church furnished the music for the eleven o'clock hour. It was enjoyed by all present. At the evening hour, Charlie Coble, one of our local boys, filled the appointment for Mr. Pegg. He delivered his first sermon, in his own church, to a large audience. He delivered a fine sermon; this fall we hope to present the conference with another fine preacher.

We are sorry to report Miss Bullard is still confined to her bed. She has our sympathy.

Our revival will probably start the last of August. The visiting minister has not been decided upon. T. S. COBLE.

Mt. Hermon Charge.—Since I have not had a letter in the Herald recently I will try to let the people know of the work here.

We have had two of our revivals. At Cedar Cliff, Rev. C. G. Isley, pastor of First church in Lexington was our pulpit help. Brother Isley soon endeared hicself to all who heard him. The church was greatly revived. In all there were 28 conversions and 16 accessions to the church. There were many remakable conversions, some rather old people—one man 86 years old was converted. There are still others to come into the church by letter and on confession of waith.

At Mt. Hermon we had a splendid revival. Rev. C. E. Ridge of the Shiloh Charge was the pulpit help. Mr. Ridge soon endeared himself to his hearers by his Gospel messages. There were 30 conversions, mostly adults, and five united with the church; others wil unite later.

The first Sunday in August the revival will begin at Friendship with Rev. J. R. Anderson doing the preaching. On the fourth Sunday in August our revival starts at Belmont with Rev. W. M. Loy doing the preaching.

Monday following the fifth Sunday in July we expect to begin a Vacation Church School at Mt. Hermon. Everything looks favorable for a successful school.

Our third quarterly conference will meet at Friendship Saturday before the fourth Sunday in August. L. E. MABRY.

Kernersville Church, Kernersville Charge.—The Junior Christian Endeavor society July social was held recently at the parsonage with the Superintendent, Mrs. O. B. Williams, as hostess. For one hour the tiny tots played games such as I Spy, Thimble, Blindfold and others.

Before the little guests departed Mrs. Williams served dainty sandwiches and cake.

The July meeting of the Ladies Aid society was held recently at the home of Mrs. J. P. Linville. Mrs. O. B. Williams conducted the devotionals in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. R. N. Linville read the minutes of the previous meeting and gave other reports. Mrs. Paul Butner, president, presided over a brief business session.

During the social hour Mrs. Linville served delicious ice cream and cake.

Since the last report from our church we have had our revival meeting. Rev. Roy I. Farmer of the First Church of High Point preached each evening for the period of one week. Mr. E. Swaim of Walkertown, directed the song services. From the beginning of the meeting Rev. Farmer endeared himself to the congregation by his wondnerful personality and God-given ability to preach His Gospel.

At the close of the meeting three new members were received and two others have been received since.

The many friends of Rev. Lindsay Gerringer, of Henderson, regret to hear of his serious illness. He is a former pastor of this charge and his wife was formerly Miss Mary Oliver, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Oliver of this place. Mrs. Oliver left Thursday for Henderson to visit Mrs. Gerringer.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Linville visited friends and relatives in Goldsboro last week.

Craig Linville spent Sunday at Concord.

Rev. and Mrs. O. B. Williams are spending 10 days at their home in Hillsboro.

REPORTER.

Cedar Cliff, Mt. Hermon Charge.—We had our revivval meeting the second Sunday in July. Rev. C. G. Isley of Lexington was the help. We had a wonderful meeting, with some very good sermons. Much interest was shown. We had 27 conversions and 13 to unite with the church. Large crowds came every night.

We had our regular preaching service Sunday evening. Rev. Mabry spoke to us, his sermon was "Fishers of Men." It was a very inspirational and worth-while sermon, being the first one after the revival.

Four of the people that joined the church will be baptized in Loy's pond the second Sunday in August.

We are having a very good attendance since the revival. REPORTER.

Flat Rock Charge.—We have held four of our revival meetings, three of them having been conducted since our last report. The meetings at Flat Rock and Gideon's Grove churches have already been reported. The meeting at Palesttine church began on tho third Sunday in July, with Rev. Wayne Curtis, of Burlington, as the pastor's assistant. He rendered valuable service as director of the song services and rendered solo selections at nearly every service. He preached at the young peopl's service on Thursday afternoon. As a result of the services we received four members into the church. Five persons gave their names for membership in other churches in the community. All of the members received and those giving their names for membership in the other churches were adult persons. There were ten professions. We had splendid attendance at all the services.

The revival meeting at Bethany church was held last week, closing on Friday night. The writer did the preaching at this meeting, as the preacher who was invited to assist in this meeting did not reply until it was ttoo late to secure another. We had the best attendance in several years, according to some of the older members. People from other churches attended and co-operated in a splendid manner. We received six members at the closing servvice. There were nine professions. One was already a member of the church and the other two had not decided what church they would join. We apppreciate the gift of $11.50 as a special offering for the pastor, who did all the preaching during the services.

The third meeting of the quarterly conference was held at Palestine church on Saturday, July 21, in the afternoon. Four of the five churches weer represented in the attendance. The reports of the pastor, Sunday school superintendents, trustees and stewards revealed that much progress had been made during the quarter. The pastor had made 223 visits. Improvements at Palestine church costing $100.00 were reported. The item of the report concerning the election of delegate to Annua Conference was of special interest to the members of the conference. When the votes were tabulated, it was found that Bro. H. H. Wilson, of Gideon's Grove church was eleced, having received a majority of 21 votes. Brother W. E. Johnson, of Flat Rock church, was the other nominee, receving the minority vote. Brother Wilson is a splendid young man, and will make a good representative in the Annual Conference.

Our last revival meeting for the year will begin at Bethel church next Sunday morning. We have not completed arrangements for the meeting at this wriing. There will be two services during the day on Sunday and each night during the week. A day service will be held also. The appointment at Gideon's Grove in the afternoon has been suspended on account of the revival meeting at Bethel church, and we are expecting the members of Gideon's Grove to attend the services at Bethel.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Pensacola, Democrat Charge. — Rev. D. T. Huss filled his regular appointment at our church on last Sunday morning. His subject was "The Seven Sayings of Christ on the Cross." He also preached us another interesting sermon on Sunday night.

Mr. Wayne Silver was baptized on Sunday morning. We are glad to welcome him into our church.

Our third quarterly conference will meet at the Pleasant Gap church on Saturday afternoon, August 11.

We are looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to having our President, Dr. Andrews, with us on Sunday night, August 12. We also expect to have him with us for some other services.

We voted on a deegate to the Annual Conference. V. B.

Spencer.—The members of Spencer church are anxiously looking forward to the fifth Sunday of July when all the churches of our district are to meet with us. We not only welcome all the people of our district to this meeting but extend an inviation to any others who could possibbly come on this day. The service will be an allday affair. There will be a special service at the 11:00 o'clock hour followed by a picnic luncheon on the grounds nearby. In the afternoon Dr. Andrews will be present and will have charge of this part of the day's program.

We have chosen August as the special month when all of our members will tithe to the Lord and endeavor to reach our church budget. Recently we instituted into our church the envelope system of offerings.

The classes of our Sunday school have been reorganized and each class has seected some special goal toward which it is working. The arrangements for the district meeting are also in the hands of the different classes.

On this past Monday our Sunday school and church enjoyed a picnic to Peeler's lake and had an afternoon and evening full of fun and fellowship. I sincerely feel that this picnic has done as much or more than any thing we have had to bring us closer in friendship and love for each other.

It was my privilege to have lunch Sunday with Mr. Marshall Henry who is connected with the Young Men's Christian association of Spencer. Mr. Henry is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church of Spencer but is very much interested in our own church there. I was made especially happy because of the courtesies shown me while I was there and I shall look forward to being associated with him again.

AUBERT M. SMITH, Pastor.

* * *

Orange Charge.—President Andrews visited two of the churches, Union Grove and Efland the third Sunday in July. Fair congregations were present at each church.

The messages were clear, encouraging, and convincing.

The third district rally was held at Hebron church on Orange Charge, Saturday, July 21. Six of the 13 churches weer represented, three of the four pastors were present.

The Rally was a success, the ladies taking part in the program as follows: Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, Mrs. E. L. Ballard and Mrs. J. Sam Nilson. Reports from Auxiliaries were given by the following: Mrs. J. M. Lloyd, Mrs. J. J. Crawford, Mrs. O. E. Bivens and Mrs. J. F. Cooks. Ministers taking part in the program were Dr. Andrews, T. J. Whitehead, W. M. Loy and E. L. Ballard.

We especially thank Mrs. Ballard, Dr. Andrews and Rev. T. J. Whitehead for their splendid addresses. The next rally will be held on Saxapahaw Charge time and place to be announced later.

The third quarterly conference for Orange Charge will be held at Chestnut Ridge on Saturday before the first Sunday in August at 2:00 p. m.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

* * *

Weaver's Chapel, Littleton Charge.—Last Sunday morning our pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, brought a wonderful sermon to a large congregation. After the morning service, dinner was served, and at 2 o'clock we reassembled for quarterly meeting. Brother Vickkery made a brief, but interesting talk. The meeting was of much interest and benefit to the large congregation and members that were present. At this meeting votes of the delegates were counted and it was found that Mr. Tom Carter of Vaughns, N. C. was elected to to Annual Conference. It was also decided that the next quarterly meeting would be held at Corinth church.

Our Sunday school is moving on and doing good work with the members we have but there are so many in our community that we feel should be with us to worship each Sunday, we are still trusting that our mebership will grow.

Our revival services will begin the third Sunday in August, with all day service and dinner on the grounds.

I am sorry to report that our pastor's wife, Mrs. R. L. Vickery is on the sick list again. She is in Roanoke Rapids hospital, where she underwent a very serious operation last Monday, July 16; she is improving and it is our prayer that she will soon be bback home with her family that she is so devoted to and that she be in the best of health; be it the Lord's will.

REPORTER.

* * *

Maple Springs Church, Forsyth Charge.—The Woman's Auxiilary sponsored an ice cream supper at the church recently, and a neat sum was realized.

The four churches on the charge (Maple Springs, Hickory Ridge, Union Ridge and Mt. Carmel), enjoyed a union picnic at this church July Fourth. Approximately 225 enjoyed this sumptuous spread with good lemonade added.

The third Sunday evening, July 15, regular preaching appointment for this church, a union service for the entire charge was held with Pastor Rev. R. A. Hunter delivering the sermon and several special numbers by the men's chorus from Union Ridge church. This being the third meeting of this kind held. The next union service will be held at Hickory Ridge church in Octobzer.

The Ann Forest Bible class, a newly organized young women's class, held its monthly meeting recently at the home of Mrs. E. N. Grubbs. Delicious cake and ice cream were served following the business session.

Miss Willie-Gray Henning who underwent an operation at the Baptist hospital is able to be up again we are glad to learn.

REPORTER.

* * *

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. Robert Short, delivered two interesting and very impressive sermons on his last appointmentt here.

Our revival services are only a short time off. They start the second Sunday in August. We ask the Christians to join us in prayer for a real old-time revival.

Our community was saddened last week in the news of the death of Mrs. Ben Pearson, of Taylorsville, N. C. She and her daughter-in-law were both killed by lightening last Thursday afternoon. For many years she was a faithful member of Liberty Hill church, but since moving she and her family have moved their letters to nearer churches. The families have the sympathy of their friends in this community.

* * *

Concord, Saxapahaw Charge.—Our revival meeting begun last Sunday with a large congregation present. We are always glad to welcome visitors to our church. Mr. K. G. Holt brought the morning message to us, whie our pastor delivered the sermon in the afternoon and remained with us until Friday evening. We appreciate very much the good service Brother Loy gave us during the week. Much good was accomplished during the meeting as there were a great many lives reconsecrated to God and eight new souls were bornt unto Him. At the closing service of the meeting we were glad to welcome six new members into the church. The doors of this church will again be open the first Sunday in August.

We were glad to have Mrs. O. C. Loy and children with us also during the meeting. We extend to them a welcome to come back to be with us any time they can come.

After the close of the service Friday evening the ladies of the church gave Mrs. W. M. Loy a shower as they are planning on moving into their new home sometime soon.

There wil be a meeting of the church memberships of this church Tuesday evening of this week to make plans to do some work on our church which is very much needed.

We are very glad to welcome Mr. T. H. Moore home after having been in Duke hospital for three months or more. We are also glad that Mrs. Thomas Coble who has been very sick is improving some.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

REPORTER.

* * *

South Winston Charge.—Sunday night we closed our revival meeting, but from the results I think the revival was missing. We had some of as good preaching as I ever heard. Ou r pastor, Brother Atlas Ridge was assisted in the meeting by Brother Joel D. Trogden of Raandleman, N. C., and he sure can preach. Any one who has never heard him just ought to hear him one time and you will agree with me then.

Oud meeting would have been a greater success if we could have gotten the people out, but for some reason they just wouldn't come out. Still we had a few faithful who were there most every service.

We are still making a little progress toward completing our church now we have it wired and have lights of our own.

On the first Sunday in August our day begins with Sunday school at 9:45; preaching and communion service at 11:00 o'clock; aso we will take a vote on our delegates to the Annual Conference this fall and at 3:30 the same evening we hold our third quarterly conference and especially urge that every members be present. At 7:45 o'clock we hold our regular preaching service. Everybody come and bring a friend. Everyone is welcome any time.

REPORTER.

* * *

Asheville.—Our reporter, Mrs. C. C. McNeill, has not been well for sometime, and for this reason you have had ittle news from Asheville, but inasmuch as I had to promise a certain gentleman to write something, before he would give his subscription, you are due to receive some news weekly, or until some one gets so tired of my palaver, that I am forced to hush. (Hope that you will forgive me, Mrs. McNeill.)

Some of you may have the idea we are not doing much up here, well, we don't do everything we should, but we surely are alive! If you don't believe it, come up to see us some Sunday morning, and view our group, both young and od, teaming into Sunday school and church. We think we're good, and if you don't you'd better never say so.

Rev. and Mrs. Minnis are getting on fine and are well-liked. We have welcomed into our membership since Rev. Minnis came, the following: Rev. and Mrs. Minnis, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Blanton, Mr. and Mrs. Hale Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hendrickson, all of whom are proving real assets.

All of our Sunday school classes are working well, I am just going to mention a few this time, this is a challenge for the others to do something spectacular, so I'll have something to say when I write next time. The Philatthea class, under the able direction of Miss Frances Cunningham, is settting a splendid goal for the other classes in regular attendance, collection and enthusiasm; Mrs. J.

S. William's Good Will class, composed of 10 Junior boys, led the entire Sunday school for quite a while in the largest collection; The Fawcett Bible class, for fear they were going to be left out of the race altogether have taken a new lease on life, and are tying with the Philatheas in number present. Mr. Hornaday is a splendid teacher. The Intermediate girls, with their enthusiastic teacher, Miss Clouse, have been, and always will be, live-wires. Believe me, you ought to see that bunch of Intermediates!

A Daily Vacation Church School is scheduled to start July 30, under the direction of the following: Superintendent, Miss Frances Cunningham; Music Supervisor, Mrs. J. S. Williams; Intermediates, Miss Nancy Clouse; Junior Boys, Miss Louise Hanner; Junior Girls, Mrs. C. D. Baker; Primaries, Mrs. J. F. Minnis, Hilda Brownlow; Beginners, Mrs. E. A. Bolick, Mrs. J. H. Bailey.

We are glad to report that Mrs. E. A. Pratt. Mrs. J. A. McIntire, Mrs. D. L. West and Mrs. C. C. McNeill, all of whom have been ill, are improving We were glad to see Mrs. W. E. Teague back again this past Sunday.

Death entred two of our homes recently, taking Mr. J. Frank Patton and L. C. Allison, Jr. Rev. Minnis conducted both services. The entire membership extends deepest sympathy to the sorrowing families.

The Women's Auxiliary is carryingn on, with more and more becoming interested. A Business Girl's Circle was organized sometime ago, with the following officers: Miss Frances Cunningham , chairman; Miss Nell Carter, secretary and Miss Irene Miller, treasurer. This Circle has brought new life to our Auxiliary, and we welcome them cordially. Plans are on foot to organize a young girl's circle in the very near future. We are trying to be 100 per cent efficient this year. Our officers are: Mrs. C. B. Baker, president; Mrs. G. P. Younginer, secretary; Mrs. J. A. McIntire, vice president; Mrs. H. L. Hanner, treasurer; Mrs. J. R. Moore is chairman of Circle No. 1, and Mrs. J. F. Minnis of Circle No. 2. All are working faithfully.

Maybe I'd better hush now and save the rest till next time, (yes, I could say more, didn't I tell you to begin with that we were very much alive?) but it will keep. "So long," until next week! A MEMBER.

* * *

Moriah.—No report has gone in from this church since I have been pastor, so I shall aid the reporter. I was assigned to this church to serve until the Seminary opens this fall. My welcome has been gracious and the attendance at services has been very gratifying. We have set as our goal one hundred and fifty regular worshipers at the Sunday morning service.

The Christian Endeavor society has been reorganized and has started enthusiastically upon its work. The officers are competent and there are enough young persons for a powerful and efficient organization. The officers are: President, Macon Moser; vice-president, Belle Lewis; secretary, Hallieree Underwood; treasurer, Lena Mae Sharpe, and pianist, Mrh. Lillian Coletrane.

Mrs. A. V. Kirkman and her Wide-Awake Sunday school cass are giving a lawn party at her home on Saturday evening, August 4. Mrs J. L. Lewis will be hostess to the Woman's Missionary society at her home on Thursday afternoon, August 2.

On the fourth Sunday in August the special revival services begin. There will be three services on that day which includes a special Home-Coming service in the afternoon in charge of the young people. A warm welcome is extended to former pastors and friends of Moriah church.

W. M. HOWARD, Jr.

* * *

Lexington, Mt. Carmel.—Don't forget the Annual Home- Coming day Sunday, August 5. Solicitor H. L. Koontz of Greensboro will be the 11 o'clock hour speaker. Dinner will be served on the grounds in regular picnic style. (In my report on July 19, a mistake was made by the reporter or printer and it said dinner would be observed. The ob- should be omitted and make it read that dinner would be served.)

The revival will begin at this date and continue through the following week. Rev. J. T. Bowman, pastor of Denton Charge, will be the visiting minister. Services will be at 8 in the evening and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. ZULA FRITTS, Reporter.

* * *

Spring Hill, North Davidson Charge.—The circuit rally of the North Davidson Charge was held at our church Thursday, July 19, with Mt. Pleasant, Canaan and Spring Hill well represented. Short programs were rendered by the three churches. Then, too, we were very fortunate indeed in having Dr. P. E. Lindley, dean of High Point College, with us for the day. His remarks were well received and remembered by all. We invite him to come back to Spring Hill at any time. Lunch was spread in old picnic style. The rally will be held at Canaan next year.

Children's Day was held the third Sunday at eleven o'clock. All children rendered their parts well. In the afternoon Rev. T. G. Madison gave an inspiring message to a large congregation. This marked the beginning of our revival. Rev. C. G. Isley of First Church at Lexington came on Monday and was the pulpit help throughout the week. He brought many wonderful messages and everyone seemed to enjoy them very much. Some of his remarks were based on, "Things a Christian Should Know," "Borrowing Religion," and "Good-bye, God."

We had approximately 28 converts with 13 joining the church. Some of the other converts will join with some church.

We were glad to have Canaan and Bethany's Chorus come over to sing for us Wednesday night. Also the choir of Mr. Isley's church came on Friday evening and rendered several numbers. Too, we were happy to have Mr. Isley's mother with us at every service. We wish to thank Rev. Isley and all the above folks in co-operating with us and making our revival a success.

Christian Endeavor was held the fourth Sunday night with Milford Byerly as leader. Rev. Morris of Fallston Charge was with us at that time and all the members enjoyed his remarks. At this meeting the C. E. decided to go on a picnic Saturday, August 11, at the Municipal Lake. All members are requested to meet at the church at 7:30 p. m. and then go on from there to the lake.

The Sunshine Circle and Ladies' Aid society held a Lawn Party Saturday evening on the corner lot of the church property. Despite the rain there was a good crowd out and they cleared $18.00, which will go toward making a payment on the piano.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Byerly a son, Richard Dale, on Saturday, July 21. Mrs. Byerly before marriage was Miss Ruth Haynes.

Friends of Mrs. Robert Swaim will regret to learn that she has been removed to Burrus Memorial Hospita, where she underwent an operation last Wednesday. However, at this writing she is improving.

Mrs. Julia A. York is ill at her home on English street. EDITH YORK,

Reporter.

* * *

Pleasant Grove.—The special services of our of our revival meeting came to a close last Sunday evening. Although our revival is not expected to close because we feel that lasting good has been acomplished. There were 35 conversions and reclamations during this two weeks' service. Brother Powell worked faithfully and untiringly in behalf of the church and lost souls in the community. During the first week we were handicapped by rainy weather, quite a few were faithful and as the services continued more interest was manifested; during the last service there were eight conversions. The church has been greatly revived and greater things are expected from our members. The doors of the church were opened yesterday with 13 of the converts joining. There are others who have given their names for membership but could not be present. These will be taken in as soon as possible. During the year 18 have joined our church.

In appreciation of our pastor's faithfulness, also that his hand which has been giving him so much trouble for quite a while may heal, a two weeks' vacation has been voted him, to be taken at any time he desires, which will possibly be from the second Sunday in August until the first of September.

On next Sunday an all day service will be held: Sunday school at 9:45, preaching at 11. A picnic lunch to be at noon. The afternoon service will be altogether a song service.

Different quartettes have promised to be present to help make this a very enjoyable day. A cordial invitation is extended to the public. MRS. CLYDE PAYNE,

Reporter.

* * *

Palestine, Flat Rock Circuit.—Our revival meeting has just closed. Pastor Way had for the pulpit help Rev. Wayne Curtis of Burlington, N. C. Brother Curtis is an evangelist preacher and song leader; he only preached for us once, but led the choir and did personal work. He is one of the best personal workers our church has ever had. Mr. Curtis endeared himsef to our people and they enjoyed hearing him sing. Having him in our homes and general association was great and we all give him a welcome to come our way again. Pastor Way did the preaching and did it well. It is a pleasure to listen to him. Brother Way put every ounce of energy he could in every sermon preached and I am sure that the good he has sown during this meeting will live on and on in the hearts of many of our people; and we do pray that the messages he has preached will cause the large number of unsaved people to think as they have never thought before. May it cause them to realize their lost condition and accept our Lord and Savior before it is too late.

Ten young boys and girls professed faith in our Lord and Savior; four united with the church; four wished to join Eden M. E. church, and one goes to Ellisboro Baptist church. I hope as they go to the church of their choice, that they may go in full-heartedly, ready to do or say anything that will be for the upbuilding of the Kingdom. May they ever look upward and onward, ready to serve our Lord and Savior as best they can with never a desire to look back.

To each and everyone that helped in the singing, we say thank you. Mrs. Archie Tucker, our pianist, was assisted by Harry Tucker and Miss Mildred Way in playing. Several special songs were sung: several by Mr. Curtis, Hutton Tucker and Mr. Curtis, and one by Miss Thomas of Flat Rock church. They were all enjoyed very much and we thank them for their kindness.

The Sunday school continues but the enrollment is not very large. The superintendent reports almost 100 per cent attendance which shows the interest is fine.

Mrs. D. A. Walker continues very feeble.

Little Louise Parrish had the misfortune to get a severe fall from a swing, her head hitting the ground. She was unconscious for several hours but is reported as resting better at this time.

The third quarterly conference for Flat Rock Circuit met at Palestine church Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All the churches were represented except Bethany. The reports were about as good as usual for midsummer though not as good as we would like for them to be. All the churches on the circuit have Sunday school except Bethany. All the churches are paying some on pastor's salary. Palestine church reported a $100.00 church improvement. Flat Rock and Gideon's Grove report that women's organizations are helping out a lot in their financial work.

Mr. Harvey Wilson from Gideon's Grove church was declared elected delegate to the next Annual Conference. Do not have financial report from this conference.

GRACE R. TUCKER, Reporter.

Draper.—Yesterday was a good day for us at Draper church. The first Home-Coming Service, so far that I know of, was held and a large crowd was present. Quite a large number of the old members were present for the service. Rev. D. A. Morgan, a former pastor and the one who organized and built the church here, preached at 11 o'clock. A sumptuous dinner was spread in picnic style on the grounds.

In the afternoon splendid talks were made by Rev. Mr. Johnson, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, his subject was "Render to God the Things That Are God's." He gave us a good talk.

Following Brother Johnson, Brother Strater, a lay member of the M. E. church, gave a splendid talk on the five appointments of God; following this address, Brother Squires and Mrs. Squires sang a beautiful duet, with Mrs. Squires at the piano. Brother Squires gave us a good talk on the Methodist Protestant church in Draper and the good work that it has done since it has been organized. Also that it ranked among the leading churches in Draper.

It was truly a great day for the Draper church, the only regret being that the former pastors could not be present for this service. The Draper church is made up of the best people in Draper. They are loyal Methodist Protestants.

There have been some much needed improvements made on the inside of the church for the past few weeks. The old pulpit platform has been torn out and a larger and better platform has been put in the place of the old one, the choir loft enlarged, thus adding very greatly to the appearance of the church and giving more room.

It is being talked that the church will be completely overhauled both inside and out in the near future. The plan will be to pay as we go as we are out of debt and have a good lot with a clear title to it made to the M. P. church. The mill company has no claim on it, what we put there belongs to the church.

We are badly in need of some chairs for the choir. If there is some church that has replaced their old chairs with new ones and would like to donate your old chairs to the Draper church we will appreciate it and will say thank you and the Lord bless you.

Pray for us. L. S. HELMS, Pastor.

Bethesda-State Street.—The Bethesda and State Street Christian Endeavor societies have started an inter-society visitation which has already quickened the interest of each society in the work and promises to improve greatly the prayer meeting programs.

The Junior Church services of Bethesda are going well. These worship programs are conducted by a young lady of the church during the preaching hour, and are attended and participated in by the children up to ten years of age.

The special meeting of Bethesda church is to begin the second Sunday in August. Preaching at 11 o'clock. A Home-Coming program in the afternoon, featured by an address by Samuel E. Leonard, superintendent of Eastern Carolina Training School for Boys. Mr. Leonard is a native of the Bethesda community and will be heard gladly by neighbors and friends.

At night at 8 o'clock, Mr. Leonard will speak in State Street church, Lexington, on "The Child in the Midst." This address, by one who has had considarble experience with deliquent boys, will no doubt, throw light on the question so often asked, "What's the Matter With the World?"

The women of Bethesda church are filling 60 jars, most of them half-gallon, for the Children's Home. The Woman's Auxiliary of this church took the initiative in tapping the power line and did most of the paying (woman-like in church matters) to install a lighting system for the church displacing the local generating plant. The whole thing was done between Sundays—two successive Sundays.

State Street church has just closed a successful two weeks' Vacation Bible School. All the work was done by the young group of our local church. The commencement was held Sunday night at the preaching hour and was a credit to teachers and pupils.

The State Street special meeting with Rev. C. E. Ridge doing the preaching continued for 11 days, resulting in 12 accessions on profession of faith. The afternoon services during the first week were especially conducted for the benefit of the young people with splendid response on their part. The climax was reached on the second Sunday of the meeting when 12 young people joined the church and with their parents and friends took the communion. The remaining three days of the meeting were for the special edifying of Christians.

Mr. J. A. Walser has been elected as delegate to Conference.

I failed to state that the girls of our Vacation Bible school made a number of kitchen towels for the Children's Home along with several other articles. The towels were made of salt sacks and sugar sacks donated by some of the grocery stores. Also it should be stated that the Dacotah Cotton Mill and the Nocomis Cotton Mill donated through our Bible school to the Children's Home 150 yards of clothing materials.

T. M. JOHNSON.

Shiloh C. E. Society, Shiloh.—The C. E. society is progressing nicely under the able leadership of our president, Mr. Protus Koonts. Our society does not have as many members as we have had, although we are not discuoraged because Jesus said, "Where there are two or three gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them."

The lessons for this quarter have been the least bit hard to discuss, nevertheless they have been well discussed by those taking part.

The C. E. society from Shiloh, having been formerly invited, gave a program in the M.P. church in Spencer Sunday morning. .A small number of the society attended. We want to thank each one of you who took part in that program; both those who had prepared talks and those who just received their parts on Sunday morning. We also want to thank all those who attended.

The program was, "What Should the Present Day Church Be Doing," and was dicussed by the following: Messrs. Frank Shoaf, Homer Sink, Alvin Sink, Ray Leatherman; Misses Mildred Sink, Alma Koonts, Ruth Sink, Naomi Swicegood, Blanche Sink, Rachael Koonts, and Margarette Koonts.

C. E. REPORTER.

Liberty.—In the regular Sunday morning worship the fourth Sunday morning, Rev. Fred R. Love delivered an inspiring discourse on the subject, "Our Lord's Dealing with the Samaritan Woman." The text was John 4:5. He said in part: "Let us look into the lives of people and find some good in each human life, and love, and lift, and encourage the outcast or those in despair. Our high ideas should be joy, strength, and peace in the spiritual kingdom."

The young people's societies of the different churches met together in their regular fifth Sunday meeting. Mr. Herbert Smith was the chief speaker of the evening. He made a very worthwhile and inspirational talk.

Despite the hot weather, the women of the church are energetic and enthusiastic.

Circle No. 1 met with Miss Bertine Shepard at her home on Church street, Wednesday afternoon. The general routine of business was carried out. The program was in charge of Mrs. A. D. Gregg. Scripture was read by Miss Lora Bowman. Prayer by Mrs.

Mamie Smith. A poem was read by Mrs. Lawrence Brown. An interesting talk by Mrs. Fred R. Love. Miss Mary Bowman Shepard sang "Living for Jesus," accompanied by Miss Margaret King Shepard. The hostess served dainty refreshments, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Wade Hardin, and her niece, Miss Margaret Shepard. Twenty-five were present to enjoy the meeting.

Circle No. 3 met with Mrs. Armp Brower at her home on Fayetteville street, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. C. E. Clapp was in charge of the devotinal and Rev. Fred R. Love led in prayer. After a brief session of business the hostess served delicious refreshments assisted by her little daughter, Jean. A good membership was present to enjoy Mrs. Brower's hospitality.

Our Woman's Auxiliary is sponsoring an ice cream supper on the church lawn Saturday night, August 4.

Mrs. Fred Whhiteside of Richmond, Va. has returned home after visting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Elkins.

Miss Mary Griffin of Raleigh gave an interesting lecture to our adult classes on scenes and experiences on her trip to the Holy Land.

Heavenly Father, write Thy new best name of love upon our hearts.

Help us to remember Jesus Christ.

During the busy hours bring Him often to our thoughts.

Give us of His strength, of His wisdom, of His winsomeness, and keep the lamp of hope burning in our hearts.

BERTINE SHEPARD, Reporter.

* * *

Thomasville, First Churuch.—Our pastor, Rev. Mr. Madison, was away the past week assisting Rev. Mr. Hunter in a revival meeting. On Sunday evening, Juy 22, Rev. Kendall Shoffner preached in the pastor's absence.

Last Sunday evening the Christian Endeavor had charge of the service. It was in the form of a pageant entitled "Building a New World With God."

Miss Ruby Pearson and Mr. Ralph Leonard were married on July 5. This young couple have the very best wishes of our people. They both are very popular in our community and they are congratulated on their troth.

Both Mrs. F. S. Dorsett and Mrs. Jane Dorsett have been very sick but are now improved, we are glad to write.

Little Betty Lou Watts is right sick.

Mrs. Myrtle Barber has returned from High Point hospital much improved. She is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walter Johnson, on Carolina avenue.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will meet August 9 at the home of Mrs. Clyde Watts.

Mr. Fleet Madison and father visited Rev. and Mrs. T. G. Madison last week-end.

* * *

Graham.—The revival services, with Rev. J. E. Pritchard doing the preaching, are increasing in interest with each service. Brother Ballard was with us and rendered great service in the conducting of the music. It was with great regret to us that we learned that he could not stay longer than Sunday night, due to a previous engagement to teach a course in the Westminster Leadership Training School of the Maryland Conference this week.

At the regular service of the church recently the members of the church voted the pastor a vacation, leaving it with us as to the length. The pastor has decided to be away the second and third Sunday from his pulpit.

The members of the Graham church are very grateful for the speedy recovery of Bro. R. R. Bain, after his having had a serious electrical shock at the Travora Mfg. Co. No. 2 at Haw River one day last week. Brother Bain is a member of the Board of Trustees.

Ernest Kirkman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Kirkman, was received into membership in our church recently.

Dr. W. R. Goley, who has been confined to his home for some time, is apparently making some improvement.

The third quarterly conference will convene on Friday night of this week at the Hut. All members of the conference are urged to attend.

J. CLYDE AUMAN.

* * *

Friendship Station.—Next Sunday, August 5, marks the beginning of our special meeting. At the same time we will observe Home-Coming, to which all the former pastors, members and other friends are invited.

Brother E. A. Bingham will be the pulpit help in the meeting, and all who pray are asked to remember the meeting at the throne of grace.

A. D. SHELTON.

* * *

Friendship Station.—For the past week our pastor has been away helping Rev. W. D. Reid in a meeting. Our Sunday school and church is progressing nicely.

The first Sunday in August we are having Home-Coming, and Children's Day for the evening service. The special meeting begins on that Sunday also. We extend to all our friends and old members a special invitation on that Sunday. Dinner will be served on the church lawn. Rev. Mr. E. A. Bingham will deliver the 11 o'clock sermon and will also help the following week.

REPORTER.

* * *

Kannapolis. — The attendance at Sunday school yesterday was 174. This was an increase of 40 over the same day one year ago. Mr. C. W. Tutterow is the efficient superintendent and the work is going fine under his leadership. More room is badly needed and something must be done soon if the church is to take care of its Sunday school. We were very fortunate in having Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Bowman of Denton in the morning preaching service. Mrs. Bowman made a splendid talk to the children, and Mr. Bowman preached an excellent sermon from the text "I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me."

At this service a vote for delegate to the Annual Conference was taken. Messrs. C. E. Gabriel and C. W. Tutterow are the nominees. Either of these men will make a good delegate.

The third quarterly conference will be held next Saturday night a week.

The church was delighted to have Rev. A. M. Smith of Spencer preach in an evening service recently. We are always glad to have our preachers visit us. The pastor's father, Rev. J. D. Morris of Fallston, stopped over for a short visit with his son last Sunday a week ago, and preached for us.

Our fall revival meeting will begin the last Sunday in August with Rev. T. G. Madison as the pulpit help. Pray for us that we may have a great ingathering of souls and that the church will be greatly revived.

Our people deeply sympathize with Mrs. C. W. Tutterow in the death of her mother, Mrs. McClamrock.

MRS. D. A. McLAURIN.

* * *

Mt. Hermon Church, Mt. Hermon Charge.—Our revival meeting began the third Sunday of July, and continued through the following week. Our pastor, Rev. L. E. Mabry, preached two fine sermons on that Sunday, at 11 o'clock and at 2 o'clock. A very large crowd was present. Rev. C. E. Ridge from Shiloh was the pulpit help during the week day services at 3 o'clock and at 8 o'clock. The attendance was very good throughout the week. Much interest was shown and we feel that many were revived. Around 30 were converted and five joined the church. Mr. Ridge did some good preaching, and we were glad to make his acquaintance. We hope that he may come our way again.

Children's Day was observed last Sunday evening at 7:30. The church was very well filled and the children did their parts well. The offering amounted to $5.85.

Our Daily Vacation Church School began Monday of this week, with 50 children present the first day. We hope others will join the number.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met this month with Mrs. G. M. Isley, with 13 members present.

All the ladies of the church are invited to bring a picnic basket and their families to the church next Friday evening at 6 o'clock, when the Kiwanis club of Graham will meet with us for a picnic supper.

The attendance at Sunday school last Sunday was 144.

MRS. L. P. HOLT, Reporter.

* * *

Pleasant Gap, Democrat Charge.—It was my good fortune to have the privilege of helping Brother Huss, the pastor of Democrat circuit, in a two weeks' meeting at Pleasant Gap. It was my first visit to that part of our church, and I was pleasantly surprised to find it far better than I had imagined. I had expected to find a backward mountain community. I found the mountains, but the backward community was nowhere to be seen. For two weeks we visited among the peope and met them at the services. The hills are as beautiful as a picture book. Such wonderful pastures I have never seen in any land. The soil produces very well, and nearly all fruits and vegetables can be grown in abundance.

We were tremendously impressed with the people and the possibilities for our church in that community. There are scores of intelligent young people, many of whom are capable of becoming leaders. With wise planning and patient leadership I see no reason why this work cannot be developed up to the place where it may become one of our most desirable appointments.

For two weeks we labored among these good people. The morning services were not so well attended, but at night we had good crowds. They were so attentive that it was a pleasure to talk to them. There were many unsaved who attended the evening services. Many of them showed an honest, frank interest in spiritual things, and several expressed a desire to become Christians. However, there were only six who openly confessed the Lord Jesus. Yet we felt that the meeting was a good one, for all six who surrendered their lives to the Lord were grown young women.

Brother Huss, the pastor, is doing an excellent work and seems to be liked by the people. J. I. MINNIS.

Mt. Pleasant, North Davidson.—Rev. Mr. Grant has brought us some very inspiring sermons since the last report from this church. The second Sunday in July Canaan Sunday school visited us and worshiped with us in Sunday school and preaching. The fourth Sunday Mt. Pleasant Sunday school visited Canaan in their Sunday school. The days were enjoyed by all.

The revival that was to begin at this church the second Sunday in July was postponed until a later date.

The C. E. society reorganized the third Sunday in July. We are hoping a great work will be done in the society this year.

The Sunday school is getting along nicely, increasing in number and interest.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harrell Payne wish them a long, happy life. Mrs. Payne is the daughter of Mr. C. F. Green and the late Mrs. Green. Mr. Payne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Payne.

MILDRED GREEN, Reporter.

Efland, Orange Charge.—We feel that we are fortunate indeed to have Rev. C. L. Spencer of Granville charge assist our pastor in our revival meeting this week. For his introductory message Brother Spencer used "Removing Stones" for his theme and convinced many of us that we have a task before us. Other very inspiring messages at this writing have been based on "Losing Jesus" and "A Personal Responsibility." May God add His blessings to all efforts put forth for the advancement of His Kingdom during this series of services.

Three new members have been added to our church by letter this week, Mr. and Mrs. W. Fred Walker and Mrs. Eulas Nichols. We welcome them into our church and community.

A number of our Sunday school people are planning to attend the Sunday School Convention at Hebron church Sunday, August 5.

Our Missionary Auxiliary is progressing. A large increase in membership has been one visible result of the division into circles. Circle No. 2 sponsored a special service the fourth Sunday evening. Mrs. Robert B. Nichols, the president, presided. Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, of Mebaue, brought us a very interesting message and news from the Washington convention. Mrs. Robert B. Nichols spoke on "Why Belong to the Auxiliary." "Launch Out," the mission song, was sung in solo and chorus by Mrs. R. B. Studebaker and choir.

Circle No. 1 served supper on the church lawn Saturday evening and reported a very successful evening in spite of the weather conditions.

Circle No. 3 met with Miss Margaret Efland on the evening of the 24th. They had a splendid meeting and a record number present. Their work will be heard of later. The next meeting will be with Miss Margaret Freeland, circle chairman, the first Monday evening in August.

We are very grateful to Brother Pritchard for his commendable remarks about Efland, and feel sure that each one who had a part in putting the Herald campaign across has been well repaid. Mrs. Taylor is one of our most active members, both in church and Sunday school work. If we follow the suggestions and leadership of Pastor Williams I'm sure you will hear of Efland being on the Honor Roll again, for often I hear some one say, "He has a way of planning and putting things across."

All official members especially, and all others who can are urged to meet at Chestnut Ridge Saturday at 2 p.m. for quarterly conference.

PATTYE J. CRUTCHFIELD, Reporter.

Concord.—Due to our pastor's absence from the church for the past two weeks, it seems that our church attendance has fallen down quite a bit. He has for the past week been holding a meeting at Mocksville and reported a very good meeting. He left Sunday afternoon for Monroe to help in another meeting. Our prayers are with him for a successful revival.

Arline Gray, little daughter of Mr. Robert Gray, is leaving for the Orphanage at High Point next week. The auxiliary ladies are getting her dresses and other articles of clothing ready. We hope she will like her new home and I feel sure her playmates there will love her.

Mr. B. F. Waddell, chairman of the board of stewards, started a drive a few weeks ago to raise the money to relieve us of our Sunday school plant loan. He has succeeded in raising all but $110.00. Of this amount $80.00 is pledged, leaving only $30.00 to raise. This clears our debts with the exception of some small local debts.

We were proud of our Baraca double quartet, who furnished the song service for the Mecklenburg Ministerial Association last Tuesday and Wednesday. The devotional service was under our former pastor, Rev. G. H. Heudry. This quartet is under the supervision of Mr. Willie Furr, pianist.

We have just a few members on our sick list this month. Mrs. L. M. Williams has been sick for the past week, and left yesterday for the Charlotte Sanatorium, where she will undergo an operation. Mrs. A. B. Cleaver suffered a stroke of paralysis of her right side Sunday morning. She is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Cartwright, on Ashe street. We hope these people will be remembered in your prayers.

Charles Ray Barringer, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Edd Barranger, passed away after a lingering illness of over a month. May God's blessings and kindness keep these young people from grief, because we know that he has gone to join the angels around the throne of God, the home of Peace. He was a member of our Cradle Roll department. REPORTER.

Clinet—This bill of yours in outrageous.

Lawyer—I furnished the skill and legal learning to win your case, didn't I?

Client—But I furnished the case.

Lawyer—Oh, anybody can be run over by an auto, can't they?

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Pegram

The Woman's' Auxiliary of the First Methodist Protestant church, Winston-Salem, wishes to offer a tribute of respect in honor of the memory of Mrs. W. N. Pegram, who quietly passed away Friday night, May 11, 1934. Our church has lost one of its oldest, most loyal and most faithful members. But we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well. May we as an auxiliary emulate the life of this beautiful Christian character in our own lives.

Her toils are passed, her work is done, and they are fully blessed;
She fought the fight, the victory won, and entered into rest.

Therefore, be it resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved husband and daughters, and the Methodist Protestant Herald.

MRS. W. C. TICE,
MRS. C. W. BATES,
MRS. A. A. MOSER.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas, our Heavenly Father in His infinite wisdom and love has seen fit to call our beloved pastor, Rev. C. W. Saunders, to be with Him, we, the members of Melton's Grove church, do resolve:

That this church has sustained a deep loss. We shall miss his faithful services and his wise counsel. Although his health did not permit him to be with us for long, we grew to love him, and it was with real sorrow we learned of his passing. We pray that the Heavenly Father may comfort the hearts of his loved ones.

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to his family, a copy be sent to the M. P. Herald for publication, and a copy be kept on the church records.

MRS. ILA INGOLD,
MRS. GLENNA LANE,
MR. L. M. SASSER,
Committee.

Bumgarden

The funeral of Betty Juanita Bumgarden was held at the home of the parents Sunday afternoon, July 15, in charge of Rev. J. O. Fry, pastor of South China Grove M. P. church, and was the largest attended funeral of a child the writer has yet conducted. Little Betty was only two months of age, being born on May 14, and was killed in an auto accident in China Grove on Saturday eveningn, July 14. The father and mother were returning home from China Grove when the car in which thew were riding was hit by another car killing little Betty and injuring the mother who was rushed to Loweny hospital at Salisbury.

(Continued on Page Sixteen)

MARRIED

Freeman-Searcy

A wedding of interest to their friends and relatives of the two Carolinas and Georgia took place at the home of the bride's pastor, Rev. Robert Short, at Easley, S. C., June 29, at 10 a.m.

The bride is a very attractive and lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Freeman. She is a very useful and loyal member of Fairview Methodist Protestant church, received her literary training in Easley High School, and at Broughon's Business College of Greenville. She had been employed in the county agent's office of Pickens county. She is greatly loved by a large circle of acquaintances.

Mr. Searcy is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Searcy of Easley, S. C., and holds a position with the Easley Mill Company here in the city. They are at home to their many friends at 607 South 5th street, Easley, S. C. May they have many happy years together and their young lives be blessed of God and crowned with much success.

ROBERT SHORT.

Hunter-Merritt

Mr. William Henry Hunter and Miss Frances B. Merritt, young people of Grace church, were united in marriage at the church on April 21 at 5 o'clock in the presence of a few friends and immediate relatives. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. J. Ewood Carroll.

The bride is the elder daughter of Mrs. Daisy B. Merritt, of Wilmington, but has made her home in Greensboro since attending Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. Mr. Hunter is the second son of Mrs. William Henry Hunter. He is a graduate of High Point College and holds a law degree from Duke University. Mr. Hunter is a member of the law firm of Reynolds and Hunter.

After a bridal tour of Western North Caroina, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter are now making their home at 201 Tate street. The many Methodist Protestant friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter wish for them a long and useful married life.

Carroll-Shoenfelt

Miss Elizabeth Shoenfelt and Rev. J. Elwood Carroll were united in marriage in Christ Reformed Church, Altoona, Pennsylvania, on June 29th. The vows were spoken by Rev. Charles D. Rockel, the bride's pastor, and Dr. S. K. Spahr, pastor emeritus of Grace M. P. church, Greensboro, where the bridegroom is active pastor.

Before the ceremony Mrs. Charles D. Rockel sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because." Miss Lois Patterson acted as maid of honor and Mr. Joseph Loy as best man, both of Altona. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Oscar Shoenfelt, of Mt. Vernon, New York.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Carroll left for a trip to Washington and the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. After July 7th, they will be at home at the Grace church parsonage, 222 North Edgeworth street.

Mrs. Carroll is the only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Shoenfelt, of Altoona, and received her education at the Indiana Normal School, Indiana, Pa., and Columbia University, New York City. Mr. Carroll is the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Carroll, of Reidsville. He holds the degrees of Bachelor of Arts from High Point College, Master of Arts and Bachelor of Divinity from Duke University, and has done special study at Yale University. As a minister in the Methodist Protestant church, he has served pastorates at Denton, Mount Hermon circuit in Alamance County, Asheville, and is now pastor of Grace church, Greensboro.

Kimes-Stack

Grace church was the scene of a beautiful wedding in which Miss Mae Sue Stack and Louis Kimes, of Greensboro, were united in marriage by the bride's pastor, Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, on June 16th, at 5:30 o'clock.

An organ musical program preceded the ceremony and was played by Mrs. Oren Long (nee Miss Lucile Sharpe) of Charlotte. Immediately after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Kimes left for a motor trip to Chicago and points in Tennessee.

Mrs. Kimes is the only daughter of Mrs. W. J. Whittington and a graduate of Greensboro College, class of 1931. Mr. Kimes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Kimes, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and is partner in the firm of Hall-Kimes Jewelry Company. Upon their return, they will make their home at 716 West Lee street.

Harris-Crew

A wedding of interest to their many friends in North Carolina and Virginia was solemnized Saturday, July 14, at the Methodist parsonage in Portsmouth, Va., when Miss Clara Lee Harris became the bride of Stanly Ellis Crew. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Walter G. Gunn in the presence of a small group of relatives and friends.

Mrs. Crew is the daughter of Mrs. C. L. Harris and the late Dr. Harris of Danville, Va. She received her education at Averett College, in Danville, and Woman's College, in Greensboro.

Mr. Crew is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Winfield Crew, Sr., of Pleasant Hill community. He attended Weldon High School, and graduated with the class of 1931 at the University of North Carolina, and is at present connected with the federal land bank of Columbia, S. C.

WM. H. NEESE.

Long-Sharpe

A wedding ceremony of dignity and beauty marked the marriage of Miss Lucile Sharpe, of Greensboro, to Mr. Oren Long, of Charlotte, at Grace Church on June 2 at 5:30 o'clock. Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, pastor of the bride, used the ceremony of the Methodist Protestant Church while speaking the vows.

Following a quarter hour of appropriate music the wedding party formed at the altar. The bride's sister, Miss Ama Sharpe, acted as maid of honor, while the groom's brother, Mr. John H. Long, of Charlotte, was best man. The bride entered on the arm of her father, Mr. T. D. Sharpe, who gave her in marriage. Other attendants were: Miss Iris Etith, of Winston-Salem; Miss Evelyn Sharpe and Mr. Robert Farmer, of Greensboro, and Grady Putnam, Charlotte.

Mrs. Long is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Sharpe, of Greensboro. She is a graduate of Woman's College and did special work in music. For nearly three years she has served as the efficient organit of Grace church. Mr. Long is the son of Mrs. George A. Long, of Unionville, and a graduate of Duke University.

After a trip through the mountains of North Carolina, Mr. and Mrs. Long will reside in Charlotte, where the former holds a position with the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company.

Cox-Barnette

In the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Barnette, of Mebane, Miss Grace Barnette and Mr. Harold Cox were united in matrimony June 29, the writer, assisted by Rev. E. Lester Ballard, performing the ceremony. An additional touch of beauty was added by the use of the ring.

There were present only the grandparents and immediate family of the bride and her pastor's wife. But the display of presents evidenced that others were there in thought and good wishes.

The tasty decorations from garden and field symbolized the beauty of the uniting of two young lives destined to grow into greater beauty by a happy union.

After partaking of a generous luncheon and the cutting of the bridal cake, the happy couple left by auto for Washington and other points, including a visit to the groom's parents in Maryland.

Returning they will be at home in Mebane, where Mr. Cox holds a position in the office of the White Furniture Company.

T. M. JOHNSON.

RALLY OF ELEVENTH DISTRICT

The Third Rally of this district was in our Spencer church, Sunday, July 29. The pastor, Rev. Aubert Smith, and the people of the church gave the visitors a most cordial welcome. The plain neatness of the church—outside and in, the beautiful flowers tastily arranged, the generous breeze floating in through open windows and wide-open door, afforded a pleasant place to hold the meeting.

Commencing about 11:30, the Christian Endeavor society of Shiloh church conducted what might justly be termed a model Christian Endeavor prayer meeting, discussing the modern church, as to what the church should be and do.

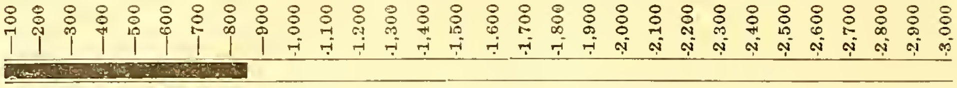
Then followed a period of refreshment and social intercourse, combining the lunch carried by the visitors and that provided by the Spencer people, breathing the social and hospitable atmosphere that was so evident.

Then followed a season of song and worship and some filling-in talk until the arrival of Dr. Andrews, who had been announced as the program for the afternoon session. Dr. Andrews made a very timely and impressive talk on "Prayer."

The next and last Rally for the district will be held in Bethel church on the Mocksville Charge.

T. M. JOHNSON, Chairman.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
Reidsville	90
Lincolnton	85
Shiloh	71

While Reidsville and Shiloh took a little breathing spell Lincolnton stepped up a little since my last report. That is the way to reach the goal and I am expecting all three of these places to reach their goal before many more moons.

And did you see what that son of Randolph, L. F. Ferree, of First Church, High Point did? He sent in a whole big ten dollars. Keep it up young man. And just look what that daughter of Randolph, Mrs. B. W. Little, of Charlotte, did. She sent in a fine contribution and Charlotte is rapidly coming to the front. And that young man Stubbins who lives deep down in Randolph, in the city of Asheboro, just keeps sending in money from Asheboro, and Asheboro's stock is still rising. And several others, including Rev. E. L. Mabry from Mt. Hermon and Rev. E. G. Cowan from Weaverville and Mrs. E.H. Baity sent along the cash. And thou, too, Concord, just see what you did? Sent along a fine payment of subsidy. That is fine.

And now for a steady pull for a fine lot of subscriptions to be sent in between now and the Annual Conference. Get busy, gents, and put your charge on the honor roll and give me something to rave over.

LET AGENTS AND PASTORS TAKE NOTICE! The bookkeeping for the Herald is all done by Dr. McCulloch and his family to whom all money should be sent. When you send it to me I simply carry it to him. He receives it and gives all the credits on the back page. After the paper is printed I look over the back age. see what credits have been given and from that, figure out my percentages for the next week. It simply delays mail to send it to me. I AM THE BOOSTER, NOT THE BOOKKEEPER.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	11¾	$....
Albemarle	17	10¾	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	26½	....
Asheville	14	11	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	11.10	....
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	14	....
Burlington, First	71	16½	*20.00
Bessemer City	13	6.83	....
Charlotte	21	12.2	1.50
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.82	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	13½	7.50
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5½	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	2	....
Denton	48	11¾	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	8	*5.00
Fallston	85	24½	....
Flat Rock	63	14½	....
Friendship	21	3.42	....
Forsyth	45	9½	2.50
Gibsonville	20	4	....
Glen Raven	47	7¼	....
GRAHAM	27	33.18	....
Granville	59	18	16.55
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY	29	33½	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	11	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	4¼	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	10.6	*7.50
Greensville	59	7	....
Guilford	37	9½	....
Halifax	53	8½	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	13.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	26	8.00
High Point, Lebanon	34	7½	....
High Point, Welch	22	4½	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	16.30	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2¾	....
Lexington, First	45	11¾	*10.00
Lexington, State Street	40	10.11	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	18	15.35	....
Littleton	50	7¾	....
Mebane	28	8	....
Mecklenburg	40	1½	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	3½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	5	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	20	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	26¾	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7½	....
Randolph	74	10½	....
Reidsville	10	9	....
Richland	43	3½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	46½	*20.00
Siler City	20	10¾	*7.50
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	13	....
Tabernacle	39	21¼	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	3½	....
West Forsyth	62	8	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	4½	....
Winston, First	26	9¾	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	5	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro. N. C.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

(Continued from Page Fourteen)

Our sympathy goes out to the father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bumgardner, and the little sister, Joan, and all other relatives.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful and the little body was laid away in Greenlawn cemetery at China Grove.

Another bird has been taken from earth to bloom in heaven. We cannot bring the child back, yet we can go to the child. Parents do not weep. We shall see her again some day in a brighter world above.

◆

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

J. R. Moore	$7.50
Mrs. Lawrence Cheek	7.36
Mrs. F. J. Cox	5.50
L. F. Ferree	4.00
Rev. E. L. Ballard	4.00
Rev. D. I. Garner	3.50
Rev. J. D. Anderson	2.50
Mrs. W. G. Starr	2.00
Rev. A. D. Shelton	1.50
Rev. T. J. Whitehead	1.50
Rev. C. B. Way	1.00
Rev. C. L. Spencer	1.00
Rev. D. T. Huss	1.00
Rev. C. E. Ridge	1.00
Anna Bailey	1.00
Miss Blanche Hardee	1.00
J. J. Mallard	1.00

Herald Subsidy Fund

Asheboro	$20.00
Asheville	5.00

Graham (?) Will treasurer please name the exact amount? Statement mislaid.

Thanks to these liberal donors.

◆

Mother—Johnny, are you and Benny in any mischief out there?

Johnny—No, mother. We're just playing with some eggs the grocer left. We see how many times we can catch 'em before they break.

Individual churches on circuits raising their quota in full are: SHILOH on Shiloh Charge, EFLAND on Orange Charge.

---

* Subsidy paid in full.

Rev H L Isley 2aug4 R6

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., AUGUST 9, 1934 NUMBER 37

Church Finances Again

On July 13th there appeared in the Methodist Protestant-Recorder an interesting editorial entitled "Accepted Assessments." I am passing the article along to the readers of the Herald because it is a fair, impartial review of a very important subject. The article begins and continues as follows:

"A new system of making assessments was adopted by the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in its recent session. We do not have at hand an official copy of the plan and can only give our interpretation, or impression, of the meaning of the act as the interpretation has come to us from several sources. If we are incorrect we will be sorry, but the scheme is to us suggestive.

"The general conference estimates the amount needed for administration and benevolences. This information is sent to the Annual Conference and after considering the needs and resources the annual conferences agree to accept and raise a certain sum. The amount accepted is the assessment of the conference for the year. The procedure is followed by passing the askings of the annual conferences to the district and quarterly conferences, where the need of the general church and the resources of the local churches are studied, and the charges promise to pay the amount thought possible for the year. This accepted sum is the assessment for that year. The working details of the plan are rather hazy to one who does not know the program of another church, but the principle is plain.

"The amount of the assessment is in every case determined by those who will raise and pay the money. The thing may look dangerous but it is at least democratic. The authority of the administration may seem to be weakened but the plan will put the responsibility up to those who will at last perform the service. The pressure of the conference may be lightened but the sense of responsibility will be deepened with the local churches. The new plan may lead the people to a closer study of the needs of the whole church and a more conscientious assumption of the obligations of the entire denomination.

"It is impossible to change the system of laying assessments in the Methodist Protestant church before the next General Conference, and we are not sure that we may want to change it then. Certainly we have not come close enough to our budget to believe that some change might not conceivably be better. During the next two years we would do well to watch this experiment within our sister church and see the fruit of the new idea. Accepted assessments may produce larger revenues than those apportioned by the authority of the General Conference.

"This editorial is in no sense an advocacy of a new thing, it is not a conviction, is it only an attempt to call attention to a plan which should be watched with great interest by all churches."

The most striking thing about the entire article is the fact that it goes out of its way to disclaim any and all desire to sponsor the proposed change, and yet throughout shows a distinct friendliness thereto. This indicates progress. It signifies one of the transitions through which every worth-while reform must pass on the way to its fulfillment. However, with this given transition there comes a peril which I may discuss later, a peril which has already done the movement some damage in our conference, and which might finally delay or divert the movement from its true objective in the life of our denomination. This much is true, the idea is rapidly becoming respectable. The above editorial is one of the many indications that the idea is about to find its way into the life of our denomination.

H. F. Fogleman.

Classmate Gerringer

Many fine and gracious things will be expressed over the apparently untimely exodus of our classmate, friend, and brother beloved, Rev. L. W. Gerringer, D.D., preacher of righteousness, and good minister of Jesus Christ. He preached his seminary graduation sermon from the text, "I determined to know nothing among you, save Jesus Christ and him crucified," and myriads all over the charges he served and the meetings in which he helped will testify how faithful he was to his early theme. All saw Jesus Christ in him.

But it is rather from a personal relation that I write. We spent seven years in school together, rooming together part of the time, graduating from the college and seminary together, joined the conference and were ordained kneeling together, and have kept in close touch with each other through the years, and visiting in each other's home whenever possible. Recently word reached him that I was planning to motor through his section the latter part of the summer, and immediately an urgent letter—my last from him—came inviting me to preach for him.

Brother J. E. Pritchard will recall our fine and intimate fellowship together in college and seminary. If either of us three got a box of "eats" from home, we three gathered together and shared it. When this personal word is published I expect to be in North Carolina, and one of my deepest regrets will be my inability to hear the voice that is still, and touch the hand that sleeps. Alas! with moist eyes and trembling hand and bleeding heart I add this word of personal tribute.

W. A. Ledford.

I TALK WITH A WIDOW

By LUTHER K. LONG

For some time I have known that many of the older people among us have been calling in question the wisdom of submitting to certain restrictions and limitations to which they have been held by custom. Especially during the last few years have I become conscious of these changed attitudes.

What, for instance, do widows think of the traditional status to which custom usually assigns them? Should they be content to spend the remainder of their days as individuals set apart from the common currents and enjoyments of life? I have talked with a number of these good women, and should like to refer to three of them, but space forbids. I must confine myself to one. I am giving her an attractive name, for she is an attractive person.

GERALDINE

I have known Geraldine and her late husband for many years. He died twelve years ago, at the age of 72, after they had lived together 46 years. She is now 80 years old.

They would be called an old-fashioned couple. They brought up two children, and had welcomed six grandchildren. Six great-grandchildren have come on the scene since the widow has been alone. After the death of her husband, Geraldine went to live with her daughter in a good home. Altogether, she is well provided for. She has no burdensome duties, and she finds it possible to spend much of the winter seasons in a southern climate.

She has expressed herself quite freely to me in several intimate conversations. Her husband had been in poor health for the last five or six years of his life. She was 68 years old at the time of his death. Her friends—and she herself—thought that this separation from the one with whom so much of her life had been associated, meant for her the end of everything desirable. She assured me that it did not occur to her—and probably not to anyone else—to think of even the possibility of another marriage. Her heart was sad, her hands and arms were freed from the weight of the sweet and difficult burdens she had been carrying so many years, and she was lost. She didn't know what to do. The kind ministrations of relatives and friends helped her to bear up; and she was glad to have a comfortable home to which she was invited, and in which she could wait out the few remaining years of her earthly pilgrimage.

It was not long, however, before she felt herself to be in an anomolous situation. She had plenty of the ordinary material comforts. But her children and grandchildren belonged to different generations from hers. Their friends were not her special friends. Their interests and occupations were different from hers. They tried always to make her feel at home. They included her in many of their good times, and often took her places with them. But, even with her winters in the South, there was something lacking.

The father of the wife of one of the grandsons was a widower, between 50 and 60 years of age. In some way it was arranged that Geraldine should go and keep house for him—doing only the lighter work that would not be too much for her. Her daughter objected to this with tears: "Why, mother, you have your room here, and everything you need. You shouldn't go and do that." But Geraldine went and did that, nevertheless.

For six months she had a happy time. She enjoyed looking after the house-keeping details, as she had been accustomed to do almost all her life. The man's clothing was kept in order, the table linen and other equipment was attended to—everything being done in accordance with her excellent taste. It was an enjoyable six months.

Some of you readers are jumping to the conclusion that this man, in spite of the difference in their ages, proposed to marry Geraldine. You are mistaken. He married another woman, one about his own age; and Geraldine returned to the home of her daughter carrying pleasant memories of an unusually comfortable episode.

I feel quite sure—though she has not specifically told me—that, had she known as much twelve years ago as she now knows, she would have realized, within two or three years following her husband's death, that it would be entirely proper for her to accept—possibly even going so far as to encourage—the attentions of an in-every-way suitable man with reference to marriage. Of course, such a man might never have come along—not even every attractive and entirely desirable young woman is sought in marriage. However, Geraldine has said that she has come definitely to feel that marriage to another man does not in the least imply disloyalty to one's former husband. At her present age marriage is, in all probability, out of the question. But, had she understood, and had the right man appeared, she might by now have enjoyed as much as ten years of satisfactory life with another good man. I am glad that even as matters now stand, she is finding life more satisfactory than do some women, because she has come to a better understanding of men, and to friendship with them, and has more freedom from unwholesome inhibitions.

I am moved to make a few remarks:

1. The marriage of elderly people is a worthy subject for careful consideration and rational action. The natural and sentimental objections on the part of the children concerned, constitute a frequent barrier which should never be lightly disregarded. The idiotic interference of officious individuals promoting, or opposing, particular unions, together with the more or less irrational conduct of the high contracting parties themselves, will account for a lot of the heart-burnings and heart-breakings in connection with the sort of marriages we are considering.

2. There is not as large a place for romance, in the courtship of elderly couples, as is usually seen when youth courts youth. Sons and daughters may be justifiably indignant at unseemly friskiness on the part of a father or a mother. Romance, however, need not be despised or neglected.

3. There is a larger place for the arranged marriage, or the marriage of convenience, or the considered marriage, in the case of elderly people than in the case of couples in their twenties. This should be emphasized. Rushing emotionally into marriage regardless of advanced age and poor health, or without considering the social, intellectual, and financial resources of the parties concerned—perhaps soon to become dependent on relatives and friends—is the height of folly. My conviction grows, however, that wise arrangement, considered convenience, and sober intelligence may well have large place in any marriage.

4. What is, or should be, sought in the marriage of elderly persons? The birth of children should, of course, be out of the question. The founding or developing of great business or industrial enterprises is, usually, not for these people. There should not be too much difference in ages and in social and intellectual standing. Care about these things will likely forestall certain objections by the children. Companionship, friendship, understanding, sympathy and mutual help—these are the positive factors to have in mind. Each should be wary about getting into more responsibility and hard work than can be comfortably borne. It is well if each party has modestly adequate financial resources. It is permissible for either one, or both, to have an abundance; though, when one has too much more than the other, complications are more likely to arise.

5. It is well if some sort of study, or enterprise, or work, or hobby, or travel, or church and community service, binds the two together in their interests and activities. If they do not expect too much of each other, if neither seeks undue control over the other, if space is allowed for other friendships and interests, there is no sufficient reason why the years of otherwise lonely waiting for the inevitable end should not be transformed into years of healthy growth, satisfying companionship, and fruitful living.

6. When contemplating marriage one should avoid being carried away by emotion, sentiment, and romance. This applies to marriageable persons of any age. The obligations assumed in marriage, the privileges entered into, the hopes of joy and permanent satisfactions, the possibilities of disillusionment and suffering, the changed relations to a number of people—each of these has its serious side. Divine guidance may well be sought; for it is to be expected that He who made them male and female will be interested in their mating, and may be counted upon to bestow His blessings on their union.

WHY THE NATURAL MAN DOES NOT RECEIVE SPIRITUAL THINGS

The text, which is found in 1 Cor. 2:14, tells us why, which reads as follows: "But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned."

In the first place, we want to tell who is a natural man. He is one, according to the Word, who has not been born of the Spirit; one who has not been changed from nature to grace; one who minds the things of the flesh; one whose mind is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be. This kind of a man, according to the text, does not receive the things of the spirit of God, and then tells why. Because they are foolishness unto him.

In this connection we will name some of the spiritual things of God. In the first place, God Himself is a Spirit, therefore all things of Him, or from Him, are spiritual. We are told His Word is spirit and life. All true worship, such as preaching, prayer, and praise, and all other things that are spiritual, originated by One Who Himself is a spirit.

But these things are not received by the natural man, because they are foolishness unto him. We are told that the preaching of the Cross is to them that perish foolishness.

Preaching to the Jews was a stumbling-block, and unto the Greeks foolishness. These, and such like things, are given why the natural man does not receive the things of the spirit of God. Neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned.

The condition of the natural man is all out of order for receiving and knowing them. Every member or faculty of the natural man is like the man of whom they form a part, therefore, with a darkened understanding, deaf ears, and blind eyes he cannot know or discern spiritual things. We are told plainly that the flesh and spirit are contrary one to the other. Therefore they are not, and cannot be, alike. The natural man separates himself from spiritual things because he is natural.

We are told that the love of the Father is not in him who loves the world and the things of the world. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever.

When we compare the natural man, one who loves the world, with the man who loves spiritual things, we find one on the playground many times, on Sunday, playing golf, while the spiritual man goes to church, and there feeds, feasts, and receives the bread of life which will cause him to live forever.

Some one may say, if a natural man cannot know or discern spiritual things, how can he begin the Christian life? In reply, will say that I am glad if any reader has become interested enough to ask the above question. I am glad to say to any who wish to know, that the Scriptures nowhere say that a natural man can not desire to know or discern spiritual things, so the way is open to every man who desires to make a beginning in the Christian life. A right desire is one of the best things to start a man on the road to God I know of. Jesus Christ never opened the eyes of the blind until he desired Him to open them. He never caused the lame to walk or the sick to be healed until a desire in each case was made known unto Him. The prodigal had one desire that took him away from home, and another that brought him back. So, in each transaction, desire preceded action. Action must be such that will carry a man every foot of the way. The prodigal was not satisfied just to see his father's house, but when he put his foot in the house which he left he well knew that he was home again.

So when a man's will and desires get to working in the right direction, Jesus Christ is fully ready to help him see, know, and understand the spiritual things of God, which has been, now is, and ever will be, far above all the foolish things of this world.

E. G. Lowdermilk.

IN DIVINE WILL

Ps. 2:3-5: "The kings of the earth shall set themselves and rulers take counsel together against the Lord . . . saying,

"Let us break their bands asunder and cast away their cords from us.

"He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh: the Lord shall hold them in derision.

"And then shall he speak to them in his wrath . . . "

When man takes affairs in his own hands, and God's Spirit is not upon his works, then there are perilous times and the machinery runs badly. For an example: a man, with all confidence in himself, attempts to pilot, without instruction previously, or a chart, a ship over mighty, storm-tossed seas more powerful than himself: and where does his course end? In the breakers with terrible wreckage is the doom of that ship. When connection and communication (prayer) with the powerhouse of God is broken, everything always goes badly amiss; the "powerhouse" also holds blessings for us. Man's power comes of God. And we need more of it, for "ye wrestle not against flesh and blood. but against powers and principalities."

Many of the great minds of men of God have spoken on the present crisis, and declare that there is little hope for an ungodly nation.

The trend of modernism is toward dictatorship: in Germany, Russia, Italy, and many other countries, including our own. Is dictatorship, or kingship, wrong? Do we need that?

When the rulers, as they are doing now, set themselves and take counsel together against the Lord, He shall laugh at their puny strength, and vent his wrath and sore displeasure upon them. If God is not consulted concerning the matters of our government, and His Spirit is not upon its programs, surely, is it not antagonistic to Him?

Brethren of Christ, do you feel that the NRA and various other phases of our government are synonymous with the divine will of our Father? If we make no attempt to please, honor, and glorify Him, except with dry and hollow worship, can we expect to continue with Him in the peace, purity, and prosperity of the righteous? If the Lord withdraws Himself and hides from us His face, we shall be desolate and depressed. But "Draw nigh unto the Lord, and he will draw near unto you."

The "mark of the beast," prophesied of in His Word, shall usher in the anti-Christ; what then of all these emblems, and symbols, and marks of the nations? What is the significance of the NRA emblem; the Italian, Russian, and German emblems? The times appear to be very ripe for the coming of the anti-Christ.

What is finite and impotent man in comparison with omnipotent God! "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." Truly there is a true God that liveth in the skies—the same Almighty yesterday, now, and for eternity. Only the fool denies Him.

CHAS. W. STONE.

Siler City, N. C.

FAITH AND DOUBT

Faith's a stronger prop than Doubt.
Lean upon it; it is stout.
Doubt will break and let you fall,
Be you big or be you small.
It will not sustain your weight,
It's the broken reed of Fate;
But in Faith you'll find a friend
To sustain you to the end.

Faith you'll find along life's way
Vindicated, day by day;
In the passing of the rain,
In the sun that shines again,
In the glow of health returned,
To the cheeks once fever-burned,
In the blossoming of trees,
You can see Faith's victories.

Doubt's a handicap to you,
Faith is strength for all you do.
Faith, whatever may betide,
Sticks right closely by your side.
Doubt's a traitor, Faith a friend
True and loyal to the end;
Faith, when all is sifted out,
Wins more battles here than Doubt.

—Author Unknown.

PASS IT ON

When Mark Guy Pearse was a boy he was at school in Germany, though his home was in Cornwall. In those days it was necessary to take train to Bristol, and to travel thence by boat. When he had paid his passage money on the boat, all his money was gone. However, he thought he needed no more, and ate his meals and enjoyed the breezes with a light heart. But when the voyage was nearly ended the steward presented a bill for some extra food. "I haven't any money," replied the boy. "You should not have ordered the things," answered the steward. "What is your name?" "Mark Guy Pearse." The steward shut his pocketbook with a snap. "Why, I know your father. When I was a boy and my mother a widow, your father gave me five shillings. All he made me promise was, that if I found some one in distress, I would pass it on." The steward put Mark into a boat, paid the bill, and gave the boy five shillings for himself. When Mark Guy Pearse grew up, he stood one day by a ticket office, and saw a boy crying. "What's the matter, my lad?" said he kindly. "I've not enough money for my fare, and my friends are expecting me!" sobbed the boy. "Here's the money," said the minister. "Now come in with me, and I will tell you a story." He told the boy what has just been told. "I'm passing on what was given me. What will you do?" "I'll pass it on," said the boy. This motto may mean more than passing on only such things as tickets and food.—Olive Leaf.

PORTICO OF ROBERTS HALL, ADMINISTRATION BUILDING OF HIGH POINT COLLEGE

This was the first building erected on the campus in 1922, and remained there some months before the other buildings were commenced. This building houses the administrative offices, class rooms, library, chapel, dining room, and kitchen. It is an imposing structure and can be seen at great distances as one approaches this city by train or by highway. This building is named in memory of Mr. J. C. Roberts, of Kernersville, who furnished a great deal of inspiration for erecting the college. He left a legacy of $10,000 for the purpose of aiding in the founding of the institution, provided it was constructed by 1920. It was not constructed within that time, and the provisions of the will were that this fund would be used to educate young men for the ministry in the Methodist Protestant Church.

OUR STORY PAGE

"THANK GOD, IT WORKS!"

A man once came to Dr. R. A. Torrey in Chicago and said: "When I was a boy in Scotland, seven years old, I was reading my Bible through; and when I came to Deuteronomy I found that if a man kept God's Law for a hundred years, and then broke it, he was under a curse. The discovery threw me into absolute misery for twelve months. I kept reading on till I came to the third of John, and then I found that God so loved the world that whosoever believes in His only begotten Son has everlasting life. My burdens rolled away at the feet of Jesus Christ, and I had peace. I grew to manhood, and went to work in the stockyards of Chicago; and I fell into drinking habits. Now, can I be saved from the drink?"

"Well," said Dr. Torrey, "do you believe that Christ died to save you?"

"Yes."

"That He rose again?"

"Yes."

"That all power is committed unto Him?"

"Yes."

"Therefore that He has power to set free here and now from the appetite of drink?"

"Yes."

"Then ask Him."

Together they knelt down, and after Dr. Torrey had prayed the man said:

"O Heavenly Father, I believe that Jesus Christ died for my sins, and I have trusted Thee to forgive me for His sake. But now I see that He rose again, and has all power to free me from every evil appetite."

Then he changed his petition to the Lord Jesus, and said:

"O Lord Jesus, set me free right now from the love of drink! I trust Thee to do it."

What was the consequence? A few weeks later he wrote to Dr. Torrey saying, "I am very glad I came to see you. It works! It works! Thank God, it works!"—The Dawn.

LUKE IMBRIE'S TEMPTATION

"Be very careful that you do not lose your money," said Luke Imbrie's mother, as she wrapped a shining quarter in a bit of teapaper upon which Luke's name and the amount of offering had been plainly written.

"Trust me for that," answered Luke, thrusting the tiny package into his vest pocket.

"And don't forget your verse," urged his mother. And then slowly and reverently she repeated, "The Lord knoweth them that are His. And, Let everyone that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity."

"I'll remember everything," said Luke, hurrying down the walk that led to the gate.

Luke Imbrie belonged to the "Willing Workers," but he was not much of a worker himself, and when missionary day came around his bank was usually empty. So it was no new thing for him to come to his mother for his monthly offering.

He had just reached the first crossing that afternoon, when Jack Moore ran across the street to show him a new scarf pin which he had just gotten with a package of candy.

"You never saw such bargains!" he explained, breathlessly. "This pin is solid gold, and the settings are real pearls. Just think—all for the sum of twenty-five cents. You must go down, Luke, before the best things are taken."

"But I haven't twenty-five cents to invest," said Luke.

"How much can you raise?"

"Just one little nickel."

"Run home and get the balance," urged Jack.

"I can't. You see, Mother is a little queer about such things, and I would not like to ask her for any more money now at any rate, for I had to go to her for my missionary money again."

"How much did she give you?"

"A quarter; I have it here in my vest pocket."

Jack whistled. "A quarter for the missionary society! Why, nobody gives that much. I know lots of boys who give just a nickel, and they are not poor, either. Why, that is all Tommy Dean gives, and his father is the richest man in the church. Give your nickel, and buy yourself rich with the quarter."

"But Mother gave me the money to put in the collection."

"Well, she need never know about the change. The nickel does not look unlike a quarter, and no one is going to examine what you put in. Let us have a look at the shining bit," urged Jack.

Luke complied with the request, and as a consequence the nickel and quarter changed places, and a very few minutes later Luke was trying on a ring which he had gotten, and which the man who stood behind the counter assured him was solid gold.

He was so pleased that he did not worry over the use he had made of his missionary money, until the collection basket was passed, and he tried to say his verse.

"The Lord knoweth—knoweth," he stammered, and then, to hide his confusion, he opened his Testament at random and read, "Why hath Satan filled thine heart to lie to the Holy Ghost, and to keep back part of the price of the land?"

The words frightened him very much at the time, but no one seemed to notice his embarrassment, so he tried to quiet his conscience by a determination never to try to cheat the Lord again. The ring was hidden away in a dark corner of his pocketbook, and a full week passed away before he heard anything more about the missionary quarter. It was not his own name he heard discussed then, but that of George Cary, the treasurer of the "Willing Workers." He overheard Miss Carter, the superintendent, telling his mother that she was afraid George was not honest, as there was a shortage in the treasury of twenty cents.

"You see," she explained, "we can tell exactly how much has been paid, for we keep the slips, showing the amount contributed by each member, and I am sorry to say they do not tally with the money in the treasury. Of course, the shortage is small, but it is the principle involved that troubles me."

"I forgot to change the amount on my wrapper," Luke said to himself. "The nickel must have fallen out, or George would have seen his mistake at once, and they would have known what I had done."

The next day it was whispered around among the boys that George Cary was a defaulter and the report, coming to his ears, made him very miserable indeed. It made Luke miserable, too—so miserable that he could not sleep at night. He was afraid to close his eyes for fear the fate of Ananias and Sapphira would overtake him, and at midnight his anguish became so great that he crept out of bed and went to his mother's room to unburden his heart. You can guess how sad she was, but she forgave him, and prayed that God would forgive him too.

It was very hard for a high-spirited boy like Luke to acknowledge that he was the defaulter instead of poor George, but he had the courage of his convictions, and before sunset the next day all the "Willing Workers" knew that George Cary was more honest than his accounts had made him.

Luke's ring proved to be real brass, and Jack's diamond turned out to be nothing but paste, but they both kept the useless trinkets as reminders of their folly. They have learned to distrust all schemes where so much is offered for nothing, and it is a lesson in honesty that many other young people ought to learn without their experience.—Publisher Unknown.

THINK TWICE

In a recent examination of railway engineers held by the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company, a young applicant for promotion was asked a question:

"What controls you most in your work?"

His reply was: "I try to think twice every time that I do anything. My first thought is as to what I am doing, and my second thought is how I can best do it."

He won his promotion, not only because of his past excellent service, but on account of the wisdom displayed in his reply.

The habit of thinking twice before taking any action was once referred to by Commodore Vanderbilt as a danger signal which, if properly heeded, would be certain to prevent many disasters. There are many times in which quick action is required; but there are few occasions in life when one cannot take the time to think twice before acting.

Temptations in life are plenty enough. There is the temptation to be reckless with money or with the character of other people. There is the temptation to contract expensive and bad habits. There is the temptation to be disloyal to father, mother, and friends. There is the inclination to be lazy, not to work in every waking moment of the day.

Before yielding to any of these switches from the main track of life—think twice.—Boys' World.

—Our conflict is not with individual men but with established systems, entrenched customs, habitual attitudes, vested interestst, and false standards of life. And the struggle is with ourselves as well as with institutions and economic or political systems.—Harold E. B. Speight.

A PRAYER

Lord, I do not ask for silver,
  Nor do I ask for gold;
Just let Thy tender, loving arms
  Thy servant now infold;
Thy breast, my head let pillow,
  Thy beauty let me reflect;
Clothe me with Thy righteous robe,
  Thy spirit in my heart inject.

Without Thee I am nothing,
  Thou art the one True Vine;
And by Thy grace I'm grafted in,
  O, make my will like Thine!
The Spirit still is willing,
  But the flesh is always weak,
So Jesus, blessed Savior,
  Help me Thy face to seek.

Shine Thy Word upon my pathway,
  A lamp to guide my feet,
And like the dear beloved John,
  Cause me this Word to eat.
Then help me tell the story
  To those who do not know
That Christ the Lamb for sinners
  Was slain so long ago.

While I wait Thy soon appearing,
  Keep my lamp all trimmed and bright,
That I may not fall or stumble
  In this world of sin's dark night.
Only a little while to labor,
  Then the faithful win the crown;
O, let me be among that number
  That will wear the wedding gown!

Then in those countless ages,
  In that land naught shall defile,
I want to hear those words, "Well done,
  Enter thy joy, My Child";
Then I'll sing the song of Moses,
  And praise the Lamb of God
Who was worthy to redeem me
  With His own precious Blood.

—Selected.

THE KIND WORD

"I wonder how Vera Brooking ever developed such a fine disposition," said Eva. "She never seems to say a thing that hurts anyone or makes any trouble."

"I think she does it by watching," said Erie. "She told me once that she had had a terrible habit of saying sharp, sarcastic things, thinking they sounded clever. One day she hurt some one terribly, and after that she decided to overcome the habit of saying sharp things.

"Every night after that she used to ask herself if she had said anything harsh or untactful to anyone that day. If she had, she made herself write an apology. Now she has a reputation for saying kind things."—Queens' Gardens.

ABOVE THE CLOUDS

Though the rain beats down in torrents
And the thunders crash and roll,
And the lightning's jagged flashes
Split the sky beyond control;
Even though the wind's wild twistings
Scream and screech and tear and throw,
And while clouds of awful blackness
Hover o'er the earth below—
Up above this dark confusion,
Far beyond earth's gloomy shroud,
There's a light of hope and gladness;
'Tis the sun above the cloud.

Trials dark as storm's black visage
Ofttimes press upon the soul;
And the rains of tribulation
Fall while Satan's thunders roll.
Persecutions, hardships, losses
Like the wind come rushing in,
And the clouds hang black and lowering,
Threatening pain, and strife, and din.
Yet there's hope beyond earth's threshold;
There is light and joy divine—
Look above, beyond the cloud bank—
There the light of Christ doth shine.

And death's valley may loom fearful,
Life on earth is almost done;
Gruesome thoughts may come and haunt you
When life's race is almost run.
Fears, misgivings, doubts enfold you,
Hope is gone, the end seems near.
But look up! new life is waiting,
Glories ne'er could be found here.
There's a joyous peace in Heaven
Far above earth's noisy crowds;
There the Son of God will greet you—
There in Heaven above the clouds.

—Virdie Conaway.

IN GOD'S SERVICE

We may be humble and lowly, we may feel very unworthy and insignificant; but if God has called us to do His work, and to be His ambassadors, we have received the highest calling in the world!

Many of the things which are highly esteemed of men are an abomination to God. He is not necessarily looking for men of high position, of great wealth or of great education; for, "God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise; and God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty; and base things of the world, and things which are despised, hath God chosen, yea, and things which are not, to bring to naught things that are: that no flesh should glory in His presence." (1 Cor. 1:27-29.)

God is looking for those who are willing to give all of their mind and heart and soul to Him and His service. He can use the humblest vessel if it is clean and empty, and ready to be used.

"Oh, to be nothing, nothing,
Only to lie at His feet;
A broken and emptied vessel,
For the Master's use made meet.
Emptied, that He might fill me
As forth to His service I go,
Broken, and so unhindered—
His life through me might flow."

—Unknown.

TWO MEN

Two men lived in a Christian land;
Both knew how God sin's gulf had spanned.
Both loved and toiled, met gain and loss,
One sought for God, the other dross.
One was a Christian brave and true,
And honored God his whole life through;
And one died in his godless prime,
Wrecked by the sins which marked his time.

Both had prospects fair and bright;
Both lived in shining Gospel light;
Both read and studied God's own Word;
Both knew their hearts were deeply stirred.
But one bowed low beneath the rod,
And yielded up his heart to God;
The other passed the warnings by,
Refused to honor God Most High.

One walked where saints and Prophets trod,
One turned his feet away from God;
Both men came to death at last,
Life's opportunities all past.
One came like sheaf of garnered grain,
The other's life seemed worse than vain.
One left a testimony bright,
The other left no ray of light.

One left to earth a memory,
A hope of blessings yet to be;
The other left but vain regret,
And dearest friends would fain forget
The bitter suffering and woe
That sin made this poor man to know.
Both men went to meet their Lord.
God knows the rest, and their reward.

—John Three Sixteen.

—All this dream of a world from which poverty has been banished is contingent on the quality of manhood in the rising generation.—Erdman Harris.

—Contact with keen minds, new ideas, and the spirit of change—it's things like that which ward off hardening of the arteries and a jaded outlook on life.—Frank W. Nicolson.

PRECIOUS FAITH

The Second Letter of Peter is addressed to those who had "obtained a like precious faith" with the Apostle. It is an open letter and all may have the privilege of reading it. Only those who have faith like the Apostle can claim it as their own. Such faith is precious because of its scarcity. Only a small part of the human race have faith in the God of the Bible. Fewer still have faith like that of Peter as shown in that sermon on the Day of Pentecost and in the Epistles.

Faith is precious because of its origin. It is obtained through the righteousness of God and our Savior Jesus Christ. It can be obtained in no other way. Like the disciples we must ever pray, "Increase our faith." When we believe we can cry, "Lord, I believe; help Thou mine unbelief."

Faith is precious because it is faith in a precious Savior. He has redeemed us by "His precious blood." Having redemption at such a cost we are to remember that we are not our own. We have been bought with a price. It is our privilege as well as our duty to glorify Him in our body and in our spirit which are His.

Faith is precious because it takes hold of "exceeding great and precious promises." These are given us in the Word of God. They cheer and comfort us as we travel life's pathway.

Faith is precious because it is never idle. It is always at work in our path. Unbelief may work by harsh and unkind means, worldly wisdom and man-made theories. Faith works by love and will accomplish more and perform it better.

Faith is precious because of its effects. It brings justification and peace. These are desirable and the way to obtain them is precious. They enable us to rejoice in the hope of the glory of God. Faith also brings us sanctification which is both important and necessary. It is instrumental in bringing about these results as it enables us to receive Christ as our justification, our peace and our purity.

Faith is precious because of its sustaining qualities. It stands any test. Its final result is the salvation of souls. It may not always seem pleasant to have our faith put to the test, but if the trial is to be "found unto praise and honor and glory at the appearing of Jesus Christ" let it come and let God be glorified in us.

"Lord, give us such faith as this,
And then whate'er may come,
We'll taste e'en here the hallowed bliss
Of an eternal Home."

—The C. E. Herald.

◆

A CONCERN FOR SOULS

Many years ago I had touch with a very earnest minister. He was pastor of a church in a district which, because of the shifting of races, had been quite abandoned by whites. Other white churches had closed their doors, but he developed a strong church.

He was an ordinary preacher—less than ordinary in fact. He broke every law of homiletics in every sermon. But he loved souls.

One of his officers gave me the secret of this pastor's success when he told me his own experience. Years before he occasionally attended this church of which his wife was a member. He found himself out of work and decided he would go to see the minister, to learn if he knew of any position. It was Monday morning. He was ushered into the minister's house and told to sit in the living room, and the pastor would be right down. As he sat waiting, the thought occurred: "Now when the pastor enters, he will say, 'Good morning, Brother. Are you saved this morning?' " This was his usual greeting to milkman, grocer, and everyone he met.

"Well," said this inner voice to the waiting man, "you might as well settle it and be saved so you can say 'Yes' when he asks." The man dropped on his knees, cried out in repentance, and was born of the Spirit.

Soon the pastor came in and said, "Good morning, Brother. Are you saved this morning?" "I am," said the visitor. The pastor knew the man and was surprised. "When did that happen?" "Two minutes ago," was the reply. "I knew you'd ask me, so I got it all settled before you came in."

This is the kind of concern pictured in Old Testament and New. The Psalmist said, "Rivers of water run down mine eyes, because they keep not Thy Law," and Jeremiah prayed, "Oh that my head were waters, and mine eyes a fountain of tears, that I might weep day and night for the slain of the daughter of my people!"

Our Lord was not ashamed of emotion in connection with His ministry. "When He came near He beheld the city and wept over it." How long since you wept over your city? Did you ever shed a tear over lost neighbors and friends? Jesus did. "When he saw the multitude He was moved with compassion."

Paul could call the friends at Ephesus to remember that for three years he warned them night and day "with tears," and in Romans 9:1-3 he says: "I say the truth in Christ, I lie not, my conscience also bearing me witness in the Holy Ghost, that I have great heaviness and continual sorrow in my heart. For I could wish that myself were accursed from Christ for my brethren, my kinsmen according to the flesh."

It is not that there is any particular value in tears. All of these Scriptures refer to a Godly concern of which the tears are but an outward indication. You may have the concern without the tears or the tears without the concern.—Selected.

◆

PRAYER

Prayer should be the key of the day and the lock of the night.

Prayer is the door of Heaven's treasure house, and faith the key will unlock it.

Prayer is the ladder between Heaven and earth.

Prayer is the rope up in the belfry; we pull it and it rings the bell in Heaven.

Prayer is not overcoming God's reluctance; it is laying hold of His highest willingness.—Milk of the Word.

◆

—The state of civilization of any people is measured by the degree in which they are willing to forego their present desires for the sake of their future welfare.—Karl T. Compton.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Hebron, Orange	$ 2.00
Hope S. S., Siler City	1.31
Brown Summit S. S., Haw River	1.00
Baraca Class, Gibsonville, clothing child	5.00
Maple Springs S. S., Forsyth	5.00
Albemarle S. S.	4.00
Primary and First Junior, Gideon's Grove S. S. , Flat Rock	2.00
Mrs. Kate N. Pearson, Emporia, Va.	2.00
The N. C. Branch, Woman's Auxiliary by treasurer	140.15

We are thankful for these cash offerings. You see the list is short, and creditors are pressing. Please help us up in every way possible between now and Conference. Only three months in which to contribute before our report must be made to Conference.

While Bro. H. A. Garrett was superintendent of the Home a number of people pledged to pay $1.00 per year to the Home. All have dropped out except "Aunt Kato Pearson," a member of the M. E. Church. Her gift above is for 1933 and 1934.

Clothing and Other Gifts

The Jewish Women's Circle, High Point, a bundle of clothing for girls.

Mr. M. C. McDonald, West End, N. C., one truck load of peaches.

We greatly appreciate these gifts.

That Piano

No one has written us about a piano yet. Is there not a good piano sitting back in some M. P. home which is not in use? It would prove a blessing here. We need one badly for our boys. May we hear from you?

The Gathering of Produce

We are encouraged with the outlook for the Harvest Home offerings this fall. The following item in a letter from our pastor on the Democrat charge speaks for itself:

"Dear Dr. Dixon:

"We have nearly 200 half-gallon jars filled with berries and other things. The people have promised to give potatoes, cabbage, beans, and apples this fall. We hope to have a good load for you.

"All of us here are proud of the fact that we have made some small contribution to the Children's Home this year for the first time in several years. We are glad for what it means to you and the children, but see greater benefits to our own people here as a result of this work. We set a day the first of this month to pick and can berries for the Children's Home and a dozen people came to help with the work. I had been telling them about you and our Home and many who were not members of our church asked to be allowed to help. Several of our helpers were not Christians, but as we picked and cooked berries some of us prayed that all of these would soon learn to know the Great Friend of orphan children. Our meeting came a few weeks after this day's work and nearly every one of our workers who were not Christians accepted Christ as their Master. I am sure that the day of work and our prayers for them caused them to come to Him. Some of these people had never shown interest in any church before. I know of no better way to begin a revival than to get church members to work and pray for these children. D. T. H."

This, we understand, is from the Democrat church, and that church is sending to the Home in cash this year over $1.00 per member for the year.

We greatly appreciate their trought of us. God bless and direct all His workers.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

◆

GUILFORD COUNTY S. S. CONVENTION

The Guilford County Sunday School Convention will be held in the Methodist church, Pleasant Garden, on Tuesday, August 14. This is the Annual County Sunday School Convention, and is especially planned for all those interested in the Sunday schools of all denominations. The program as scheduled for this year calls for a three-session convention, beginning at 9:45 a. m., and continuing through an afternoon and night session. Between the morning and afternoon session there will be a fellowship dinner on the grounds, and everyone is asked to bring a basket lunch.

The morning and afternoon sessions will consist of addresses centering around the various phases of the convention theme, "Building Christian Homes," as well as special music, and two study groups. These study groups are a new feature of the program for this year, especially designed to meet the needs of the teachers, officers and all other Sunday school workers or members. Miss Myrtle A. McDaniel, director of Leadership Training of the state staff, will have charge of the study group on "How to Teach in the Sunday School." This is one of the simplified "A-Level Units" of the curriculum of the International Council, and those interested in securing credit for this course may do so, although it is not required. It is of particular interest to all teachers and those young people who ought to be training for positions of leadership in their own Sunday school. Rev. Shuford Peeler, general secretary of the State Association, will conduct a study class on "How to Imrove Your Sunday School."

The night session, while especially prepared in the interests of young people, will be of intense value to everyone. Young people are preparing to present interesting parts of the night program. Miss Edith Krider, director of Young People's Work for the State Association, will have the main address of the evening.

◆

EXPRESSES APPRECIATION

Miss Lucile Ingram, of Kernersville, who is a patient at Forsyth Sanatorium, wishes to thank the ladies of Maple Springs church, Winston-Salem, N. C., for their cheerful visits and beautiful flowers. She prays that God's blessings be with each and everyone in every undertaking.

◆

—Dr. C. W. Bates, the pastor of our First Church in Winston-Salem, is broadcasting from the Winston-Salem radio station each morning this week from eight to eight-fifteen o'clock.

—Rev. and Mrs. J. Clyde Auman and children are spending this week at Lake Waccamaw.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

ANNOUNCEMENT REGARDING LOANS FOR STUDENTS

The Student Loan Fund for High Point College will have funds available for 15 loans this fall of $100.00 each.

These loans do not bear interest until after the student leaves High Point College, but they do require the borrower to carry insurance to cover the loan and also a good security note.

Apply to Mrs. C. L. Whitaker, secretary of Student Loan Fund, for application blanks, or any information you desire concerning the loan.

We are so glad we can help worthy students when they need help.

MRS. C. L. WHITAKER, Sec'y
Student Loan Fund. High Point College.

◆

CHILDREN'S HOME DAY

Pastors and Sunday school superintendents will please announce Children's Home Day for Thurhday, September 13th. A program will be given beginning at 10:30 a. m., with picnic dinner and lemonade about 12:00, noon. We hope for great numbers of our people to be here that day.

Also please, everybody, respond to the efforts and appeals of Mrs. R. M. Andrews to relieve the Home of the stress of finances which it has carried so long. The N. C. Branch is asking through her a thing that we can do.

That Award

We have decided and agreed that we will make a gift of a good panoramic picture of the Home and its grounds to every church in the Conference which comes up 100 per cent to the appeal of Mrs. Andrews.

That is, every church in the Conference which actually enrolls every member, or a number of people equal to the membership of the local church, actually paying one penny for every year of their age will be given a good picture of the Home and its grounds.

Arrangements have been made with a good photographer, so there will be no slip this time.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

◆

—Brother J. J. Andrew, of Siler City, died Monday afternoon. The funeral was held at Hope church at Bonlee, where he was a charter member on Tuesday afternoon. The pastor of the church, Rev. H. L. Isley, was somewhere in the eastern part of the state and could not be located, so Dr. J. E. Pritchard, who had been a friend of the family for a number of years, conducted the funeral.

—The daily press carries news that Rev. Roy I. Farmer has resigned the pastorate of our First Church at High Point and will return to the Ohio Conference. Brother Farmer has been a useful man among us and his many friends will regret his going away.

—Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Pritchard will leave Saturday for Halifax County, where they are to spend a week with the people of Dr. Pritchard's first charge.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Bethesda, State Street.—Our revival meeting will begin the second Sunday in August. This will also be Home-Coming Day, as we have already announced a few weeks ago. But for fear some one would forget the date we will remind you again. We hope that Rev. George L. Curry will see this in print for we are looking for him to be there. We hope to have a large crowd present.

Our Sunday school is gradually increasing and we are hoping to reach our 200 mark the second Sunday in August; we had 179 present today.

The Ladies' Auixiliary has had the church tapped on to the power line that comes from Lexington by the church. We are enjoying bright electric lights now for which we are truly thankful. The auxiliary paid the tapping on fee which was $51.00 and $4.25 for bulbs. The church paid $7.80 out of the treasury for some rewiring and a few other little items that were necessary.

Mrs. C. L. Wagner entertained her class of grown girls last Friday evening at her home in Winston-Salem. About all of the class was present. She served Coca Cola, sandwiches and ice cream. They all reported a fine time.

Mr. R. E. Leonard entertained his class of boys at his home Saturday evening; he served weiners and ice cream. They all enjoyed it fine.

The Men's Bible class has had a contest which ended today; the Reds won over the Blues by just a small majority. Now the Blues have to entertain the winners.

Miss Elizabeth Yokley is spending the summer touring the old country. She has visited points of interest in Europe, Asia and Africa and at the present is in Italy. She will start back home in August.

The missionary chickens are beginning to sell now; will report later the amount received for them.

Our hearts go out in sympathy for Mrs. I. B. Wagner and Mrs. C. L. Wagner in the great loss of their brother, Luther Sink, and their father, Jacob L. Sink, who died about two weeks apart.

MRS. D. D. BRINKLEY, Reporter.

◆

Flat Rock Charge.—Our revival meeting began at Bethel Church last Sunday morning. The writer did the preaching at the two services on Sunday, at 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. We had large congregations at each service, and a large number of visitors. People were there from Greensboro, High Point, Winston-Salem, Roanoke, Va., and from Gideon's Grove and Palestine churches. Dinner was enjoyed by different groups on the church grounds. The presence of one buggy and horse reminded the people of a score of years ago when the people traveled in buggies. Rev. R. A. Hunter, pastor of the Forsyth Charge, is the engaged help for the meeting and is beginning today (Monday).

The writer' appreciates the kindness of Rev. G. A. Middleton, of Gideon's Grove church, for preaching at Palestine church the fifth Sunday morning. Bro. Middleton is the lone local preacher on Flat Rock Charge, and is always ready and willing to help the pastor. We are also appreciative of the kindly act of Rev. Wayne Curtis, of Burlington, for preaching at Flat Rock church the fourth Sunday morning in July. He had been with the writer during the previous week at Palestine church, and kindly consented to remain for the service at FlatRock church.

Last week was spent with the good people and pastor of Baltimore church on West Forsyth charge. We enjoyed being with these people again in their revival meeting, and it was a pleasure and a joy to preach to them again, after an absence of about eight months. We appreciated very much the honor of being invited so soon to assist in the revival meeting there. A special offering of $15.00 and the balance on last year's salary were highly appreciated. Baltimore church is the only church on that charge paying the salary in full for last year. I presume the reporter will give a full account of the meeting, so I will not comment further.

The pastor and family desire to express our appreciation for regular poundings which have been redeived during recent revival meetings at two churches. At the last service of the Gideon's Grove meeting the people nearly filled our car with many useful gifts for our dining table. The same thing was done at the close of the Palestine meeting, when the people gave a variety of groceries and two young chickens. We thank each one for the gifts and appreciate every donation.

We regret to report the illness of Mrs. Laura Ogburn, and Mrs. Cora Friddle, of Flat Rock church. The daughter of Mrs. J. B. Apple, of Bethel church, is also seriously ill. We hope for each one a speedy recovery.

Our appointment for next Sunday will be at Gideon's Grove church at 11 a. m. and at Flat Rock church at 3 p. m. The ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed at Gideon's Grove church.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

◆

Siler City Church.—Since my last report, Dr. R. M. Andrews has visited our church and delivered a splendid message on "Being Discouraged." The text was: "Let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not." Gal. 6:9. We always look forward to Dr. Andrews' visits, as he always brings a smile for everyone and leaves good thoughts with us all.

The third quarterly conference met in our church Wednesday, July 22, at 8 p. m. Mr. T. L. Smith made a fine talk just before the business meeting. Each church was well represented and the reports from the churches were very encouraging. Our pastor also had a fine report and showed that he had not been idle. Mr. L. L. Wrenn was elected delegate to Annual Conference.

The Children's Day convened on the fifth Sunday night in July. The program consisted of songs, recitations, dialogues, pantomimes and talks. The children all did fine under the leadership of Mesdames T. L. Smith and C. E. Brady. The music was under the direction of Miss Verda Shaw Fox and the children showed they had been well trained. One good feature of the program was a talk, "Our Young People in the Church Today," by one of our own young Baptist boys, Mr. Benton Bray, who is now a professor in Louisburg College. We were more than glad to have him make this splendid talk and he held the audience spellbound. Mr. L. L. Wrenn made a very interesting talk also. Miss Verda Shaw Fox sang a lovely solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. E. Brady. The collection was fine.

Our pastor is filling all his appointments and delivering some very inspiring Gospel messages.

The annual Chatham County Sunday School Convention met with Asbury M. E. Church on July 31, 1934, with 28 Sunday schools represented. This convention has an attendance banner, and the Sunday school having the largest attendance, at the convention, based on the number of miles traveled, receives the banner, to be held until the next meeting. We just want to tell you Herald readers that our little delegation is the happy winner of this banner, and we are going to try and hold it for years to come. If you go once to this convention you surely will want to go ever after.

Mr. Joe Andrews is right sick. He is a member of Hope church, but his home is in Siler City. We are hoping he may soon make a speedy recovery.

Two of our boys, Hubert Stone and Charles Stone Woody, attended the Leadership Training School at High Point College and have made interesting reports. They are anxious to attend next year and want a good delegation to go from our church.

MRS. J. A. COOPER, Reporter.

◆

Bethesda.—We were sorry to learn that our beloved pastor, Rev. C. W. Saunders, passed away, but in obedience to Him that doeth all things well we bow in submission to His will. Bro. Saunders was a man of great inspiration, full of love and charity. His motto was "Peace and liberty to all men." We miss him here, but we hope to meet him in the sweet bye and bye where we will weep no more, but all will be joy, peace and happiness throughout the eternal ages. May God bless his companion and her children and comfort their broken hearts.

Since it has pleased Almighty God to take from us Pastor Saunders as pastor we are glad He has sent us another: Rev. J. H. Trollinger, of Rockingham. Bro. Trollinger began his work here on the fourth Sunday at 11 o'clock and brought us a wonderful message. We are hoping that the Lord will do many mighty works through him here.

We are planning to beyin our revival meeting the fifth of August. We cordially invite all to come. Give us your prayers and presence, and let's feast at the Master's table.

J. R. BOON, Reporter.

◆

Orange Charge.—Revival services began at Efland church Sunday, July 29, and closed the following Friday. Rev. C. L. Spencer was with us at the beginning and remained until the close . His plain Gospel sermons were well received. Visible results: 26 conversions, 17 additions to our church on confession of faith; 5 from other churches; total, 22. Five of the above converts will probably join the Baptist church. We hope the remaining four will join with us. Brother Spencer, by his faithful work, greatly endeared himself to both pastor and people. He will find a hearty welcome when he comes this way again.

The third quarterly conference was held at

Chestnut Ridge Saturday, August 4th. The business was transacted in a spirit of brotherly love. Bro. Cicero H. Jones, having received a majority of the votes cast, was declared delegate-elect to our next Annual Conference.

There will be a lawn party at Buckhorn school grounds Saturday, August 18th, beginning at 5:30 p. m. Proceeds will be used for building stone flues at Chestnut Ridge church.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

◆

Baltimore.—We had a good attendance at the series of meetings during the past week. While the results were not what we might have hoped for, yet I feel that we were all benefited by the wonderful messages brought to us by our former pastor, Rev. C. B. Way, who assisted our present pastor, Rev. D. R. Williams, in the meeting.

Our regular 11 o'clock service Sunday was not so well attended as usual; however, our pastor brought to us a wonderful message.

The third quarterly conference was held at Baltimore Sunday evening at 3 o'clock with two of the six churches represented. Mr O. G. Griffin was elected as delegate to the Annual Conference.

LILLIE SPEER, Reporter.

◆

Charlotte Church, Richland Charge.—Rev. R. L. Hethcox filled his regular appointment here Sunday morning.

Our revival meeting will begin the first Sunday in September, with our pastor doing the preaching. There will be all-day services and a picnic dinner at noon.

The July meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held with Mrs. G. C. McCain. Miss Sally McCain gave a very interesting talk on World Missions. She took a course in this at the Leaderhhip Training School. The August meeting will be held at the parsonage with Mrs. R. L. Hethcox next Thursday evening.

The Auxiliary served a picnic supper to the Asheboro Kiwanis Club recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred McCain announce the birth of a son, Terry Wilson, July 29.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay McCain announce the birth of a daughter, Myra Jean, July 29.

Mr. Zeb Bulla, of Nashville, Tenn., has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Bulla, and other relatives here.

Mrs. Lester Farlow, who has been quite ill, is improving. We hope she will soon be able to be at church again. REPORTER.

◆

Enfield.—Our Woman's Auxiliary has just completed having the parsonage dining room re-papered and woodwork painted; also the kitchen painted. This makes a great improvement on the parsonage. Both circles have recently sold Brunswick stew with much success. Circle No. 1 plans to buy new shades for the parsonage dining room with their proceeds. Our Sunday school is growing both in attendance and interest under the splendid leadership of our superintendent, J. R. Rives. The Sunday school has just ordered new songbooks, of which they are very proud. Mr. Rives' daughter, Jeanette, has recently been to the hospital for a very serious operation, but she is able to be at home now and is doing very nicely. Mrs. Rives has also been very sick with malaria, but we are glad to report that both are improving and we pray they may soon be well again.

Our hearts have been saddened by several deaths in our town and community recently. Mr. Henry Neal, Mrs. Sarah Harris, Mrs. Will Herbert and Mrs. Lula Sykes. Our church extends to their families and loved ones most sincere sympathy and the assurance that their sorrow is our sorrow also.

Group meeting was held in our church July 10. Dr. R. M. Andrews, Rev. W. H. Neese and Mrs. J. H. Cutchin were with us, and while we were disappointed in our small attendance the interest and spirit was fine and we had a very splendid meeting.

Our pastor, Rev. E. O. Peeler, is giving us splendid sermons and the church is very grateful to him and his family for their faithful services.

With best wishes to the Herald and its readers. REPORTER.

◆

Union Chapel, Granville Circuit.—Our revival was held the fourth week in July, as is the custom every year. Rev. B. M. Williams was our visiting minister, bringing some most helpful and inspirational sermons, which were, considering the extremely hot weather, well attended. Ten new members were added to the church enrollment.

The Missionary Society met in its regular monthly meeting, with Mrs. Mitchell as hostess. An interesting program was rendered, after which a chapter of the study book was taken up, led by Mrs. Spencer. A splendid collection was taken. It was decided that the Auxiliary would assume the responsibility of clothing an orphan girl this winter. After all business was transacted, the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Our Sunday school is planning to have its annual picnic in the near future. The young people, who have been so faithful this summer are especially looking forward to the occasion.

We are sorry to report that our pastor, Rev. C. L. Spencer, has been sick a part of the summer and unable to do his best work. We hope he will be strong again soon.

MRS. E. C. HUFF,
Reporter.

◆

Calvary.—On the fifth Sunday in July, in the absence of the pastor who was assisting in revival services at Graham, the Calvary pulpit was occupied at 11 o'clock by Rev. J. B. Braxton, the pastor of Mount Pleasant Charge, and at the evening hour by Rev. W. M Howard, the new pastor of Moriah church. The people speak highly of the sermons of both of these men. I am sure the peole will be glad for these brethren to make a return visit sometime.

By action of the quarterly conference, the pastor is to have the second and third Sundays in August as a vacation. On next Sunday Rev. T. F. McCulloch will preach at 11 o'clock and on the third Sunday Rev. W. F. Ashburn will preach. There will not be any evening services on Sundays during the month of August. But those who usually attend the Wednesday evening prayer meeting voted to have prayer meeting right on through the month.

Calvary now lacks only one more small payment of having what we used to call the Annual Conference Budget out of the way. Also within the next few weeks we expect to pay the remainder of the College assessment. From that time until the Annual Conference we can spend our time getting local matters rounded up. The budget of the Woman's Auxiliary is $1,000 a year. The first quarter of the new Auxiliary year they raised $250.15, or just 15 cents more than one quarter of their budget. Hats off to Calvary women!

The sympathy of the entire membership is extended to the relatives of the late Dr. S. S Coe. Quite a large percentage of these relatives are members of Calvary Church and very valuable members also, a brother, J. C. Coe, being superintendent of our Sunday school.

Both the pastor and the membership of Calvary have been greatly grieved over the death of Dr. L. W. Gerringer. We are all very anxious for Mrs. Gerringer and the children to come to their home here near our church, to live. They are held in such high esteem that our people would consider it a privilege to have them in the community.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

◆

Asheville.—It's a good thing that Dr. Pritchard said that he did not make up his percentages until the second week after the subscriptions were sent in, or else a whole bunch of Asheville workers, led by Mr. J. R. Moore, might have been saying, or at least thinking some uncomplimentary things about him. Thank you, Dr. Pritchard, for explaining this matter! And, incidentally, Asheville is 100 per cent now—the remaining subscriptions are being mailed this week. The five dollars for the Subsidy Fund is paid in full, and we want the folks to know that the women of the church started that at the last meeing of the Woman's Auxiliary—then some of the men helped to finish it the following Sunday. Come on, church members, "let's go over the top!" with all other items of our church budget. It can be done!

It was indeed a privilege and a pleasure to have Dr. Andrews speak to us last Sunday evening. Prior to his sermon of the evening Dr. Andrews spoke in regard to some of the objectives of our church. His sermon topic was "Prayer," with the text, "The effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much," his sermon and its message being thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated by the congregation present. We hope that Dr. Andrews enjoyed his all-too-brief visit with us, as much as we enjoyed his presence and illuminating message.

It was no less a pleasure to have with us Rev. C. W. Bates, a former pastor of the Asheville church, who spoke to us on Sunday a week ago during the morning service, and we hope that he will meet with us again at no distant date.

Those of our members who remember Rev. L. W. Gerringer, who also served the Asheville church, wish to extend to Mrs. Gerringer and the family their deepest and sincere sympathy in their recent sad bereavement.

Our Vacation Church School is going along nicely, and the faculty and pupils are thoroughly enjoying it. If you could visit the playground during recess, you would be convinced that the teachers are enjoying the fun as much as the children are—and the teachers are learning to enter into the spirit of play with the children. The baseball team is having lots of fun, but is rather inclined to protract the recess period.

Miss Josie McNeil, who has been working elsewhere, will have charge of her primary children in the Vacation Church School this week, they being regular members of her Sunday school class. Miss McNeil is a splendid teacher.

For the past few weeks the Junior Girls' class had faltered in its stride, but since Miss Irene Miller has taken charge they are going ahead rapidly and making great improvement.

Mrs. Bolick is almost swamped with beginners in her Sunday school class, her class having the largest attendance, 24 in number.

The Philathea class led with the largest collection.

Thanks to our energetic and always enthusiastic member, Mr. D. J. Eller, our bulletin board presents a bright and shining appearance.

Circle No. 3 of the Woman's Auxiliary met at the home of Miss Frances Cunningham on Friday evening, August 3rd. Devotionals were led by Miss Irene Miller, the business session being presided over by Miss Cunningham. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of a very enjoyable meeting.

We were glad to welcome back our two members, Mrs. McNeil and Mrs. J. A. McIntire, who have been absent on account of illness.

Little Roby Dillingham, son of Mrs. Louise Dillingham, was christened by Pastor Minnis at the 11 o'clock services on Sunday last.

Mrs. Dixie Messer, who has been seriously ill, is much improved in health, and we trust that she will soon be with us again.

A MEMBER.

* * *

Spring Church Circuit Auxiliary. — On Wednesday, August 1st, at 3 p. m., the Spring Church Circuit Auxiliary met on the church lawn at Spring Church for their regular monthly meeting. The program in our yearbook called for an outdoor service for the month of August. Mrs. Charles Green was devotional leader. She used the hymn, "O Worship the King," for the opening number. During the period of meditation Mrs. Green called on the following members to read the selections laid down in "Launch Out Into the Deep:" Mesdames T. J. Kee, J. W. Crew, and R. M. Robinson. The society was led in prayer by Mrs. W. W. Grant. During the business session it was found we had 16 active members, two honorary and three Precious Jewels present and 26 young people and children as visitors.

At this time it was decided to hold "An Old-Fashioned Spelling-Bee" and "Measuring Party" at Pleasant Hill schoolhouse on the evening of August 21. Everyone is invited to come and have a pleasant evening together. Mesdames W. W. Grant, Leon Glover and William H. Neese compose the committee to make plans for the occasion.

Mrs. H. E. Vassar was program leader. She read extracts from a number of letters from the foreign field which were very interesting. Miss Virginia Grant gave "Echoes From the Leadership Training School." Miss Lucille Kee read a paper on "Our Christian Colleges."

The committee on sympathy was instructed to write notes of sympathy to Mesdames L. W. Gerringer and G. W. Hubbard, who have recently lost their companions, and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Camp, who lost their home and property recently by fire. The Auxiliary recently gave a shower to Mr. and Mrs. Camp. Mr. Neese led the society in the closing prayer. This was the time for our annual Circuit Auxiliary picnic and a bountiful lunch was spread on a long table and all gathered around and enjoyed a great feast. Games were played by the children and a profitable social hour was enjoyed by all.

MRS. WILLIAM H. NEESE,
Cor. Sec'y.

* * *

Lexington, Mt. Carmel.—Sunday, August 5, was a great day for Mount Carmel M. P. Church. This was the annual Home-Coming day and we had the largest attendance at Sunday school that has ever been known, there having been 154 in number. Mr. Smith, of Sheets Memorial Church, Lexington, taught a wonderful lesson to the two adult classes. Immediately after Sunday school Solicitor H. L. Koontz, of Greensboro, delivered a wonderful address on "A Successful Life" to the largest congregation to ever gather at Mount Carmel for the Home-Coming. It was said by some of the laymen that it was one of the best sermons they had ever heard. Solicitor Koontz was reared and attended school at Mount Carmel about 40 years ago. He called the roll and 10 or 12 of his former schoolmates were in the audience to hear him. It was indeed a pleasure to have Mr. Koontz back with us for this great occasion. Dinner was served on the ground in regular picnic style, after which the congregation re-assembled in the church and a number of short talks were made by the following laymen: Mr. D. T. Fritts, Mr. Smith, Mr. C. B. Koontz, Mr. Adam Young, and Mr. George Berrier. Music was furnished by the First M. P. church choir, Lexington, and a quartet from the West End M. P. church, Thomasville, and the Presbyterian quartet of Lexington was present in the afternoon.

The revival began Monday afternoon with Rev. J. T. Bowman, pastor of Denton Charge, as the visiting pastor. He brought a very helpful and inspiring message at both afternoon and evening services. Special violin music was furnished by Foy and Clifton Hege, of Lexington, for the evening service.

ZULA FRITTS, Reporter.

* * *

First Church, Lexington.—Due to the Home-Coming day services at Mount Carmel church, the 11 o'clock service at First church was suspended. The pastor, Rev. C. G. Isley, has an appointment with the Mount Carmel church each first Sunday at 11 o'clock. The choir also visited Mount Carmel, singing at the morning service.

For the evening worship service Mr. Isley chose as his subject, "The Great Preserver;" and as a text, Matt. 5:13: "Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost its savour, wherewith shall it be salted? It is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out and trodden under foot of men." This was one of Mr. Isley's best sermons.

Announcement has been made that a special service for the young people will be held August 12 at 11 o'clock. Mr. Oscar Lee Easter, a ministerial student, will deliver the sermon.

Since our last report death has invaded our ranks and carried away to the spirit land the soul of James Edmon Kines, 18 years old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kines. While riding on his motorcycle on July 16, James was struck by a truck. He was rushed to the Davidson Hospital, where both legs were found to be broken. Pneumonia developed later in the week with death resulting Friday, July 20. A brief funeral service was held from the home at 7:30 Saturday morning, conducted by his pastor, Rev. C. G. Isley, and Rev. A. Odell Leonard, pastor of the Second Reformed church, after which the body was taken to Between Georgia, where further services were held at 11 o'clock Sunday, with interment following in a cemetery there. The deceased is survived by his parents and six brothers and sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Yates announce the birth of a son, Herman Ronald Yates.

Rev. C. G. Isley and his mother returned last week from a ten days' visit to the Century of Progress exposition. They report a nice trip.

MARGARET LEA SWINK, Reporter.

* * *

New Hope.—Our revival meeting just closed Friday night. It was a very good meeting; several souls saved; had 30 converts. On Thursday night mothers and fathers did shout and praised the Lord for saving our boys and girls. The spirit had right of way in that service. I know we had 40 or 50 in all and most of them between the ages of 11 and 20. It seems that the young are more interested than the old. May the Lord help us fathers and mothers to be much interested and pray more.

We have learned to love Bro. Henderson, for he was so interested in saving souls and he worked so hard to bring fathers of this community into the fold. Rev. J. M. Morgan was the pulpit help. He is a splendid preacher and brought wonderful messages at each serfice. Rev. Earl Cook was with us one night. Mr. Clarence Helms and wife led our music and song service, which was greatly enjoyed.

We are starting Wednesday night prayer meeting again. We are so glad the Lord hears and answers prayer.

FAYE AYCOTH, Reporter.

* * *

Hope, Siler City Charge.—Although I am not the reporter, I am going to give a few items from our church. Our pastor has been filling all his appointments and making lots of visits to sick members.

We gave our Children's Day program on the third Sunday night in July. The pageant, "The World Children," was impressively rendered. A good offering was received.

New book-racks have just been placed on the pews. This is something which we have needed for some time. The ladies sold ice cream, cake, and sandwiches at Bonlee laht Saturday afternoon and night, and realized a nice little sum.

We are looking forward to next Sunday, August 12, as the beginning of our revival, home-coming and memorial services. Rev. W. H. Neese will come on Monday to preach for us. We are hoping for a good meeting.

Since the last report from our church we have lost one of our oldest and most faithful members, Mr. J. L. Fields. He was an active church-worker as long as he was able to attend, and was interested in the activities of the church to the very last. He had been the efficient teacher of the Men's Class in Sunday school for a number of years, and his going has left a vacancy in our church and Sunday school that is hard to fill; but we just hope there will be someone to take the place of these who are passing on.

Only a few more months until Conference. Mr. L. L. Wrenn is our delegate-elect this year. KARA ANDREW.

Why Not.—Why Not Sunday School Circuit Rally met at Macedonia church on August 4. A large crowd assembled to listen to the program and to enjoy the day. All eight of the churches of Why Not Charge were represented; and four friends from South Carolina were present as well as many from North Carolina.

The program for the day began at 10:22 a. m. The service was opened with prayer by the pastor, Rev. G. L. Reynolds. The address of welcome was rendered by Bro. Billy Moore, from South Carolina. In the response, rendered by Rev. G. L. Reynolds, he said that we had gathered together to try and improve our church work. He hoped that a greater activity would be created in the various churches by the end of the year.

During the program many songs were rendered by groups from some of the churches. The children and young people delivered many fine speeches, thus showing what an interest they are taking in the church.

After the business sessions the congregation was dismissed for the noon hour by Bro. Billy Moore. A fine dinner was spread on the table in the grove. Everyone present seemed to enjoy the delicious meal, which had been prepared for this occasion.

After dinner those that remained assembled again to listen to some fine singing. After the singing the people departed.

The next Circuit Rally will be held at Fairgrove Methodist Protestant Church on the first Saturday in August, 1935. Everyone is invited to attend.

PAUL HAMILTON, Secretary.

Hawkins Chapel, Littleton Charge.—Rev. R. L. Vickery was with us Sunday evening at the 8 o'clock service, but he did not do the preaching. We were glad to have our own boy, Mr. Leo Pittard, to preach for us. His sermon was greatly enjoyed. We had a large congregation, the entire church being almost filled. Leo has not finished college at High Point College, but we welcome him in his own church. We did not want him to feel as Jesus felt when He returned to His own home town to preach and heal and was rejected, because we need im. In his sermon Sunday night he said "I am not afraid of death: I am on the Lord's side." And the question was left, "Are you, if you might see Jesus coming? I hope every reader may say the same thing. If not, remember Amos 4:12: 'Prepare to meet thy God.'" At this service Misses Mary and Dorothy Green rendered us a beautiful duet, accompanied at the piano by their mother, Mrs. Baldy Green.

Our Sunday school is moving along about the same. After Sunday school Sunday morning Mr. E. B. Pair held prayer service. He made a good talk, as he always does.

Don't forget the all-day service the second Sunday in August; Children's Day in the morning. Our revival meeting begins at this time. We ask the prayers of all that we may have a revival that's never been in Hawkins Chapel Church.

We are glad with Mr. Vickery that his companion is improving from her operation and is back home from the hospital. When you meet Mrs. Vickery you will learn to love her.

Mr. Leo Pittard took his mother, Mrs. J. D. Pittard, and sister Miss Margaret Pittard, to Durham, N. C., last week to visit relatives. Leo also has two of the little orphan boys from High Point who are spending some time with him.

Glad to note Mrs. G. L. Thompson has recovered from a very ill spell. She had lots of campany while ill. She very greatly appreciates the kindness of her friends.

Sorry to note Mrs. John Faucette remains very ill.

Mrs. C. M. Hawkins is looking for her son, Mr. Raymond Hawkins, to spend the week-end.

Miss Tula Pittard has been spending some time with her nieces, Mrs. Tom Carpenter and Mrs. Clarence Hawkins.

Mr. Claude Hawkins and the writer visited his niece Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Hawkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Carpenter visited many friends Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. A. D. Pittard and children spent a while with Mrs. G. L. Thomson one day last week.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

MRS. CLAUDE HAWKINS, Reporter.

English Street, High Point.—Sunday, week ago, in our pastor's absence, we were very glad to have Rev. Odell Brown, young M. E. minister of this city, to speak to us. His message was most inspiring and uplifting. We hope to have him with us again soon.

On the past Sunday a large crowd of the choir went to Oak Grove church below Denton and sang for a home-coming service. Following the morning service, a picnic dinner was spread. There were also services in the afternoon. We enjoyed all the services and hope to be able to go again.

Our Senior C. E. Society held an ice cream supper on last Friday evening. The proceeds were very satisfactory and will go to the pastor's salary.

Our third quarterly conference will be held Wednesday evening at the church. At this time we will learn who our delegate will be to the General Conference, the vote having been taken some time ago.

REPORTER.

Greer's Chapel, Shiloh Charge.—July 22 marked another milestone in the history of Greer's Chapel church. There were 116 present for Sunday school, and others came in for the Children'h Day program, which was rendered immediately after Sunday school. The exercises were enjoyed by all. Many said it was the best that had ever been given in that church. At 12:30 a nice lunch was spread on the grounds and all joined in with a right good will. After lunch all assembled in the church and listened to a good sermon by the pastor, Rev. C. E. Ridge, which was the beginning of a series of sermons that lasted through the week. We believe the meeting was a real success. Much interest was shown by both sinners and Christians. The earnestness and forecfulness with which Brother Ridge delivered his sermons caused them to sink deeps into the minds and hearts of the hearers. There were 22 conversions during the week and 16 additions to the church. Much love and devotion was manifested in the special service on Thursday afternoon. The song "Somebody" sung by the Berrier Sisters from Shiloh was rendered very beautifully and touching and was most fitting at such a service. We were glad to have the Shiloh folks with us. We always welcome visitors from other churches.

Some of our members have been sick, but we are glad to hear they are getting better now. REPORTER.

Graham.—We feel that much spiritual gain was made in our recent revival services, which were conducted by Rev. J. E. Pritchard, with Rev. E. Lester Ballard, of Mebane, as song leader. Three members were received into the church Sunday morning: Fleetwood Whitfield, Margaret Garner and Frances Shoffner. After the reception of these new members, the Holy Communion service was held.

The third quarterly conference was held last Friday evening. Mrs. S. S. Holt was elected delegate to the next Annual Conference. Mrs. Holt is the first woman to receive this honor from Graham church. Junius Neese was licensed to preach by the conference at this meeting. He preached his first sermon as a licensed preacher at Mebane last Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Auman and children will be on their vacation the next two weeks. They are spending this week at Lake Waccamaw.

REPORTER.

Bess' Chapel Church.—Our church work seems to be running along nicely. The people are taking a greater interest in Sunday school work than they have in quite a while.

In the absence of our pastor on the fourth Sunday in July the Ladies' Auxiliary was asked to present a morning worship program. Mrs. B. L. Heavner, president of the Auxiliary, sponsored a very inspiring program.

The annual revival meeting of our church begins August 12. We had a wonderful meeting last year with Bro. Hendry, of Charlotte, as our help. We should be very glad to secure him again this year.

REPORTER.

Corinth, Littleton Circuit.—Our pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, was away in revival meeting yesterday, so Mr. Leo Pittard, from Hawkins Chapel, who is a young man studying for the ministry, gave us a splendid talk. We were very glad to have Mr. Pittard with us and hope he will come again soon. We were glad to have two little boys from the Children's Home at High Point worship with us yesterday.

The revival meeting will begin at this church the first Sunday in September, with Rev. L. S. Helms, of Draper, as pulpit help. Pray for us that we may have a great revival.

We are very glad to say our pastor's wife has returned to her home from Roanoke Rapids Hospital after undergoing a very serious operation there about four weeks ago.

She is improving, although she is still confined to bed most of the time. We are hoping she will soon be able to come back to church for we miss her.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliften Morris and son, Jean, and Mr. Bonney Morris, from Richmond, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Morris.

MRS. B. F. MORRIS, Reporter.

* * *

Roberta.—Our pastor, Rev. Earl A. Cook, delivered a very interesting and impressive sermon at our church Sunday morning. He used as his subject "The Mark of the Beast." Pastor Cook had preached on this subject once before, but as the weather was bad more than 75 people had made the request that he preach on the subject again. There was a large crowd present who listened eagerly to his words.

Our pastor has gone to South Carolina to help in a revival meeting there this week. We hope the Lord will bless his efforts there and will send them a great revival.

The revival meeting will begin at our church next Sunday, August 12. Rev. N. G. Bethea will be the pulpit help.

The Christian Endeavor will hold its usual meeting Sunday at 7 o'clock. Miss Cochrane is our C. E. president.

In our Sunday school we have been striving to reach the goal of 200 in attendance. We are proud that we have been reaching that goal recently. Our goal is going to be raised to 250. Hope to reach that also.

Children's Day was held July 22. All the children rendered their parts well.

Members of the church met August 6 and cleaned off the graveyard.

CLARA LINKER, Reporter.

* * *

First Church, High Point.—First Church is shocked and deeply grieved over the death of Dr. S. S. Coe, well known and well beloved physician, who died early Monay morning at the Guilford General Hospital following a two weeks' ilness. Final rites were conducted at the home on Hillcrest Drive Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock by Rev. R. I. Fnrmer, pastor of First Church; Dr. A. G. Dixon, superintendent of the Children's Home, and Dr. P. E. Lindley, dean of High Point College.

Since 1912, Dr. Coe had been an active and loyal member of First Church. He was a trustee of the church, a trustee of the Children's Home, a trustee of the president's parsonage of the N. C. Annual Conference, and rendered extensive medical srvice to the Children's Home and to the college here.

Soon after coming to the city, Dr. Coe assumed the duties as physician to the Children's Home, serving in this capacity through all these years without compensation. To this he also added a great deal of charity work in the community.

From the lips of many, representing all classes of people, have fallen the words: "He rendered me a great service. He was my friend!"

First Church feels proud to have numbered among her members a man whose time and talents were so unselfishly shared, a man whose splendid qualities and unassuming Christian life have so endeared him to the hearts of scores and scores of people.

Though he has passed into the Great Beyond, may his spirit be a guide and inspiration to others to "follow in his train!"

It was with keen regret that the congregation of the church heard Rev. R. I. Farmer in his final sermon here Sunday morning, he having accepted a call to the pastorate of the Methodist Protestant church in Cambridge, Ohio. Mr. Farmer came to High Point from Clinton, Conn., where, during his stay at the Yale School of Divinity, he had supplied at the Methodist Episcopal church. Prior to attending Yale University, he served for a year as field agent in an endowment campaign for Adrian College, his alma mater. He also served five years in Steubenville, Ohio, two years in Zanesville, Ohio, and during his college days he served the Coshocton circuit in that state.

The pastorate to which Mr. Farmer has accepted a call is located in Gurnsey county—where he was born and reared.

Mr. Farmer succeeded Dr. George R. Brown as official pastor of the local church. Since he has been here the church has disposed of its old parsonage on North Main street and has erected a new one on Colonial drive. The church has received nearly 250 members during Mr. Farmer's term of service in the city. In 1932 the North Carolina Conference elected him a delegate to the General Conference which meets here in 1936. Last year he preached the annual North Carolina Conference sermon at Thomasville, and in 1931, he was selected to represent his Conference at the meeting of the Western North Carolina Conference of the M. E. church, South, in Asheville.

Mr. Farmer is widely popular throughout the city, having been active in almost every phase of civic affairs. The city, as well as First Church, will feel a distinct loss in his going, and his splendid family, as well as he, will be greatly missed.

A committee composed of J. H. Pritchard, Judge Lewis E. Teague, C. C. Robbins, Sr., A J. Koonce, and J. H. Jennings, has been appointed to work in co-operation with Dr. R. M. Andrews to supply the pulpit and to secure a new pastor.

ASSISTANT REPORTER.

* * *

West End, Greensboro.—It has been some time since the readers of the Herald have heard from West End, Greensboro, but we have been working hard and feel that quite a bit of progress has been made.

Eight of our number attended the Leadership Training courses at High Point College in June. This was quite an increase over the number in attendance last year.

The Children's Day program was given Sunday evening, July 8th. Mrs. L. W. Routh and Miss Douglas Kime deserve a great deal of credit for the splendid work which they did in training the children for this program.

We are glad to have Mr. L. M. Foust with us, and he is filling his usual place in the program of the church. He has been absent several weeks due to serious illness.

The Young People's Choir is doing some fine work under the leadership of Mr. Foust. At the present time they are working on the music for our Anniversary Day Program, to be held September 23.

As usual, the women of the church are busy. The Auxiliary recently served a din-

* * *

(Continued on Page Sixteen)

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Kinney

James W. Kinney, son of Mrs. Jim Bailey and the late Mr. Kinney, was born in Davidson county, North Carolina, August 3, 1886, and departed this life July 22, 1934, at the age of 48 years. He leaves to mourn their loss his wife, who was before her marriage to Mr. Kinney in 1905 Miss Lou Everhart; his mother, Mrs. Jim Bailey; a sister, Mrs. Mattie Briler, of Philadelphia; and a grandson, Paul Kinney, Jr. His own son, Paul, was drowned about six years ago.

His short but useful life was spent in the home community where he was widely known and highly regarded. In thinking of his passing we reflect on the honest, sterling character of a good citizen gone before us.

Mr. Kinney was a devoted husband, an affectionate father, and a kind, sympathetic friend to all. As a neighbor he was thoughtful, considerate and accommodating. He occupied a high place in the esteem and affection of a large number of friends.

Several years ago Mr. Kinney professed faith in Christ and united with the State Street Methodist Protestant church and remained a faithful and consistent member until death.

On Sunday afternoon, July 22, he, Mrs. Kinney, his small grandson, a niece, Miss Aima Everhart, who has resided in the Kinney home since the death of her mother when she was a small child, Miss Ida Shoaf, and a boy friend, Mr. Zeb Floyd, motored to Clear Lake to spend the afternoon. Miss Everhart and Miss Shoaf went bathing while the others remained on the shore. Suddenly Miss Everhart stepped into water over her head, and her companion called for help. Her uncle and Mr. Floyd immediately plunged into the water, but by the aid of her companion Miss Everhart was able to scramble out. The girls said they saw no more of Mr. Kinney, who is thought to have suffered cramp immediately after plunging into the water. As a golden bowl is broken at the cistern so did his soul slip away to join loved ones in that home eternal in the heavens. Mr. Floyd, who could not swim, was also drowned.

Funeral services were conducted from the home on North Greensboro street July 24, at 10:30 o'clock by his pastor, Dr. T. M. Johnsen, and interment followed in the city cemetery.

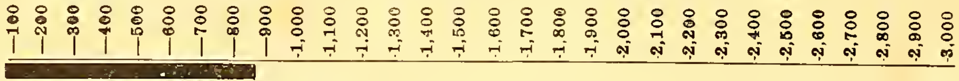
As God has taken this precious one from us we know that our loss is his eternal gain. May God help his dear friends and loved ones to follow in his footsteps and prepare to meet him on high. A lonely sensation is felt in the home, church, and community. A place is vacant that can never be filled.

A NIECE.

* * *

—Our people throughout the state will be pained to hear of the death of Dr. S. S. Coe, of High Point. Dr. Coe was a useful man and will be greatly missed. Our Conference is greatly indebted to him for the fine service he has rendered our Children's Home for a long period of years.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
REIDSVILLE	90
LINCOLNTON	85
ASHEVILLE	79

Just look at our new guest of honor this week—ASHEVILLE. Glad to have you, even though you did have to crowd out Shiloh. It has been ten thousand years since Asheville had a place in my column of honor. And the Herald agent up there says they are going over the top before loug. That will be fine! And did you look at the cash received last week and see where it came from? Not only did Asheville come out on dress parade, but Graham and State Street and First Church, High Point, and Mebane, and St. Paul's, and a whole lot of others got busy. Aud Graham did this even though they had already reached the goal. That is what I call going the second mile. But now all you boys get back and give Asheboro some room. Folks, get your last week's Herald and see what Asheboro did in the matter of subsidy! Did you say five dollars, no sir, more than that. Did you say ten, no, you will have to guess again. It was the tremendous sum of TWENTY DOLLARS! Hurrah for Asheboro! This church that for years has done more for our Children's Home than has any other church in the entire world must have decided to do likewise in the matter of the Herald, and so they were not content to send along just a little thing like their quota, but they doubled it. In so far as I know this is the first church in the Conference to double its quota of subsidy.

The whole back page of the Herald last week looked exceedingly good and I am delighted with the progress of the campaign. Now for a long, steady pull and we will see great things accomplished before the Annual Conference meets. The more people take the paper the more do they know about the program of the church. J. E. PRITCHARD.

* * *

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	11¾	$....
Albemarle	17	10¾	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	26½	....
ASHEVILLE	14	14	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	11.10	....
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	14	....
Burlington, First	71	16½	*20.00
Bessemer City	13	6.83	....
Charlotte	21	12.2	1.50
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.82	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	13½	7.50
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5½	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	2	....
Denton	48	11¾	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	10¼	*5.00
Fallston	85	27	....
Flat Rock	63	14½	....
Friendship	21	3.42	....
Forsyth	45	10½	2.50
Gibsonville	20	4	....
Glen Raven	47	7¼	....
GRAHAM	27	33.18	....
Granville	59	18	16.55
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY	29	33½	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	11	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	4¼	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	10.6	*7.50
Greensville	59	7	....
Guilford	37	9½	....
Halifax	53	9	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	23.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	29	8.00
High Point, Lebanon	34	7½	....
High Point, Welch	22	4½	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	16.30	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2¾	....
Lexington, First	45	12¼	*10.00
Lexiugtou, State Street	40	10.11	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	18	15.35	....
Littleton	50	7¾	....
Mebane	28	8	....
Meckleuburg	40	2	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	3½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	5	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	20	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	27¼	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7½	....
Randolph	74	10½	....
Reidsville	10	9	....
Richland	43	3½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	46½	*20.00
Siler City	20	11¾	*7.50
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	13	....
Tabernacle	39	21¼	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	3½	....
West Forsyth	62	12	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	4½	....
Winston, First	26	10¼	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	5	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

Individual churches on circuits raising their quota in full are: SHILOH on Shiloh Charge, EFLAND on Orange Charge.

 Subsidy paid in full.

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher
Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. •However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

FROM PASTORS AND PEOPLE

(Continued from Page Fifteen)

ner at the Huntley-Stockton-Hill club room, from which they realized a nice sum of money which they expect to use as a part of their birthday gift which they are planning to make to the church Auniversary Day.

Circle No. 1, Mrs. A. E. Pleasants, chairman, met with Mrs. M. H. Waynick, Northridge street, Monday evening at 3:30. Mrs. S. H. Stapleton conducted the devotional. The business session was presided over by the chairman, Mrs. Pleasants. After the business session the members of the circle participated in a most enjoyable picnic supper, which was served in the lovely flower garden of the hostess.

Circle No. 2, Mrs. V. C. Stockard, chairman, met with Mrs. W. W. Clements on Sring Garden street at 8 p. m.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE.

◆

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Jasper Hicks, Henderson	$20.00
Rev. D. R. Williams	8.00
L. F. Ferree, High Point	6.00
J R. Moore	6.00
Rev. H. F. Fogleman	6.00
Mrs. Egbert Barnhill, Enfield	3.50
Miss Kara Andrew	1.00
Rev. M. C. Henderson	1.00
J. J. Mallard	1.00
Rev. C. W. Bates	1.00
Mrs. A. K. McAdams	1.00
Rev. O. C. Loy	1.00

◆

—The daily press carries the information that the churches of Henderson in a union service last Sunday evening honored the memory of Dr. L. W. Gerringer. A representative from each of the churches read resolutions adopted by his church.

—During the past two years workers of the American Red Cross distributed more than 105,000,000 garments and aided more than 26,000,000 persons in 5,000,000 families.

—Dr. N. G. Bethea is assisting Rev. G. L. Curry in a meeting at Tabernacle church this week.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST BRETHREN.

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., AUGUST 16, 1934 NUMBER 38

Rev H L Isley 2aug4 R6

Three Sisters

By LUTHER K. LONG

Recently I spent the greater part of a week in New York City. A visit to that great town is never complete, for me, without at least a few hours in the Metropolitain Museum of Art.

In this immense aggregation of things beautiful, curious, and of historic interest, gathered in this museum, there are pictures and statuary and memorials that I am glad to see every time I go there—just as there are people whom I am glad to meet again whenever I go to their home towns.

Then, there are other exhibits that I want to sit down in front of and take some time in order o become better acquainted with them, and to fix in my mind qualities and suggestions that may be carried with me during the rest of my days. I call this process: Adding to my mental art gallery.

At this visit I had planned to specialize on a painting that had attracted my attention when I was last there, something more than a year ago. It is called "The Wyndham Sisters." It is a large canvas, and it was painted by John S. Sargent, a celebrated American artist who was born in 1856 and died in 1925.

The three sisters are all dressed in white. The oldest (at the left), and the youngest (at the right) are seated on a sofa, while the third sits on an elevation just back of the youngest. The face and form of the young sister are the evident center of the picture's interest.

The oldest of the three might be 30 to 35, the youngest 17 or 18, while the third looks to be in her late 20's. They are all rather tall and slender, their eyes are very dark brown, their hair not quite so dark. The hair of the two older is dressed high, with loose bits about the forehead. The hair of the youngest is parted in the middle—girlish fashion—and is combed smoothly. She looks at you directly, while the others look across the scene in nearly opposite directions. You see all the eyes, and you feel that they know you are present and looking on.

Both the older sisters are evidently conscious of the presence of their young sister, and they willingly accord to her the privilege of being in the center of the picture. The oldest makes you feel that she has a motherly interest in the young girl, as does also the other in less degree.

Hanging on the dark wall, at the back of the group, pictures are dimly seen. It is a home setting, but the interest of the observer is exclusively in the sisters. It is a pure, wholesome group. One would be glad to have either the picture or the living persons in one's home—as temporary guests, or as permanent possessions.

I sat for some time in front of the picture, in the gallery where it hangs, looking at it, enjoying it, studying it, and noting down some impressions. Then I went into an adjoining room, and came up to the door several times looking at the sisters from a greater distance. Always I was glad to see them. Their loveliness was always fresh and satisfying.

This picture might be called "the glorifying of young girlhood." This is not an uncommon theme with artists. In the Corcoran Art Gallery, here in Washington, is the wonderful picture of a girl 15 or 16 years old, the daughter of the painter. In the Freer Gallery is another called "The Virgin." In this the artist's 16-year-old daughter is in the center with her little sister on one side and her small brother on the other.

The joys of parents are many and varied—distributed over the developing years of their growing boys and girls. Without discounting the other years and the other sex, I think I express the sentiment of many parents when I say that there is a certain sweet delight peculiar to fellowship with a young daughter just approaching young womanhood. Her innocence, her frankness, her unaffected simplicity, are delightful. Happy the girl whose parents give her in a wholesome way information concerning herself, so that she becomes sufficiently sophisticated to be able to protect herself as she gradually comes into contact with the outside world. Innocence is, no doubt, a protection. Reliable information, also, is an essential.

On this trip to New York I had dinner one evening with friends in Jackson Heights, Long Island. Edna was about three years old when I became her pastor. She had reached the ripe age of twelve and was a member of the church when I left. I had not seen them for twenty years. At dinner were Edna, her husband—whom I had not previously seen—and her mother who is spending her ripening years with them. I was interested in all of them, and they recognized and appreciated that interest. It was delightful to see the gracious way in which, by turns, they accorded each other and their guest the spot at the center of the picture. I came away with a good understanding of what these folks are interested in and are doing, their happy relations with each other, and their hopeful outlook on life.

One may see beautiful pictures of life in other places than famous art galleries and great cities. In small villages and rural homes are many lovely scenes—if the mind's eye of the individual is open to observe them. Pictures of horses, cattle, sheep, children, old people, and groups of attractive girls are in the city art galleries. The originals from which these are made are scattered all over the country. Let us learn to see and enjoy these originals. Many thanks to the artists who help us to see and appreciate,

AS BECOMETH SAINTS

We are not half so wise as some of the people who propagate the numerous, current, false doctries and theories of the day. Satan and his allies are indeed "slick fellows." They have at their command many of the worst deceptions, the most clever trickery, and other powers so diabolical that we fear even to name them. Often, is it not true that we underestimate the strength of our foe, and consequently are not armed powerfully enough to cope with him? "For ye wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against powers and principalities and spiritual wickedness in high places . . . " To survive, it is absolutely necessary that we must fight; for Satan usurped the power of the world, having fallen from grace, and invaded the Lord's possession with all of his forces. So Jesus needs every one of us—weak or strong, great or humble, large or small—to be soldiers of the Cross. Truly our enemy is strong, but our Lord is mighty and omnipotent, and shall lock Satan in his hell.

Neither are the average Christians as zealous for their work as are the majority of the advocates of false teachings; for instance, the Russellites will, at any utmost cost, do their best to place their literature in every home in America—and probably all over the world.

Often the devil succeeds in deceiving and blinding us by his "wool" until we almost are believing that many of the modern instruments by which sin is spread are justifiable. But God says, "Abstain from all appearance of evil."

Of late much has been said and done concerning the institution of "junior baseball teams" in the Sabbath schools of some of our churches—for the purpose, of course, of getting the children int the church school and keeping them there. Surely that is an admirable plan; while the youngsters are at the church many lessons of good may have imparted an unconscious influence over their lives, and lasting benefits accomplished by it. But if a church is so poor that it has to resort to the devil's methods to obtain a congregation, something must be terribly the matter with it! That church must be weak in its line of defense called PRAYER. Prayer is one of the mightiest sources of power available to us; the Lord is able to do, and does, abundantly more than that which our minds are capable of asking. Is the supernaturalness of God being today discredited by man?

It may be your fault, sister or brother, if your church pews are not crowded at every meeting. Maybe you haven't prayed through to the victory about it. God can, and will do, if we will let Him, a multitude of things for a church that is related dangerously with the world. We are, by His grace, IN the world, but are most assuredly not OF the world. God help us to see straight! Why do we still try to get by with it when we certainly cannot mingle with the things of this world and go unscathed?

Of course it is necessary that we ourselves work and fight; we need to be clever to match Satan's cleverness. Nevertheless, a saint of God derives his power of Him. With prayer and faith, w can wreak terrible destruction and bring consternation to the ranks of the enemy! Glory to God, I'm glad He still does answer prayer! Friends, in our own unconscious, blundering way, we are many times only hindering God instead of letting and helping Him. Wait on the Lord and obey Him. The Lord has a much more wonderful, beautiful, glorious plan than any mortal could ever conceive.

Suppose we go to our knees and pray through about the matter of baseball, seeking the will of God to find if His Spirit sanctions such things in his holy church. The only time that Christ every struck anyone, we are told, was when He drove the money-changers from His temple.

The idea of all these worldly church programs is at first appealing to the nature of man, but the primary purpose of the church is to win souls and worship the Lord—and therefore it is no wonder that the devil would keep us from those true aspirations. Friends, is not the church to be the bride of Christ?

Please listen, you tobacco-using, or beer-drinking, theatre-going, dancing, worldly, shallow-minded Christian: now, what faith would a poor, penitent sinner, convicted and needing light for his soul, have in your ability to lead him to the Savior? No sir, he would rather have someone who was stable in his ways—some trusted, tried, saint of God, on that occasion. Why, your very breath would be repellent—repugnant—to him. "He that winneth souls is wise." "Watch and pray."

CHARLES W. STONE.

Siler City, N. C.

PATRIOTISM BY LAW?

"You can't make men moral by legislation." We have been told this repeatedly; and the futility of the 18th amendment is cited by the enemy as a shining example.

So far as I know, no one has ever directly advocated making people moral by legislation. Prohibition was a recognition of the advanced and advancing conviction of the American people that making, selling, and drinking alcoholic beverages are all inconsistent with the desire for safety in this rapidly-moving machine age, and among a people notably high-strung and nervous.

One mistake was in thinking that public opinion on this matter was more advanced than the facts in the case justified. Another mistake was in not realizing that the illicit manufacture and sale of liquor would become financially profitable to a large lawless element in our country. A third mistake was in slowing down—or practically abandoning—temperance education. The country is at school now—traffic accidents, drunken drivers, open saloons, increased intoxication and arrests, and disregard for law are some of the teachers.

The New York State Assembly has passed the Ives bill, requiring an oath of allegience to both Federal and State Constitutions, on the part of public school teachers. This was by a vote of 130 to 7. It is now up to the Senate to defeat it, or, in case that body fails, the responsibility falls on Governor Lehman to veto it.

This action of the New York Assembly is an hysterical gesture toward making the State and the Nation safe against the inroads of Socialism and Communism—in short, against any belief or teaching short of so-called 100 per cent Americanism. It recalls the laws proposed in several states a few years ago, limiting the freedom of teaching in tax-supported schools. Tennessee, it will be remembered, actually enacted a law forbidding the teaching of the theory of Evolution.

We shall be in a dreadful condition when freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and freedom of teaching are no more. "Yes," some one speaks up, "but we only desire to put the ban on error—people would be left free to speak, to print, and to teach the truth."

What truth, pray? The truth, of course, held by those who have the power to make the laws.

Every one at all familiar with the search for and discovery of truth, and the furthering of knowledge, knows that progress in thinking has often to be fought for by a small minority against an intrenched majority. Each individual thinker has both a conservative and a progressive side to his nature. He experiences within himself the conflict between these two elements. Fortunate the man who, on the whole, is progressive. Because—while there is a proper place for conservatism—the hopes and destiny of the human race are bound up with the progressive element.

Teachers in public schools, colleges, and universities are a pretty good lot. They do not know it all—nor does any other group. They are more intelligently patriotic than the average citizen. They, as a class, may be depended upon to do their part in maintaining law and order. The proportion of them who fail to act well their part in life is smaller than in most other professions and occupations.

Let us maintain a free press, free speech, and free schools in a free country. Let us intelligently and persistently fight the battle of truth and freedom against the bondage of ignorance and prejudice, along these lines. The conflict may be long, but we shall win in the end.

Luther K. Long.

WHAT WERE THE CAUSES OF THE POPULARITY OF JESUS?

In the day in which Jesus entered into his public life the people were looking for an earthly king, a deliverer of the Jews. Many burdens were in the pathway of the common people. The wise men sought for the one who is born King of the Jews. In the very dawn of Jesus' life the people sought to make him their king and deliverer.

Jesus grew in wisdom and knowledge and in favor with God and man. When he came into his public ministry he possessed a great personal influence and inspiration which he exercised upon those who associated themselves with him. He did not adopt the method of the political organizers. He created no party, no uprising, no elaborate nor formal program.

In the day of Jesus' ministry the Jews were under the Romans, and taxes had become to be a great burden to them. They would gladly welcome a king who would remove some of these burdens. The tax burden was so great that the people could scarcely meet them, their very living was taken from them. The economic condition favored Jesus being a central figure with this mass of humanity. They could use more means for livelihood if some of these old customs could be done away with. Now if Jesus was king he would be a deliverer to them in such a measure that the whole economic condition would change to an extent that earning a living would be possible. This new Messiah would bless them so that their old barns would be pulled down, and the whole economic scheme would change in their behalf.

The healing power of Jesus made him popular with the masses of the people. In Jerusalem there is a short rainy season followed by a long dry one. Water is scarce—so scarce that there is no water to wash with, and very little to drink. The narrow streets with their dust and filth causes much disease. Not only is this true with Jerusalem but the country round about. Jesus of Nazareth went about healing the sick and all who were oppressed of the devil. "The blind received their sight and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed and the deaf hear, and miracles are performed in their behalf." There were no doctors in their day to help relieve their suffering, thus Jesus was a popular man. They loved him and would gather in his shadow, touch the hem of his garments, searching for the healing virtues he possessed. The greatest thing in the world to man is sight. Healing the blind was one of the popular things of Jesus.

The sun shining perpendicularly, the light soil was hard on the eyes, no glasses, no physician save Jesus, the one who could heal them. The crowds followed Jesus in order to see these miracles performed. They were hoping for the time to come when they would crown him their king. The masses followed Jesus for the material things for their human needs.

Jesus had sympathy for the multitudes. The multitudes were looking for sympathy, the kind which Jesus showed forth to them. In their suffering he would take note of them. Jesus would appeal to their human needs. Jesus would heal the body, and in healing the body he would win their love. Jesus was of the common people; he understood their nature, needs, desires, hope and simplicity. Jesus showed his sympathy by feeding the multitudes, he would multiply the loaves and fish to feed them. They were astonished at his power and knowledge to the extent that they would almost force the kingship on him. Jesus brought to them through a quiet movement, speaking to men about God, and life, and thus, initiating a movement which has transformed the world.

C. L. Grant.

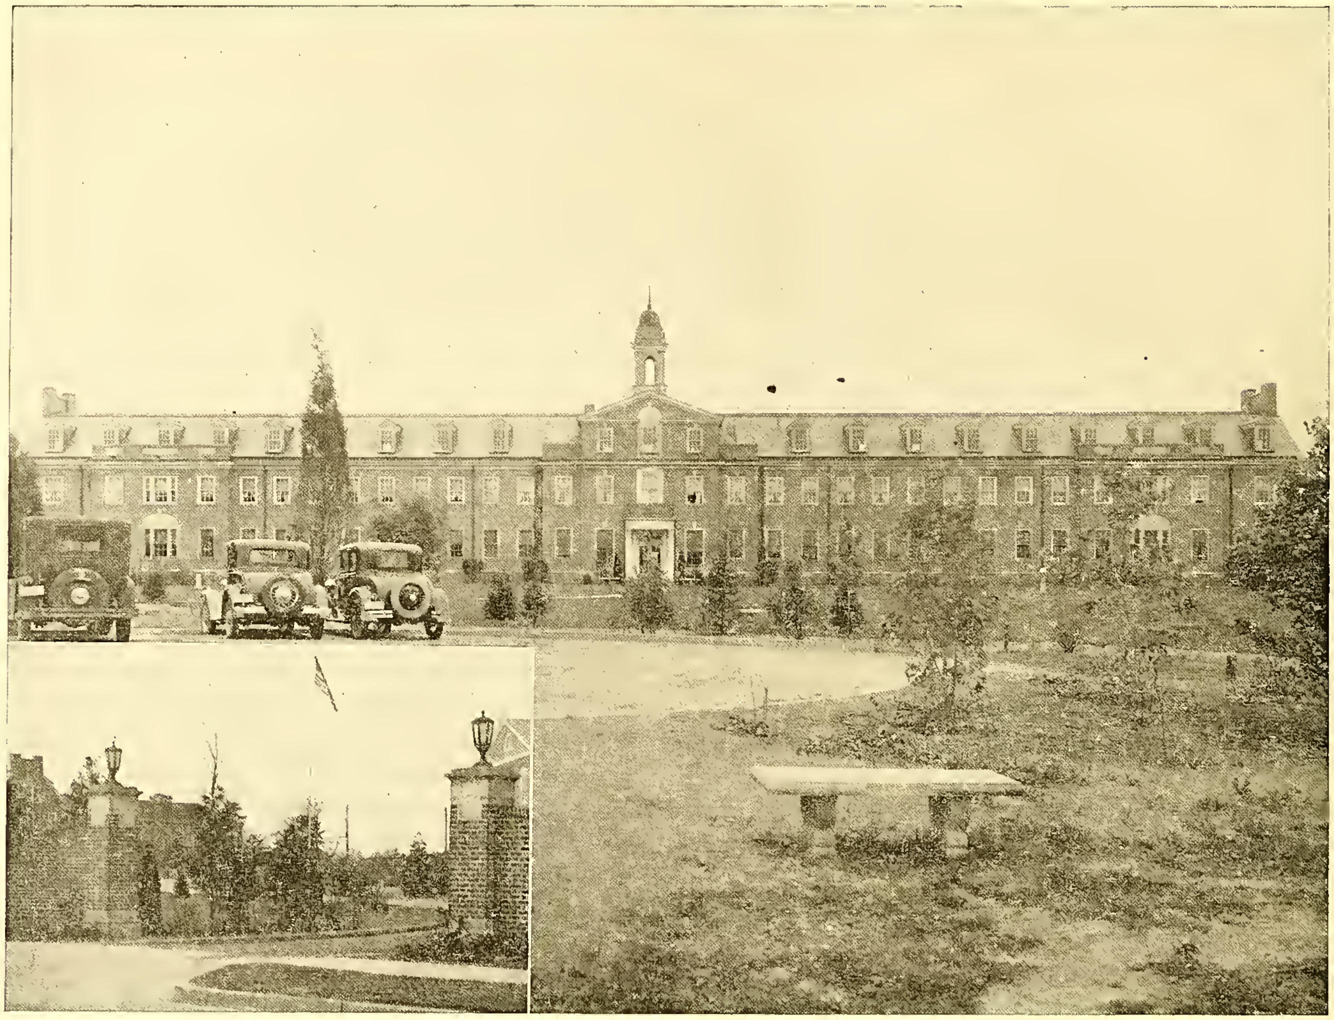
LIGHTS FOR JESUS

If others do not find out that we love the Lord Jesus, I am afraid we do not really love Him. When His love is in our hearts, it will show in our lives. Others will see and know that we are not the same persons we once were.

That is the way we let our light shine before people, as the Lord Jesus tells us in His Word to do. We do not hide a lamp under a bucket, nor something of that kind. We set it on a table, or a side-board. Then it will give light to all that are in the house.

It is the same way when we love the Lord Jesus. If we truly love Him, and He lives in our hearts, we give out His blessed sunshine to others. We will be so sweet and loving and kind, that others will know it is the love of Jesus that makes us so.—Our Jewels.

VIEW OF ONE OF THE DORMITORIES AT HIGH POINT COLLEGE



The buildings at High Point College are not only beautiful in their appearance but permanent in their construction.

Above is shown a picture of one of the dormitories. McCulloch Hall, dormitory for young men, and Women's Hall, dormitory for young ladies, are similar in appearance from the front. They differ, however, on the arrangement of the interior.

The Women's Hall is constructed in suites of two rooms each. In each room will be found two windows, a large closet, two wall brackets, base sockets, running hot and cold water, and connecting bath. Furniture is provided here for two occupants. Twin beds are used. In the center of the building on each floor is found a large club room. Just off from the club room on the first floor is the office of the Dean of Women.

McCulloch Hall is constructed in sections. There are eight rooms to each section. Four bed rooms and a bath will be found on each floor of the section. The rooms are somewhat smaller than those in the girls' dormitory and are occupied by one student. In the center of this building on the first floor will be found a large club room for social purposes.

In the lower left hand corner of the picture above will be seen the gates to the campus. These were donated by the Class of 1928. This is the main entrance and enters the campus from highway No. 10 leading through the city from the East.

Note the well kept campus and beautiful shrubbery in front of this building.

BE RIGHT WITH GOD

Joseph Parker was once speaking of the mother of Moses as she laid the ark with her babe in the flags by the river's brink. "Ay," he added, "but before doing so she laid it on the heart of God! We are often surprised at the outward calmness of men who are called upon to do unpleasant and most trying deeds; but could we have seen them in secret we should have known the moral preparation which they underwent before coming out to be seen of men. Be right in the sanctuary if you would be right in the market-place! Be steadfast in prayer if you would be calm in affliction! Start your race from the throne of God itself if you would run well, and win the prize!"—The Alliance Weekly.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Pastors' Reports

Blanks for the pastors' reports are all mailed and should be returned at once.

Obituary Committee for Brother Gerringer

The following brethren will serve on this committee: Revs. N. G. Bethea, C. W. Bates, and J. E. Pritchard.

Circular Preaching

The preacher who refuses to make previous preparation for his sermons but who lays claim to special divine inspiration whenever he preaches, is a circular preacher; i. e., he never has an objective and as a result, wandering around for an hour or so, returns to his starting place with his hearers no wiser than they were when he started.

Such preachers limit the Lord. As they understand it, the Lord will not help a preacher prepare his sermon on Tuesday or Wednesday or Saturday, but will help him on Sunday after the congregation gathers. It is too bad that some good men become obsessed with this idea, and many members of the congregation think the preacher who really prepares his sermons is an object of pity because he does not have the help of the Lord. God can help a sensible, good man prepare a sermon years before he is called upon to preach it; He may help some who enter the pulpit without making previous preparation, but I am one who doubts that He does. Those who are too indolent to sweat in their study usually sweat quite a bit in their pulpit; and those who do not know what to say before they go to their pulpits will find that those who heard them do not know what they said after they have left their pulpits. A circular preacher is one who loses his hearers in the rank growths of superstition into which he leads them.

Our Mountain Churches

I have just returned from more than a week's stay with our people ''beyond the ridge.'' Here is a splendid people; frank, honest, individualistic. In the isolated lives many live they form their opinions without the aid of others, and are ready to attack their foes single-handed, like Alvin York, and their religious problems alone. In other words, it is harder to organize mountain people than it is those in the foothills or plains. They are not denominationally-minded so much as we are; the church does not mean as much to them as does the preacher. If they like the preacher they will support him; if not, the fact that they are members of the church does not matter so much. Of course, this is not peculiar to the mountain people—we have lots of them down here; but they are more so. Our cause has fluctuated here for many years and is by no means strong now. Too many of the people expect a service without compensation, and many are satisfied with a religious service which spends itself in physical exertion and emotion. But we have some who want to know the truth which frees them from sin and superstition, and these are standing by their pastors. The trouble most of our churches are having there grows out of just what has been said and the fact that there is no little employment there which enables them to pay their pastors money. Neither of our rural pastors has received enough to support him this year.

And yet we should not abandon the work—they need us and we need them. We need to give of our best in talent, service, and time to those who do not reward us in full for what we give. I am pained to see how some of our churches have declined.

I spoke twelve times; held two quarterly conferences and had several group conferences with the members. I was at Mt. Zion, Weaverville, and Asheville on the 5th. Our Weaverville church has possibly more of its members in the regular services than any church in our denomination. Small membership, but a loyal group. Unfortunately, however, they are not growing and have but few young people in their Sunday school.

Mt. Zion church is one of the best churches on the charge. They are hardby a Baptist church, but have lots of young people and are situated so they can grow and develop.

Clark's Chapel is only a few miles from Weaverville, situated on a hill, beautiful as Mount Zion of old. These people have slumped somewhat but are by no means beyond hope. We held the third quarterly conference. Rev. E. G. Cowan is the pastor.

The churches visited on Democrat charge were Paint Fork, Pensacola, Mountain Valley, Pleasant Gap and Democrat.

At Paint Fork we have a small organization worshiping in a Union church with the Baptists. This organization has been very inactive and at times showing all the symptoms of death. We held a meeting with them after preaching and they decided not to die, but to revive interest in our cause there. We found Grover Angel, a graduate of High Point College. Some of his people are members here and Grover decided to move his letter to the church. At night we preached at Low Gap where several of our people worship. Had a large congregation. The next night we preached at Pensasola; had a good congregation present. Here our church is much weaker than it used to be. Mountain Valley is located in a valley by the side of a creek, rather removed from the congregation. It was decided to move the church out on a highway near a C. C. C. camp. We hope this will be accomplished in the near future. We held the third quarterly conference of the charge at Pleasant Gap in the afternoon. Sunday morning we preached at Democrat. Rev. D. T. Huss is the pastor of this group.

We had with us Revs. D. T. Huss, E. G. Cowan, and J. F. Minnis. These brethren assisted in many ways; both Brother Minis and Brother Cowan spoke at several of the churches.

We were at Asheville on Sunday night. Here we found an interesting congregation which gave good attention to the message. There are several signs of improvement here in both the church and parsonage. The people appear to be deeply interested in the work. The church had just raised the quota of HERALD subscriptions and was feeling fine. Pastor Minnis is popular with his people and we predict a good year.

I was entertained in the homes of Pastors Minins, Cowan, and Huss, Bros. John Ogle, Lindsay McMahan, A. G. Wilson, Ezra Roberts, Gay Webster, Sam Angel, and the great chaplain of the afflicted, Bro. J. S. Williams. It was a great pleasure to be the guest of all these good people.

Mt. Mitchell from the North Side

With Bros. Minnis, Cowan, and Huss, I was the guest of Bro. A. G. Wilson and went to Mt. Mitchell over the Wilson road. It was quite scenic and at many points exceedingly so. Brother Wilson owns quite a bit of this side of the mountain; he speaks of it as five or six thousand acres. He is the son of "Big Tom" Wilson, who found the body of Elisha Mitchell after whom the particular mountain was named. "Big Tom" Wilson was a veritable Daniel Boone; had trapped 114 bears as an evidence of his ability to trap, and it was his knowledge of the forests that led to the pool where Professor Witchell had fallen and remained for ten or eleven days.

Bro. A. G. Wilson, the son, is himself quite a hunter, having trapped more than a hundred of the tribe of Bruin, and is still able to hunt them. We were all entertained in his home for the night, his guest on the trip, and at dinner at Camp Wilson. He is most jovial, his ready wit made the dull moments of the journey bright, and kept one from seeing danger in the yawning chasms which sometimes yawned below our party. Brother Wilson is a member of our Pensacola church. We appreciated this courtesy and hospitality.

What is Needed Here

A minister who loves to work with mountain people; who is willing to farm for his living, and who can teach the truth to both young and old; ever refusing to be discouraged by what he sees and hears. There is an opportunity for such an one, if he be not too old to build for his name an enduring monument in the hearts and minds of this people.

R. M. ANDREWS.

◆

THE PERNICIOUS HABIT OF SELF-PITY

"Verily I have cleansed my heart in vain and washed my hands in innocency," said the Psalmist, as he recounted the prosperity of the wicked. He was pitying himself. He was recounting his troubles. He was doing what so many do, who start with some disagreeable phase of their life and magnify it and seek to pile up more of the same kind and conclude that they are the most unfortunate and abused of all mankind. The more they look at themselves the more they shut out the light of day and plunge themselves into the shadows of their own making and consider themselves the most abused of mankind. How many thus spoil life for themselves and everybody around them.

Self-pity is a product of unbelief. We are told that "all things work together for good to them that love God." The self-pitier does not believe it. Jesus says that God cares more for His children than He does for the sparrows.

But self-pity looks at circumstances, as if they are not adverse enough, only to manufacture more and turns all things into gall.

Self-pity is discontent. It is a refusal to believe that God either sends or permits all adverse things; that nothing comes to us except in His will and for our good.

Self-pity shows a want of real consecration. Entire consecration means that we are in the hands of our God; we are in His keeping; we are ready to be or not to be, to do or not to do, to suffer or not to suffer as He sees fit. We are in our Father's keeping. We are so in His keeping that His grace will make us conquerors. He, who is entirely consecrated, never whines. He does not show his sores to the world. The more we whine the less we trust.

Self-pity is self-idolatry. We want the whole world to bow down and worship us. We want men to join us in our idolatry. We think that no one else has such a hard lot as we. We think other people ought to be interested in our sores and wounds. It is self-puffedness to be always dragging our idol into the gaze of men.

Self-pity is weakness. It saps the strength, it weakens our courage. It unfits us to meet the ills of life. It blunts our courage and weakens our faith and enervates our will. Self-pity really shows weakness and results in defeat. Get rid of self-pity and you will have half the battle against the situation already.

"Only be thou strong and very courageous," said God to Joshua. God can do nothing with a coward. Had little David given way to self-pity he had never defeated Goliath. Any little David can overcome, if he has faith in the God who says, "No weapon formed against thee shall prosper."

Let us refuse to give way in the least to the enervating, unbelieving, God-dishonoring practice of self-pity. David said he got cured when he went into the sanctuary of the Lord, when he retreated into God, his refuge.—Christian Witness.

◆

"NOT MY WILL, BUT THINE"

"Be still, and know that I am God." (Ps. 46:10.)

That is a difficult discipline really to understand. We understand the discipline of going on; that suits our impatience and littleness. But the discipline of standing still, simply waiting, doing nothing—who can understand that? And yet this is the way in which we are sometimes trained. Let us own our impatience in this matter. That discipline may be accepted either in the way of fretfulness, chafing, vexation, kicking against the pricks, or it may be so accepted as to chasten the soul, make it without a flaw, a holy and beautiful thing in daily sacrifice upon the high altar. How shall we accept it?

You want the appointment now; you want to come into your blessing today; you want the answer to the great question you have put immediately. And God says: "No, not today, nor tomorrow, nor this year, but by and by." How do you take that answer? Do you fret, chafe, kick, rebel? Or do you say: "Even so, Father: for so it seemed good in Thy sight"? That is the last conquest of grace, supreme acquisition of the soul, to have no will but His, to be ready to stand, to go, to fight, to suffer, saying always, "Not my will, but Thine be done."—Dr. Joseph Parker.

MINISTRY

Not to sit upon a lifted throne,
Not to rule superbly alone;
Not to be ranked on the left or right
In the Kingdom's glory, the Kingdom's might;

Not to be great and first of all,
Not to hold others in humble thrall;
Not to Lord it over the world,
A scepter high and a flag unfurled;

Not with authority, not with pride,
Vain dominion, mastery wide;
Nothing to wish for, nothing to do;
Not, in short, to be ministered to!

Ah, but to minister! Lowly to sup
With the servant's bread and the servant's cup;
Down where the waters of sorrow flow,
Full-baptized in the stream of woe;

Out where the people of sorrow are,
Walking brotherly, walking far;
Known to bitterness, known to sin,
To the poor and the wretched comrade and kin;

So to be helper, the last and the least,
Serf in the Kingdom, slave at the feast;
So to obey, and so to defer,
And so, my Savior, to minister!

Yes, for never am I alone:
This is Thy glory, this is Thy throne.
Infinite Servant, well may I be
Vassal and toiler—with Thee.

—Amos R. Wells.

LEAD ME IN LOVE

Lead me, O Savior dear!
  Lead me in love.
When darkness hides my path,
  Lead Thou above.
Suffer me ne'er to fall—
Be Thou mine all in all;
  Lead me in love.

Give me the strength I need,
  More grace and love;
Send Thou upon my path
  Light from above.
Take Thou mine hand in Thine,
Then I shall know Thee mine;
  Lead me in love.

—Publisher Unknown.

—Try prayer. You have tried everything else in the effort of live richly, joyfully, successfully. Give God a chance at your life.

SOME "DON'T EXPECT'S" FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS

Don't expect to serve the Lord as a Sunday school teacher unless He has called you into that work.

Don't expect to be an efficient teacher, if you have made no effort to acquire efficiency.

Don't expect to accomplish anything, if you consider the work of little importance.

Don't expect to teach the "smallest children," if you think they require the smallest talents and the least preparation.

Don't expect to teach the lesson unless you know it.

Don't expect a "Sunday morning glance" to brush off the whole week's dust from the lesson—or your mind either.

Don't expect to teach the Word without being much in communion with the Author.

Don't expect a two-minute Sunday morning prayer to patch up a week of neglect.

Don't expect your class to be on time if you are not punctual.

Don't expect your class to respond to the lesson if you have not.

Don't expect your pupils to "grow in grace" if they have not been born again.

Don't expect your pupils to be saved unless you make the way of salvation plain.

Don't expect them to be saved if you very seldom and very weakly invite them to come to the Lord, so that they get the impression that you consider it of little importance.

Don't expect to win them if you do not love them and show that you do.

Don't expect them to believe very strongly in a Sunday show of interest that is not seen between Sundays.

Don't expect harmony in the class if you are not in harmony with the rest of the teachers and superintendent, and above all, the Lord.—Paul W. Nelson, in The Evangelical Beacon.

SHUT THY DOOR

"Enter into thy closet and . . . shut thy door."—Matt. 6:6.

Souls often grow lonely in a crowd, and starve in the midst of temples, worshipers and ordinances. God would have us alone with Him sometimes. Coming to church is not coming to Christ. "Enter into thy closet, and . . . shut thy door." Shut out nonsense, business, care, and pleasure. Shut out flatteries and frowns. Shut out strangers and acquaintances. Shut out friends and foes. Shut out this world and open the window that looks out upon the next. Give the mind rest. Give the ear quiet. Give the tongue silence. Give the heart meditation. Give the soul communion with God; look up, there are blessings waiting for you. Listen: God speaks in His still small voice. Ask: God waits to hear. See that your soul is at peace with God. See that no shade of sin hides from your sight the Heavenly Father's face.

Settle the question of peace, pardon and duty in secret before the Lord; then bring everything that concerns your heart and life, for time or for eternity, and lay it before the mercy seat.—H. L. Hastings.

OUR STORY PAGE

IWAKIRI SAN

"Oh-ho!" yawned Willard Stokes. "I guess I'll not go to church. It's missionary Sunday. Who cares for that? I do not," he firmly declared; and with a book which he very much wanted to read the boy went to the porch, where from a cool, shady corner a porch swing cordially invited him to rest. "This is a very good place," he said to himself when settled comfortably.

"Willard!" It was Mrs. Stokes. "You are going to church, aren't you?" she asked pleasantly as she suddenly appeared before her son. "It is time that we were off. We ought to start at once. I will wait for you, but you must not be long."

"Oh, don't bother about me, mother. It is getting late and I am not ready; besides, I am not going," he blushed.

"Not going!" repeated Mrs. Stokes, brows lifted. "You are not sick, I hope."

"No," came the answer with hesitation. Then immediately with the idea suggested, "Maybe I am sick," the boy was thinking. "Maybe I'm not quite well. I'm not sure but my head does ache a little. Anyway, I almost know it doesn't feel really good." Without the slightest intention of being anything but truthful, Willard passed his hand firmly over his brow, allowing it to smooth his dark, well-brushed hair. "It does ache a little—almost too hard," he excused.

"That's just what I feared," sympathized Mrs. Stokes pityingly. "He does look a bit pale," she thought. "I'm sorry, Willard. Here, put this beneath your head and snuggle down. You'll be better soon, I hope," she was saying when in a moment she had brought a pillow. "I'm very sorry that you are not able to go. I don't like to leave you when you are not feeling good, but I will not be away long," she promised as she put up her dark blue embrella to protect her from the summer sun and started on her way.

"Why did I say that?" thought Willard uneasily the moment she was out of sight. "I'm not sick. Of course I'm not." He began to feel ashamed of pretending a headache. The moments passed. The boy felt stranger and stranger over the situation. Finally he became afraid—afraid of himself, he guessed—and he wondered if he really was sick or well.

At last, "I cannot do this," he decided after several unsuccessful attempts to keep his mind on the story. So he tossed aside his book—the book he had been so anxious to read.

Presently, "What's the matter with me?" he was inquiring as he felt his face get hotter and hotter.

"You know what's the matter," he seemed to hear someone say. He turned, but not a single person was in sight. "Don't you feel little?" continued the voice. "Don't you feel mean?"

He did feel all this and more, and before he knew it, just as if he were really talking to someone, he answered aloud, "Yes, I do. I never before felt so little and mean. I feel like a thief." At once, "I know what I'll do," he determined; "I'll go. That's what I'll do." He went immediately into the house.

Soon he was dressed in a light gray suit and straw hat, and was on his way to the church. "I'll just slip in where it is easy," he was saying. "Mother will be surprised. Maybe she will not see me." The boy did not know whether or not he hoped that she would see him.

"This way!" signaled the usher as Willard stole quietly through the door.

The boy blushed and shook his head bashfully. With another shake of the head, followed by a slight nod, he tried to convey the idea that he preferred a place at the rear of the room.

"I did not intend to do this," he found himself thinking as after discovering that there were no vacant seats near, he went quietly down the well-carpeted aisle, with the usher leading.

"Better?" Willard knew his mother was asking as with arched brows and welcoming smile she greeted him when he slipped into his usual place. The boy smiled and nodded and was glad there was no time for further explanation. Just then the minister, Mr. London, announced the opening hymn.

Willard sighed. "I did not want to come," he was complaining to himself. "The sermon will be a bore. I am not interested in missions—not the least bit." He heartily wished himself back in the comfortable swing at home. To encourage his uneasiness a soft breeze found its way through the open window, bringing a tantalizing fragrance of orchards and meadows. In spite of himself the lad could not help longing to be outside—or somewhere—in fact, almost anywhere other than the place in which he was.

He fidgeted nervously; he was sure that it was the least little touch of his knee that brought a hymn book from the rack before him, landing it upon the floor with a heavy, noisy bang. The boy lifted it and turned the leaves carefully, and his eyes ran swiftly over some of the larger print.

"What is that he is saying?" he asked when almost at the beginning of the sermon, with eyes directly upon Willard, the good man declared, "Yes, my friends, my sermon is for everyone, but I think it may be especially interesting to boys."

"I wonder if he knows what happened. I wonder if he understands how I did not want to come," Willard was saying. He felt certain that Mr. London did understand when with all earnestness the man presumed, "Maybe some of you were wanting to stay at home this morning," and it seemed to him that the good man's eyes reached to his very soul when with a seemingly peculiar emphasis on you, he added, "I wonder if you were."

Then, "Listen!" the minister continued. "Have you heard the story of Iwakiri San? Iwakiri San is Japanese. I want that you should know something about him."

All eyes were upon the speaker.

"It is a wonderful story," the man said. "The home of Iwakiri San is not in the least like the homes in which you boys and girls live. His life in most ways has been very different, too.

"Iwakiri was crippled when a child. He could not run or hop or skip or jump as you children are able to do. He could not even walk. The poor boy crept about on his hands, on which he wore little wooden clogs—just such as other Japanese boys wear upon their feet.

"The children with whom this boy played when a young lad sometimes laughed at him. They had no reason to, though, for although the little fellow could not walk, there were some things that he could do quite as well as they and perhaps even better. One thing this Japanese boy could do very, very well; he could think.

"One day, some time later, while creeping about the streets of the town in which he lived, he was attracted by the singing in a mission school. The boy pushed the door open and found his way in. He listened to the music and liked it, and he liked the story that he heard there—the story we all love so well. He went home. He told his mother what he had learned. 'I shall go again,' he said. Sure enough, the boy again found his way over the rough, pebbly streets that led to the mission school, and he went another day and another to hear the teacher tell the great story of love. He was given a Sunday school paper, too, with which he was greatly pleased.

"You will be glad to know that soon the boy learned to love the story and the Christ. Through it all the lad's mother came to love the Savior, too. Naturally, the boy was so happy that he wanted everybody else to know what he knew so that they might be happy, too.

"The boy grew to be a young man, and he started a Sunday school. It was a great day when he invited others to the two small, dingy rooms that were his home. There he himself told the story of wonderful love. And he told it well, so well that soon the place became too small for all who wanted to come.

"Then it was that with some effort he succeeded in obtaining for a very small rental a somewhat larger place. The attendance kept growing and growing until it was necessary to divide the people, taking only a part at a time.

"Oh, it is wonderful how things work out," declared Mr. London. "You will think so when I say that from this Sunday school there came a meeting purposely for prayer. Then came a real Bible class, and a Sunday service, and you will like to know that this young man was the preacher.

"But this is not all. A short distance from this place Iwakiri San started another school. In this the membership reached 150 children, with '0 adults in the Bible class.

"The young man went two miles down the railway and opened still another school. It soon had a membership of more than 200.

"Now, I am wondering," continued the minister, "if perhaps some of us may not find cause to blush when we learn that twice when there seemed no other way to go, this poor, crippled young man crept this whole distance on his very hands for the chance to teach the glad story.

"Through him hundreds more young men and young women will soon know the True Christ. Does he teach well? Yes. He has studied hard. With all else he has taken a correspondence teacher-training course and so is a trained teacher. He has been teaching from four to five hundred pupils a week."

"Is all this true? Is it really true?" Willard Stokes was asking of himself.

He did not wait long for an answer, for at once the speaker continued, "I saw him—this man who could not walk—this man who crept about with clogs on his hands. It seems as if I can fairly hear the clack, clack of those wooden things as he crept over the stony way. A good friend took Iwakiri San, then twenty-six years old, on his back to the World's Sunday School Convention in Tokyo.

"My dear people," continued Mr. London, "doesn't it stir your souls? It should make your faces crimson as we compare our own unwillingness with his zeal. I need say no more; but doesn't it make you interested? Doesn't it make you feel that you would like to help in such a work?"

Willard Stokes had been very quiet. He had not lost one word. He had forgotten how to be bored.

On the way home he owned to his mother that he had played false to her. "I could hardly wait to make it right," he said. Then he made it very plain that he was glad he had gone to the church, and he told her of a plan he had thought of whereby he could help in the kind work Iwakiri San was doing.—Publisher Unknown.

HOW HE GOT GEOGRAPHY

"Thirty years ago," said Judge P—, "I stepped into a book store in search of some books I wanted. A little ragged boy not over twelve years of age came in also, inquiring for a geography.

"Plenty of them," said the salesman.

"How much do they cost?"

"One dollar, my lad."

The little fellow drew back in dismay, and, taking his hand out of his pocket, counted some pennies and silver pieces that he had held until they were damp with sweat. Several times he did it, then looking up, said, "I didn't know they were so much." He turned to go out, opened the door, but then came back. "I have only got sixty-one cents," said he; "you could not let me have a geography and wait a little while for the rest of the money?"

Eagerly his little bright eyes looked up for the answer and he shrank within his ragged clothes when the man, not very kindly, told him he could not.

The little fellow looked up to me, attempting a smile, and left the store. I followed him and overtook him.

"And what now?" I asked kindly.

"Try another place, sir."

"Shall I go too, and see how you succeed?" I asked.

"Oh, yes, if you like," said he in surprise.

Four different stores I entered with him, and each time he was refused.

"Will you try again?" I asked him.

"Yes, sir; I will try them all, or I shouldn't know if I could get one."

We entered the fifth store, and he manfully told the gentleman what he wanted and how much money he had.

"You want the book very much?" asked the proprietor.

"Yes, sir; very much."

"Why do you want it so very, very much?"

"To study, sir. I cannot go to school, but I study at home. All the boys have one and they get ahead of me. Then, my father was a sailor, and I want to learn of the places he used to go to."

"Does he go to those places now?"

"He is dead," said the little fellow softly; then he added, after a while, "I am going to be a sailor, too."

"Are you tough?" asked the gentleman.

"Yes, sir, if I live."

"Well, my lad, I will let you have a new geography, and you may pay when you can, or I will let you have one not new for fifty cents."

"Are the leaves all in it, and just like the others, only not new?"

"Yes, just like the new ones."

"It will do just as well, then, and I'll have eleven cents left toward buying another book. I'm glad the others didn't let me have one."

The bookseller looked up inquiringly and I told him what I had seen of the little fellow. He was much pleased, and when he brought the book along, I put a nice new pencil and some white, clean paper in it.

"A present, lad, for your perseverance. Always have courage like that, and you will make your mark."

"Thank you, sir; you are very good."

"What is your name?"

"William Haverly, sir."

"Do you need any more books?" I asked him.

"More than I can ever get," he replied.

I gave him a bank note. "It will buy some for you."

Tears of joy came into his eyes. "Can I buy what I want with it?"

"Yes, my lad, anything."

"Then I'll buy one book for mother."

He wanted my name, and I gave it to him. I left him standing by the counter, and almost envied him; and many years passed before I saw him again.

Last year I went to Europe on one of the finest vessels that ever plowed the Atlantic. We had beautiful weather until near the end of our voyage, then a terrific storm would have sunk all on board, had it not been for the captain. Every spar was laid low, the rudder was almost useless, and a great leak threatened to fill the ship. The crew were all strong, willing men, and the mates practical seamen, but after pumping a whole night, and still the water was gaining, they gave up in despair, preparing to take to the boats, though no small boat could ride in such a sea. The captain, who had been below with his charts, now came up, and seeing how matters stood, with a voice that I heard distinctly above the roar of the tempest, ordered every man back to his post.

It was surprising to see them bow before his strong will, and hurry back to their pumps.

He then started below to examine the leak. I asked if there was any hope. He looked up to me and the other passengers, who crowded to hear the reply, and said, rebukingly, "Yes, sir, there is hope as long as one inch of this deck is above water. When I see none of it then I shall abandon the vessel, and not before: nor one of my crew, sir. Everything shall be done to save it, and if we fail it shall not be from inaction. Bear a hand every one of you at the pumps."

Thrice during that day did we despair; but the captain's dauntless courage, perseverance, and powerful will mastered all on board and we went to work again.

"I will land you safely at the dock in Liverpool," said he, "if you will be men."

And he did land us safely, but the vessel sunk, moored to the dock. The captain stood on its deck, receiving the thanks and blessings of the passengers as they passed down the gang plank. I was the last to leave.

As I passed he grasped my hand and said, "Judge P—, do you recognize me?"

I said I was not aware that I ever saw him until I came aboard.

"Do you remember the boy in search of a geography years ago in Cincinnati?"

"Very well, sir; William Haverly."

"I am he. God bless you."

"And God bless noble Captain Haverly!"—Publisher Unknown.

LIGHT AFFLICTIONS

Are we trusting and praising God for the light afflictions we are having? Perhaps we answer, "But my afflictions are not light; they are desperately heavy." Dr. James M. Gray, in a recent address at the Columbia Bible College Conference, noted that "Paul's afflictions were not what most of us would call light—but he did." "We are," said Paul, "troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair; persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed . . . alway delivered unto death for Jesus' sake." And again: "In stripes above measure, in prisons more frequent, in deaths oft. Of the Jews five times received I forty stripes save one. Thrice was I beaten with rods, once was I stoned, thrice I suffered shipwreck, a night and a day I have been in the deep; in journeyings often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in perils by mine own countrymen, in perils by the heathen, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren; in weariness and painfulness, in watchings often, in hunger and thirst, in fasting often, in cold and nakedness." (2 Cor. 11:23-27.) Are our afflictions heavier than Paul's? Yet he says of his: "Our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." The glory is big, the affliction little; the affliction is momentary, the glory is eternal: that is the way they will be seen when we receive the weight of glory that is being worked out for us now by our light affliction.—The Sunday School Times.

◆

—Crowded out—daily prayer. Is this the story of your life? If it is, you have lost the main source of power with which to bear the burdens of life, to meet its exacting struggles, and to render effective service to your fellowmen.—Selected.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Guilford Charge.—Our revival meeting was held at Vickory, beginning the third Sunday in July. Rev. M. C. Henderson did the preaching, which was greatly enjoyed by the congregations. There were two concerts and the church seems to be revived.

On next Sunday there will be a community singing at Hickory Grove, starting at 1:30, continuing all the afternoon. Come and enjoy it with us.

Our revival meeting will begin the fourth Sunday in August with Rev. D. I. Garner as pulpit help.

Mitchell's Grove Sunday school had a picnic last Saturday week at Guilford Battleground. Many were in attendance and they seemed to have had a nice time.

The revival begins at Mitchell's Grove the fourth Sunday in September with Dr. J. D. Williams as help.

The revival meeting will begin at Fairfield the second Sunday in September with Rev. D R. Williams as help. Pray that we will have great revivals.

We had our third quarterly meeting on the fourth Saturday afternoon in July. Mr. John Marsh of Vickery church was elected delegate to Annual Conference. Plans were made to underpin the parsonage before cold weather again. We are so glad to hear it, as it will mean so much to us in bitter cold weather. The people are still thoughtful of the pastor and family and give us vegetables, fruits, milk, butter, chickens, and many other helpful things. We are grateful for this kindness, and ask God5s blessing on each one.

Our Sunday schools are working well and are having good aattendance.

T. A. WILLIAMS, Pastor.

◆

Friendship, Shiloh Charge.—Our revival meeting began August 5th and closed August 12th. The attendance was good. We were very happy to have our pastor, Rev. C. E. Ridge, do the preaching. His wonderful messages were helpful and inspiring. Our revival was a real good one, with good results. Fifteen persons reconsecrated their lives; 13 confessions of faith. Our pastor opened the doors of the church at the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning, and seven joined. We are glad to have these new members in our church. They are: Nancy Lanier, Evelyn Shoaf, Jeweldean Walser, Wilda Mae Phillips and Dale Walser. These joined by confessions of faith. Mr. Russell Freedle from Beulah Reformed Church, and Lawrence Holt, from a church near Greensboro, also united with the church here. This was a very impressive service. Holy Communion was observed at this time and a large number partook.

The people of Friendship love their pastor very much and are thankful for the great work he is doing.

During our revival we enjoyed a quartet from Union Ridge, duet from Reeds, and the Berrier Sisters from Shiloh. We are always glad to have singers with us.

The Sunday school classes are getting along fine, paying off the budgets. They have paid all but one and have paid some on it. We are glad for this; hope it will not be long until this one is paid in full.

The Young Ladies' Class will hold the regular monthly meeting with Misses Addie and Treva Shoaf on August 15th.

We are very sorry to say that some of our members are sick. Hope they will soon be well again.

ADELE PHILLIPS.

◆

Gideon's Grove, Flat Rock Charge.—The Mission Band met at the home of the president, Miss Orelia Friddle, last Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Miss Friddle and her sister, Eloise, were program leaders and hostesses to the meeting. A very interesting program was rendered. The apron contest was closed, and it was found that $4.33 was raised during the contest. The Mission Band now has $11.00 in the treasury. Games were played and refreshments were served on the lawn. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the meeting. There were 31 members and two visitors present. The membership is now 33.

The Mission Band will give an ice cream supper at the parsonage on Saturday evening, August 25. Special music will be furnished for the occasion. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the church.

MRS. C. B. WAY.

◆

Bethany, Randolph Charge.—Our Sunday school attendance has been unusually large for the hot summer months.

The date set for our special meeting is the second week in September, beginning the second Sunday night. Bro. D. T. Gaster is ill at his home near Worthville. Hope he will be well soon. He is badly missed in the Sunday school.

Miss Mayme Ellis, of High Point, is spending some time here with home-folks.

The members of the Ladies' Aid entertained their families at an enjoyable picnic Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. W. P. Julian. Ice cream, cake and lemonade were served. Our Aid Society was organized one year ago. During the year we have collected $93.00, which we think is a good beginning for a country church. We have 26 members.

MRS. C. T. REDDING, Reporter.

◆

Flat Rock Charge.—The attendance at Gideon's Grove church last Sunday morning was not as good as usual, owing to some of our people of that church being away on vacations. We were glad to receive two new members, Olivia and Mary Lemmons. These girls made professions at the revival meeting in July. Eight have united with the Gideon's Grove church this year. After the service the pastor and family went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Angel, having received a previous invitation to be their dinner guests. We enjoyed the good dinner and visit in this splendid home.

We did not have the service at Flat Rock church in the afternoon on account of the road being closed. Highway 65, which is used to reach the church by many of the people, is being given a treatment of oil hardsurfacing.

The revival meeting at Bethel church closed on Friday night of last week. Rev. R. A. Hunter, pastor of the Forsyth charge, did all the preaching after Sunday, and his sermons were all very good. He endeared himself to the people of Bethel church, who were greatly inspired and strengthened by his very helpful sermons. There were five professions, and we are expecting to receive a number of these at the service next Sunday afternoon. The attendance at the services was not as good as it would have been if the farmers had not been so busy taking care of their tobacco.

Our services for next Sunday will be at Palestine church at 11 a. m., and at Bethel church at 3 p. m. We will observe the ordinance of the Lord's Supper at each church.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

◆

Friendship, Mount Hermon Charge.—Rev. L. E. Mabry opened revival services the first Sunday morning by giving us an inspiring sermon on "The Woe of Over-Content." From this sermon he reminded us that we should never be content with things as they are, but always strive for improvement.

The services were continued through Friday night. During the week Rev. J. R. Anderson preached splendid sermons. We were glad ineed to have him with us. Several new members were added to our church roll. These new members are welcomed by all and we trust that they will be true followers of Christ.

Again we wish to call your attention to the meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary Saturday, August 18, at the home of Mrs. C. M. Mann at 2:30 p. m., Burlington. Each member is urged to be present.

The third quarterly conference will meet at Friendship church Saturday before the 4th Sunday in August, at 3 p. m. All church officers are urged to be present. Everybody is cordially invited.

I would like to see more people attend the County Sunday School Convention next year than did this. The Convention will be held at Bethel church, Alamance Charge. The date will be set later.

These meetings are worth while. Those who attended spent a pleasant day at Cane Creek church and enjoyed a good program. I am trusting that there will be a greater attendance next year. REPORTER.

◆

Lexington, Mount Carmel.—Revival services at Mount Carmel church began Monday, August 6, following the home-coming, and closed on Friday night. Rev. J. T. Bowman was with us the entire week. His plain gospel sermons were well received. Visible results: Several conversions, 10 additions to the church on profession of faith, namely, Naomi Long, Hilda Fritts, Wilborn Long, Paul Waitman, Billy Myers, John Helmsteller, J. C. Welborn, Margie Fritts, Lillian Shoaf, and Mamie Shoaf, and three by letter, Mrs. H. G. Swicegood from Midway M. E. church, and Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Smith, the former from First M. P. Church, Lexington. and Mrs. Smith from Lebanon Lutheran church. Rev. Mr. Isley has taken in 75 members since he came to this church six years ago, the membership at that time being 80; only five more and he will have doubled the membership, although we have lost some by death and some have seen fit to move their membership. But we are very grateful to Rev. Mr. Isley for his untiring service. We were very glad to have Mrs. Bowman with us for the two last services. She rendered a beautiful solo at each service.

We truly hope she and Mr. Bowman will both come our way again.

We want to thank Mr. H. G. Swicegood for lending us his piano for the revival.

The indebtedness of the church has been cut down considerably and an effort is being made to clear the church debt between now and November and have the dedication service.

ZULA FRITTS, Reporter.

* * *

Union Grove Church, Mocksville Charge.—Sunday school opened last Sunday with 175 pupils present. Our contest ended last Sunday. We're hoping to keep all these new members in Sunday school.

The fourth Sunday night in last month Taft White filled our pastor's regular appointment, while the pastor was holding a revival at one of his other churches. Mr. Ferree was back last Sunday with a good sermon.

Rev. Hutton will help Mr. Ferree in the revival meeting at our church which will begin the fourth Sunday in September.

The Junior Christian Endeavor is giving the program Sunday night for the regular Christian Endeavor Society.

FLORA MAE WOOTEN, Reporter.

* * *

Orange Charge.—The revival meeting began at Union Grove August 5 and closed August 9th. Bro. Suits came for the services Monday and did all the preaching from then until the close.

Two were converted, two joined the church, and two were reclaimed. The plain Gospel sermons of Bro. Suits were well received. We believe they will bear fruit in days to come.

Dr. J. D. Williams was with us one day. He always has a hearty welcome at his old home church.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

* * *

Hickory Grove, Guilford Circuit.—No, the reporter for Hickory Grove is not dead. There just has not been much to write about, I'm sorry to say.

Since the last report, the Willing Workers' Class has borne the expenses of painting the benches of our church and they look a great deal better. This class has been raising money mostly by giving lawn parties this summer.

The choir has been practicing on Tuesday and Thursday nights. We are having some really good practices too. We hope to hear some good singing from this choir next Sunday, for we are going to have a community singing at 1:30 o'clock on August 19. Everyone is invited. A large number of choirs and quartets are expected to come. Mr. Julius Swaim, of Spring Hill church of High Point, will be director.

Our revival meeting will begin the fourth Sunday in this month. There will be all-day services. A large picnic dinner will be served on the grounds. Rev. D. I. Garner, of St. Paul's church, will help our regular pastor, Rev. T. A. Williams, in the services.

The Willing Workers had a party at the Greensboro City Park on Friday night, August 10. A large number was present.

Miss Eunice Pitts is recovering nicely since her operation last Tuesday for appendicitis. We are missing her very much and hope to see her out as soon as possible.

The attendance in prayer meetings is largely increasing each Sunday night. We are having fine meetings and wish more would attend. I feel like they are helping everyone more each time. The young people seem to take more interest than usual.

CELESTE STRICKLAND, Reporter.

* * *

South Winston Charge.—Well, I am back again for another short visit, and I don't suppose I will be here very long, as I haven't much news to report.

It isn't very long now until our Annual Conference.

We held our third quarterly conference, but we had a very small number present.

I almost think sometimes that some people have forgotten their church, their God and their all by the way they attend church. But you put on a big social or something of the kind and let it be known and they most all will be there if they are able to be up and going. I sometimes think such as this is why this drouth is sent on this people out in the West and I believe that there are others who will agree with me.

Forgive me if I have stayed too long.

REPORTER.

* * *

Draper.—We are very glad to report that our church is doing very well at the present time. The attendance is not as large as it should be.

Our Conference budget is in very good shape.

We had Rev. Mr. Johnson of the Draper M. E. church to preach for us last Sunday night. He is a man we love. We wish to extend a hearty welcome to visitors to our church. We are glad to have them at any time.

L. C. CRAIG.

* * *

Shiloh, Liberty.—Our revival began Sunday with Dr. Fred W. Paschall as the pulpit help. We are delighted to have Dr. Paschall with us for the week; also, Mr. Miller of Liberty, who will lead the singing at the evening services.

Our pastor, Mr. Love, brought us two splendid messages Sunday. In the afternoon he preached from Amos 4:12: "Prepare to meet thy God." He stressed this preparation as being something which must be done before the proper time is passed as well as something each one must do for himself.

Dr. Paschall brought us his first message Monday evening, his text being from Hab. 3:2: "O Lord, revive thy work in the midst of the years." This was an unusually good message for the beginning of a revival, one of the outstanding ideas being that we, as Christians, are mediators between Christ and a world which does not know Him.

On Sunday, July 8, we observed our Children's Day. The program was well rendered. We appreciate very much the efforts of Misses Clarice and Lucy Evelyn Whitaker, who trained the children. The offering was $13.66.

Our Sunday school is doing very well. There was Sunday school every Sunday during the past year (ending August 1), with an average attendance of 51, which we consider very good for a country church. We held our annual picnic at Bowman's pond, July 28. While there were not so many of the older people present, most of the children were able to attend and seemed to enjoy it very much.

Our Ladies' Aid, too, deserves a word since we are admiring the new carpet they put down about ten days ago.

"May the Lord keep watch between me and thee."

MARGARET E. PICKETT, Reporter.

* * *

Moriah Church.—We are having good attendance in our Sunday school, with much interest being shown.

The Sunday school members enjoyed their annual picnic at the Baattleground and the County Recreation Park last Thursday afternoon.

Many are planning on attending the Sunday School Convention which is being held on Tuesday of this week at Pleasant Garden church.

We would like to remind everyone of our annual revival meeting, which starts the fourth Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon a home-coming will be held. A very interesting program is being arranged for the occasion. We hope to have all members of the church and many friends present.

Our pastor preached a very interesting sermon last Sunday. His subject was: Is prayer worth while? It was heard by a large congregation.

The Young People's Bible Class will give a lawn party on the church lawn next Saturday night. The public is cordially invited. It is for the benefit of their church fund.

A C. E. Society was re-organized about two weeks ago. Macon Moser was elected president. It meets at 7:30 each Sunday evening. We trust that it will do much good towards heling the church in the near future.

May the Lord bless the Herald and all its readers.

MRS. GEO. GLENN, Reporter.

* * *

North Davidson Circuit.—We are still moving along nicely. Just closed two of our meetings. Our Spring Hill meeting was well attended. There were 27 professions and reclamations. Fourteen united with the church. Rev. C. G. Isley of Lexington did the preaching. Bro. Isley brought us wonderful messages, which were enjoyed by all.

The meeting at Canaan was one of much interest. There were four professions, and 11 additions to the church. Rev. J. D. Morris did some powerful preaching. C. P. Morris, of Kannapolis, preached for us Wednesday evening. He is a power in the pulpit for a young man. These fellow ministers found a warm place in the hearts of our people.

Rev. J. D. Morris gave a splendid address to our young people of Spring Hill the fourth Sunday night. It was enjoyed by the young people very much. These young folks at Spring Hill have high ideas. We are proud of them.

The young girls' Sunshine Circle recently sponsored a lawn party. They cleared $18.00. This is fine for their first attempt. They are paying on the piano. They have just made a $25.00 ayment on the piano. This is just fine, girls, go on!

The Canaan ladies put on a lawn party Saturday night. A nice sum was cleared.

Mount Pleasant is moving forward; they are still work. hTe ladies have just made another $45.00 payment on their piano.

We are planning to pay for the parsonage this fall, and all are working toward this end.

The District Rally was enjoyed very much. We were glad to have these visitors with us. Come again at any time.

A good number of friends of Uncle Phillip Berrier gave him a birthday dinner the fifth Sunday. It was enjoyed by all. He has reached the 79th mile-post in life. He is in good health and is one of the best members of Canaan church. C. L. GRANT.

* * *

Bethesda.—The most helpful revival that has been held in many years opened at Bethesda recently and close August 10. Though short as it may seem, yet there was great demonstration of God's power in the meeting. Rev. Earl A. Cook, of Concord, N. C., brought the Gospel messages and 27 souls were saved. We are sure that this revival will go down in history for the great and wonderful work that was accomplished. We love Bro. Cook. We believe he is a man that was called by God to preach the Gospel to poor lost sinners, and we are so glad that God sent him this way. The saints have been revived, the backsliders reclaimed, sinners convicted, and mourners converted. Glory to God! Bless His holy Name. We will never forget Bro. Cook for the interest he has taken in our church. We were very sorry he could not stay longer, but the Lord was calling him to his charge to begin a revival. We pray that the Lord will bless and save many souls at Roberta, and that the sains may be revived.

Let me repeat that we all love Bro. Cook and wish for him continued success in the Lord's work. There were seven additions to the church at Bethesda.

The third quarterly conference was held at Bethesda on Friday, August 10, with the pastor present. He read some wonderful resolutions. May the Lord bless all of our churches and save our people.

J. R. BOON, Reporter.

* * *

Lebanon Church, High Point.—Yesterday was another good day with us. Our pastor was back home from Philadelphia church in Brunswick County, Virginia, where he assisted in a splendid revival meeting. He calls it a "vacation" when he goes out like that, working in a different part of the Lord's vineyard. He is going on another "vacation" this week to help in a meeting in Antioch church, near Charlotte. Happy is the man who delights in His labor. We laymen and laywomen might find more contentment if we delighted more in our work.

What a good sermon we heard yesterday! Dr. Taylor's subject was "church vessels," the Scriptural text being found in Timothy 2:20. It was so interesting and so helpful to hear about these vessels in the house of God. We are made to see the reality of our Christian experiences when we find ourselves compared to vessels. And there are so many kinds, it includes every kind of Christian. There's the leaky, undesirable kind, the unused vessels, the out-of-place vessels, the unclean vessels, and there's the usable vessels (busy kind).

For the month of August the Sunday night services are suspended. There is no prayer meeting on Wednesday night, but this hour, 8 o'clock, is being used each week in song service. The choir desires to learn some of the fine worship hymns found in our church hymnal that we have not been in the habit of singing. From time to time after this we will use these new hymns in the regular church services.

Our Ladies' Aid members are happy. Mrs. Taylor is happy, too. There has been another birthday.

The writer regrets missing that party but it happened at a time not convenient to attend. But I will try to make a report of it as it was told me: At the home of Miss Emma Wray and Miss Esther Brooks, 518 N. Hamilton, on last Friday evening at 7:30, more than 40 members met for the surprise party. Miss Wray telephoned Mrs. Taylor to come over and get a basket of nice, fresh eggs that she wished to give her. Mrs. Taylor went. When she arrived she was greeted by a happy crowd on the lovely green lawn, all lighted up for the ociasion. She was oshered into the dining room, which was beautifully decorated with fresh roses that seemed just to burst out in their best glory for this occasion. There the guests were served home-made ice cream and cake, and Mrs. Taylor was presented with a big basket—not of eggs—but of personal gifts from her friends, and also presented with a birthday cake bedecked with happy greetings and rosebuds. It was a happy occasion. Not only the members of the Ladies' Aid, but her other friends in the community, wish for Mrs. Taylor many more happy returns of the day.

May we keep in mind that our special meeting is announced for the first Sunday in September and pray for a good meeting.

* * *

Asheville.—Asheville church members are all "pepped up" this week, because of having closed a most successful Vacation Church School, and "going over the top" in the campaign for subscriptions to the Herald; also because of the kind words of Dr. J. E. Pritchard. He has no idea how happy we all are here. There is really a mst encouraging spirit among all our folk, so "watch our smoke!"

The Commencement of the Vacation Church School was, according to many of the congregation, the best yet. Much credit is due Miss Frances S. Cunninghom for her able supervision of the school, and to the following for their assistance: Mrs. J. S. Williams, Mrs. E. A. Bolick, Mrs. J. H. Bailey, Mrs. J. F. Minnis, Mrs. C. B. Baker, Misses Nancy Clouse, Louise Hauner, Josie McNeill, Hilda Brownlow and Mr. Richard Taylor. Our average attendance was 52, and 28 were awarded certificates for perfect attendance and completion of required work. Lola Johnson, Augusta Pressley, Clare Fortner, James Clouse, Jack Minnis, Melvin Baker and Jack Bailey were given prizes for being the first in their respective groups to complete the required memory work.

Table napkins were made by the Intermediate girls for the Children's Home and dish towels by the Junior girls. Three of the Intermedites, Adele Biebinger, Polly Gentry and Betty Marlowe, met on Saturday before the school opened, and cut the napkins and had them ready for the remainder of the class to hem. Many articles were made by the other classes and all were on exhibit after the program on Sunday evening.

The entire school was delighted to have Rev. and Mrs. J. Elwood Carroll as visitors on Friday. Rev. Mr. Carroll is a great favorite with our children and Mrs. Carroll is well known, too, since she was an earnest worker in our Vacation Church School last summer and the summer before. We hope they will be able to visit with us again soon and for a longer period.

Rev. and Mrs. Minnis have gone to Mrs. Minnis' home in Maryland for their vacation, and we are wishing them a very happy time. In their absence we expect to have Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Ballard, and we feel we are very fortunate in having them. We trust they will enjoy their visit with us.

Our Sunday school attendance fell off a little this week, but we'll be back on the job again soon. The Philathea Class again led the entire school in largest attendance and collection. In the Children's Department, Mrs. J. S. Williams' Good Will Class led in largest collections; Miss McNeill and Mrs. Bolick tied in attendance, each having 13 present.

The Philahea class sponsored a chicken supper Wednesday evening of last week, the only regret being that the supper gave out too soon.

We are leased to report that Mr. J. W. Bolling, who suffered a broken neck some weeks ago, is much improved and expects to return home soon. Mrs. Dixie Messer is also still improving and we hope she will soon be able to worship with us again.

The Senior C. E. business meeting was held at the home of Miss Nancy Clouse on Ashland Avenue, Friday evening. There was a good crowd present to enjoy the meeting and the social hour which followed.

M. L. B.

* * *

First Church, Charlotte.—Rev. G. H. Hendry and family have returned from Perry, Florida, where he assisted his cousin, Rev. J. A. Hendry, in an Inter-denominational country-wide evangelistic campaign, held in the First Methodist church in Perry. The services lasted for two weeks and were very successful.

This week Pastor Hendry is assisting Rev. B. F. Morris in evangelistic services at Bess' Chapel.

On Sunday evening the pastor concluded his series of "Better Homes" sermons on love, marriage and the home. "Can He Qualify As Husband—Can She Quality As Wife?" was the theme of the closing sermon of the series. These services have been very interesting and well attended, especially by the young people.

During the pastor's absence, Rev. Edward M. Graham preached both morning and evening, bringing inspiring and helpful messages to both services.

The song service by the Glee Club on Sunday was enjoyed by everyone present. The Glee Club of 23 members, with Fleetwood Greene director, has been organized but a few weeks, but promises to become one of the leading glee clubs of the city. Louis Garmon is president. Meetings are held every Thursday evening.

We were glad to have Rev. J. W. Ramsey worship with us on Sunday morning. Mr.

Ramsey is song leader for the Ham-Ramsey evangelistic campaign which begins in the city on August 26.

Mrs. McCommons, of Kannapolis, sister of Mrs. C. B. Bruton, was a welcome visitor at the morning service.

The Wilma Shaw Bible class will meet with Mrs. Ware at her home on East Seventh street on Thursday evening.

Circle No. 1 of the Woman's Auxiliary will meet on Tuesday afternoon at the home of the Auxiliary president, Mrs. B. W. Lit 2307 Crescent Avenue. Mrs. C. H. Dewese, circle chairman, will have charge of the program.

The Woman's Auxiliary won first prize of $30 on July 23, and again on August 6 in The Good Samaritan Campaign, an advertising campaign conducted by Radio Station WSOC, and local merchants and manufacturers. On July 2 the Auxiliary won $10, making a total of $70. The final granl prize of $150 will be given on September 24. We are working and expecting to win that, too. Mrs. C. S. Wommaack is in charge of the campaign in our Auxiliary.

Mrs. C. H. Daugntry has been called to New York City on account of the death of her niece, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Battista.

The Sunday school attendance is keeping up exceptionally well during the warm weather. Special music is furnished by the orchestra composed of M. L. Sloan and Marvin Pressley, violins; A. F. Love, mandolin; Joseh Little, flute, and Miss Gray Stiles at the piano.

Two hundred new songbooks have been bought with the "Birthday Fund," to which members contributed a penny for each year of their age.

Attendance records, which are checked at each morning and evening church service, show that the following are very faithful attendants: E. Worth Cole, M. D. Frink, Macie Garmon, Mr. and Mrs. Hal P. Garmon and children, Lynn, Paul, Harold and Nellie Mae. Rev. and Mrs. Edward M. Graham, Mrs. H. H. Hendry and Louise, Mrs. A. F. Love, A. A. Ledbetter, John M. Muse, Mrs. A. L. Haigler, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Stegall, Miss Ruby Stegall, Sigsby Tadlock, Miss Mary Shaw, and Miss Gray Stiles.

Members and friends of the church presented a 1931 Model Buick Sedan to the pastor in appreciation of the splendid services he is rendering the church and community.

On Saturday evening the pastor and family were the recipients of a pounding." By these tokens we hope to express to the pastor and his good family our appreciation and gratitude for the good work they are doing here. May they remain here for many years and may the church, under God's guidance and their leadership continue to grow and prosper.

◆

Charlotte Church, Richland Charge.—The Woman's Auxiliary met with Mrs. R. L. Hethcox at the parsonage last Thursday evening. There were about eight members present. The Auxiliary has started a project to build some much-needed Sunday school rooms. We wish them much success in this work.

We are planning to meet at the church next Saturday morning at eight o'clock to clean the cemetery and church yard. We want everything in good condition for our meeting the first Sunday in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Bruton announce the birth of a girl, Mable Frances, August 12.

Miss Edith McCain is recovering nicely from a tonsil operation.

A committee has been appointed, and we hope our church will be on the Birthday Honor Roll for the Children's Home.

REPORTER.

◆

Midway Church.—Our Sunday school is planning an all-day outing at the Greensboro Community Recreation grounds on August 22. The picnic basket will be much in evidence.

Our pastor, Rev. J. R. Hutton, has been helping in evangelical services the past two weeks, but is to preach at 11 o'clock Sunday, as usual.

The Ladies' Aid is going ahead with plans for a booth at the Fair again this year. Much enthusiastic interest is shown.

Much interest is shown in the "birthday offering" to help lift the debt on the Children's Home in High Point. The committee in charge of this offering, Mrs. Auman, Mrs. Leo Palmer, and Miss Louise Suits, reports several dollars raised and that the committee is working toward getting every family represented in the church to enroll by September 13. A very pleasing interest in the welfare of these children has been shown by our church as a whole, and we are hoping for a greater interest when Dr. and Mrs. Dixon bring some of them to our church for a special pogram.

MRS. LEO PALMER, Reporter.

◆

Draper.—Sunday, August 12, was another very good day for the Draper church. Sunday school was very well attended for the hot weather. The attendance is not so large but the interest is good.

The 11 o'clock services are very well attended. The people here seem to be hopeful of a good closing of this Conference year. The motto is: All claims paid in full. Receipts show that we lack only $18 of being out on the claims at this time.

Our people were very pleasantly surprised Sunday when the announcement was made that the pastor and the Rev. Mr. Johnson, pastor of the M. E. church, would exchange pulpits Sunday night. Reports are that Bro. Johnson preached a wonderful sermon on becoming fishers of men. Everybody enjoyed his message.

Our people were very pleasantly surprised Sunday night by a visit from Mrs. Braswell from the Kannapolis church. We were glad to have her visit us and extend her a hearty welcome to come again, and all other Methodist Protestants who happen to come our way. Our doors are open to you, and you are welcome.

We are looking forward to our fall meeting with Bro. C. E. Ridge as our pulpit help. We will begin the fourth Sunday in September. It is being planned for and prayers are being offered for a revival. Those who pray are asked to join us in prayer to God for a revival. PASTOR.

◆

—Mrs. Wm. C. Hammer, of Asheboro, was taken to Duke Hospital, Durham, last Sunday for an operation later in the week. Mrs. Hammer fell down the steps as she came out of church Sunday and broke her knee-cap.

WORTHY HONOR ROLL—REPORT TWO

A child lost on a prairie is much more easily found when all the neighbors join hands and march in one line, each one searching the territory over which he walks, than when they search singly, each one choosing his own territory.

Our Worthy Honor Roll is designed to be a solid wall 30,000 strong, marching to free our Children's Home of its current debts. Are those who have not yet joined hands with us planning to defeat our purpose? I cannot think so! But, brethren, it is time for the ranks to be filling in.

To date a total of 36 pastors have signified to me their intention of co-operating toward this most worthy goal of every church member's name in the book and a penny contributed for every year of age per person. This leaves much to be desired with just one month to work.

Those joining hands in the project since my "Report One" are Brothers Bowman, Burgess, Carroll, Garner, Helms, Isley, J. L. Love, Glenn Madison, Peeler, Powell, Pritchard, Trollinger, D. R. Williams, and J. D. Williams.

I am still hoping for a response to this appeal from each pastor, although more than half of them remain to be heard from.

Remember, please, Children's Home Day is September 13.

MRS. R. M. ANDREWS.

◆

SPECIAL NOTICE

There will be a home-coming at Spring Hill church the fifth Sunday in September. All former pastors are invited to be present. We will have an all-day program of speeches by the former pastors and friends and special singing.

A history of the church will be given; also the names of the ones who have passed on who have helped to carry on the work of the church here.

We want all the friends of the church and all who have loved ones buried here to be present. We want to organize a Memorial Association to care for the cemetery and to set a date for a memorial day next spring.

This is one of the oldest M. P. churches in this section. Come and enjoy the day with us. The church is three miles west of High Point. C. L. GRANT, Pastor.

◆

SPECIAL NOTICE

There will be a home-coming at Mount Pleasant church the second Sunday in September. All former pastors and friends are invited to attend. There will be an all-day program. This church is about four miles north of Thomasville. The revival will begin at this time. This is an opportunity for all of the old friends to come and spend a good day together. All former M. E. members are specially invited to attend since it was once a union church.

A good program of speeches and special singing will feature the day.

C. L. GRANT, Pastor.

—A tiny Georgia tot, Roland Clarke, age three, was fatally injured when he ventured too near the revolving wheel of a jacked-up automobile. The little fellow was whirled around several times before being thrown clear.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Hickory Grove S. S., Guilford	$ 1.55
Whitaker's Chapel, Enfield	2.50
First Church S. S., Lexington	4.40
State Street S. S.	4.13
First Church S. S., Winston-Salem	10.00
Kannapolis S. S.	4.85
Moriah S. S.	3.15
Gibsonville S. S.	5.00
First Church S. S., High Point	14.00
Concord S. S.	20.00
Mt. Lebanon S. S., Randleman	4.40
Worthville S. S., Randleman	6.40
Fairfield S. S., Guilford	2.00
Calvary S. S.	10:50
Charlotte S. S., Richland, clothing child	7.40
Spring Church, Spring Church	1.00
Concord, Saxapahaw	2.73
Mr. W. A. Lindley, Saxapahaw	1.00
St. Paul S. S.	5.75
Reidsville S. S.	16.00
Kernersville S. S., Kernersville	1.60
Mt. Hermon S. S., Mt. Hermon	4.04
Whitakers S. S.	5.00
Community Church, Thomasville	8.00
Glen Raven S. S., Glen Raven	3.74
Mt. Elma, Creswell	1.00
Mount Pleasant S. S., Mt. Pleasant	8.80
The Gleaners Class, Fairmont, W. Va.	5.00
Union Grove S. S., Mocksville, July and August	1.82
Grace Church S. S.	5.00
Friendship Station	6.18

Clothing and Other Gifts

Mr. C. H. Kirkman, Tabernacle, two 98-lb. bags of flour.

Mrs. T. O. Sharpe, Greensboro, 5 dresses and 1 piece of goods.

Jewish Women's Circle, High Point, 2 packages of clothing.

Daily Vacation Bible School, Denton, 12 napkins and 12 pillowslips.

A box of clothing, no name given, 1 pair tennis shoes, 11 dresses, 1 skirt, 2 pair bloomers, 3 pair boys' shorts, 1 pair oxfords and stockings.

We are thankful for these gifts of money and substance.

Bro. C. H. Kirkman of Tabernacle is the first to respond to our plea for grain products, and word came with these two bags of flour that Tabernacle is sending more. We appreciate this.

Children's Home Day

Just one month from today is Children's Home Day, September 13th. Talk about it, pray for the success of it, and come with your picnic basket filled and mingle with the many friends of the Home who will be here that day.

Enroll your church members and friends, to a number equal to your church membership, who will pay a penny for each year of their age. Hold the money to be turned in by someone from your church on the 13th of September.

Every church that enrolls and collects from a number of persons equal to your church membership will be given a good picture of the Home and its grounds.

We are trusting that every church from Pensacola to Creswell and from Fairview, S. C., to Philadelphia, Va., will enter heartily into the plan prepared by the women and directed by Mrs. R. M. Andrews. Just one month will tell the story.

Thank you and God bless you.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOLS CONTINUE GOOD

Since writing to the church paper about our Leadership Training Schools, I have been in a number of our schools in the South and Southwest. I was at Georgia on Sunday for Commencement. They closed a very successful school, and on that day raised enough money to pay for their new dormitory which had recently been erected.

Mississippi had 119 students and a well organized school. This school is held each year in Clara, Mississippi, where dormitories and an administrtive building are provided by the Agricultural High School of the county. Hon. Nate S. Williamson, Meridian, Miss., brought a powerful commencement address on the closing Sunday.

The next week we were at Chatham, Louisiana, where the new camp for Louisiana was officially opened with an attendance of 152 students. Louisiana has grown to be one of the largest schools held in the denomination.

Following Louisiana we went to North Arkansas, where a new school was opened with 40 students. We have 19 churches in North Arkansas which are far removed from any other Methodist Protestant churches. The hospitality of the Leonard community was excellent and everyone was enthusiastic about another school for the northern part of the state for next year.

To date 23 schools have been conducted and practically all of these show an increase over last year, and everywhere there are signs of improvement as to the quality of work being done.

Miss Bettie S. Brittingham of the Board of Missions, has given five weeks to our South and Southwest schools. She has had her share in presenting to these groups the whole program of the church and has been an inspiration to all the schools in which she has worked.

We are now turning our attention toward the Ohio and Texhoma Schools, which are to be held next week. Five schools remain on the schedule : Ohio, Sabina, August 13-19; Texhoma, Foss, Okla., August 13-19; Kansas, Centreville, Kansas, August 20-26; Michigan, Midland Park, Gull Lake, Augusta, Michigan, August 20-26; Alabama, Capitol Heights Church, Montgomery, Ala., August 27-September 1.

Returns for all of our schools are very encouraging. We cannot tell, however, at this date just what the total results will be. When the series is over, a complete report will be made. F. L. GIBBS.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

EXPRESSES APPRECIATION

We wish to express to the ministers, our friends throughout the North Carolina Conference and General Church, our most sincere appreciation for flowers, telegrams, words of comfort, sympathy, and other tokens of love sent us during the sickness and death of our husband and father.

MRS. L. W. GERRINGER AND FAMILY.

ICE CREAM SUPPER AND SINGING AT MOUNT HERMON

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Mount Hermon church will sponsor a singing and ice cream supper next Saturday evening, August 18th, at 6 o'clock on the church lawn.

The public is cordially invited to attend. Plenty of good singing, duets, trios and quartets will be furnished.

Cakes, sandwiches and ice cream will be served. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of the church. Come enjoy the music and help a good cause.

MRS. L. P. HOLT, Reporter.

DISEASE

Teach the children not to spit; it is rarely necessary. To spit on a slate, floor, or sidewalk is an abomination.

Not to put the fingers in the mouth.

Not to pick the nose.

Not to wet the finger with saliva in turning the leaves of a book.

Not to put pencils into the mouth or moisten them with the lips.

Not to put money into the mouth.

Not to put pins into the mouth.

Not to put anything into the mouth except food and drink.

Teach the children to turn the face aside when coughing and sneezing, if they are facing another person.

Children should be taught that their bodies are their own private possessions, that personal cleanliness is a duty, that the mouth is for eating and speaking, and should not be used as a pocket, and the lips should not take the place of their fingers.—Exchange.

A PRAYER FOR INVALIDS

For those on beds of sickness,
Or fettered by dread fear,
We ask Thee, loving God,
Our meek petition hear.

We pray that Thou wilt help
All those bowed down by grief,
That Thou in tender love
Wilt send them swift relief.

Give courage to the frail,
And strength unto the weak;
Hear those afflicted ones
Who peace and respite seek.

Dear God, we humbly pray,
That Thou good health wilt give,
To all Thy children dear,
And show them how to live.

—Grenville Kleiser.

THE THIEF

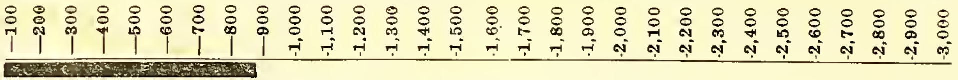
Into my room he stole,
Where I lay sound asleep,
In search of blood, intent was he,
Assassin, vile and deep!

I suddenly awoke,
Struck him a mighty blow;
The vile mosquito in his tracks
Forever was laid low.

—Grenville Kleiser.

—Dr. C. W. Bates is assisting Rev. R. A. Hunter in a revival meeting at Hickory Ridge church near Winston-Salem this week.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
ASHEVILLE	100
REIDSVILLE	90
LINCOLNTON	85

Well, well, see who sky-rocketed last week. I told you so.

One morning recently a beautiful bird sat ou a limb of the old apple tree just a few yards from my study and almost burst his throat singing. I sat there aud wondered what he was saying, aud while I cannot be absolutely certain, this is as near what he was saying as anything I could make out: "ASHEVILLE, ASHEVILLE, ASHEVILLE! Three cheers for ASHEVILLE!" Now that was some bird to sing a song like that and yet that is just the song that he should sing, for ASHEVILLE surely did go over the top. Those folks up there in the Land of the Sky certainly did decide to be above everybody else, and so they got in their balloon and went on up. They are now so high up that if they were to try to come down in a parachute there would be danger that the friction from the atmosphere would wear out the parachute before it reached the ground. Congratulations, ASHEVILLE, and the pastor, Rev. J. F. Minnis, and the Herald agent, Mr. Moore. All of you did good work, and we are proud of you. Really, we did not expect anything less of you, and yet we rejoice greatly that you reached the goal. Now who will be the next?

And now you young folks, put on your specs and look at the back page of the Herald last week aud see what Henderson did last week. They sent in TWENTY DOLLARS AT ONE TIME! Fine for you, Henderson; keep up the good work. And Rev. D. R. Williams of West Forsyth and L. F. Ferree of High Point and Rev. H. F. Fogleman of Fallston all sent in fine contributions as well as others who sent in smaller amounts. Now just look at the black line at the top of the page and see how it is lengthening from week to week. Last week the printers ran off a little more than fifteen hundred copies of the Herald. If we could double that it would be fine. Come on, Herald ageuts, and let's put this thing across. You will get lots of pleasure out of doing it, and it will be good for your church too.

Now that Asheville goes out of my column into the permanent place of honor with capital letters, who will take her place? Remember, it is for the one who makes the most progress.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

* * *

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	11¾	$....
Albemarle	17	10¾	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	26½	....
ASHEVILLE	14	14	....
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	11.10	....
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	14	....
Burlington, First	71	16½	*20.00
Bessemer City	13	7.51	....
Charlotte	21	12.2	1.50
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.82	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	13½	7.50
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5½	....
Davidson	58	....	....
Democrat	16	2	....
Denton	48	11¾	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	10¼	*5.00
Fallston	85	28	....
Flat Rock	63	15½	....
Friendship	21	3.42	....
Forsyth	45	10½	2.50
Gibsonville	20	4	....
Glen Raven	47	7¼	....
GRAHAM	27	33.18	....
Granville	59	18	16.55
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY	29	35	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	11	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	4¼	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	10.6	*7.50
Greensville	59	7	....
Guilford	37	10½	....
Halifax	53	9	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	23.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	29	8.00
High Point, Lebanon	34	7½	....
High Point, Welch	22	5	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	23.02	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2¾	....
Lexington, First	45	14¾	*10.00
Lexington, State Street	40	10.11	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	18	16.05	....
Littleton	50	7¾	....
Mebane	28	8	....
Mecklenburg	40	2	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	3½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	5	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	20	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	27¼	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7½	....
Randolph	74	12	....
REIDSVILLE	10	10	....
Richland	43	4½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	46½	*20.00
Siler City	20	11¾	*7.50
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	14½	....
Tabernacle	39	21¼	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	3½	....
West Forsyth	62	12	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	5½	....
Winston, First	26	10½	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	5	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

Individual churches on circuits raising their quota in full are: SHILOH on Shiloh Charge, EFLAND on Orange Charge.

* Subsidy paid in full.

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

D. A. McLaurin	$13.44
Rev. J. E. Pritchard	3.00
J. J. Mallard	3.00
Rev. Edw. Suits	3.00
Mrs. R. M. Robinson	3.00
Rev. J. D. Cranford	2.76
Rev. T. A. Williams	2.00
Rev. George R. Brown	2.00
Rev. C. B. Way	2.00
Rev. H. F. Fogleman	2.00
Rev. A. H. Reynolds	2.00
Miss Sally McCain	2.00
Rev. J. D. Williams	1.00
Rev. C. W. Bates	.50

Subsidy Fnud

Weaverville, Weaverville Charge	$ 2.50
Rev. Homer Casto	15.00

Thanks to these donors.

◆

—Rev. W. H. Neese, of Spring Church Circuit, is assisting Rev. H. L. Isley in a revival meeting at Hope church this week. Mr. Isley was with Mr. Neese last week in a revival. They report a good meetiug.

◆

Boy, applying for position—Are you a football fau?

Employer—Why do you ask such an impertineut question?

Boy—I want a boss who can be reasonable when I tell him I have to go to my grandmother's fuueral.—Exchange.

◆

Bingo—How's your new boarding house?

Stingo—The rooms are just tolerable, the table is so-so—but the gossip is simply great. —Exchange.

Methodist Protestant Herald

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND ALL Y

Rev H L Isley 2aug4 R6

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., AUGUST 23, 1934 NUMBER 39

History of Moriah M. P. Church

By Rebecca Sharpe

Moriah was a Methodist Episcopal church up to 1829. The secession came about during the time of the general reform movement within the M. E. Church over questions of church government. Copies of the "Mutual Rights," the paper that advocated reform, were read and circulated in the Moriah community. The pastor, Rev. Merriwether, objected to the circulating and reading of the paper and said to Rev. Gilbreath, a local preacher, that he would give him a month in which to decide whether he would refrain from reading and circulating the paper. Rev. Gilbreath replied that he wanted no time at all, that he had decided to read the paper and induce others to read it if he could. When Rev. Merriwether came back a month later he found the society had seceded from the M. E. Church and allied themselves with associated Methodist churches, which soon combined to form the Methodist Protestant Church.

Rev. John Coe became the first pastor of Moriah church, after its withdrawal from the M. E. Church, with 34 members on its roll.

The following is a list of the pastors serving charges of which Moriah was a part:

1829—John Coe.
1832—Alson Gray.
1833 and 1834—John Speight.
1835—Alson Gray.
1836—Joseph Thomas.
1837—John Speight.
1838-1840—William Lineberry.
1841—John Cristie.
1842—Alson Gray.

In December, 1842, Moriah was taken off the Guilford circuit and placed on Randolph.

The Randolph pastors were:

1843, 1844—Joseph Causey.
1845, 1846—Arrington Gray.
1847—Joseph Hinshaw.
1848—Joseph Causey.
1849—John Hinshaw.
1850—A. W. Lineberry.
1851—John Paris.
1852—J. Gilbreath.
1853, 1854—A. W. Lineberry.
1855—J. A. Neese.
1856—J. S. Michaux.

The Annual Conference met for the first time at Moriah church in November, 1856.

1857—A. W. Lineberry.
1858—T. H. Pegram.
1859—R. R. Prather.
1861, 1862—Joseph Causey.
1862—Alson Gray.
1863—A. W. Lineberry.

Randolph circuit was then divided and Moriah, Zion Hill, Tabernacle, Bethel, Shiloh, Liberty Grove, Pleasant Union and Mt. Pleasant constituted Greensboro circuit which had the following pastors:

1864, 1865—C. F. Harris.
1866—R. R. Michaux.
1867—W. C. Kennett.
1868-1870—C. F. Harris.
1871—J. S. Dunn.
1872, 1873—J. H. Page.
1874—J. W. Heath.
1875, 1876—A. W. Lineberry.

In the fall of 1876, Moriah again entertained the Annual Conference. At its close, Rev. J. R. Ball was appointed pastor and served during 1877, 1878, 1879 and 1880.

1881, 1882—R. H. Wills.
1883—J. R. Ball.
1884—W. W. Amick.
1885, 1886—T. F. McCulloch.
1887, 1888—R. S. Wills.
1889, 1890—E. W. Coe.
1891, 1892—J. R. Ball.

In November, 1892, the charge was divided, and Moriah, Tabernacle, and Shady Grove constituted Tabernacle circuit. Rev. J. E. Hartsell was appointed pastor and he served from 1893 through 1898.

1899, 1900—W. A. Bunch.
1901—J. R. Hutton.
1902-1906—W. M. Pike.
1907-1909—H. L. Powell.
1910-1912—C. A. Cecil.
1913-1917—T. M. Johnson.

On Thursday, February 12, 1914, the cornerstone was laid in the brick foundation of the new church.

The pastor, Rev. T. M. Johnson, honored the visiting brethren to place documents in the receptacle within the cornerstone. The editor of the Herald, J. F. McCulloch, placed a copy of the first historical numbers of Our Church Record and a copy of the Herald of the week before; Rev. R. M. Andrews, the roll of the members of the church, the members in 1829 and the present members; Rev. J. R. Hutton, a copy of the Journal of the last Annual Conference; Bro. J. Norman Wills, a copy of the Greensboro Patriot and a copy of the Greensboro Daily News of Greensboro; Bro. J. H. Sharpe, chairman of the building committee, deposited a list of the members of that committee. The stone was then put in position by W. S. Jobe, Albert Sharpe, and Mark Witty, members of the building committee.

Later pastors were:

1918-1922—G. F. Millaway.

1923-1925—J. A. Burgess.

1926—Edward Suits.

In November, 1926, Moriah and Shady Grove became a charge under the name Moriah. Rev. H. C. Carmichael was pastor during 1927, 1928 and 1929.

In August, 1929, the hundredth anniversary of the church was celebrated.

Rev. M. P. Chambliss was pastor from November, 1929, until his death in June, 1934. Rev. W. M. Howard is now serving until his school starts in September.

On Sunday, August 26, 1934, the revival starts with the morning worship. Picnic dinner and home-coming in the afternoon. C. E. Society at 7, and evening worship at 7:45.

Mr. J. Norman Wills is to speak at the home-coming. Rev. J. L. Trollinger, pastor of Haw River charge, will preach during the week, with services each morning at 10 and evening at 7:45.

◆

HISTORIC BRINKLEYVILLE

By J. E. Pritchard

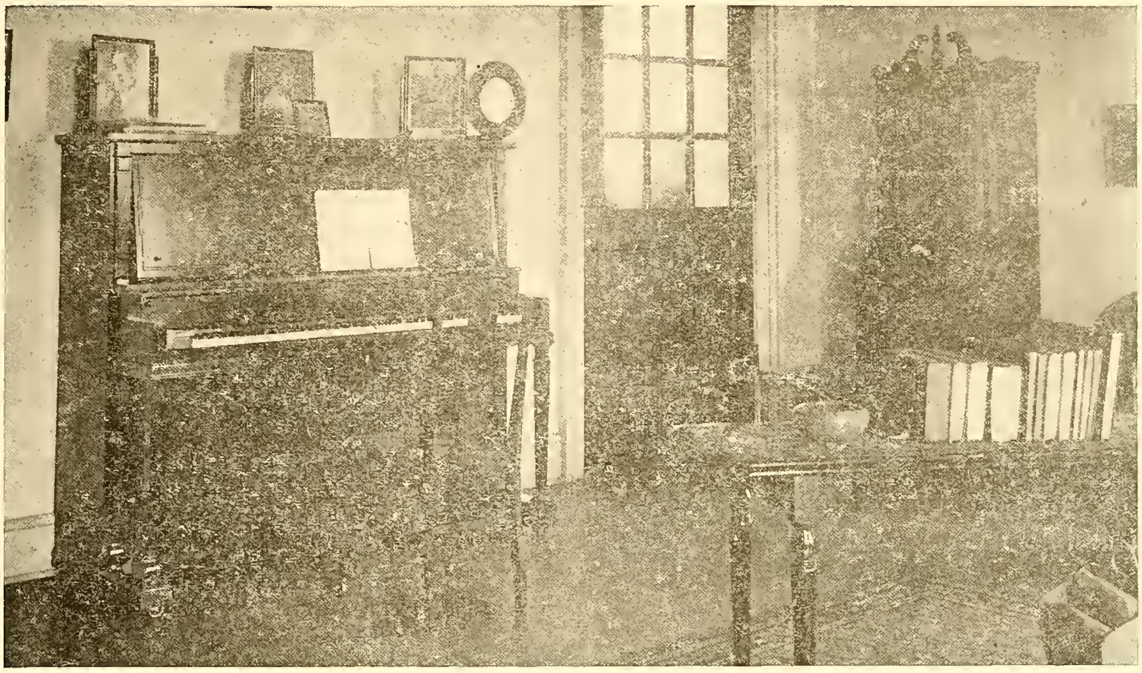
While vacationing in Halifax it was this writer's privilege to spend the second Sunday in August in Brinkleyville and to preach at the evening hour to the friends that were made in other days.

While there I could not get away from the thought of how much Brinkleyville and Bethesda church have contributed to the success of our church in this state. While walking in the cemetery there somehow I could not make my hat stay on my head even though it was a hot, sultry day. For the benefit of those who may not be familiar with this grand old church and this historic place, let me say that Bethesda church was the home church of the Rev. W. H. Wills, D.D., who was born in 1809 and died in 1889. For fifty years he was one of the foremost preachers in our church in its early days. While Dr. Wills did a great work preaching, his work did not stop there. He brought up a family that has continued to carry on all these years. One son became the Rev. R. H. Wills, who was president of our conference for a number of years and one of our most successful pastors. Rev. R. H. Wills had four sons who have contributed their part to the development of our church, in the person of Prof. George Wills of Western Maryland College, and E. S., Richard and J. Norman Wills, all of Greensboro, the latter being one of the best known laymen in the Methodist Protestant Church. Dr. W. H. Wills had another son named Edward who, with his wife, Agnes Whitaker Wills, gave to the world three fine daughters and one splendid son, Lila, Annie Louise, Agnes, and Glenn, all of whom were among the most valuable young people in Bethesda church during my first pastorate. Dr. Wills had a daughter who married "Ed" Hunter, who died some thirty years ago and whose reputation for righteousness still lives, many people saying he was the best man they ever knew. From this union there came two fine sons, Richard and Joseph, who have not lost their love for their church even though they live ten miles away. Both of them came to hear their former pastor preach on my recent visit to Bethesda. There were also two daughters of Dr. Wills, Miss Mary and Miss Harriet, who are now living in Greensboro, who, because of their fine Christian character coupled with their knowledge of the Bible and their love of music made them two of the standbys of the church when I served it. There was still another daughter of Dr. Wills who married the Rev. Jesse H. Page, who was both a teacher and a preacher, he having preached in our church for a number of years, later going to the M. E. Church, South. From this union came two daughters, Mrs. Fletcher Harris and Mrs. L. R. Gooch, who for a long period of years were valuable members of our church in Henderson, the former having passed to her heavenly home only a few months ago.

Not only is Brinkleyville famous because of the Wills but it was also the home of that princely man, Nathanael Macon Harrison, father of Rev. N. M. Harrison, of our conference. Brother Harrison was known to his friends as "Brother Nat" and to the colored people as "Mr. Nat." So great was the respect for this Christian merchant and farmer on the part of a large number of colored people whom he had befriended that the most of them removed their hats when they approached him. Since Brother Harrison's death a few years ago, Mrs. Harrison and daughters, Panthea—now Mrs. Horace Mitchell—and Ethel are the only ones of the family in the community, but they are doing their best to help carry on.

But this is not all to be said for this grand old church and community. There was that fine Christian gentleman and merchant, John H. Vinson, who also passed to his reward in 1929. My nearest neighbor of my first pastorate, my competitor in gardening, my friend, I hail him and say, A Noble Man. His two daughters, Nina and Emma Lewis, and son Randolph were all my noble supporters during my stay in their city. The former of these daughters married Hubert Whitaker, nephew of Rev. C. H. Whitaker, and she is now the organist and director of music in our church at Enfield. There was also in this church Captain Samuel Hunter and his family. Their daughter, Mrs. Street, and family are members there yet. And there was also Mrs. Thomas Taylor, who for a long period of years was a great stay to this church, and it might be added with truthfulness that her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Neville, is still one of the strongest supporters of this church.

This is also the home church of Frank M. Taylor, who, with his wife, have brought up a large family of children who have dsitinguished themselves in college and university all over this country; the best known of these to Methodist Protestants is Miss Maxine Taylor, a teacher during the school year and who gives her time to the work of the Daily Vacation Bible School during the summer months under the direction of our Conference Council of Religious Education. Brother Taylor and Brother R. M. Cox of Forsyth are the two Methdist Protestants who have been in the lower house of the



One of the music studios at High Point College is pictured here. The head of the music department of the College, Miss Margaret Sloan, teaches her classes from this studio. Only a section of the studio is shown here.

Music is one of the most popular departments of the work of the institution, and has established quite an enviable reputation with music lovers.

N. C. Legislature so long that perhaps each would have some difficulty in remembering when he first began to go.

And this is not all that could be said for this historic church, but perhaps this is enough. The membership has never been large and it may not be as large now as it once was. But it has done its work well.

When I went there in 1912 there were names of former pastors that were household words, as C. H. Whitaker, W. M. Pike, W. Lat Harris. The late Rev. L. W. Gerringer, D.D., was my immediate predecessor and he had a great hold on the people, even though he was there for only a few months during vacation. Since then Rev. R. A. Swaringen, who later went to the M. E. Church, South, Dr. N. G. Bethea, Rev. C. L. Spencer, Rev. H. F. Fogleman and the present pastor, Rev. O. C. Loy have all ministered unto this people.

While Brinkleyville has played a large part in many ways, yet the last days have not dealt very kindly with her. Several years ago her school was taken away and consolidated with another a few miles away. Then the post office was discontinued, part of the people getting their mail on a rural route from Littleton, thirteen miles to the northwest, and the remainder getting their mail by rural route from Enfield, fifteen miles to the southeast. Two dozen dwelling houses, three stores, one cotton gin, one church and a couple of garages is all that this place can count, but in the matter of the people it has produced and the quality of its citizenship it should rank alongside with many places a hundred times larger. So here's to Brinkleyville,—long may she live and prosper.

◆

—And so He still comes to us through His Word. If we knew it better and studied it more, we should find the blessed Christ ever ready to meet us through its glowing pages, and to speak to us through its exceeding great and precious promises.—A. B. Simpson.

THE MINISTER SHOULD BE AN INTERPRETER

By Luther K. Long

The minister is supposed to be a careful student and a reliable interpreter of the sacred Scriptures.

That should be taken for granted; but it is not enough. At first hand, dealing directly with facts and incidents, he should be able to speak intelligently, sympathetically, and effectively to the sorrowing, to the confused, and to the immature in mind and experience.

Many years ago a boy was drowned in Lake Superior, having been washed from a break-water on which he and other boys were playing. Because he was in the same high school class with one of my boys, and because several of his relatives were members of my church, I went with my son to the funeral in the Episcopal church. This death seemed especialy sad and untimely because of the condition of the family and the hopes that were being centered in this only son. The officiating minister was entirely familiar with all this and he was, in reality, deeply in sympathy with the family and friends. But the service was coldly formal and impersonal. The ritual was closely followed, and not a word was said to interpret this sad providence. No effort was made to help the family and friends to feel that God was with them, that he understood their need, and was helping them.

Across the street from the parsonage, a man sickened and died, leaving a widow and three daughters. He was large and strong, a good man and a good worker. Ouf of sympathy for these sorrowing neighbors I went to the funeral in a large Roman Catholic church. I expected there would be the usual ceremonies, but I hoped that, in addition, there would be a few understanding and comforting words spoken by the priest to these sorrowing Christians, loyal members of his church. But there was not a word, and I went away grieved for the mourners.

A little boy, three years old, was taken violently ill in the middle of the night. A doctor was called. The child was rushed to the hospital for an appendicitis operation, and died on the operating table. In the family was a fourteen-year-old daughter. She may never have attended a funeral before. There had been no death, so far as I knew, in a large circle of relatives in a good many years. At the funeral, as I read the Scriptures and spoke, Nina watched me closely, intent on every word that was said. A few days after, her grandmother said to me: "Nina liked what you said at the funeral. She said she felt much better now." I was glad to have succeeded in so interpreting to her this sad experience as to relieve her mind and adjust her thinking and feeling to the situation.

I have used illustration drawn from cases of bereavement. But the minister should go much further. He should be able to interpret, for the benefit of his people, the significance of prosperity and adversity, of success and failure. His words and bearing when he is in the presence of young people who are thinking of school, or planning to go into business, or considering marriage and a home—should be sympathetic, understanding, and helpful. A merely formal interest will not avail. An attitude that puts young people at their ease, and makes it possible for them to ask questions, is desirable.

I have just finished reading an article on "Reading." The author says: "I do not read fiction. . . . Why waste time reading fantastic and inconsequential matter when our public libraries are replete with worth-while publications dealing with almost every branch of human knowledge, and affording real food for the mind?"

The fact is that the most revealing forms of literature are poetry and fiction. The people who have seen farthest into reality, and have best interpreted God and men and life, are the great poets and novelists. The minister does well to study living people and to observe the working out of problems of life in his own limited sphere; but he will be greatly aided in seeing and interpreting these people by becoming familiar with the poets and novelists, and the characters they so ably depict.

The poems and stories of the Bible are its most revealing parts. The prophets were notable for their insight, their human understanding, and their powers of interpretation. They are great teachers and examples, as was Jesus, in this matter.

Henry Ward Beecher had the power to encourage and lift up the hearts of the downcast. He ministered hope and inspiration to the discouraged, making life seem good. Lyman Abbott spoke to the moral and intellectual questionings of people. His gifts as an interpreter of the movements of modern thought and the apparently conflicting theories and claims of science and religion, and the newer views of life, enabled him to hold many a doubter to faith in God and a good life. Harry E. Fosdick, Charles E. Jefferson, and S. Parkes Cadman by their sermons, their published books, and the administration of their great churches, impress multitudes with the sweet reasonableness of Jesus' way of life, and hold them loyally to His service.

◆

MORNING CONSECRATION

Consecrate yourself to God in the morning; make this your very first work. Let your prayer be, "Take me, O Lord, as wholly Thine. I lay all my plans at Thy feet. Use me today in Thy service. Abide with me, and let all my work be wrought in Thee." This is a daily matter. Each morning consecrate yourself to God for that day. Surrender all your plans to Him, to be carried out or given up as His providence shall indicate. Thus day by day you may be giving your life into the hands of God, and thus your life will be molded more and more after the life of Christ.—Ellen G. White.

No education is complete without skill and ease in the social graces. For this purpose the sororities and fraternities of High Point College were organized. On the campus there are three each.

All of the social life, however, is not left to these organizations. The various religious and departmental clubs likewise provide for the social recreation of the students of the College. Their programs, together with those planned by faculty committees, include functions for the entire student body.

Here is shown a picture of one of the sororities. Students are received into these social organizations upon invitation, and acceptance is optional with each student.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Treasurer Allen Reports Up-to-date

A. C. Expenses	Assessment $3575,	pd. $1421,	40% for year
A. C. Debt	Assessment $2000,	pd. $ 156,	7½% for year
Ch. Extension	Assessment $2000,	pd. $ 681,	34% for year
Superannuates	Assessment $2500,	pd. $ 510,	20% for year
College	Assessment $5000,	pd. $ 353,	7% for year
W. S.		pd. $1472

This exhibit reveals several things. First, much remains to be done if many of our churches shall be honor roll churches this year. With only three months remaining till Conference it is not a good showing. It was the hope of the committee which separated the items in the Annual Conference budget that it might stimulate interest in the payment of this budget and thus avoid he mad rush in the last few weeks before Conference to pay something on the claims, and do the best they can for the preachers. But it is evident that it will require more than one year to break the habits of so many of our churches in waiting until Conference approaches before becoming greatly concerned about these claims.

Some pastors appear to think that the President of the Conference is the one to raise these claims. He may have to do it, but it will be mighty hard for him or any other visitor to do it, if the people have been permitted to neglect these claims up until such a visitor shall come. The Discipline makes it the duty of the pastor to present these claims, Section, 4, paragraph 12; and the time to begin on the task is at the first quarterly conference. When the total amounts are accepted, or any part of them is accepted, some plans should be made to raise them, and it becomes the duty of the pastor to urge the full performance of the duty of such officials. No one knows better than your president that this is a hard thing to do on many charges, impossible on others; but there are several which can do it with ease. Nevertheless, let the task be hard, our people should know that so long as they are a part of the denomination they should take part in the denominational program.

Possibly there are some church treasurers who have failed to send in the money collected on these claims; we hope the pators will urge the church treasurers to send this in at once. I found a bad practice in some churches to use the money in hand, although raised for another purpose, to pay off some urgent claim then before them. It is not right and the practice should be discontinued at once.

In the Hands of the Lilliputians

In the account of his travels, Gulliver tells about falling into the hands of a very small people—only a few inches high. But they found him asleep and secured his hands and feet with very mall threads before he awoke. He was then their prisoner.

There are churches "hamstrung" by such folk today,—churches without a real leader in them, swung from extreme to extreme by some inexperienced, ignorant, and prejudiced member, who knows no constructive plan or policy, but who glories in the freedom to thtrow monkey-wrenches into the church machinery until the whole thing is clogged and standing dead still.

Recently I heard of a man who got himself elected superintendent of the Sunday school, trustee of the church, and steward. And when he was elected to them all what did he do? Got into the way of every person, even the pastor, who wanted to do things; absented himself from the meetings of his boards and from the Sunday school, and thus had the wicked satisfaction of seeing how he could hold up the projects of the church of which he did not approve. It is a tragic hour when a Christian church falls under the influence of such a godless person. It is hard enough to rally the folks to fight the devil in the open, when everyone admits that it is the devil; but when some pious-talking church official gets in the way of a good project, it is not always easy to make the people understand that this one may be doing the bidding of the devil even though he speaks the language of the saints. Our prayer ought to be made daily, "God, give us men with sense, who love Thy cause enough to follow Thee even when it is hard to go, and to work for Thee when all others neglect Thy cause. Amen."

Fourth Quarterly Conferences

I shall be glad to plan a long series of fourth quarterly conferences for October, beginning as early in that month as pastors desire and running right up to the last possible date. I might hold three a day, when charges are close, and shall be glad to devote the days of the week to this task for all who desire it. I should know, however, some time in advance about when you would like to have this quarterly conference.

Remember September the 13th

This is Children's Home Day. It is the day the women of our conference have set aside to raise the indebtedness on the Home. See articles which have appeared in the HERALD concerning it and begin at once to save your pennies, that you may give one for each year of your age on that day. A book (loose leaf ledger) will contain the names of those who thus contribute, giving the name, the charge, the church, of the contributor, but not the amount. This book will be kept on display at the Main Building during the day for inspection. We hope all of our people will participate in this means of clearing the Home of debt, and that there will be thousands who will attend this Home-Coming Day. Remember to make your church an honor roll church, that is, bring a list with every member of the church upon it having contributed one

(Continued on Page Ten)

DAILY PRAYER IN A BUSY AGE

Crowded out—daily prayer! Is this the story of your life? If it is, you have lost the main source of power with which to bear the burdens of life, to meet its exacting struggles, and to render effective service to your fellowmen. But how can time be found for prayer in this busy machine age when every minute seems to be taken and we wonder how we are ever going to get our work done as it is?

Turn to the fathers. What was the secret of their achievement? Taking the very opposite of our view that we have no time for prayer, the great saints, the valiant reformers, the flaming evangelists of other days followed the fixed principle, "The busier I am the more time I must spend in prayer." And they found, moreover, that this principle when put into active practice did seem to smooth out the difficulties. It also helped them to discharge their duties quickly and effectively, and in the long run to accomplish larger results than they were able to achieve when they sought to get along without God or made only a hasty bow to Him at the beginning of the day.

We are beset with the goal of quantity when we should be seeking the ideal of quality. A robot can turn out a vast number of products—all alike—but it takes a personality to create a work of art, to produce something unique and beautiful. Since we are not machines but men of godlike natures, to whom shall we go for the enrichment of soul that will guarantee quality in the things that we create and the work that we do? To God alone. One hour a day of earnest conversation with Him will transform the whole twenty-four hours; a half-hour with Him will give the worshiper a strange sense of new power; even fifteen intense minutes in the morning before the throne of grace will reveal the Great Companion.

Objection is sometimes raised against the plan of setting aside a definite period each day for devotional exercise, on the ground that "to work is to pray" and that the best and possibly the only true form of prayer is the conscientious discharge of our daily tasks. Certainly there is high value in this prayer of action, but it should not be used as an excuse for not meeting God face to face in quiet communion and thoughtful meditation.

How many readers of the Herald keep the morning watch? How many read with attention a daily passage from the Word of God? How many come face to face in a very definite way each twenty-four hours with the Heavenly Father? How many have learned the secret of constant prayer both by frequent meditation and by the discharge of their routine tasks as under the very eye of the Eternal? We need to bring system, regularity, and technique into our devotional life if God is to have His chance to speak to our souls. Why should we use haphazard methods of worship, why should we conduct our praying in hit-or-miss fashion? Our God is a God of order. We shall "get nowhere" in coming to realize His surpassing love unless we take His friendship seriously. Prevailing prayer must be rooted in Scripture. It must have content. The great passages of the Bible, the arresting texts of both Old and New Testaments, the incidents in the lives of kings and prophets, of disciples and apostles, furnish the best foundations for communion. Therefore, immerse yourself in the Bible. Meditate. Search out the mind, under the guidance of the Spirit, the great truths of God. Be thankful. Count your many blessings. Take everything to God in prayer. Hold nothing back. Learn also to listen. The Heavenly Father speaks to His child in a thousand ways, but He is never nearer to him than in the hour of prayer when prayer is real.

All this must not be defined as a mere stimulus of memory and imagination, a working of ourselves up to our highest ideals. No, it is not "pure subjectivism." It is simply preparation. By awakening the mind and heart, by fixing attention, by giving us ears to hear, this technique of devotion makes it possible for God to speak. Unless the morning watch ends in vital conversation between the worshiper and his God, or at least a sense of God's reality, even though His face seems to be hid, the exercise is a failure.

Try prayer. You have tried everything else in the effort to live richly, joyfully, successfully. Give God a chance at your life. Engage in an experiment for the next six weeks. Make room for regular devotions. Set aside the time. Do not hurry the exercise, and above all things make it real—honest, earnest, expectant. Try it and see. This is the message of Methodism from the beginning. It is also the message of the gospel itself. Why not begin today?—Zion's Herald.

NOT A BOY'S LOGIC

The following is put into the mouth of a boy, but it is not the language of a boy. The writer, however, got his idea across. This grown-up, whose name is unknown to us, says:

A boy astonished his Christian mother by asking her for a dollar to buy a share in a raffle for a silver watch that was to be raffled off in a beer saloon. His mother was horrified, and rebuked him.

"But," said he, "mother, did you not bake a cake with a ring in it to be raffled off in a Sunday school fair?"

"Oh, my son, that was for the church."

"But if it was wrong," said the boy, "would doing it for the church make it right? Would it be right for me to steal money to put into the collection? And if it is right for this, is it not right for me to get this watch if I can?"—North Carolina Christian Advocate.

AND YET PROSPERITY IS WITHIN OUR GRASP

There are three main factors in the present difficulties of civilized mankind. . . . The first and most urgent is the financial breakdown. The second and most fundamental is the revolution in economic method. The third and most perplexing is the political fragmentation of the world.

Unexampled prosperity and happiness is within the reach of our race and it staggers on the edge of what may be irrevocable disaster. Every year, every month of indecision increases the inevitability of that disaster. . . .

The conversion of the common man to a sane economic faith and his helpful acquiescence in the broad measure foreshadowed is the necessary initiatory condition of world recovery.—H. G. Wells.

THE WINSOME WAY

By James L. Elderdice

The winsome way belongs to the character that attracts by the exhibition of those agreeable moral and social qualities that please and cheer. It is the kindly disposition that wins and retains friends, all the more pleasing if associated with the "merry heart that maketh a cheerful countenance."

One may be agreeable, charming, even kind and good natured, and yet not be winsome. A thoroughly cynical, selfish man of the world may make himself agreeable. Those who are by no means amiable, because handsome, brilliant and witty, may be charming, while people naturally kind and good-natured may still repel, because they are rude and coarse, whereas sinsomeness pleases by the avoidance of such faults.

True winsomeness; then, is something finer than formal politeness, flattery, or a weak and easy compliance that forgets principles in its willingness to yield to foolish wishes, or to be infleuneed by persuasions to turn aside from the path of right. While it is ready to go more than half way to meet others, or all the way, if necessary, it never compromises with wrong.

A mother said of her daughter, "She makes a beautiful climate for me." That is what the winsome spirit does, creates an atmosphere of friendliness and cheer that is to the heart what the warmth of the genial sunshine is to the chilled flower. A servant was trying to describe a lady, but was unable to recall her name, or to tell how she was dressed, but when all other attempts failed she said, "She is one who always smiles when she speaks."

A bed-ridden woman who had been in pain for many years said of Dr. Chalmers, "Yes, I am better this afternoon. You know I have had Mr. Chalmers, and he never comes but when he is gone, I think, That is just how Jesus would have come to see me. That is just how Jesus would have spoken. That is just how Jesus would have looked."

Because winsomeness is the character that attracts, its cultivation, especially for the Christian, becomes a duty, since his life should be such as to attract the unbeliever. Men have to be won, and this requires a winning way in those who seek to do good to others, the faculty of seeking the best and nbolest in them, and then striving to bring it out.

Many good people have not learned to make their religion winsome. They mean well, and are active enough, but because they do not recognize the fact that we influence, not so much by what we do as by what we are, they are inconsiderate of other people's feelings, do not look at everything through kindly eyes, and are unable to make another's situation their own.

When Phillips Brooks was a college preacher, a group of his young friends, after a night of folly and debauchery, were found huddling together over the remains of an expiring fire, unfit for duty, filled with shame for themselves and one another, and the great and good doctor came to make them a call. Not one word of rebuke, not one word of censure, but a kindly morning greeting, a few minutes of pleasant chat, and then, as he rose to go, he laid a hand upon the head of the leader, and said as he left them, "Well, boys, it doesn't make you feel any better, does it?" That gentle treatment reached them, and they arose and followed him.

Winsomeness to win is only another form of the expression, "Saved to serve." That he might win as well as serve, Paul tells us, "Unto the Jew I became a Jew that I might win the Jews: to them that are under the law, that I might gain them that are under the law. . . . All things to all men that I might by all means save some." The politician or the business man studies the tastes and wishes of others, and skilfully adapts himself to them for selfish ends. Others study to please for the sake of popularity, or to gain money or influential friends. It is the duty and aim of the Christian to be winsome in order to win men to Christ, and he seeks to win men to himself that he may lead them to the Savior.

If we study the persons around us who have the gift of making friends, it will be found that the chief elements of the winsome spirit are modesty, love, unselfishness, and good cheer. J. G. Holland says that no man or woman in tolerable health has a moral right to indulge in an unpleasant mood. If we would live the life that attracts, then "Be cheerful. Give the lonesome world a smile.

We stay, at longest, but a little while:
Hasten we must, or we shall lose the chance
To give the gentle word, the kindly glance."

GETTING RESULTS

By Grenville Kleiser

Men work in different ways. One man is always busy, always pressing for time, always complaining that the days are too short, and yet he accomplishes little of value. Another man is deliberate, quiet, and reposeful, but by the close of the day or the week he achieves much.

Men who are intent upon accomplishing the best results are wholly unlike those who are occupied with thoughts of how hard they are working, or how fast they are turning out work, or how unappreciated they are or what difficulties beset them. They have neither time nor inclination to think whether their work is strenuous or difficult, since they are looking for results rather than for recognition.

Some men are plodders, others work by impulse. Because of differences of temperament no two persons go about the same thing in the same way. The man and the method, however, must be largely judged by the actual results achieved.

If you are by nature a plodder, endeavor to cultivate alertness and enthusiasm in your daily work. The word "plodder," unfortunately, is associated in the minds of most men with lethargy. The plodder is usually "slow but sure." In so far as plodding indicates steadiness and perseverance of effort, it is a desirable quality, but if you belong to this class of men it will greatly augment your productiveness if you cultivate mental and physical alertness.

If you are an impulsive worker, endeavor to cultivate poise and deliberateness in your daily work. Develop the habit of doing things slowly and quietly. Take time to think before you speak or act. Endeavor to bring your mental powers under proper control.

Many business men think out their best thoughts and plans during leisure hours. Their leisure, therefore, is not waste of time. Their mental eyes are open to discern new ideas which may be applied in practical ways. Their habit of meditation and reflection enables them to turn their so-called leisure time to good account.

It is not here suggested that you should always be thinking of your business. That would be as imprudent as it would be undesirable. But you can advantageously use your spare time for meditation, reflection, and self-culture.

Carefully discriminate between true and false economy. True economy means intelligent thrift, particularly in matters of time, money and energy. It means intelligent self-denial now, for the prospect of future independence.

Spend less than you earn, but be consistent in your economy. Do not save here and be extravagant there. In order to be honest and critical with yourself in money matters keep a record of your income and expenditure, and for this purpose carry a small notebook in your pocket.

Do not run into debt. This refers more particularly to your personal affairs and should be the first principle in your business when practicable. Many men are tempted into opening accounts with local tradespeople, where it would be cash. Debt easily leads to extravagance and carelessness.

Economy means being temperate, provident, and far-seeing, and if you practice these habits there will be little danger of your running into debt. The effort of trying to save money for a worthy purpose will give you a mental stimulus. It will also develop in you self-restraint and other valuable qualities which make for exceptional success.

The independence which a bank account confers upon a man is far-reaching in its results. It gives him a feeling of confidence and security to know that he has money in readiness for possible emergencies. It gives him, too, the choice of independent action in money matters. A good plan for the beginner is to deposit a regular amount of money, however small, once a week or once a month, as may be convenient. A small amount of money, deposited regularly, will mount up rapidly in the course of a few months, and the regularity of the habit engendered in this way will manifest itself in other respects.

HEMOPHILIA

The sudden death of Prince Gonzalo, youngest son of former King Alfonso of Spain, following a minor automobile accident, is occasion for serious thught, as well as sadness. This fine-looking twenty-year-old young man was the victim of an inherited disease, or weakness, that was bound sooner or later to end his life.

The disease consists of an unusual tendency to bleed, a weakness of the walls of the blood-vessels, and the abence of qualities in the blood that would cause it to coagulate—all of which, the bleeding being largely internal, makes an operation impossible. Dr. Keyser, the physician in charge, examined the body of Prince Gonzalo and reported: "He showed no outward signs of an accident, but died of internal bleeding which no operation could have halted."

This disease, called hemophilia, is inherited only by males and transmitted only by women. Once it gets into the bloodstream of a family it is likely to remain, causing much anxiety and mental suffering on the part of its victims and their friends, and usually resulting in early death.

The Prince's sister, Princess Beatrice, was driving the car when the accident occurred. "I am broken-hearted," she is reported to have said following her brother's death. "Don Gonzalo's injuries were not severe, but because of his weak constiution the doctors were unable to operate. He did not have the strength to resist the loss of blood. He died in my arms. I cannot forget I was driving the car, although the accident was not my fault."

There are a number of heritable diseases—epilepsy, to mention only one. The only sure way to eliminate these heritable diseases—and this is the thought that should abide with us—is to stop the bearing of children by those so afflicted. This requires courage and self-denial. The desire for children, children of one's own, is very strong and persistent. But it is nothing short of inexcusable selfishness knowingly to condemn one's own children to lives of weakness and suffering, and posible dependence for care on the good will of the charitably disposed.

Such people may well be allowed to marry. They may enjoy a home life that is largely normal and useful without becoming parents of children. Their parental instincts may be largely gratified, and useful service be rendered, by adopting orphan children whose heritage is without the taint of such diseases.

Luther K. Long.

ALL HONOR TO TEACHERS

On the wall at the entrance to the School Service Building of the American Museum of Natural History, New York City, is this conspicuous tablet:

GREAT TEACHERS
Socrates
The Master of Plato.
Plato
Teacher of Teachers.
Aristotle
Tutor of Alexander the Great.
Bacon
Instituted the Direct Study of Nature.
Rousseau
Inspired the Development of the Individual.
Pestalozzi
Introduced Object Study in Schools.
Froebel
Founder of the Kindergarten.
Agassiz
Naturalist and Science Teacher.

The schools and universities of New York, together with visiting students and teachers from many places, make large use of this great museum. There are many other great teachers not named on this tablet. How fine it is for a man to make a substantial contribution to the facts and methods for acquiring knowledge! Do you recall your former teachers, giving thanks for those especially helpful?

Luther K. Long.

OUR STORY PAGE

STRAWBERRIES, SANTORELLIS, AND A SCARE

"You girls want to go and gather wild strawberries in the west field, where we've been mowing?" asked Big Brother Ben Merriweather, as he stood smiling in the kitchen doorway one bright June afternoon.

Susie and Mittie answered in unison:

"Course we do!"

"We've just finished shelling the peas for supper—the first green peas," said Mittie.

"And mother'll be so pleased to have wild strawberries!" gurgled Susie. "Mmmmm!"

"Indeed I shall!" laughed Mrs. Merriweather. "But be sure to come home in time for supper. It's after four now. You can hear the factory whistle at half-past five."

"Yes—and oh, goody!" answered Mittie.

"Two goodies!" chuckled Susie.

They ran for their shade hats and largest berry baskets, and skipped off, across the garden, and down the hill to the west field.

The berries had grown on very tall stems among the June grass, and now they lay among the mowing like clusters of rubies. The girls ran here and there to get the biggest ones. They were glad they had brought their largest baskets, for the long stems needed lots of room. They pressed them down gently so as to get in all they could.

The whistles blew, but they couldn't bear to stop. Big Brother Ben "oooh-hooed" to them from the top of the hill, and they "oooh-hooed" back and waved to him; but they continued picking. Such nice berries kept coming in sight!

"Just a few more," said Mittie. "Mother won't mind, when she sees how nice they are."

"Course not!" agreed Susie, running for the nicest bunch of all.

They had kept working along until they were close to the fence between the west field and Mr. Santorelli's pasture. Mr. Santorelli and Mrs. Santorelli and seven little Santorellis had come that summer to live in the old Jenkins house and raise berries on the old Jenkins berry farm. They raised vegetables, too—and chickens, and ducks. They sold the berries in the big factory village a few miles away. How they worked! Even the littlest Santorelli had been seen wabbling along the rows of berries, and gathering them swiftly into a basket hung around his plump neck!

But somehow the neighbor children kept away from them.

"They're dagoes," said Johnny Brown, "just dagoes!"

"No, mother says they are Italian people," corrected Susie and Mittie. "From Italy," they added. "Italians!"

"Same thing!" snorted Johnny. "Huh!" And away he stalked.

Now, close to the fence of the Santorelli pasture the girls were gathering the best berries of all, when suddenly a dreadful noise made them spring to their feet. Through the bushes they could dimly see a brown head and two bright eyes. Again that dreadful noise! And a lot of gleaming white teeth showed.

"A wildcat!' gasped Susie.

"Let's run," quavered Mittie.

How they ran! Their baskets still sat by the fence, forgotten! Once they slowed down a bit, bu tthe awful sound, repeated, made them run faster than ever. They heard children's voices, high and shrill, behind them.

"He's caught one!" cried Mittie.

"Run!" urged Susie.

It seemed to them a very long time before they reached home. They rushed in, and sank on the kitchen settee, breathless.

"What ever!" cried Mrs. Merriweather. "Where are the berries?"

"A wi-wildcat!" stuttered Mittie.

"In Mr. Santorelli's pasture—the wildcat. The berries are down by the fence," explained Susie, wiping her hot face.

"But there aren't any wild——" began Mrs. Merriweather, when a boy's voice sang out:

"It was our donkee, that we got yester-r-day!"

There on the doorstep stood a little dark boy and a little dark girl. The girl spoke next, and they came forward with the baskets.

"We brought your berrees. We tried to make you hear," said the girl. "I am Catarina Santor-r-elli, and this is my br-r-other Car-r-melo. We are verree sorree."

"I'm Susie Merriweather, and this is my sister Mittie; and it wasn't your fault, anyway," said Susie.

"And you're so good to bring our berries!" added Mittie earnestly.

"Indeed you are,' said Mrs. Merriweather, "and you must rest awhile before you go back."

"We cannot rest. There are manee berrees to pick. To sell in the village in the mor-r-ning," explained Catarina.

"Well, please take these cookies, then!"

"Grazia!" said Catarina and Carmelo, as with one voice. "Good evening!" And away they ran.

"Why, how nice they are!" cried Mittie.

"Yes—and let's tell Johnny Brown, and all the rest!" exclaimed Susie.

"Yes, and when school begins let's help the Santorellis all we can to have a good time."

"Bravo!" exploded Big Brother Ben.—Minnie Leona Upton, in Zion's Herald.

HOW JOHN AND JULIA HELPED

John and Julia were hurrying along under the old umbrella to get to Sunday school, but they were not as happy as usual. They loved the school and dear Miss Eleanor, their nice teacher, but today was to be the gift day for the school, and they had nothing to give. Other children had been talking about money and outgrowing clothes, and toys and books for the poor family that needed help so much since their house had burned down, but at home John and Julia could find nothing to take, because their mother was poor and had to work very hard to take care of her little ones.

"Let's sit back in a corner so nobody will know we didn't have anything to give," said Julia.

"Let's," said John. "Maybe nobody will know we are there."

"Mother cried because she had nothing to give us, but she said maybe we'll help by going," said Julia.

John was having a struggle with the old umbrella, and could not answer until the gust of wind had gone sweeping up the street. "I don't see how it would help by just being there," he panted. "That won't get the poor family anything to eat or to wear."

"I don't either, but mother knows lots of things that we don't. Let's hurry or we will be late."

And what do you think happened? Mr. Brown who seldom came to Sunday school, saw the children going past in the rain, and he said to Mrs. Brown that if two children could go through a windstorm he could go too, so he put on his big rain coat and started out at once. When he got to the Sunday school and heard about the poor family he took a new ten-dollar bill from his pocket book and put it with the other gifts.

"This is really not my gift," he said, as he put it on the plate. "I knew nothing about the poor family and their need, as I have been out of town for several weeks. I had not intended to come to church this morning, but when I saw John and Julia Moore going bravely through the storm I got ready at once. A good example like that counts, and this is really their gift."

Everybody looked at John and Julia, and the little girl whispered to her brother: "Mother did know! It helped to come even if we had nothing to bring."—Sunshine for Little People.

◆

The President's Letter

(Continued from Page Five)

penny for each year they are old and this will make the project one hundred per cent operative.

Appointments Cancelled

Because of circumstances which would have hindered my appointments for last Sunday, the appointments for that day were canceled.

Rev. R. I. Farmer Takes His Transfer

I have just given Brother Farmer his transfer back to the Ohio Conference, where he expects to take a church this month.

Plan of Appointments

August 26—Mocksville charge, Union Chapel at 11 a.m., Union Grove at night.

September 2—Albemarle, 11 a.m.; Belton's Grove, afternoon; Rockingham, night.

September 9—Denton charge.

September 16—Saxapahaw charge; Orange Chapel at 11 a.m., Concord afternoon, Salem at night.

September 23—Cleveland charge; Oak Grove at 11 a.m., Moriah afternoon, Lawndale at night.

September 30—Community church, 11 a.m.; First church, Thomasville, 8 p.m.

R. M. ANDREWS.

THE WORLD RUSHES ON

The world rushes on: it is the day of speed, and men do not seem to be able to lose their souls quickly enough. Did you ever catch a glimpse of a fair or circus in operation? Well, that is only a very minute exhibition of the mad, roaring, speeding drama of sin and worldly things, which compares with a merry-go-round. They are a hilarious, noisome, wild crowd who dance, play cards, and drink; merry-making as aboard a ship, the very ship which they know is set on a course for hidden rocks and destruction—and they have forgotten it and shall be swept into the blackness before they have become aware of their certain peril.

It is like a raging whirlpool of water and blinding spray just above a high fall, woving slowly and surely over that fall. Giddy music plays, and there is a dazzling array of lights; men and women go wild over the pleasures of sin—which pleasures are like bubbles floating into a hurricane. There is no peace for the wicked. There are only those evanescent pleasures of wrong-doing and lust. Is it not like the picture of the two Bible cities which were destroyed? They too shall be destroyed; for to them there is no God except the love of the world.

If one could but stand aside at a distance and view the world, he would see a spectacle which the above paragraphs only inadequately describe. If one could look again, he would behold that the harvest is white indeed, but the laborers are so few. "Ye shall pray the Lord of the harvest that he send forth laborers into his harvest."

The worst thing about this picture, though, is the fact that the magnetism, the lure, or this whirlpool of death draws others into its trap also.

Ah, but does this not paint a dismal picture? Yes, it does. Jesus says that "narrow is the way that leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it." Then you say that one would have plenty of company in hell. There will be several there, but they won't have any desire for companionship; they will want water.

God says, however, that the righteous shall only with their eyes, and at a distance, behold the fate of the evil doers who work iniquity. The righteous shall never taste of that death. But God does not will the destruction of any man; he is bound by a promise to save them—they that come to Him by the way of Jesus. And when does He promise to do this? Now is the accepted time. "God's spirit shall not always strive with man." O sinner, come out of the storm and into the peace of the arms of Jesus.

Siler City, N. C. CHAS. W. STONE.

◆

—The church system which asks a clergyman, each week, to prepare and deliver two Sunday sermons, a mid-week service talk, and a few incidental speeches, in addition to teaching a Sunday school class, is certainly pernicious. No mortal man could avoid boring his audiences upon many of the two hundred or more times that he thus appears annually before them. Even gifted people who work up but one lecture a year, and deliver it all over the country, do not wholly avoid wearying their hearers. I am constantly amazed that clergymen are not more tedious than they are.—Ernest van Keuren.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Giles' Chaapel S. S., Richland	$ 3.00
Liberty S. S., Liberty	2.85
Shady Grove S. S., Connelly Spring	.65
Hickory Ridge S. S., Forsyth	5.52
Fairgrove S. S., Haw River	1.43
Cedar Cliff, Mount Hermon	2.05
Macedonia, Fallston	2.00
Welch Memorial S. S.	6.11
Center S. S., Alamance	8.14
Friendship S. S., Shiloh	2.75
Bethesda S. S., State Street	5.00
Sapling Ridge S. S., Alamance	6.42
Henderson . S.	6.22
Haw River S. S., Glen Raven	3.40
Gillburg, Vance	2.00
Efland S. S., Orange	2.07
Mebane S. S.	6.10
Mitchell's Grove S. S., Guilford	2.00
Mr. John Whitworth, Thornburg, Iowa	40.00
Charlotte S. S., June, July, August	19.75

We are thankful for all these offerings and for the sympathetic interest of our good people throughout the Conference.

Girls' Clothing for Fall and Winter

We greatly appreciate the hearty response on the part of Auxiliaries, Circles, S. S. Classes and C. E. Societies in getting ready fall and winter outfits for our girls. Each girl must have shoes, so if a bit of cash can accompany the bundles sent in for girls we will use it to buy shoes.

An S. O. S. Call

We are in distress and cannot see our way out. We pleaded with our people this year to avoid the summer slump in cash offerings, but the cash offerings for July and August have been lower than for the same two months in 1932 by $471.47, and for the same two months in 1933 by $935.79. We are doing our best, but we cannot go on in the face of heavy reductions in income like that. We have no money, creditors are persistently pressing, and just ahead of us we must lay in our winter coal, start our children to school and buy school supplies for over 100 children, buy shoes for the same number, and buy fall and winter clothing for 52 boys. This must be done besides the regular running expenses of the Home. We would gladly do if we could, but we can't. With the HELP OF ALL METHODIST PROTESTANTS in the N. C. Conference we can. Following closely the suggestions of Mrs. R. M. Andrews for September 13th, our people can relieve the situation here. Will it be done? Three weeks will tell the story.

A Good Letter

While writing the above the following letter came:

"My Dear Dr. Dixon:—I am here attending the Iowa Conference. A dear brother by the name of John Whitworth, who gave his heart to God a year ago and started tithing, had $40.00 in his tithe fund and asked me where he could put that amount where it was most needed. I recommended the Children's Home. He gave me the $40.00 and I am sending you a check for it for the Home. Please send the brother a note acknowledging receipt of the money, and pray God to raise up more of his kind. With best wishes, I remain,

"Fraternally yours,
"J. C. BROOMFIELD."

This is very timely and is greatly appreciated. "Go thou and do likewise."

God bless His faithful ones everywhere.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

WORTHY HONOR ROLL—REPORT THREE

Last week I reported from a distance; when I returned home I found that I could have made a better report if my mail had all reached me.

Dr. Pritchard reports that Calvary has the peceeds of an ice cream supper already on hand, with which to supplement the birthday offerings. Several have expressed themselves as having started work and are thinking the plan a good one.

Those not previously reported are: Bros. Bates, C. G. Isley, Johnson, O. C. Loy, Vickery, and Whitehead. I failed to give the initials of Brother H. L. Isley last week.

This brings the number of co-operaating pastors to 42. Since the pastor of First Church, High Point, has resigned the Woman's Auxiliary voted yesterday to co-operate in the plan.

MRS. R. M. ANDREWS.

August 21.

◆

LIFE

To the preacher life's a sermon,
To the joker life's a jest;
To the miser life is money,
To the loafer life is rest.
To the lawyer life is trial,
To the poet life's a song;
To the doctor life's a patient
Who needs treatment right along.
To the soldier life's a battle,
To the teacher life's a school;
Life's a great thing to the thinker
But a failure to the fool.
Life is just a long vacation
To the man who loves his work,
But it's constant dodging duty
To the fellow who's a shirk.
To the faithful earnest worker
Life's a story, ever new.
Life is what we try to make it,
Brother, what is life to you?

◆

QUALIFICATIONS

A modern clergyman should have the following qualifications:

1. The innocence of a lamb.
2. The courage of a lion.
3. The vision of an eagle.
4. The agility of a panther.
5. The complacence of a camel.
6. The patience of an ox.
7. The adaptability of a chameleon.
8. The cheerfulness of a cricket.
9. The wisdom of an owl.
10. The friendliness of a squirrel.
11. The simplicity of a sheep.
12. The diligence of a beaver.
13. The ferocity of a bulldog.
14. The endurance of an elephant.

Possibly some of your readers can amplify this list. —Grenville Kleiser.

◆

—Mrs. J. W. Boyles and daughters, of Thomasville, were in Greensboro on Tuesday of this week.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

TO SECRETARIES OF TEMPERANCE

Those who attended the last Branch Meeting in Henderson, N. C., remember the splendid playlet, "The New Deal," written by Mrs. R. M. Andrews, Branch Secretary of Temperance, and presented by her and four others. It was ordered that this playlet be printed for the use of all Secretaries of Temperance in the Branch.

I now have copies for distribution and urge the Secretaries to send for a copy to present to their Auxiliaries.

Often it is hard for the Secretary to find material for a Temperance progam, so I am urging you to make use of this playlet which presents in a forcible manner the truths of Temperance and its relation to Missions.

MRS. W. F. REDDING, Jr.,
Branch Sec. of Literature.

◆

TO ALL PASTORS

Are you interested in knowing more about Vacation Church Schools? If so, won't you please write me? I should like to plan for an institute at High Point College some time in the spring at which I can secure a speaker from the International Council of Religious Education. I should have to begin to make plans now if I am to get the people I want. Would you come to an all-day meeting and bring a group of workers from your local churches? If enough of you are interested, please write me a U. S. postal and tell me what you want me to do.

To Those Pastors Who Have Had a Vacation Church School

Will you take the time to give me this information at once on a U. S. postal? I should like to make a composite report of the work for the Board of Religious Education. Give me your enrollment; average daily attendance; number of teachers(indicate whether you had all local teachers or had to go outside your roll); finances; supervisor; and number of certificates awarded. Also any other information you think would be helpful to other people and to me. Was there a piece of work you considered especially good? Be sure to tell me. Won't you send me this information at once? My address after August 20th will be Enfield, N. C., until after my school opens in Henderson.

MAXINE E. TAYLOR.

◆

HE DIDN'T ADVERTISE

There was a man in our town
Who wasn't very wise.
He stocked up with a lot of goods
And didn't advertise.

With no show windows in his store
His stock was fairly hid.
He didn't advertise his stock—
But the county sheriff did.

—James Wells.

◆

—Rev. J. R. Hutton is to assist Rev. R. L. Hethcox in a meeting at Brower's Chapel on Richland charge next week.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Shady Grove, Connelly Springs.—We are very glad to report that we are having a wonderful revival at this place, the best we have had in years. I don't know the exact number of conversions. The number of converts to date exceeds 30. We are praying and looking forward for others tonight.

Our pastor, Rev. J. L. Love, has been doing some real earnest preaching, and the people have begun to realize their condition before God, and they have begun to seek the Lord, as was preached in the beginning of the revival. The Christian people have been drawn closer to the Lord. Each one has a testimony of the blessings they have received this week. I for one feel nearer the Lord than ever before. The meeting has been the means of family prayer being started in our home. We hope it will start in many others.

Sixteen gave their names for membership last night, all for this church except two.

We ask each Christian to pray that this revival will keep going, that the church and community will grow and help build up the kingdom of God.

RUTH AIKEN, Reporter.

Community Church, Thmasville.—Our membership wishes to express its appreciation for the splendid work accomplished during the vacation Bible school, under the supervision of Miss Maxine Taylor and Miss Alma Andrews. We feel that good results were obtained from the standpoint of instruction and from the work done by our local participants. Throughout the school the enrollment was quite commendable. There were over 100 on roll composed of four departments, 62 of which were awarded certificates. To those who contributed toward the financial element of the school we are very grateful.

We are very happy to state that our Sunday school attendance is still very good through the summer months. Several of the classes are participating in picnics and outings, which seem to stimulate a great deal of interest. On last Tuesday evening the Young Ladies' Class and Young Men's Class went to Crystal Lake on a hay-ride and picnic, and as the saying goes, "a big time was had by all." On last Saturday afternoon the Woman's Philathea Class went to Guilford Battleground on a picnic and as was reported at Sunday school Sunday morning by the teacher, Mrs. J. W. Boyles, the class enjoyed the outing very much. On next Thursday evening the Men's Baraca and Women's Philathea classes are planning a watermelon feast at the church.

Our Christian Endeavor Society is also doing good work. The programs are very interesting and the attendance is very good. On last Sunday evening, August 19, there were 30 present.

The various circles of the Woman's Auxiliary held their regular monthly meetings on last Monday. Circle No. 1 met with Mrs. Saunders. Circle No. 2 met with Mrs. J. E. Clodfelter. The Young Ladies' Circle met at the home of Mrs. Charles F. Finch, and the Teen-age Circle met at the home of Miss Eva Burkhart. We might say that all the circles are making money to apply on our budget, through the Rotary dinners and other features.

There has been adopted by our Sunday school an Honor Roll of the membership. Each membtr donates one penny for each year of age he or she is, the funds of which will apply on our Children's Home indebtedness. Miss Edith Myers and Mr. Frank Gardner are in charge of this and are pushing the project very much.

Our pastor is very much encouraged and pleased with the work that is being done in the cottage prayer services held weekly at the various homes. We hope that our members will continue to keep the good work going.

As was announced on last Sunday morning by Mr. J. W. Boyles, our pastor will be given a vacation of two weeks and there will be no services for the next two Sundays at our church. We, the membership, sincerely hope Mr. and Mrs. Surratt enjoy a real vacation.

ODESSA MYERS, Reporter.

Fallston Charge.—Last night, Sunday, brought to a close our fifth and last revival. Throughout the five weeks' steady pull the people were unusually faithful, kind and generous. Their hospitality, good attendance, and thoughtful attention all had a tendency to encourage the preacher to do his best. Two churches over-ruled my request that no offerings be received at any of the services. However, a fault like this is easily forgiven, especially where the preacher is to recieve the money. All the churches mad good payments of pastor's salary, so much so that the preacher is about to take a vacation this week.

The Fallston quartet proved to be my most reliable "standby." They sang for us at each of the churches and at some of the churches on two or three different occasions. Brother John Bivins, a local preacher, preached for us at Knob Creek on two occasions. Rev. Clarence Morris visited Friendship church on the last day of our meeting there and preached for us at the last service. Other preachers who visited us on one or more occasions include Rev. W. D. Reed, a former pastor, and Rev. J. D. Morris.

Two of our young people were married on Saaturday following the meeting at Friendship church: Robert Gleun of Friendship church and Ruth Hartman of Knob Creek church. The wedding was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Hartman, with Rev. J. D. Morris, their neighbor and personal friend, officiating.

Our first check-up on the results of revivals came yesterday morning at Friendship. Five joined the church, four by baptism and one by letter. The attendance was unusually good with $19.40 coming to the pastor through the generosity of the people. I appreciate this love and faithfulness on the part of the people more than words can tell.

We took a short time off last Wednesday afternoon from our revival work to spend a few moments with the Ladies' organization of Knob Creek church, meeting at the home of Mrs. W. W. Richards. The meeting was in the nature of a joint meeting with the ladies of Kadesh M. E. Church, South. This was a good meeting. It was planned by our president, Mrs. A. J. Jeffers, who received her training in missionary work in our sister church.

Knob Creek church and the community suffered an irreparable loss on Friday, July 6, in the death of Mrs. T. P. Deal. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, and five sons. The floral offerings were beautiful and numerous. Scarcely half the people who attended the funeral were able to enter the church. She was a good mother, neighbor, and friend.

The third quarterly conference for the charge will be held at Hebron church next Saturday, August 25. Sermon at 11 o'clock in the morning with the quarterly conference proper at 1:30 in the afternoon.

H. F. FOGLEMAN, Pastor.

Spring Church Charge.—On the fourth Sunday in July Spring church held Children's Day services in the forenoon. The program was exceedingly fine. Te writer addressed the congregation in the afternoon.

Lebanon revival began the first Sunday in August. Rev. H. L. Isley came on Monday and preached until the close, Friday night. Everybody seemed helped and inspired by his preaching and personal work. Attendance was good. A large group rededicated themselves to the task of living a better life. There were nine conversions and nine accessions, including two by letter.

When the writer returned last Saturday from Bonlee, where he assisted Bro. Isley in a meeting, he found some worthwhile improvements at the parsonage. The Woman's Auxiliary had built concrete steps at the front door entrance. Glass panes were placed in the kitchen door, thus adding much needed light. The writer also found a new two-burner oil stove that was given by Mr. T. B. Vasser as a personal gifts to the writer's family. The improvements and the gift are greatly appreciated. Recently Mrs. J. W. Crew donated a fine ham of excellent quality. This gift also elicits our thanks.

Our meeting begins at Spring Church next Sunday. Rev. A. D. Shelton is the engaged help. Wm. H. NEESE.

Denton Church, Denton Charge.—Despite the fact that our pastor has been away for the last two weeks in special meetings, our services for Sunday, August 19, showed excellent preparation.

Instead of the regular doutine for Sunday school, Mr. Paul Hamilton had charge and he presented a splendid musical service, which consisted of a duet and a male chorus.

Owing to the fact that there were special meetings of interest elsewhere in the community, the attendance for the morning worship was compartively small. Nevertheless, we had a real good service.

The Christian Endeavor met at 7 o'clock and carried out its usual program, with Miss Inza Hill as leader. We hope that we will soon have a report in the Herald as to the work of our society as it is very active and is doing some worthwhile work.

As the result of work by our pastor and his wife and Miss Annie Lee Floyd, we had a very interesting evening service. After the usual introduction and an appropriate Scripture, a hymn pageant, "Blessed Assurance," was presented. The characters were: Blind Fanny J. Crosby, Annie Lee Floyd; Song-Writer, Mrs. J. T. Bowman; Minister, Rev. J. T. Bowman.

We were also given the following article in our church bulletin:

"Fanny Crosby was a blind hymn writer. She was born at Southeast, New York, in 1820. When only six weeks old she lost her sight through the aplication of a too hot poultice to her eyes. She spent 12 years as a pupil at the New York Institution for the Blind. Her teachers noticed her wonderful gift in writing poetry and encouraged her in that work. In 1847 she became a teacher in the same school in which she had received her education. For 11 years she held this position and then married Alexander Van Alstyne, a blind musician, who was then a pupil in the school. She began writing hymns in 1864, and no other person since the days of Charles Wesley and Isaac Watts has made as large a contribution to the gospel song-book. At her death more than 6,000 hymn bore her signature. Her favorite song was, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." The chorus of "Close to Thee" typifiies the faith of her whole life:

> "Close to Thee, close to Thee;
> All along my pilgrim journey,
> Savior let me walk with Thee."

Our third quarterly conference will be held at Canaan church Saturday evening, August 25th, at 7:45.

MAX ROGERS, Reporter.

* * *

Orange Charge.—The revival meeting began at Hebron, August 1th, and closed August 17th. Rev. J. W. Braxton did all the preaching after Sunday and did it well. His sermons were clear and convincing. By his earnestness and enthusiasm he held the attetion of the people.

The visible results were not what they should have been. We believe impressions were made which will yet bear fruit in days to come.

During this meeting three were reclaimed, four converted, and three joined the church. Bro. Braxton will find a hearty welcome any time he can come to Hebron again.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

* * *

Kannapolis.—The Sunday school attendance on Sunday was the largest in the history of this church. There were 197 present. This was no big day or no special effort made—just the usual Sunday services.

At the morning hour the minister, Rev. C. P. Morris, preached an excellent sermon from the text "Not everyone that saith Lord, Lord, shall enter the kingdom, but he that doeth the will of the Father." The North Kannapolis Baptist quartet was present and rendered several selections at this service.

The Daily Vacation Bible School is in progress here, starting into the second week today (Monday.) There are 126 enrolled. This is the largest Bible school that has been held in the city this year. We are very proud of this fact, also of our alert pastor, who has made the school possible and who deserves credit for the success of the school. Mr. Morris is assisted by Rev. Aubert M. Smith, pastor of our Spencer chuch, and Mrs. W. T. Kiser, Miss Laura Braswell of High Point and Kannapolis, Miss Agnes Litaker of Concord, and part time by Mrs. C. B. McCommons as teachers, and Misses Alma Braswell, Elva Sides, Mary Frances McCommons, Mary Roberts, Mary Willie Donahue, Dorohue, Dorothy Clampett, and Edward Sides and Arthur Tutterow as helpers. The commencement exercises for the school will be held on next Friday evening at 5 o'clock.

The Laymen's Fellowship will hold their meeting at the church on next Saturday night.

Our fall revival meeting will begin on next Sunday. Rev. T. G. Madison, of Thomasville, will arrive Sunday afternoon and will do the preaching during the meeting.

Mr. C. E. Gabriel is the delegate from our church to the Annual Conference at Greensboro, and Mr. C. W. Tutterow is the alternate.

Miss Zula Carter has returned to her home on North Juniper street after undergoing an operation at the Mooresville hospital.

Mrs. W. C. Goodwin has returned to her home on Northridge avenue from the hospital. MRS. D. A. McLAURIN.

* * *

Alleghany, Davidson Charge.—Our revival meeting began the second Sunday in August and ran until Saturday night. Rev. A. D. Shelton, of Friendship, was the pulpit help. He told us how to live. Let us take courage and try to do as he told us. Let us work, watch and pray; let us pay our pastor; let us begin at the first of the year to do what the Lord would have us to do.

The meeting was not what we would have it to be, but we hope that great good may yet be accomplished from the good preaching that Brother Shelton did. There were four or five converts and five joined the church. Hope that they will be faithful and make useful members. Let us help them.

We were glad to have Mr. Shelton, Mr. Bingham and daughter, Annabelle, in our home to take dinner one day during the meeting. We are always glad to have the preachers visit us. It does us good for them to come to see us. It does us good for any of our friends to visit us. We ask God's blessings on our pastor and family, Mr. Shelton and family, and all of our past pastors and their families. We don't forget them.

We have a good class of young people at Alleghany. The most of them are Christians, we believe, but there are some that have not decided to live the Christian life. Don't forget them in your prayers, for life is uncertain. ABIGAIL COGGIN.

* * *

Gibsonville Church.—We have not had a preaching service at our church during this month due to the fact that we voted to give the pastor August for a vacation. At present Dr. Bethea and Mrs. Bethea are camping at Weaverville, North Carolina, for a few days.

A simple but impressive service at 10 o'clock last Friday morning united in marriage Miss Esqurida Yow and Paul D. Waynick, both of this place. The vows were spoken at the home of the bride's pastor, Dr. N. G. Bethea, with Dr. Bethea officiating. The young couple left immediately after the ceremony for a trip through Western North Carolina and other points. After August 24 they will be at home in Gibsonville.

Mrs. Waynick is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Yow and is one of Gibsonville's most popular and attractive young women. Recently she was awarded the title, "Miss Gibsonville," at a beauty contest of this place.

Mr. Waynick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Waynick. He holds a position as secretary and treasurer of the Steele Hardware Company of Gibsonville.

Miss Maxine Hammer, of Washington, D. C., arrived last Tuesday from the University of Wisconsin, where she attended the summer school for six weeks. She will spend a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Hammer, before returning to Washington.

Mrs. F. G. Hammer returned last Friday evening from Chapel Hill where she attended the Parent-Teacher Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Owen and family have returned from Yadkin College where they have been visiting Miss Cora Totten.

The members of the Intermediate Bible Girls' Sunday school class sold dinner to the Gibsonville Rotarians on the last two Tuesday evenings. The food was donated by various members; $7.62 was cleared from sales.

The Woman's Auxiliary will meet on Wednesday evening of this week at the home of Mrs. Willie Rosco on Burlington street.

Dr. Bethea will resume his work here as pastor the first Sunday in next month.

REPORTER.

* * *

Asheville.—I feel like Will Rogers this week because all I know is what I've heard. I was unable to attend services on Sunday because of a rather severe burn; so my news will be based on what has been told me by the many members who have visited me. I should like to say first that I am indeed grateful for the visits and telephone calls which I have received, and especially am I indebted to the four splendid Intermediate girls, who have cooked, washed dishes, ironed and one the many necessary things in my home. These four girls, Adele Biebinger, Polly Gentry, Betty Marlowe and Lola Johnson, will each make some young man a capable wife some day. Attention, boys!

Everyone seemed very favorably impressed with Rev. E. L. Ballard; so much so that I am looking forward with great interest to hearing him next Sunday. It is nice to have Mr. and Mrs. Ballard and Miss Apple here to enjoy our wonderful "Land of the Sky." We hope they will enjoy their visit so much they will wish to come again soon.

The Woman's Auxiliary picnic scheduled for last Thursday evening was a "flop," due partially to the weather, but mostly to illness among the members.

Members of Mrs. H. L. Hanner's family have all been ill with colds, but seem to be recovering now, and we trust they will soon all be entirely well. Both Mr. J. W. Boling and Mrs. Dixie Messer continue to improve, for which we are very thankful. We are pleased to report, too, that Mrs. U. S. Miller's son, Frank, is recovering nicely from the operation he had last week.

Mrs. G. P. Younginer was back last Sunday after an absence of several Sundays. She and her family have been visiting in Charlotte.

Mrs. C. C. McNeill and the Misses Edna Moore and Jennie Bolick are visiting in High Point, N. C. We hope that Edna and Jennie will have a lot to tell us of their visit to the Children's Home when they return.

Many thanks to Rev. J. E. Pritchard for all the nice things he said about Asheville in his column this week. We are indeed proud that the Herald is reaching more of our members now. We should like to know why our Subsidy amount of $5.00 is not listed in the Subsidy column? It is paid in full.

I was much interested in Dr. Andrews' statement that we mountain folk were inclined to form our own opinions and solve our own religious problems without the aid of others; and I say "Thank God." Far too many people just follow. We need more thinkers; so again I am thankful that we are not losing our individualism. As for us not being denominationally-minded, well, I am glad of that, too. Inasmuch as we are all supposed to be traveling toward the same Promised Land, I can't see that it makes much difference which road (denomination) we travel. I can't imagine any denominations there, can you?

The Senior Christian Endeavor is to sponsor a barbecue supper at the church Friday evening of this week. Come on, members; let's help the Christian Endeavorers raise their pledge. Let's do our very best in every way and show everyone that the Asheville church can do anything any other church in the Conference can do.

The Philathea class again led the entire Sunday school in the largest collection; Mrs. Bolick's Beginners led in attendance; Mrs Williams' boys led in the Children's Department in collection. Our Sunday school is doing fine, attendance is off some, but many folks are visiting and otherwise engaged; however, we expect to rally again in the near future.

M. L. B.

Lebanon, High Point.—In the absence of our pastor, who is helping in a meeting near Charlotte, Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of High Point College, preached last Sunday at 11 o'clock to an appreciaative audience. His message was most interesting and thought-revoking. Dr. Humphreys is a forceful speaker and our church feels fortunate in having him speak to us occasionally.

The general meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held last Monday evening with Mrs. J. W. Thacker on Route 2. It was the best attended meeting so far this year, the reports were very good, and plans for active work during the autumn months were laid out with much enthusism. May these plans be carried out 100 per cent!

The Mission Band met with Misses Iris and Gene Thacker on Tuesday evening with good attendance and an $8.00 collection. How's that for Juniors? The girls are doing well under the efficient leadership of Mrs. S. W. Taylor. The beautiful side of this work, as the writer sees it, is the scriptural memory work and the study of our missionary work in both the home and foreign fields. You better waatch out women, or these young folks will have a much wider knowledge and deeper understanding of our missionary needs, and how these needs are being supplied, than you have. Mrs. Taylor's efforts in this line are probably not fully appreciated, but they are certainly deeply appreciated by some of the parents. And methinks that our loving Savior, looking down upon this wide harvest field. must smile His blessing on these small laborers. "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, yet did it unto me."

From this date our regular prayer service will be held on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock, followed by choir rehearsal. Next Saturday, August 25th, our annual Sunday school picnic will be held at Guilford Battleground. Those attending will please assemble at the church at 2 o'clock p. m. with lunch baskets filled (the usual "accessories" to match) smiles, etc. The picnic lunch will be spread about six o'clock, after games, etc., have been indulged in to the satisfaction of all participants.

Concord M. P. Church.—We regret to report that our church has fallen down somewhat in both Sunday school and also the preaching services. Lots of our people have been away, some are still visiting, while some have returned home. Our pastor, Mr. Morgan, has just returned from one of his visit to Lake Waccamaw. We are now going through what is called the summer slump. Maybe after a while we will all get together again and really take on a renewed interest in our church and its work.

Mrs. A. B. Cleaver, one of the older members of our church, passed away after a short illness. Mrs. Cleaver was one of our faithful members. Although she was getting up in years and could not do much work in the church, she was always there and we have already missed her since her death several weeks ago.

Prof. W. L. Harris, principal of Winecoff School, spoke to the Baraca class Sunday morning. Mr. Harris pointed out four challenges that every true Christian should accept: 1. Challenge of service; 2. Challenge of interest in social affairs; 3. Challenge of involving responsibility, and 4. Challenge of love. We feel that everyone was greatly benefited by his talk.

REPORTER.

WHAT SHAKESPEARE SAID

O, who can hold a fire in his hand
By thinking on the frosty Caucasus?
Or cloy the hungry edge of appetite
By bare imagination of a feast?
Or wallow naked in December snow
By thinking on fantastic summer's heat?
—King Richard II, Act I, Scene 3.

Henry Peck—I had a very queer dream last night, darling. I dreamed a strange man was running off with you.

Mrs. Peck—What did you say to him?

Henry—I asked him what he was running for.—Exchange.

—Miss Kate Bulla, of Asheboro, a teacher in the public schools of Lexington, has been attending summer school aat the Appalachian Training School at Boone this summer.

—Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Ledford and son, of Paw Paw, West Virginia, have been vacationing in N. C. recently. They stopped in Greensboro for a while yesterday.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Fields

In the passing of Brother John L. Fields, Hope Methodist Protestant church, in Boulee, lost one of her most valuable members. After a lingering illness of seven months, he quietly closed his eyes to the scenes of this life on June 7, having reached the age of 80 years. He was active in the affairs of his home community and county throughout a long and useful life. For a number of years he was a merchant and made a success in business. Always a conservative, Mr. Fields builded on sure foundations that withstood the storms, and he left the heritage of a name that stood for strength of character and uprightness. He had convictions on the public issues of the time and the courage to maintain them, standing for the highest moral integrity and never wavering. But he never tried to force his views on others, no matter how earnestly he upheld them.

Brother Fields would not be called a great man in the sense in which that term is usually used and abused. But he was a great man in the real worth as son, brother, husband, father and citizen—great in those things that make real, solid worth. To his church he was always loyal, standing for every program that had for its object the advancement of the kingdom. How the church and Sunday school will miss him! But our loss is his gain.

May grace be muliplied to his faithful companion, four sons, four daughters, and three sisters who still remain.

The writer was assisted in the funeral at Hope church by Revs. J. B. Trogdon, E. W. Byerly, A. H. Porter, and Mr. Thomas Fields. Burial was in the church cemetery.

H. L. ISLEY.

Waitman

Obadiah Waitman, son of David and Elizabeth Waitman, was born in Davidson county November 3, 1848; departed this life July 8, 1934, aged 85 years, eight months and five days.

He was married to Cornelia J. Everhardt on July 31, 1872, and for more than 62 years they travelled the journey through life together. To this union were born four sons and six daughters. Two sons died in infancy, and one daughter, Ellen T. Cora, died at the age of about nine years.

The deceased has left behind, the widow, two sons, five daughters; they are: Charlie Waitman, Mrs. Virginia C. Myers, Mrs. Minnie G. McCrary, all of Lexington; Ed Waitman, Mrs. Willard Walser, Mrs. Harper Leonard, of Shiloh, and Mrs. C. L. Hedrick, of Mount Carmel community. There are also 55 grandchildren, 46 living, 9 dead; 47 great-grandchildren, 39 living, 8 dead; and one great-great-granddaughter.

He was converted in early life during the days of the camp meetings at Shiloh, and united with the church here, where he remained a faithful member until death. For many years he was an official in his church and quarterly conference, and always performed his duty faithfully and efficiently, He made it a practice as long as he was able to attend the revival meetings in the community, and he was one of those shouting Methodists who seemed to be very much at home in such meetings.

Perhaps no member of Shiloh church ever lived a more noble life and paid a finer contribution to the church and community in Christian service than did Bro. Waitman. He was one of God's good men, and we thank God that in reality he lives on, and that "his works will follow him."

The funeral service was held at Shiloh church on Tuesday, July 10, at 11 o'clock, by the writer, assisted by Rev. E. C. Roach, pastor of Reeds Baptist church, and burial took place in the church cemetery. The floral offering was beautiful and the congregation was very large. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family.

"There is a land mine eye hath seen
In visions of enraptured thought,
So bright, that all which spreads between
Is with its radiant glory fraught.

"A land upon whose blissful shore
There rests no shadow, falls no stain;
There those who meet shall part no more,
And those long-parted meet again."

C. E. RIDGE.

Herbert

Mrs. W. H. Herbert, aged 49, died at her home in Enfield after a lingering illness of nearly two years. She had been confined to her bed for nearly seven months, during which time her Heavenly Father so graciously tempered and perfected her in patience and faith in her acceptance of Him that not only she but all the dear relatives and friends who watched and ministered to her while she was being prepared for that change that awaited her were satisfied that her departure meant eternal peace and joy in that rest that remaineth for the people of God.

Funeral services were conducted from her home by Rev. E. O. Peeler, pastor of the M. P Church and the interment made in Elmwood Cemetery.

Besides her husband Mrs. Herbert is survived by three children, Miss Annie Mae Herbert, Mrs. Joe Brown and W. H. Herbert, Jr.; one grandchild, Joan Fay Brown; one sister, Mrs. Lula Cole, and a brother, Mr. Henry Anderson, both of Petersburg, Va., and two half-brothers, Mr. Jimmy Anderson, of Enfield, and Mr. Richard Anderson, of South Hill, Va.

May God comfort the bereaved ones.

Ward

Mrs. Hattie Sue Surratt Ward was born May 8, 1885, and departed this life July 27, 1934, aged 49 years, 2 months and 19 days. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Surratt. On January 31, 1907, she was married to T. J. Ward, who still survives her. To this union were born seven children, two of whom died in infancy. The children who survive are: Lillie, Vernon, Lloyd, Walton, and Coine. Two brothers, J. R. and J. R. Surratt, and two sisters, Mrs. E. M. Hunt and Mrs. J. D. Ward, also survive her.

Mrs. Ward was a faithful member of Piney Grove M. P. Church from early childhood until she moved her membership to Canaan M. P. church after her marriage in 1907 where she remained a most faithful and devoted member to the very last. It was always an inspiration to see Mrs. Ward sitting in the congregation at church, and she seldom missed a service. She was faithful to her family, to her church and to her God.

Mrs. Ward was a devoted companion, a loving mother and a friend to all who knew her.

In her going a lonely sensation is felt in the home, the church and the community, and a place is vacant that can never be filled, but God has taken this precious one from us; we know that our loss is her eternal gain. May God help each friend and loved one to follow in His footsteps and prepare to meet her on high.

Funeral service was conducted at Canaan M. P. Church Saturday afternoon, July 28, by her pastor, J. T. Bowman, who was assisted by Revs. Groce, Hill, Ridge, Bingham, and Trogdon. Interment followed in the church cemetery.

FAREWELL

(In memory of Rev. M. P. Chambliss, by Bernice Pearson Shell and Melvin Pearson.)

I'm not afraid to die,
"I hate to leave you, mother,
I only hate to leave you
The world alone to try;
But I'll be waiting, mother,
In Paradise for you,
And there some day you'll find me
Where life is ever true.

"In life I loved you, mother,
In death I love you more;
The tie which binds me to you
Seems greater than before;
But I must leave you, mother,
For fast the moments fly,
And soon this pain-racked body
In death will painless lie.

"I hate to leave my comrades,
They'll miss their loved one so,
But ere the sun awaketh,
From them I'll have to go.
God, grant them strength and courage,
The world to bravely face,
That they, in upright living,
May hold a foremost place.

"I hate to leave you, loved-ones,
You'll miss me every day;
Alone to fight your battles,
You'll tread a rougher way.
Farewell, farewell, dear mother,
Farewell, dear loved one, too,
I'm not afraid of dying,
And I will watch for you."

Isley

Mr. Robert L. Isley was born in Alamanee county on September 3, 1868. He departed this life on July 15th, 1934. Mr. Isley had been in ill health for several months, during which time he suffered a great deal. He was, however, very patient and seemed perfectly submissive and resigned.

He was a member of the Mount Hermon Methodist Protestant church, but since moving to Burlington he was a regular attendant upon the services of the First Methodist Protestant Church until his health prevented him doing so. He was a good Christian man. He manifested a strong faith in God. He had the assurance that all would be well with him, whether he recovered his health or whether his soul passed on into the beyond.

The family has sustained a great loss. He was a devoted husband and a loving father. May the family be blessed and sustained by the comfort and peace of God.

FRED W. PASCHALL.

MARRIED

Lanier-Doby

In the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Halton, of Denton, Miss Lillie Doby and Mr. Max Lanier were united in marriage Sunday morning, July 29, at 8 o'clock. Rev. J. T. Bowman, pastor of the bride, used the ceremony of the Methodist Protestant Church while speaking the vows. It was a very impressive ceremony and an additional touch of beauty was added by the use of the ring.

After the ceremony a generous bridal breakfast was served by Mrs. Halton. Mr. and Mrs. Lanier are making their home in Lexington, N. C., where Mr. Lanier is employed. Their many friends wish for them a long and useful married life.

Shoffner

It was voted by the Men's Bible Class of Mount Pleasant Sunday school, Mount Peasant Circuit, that a letter of sympathy be printed in the Methodist Protestant Herald in behalf of those who suffered the loss of Bro. A. U. Shoffner; also that a copy of this letter be sent to his widow and children.

Therefore, be it resolved, that we extend our sympathy to the bereaved family, and may the sustaining power of the Heavenly Father comfort them and give them grace to trust in Him more.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS,
W. G. CAUSEY, Sec'y.

Vestal

James Monroe Vestal was born in Chatham county, near Piney Grove Methodist Protestant church, January 4, 1874, and departed this life July 1, 1934, being more than 60 years old. He was a member and special friend of Piney Grove church. It seemed a pleasure to him to be doing something for the church and for the Kingdom. A kind friend, a good neighbor, and a supporter of the church has been taken from the community. Mrs. Vestal will be missed so much by the church and community, but especially by his wife and daughter who survive. May the dear Lord comfort and bless them.

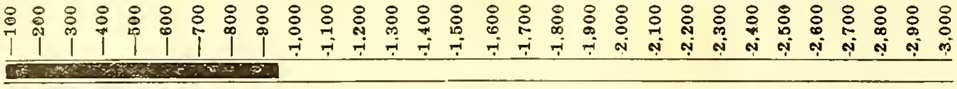
The funeral and burial was at Piney Grove. The pastor was assisted by Revs. F. R. Love, T. F. Andrew, Fred Cooper, and Mr. Shandell.

H. L. ISLEY.

◆

Misses Blanche Hardee and Winnie Burt, two of the most active members of Eden Church on Halifax Charge, received certificates recently from the State College at Raleigh for work done in Home Economics for the past four summers in the short course given each year.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
REIDSVILLE	100
LINCOLNTON	89
SHILOH	73

In my visions I can see a huge locomotive. It is as high as a house and almost as long as a city block. It is attached to a long string of cars, so long that as I look down the track I can scarcely see to the other end of the train. I see a host of men unloading packages from the cars. They are working feverishly as though they were in great haste. What could they be doing, and what could be in the packages which they are unloading? As I walk down the train I see a huge sign fastened to the side of each car. What does the sign say? It reads like this: "This train has gathered together its load from the Methodist Protestant churches in all parts of the world. Its load consists of Congratulations from all the people to the church at REIDSVILLE for having reached its goal in the Methodist Protestant Herald Campaign." Well, well, Reidsville, accept my congratulations also. I am so glad all the rest of the folks are thinking about you. I knew you could do it, for you are built that way. Long ago we learned to depend on you in times when things were to be done, and you have not failed us. So, THANKS, THANKS, THANKS — a thousand times, THANKS. Just wish I could see every one of you that had anything to do with your reaching the goal so I could express personally my appreciataion. And that young man, Dr. George R. Brown, can always be depended on. Yes, sir-ee, he is a great fellow, and knows how to get things done, so, congratulations, Dr. Brown.

And Lincolnton climbed a little higher last week also. Well, keep it up. That is the way to succeed. I want a charge to rave over each week until Conference, so, folks, get busy. The campaign is going mighty fine now, and I am pleased. And just look at what Kannapolis did last week. They raised their quota some time ago, but they just cannot stop. That is the kind of enthusiasm that wins.

Thanks to Weaverville for a payment on subsidy last week also. And THOU NOBLE MAN, Rev. Homer Casto, up at Bethel Home! Blessings be upon thy head for the $15.00 personal gift on subsidy. Wish I could give you perfect health and happiness for a million years.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	11¾	$....
Albemarle	17	12¼	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	26½	*20.00
ASHEVILLE	14	14½	*5.00
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	11.10	....
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	14	....
Burlington, First	71	16½	*20.00
Bessemer City	13	7.51	....
Charlotte	21	12.2	1.50
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.82	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	13½	7.50
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5½	....
Davidson	58	2½	....
Democrat	16	2	....
Denton	48	11¾	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	10¼	*5.00
Fallston	85	28	....
Flat Rock	63	15½	....
Friendship	21	3.42	....
Forsyth	45	10½	2.50
Gibsonville	20	4	....
Glen Raven	47	7¼	....
GRAHAM	27	33.18	*7.50
Granville	59	18½	16.55
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY	29	35½	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	11	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	4¼	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	11.1	*7.50
Greensville	59	7	....
Guilford	37	10½	....
Halifax	53	9	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	23.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	29	8.00
High Point, Lebanon	34	7½	....
High Point, Welch	22	5	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	23.02	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2¾	....
Lexington, First	45	15	*10.00
Lexington, State Street	40	10.11	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lineolnton	18	16.05	....
Littleton	50	7¾	....
Mebane	28	8	....
Mecklenburg	40	2	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	3½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	5	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	21¼	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	27¾	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7½	....
Randolph	74	12	....
REIDSVILLE	10	10	....
Richland	43	4½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	46½	*20.00
Siler City	20	14¼	*7.50
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	14½	....
Tabernacle	39	21¼	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	3½	2.50
West Forsyth	62	12	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	5½	....
Winston, First	26	10½	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	5	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6⅛	....

Individual churches on circuits raising their quota in full are: SHILOH on Shiloh Charge, EFLAND on Orange Charge.

---

* Subsidy paid in full.

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher
Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.
PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.
Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.
Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.
In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.
We cannot often supply back numbers.
We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.
Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

SPECIAL TO FRIENDS OF THE CHILDREN'S HOME

Remember Children's Home Day, Thursday September 13, program beginning at 10:30 a. m. We hope to see you here that day with a well filled picnic basket. Dinner served about 12:30.

Enroll your church members and friends, to a number equal to your church membership, who will pay a penny for each year of their age. Hold the money to be turned in by someone from your church on the 13th of September. An accurate account should be kept so each church may be given the proper credit.

Every church which enrolls and collects from a number of people equal to their church membership will be given a good picture of the Home and its grounds. It takes a bit of faith to offer this, but we believe many of our churches will reach the goal.

Yours in His name,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

◆

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Miss Sallie Smith, Siler City	$ 5.00
Rev. J. R. Anderson, Albemarle	3.00
Rev. E. A. Bingham, Davidson	3.00
Rev. L. E. Mabry, Mt. Hermon	2.50
Mrs. E. S. Taylor, Orange	1.00
Rev. C. L. Spencer, Grauvville	1.00
Rev. T. J. Whitehead, West End	1.00
Rev. J. E. Pritchard, Calvary	1.00
J. N. Moore, Asheville	.50
J. J. Mallard, First Church, Lexington	.50

◆

—Rev. W. F. Ashburn assisted Rev. J. A. Burgess in a revival meeting at Sapling Ridge church, Alamance charge, last week. There were a goodly number of professions and people fell at the altar as in former days.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN C AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., AUGUST 30, 1934 NUMBER 40

Rev H L Isley 2aug4 R6

Church Finances

By J. E. Pritchard

In two or more issues of the Herald recently we have had a discussion of Church Finance by Rev. H. F. Fogleman. His discussion has dealt largely with the method of laying the assessment, whether it shall originate with the local church or with the Annual Conference. While I have some sympathy with the plan which Brother Fogleman is advancing, yet that is not what I have in mind at the present time. I am not so much concerned with methods as I am in the doing of the thing.

Two things have come to our attention recently that have inspired this article. The one is the report of the Conference Treasurer as given by Dr. R. M. Andrews in his letter last week, and the other was by Dr. Dixon, the Superintendent of the Children's Home. From the report of the Conference Treasurer we see that there is much to be done yet if our Conference makes much of a showing in the annual session in November. In the report of Dr. Dixon we see that there has been a tremendous slump in finances for the home this year os compared to the previous years. Now these reports are both a surprise and a disappointment. It is generally conceded that business conditions throughout the country are better than they were a year ago. I have talked recently with contractors, steel workers, plumbers, and others, and almost invariably they have told me that money is easier and that there is more going on. Since this is so, why is it that church finances are so slow to respond to the upturn in business? Some one might ay that this money has not yet filtered into the hands of Methodist Protestants? Well, if not, why not? Our people dress as well as other people. They seem to have as many new cars as do other people. As many of them seem to go to the World's Fair and other places as do other people. What, then, is the trouble with us?

In the first place, I think it might be said that our people have allowed themselves to become hardened to the appeals for help. A few years ago we were supporting our Children's Home in a very creditable manner. Then we built a college and at first our people responded beautifully to the appeal for funds. Then the depression came along and it was necessary for a great many people to cease giving to the same extent they had been giving. During these trying times those in authority at the College and at the Children's Home and those responsible for our mission work began to sound the alarm and to tell us they were fighting with their backs to the wall, and that they could not continue to carry on with the limited amounts they were receiving. But because of the fact that we had heard so many times of the distressing conditions of institutions and of individuals we allowed ourselves to become hardened to all appeals. The same appeal does not come to us with the same degree of distress that it did a few years ago. Now we must begin all over to work ourselves up to that humanitarian feeling whereby we can be affected by these appeals as formerly. What I am talking about is amply illustrated by the Near East Relief appeal. A few years ago in almost all our churches money was collected for the relief of the unfortunate ones over there, but finally the appeals began to fall on deaf ears and people could dismiss the matter from their minds. A few years ago if an appeal had come to us as is coming to us now from our Children's Home we would have been tremendously stirred up over it.

In the second place, our people seem to have decided during these depression days that it is not as embarrassing to go to conference without having raised the assessments in full as they used to think it would be. Until the past few years some of our churches were very jealous of their record so far as the honor roll was concerned. But having failed a few times to get on the honor roll, some of them can now stay off without losing much sleep over it. To my mind this is a very serious aspect of our situation and one that calls for serious thought and much meditation on the part of our leaders. How to bring our people back to that position that they will regard an assessment by an annual conference as more than a scrap of paper is the task before us today, and it is a big task also.

In the third place the church seems to have lost some of its idealism. A few years ago we were talking in terms of "The world for Christ in this generation," and kindred subjects; but we seem to have lost that exalted feeling. Those who are down under the juniper tree even seem to be asking the question if there is any use to try, and if the money they give really counts for anything. Some of them say that the world is growing worse in spite of all we have done and that there is not anything we can do about it.

Now, I admit that this is rather a dark picture I have drawn, and yet some people seem to feel that way about it. What then can we do about it? One thing for us to remember is that Jesus has not changed his estimate of a little child. He still loves children and if He were here on the earth today He would still take them up in his arms and bless them and say, "Of such is the kingdom of heaven." He would also say if He were on earth today, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me." Yes, the cry of a little child is just as painful to Jesus as it was before the depression. And our giving now to a worthy cause, if given in the right spirit, will bring just as great a reward as it ever did—a reward in the enrichment of life to the giver and good to the one receiving it. God has not abdicated and is not going to do so. There have been other times in the history of the Christian Church when things seemed to be going backward, but remember that Jesus, in speaking of His Church, said, ''The gates of hell shall not prevail against it.'' If we have faith in Christ, if we believe that He can make good His claim, then let us gird ourselves to the battle and fight. The enemy is knocking at the gate to our own soul and we shall need to run him away. What we need is to rededicate ourselves to the task of making this world what God wants it to be. He who gives himself to this task will not lose his reward.

Our College must be financed; our Children's Home must be supported. The cry of helpless children must be heard and heeded. Our church papers must be kept going. To fail to do these things means to bring shame upon our heads. To fail to hear the call for help endangers our own souls. Preachers and laymen must learn to make sacrifices for the Kingdom. Our slogan must be ''OTHERS.''

PUTTING CRIMINALS TO DEATH

By Luther K. Long

The death of Mrs. Antonio in the electric chair in Sing Sing prison, New York, has been receiving much attention from news services, columnists, and editorial writers. Not much concern is expressed over the fate of the two men who, for the $800 paid them by Mrs. Antonio, murdered her husband. They are left to suffer the consequences of their bad bargain. The woman's fate—because she is a woman and the mother of three—inspires a certain sympathy.

It is claimed that the murdered man ''was a 'drug peddler,' dealer in narcotics, condemning his customers and victims to a life of agony worse than death.'' Perhaps he was not fit to live. But there are lawful ways of convicting and putting such persons out of the way. The wife was not accused of killing her husband in sudden anger, under great provocation. Nor did she take it into her own hands to punish him for being a public enemy. With an eye on the proceeds of his life insurance policy, she deliberately bargained with these two men, showing the usual signs of an ordinary—or extraordinary—criminal.

There is a lot of false or misplaced sentiment and sympathy wasted on suuch cases. The husband—it will readily be conceded—was not a fit father to have the care of their three children, and they may be better off without him. Where is the evidence that the wife was any better as a mother, that her presence, on the whole, would be an advantage to the children? If a woman drives an automobile, she becomes subject to traffic regulations. If she goes into business, she is under obligation to conform to business law. If a wife and mother goes in for crime, she should expect to take the consequences the same as any other criminal.

If these Antonio children are brought up with the frank understanding of what their father was and did, of what their mother was and did, there is no sufficient reason why they should not—by God's grace, the help of friends, and their own efforts—grow into far better citizens than would have been likely had their mother been permitted to live.

I do not like the attitude some are taking, to the effect that our govrnment murders, kills in a spirit of hate and vengeance those who are executed for crime. Death, after a fair trial and sentence by the court in accordance with the law, is not metted out in revenge for a crime committed. It is not even punishment, in the strict sense. It is simply a method by which society relieves itself of the presence of an unfit and dangerous member who has forfeited his, or her, right to live. It is a disagreeable task, but should be attended to, nevertheless.

Why need one greatly worry over the future destiny of Mrs. Antonio? Did she concern herself about the destiny to which she sent her husband? I am not prepared to say just what becomes of such people after death. Very few religious authorities are willing to make the dogmatic statements on such matters that used to be common 50 to 75 years ago. We prefer to leave that to a higher Authority. If the Supreme Judge over all cannot manage such cases effectively, with appropriate justice and mercy, He is a far less wise and good God than I believe Him to be. While the rights of criminals should be safe-guarded, the emphasis should be placed on safety for the innocent.

Why should the press give so much space to detailing the incidents of the death march, the turning on and off of the electric current, the expressions on the faces of witnesses, and the pronouncements of the physician? Drop a tear, if you will, over the whole unfortunate incident—then turn with earnest purpose to such instructing and guarding of the youth of our country as will secure for them worthy characters and good opportunities in life.

THE WELL-ORDERED LIFE

By Grenville Kleiser

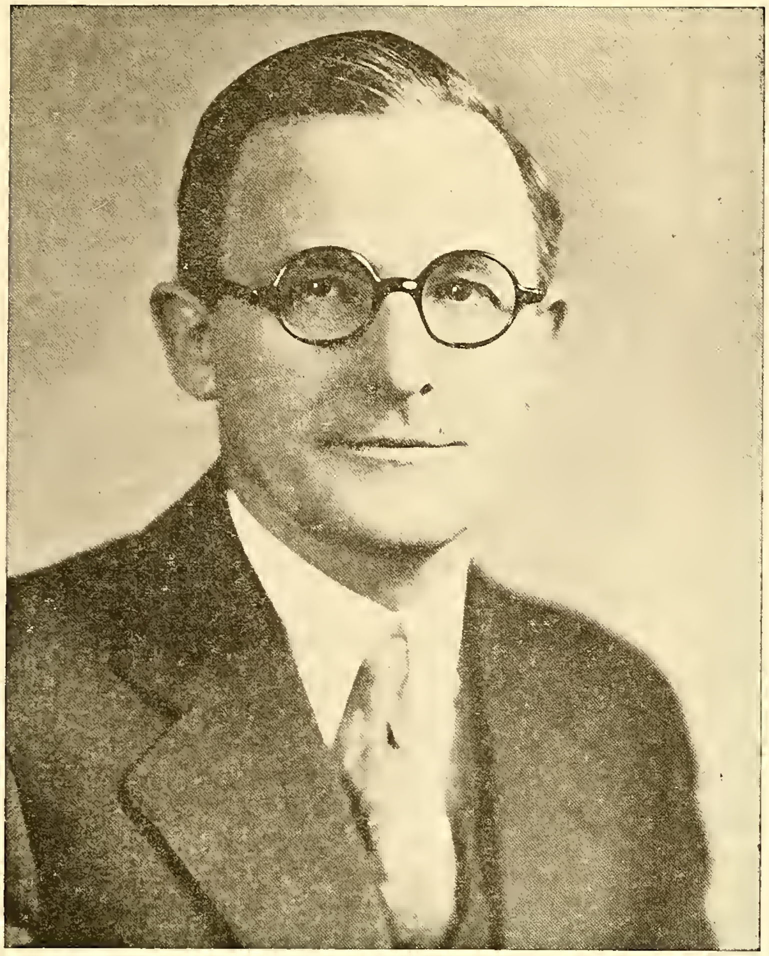
The best medicine for discontent and depression is useful occupation. You are in the world to make something of yourself, to develop your powers and abilities for worthy use, to render substantial service to your fellowmen. A well-planned life has no time nor inclination for useless worry and dissatisfaction. Every minute of the day is significant to the earnest and ambitious worker.

Life is rich with opportunity, and you elect for yourself every morning whether the day will be fruitful of good results or not. Plan a program of practical usefulness for each day, fill the hours with interesting work, resolve to do constantly better, and your life will thereby expand into beauty and joyousness.

Your mind is a wonderful workshop, in which you plan, systematize, devise, invent, and picture ideas which are subsequently to be expressed in material form. Your mental habits have a vital influence in shaping the character and productiveness of your daily work. Confidence and belief in your own ability to achieve will speed your progress.

Every day you should plan, initiate, aspire, resolve, concentrate, work, persevere, accomplish. Life is made up of work and play, ambition and achievement. You are responsible for the right use of your time and talents. The days pass quickly by, and the vital things you wish to do should be done with despatch lest procrastination rob you of your rightful reward.

Set your best powers to work today, that you may be able to say at its close you have made conscious and substantial progress towards a great life ideal. There is so much



Dr. G. I. Humphreys, President of High Point College, whose picture appears here, came to the College as President in 1930. Immediately before that time, he was pastor of the Peninsula Methodist Protestant church in Salisbury, Md.

Dr. Humphreys graduated from Western Maryland College in 1902 and from the Westminster Theological Seminary in 1904. He received his M.A. degree from Western Maryland in 1905. In 1922 the Maryland College conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

During his pastorate in the Maryland Conference, Dr. Humphreys served several of the most important charges in that state. He served as president of the Maryland Conference as long as the rules of the conference would permit. He has served on several general conference committees and boards.

President Humphreys is possibly the most popular college president with the student body in North Carolina. He has the full co-operation of his faculty and students.

As a preacher as well as an executive, he has few equals. His services are in constant demand by churches and business and civic organizations throughout North Carolina.

you can achieve that you cannot delay an hour without personal loss. So make the best of today and its golden opportunities.

KNOWING THE SAFE COURSE

Years ago an old pilot of the Mississippi was looking for a job at a ship office. "Do you know the snags along the river?" he was asked. "No," he replied. "Then how do you expect to pilot a ship along this dangerous river?" was the next question fired at him. "I know where the snags ain't," he replied, "and that's where I expect to do my sailing." He got the job. Those who keep close to the teachings of Gods Word know where the snags of false teaching are and will be able to steer a safe course to the port of rest.—The Elim Evangel.

SHE KNEW HOW GOD FELT

A little girl was given a half-dollar. She greatly admired it, for she had never before had so large a piece of money, her previous gifts having consisted of pennies. When asked what she would do with it, she replied to the great surprise of the questioner:

"I think I will take it to Sunday school next Sunday."

"Why do you want to do that?"

"I want to give it to God," she said thoughtfully; "He never gets anything but pennies either."—Selected.

HOW TO BE SUCCESSFUL

By Grenville Kleiser

There is no valid reason why you should struggle along indefinitely in a wrong vocation or an uncongenial atmosphere. The world offers wide and varied opportunities for your abilities. But you must put forth wise and diligent effort. You were made to progress, to grow in power and influence, and to achieve some great and worthy purpose.

Have you enough enthusiasm to persevere? If you have been slack in the past, has that been due to lack of aim, or to inherent shiftlessness? Have you counted the cost of effort, and decided to strike out anew? Do you prefer, in your declining years, to look back on a life of mediocrity, half-used talents, missed opportunities, neglected advantages, or at one of steady purpose, high endeavor and an industry that has received its just rewards? These and similar pertinent questions should stimulate your interest and lead you to a wise decision.

Experience is the great school-master of life, constantly disciplining you through tests, trials, and difficulties. It imposes stern penalties for mistakes and misjudgments. Thus you learn the penalty for waste of time, the scattering of energies, the pursuit of ill-considered plans, and the prodigal squandering of physical and mental power. Carefully note the lessons of daily experience, that your life may be rounded out into fulness.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Shall We Encourage Denominational-Mindedness?

There are a few people in every denomination who take pains to emphasize their lack of interest in denominational organizations. They declare that they can be happy in any denomination—Jew, Catholic, Baptist, Episcopalian, Methodist, or what not. But when you pin there broad-minded folk down to doing what any of these several denominations require of their members, they soon declare, "Oh, no, I do not believe in that." I confess that there is so little difference in the workings of several denominations that it might not matter much with some people which of these they attend the services of. But even then these denominational dislikers would be in a denomination. Just changed the name, that is all.

Such contenders say, "Just so they get to heaven it does not matter which denomination they go by." That may be true with them. We just remark they are still in a denomination, so why ignore it? I fail to appreciate the contention that we oughut to do away with denominations. For the denomination is just the name by which a group of workers is differentiated from another group. If the church is to cease to work for the Lord; if church membership shall mean nothing more than hearing sermons and singing songs, then I see no reason why we should bother about where we go and sing. But our Lord said to His disciples, "I have chosen you and ordained you that you should go and bring forth much fruit; and that your fruit should remain." I have yet to know those who gad around as sermon tasters and song worshippers to relieve suffering or clothe the naked; neither do they confound the wicked with their righteous lives. They have too many places to go, for them to tarry and pray with some troubled soul or to go out and find food for some hungry nobody.

This is no day for Christian people to turn aside from organized effort to save the world, for all the forces of evil are organized. Every species of crime is thoroughly organized; every effort of Satan is directed from the pit. When it is right and proper for people to make up their minds about what they shall do with their lives, it is folly for any one of us to suppose that we can go out single-handed and whip the hosts of hell into obeying and fearing us. There must be closer alliance between the different denominations—less scrapping, less disloyalty and criticim among members. But the Kingdom of Heaven can never be built up by breaking down the organizations which are seeking to save the world. As I see it, whenever one throws off his denominational allegiance, he then and there steps out of the ranks of organized Christianity; and it is a queer sort of a saint who wants to do that. And those who shift from one church to another with the ease with which an experienced traveler changes cars, never get lined up with any sort of work which their church is trying to do; never make an impact upon evil, nor do the workers of the church even know their name. The migratory professing Christians are a menace to the stability of the church in certain localities. The new member must therefore be taught the meaning of church membership when joining the church, and made to see the shame of not living up to their church vows. The failure of the modern church is not due so much to the financial depression as it is to the lack of loyalty to the standards which the church has set for itself. So long as thousands of church members and hundreds of church officials show no more regard for their church vow than for the calendar leaf of last month, so long must the righteous suffer and so long will the wicked rule. The hope of world redemption rests in the church, and the organized church is composed of the sects of every denominational name. Stand by your church, of whatever name. If it is not what it should be, then try by the grace of God to make it holy and efficient.

Mocksville Charge, Rev. G. B. Ferree, Pastor

This is a five-point charge. I visited two of the churches last Sunday, these being the regular appointments of the pastor. The churches visited were Union Chapel, a few miles outside of Mocksville, and Union Grove, some twenty-five miles away in Iredell county.

There was a fairly good attendance at Union Chapel, the pastor thought. This church has had a checkered career since I have known it. It appears to be in a better condition now than formerly. It is in a community where the congregations should be large. It is one church, I am informed, where there is no trouble in finding some one willing to act as superintendent of the Sounday school—rather different from other churches I happen to know about.

Union Grove is a community center. Good school buildings; the power line is preparing to furnish power; a mill is to be built, and there is talk of a hospital. It is equidistant to Wilkesboro, Yadkinville and Statesville; in the heart of a good farming community, with many fine people. We have a church in fairly good state of repair, and a parsonage here. I do not know of a better place in our conference for a pastor who wants to do a work that is enduring and enjoy the rural life than here. Were I a young man without a large family, I would gladly seek the position of pastor of this community, to live and labor among these people for the rest of my life, if the work should prosper under my ministry.

I enjoyed my visit to the people, but was sorry to find the financial state of the work so low. The people have paid less on pastor's salary than last year at this time, and the pastor has worked to supplement his salary part of the time.

Rev. L. R. Medlin has been appointed to fill the unexpired term of Brother Gerringer, deceased. He entered upon the work last Sunday.

Plan of Appointments

September 2—Albemarle, 11 a. m.; Melton's Grove, afternoon; Rockingham, night.

September 9—Denton charge; Canaan 11 a.m., Piney Grove afternoon, Denton at night.

September 16—Saxapahaw charge; Orange Chapel at 11 a.m., Concord afternoon, Salem at night.

September 23—Cleveland charge; Oak Grove at 11 a.m., Moriah afternoon, Lawndale at night.

September 30—Community church, 11 a.m.; First church, Thomasville, 8 p.m. R. M. ANDREWS.

EDUCATIONAL PRACTICE

Robert M. Hutchins, the young president of Chicago University, is likely to break up some traditional educational practice.

Hitherto, it has been the custom to admit students to college on the ground that they are prepared to enter successfully upon a regularly prescribed four-year course of study. If the student happened to be deficient in a high school subject, that work must be made up. He was not allowed to take a junior study until the work of the sophomore year had been completed. The object seemed to be to prepare the student to receive a degree in the regularly prescribed manner, rather than to dvelop him along the lines in which he was interested and prepare him for the work in life to which he felt most inclined.

President Hutchins wants to throw open all college courses to whomsoever is able to do profitable work in them—without reference to being a candidate for a degree, and without regard to whether or not the student is taking at the same time all the other studies usually pursued.

This is in line with the usage in European universities. The student, his culture, his special tastes, and his preparation for usefulness are all placed above the strict demands of the curriculum and the question of a degree.

Charles Darwin testified that his years in the university did not greatly profit him. Too much of his time was spent on studies in which he had no interest. His years as scientist on the ship Beagle did much more for him in the way of intellectual development and the acquisition of power than did his university training.

Of course, such a special student will miss much of the value of cultural subjects. Most young people do not have a clear idea as to what they want to do, and what they want to investigate, so it is usually thought to be a good plan to take them over a general list of studies hoping that something will occur to awaken interest. Possibly it would be as well for a young person to take a look at practical life for a while then, when his interest is awakened, let him set about his special studies.

LUTHER K. LONG.

WORRY

Prayer is an acknowledgement of faith; worry is a denial of faith. Prayer is putting my hand in God's, trusting to His loving guidance; worry is withdrawing my hand, and denying His power to lead me. Prayer leads through the door of faith into the presence of God; worry leads through the door of anxiety into the darkness of loneliness and discouragement. If prayer rules the life victory results.—Selected.

—Only the self-made man who lets God have a hand in the job has reason to be proud of the result.—Forward.

WE PREACH JESUS

Jesus stands unique from all who came before Him through the might and wideness of His redemptive love.

His love is not only constant and unfailing; it is not only sympathetic and comforting; there is a peculiar quality about it that is neither sexual nor affectional.

The love of Jesus, Who had nothing but love to give, was redemptive. It transformed its objects. It did this because it bestowed on men not the love of a man, but the love of God.

The love of Jesus for His fellows was not human affection, as the world had known it. It was an authoritative, assured connecting of men with God their Father. His life commands our worship, separates us from all other lives, because for the first time in history a simple man, a peasant indeed, moved among men with the consciousness that He was imparting the love of God.

The spirit of Jesus—what is it? Paul dared to call it "the Holy Spirit." The spirit of Jesus—what is it but the love of God? If—and this is proof—the spirit of Jesus be the highest conceivable human spirit, then a God of love becomes the highest conceivable reality, for the spirit of Jesus is fundamentally a spirit that absolutely rests upon and is conscious of transmitting the love of God.

That is the direct and fundamental proof of the Christian religion. It can conflict with no science. It can close men's eyes to no beauty. But it stands independent of art and science, on the foundation other than which no Christian minister dare lay, that which is laid, Jesus Christ.

And after a man, any man, whether he binds the sheaf or builds the house or toils in a library, has seen Jesus of Nazareth, the very embodiment of holiness among men, eating and drinking with publicans and sinners, putting his arms about many a prodigal, and dying between two thieves, he knows that if God be any holier than Jesus, He will only be more loving.

But when a man, through the imperial judgment of his moral sense, arrives at that conclusion, he has passed from death unto life. "We preach not ourselves, but Jesus Christ as Lord, and ourselves as your servants for Jesus' sake."—From an address by Prof. A. W. Vernon.

LOOKING TO GOD

There are two ways of going to work in regard to earthly good. One is the way of struggling and toiling, pushing and snatching, fighting and denying, and that way comes to no successful issue; for if it gets what it has struggled and wrestled for it generally gets in some way or other an incapacity to enjoy the good won, which make it far less than the good pursued. The other way is the way of looking to God and doing the appointed task with quiet dependence on Him, and that way always succeeds; for with its modest or large outward results, there is given likewise a quiet heart set on God, and therefore capable of finding water in the desert and extracting honey from the rock.—Alexander MacLaren.

—Good will, like a good name, is won by many actions, and lost by one.—Jeffrey.

One entering from the portico of Roberts Hall at High Point College will be greeted by the view pictured above. This is the foyer of the Administration Building. Of course, only a section can be seen in this picture.

To the right and the left from here run the corridors on each side of which will be found the class rooms and the administrative offices.

To the right is a small reception room.

The foyer has recently been re-furnished both with furniture and draperies by Mr. H. A. Willis, of High Point, who is a member of the Board of Trustees.

OUR STORY PAGE

LOVE IS THE CONDITION

There was a ripple of excitement all through the Orphanage, for a great lady had come to take little Jane home with her. The girl herself was bewildered with the thought.

"Do you want to go with me and be my child?" the lady asked in gentle tones.

"I don't know," said Jane timidly.

"But I am going to give you beautiful clothes, and a lot of things—a room of your own, with a beautiful bed and table and chairs."

After a moment's silence the little one said anxiously: "But what am I to do for—for all this?"

The lady burst into tears, "Only to love me and be my child," she said, as she folded the little girl in her arms.

God adopts us, protects us, and gives us an inheritance in Glory. All He asks in return is that we should love Him and be His children.—Children's Record.

HOW JANE SETTLED IT

"Here comes mamma," said Jane. "O mamma, must I save some of my candy for Grace?"

"I think a good little sister would."

"But Grace did not give me any of hers yesterday."

"Didn't she? And how did you like that?"

"I didn't like it. All I want is to make her not like it too, because I think she was real mean."

"Dear! dear! And is mamma to have two mean little girls?"

Jane looked at her mother and was quiet for a minute; then she ran and threw her arms around her mother's neck and said, "No, mamma dear. I guess Grace forgot, and I'll go and give her some of my candy now, so she won't ever forget again."

"Good!" said her mother was a smile.—Picture World.

A TRUE INCIDENT OF YEARS AGO

Grandma Foster put aside her knitting and gazed out of the small window at the deep snow which she could but dimly see as the evening shadows deepened and ominous clouds gathered. Her grandchild, a pretty little curly-haired girl of eight years, sat before an old wide-open fireplace, intently absorbed in a picture story-book. Two large iron kettles were hanging over the bright blaze, emitting a savory odor of cooking. An iron "spider" was embanked in the hot ashes which contained rows of "pone"—cornbread.

The child looked up as her grandmother remarked: "Elizabeth, I am afraid something is wrong, for it's long past the time for your father to be home. I am really uneasy, and very much afraid that something has happened. I think we had better get the lantern and look around a bit."

The child looked at her grandmother's wrinkled, upturned face, and saw her lips move as if in prayer as she had so often seen her, and then a feeling of calm and reliance came to her. She said to herself, "I know that God answers granny's prayers; for I have seen them so often answered. I know that no harm will come to dear papa. But if she wants to go out this bad night to hunt for him we'll go and take Toby with us."

As Elizabeth mentioned the dog's name, he gazed up at her with a wag o fhis tail and a sparkle in his bright eyes, as much as to say, "Of course, I'll go along. I love master and want to help him." Then he pitifully whined as if he instinctively knew that something was wrong.

"I know the good Lord will not desert us now, for he never has," said the brave old lady. Then she took down a heavy woolen shawl from a peg behind the door and wrapped it closely about her an dtied a woolen scarf about her head. After putting on the fire a huge log, which she carefully placed in the middle of the red embers, and banking the ashes securely around it, so it would burn slowly and keep the room warm till they came back, they were ready to go.

"Elizabeth, have you your woolen over-stockings on?"

"Yes, Granny, and my mitten too. Do you really think dear papa is in any great danger?"

"Let us pray and hope not, dear."

As granny said this she reached over the mantel and lifted a rifle from its sling, and placing it over her shoulder, motioned the child to precede her with the lantern. Then she called Toby, who didn't wait for a second bidding.

The hale old lady walked calmly out in the dark and threatening night, peering this way and that, and cautiously stopping at the slightest sound. In those days the women of the family were taught to handle a gun as skillfully as the men. Many a bunch of wild fowl she would bring home from an afternoon hunt. They had gone quite a little distance when Toby began barking furiously. She picked her way carefully for a little distance, and raising her dinner horn, blew a loud blast. Then quickly grasping her rifle she stopped to listen if any response came. She was certain there came to her anxious ear a faint cry as if for help. Her heart had a sense of relief and thankfulness, for she knew that her dear son was yet alive. Proceeding slowly she could now hear distinctly another cry of "help" or "here." Her steps were almost noiseless as she crept along. After a few minutes a deep growl greeted her. By the dim lantern light she could easily distinguish the huge outlines of a grizzly bear standing almost upright by a tree gazing upwards. She called, "Oh! David dear, is it you? Are you hurt?"

When the huge animal heard her voice it turned slightly and started towards her. But apparently it changed its mind, seeming to think its prey in the tree suited it better.

"Oh, mother, be careful. Hold the light high and aim at his head." Breathing a prayer she raised her rifle. A few seconds more and Bruin toppled over on his side dead.

David, benumbed with cold, scrambled down the tree as best he could, and catching his mother in his arms sobbed like a child: "Oh dearest mother, I knew you would come to me. I have been in that tree for the last four hours. When the bear took after me and I started to climb the tree I dropped my rifle and was powerless to do anything. I am not hurt, having only a few scratches."

"Well, son, we should be thankful that things are no worse. It is a fine young bear, and will keep us in good meat for quite a while, and the skin will make us a nice rug. Surely we have a great deal to be thankful for, my son. Let us always remember that God takes care of His own.''—Gospel Herald.

◆

SANKEY AND THE GYPSY BOY

While holding meetings at Burdett Road, London, in 1874, Mr. Moody and Mr. Sankey one Saturday took a drive out to Epping Forest. ''There we visited a gypsy camp,'' says Mr. Sankey, ''and while stopping to speak to two brothers who had been converted and were doing good missionary work, a few young gypsy boys came up to our carriage. I put my hand on the head of one of them and said, 'May the Lord make a preacher of you, my boy!'

''Fifteen years later, when Gypsy Smith made his first visit to America, I had the pleasure of taking him for a drive in Brooklyn. While passing through Prospect Park he asked me: 'Do you remember driving from London one day to a gypsy camp at Epping Forest?' I replied that I remembered. 'Do you remember a little gypsy boy standing by your carriage,' he asked again, 'and you put your hand on his head, saying that you hoped that he would be a preacher?' 'Yes, I remember it very well.' 'I am that boy,' said Gypsy Smith. My surprise can better be imagined than described. Little had I thought that the successful evangelist and fine Gospel singer of whom I had heard so much was the little boy I had met in the gypsy camp. Truly God had granted my wish and had made amighty preacher of the gypsy boy.''—Publisher Unknown.

◆

MOTHER'S BILL

A ten-year-old boy overheard a conversation about certain bills for services rendered which had to be paid, and conceived the idea of making out a bill for what work he had done. So the next morning he laid his statement of account on his mother's breakfast plate: ''Mother owes Willie for carrying coal six times, twenty cents; for bringing water lots of times, thirty cents; for going ten errands, fifteen cents; for being good twice, ten cents; total, seventy-five cents.''

His mother read the bill but said nothing about it. That evening Willie found on his plate the seventy-five cents and also another bill, which read as follows: ''Willie owes mother for his happy home for ten years, nothing; for his food and clothing, nothing; for nursing him in a long illness, nothing; for being good to him, nothing; total, nothing.''

When Willie saw the seventy-five cents he was pleased, but when he read his mother's bill his eyes grew dim and his lips quivered. Then he took his money to his mother, threw his arms about her neck, and begged that she would let him do lots of things for her. Mother's bill is rarely presented, but it will pay each child to think it over and over for himself and then to pay it—in loving obedience.—Publisher Unknown.

◆

—I have seen a man and a dog go into a saloon, and in one hour the man would get beastly drunk and stagger out like a hog, while the dog would come out and walk away like a gentleman.—Henry W. Grady.

LOVE REWARDED

A boy was returning from the Sunday school; such a poor fellow, so poorly dressed, yet his face was beaming with joy, and he was quietly singing as he hurried along.

Presently he turned into his little home. His mother was busy setting a scanty meal, and Johnnie sat down by the tiny fire.

His heart was full, for that afternoon he had heard of Jesus, how He had suffered for Johnnie, so that he might go to be with Him forever. The sweet story had so touched the poor boy that he had gladly accepted Jesus as his Savior, and had sung the little hymn at the end of the meeting from the very bottom of his heart:

''I will believe, I do believe,
That Jesus died for me,
And on His Cross He shed His Blood,
From sin to set me free.''

As he sat, he all at once burst out,

''I will believe, I do believe,''

and sang the verse. His mother turned and called out:

''Hush, Johnnie, you mustn't sing that; Father will hear you and thrash you.''

Johnnie stopped and sat still and quiet for a little while, but his heart was so full that all at once out it came again quite loudly,

''I will believe, I do believe,''

Just at that moment the door burst open, and the father shouted,

''What did I hear you say? If ever I hear that again, you will leave the house!''

Poor Johnnie looked very much frightened, and cowered down, sitting very still and quiet for some time.

Presently the voice was heard once more, for Johnnie was so happy that he quite forgot the warning in his joy, and

''I will believe, I do believe,''

rang out.

The father thundered out, ''Leave at once.''

The singing stopped, and quietly Johnnie rose, spread his handkerchief on the floor, and gathered one or two treasures. These he tied together, took his cap, and crossing to his mother, threw his arms around her neck, and bade her good-bye. She held him tightly, then turning from her, he crossed over to his angry father, and throwing his arms around his neck, cried, ''Good-bye, Father,'' and kissed him.

This was too much for the man; he was completely overcome, and falling down upon his knees cried aloud,

''Johnnie, pray for me.''

This our young friend gladly did, and was rejoiced to hear his father say,

''Jesus died for me.''

''God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.'' (Rom. 5:8.)—Life Line.

◆

—Noah built and voyaged alone. His neighbors laughed at his strangeness and perished in style.—Selected.

Our Children's Home

Shiloh S. S., Liberty	$ 2.25
Mrs. C. L. Barrett, Lillian Braswell, Norfolk	3.00
Pleasant Union S. S., Mt. Pleasant	1.95
Mt. Carmel S. S., Forsyth	2.45
Uinon Grove S. S., Orange	1.00
Betahany S. S., Randolph	3.30
Union Fidge S. S., Forsyth	4.00
Asheboro S. S.	30.00
Union Chapel, Mocksville	1.00
Siler City S. S.	4.25
Fair Grove, Why Not	3.60
Love Joy, Why Not	.70
Flag Springs, Why Not	.80
New Hope, Why Not	3.70
New Hope, Mecklenburg	.50
Pleasant Hill S. S., Spring Church	1.00
Fountain Place S. S.	2.60
Bethel, Alamance	3.70
Orange Chapel, Saxapahaw	3.35
Shoals, Pinnacle-Mt. Zion	2.01
Lebanon S. S., High Point	4.70
Salem S. S., Saxapahaw	2.74
Pleasant Grove S. S.	7.11
Mrs. Mabel Williams Russell, commission on magazines	1.00
Lebanon, Spring Church	1.00

Clothing and Other Gifts

The Daily Vacation Bible School, State St., 30 tea towels, nine napkins, one slip one apron, one bundle of dress goods with 21 assortments and about 50 yards of white goods. Mrs. W. F. Grabbs, King, N. C., about 50 bushels apples. The Women of Grayson, La., one box of clothing. Mr. C. H. Kirkman, Tabernacle, one additional bag of flour.

We are so thankful for all this help. The dear Lord bless all who have given.

Donations of Produce

We have encouraging word coming to us about the produce to be gathered soon for our benefit. Please include all the grain products possible, and, also all the Irish potattoes possible. We came very near making a failure in Irish potatoe s this year.

Clothing for the Children

We are so thankful for the help that is being given by the good women of the Conference in getting up the fall clothing for our girls. Have you girls' coats which can not longer be used by your children? Brush them up, pack them in and send them along. Thank you.

And what about our boys? Very little worn clothing came in for boys. All of our boys need clothing. Please help us with both old clothing for boys and money with which to buy new clothing. And also shoes for both boys and girls.

September 13

September 13 will soon be here. We are hoping to see you that day with your picnic basket. If produce or bundles of any kind are brought that day be sure that they are marked plainly so that proper credit may be given.

See program in another place.

A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

◆

—Rev. and Mrs. H. F. Surratt of Thomasville are enjoying a two weeks' vacation, stopping over in Greensboro with relatives Saturday and Sunday.

CHURCH ECONOMY NEEDED

Because churches aro not operated for profit they are not drastically affected by economic laws which, though cruel and unyielding, are nevertheless productive of results. If they were affected by these laws they would have to show a certain amount of economic stability in order to justify their existence. Instead, however, there are thousands of churches in the country which have little reason for remaining open. Only in cases where they have become so impoverished that there is no other alternative are they closed.

A few years ago, before the advent of the automobile and good roads, a certain number of financially unsound churches were necessary. But now that the barrrier effected by impassable roads and long distances has been removed by good roads and the speed of the auto the poorer churches are facing abandonment.

Church leaders recognize this situation as constituting a major problem and are beginning to treat it as such in some quarters. Surveys as to the condition, and as to the results growing out of the condition, are being taken and studied. The National Conference of Community Church Workers sees as the only solution of the problem the closing of 30,000 churches. That, of course, is the cure, but in this case the cure is what constitutes the problem. It is easy to say that 30,000 churches should be closed, but when it comes to actually closing them it is quite a different proposition.

Getting down to cold dollars and cents, a church cannot support a pastor unless it has a large enough membership. Of all the white Protestant churches in the country only 13 per cent have this required number of members. Out of a total of 240,000 churches, 85,000 are unable to support a full-time trained pastors. The result is that although there are two or three thousand more churches in the country than there are ministers, about 50,000 are still unemployed.

Investigations show that more and more, untrained pastors are being brought into the field. According to the last available statistics less than a fourth of the churches in the country are employing full-time pastors with seminary training and less than a sixth engage the full-time services of pastors with both college and seminary training. When churches cannot afford to support trained men, for whom there is a demand among the better churches of the country, they are going to take those whose demands are more in keeping with the conditions of their treasuries and so the standards of rural and smalltown churches are being constantly lowered. It is an incontestable fact that the trained theologian produces better results than the man who has neither college nor seminary training and as long as the newly-ordained graduate ministers are taken by the more financially sound churches and other institutions the smaller ones will be unable to get them.

A good idea of the salaries drawn by the majority of the ministers in the country is gained from the estimate that the average salary paid to the profession is less than the wage of a semi-skilled laborer. The training received by the graduate minister prepares him for other vocations such as teaching, etc., which net him a decent living to which he feels he has a right after devoting some 20 years of his life in preparing himself for the ministry. This definitely puts the better pastors beyond the reach of the smaller churches.

The recommendation of the National Conference of Community Church Workers to abolish 30,000 financially unsound churches would effect the consolidation of their congregations and replace several poor churches with one good one which wuld be financially able to provide for itself. With national church membership increasing at the present time at the rate of over half a million a year it should fall as a duty upon church leaders to improve conditions in every way possible, which includes providing well-trained ministers.—Pathfinder.

◆

AGE OF THE EARTH

Three billion is a mighty big number—so big in fact that unless we could see that many units of something together in one pile it would be impossible for most of us to form an idea of its size. When used to designate a number of years it creates a period of time entirely beyond the conception of the human mind. However, that is the number of years that this old earth of ours has been in existence. Knowing this it is easy to understand why archeologists speak of 25 or 30 thousand years as a short period of time.

Arriving at this number was not a simple task. To begin with several different methods were used but the conclusions varied from 100,000,000 years to five billion. The uranium series of radio-active elements finally offered itself as a key to the solution. Scientists set to work to determine the number of years it would take uranium to pass through all the different stages finally arriving at the inactive lead and the basis for their conclusion was formed. Not only has science determined the age of the earth but also that of the universe, or at least part of it. Meteorites have been examined and found to be the same age as the rocks of the earth.—Pathfinder.

◆

U. S. ARID IN 5,000 YEARS

A prediction by W. J. Humphreys, of the Weather Bureau, that in a comparatively short time the United States will be an arid desert loses its alarming quality when it is learned that he is speaking of time as a geologist and that this period of intense drought is still 5.000 years away. This arid period, says the meteorologist, lies in the earth's natural weather cycle but at this particular time it is being hastened a great deal by man's drainage of water from the soil. Draining of marshes, plowing under sod and cutting the forests has lowered the water tables considerably.

Humphreys determines the time of arrival of the drought by the rate of recession of ice at the poles. At the end of 5,000 years the ice will be practically gone. If the cycle continues on past the drought North America will again be covered by sheets of ice but Mr. Humphreys made no predictions as to this occurrence.—Pathfinder.

◆

TO SHOOT ROCKET TO MOON

Sometime soon a two-pound rocket will be started on a journey to the moon from a point in the stratosphere 11 miles above the earth. The senders, two Belgians, think it will reach its destination in 10 hours.

LIBERTY ON THE DEFENSIVE

Everywhere liberty is on the defensive. In Europe with the nations under dictatorships, the people are more and more being deprived of their liberties. In America millions are apprehensive of the bureaucracies that are more and more taking charge of the private affairs of the individual. What a change in less than two decades at which time Woodrow Wilson set about making the world safe for democracy! We spent billions in treasure and put millions of soldier boys in camp and trench to make safe democracy and make an end of war.

Behold the end! Democracy is now under par, liberty is on the defensive, and billions are being spent in an effort to save us from the consequences of the past 20 years. Debts, an increase of armaments, and a new bondage are the appalling movements of these last days. A reliance on selfish nationalism and the security it promises is the safety sought by the many national saviours who would supplant the Saviour of the world with His doctrine of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. This old deal is the primal need for the whole world around—and it is the only underlying security of the present new deal. If He shall make us free we are free indeed.

We must insist over and over again that the church and the messengers of God are to be the real leaders into the new day and the larger liberty for which we long. Too much the people rely on some mass movement for social redemption and expect the political proclamations to save the day. Redemtion comes not after this fashion.—N. C. Christian Advocate.

◆

LOSING THE SOUL—WINNING THE WORLD

The old preachers put the saving of the soul above the winning of the world. They had the passionate belief in the dignity and nobility of the human soul. The sanctity and value of a man's inner life was to be put above all the outward—above the world. Though a man wins the world and loses his soul he is a pauper. God has written His law in the heart of man and it has been the business of saint and prophet to keep this inviolate.

We have been so busy in winning the world that our souls are in peril. The ultimate aim of the best of us is success, fame, power, wealth, or else. Little by little honesty, integrity, charity and unselfishness are surrendered that we may reach the cherished goal. Gradually the soul is lost. With many, the conviction that nothing profits unless the character remains unblemished and the inner life inviolate has perished. We have failed to cherish regardless of consequences the sanctities of the inner life. The peril with us is within rather than without. Jesus teaches that the sword in a man's own hand is the one that destroys him. The act of taking a sword betrays an inner attitude that is itself a breakdown of the personality. The deadly peril of today is the lost soul—lost little by little.

Instead of keeping inviolate the soul we are busy about world profits. This widely heralded and so loudly proclaimed making of a new world deals primarily with the mass—with a making over of the external order—of having a new deal in factory and field, on sea and land, among the nations of the world. In the thousands of proclamations of the press and on the air, by day and by night, no passionate appeals, dominant with moral conviction, come from those in high places affirming that nothing profits a man unless, at all costs, he holds fast to the dignity and nobility of his own soul. At the last, it is a question of the honor of a noble soul and the dishonor of a contemptible one.

Too often the church fails right here. The things of the world enlist the efforts of pulpit and pew. A prominent minister who has been stressing the social gospel for twenty-five years and has organized his church to put this in practice is now convinced that he has failed to make God real to the souls of his people. In the dark, awful hours of the soul some of his people seek comfort elsewhere. Just now preachers are in grave peril of putting to the front equality of salary and the demands of present day socialism as the gospel of first concern. "What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" The external can be no substitute for the internal. No sacrifice of liberty or evasion of personal responsibility can be allowed.—N. C. Christian Advocate.

◆

IMMORAL MOVIES

The Catholics' campaign against immoral movies in Chicago is planned as follows, says Llewellyn Jones in the Christian Century: "Each archbishop is planning his campaign independently. Thus Archbishop Glennon of St. Louis has declared a block boycott against all movies in his territory. Cardinal Mundelein, on the other hand, is issuing lists of good, bad-in-spots and 'utterly unfit' movies. But the list is only part of Cardinal Mundelein's campaign. The members of the Holy Name Society were gathered to receive instructions for its main offensive. They were told that on the following Sunday every parish priest in the arch-diocese would preach on the movie situation. They, as parish bodies, were all to attend 8 o'clock mass. After the mass they would be given pledge cards of the Legion of Decency. Each of the 100,000 members of the society was to sign a card for himself and was then to distribute other cards and obtain the signaatures of his friends. For the benefit of those members who could not attend the masses, the 'prefect" of each unit of the society was to go from house to house and obtain the signatures of the members."

◆

EVER SEE A GHOST WALKING?

The scene was New York. A cop came upon a lounger and inquired of his business. "I'm Nathan Hale," said the man. The officer blinked at this information but still not entirely satisfied asked what he was doing there. Calmly the man told him, "Waiting for Alexander Hamilton." At that point the minion of the law wondered if he was seeing a ghost walking until he found out it was not a miraculous resurrection at all, but a very much alive Mr. Hale who was a candidate for assemblyman at the last election. and who was waiting for Mr. Hamilton, deputy market commissioner.—Pathfinder.

JESUS AND LIFE BEYOND THE GRAVE

Jesus had indeed little to say about the life beyond the grave, but he did this: He made men sure that in the dark hour which we call death all would be well. "If it were not so," he said, "I would have told you;" and they believed Him and quieted their hearts with His word. To us the thought of death is something to put aside, or to conceal in fine words. "Having death for my friend," says an unknown Greek poet, "I tremble not at shadows." But that is not the language of the New Testament. To the early Christians death was an enemy—"the last enemy"—but an enemy whom their Friend had conquered. Look at our word "cemetery;" it means, literally, a dormitory, a sleeping-chamber; in its Greek form it was the word chosen by the early Christians for the place of burial. "Them that are fallen asleep in Jesus"—this was the faith they had received—"will God bring with him." The words may, perhaps, be rendered, "them that have been put to sleep by Jesus," as a kindly nurse puts her charge to rest at the long day's end. So did Jesus take the fear out of men's eyes as they stood in the presence of the foe which made the hearts of the stoutest to quail and their cheeks to blanch.

And is this only history—something which Jesus did once and long ago? One of the most moving pages in modern missionary biography shall be our answer. J. G. Paton, of the New Hebrides, has told how wife and child were taken from him in one day, and how in a grave dug by his own hands he buried them near the end of his house:

"I built the grave round with coral blocks, and covered the top with beautiful white coral, broken small as gravel, and that spot became my sacred and much-frequented shrine. . . . But for Jesus and the fellowship He vouchsafed me there, I must have gone mad and died beside that lonely grave."—George Jackson, in The Methodist Recorder (London).

◆

HIS ENGLISH UNTRUSTWORTHY, BUT WHAT AN EFFTCTIVE PREACHER!

Dr. Rufus M. Jones: My old teacher at Harvard told us one day how an oysterman in Boston got converted at a meeting and called the oystermen together and took for his text: "Thou knowest I am an oysterman." He said : "Isn't it wonderful that Christ revealed himself as an oysterman? He found us in the mud. He cracked our hard shells open and found what we were meant for."

After the meeting, one of the men who was not quite so moved told him that the text really was: "Thou knowest I am an austere man."

"I don't care what it is," was the reply; "I got eight converts from it."—Boston Transcript.

◆

NOT NO MORE NOHOW

There was a man in our town who thought by driving fast
He'd get his car across the track before the train came past.
He'd miss the engine by an inch, and make the trainmen sore.
There was a man who did that way; there isn't any more.

—Pathfinder.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Grace Church.—On his last birthday, June 29, the pastor of Grace church committed an act which has laid him liable to a certain type of ecclesiastical treatment hitherto unknown to him. For almost two months he had seemingly received no notice of his vulnerable spot.

Prayer meeting was super-attended on Wednesday evening, but even then the pastor supected no evil intentions. His thought was that possibly the long endured summer slump had ended and folks had turned back to tht church for some real work during the fall montrs.

After prayer meeting, going with his wife whom he had acquired on his birthday thus laying himself liable to the treatment of a husband, the preacher went to his study in the church for a few minutes then passed on over to the parsonage.

The entire group from prayer meeting and a few late-comers had gathered on the porch of the parsonage to await the return home of the reacher and his wife. In the arms of the guests were bundles containing all kinds of good things to eat.

Due to modesty I shall not say anything of what may happen to the wife if she tries to consume half of all those good things; but if the preacher eats his half of that food between now and Conference in November, I am afraid he will be the "biggest preacher in the Conference"—yes, even bigger than his good friend Whitehead. (With apology to Mr. Whitehead.)

Regardless of how large I get even if it is as large as "Wimpy" in the comic section, I greatly appreciate the pounding administered to my wife and me on last Wednesday evening.

J. ELWOOD CARROLL.

Stallings, Mecklenburg Charge.—My report is a little bit late as I have been attending the meeting at various churches. Our meeting at Stallings church began the first Sunday of this month. Brother Joe Trollinger of Brown Summit was the pulpit help. He brought us helpful messages each time he reached. We had the best meeting at Stallings that we have had in a long time. I feel that each member was greatly revived. I feel that we are living closer to God and striving to do more work for the Master. We all learned to love Brother Trollinger and we hope he can come again sometime. There were eight who joined the church at the close of the meeting.

Brother Henderson preached a soul-stirring sermon last night. It was a wonderfully god message. At the close of the servie he opened the doors of the church and nine more joined making a total of 17. All who joined were received in the church last night.

We have the largest Sunday school we have had for sometime and there is more interest being taken. Our Christian Endeavor society is doing splendid work. The young people are taking great interest in their society.

Our Ladies' Aid society met with Mrs. H. B. Furr the first Thursday of this month. We are studying the book of St. Maatthew. Each member read several verse of the 12th chaper as our devotional. We had the roll call and paid our dues. After the regular business Mrs. Furr seved delicious efreshments. We adjouned with prayer. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. M. L. Stallings. We ask the prayers of all Christian readers.

MRS. M. L. STALLINGS.

Union Grove Church, Mocksville Charge.—We were pleased to have with us last Sunday night, Dr. Andrews to fill the pastor's appointment. Dr. Andrews took his text from the sixth chapter of Galatians. The sermon was surely enjoyed by everyone.

Last Saturday afternoon we had a Sunday school picnic. Rev. Matney , pastor of one of our neighboring churches, had charge of the devotionals (which included short talks). Following the devotional we had special music, then the address was given by Professor Gentry, Superintendent of our county schools. After the address refreshments were served to all the Sunday school, including ice cream, lemonade and watermelon.

A weep ago last Saturday our Sunday school visited the Children's Home at High Point. All of our Sunday school was unable to go, I'm sure they missed a treat.

Everybody help us pray for our revival that starts the fourth Sunday in September.

FLORA MAE WOOTEN, Reporter.

Littleton.—It has been some time since we had a report in the Herald, but we are on the go all of the time.

We held our revvivaal at Vaughn, the first week in August and had a goodly attendance each service and feel that our church there has been greatly revived. We held our revival at Hawkins Chapel the second Sunday in August and the Lord blessed our efforts. We had the house full almost every service and had a total of 13 professions and four additions. Our revival at Weaver's Chapel was held this week with Brother C. G. Isley as our pulpit help. Brother Isely sure did preach with power and I don't believe I ever heard any better reaching and as a result we had 74 professions and nine additions. We feel our church has been greatly strengthened.

We are encouraged with the work here and believe it will be a good year with us. However, we are behind on all our claims but we believe that we will get much more this fall before Annual Conference.

Next week we will be at Chase City in our meeting there and we are hoping and trusting that we may have a good meeting and many will be saved. Please pray for us that we may be used of the Lord.

R. L. VICKERY.

First Church, Winston-Salem.—Neither the pastor nor the reporter have written much to the Herald lately for a very good reason—there hasn't been much to write about. Our services have been held from Sunday to Sunday, our organizations have met from time to time. But none of that is news.

Having been here during the summer, it would appear that the churches of Winston, taking them generally, pretty nearly "fall asleep" during three months of the year. Family reunions, birthday dinners, vacations, etc., take a great many away from the services. I am not condemning those who are thus engaged. I am merely stating the fact that church work here is very difficult to carry on during the summer months. I am hoping we shall set a renewed interest with the coming of fall and that we shall be able to bring the work of the year to a successful close.

As a possible means to that end we are beginning our revival with the second Sunday in September. The pastor will begin tomorrow—this is written on Saturday—a series of sermons especially to the members of the church leading up to the time when Dr. Bethea will come to take charge of the services, that is, on the Wednesday after the second Sunday. He will be with us for ten days following that date. We ask that our friends everywhere remember the preachers and the people in their prayers.

C. W. BATES, Pastor.

Palestine, Flat Rock Circuit.—Pastor Way filled his regular appointment Sunday. I am sure that each one present enjojyed the good sermon Brother Way gave us, and no one enjoyed it better than the reporter. Pastor Way puts his best into each and every sermon he preaches. If each member of our church would stand as faithful to their pastor and church as their pastor does to his church and people, there would be very little time, if any, left to idle and gossip. Our churches would be filled with Christians in deed and rot just in name. Trying to build up the Kingdom of our Lord and Savior as best they can. Co-operating with their pastor in each and everything that is for the upbuilding of our churches and the saving of the lost in our community.

Our Sunday school continues but the attendance is not large. The interest is fine and the superintendent, teachers and pupils enjoy the Sunday school.

Mrs. D. A. Walker, who has been ill for several months, does not get any better. Her condition is getting serious. Pray for her.

Mr. and Ms. Bevely Shelton, two of our members, are the owners recently of a fine boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Tucker are the proud parents of Chas. A. Tucker, Jr.

Our people were glad to have several visitors Sunday: Mrs. Way, mother of our pastor, Miss Inez Way, sister of our paastor and a niece, all from Burlington. We invite them to come again. Best wishes to the Herald.

GRACE R. TUCKER.

Bethesda, State Street.—Our revival began the second Sunday in August with Sunday school at 9:30 o'clock with 215 present. At eleven o'clock our pastor preached using as his subject "Prayer." The afternoon was taken up with Home-Coming speeches, the main speaker being Mr. Sam Leonard, one of our boys who is now engaged in work at Rocky Mount, N. C. Other speakers were: Grady Leonard, Robrey Wagner and Rev. George Curry. They are all our boys and some of which we are duly proud.

On Monday Rev. Surratt came from Thomasville and preached till Friday night when the meeting closed. Monday evening Brother Surratt's subject was "Prayer"; Monday night "The Church"; Tuesday, "The Importance of a Christian Home"; Tuesday night, "Learning a New Lesson of Life"; Wednesday, "The Life Transformed"; Wednesday night, "Steadfastly Setting Thy Face"; Thursday, "Power";

Thursday night, "I Was Lost; But Now I Am Found," and Friday night, "He Cannot Be Hid." There were several who professed Christ and their Savior. We hope many good seed were sown which will bear much fruit.

We all learned to love Brother Surratt and we pray God's richest blessings upon him. May he ever be a bright and shining light in the Master's work.

The fourth Sunday our pastor was present and had the privilege of something he never had before and that was baptizing some converts in water from the River Jordan, the same river in which Christ was baptized. Those being baptized were Grady, Clyde and Doris Brinkley, Lila May and Irene Laatham, Montyelle Tesh, J. W. Lanier, A. L. Essick and Henry Clay Sowers. Mrs. Harvey Latham was received from the Baptist church after which the pastor gave us an interesting talk his subject being, "Saving Up the Results of aa Revival Meeting." He showed us very plainly how there was a straight line and that we could not be Christians and live on both sides of that line.

The second Sunday in September at the regular preaching hour Miss Elizabeth Yorkley, one of our girls who has spent the greater part of the summer touring the old countries will give us a lecture that promises to be very interesting.

MRS. D. D. BRINKLEY.

Haw River.—Rev. J. P. Pegg filled his regular appointment here today, August 25. He used for his text Mark, 21st verse and 10the chapter. A very good number was out for the morning woship.

Revival services start here on Wednesday night befoe the fourth Sunday.

A choir was organized on Wednesday night, August 22, under the capable directorship of Mr. Wayne Curtis.

The Ladies' Auxiliary is planning to put new lights in the church.

Born to Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Pegg, a son, Javez Gilbert Pegg, II, on August 19.

MR. T. S. COBLE.

First Church, Lexington.—Sunday was membership day at First Church. At the 11 o'clock service tre pastor, Rev. C. G. Isley, spoke to approximately 150 members and several visitors on the subject, "An Every Member Church." The Sunday school also showed an increase in attendance.

Again at 7:45 Rev. Isley spoke to a large congregation from the eleventh chapter of Revelations, 15th verse, "The Kingdoms of this world are become the Kingdoms of our Lord and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever."

The third quarterly conference was held August 14 at First Church with a good attendance. All reports were good and indicate a good year. Mrs. I. D. Westmoreland was elected delegate to the Annual Conference.

One of our faithful members passed away since our last report. Miss Maggie Ella Lanning, daughter of the late David and Eva Lanning, was born December 6, 1879 and departed this life August 15, 1934, at the age of 54 years, eight months and nine days. In early girlhood she united with Shiloh Methodist Protestant church of which she remained a member until about tree years ago when she transferred her membership to First Church. She loved the church and was present at its services as long as her health permitted. She remarked to her pastor a short while before her death that she could not hear a word he said nor a word her Sunday school teacher said but she felt it was her duty to attend. She leaves to mourn their loss three brothers, Thomas, Charles and Fred Lannings and two sisters, Mrs. J. M. and Mrs. A. W. Beck. A brother and sister preceded her in death.

Funeral services wtre conducetd Friday morning at 10:30 from First Methodist Protestant church by her pastor, Rev. Isley and interement was in the Baptist cemetery at Reed's.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to Mrs. Herbert McCulloch in the death of her sister, Mrs. Laura Smith, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Foard announce the birth of a daughter, Nancy Jean, August 10. Mrs. Foard was Miss Virginia Clapp before marriage.

Misses Lolaa Mae, Beulah and Frances McCulloch and Margaret Lee Swink attended the McCulloch reunion at McCulloch Grove near Mocksville, N. C., Sunday.

Rev. Isley is engaged in a revival meeting at Littleton, N. C., this week.

MARGARET LEE SWINK, Reporter.

Calvary.—During the pastor's vacation the pulpit was filled acceptably by two of our superannuates. On the second Sunday in August Rev. T. F. McCulloch preached and on the third Sunday Rev. W. F. Ashburn was the preacher. The people speak highly of the sermons of both of these men. Both men are held in high esteem by our eople and they are always glad to hear them. It is a pleasure to have such men worship with us from time to time. May the Lord bless them and lengthen their years so that they may be able to preach a long time yet.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

New Hope.—We had our Sunday schoo l at the regular hours which is 10 o'clock, and preaching services at 11 o'clock. Mr. Hendren brought us a good message. He told us Sunday that his aim was to work harder than ever before to save souls and bring the Gospel God would have him to. We feel and know tht he has power from the Lord for the good work he does so earnestly. He preaches time after time enough to convince any sinner, but it seems that some people have gotten so hard-hearted that they can't be touched any more. But we are thanking the Lord for aa few who are so faithful yet.

The Bible speaks that narrow is the path that leadeth to life everlasting; and broad is is the way that leads to destruction. There will be few that enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. Many are called but few are chosen. Let us think today if we are on the right road in that narrow path. If we stay in it we will surely have to watch every sign that God has for us to go by. We have a laybill from earth to glory; if we will fix our hearts and minds and set our eyts upon the trail. We must keep this temple of ours holy, and keep ourselves unspotted from the world. No wonder God spoke of this; for if our hearts are filled with wordly things we have no room for God and His love.

The Ladies' Aid will meet Wednesday evening at 3 o'clock. We read several Bible chapters, sing and pray, and testify for God each time we meet we trust that He will be with us. Last month we had an ice cream supper and raised $10.00. Along with our pews we bought a new table and two chairs for our pulpit and we are real proud of them. By the help of the Lord we are going to do more. Our church needs so much that we can't aid the parsonage as we would like to. We have just given one quilt. Winter will soon be here again and we will have to get busy. If each church would give one quilt apiece there would be more than Mr. and Mrs. Henderson could make use of at the parsonage. Then we could slip one to the Children's Home; I know it would be appreciated.

FAYE AYCOTH, Reporter.

Whitaker's Church.—Since my last report our Sunday school has had an attendance contest which did some good I hope. At the end of the contest we had a nice little outing which was enjoyed by all, and especially by the younger folks as there was the privilege of bathing in the pool which was near the park where the little picnic supper was served.

Our auxiliary has had two dinners which heled out our finances for the carpeting and painting we are having done. I am glad to report that our sick ones are able to be in their places at church again.

Our third quartely conference was held at Whitaker's Chapel the night of the 20t. We had a splendid attendance and good eports. The pastor's report was very good and showed he had been faithful to his work. An encouraging feature was the presence of some young people. Oh! if we could only get more members interested in the work.

A committee is working up the Children's Home project which Mr. Anderws has set agoing. I do hope the churches will do all they can to put it across. Do hope our dear president of the Missionary Work will soon be restored to her normal health and strength. Best wishes to the Herald, its workers and its readers.

REPORTER.

Asheville.—My anticipation of hearing a really good sermon was realized this Sunday. Rev. E. Lester Ballard preached a splendid sermon from the text: "Forgetting those things, which are behind, I press toward the mark," taken from Paul's wondeful letter to the Philippians. This serrmon was particularly applicable to our membership, inasmuch as we have had a number of real problems within our church during this past year, and we need to "forget those things which are behind, and press toward the mark"; not alone the mark of "the prize of the high calling God in Christ Jesus," which of course should be the first desire of every true Christian; but also the mark of being an honor church when our Conference year ends. It can be done, fellow members, if each one will put his or her shoulder to the wheel and push. We thank you heartily, Mr. Ballard, for your timely and inspiring message. It has been a reral pleasure to have you, Mrs. Ballard, and Miss Apple with us, and you may feel assured of a welcome whenever and as often as you have opportunity to visit us.

All our members are urged, by Miss Nancy Clouse, to co-operate with other churches in the North Carolina Conference to help the Children's Home to raise its indebtedness. Next Sunday is the day set to collect from each member a penny for each year he or she has lived, and we hope to have a complete report, also we hope to qualify for one of the pictures of the Home. This picture would be particularly interesting to us here, since many of us have not had the opporrtunity to visit the Home.

Our Sunday school attendance picked up some last week. The Frances Cunningham Philathea Class continues to lead the entire school in collection. Mrs. Bolick's Beginners still leads in attendance; Mrs. William's boys in collection in Children's Department. Junior girls, how about you beating those boys some Sunday in the near future? Miss Clouse informed me I was wrong last week, that the Intermediates instead of the Beginners had the largest number present last Sunday. I am sorry, Intermediates, but I had to depend on what I was told last week, and I was misinformed. I'll try not to let it happen again.

We were favored on Sunday by having with us Miss Ethel Wilson, sister of our Dr. Wilson, who played a number of selections on her accordion, both during the Sunday school hour and the church hour. The selections were well rendered and thoroughly enjoyed by all present. Thank you, Miss Wilson.

Junior Eller, who has been visting his aunt in Cary, N. C., is home again, and we are glad. We've missed you, Junior.

Mr. Boling continues to improve, slowly, but we certainly trust surely. We will be so glad when he is able to worship with us again. M. L. B.

Piney Grove, Siler City Charge.—Sunday morning our pastor brought to us a helpful sermon, using as his subject "Drifting." Mr. Isley is so earnest, conscientious and prayerful that his messages are very inspiring indeed.

Since our last report we have held our annual picnic. There was a large crowd prresent and every one seemed to enjojy it very much. After doing justice to the bountiful dinner, we went in the church and sang some songs, then our pastor read a portion of God's Word, and several of those present made brief talks.

We have recently purchased 12 new song books for use in the Sunday school and church serviess.

FANNIE LOUISE POE, Reporrter.

Shiloh, Shiloh Cicuit. — Another revival meeting has come and gone at Shilor, with quite a number of souls saved, but with some also putting it off for a more convenient time, which may possibly never come. The attendance was large for each service, and we rejoice to believe the church was revived. The pastor, Rev. C. E. Ridge, did all the preaching just the plain, old-fashioned Gospel of Christ, which is the power of God unto Salvation to all who believe. There were 18 additions to the church, the new members being received on August 19 at the morning service.

On the third Sunday, as has been the custom for many, many years, the meeting began at the 11 o'clock hour with a large crowd present. Shiloh was so glad to have in our midst that day Mrsr. Columbus Ridge, the mother of our pastor. We also welcomed the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Van Wood and Mr. Frank from Handy. Then there was one of our own boys, Fred Berrier, of Richmond; another one of our boys, Mr. Clate Koonts of Thomasville, made us glad by his presence.

Everyone enjoyed the singing of Mr. Ceph Hepler's quartette on Sunday afternoon and again on Saturrday night.

The Sunday school collection on Sunday morning, which is Shiloh's birthday offering for the Children's Home, came to $73.29. Shiloh's other organizations will add more to this offering. A fuller report follows next week. REPORTER.

Bethel, Randolph Circuit. — Our special meeting began the third Sunday in August and lasted until Friday evening of that week. Our pastor, Brother Suits, had held our meetings for three year and each year had done able peaching and had the co-operation of our people and successful meetings, but this year he secured the help of Brother B. M. Williams. We enjojyed having him with us and listened with a lot of interest to his strong sermons. Although he was a "new man" among our people, we were glad to have the privilege of knowing him and having him in our homes and pulpit. We wish for him continued success in the Master's work. We felt that probably our meeting had to close too soon, but we are thankful for the good that was accomplished. The church was strengthened and there were about 15 reclamations and conversions. Two people united with our church by letter and we hope others will join later.

Our Sunday school has been having a large attendance this year. We had a very successful Children's Daay. The program and offering were both good.

Mrs. C. A. Audrews, the Children's Home secretary of our church, is working on the birthday offerings for the Home. We hope she will be very successful.

Brother C. A. Andrews is our delegate to Annual Conference. REPORTER.

Lebanon Church, High Point.—Our pastor, Dr. S. W. Taylor, preached a good serrmon last Sunday morning on "Power," the Scriptural text being found in Acts 1-8.

Dr. Taylor leaves today (Monday) for Chicago, where he, as one of the fifteen Commisioners of the Methodist Protestant church, will attend a meeting of Commissioners of the M. P. church, the M. E. church, and the M. E. church, South, on Tuesday and Wednesday. This is a very imporrtant meeting. If the unions of the three churches is consummated, seven million Metahodists will be brought together in one organized body.

All Methodist churches in England were united two years ago.

Cottage prayer meetings are being held this week as follows: Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Briggs; Wednesday evening in the church; Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Simpson, and Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Hill.

Next Sunday is the time set apart for our special meeting. Rev. Clay Madison has been engaged as pulpit help. He will preach next Sunday at both the morning and evening services. The public is most cordially invited to attend these services.

Doris King, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. King, is recovering nicely from an operation for appendicitis in the Burrus Memorial hospital.

Mrs. W. L. Guyer spent the week-end in Gibsouville with her daughter, Mrs. F. G. Hammer.

Miss Maxine Hammer, of Washington City, is visting relatives here this week.

Vacations are about over now and the younger folks are eagerly making preparations for school. Registration begins in the city school this Wednesday.

Gideon's Grove, Flat Rock Charge. — The Mission Band of our church served an ice cream supper at the parsonage last Saturday night. The attendance was reduced on account of the heavy rainfall late in the afternoon. The proceeds amounted to $9.15. We now have $16.85 in the treasury. Music was furnished by a string band composed of Messrs. A. L. Lemmons, Paul Williams and Dillard Williams. The music was thoroughly enjoyed by every one.

The Mission Band enjojyed its picnic on Saturday, August 18, at the home of S. R. Lemmons. The picnic supper was spread on a long table near the spring and thoroughly enjoyed by thirty-four of the members of the band and six of the parents.

ORELIA FRIDDLE, President.

Flat Rock Charge.—The annual reunion of the Pegram families of Guilford, Rockingham and Forsyth counties and frriends will be held at Gideon's Grove church next Sunday, September 2, beginning at 10:30 a. m. W. A. Pegrau, of Winston-Salem, is president, and R. W. Pegram, of Stokesdale, and a member of Gideon's Grove church, is vice-president. The program to be followed provides for a number of short talks during the morning session. Dinner will be served at 12:30, and special musical selection will be rendered during the afternoon gatherring.

The appointments at Bethel and Gideon's Grove churches for next Sunday have been concelled on account of the Pegram reunion to be held at Gideon's Grove during the day.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Calvary, Greensboro.—Our pastor was back in the pulppit last Sunday morning, after a two weeks' vacation, with another of his very fine sermons. During his absence we had the geat pivilege of listening to two fine sermons by two of our superannuates, Rev. T. F. McCulloch, who preached a wonderful sermon to us on the second Sunday morning, and Rev. W. F. Ashborrn, who preached another equally as good on the third Sunday morning.

During the month of August there has been no Sunday evening service at our church, but beginning with next Sunday eveing the eveing services will be resumed.

Our Woman's Auixialry held its meeting at the hut Monday evening with the Business Women's Circle in charge of the program. Much business was transacted during the meeting which proved to be one of the most interesting held this year.

Our Missionary Circles will meet next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock as follows: No. 1 with Mrs. J. F. Williams; No. 2 with Mrs. Howard R. Neese and No. 3 with Mrs. Ernest Kirkman on the Tabernacle road.

There will be a picnic supper, sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary and members of the Sunday school, on the church lawn Friday evening, August 31 at 6 o'clock. All church and Sunday school members are invited to attend. The children are asked to meet on the lawn an hour earlier where they will find some one to direct games.

Our pastor has announced that an opportunity will be given for the baptism of infants next Sunday at the 11 o'clock service.

Dr. Pritchard spoke at the Home Coming celebration at Moriah church last Sunday afternoon.

MRS. HOWARD R. NEESE, Reporter.

Bethesda.—Our Sunday school is doing fine. We hope it will continue to grow. Mr. William Jenkins, of Rockingham, brought us an able message on August 26. This being the fourth Sunday the pastor, Rev. James H. Trollinger, of Rockkingham, was not able to fill his appointment as he was at Melton's Grove in a series of meetings. We hope these services will add to the glory of God and the saving of souls.

J. R. BOAN, Reporter.

Liberty.—"Why stand ye here all the day idle." Matthew 20:6 was the text Sunday morning of Rev. Fred R. Love's discourse This was an earnest Gospel message. Mr. R S. Miller and Mrs. Floyd Deaton rendered a duet: "Sweeter As the Years Go By."

The text for the evening message was found in Galatians 14:6. This like all of Mr. Love's sermons was filled with devotion and inspiration.

Paul Shepard Hardin was leader of the Christian Endeavor society Sunday evening, using as his subject: "How God Shows His Love."

We are glad to note that our church has been newly painted inside. It is beautiful. We also have new chairs for the choir. We would not forget that Mrs. Mamie Smith has been untiring in her efforts in supervising this church.

A number of our girls are going to attend High Point College this coming semester. They are Misses Mary Bowman Shepard, Marjorie Elkins and Helen Dameron.

Let us not forget to attend prayer meeting each Wednesday evening. It is worthwhile.

Our pastor is away this week helping in a revival near Charlotte, N. C.

Dr. Flavius Amick of Marion, Ind., and Miss Joy Amick of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, are spendings their vacation with their sister, Mrs. F. A. Shepard.

Two of our good members, Mr. and Mrs. A. Brower and two children have jusjt returne from the Century of Progress.

BERTINE SHEPARD, Reporter.

West End, Greensboro.—September is being designated as Church Loyalty and Stewardship month at West End, Greensboro. Rev. Mr. Whitehead made a stirring plea in his sermon Sunday morning for the co-operation and reconsecration of each member toward this end. He also began a reading of the church discipline, which will prove of great benefit to all members, as none can be too familiar with it.

Any member seeing this who has been negligent in church attendance for the past year, come out at least during this month and see just what your church is doing!

*Church attendance will be stressed in the different organizations for each of the five Sundays in September. The first is for Sunday school, second, the Ladies' Auxiliary, third, Family Day, fourth is our Founder's Day celebration, and, fifth, members and friends over 60 years of age will be special guests.

Last Wednesday evening a very enjoyable service was held with Mr. L. M. Foust, director of the Junior Choir, in charge. The choir rendered some very pretty selections during the evening. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Shelton and their two little girls, who sang a number of sacred songs, accompanied on the guitar by Mrs. Shelton.

Circle No. 2 is sponsoring a play to be given by the Guilford Players, Tuesday evening, August 28, at the church. "Bound to Marry" is the title, and it is hoped that it will be largely attended. The proceeds will be applied on our building fund.

It is hoped that the entire church membership may be enrolled for Children's Home Day, September 13. A number of subscriptions were taken Sunday. If you cannot present your contribution (a penny for each year of your age) to her personally, Mrs. M. H. Waynick, 703 Northridge street, will be glad to receive same through the mail for this most worthy of causes.

The Senior Choir was recently reorganized under the able leadership of Mrs. J. R. Holden. The choir hopes to accomplish a great deal during the coming months. A special musical program will be a feeature of our Founder's Day celebration.

The Circles will meet Monday, September 3rd: No. 1 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon with Mrs. R. R. Wright, 2005 Sherwood street, and No. 2 in the evening at 8 o'clock.

A MEMBER.

Thomasville, First Church.—Our revival meeting will begin on September 9th with Rev. D. R. Williams, of High Point, as pulpit help. Your presence, prayers and efforts are expected to make this a success.

Last Sunday we were glad to receive into our church Mrs. Ruby Pearson Leonard, who came to us from Philadelphia Church, on Greensville Charge.

Since our pastor was away last Sunday night, Rev. H. W. Bell preached in his absence. We enjoyed his message very much.

The Senior C. E. Society enjoyed a weiner roast on last Friday evening near Winston-Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Teague gave their annual watermelon feast to the church members and their friends last Tuesday evening. A large crowd was present and each person paid 10 cents each, which was turned over to the Woman's Auxiliary. A neat sum of $11.60 was realized. Special music by the Thomasville string band and quartets by the Jarrett family helped make the evening more enjoyable.

We are working on the Children's Home "Worthy Honor Roll" and we think it is a good plan to raise the indebtedness of the Home.

Rev. and Mrs. T. G. Madison and children, Ruth and T. G., Jr., and Mrs. Ralph Leonard spent a week at Pine Ridge, Ky., and visited the Alvin Drew School ; also, they stopped at the Bethel Home at Weaverville, N. C. They report a nice time and are very much pleased with the splendid work that is being done at both places.

REPORTER.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Butts

Mrs. Lucy Butts departed this life June 22,, 1934, at the age of 82 years. She was married to Gidden Butts in 1862, who preceded her to the grave January 19, 1911. To this union were born six children, three daughters and three sons, which are as follows: Mrs. R. E. Shearin, of Rocky Mount, N. C., Mrs. W. H. Sykes of Enfield, and Mrs. C. M. Smith of Hickory; D. C. and F. E. Butts of Battleboro, and J. B. Butts of Hickory. One sister and one brother survive, Mrs. Lary of Mississippi, and Mr. Lock of Enfield.

Mrs. Butts has been in declining health for some time. Although her health was poor, her spiritual life rejoiced in the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. She was glad to have her pastor call on her, for she enjoyed talking of things pertaining to her church and religious life. She was a faithful Christian wife and mother.

Funeral services were conducted by her pastor from the home of her son, with whom she made her home, June 23, 1934. Her body was laid to rest in the Battleboro cemetery beneath many beautiful floral designs.

YOUNG MINISTERS WHO DIG WELLS

A well-digger begins at the top, while he who builds monuments begins at the bottom. The same is true with the Christian minister who begins at the top and goes down as the years go by. That man is a well-digger. Or he may begin at the bottom and continue to rise, as we say. That man is a builder of monuments.

Some young ministers are eager to begin at the top. By top they mean to have big churches and to receive big salaries and to have their names appear frequently in the town paper. They seem to think that God called them to preach in the city and called some other minister to toil on an obscure county circuit where there are no newspapers and no big salaries. By that standard St. Paul would never have been counted a success. Francis Asbury would have been a nobody. It is better, young man, to begin at the bottom than to start at the top. One erects monuments, the other digs wells.—N. C. Christian Advocate.

LISTENING TO THE GREAT STORY

By Nazimova Griffin (11 years old)

As my playmate and I were on a hill in a crowd of people listening to Jesus preach, He caught my playmate by the hand; she had only one eye. He said, "Come thou with me to my home!" When we came to Jesus' home He placed her in a chair and told her to wait there. When He came back after staying only a few minutes, He said, "Come now, we must go." As we were leaving, guess what happened, her eye began to open; and was she happy? She hugged and hugged and kissed and kissed Jesus, and thanked Him for doing this for her. Jesus did this for my playmate because she was a good girl. So let us be good and if we get sick he will heal us too. My playmate and I went home happily, and so did the others who were healed.

REPEAL BEGINS ITS TRAGIC STORY

No argument about repealing the Eighteenth Amendment, and doing away with the Prohibition Law in many states, can equal the sad and tragic facts as the daily press and statistics are revealing them. The following from the press of July 11 tells its story and needs no comment:

"Washington, July 10.—A 57 per cent increase in traffic accidents in which liquor has played a part, a 42 per cent increase in arrests for driving while drunk, and nearly 50 per cent increase in arrests for intoxication—that's one side of Washington's repeal story as told today instatistics of the police and traffic departments.

The figures are based on a comparison of the first three months of legalized sale and consumption of liquor in the District with the same period of 1933.

The national story differs but little. The Travelers' Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., the first to assemble figures for the six months' period ending July 1, reveals a 20 per cent increase in highway fatalities, a climb of 42 per cent in drunken driving and a 60 per cent rise in the number of pedestrians hit by automobiles."

So much for the facts. The responsibility of this 42 per cent increase in drunkenness and 60 per cent of those kill by drunken drivers must be laid at the doors of somebody.

May the stubborn facts soon teach us and the good, sober sense of the American people soon come to the fore and, in doing so, bring with it a degree of wisdom, prudence and power that were lacking in the years and days of our former experience. Under the open sale of liquor in every village and city, what may we expect but increasing accidents and slaughter on every hand?—Rev. J. O. Atkinson, in The Christian Sun.

◆

WORSHIP

Man cannot live without worship. Along with love, beauty and work, worship is a basic necessity of life. To walk in the midst of the universe with appreciative wonder, to feel the universe not so much as a host to a parasitic plant as a friendly home inherently claiming ones best creative activities, to appreciate living and moving and having being in the life of the fatherly God—to worship thus is one key to life at any time. It is a fundamental approach to saving our own souls and to saving the world in a time of transition and change in the systems of human life. Without worship men cannot make the essential adjustments to changing life, cannot find the rock foundation, cannot envision the worthy goals, cannot sense the satisfaction of man's deepest urges. The sky "will cave in" on those who try to live without worship. The heavens will open with a rare and joyous beauty to those who unlock life with the key of worship.—Clarence Carr, in Advance.

◆

The meanest man on earth is the man who has it in his power to give someone a chance to grow and to succeed, and refuses to give it.—The Kalends.

—When every country has set up tariff barriers there will be no trade.—Sir Ronald Lindsay.

WHAT MATTERS WHEN YOU FACE THE GREAT MATTER

Solomon in his great prayer asked that he might be given an understanding heart to judge his people. There was nothing he needed more. So much unkindness arises out of a lack of understanding.

A. C. Benson, in one of his books, tells of the time he was very near death and the thoughts that coursed through his mind in that hour. "I cared not at all," he says, "about my personal successes; not at all about the little position I had achieved; not at all about having labored steadily and conscientiously—all these things seemed unreal and immaterial. I did not even care to think that I had, however fitfully and feebly, tried to serve the will of God, tried to discern it, tried to follow it. In that hour was revealed to me that I could not have done otherwise. that all my life, success and failure alike, had been but a minute expression of that will and thought. What I did care about was the thought that I had made a few happier, that I had done a few kindnesses, that I had won some love."—Quoted by Stuart Nye Hutchisen.

◆

BOTH ARE GOD AND MAN

He who is the Bread of Life began His ministry hungering. He who is the Water of Life ended His ministry thirsting. Christ hungered as man, and fed the hungry as God. He was weary, and yet He is our rest. He paid tribute and yet He is the King. He was called a devil and cast out devils. He prayed, and yet He hears our prayers. He wept, and He dries our tears. He is sold for thirty pieces of silver and redeems the world. He is led as a lamb to the slaughter, and is the Good Shepherd. He dies, and gives His life, and by dying destroys death.—The Christian.

◆

BUILDERS

We are building every day
In a good or evil way,
And the structure, as it grows,
Will our inmost self disclose.
Do you ask what building this
That can show both pain and bliss,
That can be both dark and fair?
Lo, its name is character!
Build it well, whate'er you do;
Build it straight and strong and true;
Build it clean and high and broad;
Build it for the eyes of God.

—Selected.

◆

IF YOU ONLY KNEW HOW TO

Get religion like a Methodist,
Experience it like a Baptist,
Be sure of it like a Disciple,
Stick to it like a Lutheran,
Be proud of it like an Episcopalian,
Pay for it like a Presbyterian,
Propagate it like a Catholic—
And enjoy it like a Negro,
You would have SOME religion!

—F. W. Burham.

◆

—Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Moore, of Spencer, N. C., attended Home Coming services at Moriah church last Sunday. They are among the most loyal supporters of our church at Spencer.

CHILDREN'S HOME DAY

September 13 will soon be here. What is your church doing about enrolling all its members at a penny per year for the ages? We badly need your help. Two or three offerings for that day have already been received, and a dear good brother who is 78 years old is sending his pennies.

However, it is well to hold your money until it comes in a lump sum from your church—plainly marked.

Every church which enrolls and collects from a number of people equal to its membership will be given a good picture of the Home and its grounds. Do not disappoint us in our expectations.

Program for September 13

The children of the Home will sing several selections at 10:30 a. m.

Mr. J. M. Millikan, chairman of the Board of Trustees, will preside.

Dr. R. M. Andrews will lead in prayer. Speakers are Dr. C. K. Proctor, Supeintendent of the Oxford Orphanage, and Dr. C. W. Bates, pastor of our church in Winston-Salem.

Picnic dinner at about 12:30.

Come and help us enjoy the day.

Yours in His name,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

◆

LAWS THAT HAVE BECOME OBSOLETE

There are many laws that have become obsolete. They may have been passed in all seriousness, but, though still on the statute books, they now only provoke a smile. Among many others are these:

In Connecticut is it unlawful to set out a tub, hoping to "entice swams of bees" from their rightful owners.

A man living in Michigan is guilty of a felony if he "incites an Indian tribe to go on the warpath." He ought to be.

In Kansas it is unlawful to eat, in public, any "snakes, lizards, scorpions, centipedes or tarantulas."

In Pennsylvania it is against the law to use a cannon for the purpose of "serenading" at "any wedding," though one may still use a plow tongue at a "belling" down in the Old North State, if one is not afraid of a shotgun.

An old law on the statute books of Delaware, might save some lives if it were still enforced. There it is unlawful for a pedestrian to walk along a public highway after dark unless one carries a lantern or other light or has "tied upon an arm or other portion of the body, a white cloth."

Besides these laws there were laws prohibiting a husband from kissing his wife on Sunday, one prohibiting the use of bathtubs, and others as ludicrous to us. Laws remain on the statute books for many years after they become obsolete. However, New Jersey recently repealed 1,200 such laws, and Congress accounted for another thousand. Other states might well follow the example set them.—The Christian Sun.

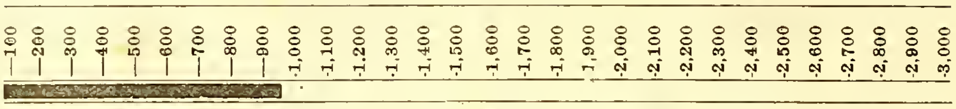
◆

When supper was served, Helen refused a second helping of ice cream with a polite but wistful, "No, thank you!"

"Do have some more, dear," her hostess urged.

"Mother told me to say, 'No, thank you,'" Helen explained naively, "but I don't think she could have known how small the first helping was going to be!"—Legion Weekly.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
Lincolnton	89
Shiloh	73
Albemarle	72

Now, all you folks who say that the goal cannot be reached, as far as the church paper is concerned, just listen to this story. For several months after the last Annual Conference, Albemarle who comes up in my column of honor for the first time this week, scarcely made any showing in the matter of getting subscriptions. Finally the pastor, Brother Anderson, wrote me that he could not get subscriptions on the yearly basis and that he was going to try the club plan and wanted to know something about its workings. Now you see the results. If he had given up the likely would still be without credits and what is worse, without the Herald, but he did not give up and I am depending on Albemarle to reach the goal before the end of the year. And there are some other charges that are constantly climbing and I am expecting to rave over them before long. Two of these charges are Siler City ,which came very near getting in the place of honor this week, and Charlotte. There are several others also that are making progress.

Now for a few words about subsidy. By looking at the back page of the Herald we see that only 29 out of the 86 charges listed there have sent anything on subsidy. There is a star in front of only 21 of the 29 indicating that subsidy is paid in full, though I see that Concord should have the star there. That brings the number to 22. Shall I say it? Yes, I usually rush in where angels fear to tread. I have been told by laymen that in some of the pulpits of our Conference neither subscriptions nor subsidy have been mentioned this year. Suppose an army was fighting a battle and was hard pressed and certain regiments or divisions should fail to go to the rescue of their comrades. We are fighting a battle to put the Herald on its feet and not only to help the Herald but to help the charges by getting information about what the church is doing. Now you folks get into the campaign. Take an offering in your church for subsidy. Go out and get some subscriptions and see if it does not help you.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	11¾	$....
Albemarle	17	12¼	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	26½	*20.00
ASHEVILLE	14	14½	*5.00
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	11.10	....
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	14	....
Burlington, First t	71	17½	*20.00
Bessemer City	13	7.92	....
Charlotte	21	12.2	1.50
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.82	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	13½	*7.50
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5½	....
Davidson	58	2½	....
Democrat	16	2	....
Denton	48	12¼	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	10¼	*5.00
Fallston	85	29	....
Flat Rock	63	16	....
Friendship	21	3.42	....
Forsyth	45	10½	2.50
Gibsonville	20	4	....
Glen Raven	47	7¼	....
GRAHAM	27	33.18	*7.50
Granville	59	18½	16.55
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY	29	37	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	11	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	4¼	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	11.1	*7.50
Greensville	59	8½	....
Guilford	37	11½	....
Halifax	53	9	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	23.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	31	8.00
High Point, Lebanon	34	7½	....
High Point, Welch	22	5	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	23.02	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2¾	....
Lexington, First	45	15½	*10.00
Lexington, State Street	40	11.11	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	18	16.92	....
Littleton	50	7¾	....
Mebane	28	8	....
Mecklenburg	40	2	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	3½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	5	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	21¼	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	28	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7½	....
Randolph	74	13	....
REIDSVILLE	10	10	....
Richland	43	4½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	47½	*20.00
Siler City	20	14¾	*7.50
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	14½	....
Tabernacle	39	21¼	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	3½	2,50
West Forsyth	62	12	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	5½	....
Winston, First	26	10½	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	5	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous	..	6.60	....

Individual churches on circuits raising their quota in full are: SHILOH on Shiloh Charge, EFLAND on Orange Charge.

 Subsidy paid in full,

Methodist Protestant Herald
J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher
Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.
PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.
Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.
Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.
In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.
We cannot often supply back numbers.
We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.
Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro, N. C.

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

L. F. Ferree, First Church, High Point.	$ 4.00
Rev. Q. L. Joyner, Greensville	3.00
Rev. J. E. Pritchard, Calvary	3.00
Rev. J. D. Cranford	2.64
Rev. T. A. Williams, Guilford	2.00
Rev. F. W. Paschal, First Church, B'ton.	2.00
Rev. C. E. Ridge, Shiloh	2.00
Rev. H. F. Fogleman, Fallston	2.00
J. J. Mallard, First Church, Lexington.	1.00
Rev. Edw. Suits, Randolph	1.00
Rev. J. T. Bowman, Denton	1.00

Herald Subsidy Fund

Conference Council Religious Education by Rev. J. Clyde Auman, Treasurer.	$25.00

◆

HAVE WATERMELON SLICING

The Laymen's Fellowship of the Methodist Protestant church enjoyed a watermelon slicing in the city park Monday night, August 20. The occasion was in celebration of the close of a contest which had been conducted by the Fellowship for the purpose of raising money for certaain church expenses, and the losing side entertained the winners. Between 30 and 40 of our men and boys turned out for the occasion.

J. G. ROGERS.

Denton, N. C.

◆

PASTORS, PLEASE NOTICE

You all gave such a fine response to my request for the delegates to Conference last year that I am asking you to do the same thing this year, namely: Drop me a card. On it put the name of your charge, the delegate's name and address, and sign it. That's all. But do it now. Thank you.

Rev. C. W. Bates, Secretary,
906 Carolina Ave.,
Winston-Salem, N. C.

◆

—On account of illness Brother J. Norman Wills was not able to take his place on the program at Moriah church last Sunday afternoon. Dr. J. E. Pritchard substituted for him.

Rev H L Isley 2feb5

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND ALLYE ARE BRETHREN.

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., SEPTEMBER 6, 1934 NUMBER 41

The Voice in the Storm

By C. W. Bates

There are two incidents in the life of Jesus and in the experience o fthe ddisciples which have to do with a storm on the Sea of Galilee. They are very similar. But they have an important difference. In one of them Jesus is present all through the storm. He is asleep on a cushion in the stern of the boat, and all they have to do is to awaken him to hear him say to the raging wind and the tossing waves, "Peace, be still." But in this incident, Jesus is absent. He has fed the multitude; he has sent the disciples across the sea, while he goes up into the mountain to pray. There he is on the mountain side. There they are in the sea. "But the ship was in the midst of the sea, tossed with the waves, for the wind was contrary," says one of the accounts. Another adds a bit to the description, "And it was now dark . . . . and the sea arose by reason of a great wind that blew." There they were "distressed in rowing." There he is on the mountain-side in the calmness of communion. They cannot call on him for help, although they are in desperate need of help. But in the midst of their extremity, "they see Jesus walking on the sea and darwing night unto the ship. And straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; He enters the ship." And immediately the ship was at the land whither they went. The storm is over and all is calm. The darkness is passed. The day dawns.

Back of that cheering message over the storm-tossed sea, are certain lessons that may help us in our voyage of life, when our bark seems driven by the wind and tossed. When the winds are contrary and we are distressed in rowing.

If the disciples' ears had been keen enough, they could have heard Christ's voice in every moment of that voyage. And so might we. And all the voyage, in spite of apparent danger ,might have been taken in perfect peace and confidence, if only they had listened for his voice and heeded his message. "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayc don thee." "But it was dark, and Jesus had not come unto them." They thought they were alone, and being alone, helpless. They did not hear his voice; they did not realize his presence. They start the voyage as the night comes on and darkness falls upon the sea. The wind increases, the waves enlarge, and the night goes on. The second watch comes, and the third. "But in the fourth watch of the night Jesus came unto them, and straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; It is I." Their fears are ended, the danger is passed, the journey is done.

But the message of cheer goes back of that moment. It goes back through the dark and across the sea to the praying figure on the mountain side. They do not know it but Jesus is keeping watch above his own. He is not unmindful of their peril. He is acquainted with all their ways. His eye is on the sparro wthat falls to the ground; how much more upon the distressed disciples on the sea! The solitary crew are not as solitary as they thought. The little dancing speck on the waters which held those fainting, fearful followers of his was in his sight as he communed with God.

So he says to us, "It is I who watch; be of good cheer." Weary, lonely hearts, groping in the darkness, fighting the tempests, need not fear, if they will remember that the darkness hideth not from him. "Thou God seest me." In that congdence, we can go on rowing, even though the winds are contrary and we are sore distressed.

It is difficult for us to reconcile his watching with his waiting. When they began the voyage it was just beginning to grow dark. They had gone but a little way when "it was dark, an dthe sea arose by reason of a great wind that blew." But still no Christ to help them in their need. They are "distressed in rowing," but the Master delays his coming. It is midnight, and still no Christ. "And in the fourth watch of the night, he came to them." The fourth watch is between 3 and 6 in the morning. Is this a heartless Christ who does not care? Is he so intent on his praying, that he will not help them in their distress? Why does he delay when he might relieve their anxiety at the first sign of peril? Jesus had a purpose in that delay. It was good for the disciples that he did delay. It did not hurt them that they were distressed in rowing. It helped test their character. It made them feel keenly their need of him. The winds of adversity sometimes bring us home to God. Out of our distress come the finest traits of character.

"It is I who love; be of good cheer." Jesus loved the despairing disciples in the midst of the storm-tossed sea as much as if he had been in the boat with them. As much in delaying to come as if he had come when the storm first struck. He loves Martha and Mary as he waits up there in Galilee as truly as when he stands by the tomb in Bethany. We need to learn that lesson.

> "I know not where his islands lift
> Their fronded palms in air;
> I only know I cannot drift
> Beyond his love and care."

And presently he comes. They see his form. They hear his voice. "It is I; be of good cheer." He comes to save them out of their distress. "And immediately the ship was at the land whither they went." The contrary winds had blown them off their course. The waves had distressed them in rowing. But the winds and the waves obey his voice. He is the Lord of Creation. He is the Son of Man. He is the Friend of sinners. He is our Elder Brother. The storms of life must give way to the Lord of love.

So it may be with us. He will hear us when we cry, and will save us out of our distresses. If we will only listen, we shall hear his voice. If we will only look, we shall see his form. If we only wait we shall behold his power.

WHY CONTINUE LEARNING AND GROWING?

By Luther K. Long

One of the satisfactions of life is to know a good many people. Closely following this is to have occasional letters from a fair proportion of one's friends.

In a recent letter from a friend were some interesting questions. In the privacy of personal correspondence things are written that one might not care to publish to the world. Still, I think it no harm to consider these questions here in the interest of some who might like to make similar inquiries.

"Why is it," this friend writes, "that we—that is, older people whose course in life is pretty well determined—why is it that we want to learn new facts and investigate new ideas? Why do we not simply try to entertain ourselves? Why do you, for instance, haunt libraries and museums? For myself, this summer I have been reading Charles A. Beard's Rise of Amercian Civilization, and have learned a good deal I did not know before, and have felt a satisfaction in learning. Why should I care particularly to know these things? I shall probably never use this information—if you know what that means—not even, to any great extent, in conversation with my friends."

I think this educated, thoughtful woman very well states the method of procedure of many another educated, thoughtful person. All such are curious to know. They like to find out things. They are interested in nature and history. They want to know about the thoughts and lives and plans of their fellowmen. They do a lot of reading, looking, investigating.

The most satisfactory answer I can give to these questions is, that we do this studying and thinking because it is our nature so to do. We have reached such a high level as human beings, such powers of thought and such love of truth have developed within us, that only by intellectual and moral and spiritual exercises and up-reaching are we able to extract durable satisfactions from living. There is no ulterior motive. The hope of material gain can have no large place. The prospect of honors and fame usually count for but little. Acquiring, knowing, enjoying, becoming a part of a larger and more interesting world—these are some of the things our more mature natures impel us to do.

Birds are beautiful and melodious, flowers are bright and fragrant, trees are tall, widespreading and strong because of the qualities of life that are within them—because of their nature. People are not all alike. No man's destiny is entirely in his own hands. His natural endowments are what they are as determined by his inheritance. But he is, in a real sense, over himself, in control of his faculties and powers. Happy the individual who is an adequate judge of himself, who is capable of taking himself seriously in hand, and who fashions himself into what he wants to become by the persistent use of his intelligence under the direction of his will. Of course, God's grace may be counted on as a constant factor for good in all good undertakings.

My friend follows her questioning somewhat further in her letter, and gets into a matter quite vital to us all. She continues:

"If I believed, as some people do, that all one knows and all one becomes one takes along into the future life, there might be some justification for this accumulation of unused knowledge and experience. But I am not at all sure that there is a future life. Of course I know you believe there is. If a person holds firmly to such a belief it should change his life a good deal. Many of the people whom I know claim to believe it, but that does not seem to make much difference in their manner of living."

We may as well admit that many people feel no assurance of a life beyond, and many more do not assert such a belief with any great appearance of confidence. This of itself need not cause great worry. Much of the faith of former years was nothing more than credulity. It is no loss to give up beliefs that are not well founded. Such grounds of belief as are not real and substantial may just as well be abandoned. It is better not to believe things that are not true. To abandon beliefs that are not essential—merely traditional beliefs—and for which there is no adequate evidence, is no indication of a loss of Christian faith.

No one is convinced, by argument, of the reality of a future life. The assertions of theological students and creed-makers are not convincing. Even Biblical statements to the effect that the dead shall rise and live again, do not of themselves carry assurance. Belief in immortality is largely an individual matter.

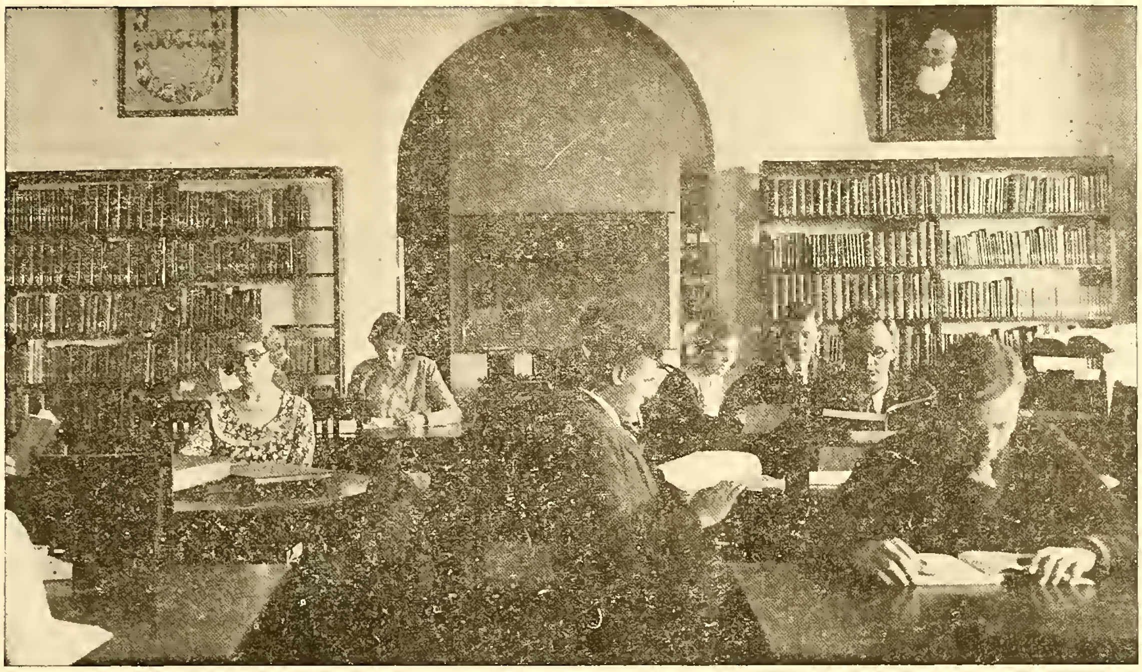
The conviction of the reality of a life beyond varies from time to time with the individual and the Christian group. It is like the light of the moon—it waxes and wanes. Sometimes the sense of immortality is full and rich and illuminating. At other times there is only a thin crescent of light, or it is entirely obscured.

When one's purposes are good, when one's heart and mind are open toward God and all good things, when one's sense of spiritual things is keen, when one is finding human souls responsive to God's truth, even when one is suffering for Christ's sake—one feels there must be some provision for a continuance beyond of the people who have struggled on and up and have reached a satisfactory state of union and fellowship with God and His good children—because nothing seen or unseen can destroy such personality. That is faith. Such a faith should make much difference in a man's manner of living.

There are arguments and evidences and analogies that look toward a future life. These may be used to confirm and strengthen our faith. As Christian character is an achievement, as we gain knowledge through study and experience, so we gain a satisfactory conviction of life beyond through religious thought, service, experience, and through adjusting ourselves to the problems, the hardships, the bereavements, and the aspirations of this earthly life.

The Bible is largely a book of the earthly, the mortal life. But it has in parts a wonderful spirit of eternity. It deals

READING ROOM, HIGH POINT COLLEGE LIBRARY



The above is a familiar picture of High Point College. The students make constant use of the Library. Research is necessary for the completion of any education, and this is a part of the work of the students, whatever course they may pursue.

The above picture shows a section of the College Library. An alcove with book racks can be seen in the center of the picture. On the opposite side of the room likewise will be found another alcove and stack room.

Observe the interest with which the students go about their work.

with thoughts and aspirations that are not exhausted in this world. It helps fit men to live forever. It makes us feel that this earth is not our abiding place. It stirs life within us and makes us feel the desire for, and quickens within us the assurance of, a blessed life beyond.

I see nothing ahead of me, in life, so good and promising as learning, loving and serving. Clouds and darkness are frequently round about the throne of the Supreme Ruler of the universe; but I believe that justice, love, and mercy are the principal elements in the foundations on which that throne rests.

> ''Rest comes at length; though life be long and dreary,
> The day must dawn, and darksome night be passed;
> All journeys end in welcome to the weary,
> And heaven, the heart's true home, will come at last.''

◆

THE MEANEST MAN

A father said, ''Now, son, start saving the pennies and put them in this yellow box, and when you get five pennies give them to me and I will give you a nickel and you can put that in this blue box; then, when you get five nickels give them to me and I'll give you a quarter and you can put it in this red box.''

And it was not until 17 years later that the boy discovered that the red box was the gas-meter.—Lexington Herald.

ALL MANNER OF UNGODLY CONVERSATION

''As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he.'' God's word. The question is, what do you and your friends talk about? Do you discuss politics, gossip, or other trivial subjects, or do you talk often of the glories of God's Kingdom and Christian living? Is your conversation pure, and becoming to a true lady or gentleman?

There are many kinds of conversations. The highest form of conversing with our companions during our brief journey is a high social art; the parts of conversation are listening and speaking. One can be, perhaps, either a good talker or a good listener; the latter of which equals, if not surpasses, being a good talker. So, you see, talking and listening go together to form conversation. But perhaps about the safest thing to do is to keep silence; the scriptures commend this, and too, it is supposed to mean the possession of knowledge. Everyone knows that few people know when they have said enough (until it is too late) or just how, when and what to say.

I wish to speak now about one particular kind of conversation, which is about the lowest form. God says for us to speak no unclean communications; indeed, when the Christian's lips and tongue have been consecrated in the service of the Lord, his conversation will, of course, be after righteousness.

To know the nature of some of the communications of certain of our "modern" young people is appalling and disgusting, but very sad, and is a condition which must be remedied if young people are to remain saved, or grow in grace and knowledge. When they speak, their words often convey half-hidden, but all too evident, double meanings; and even the most "respectable" tell vile, filthy stories (supposedly jokes) for amusement and pastime. Apparently, boys are not the only ones who use this foul language. Some of these stories involve the insulting and familiarly lowering of the sacredness of womanhood and parenthood. Oftentimes young people's minds become so poisoned that even the most innocently spoken words, or pure acts, arouse vile imaginations and suggest low thoughts of the animal to them. Then their condition is very pitiful. You may be surprised to learn this, but it is true in very many cases. It is sometimes true that the sacredness of the most pure things is no longer regarded as it once was. "Petting" and "necking" parties, the names of which within themselves are disgusting, are existent, permitting dangerous familiarity between young men and young woman.

Please do not think that these conditions are only prevalent in the lower classes of less educated humanity. They are largely the same in so-called "high society" and also among the average, "respectable" young people of the community. I do not say that all of our youth is like this, for it is not, but many that would never be suspected of it are so.

A man will conduct himself just about as dishonorably in the presence of a lady as she will permit him to do. If the young lady will not permit or listen—let alone give any evidences of enjoyment of such conversation—the young man will hardly do those things, if he values her friendship at all. "Who can find a virtuous woman, for her price is far above rubies. . . " Too, there are those men who like to prey, serpent-like, upon innocent, though sometimes ignorant girls.

I think that pernicious magazines and novels, and vile and immoral motion picture and theatre shows are largely the cause of all of this.

When one has acquired the habit of talking and thinking impurely, and unrighteously, it is very hard to overcome it; the mind is too poisoned. It is so filled that one cannot seem to help enjoying and partaking of this sort of conversation. Yet if one has the desire to remedy his ways and wants deliverance, there is a way. Jesus can completely forgive and save you from your sinful, ruinous to body, mind, and soul, speech or acts. His Holy Spirit can cleanse you wholly from all of it; and His grace is sufficient for your deliverance. "Nothing but the blood of Jesus!"

Young people, as one of you, may I urge you to forsake the sinful thing, and let Jesus do what He wants and yearns to do in and with your life. Young ladies, unwise deportment does not heighten the opinion of the young men of you. To permit familiarity does not make them respect you! There is nothing beautiful about such a life, any more than is a mud-splashed car beautiful. Only the real beauty comes from sincere, Godly soul growth, and the turning of your energy toward vital, wide-awake channels. It does not pay to be idle with time hanging heavily on your hands. I believe that the existence of youth today is too passive, with all of our conveniences and luxuries. Our young generation does not have enough suitable, wholesome, active projects, or even work, to occupy its attention.

I am very sincere in the belief that such ungodly, unholy conversation as I have described is a terrible hindrance to the spiritual growth of any person, young or old, who engages in it. The inevitable end of such continued living is sin and the grave.

Charles W. Stone.

CHURCH FINANCES AGAIN

I have just read Dr. Pritchard's interesting article on Church Finances as printed in last week's Herald, August 30. Therein he goes out of his way in the very first paragraph to assure us in this given field that he is very much more interested in results than methods.

Frankly this has a swing to it that is almost heroic and altogether disarming, so much so that it almost made me ashamed of myself that I had ever taken time to think upon the subject of method in church finances. I said (to myself, of course), Here is the good Doctor, perhaps some time to be President—surely he has his feet upon the ground; who am I to gainsay him? Whipped, cowed, I flopped my hands down upon the table and said, Give us results, results; yes, give us results, results!

Fortunately, for myself and my cause, I happened to think upon the record of the last quadrennial session of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Happily, this body, when its old method of "laying assessments" failed, forthwith and successfully addressed itself to the problem of finding a new method largely after the pattern now under discussion. Moreover, the Christian Advocate, their official organ in this state, described it as the most important business to come before the conference. Hence, that which Dr. Pritchard describes as secondary, the leadership of the M. E. Church, South, places first.

The trouble with Dr. Pritchard is to be found just here: he still clings on with both hands to the old order. Witness this statement quoted verbatim from his article: "How to bring our people back to that position that they will regard an assessment by an annual conference as more than a scrap of paper is the task before us today." Note the words, "bring our people back." But back to what? Back to the old system of handing down budgets. And yet somewhere I have read the admonition that men, wise men, thoughtful men, do not put new wine in old bottles.

The major thought developed in the article springs out of a fair assumption and takes the form of a direct question. The two as placed together take the following turn and are here quoted together: "It is generally conceded that business conditions throughout the country are better than they were a year ago. Since this is so, why is it that church finances are so slow to respond to the upturn in business?"

In plain English, and despite any and all twiddling to the contrary, the trouble is to be found just here: we have had a new deal in business, but not so in religion. The stage was all set for this in our conference two years ago. But alas! it did not materialize.

H. F. Fogleman.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

There Remaineth Ten Sundays

The time for the Annual Conference approaches rapidly. Just ten Sundays remain of the conference year. What we shall do towards the competion of the work of the present year must be done quickly. We rejoice that many pastors employed the suggestions of the President of the Conference at the beginning of the year; i. e., get the first quarterly confrence to accept a definite amount of the World Service budget, the entire Annual Conference budgets, then lay plans for raising these. Dates were fixed for raising the amounts in the Annual Conference budget, and wherever the pastor and people accepted the above suggestions, much more will be realized when the final tabulation is made than can possibly be realized without it. People just do not work together without a plan or plans. Wherever the matter of conference claims is passed up by saying "we will do what we can," nothing much is done. Neither pastor nor people have an objective, and therefore nothing is done except by some one who is really interested and forces the church to accept his gift. It is futile for this conference to try to continue doing business with half of the churches, or fewer, failing to co-operate with the conference program. Why have a program? Why try to do anything for anybody except for self? Turn heathen and look after number one and let the devil take the hindmost of the group; practice the law of the survival of the fittest and go back to jungle life like real heathen peoples. So long as this conference supplies the churches with pastors, so long does it have the right to say to these churches, You owe it to this conference to co-operate with the officers of the conference in carrying out the program of the conference. And so long as a pastor looks to this conference for a pastorate he owes it to the conference to fall heartily in line with the prgram of the conference and to do everything possible to raise the conference claims. The Discipline makes this obligatory upon every pastor and the committee on official character should enquire into the cause of all such failures. The devil is doing his best to destroy the church; should we not do our best for our Lord to save it? Those who cannot put their best into the cause withhold too much from the Lord.

A Suggestion

Every pastor, please, begin next Sunday to try to raise in full the amounts yet due on all Annual Conference claims. This can easily be done by many pastors. But no pastor should be unwilling to try, and what we mean by trying is by putting heart and soul into the matter. The pastor who so acts will receive more on his salary than those who show by their silence that they are afraid to speak out on the matter. By such a plan these claims can be gotten out of the way in time to give at least the last month to paying up balance due the pastor.

Minor Prophets

In the Old Testament the prophets are classified as major and minor according to the length of their message. Ezekiel, Isaiah, etc., major; Amos, Nahaum, etc., minor. But the prophets of today should be classified like this: the major prophets are those who are prophets of hope, courage, faith, and determination, in their work for the Lord. The minor prophets may have longer messages than the major because the most they do is to talk—complain. "Nothing can be done, the case is incurable," they say. No need talk finance, people do not have money; no need talk religion, people are godless and devilish; no need to talk doing something, the people are already too busy. No need! NO NEED! Really, these minor prophets have argued themselves out of a job. Why have a prophet at all if nobody will do anything he prophecies? No minor prophet ought to want a chance to prophesy; it is such hard work. It makes one feel bad to talk in the minor key anyway. The church would be greatly improved if all her minor prophets should go out of business. So "Cheer up or check out" should be the slogan of the church today.

The Ordination Sermon

Rev. F. W. Paschall, D.D., is to preach the Ordination Sermon this year.

Albemarle Church, Rev. J. R. Anderson, Pastor

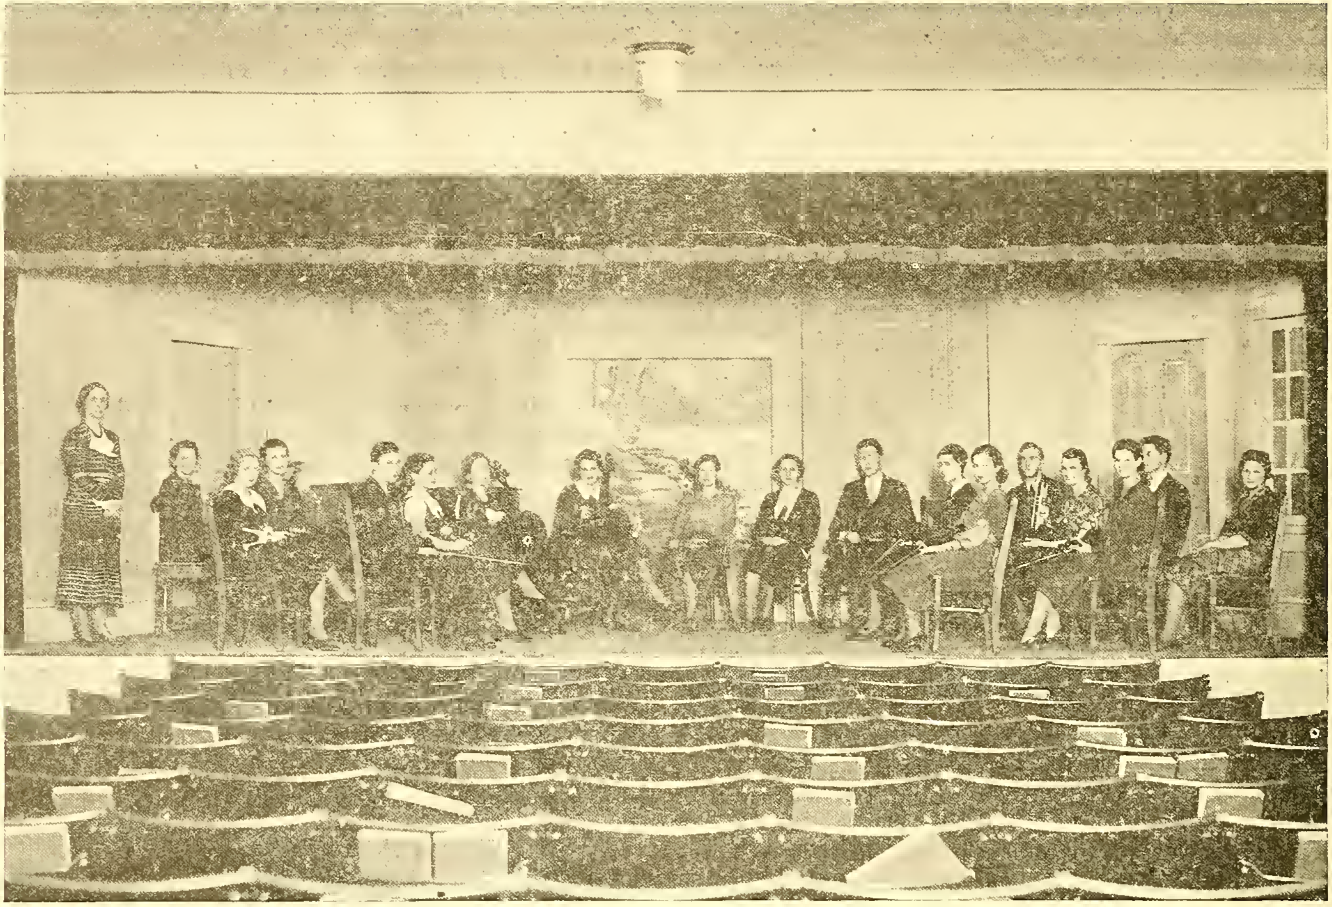
I visited this church at the morning service. There were nearly 200 present in the Sunday school. A large junior choir led the singing and the interest appeared to be very good. They reported that there was much interest in the effort to pay off the debt on the Children's Home by the penny-a-year-one-is-old method.

There was also a good attendance at the preaching service. There was also a good choir present which rendered some splendid songs. The church voted to pay the Annual Conference claims by the time conference meets. It was a heroic gesture and it will mean some sacrifice for some of these people to do this because they are already heavily burdened with their church debt. They have been trying to pay on this indebtedness monthly and it has "dug" into the pastor's salary sometimes; but this little group and their pastor are not quitting, and we hope for them a day of relief when the pressing obligations shall cease to some extent. Every church ought to have burdens to carry, but sometimes a few get just a little more than they can handle. We believe this group is heavily loaded, but it ought not to be an impossible task. We often wish that our Board of Church Extension had just a little money to distribute; a few hundred dollars here and there would do more right now to encourage some of our struggling churches than anything at all. I enjoyed my visit here and appreciate the cordial hearing I received, and trust the year shall close for both pastor and people in better form than it now promises to.

Rockingham Charge, Rev. J. H. Trollinger, Pastor

I visited two of the three churches on this charge, Melton's Grove in the afternoon and Rockingham at night. The pastor

HIGH POINT COLLEGE ORCHESTRA



Music plays an important part in the student life at High Point College. Training and culture come to those who participate in the different musical organizations. Entertainment and enjoyment come to those who listen to the programs.

The picture above shows the orchestra seated on the auditorium stage at a rehearsal period.

In addition to the orchestra will be found other musical organizations, such as the A Capella Choir, the Band, and the Glee Club.

was closing a revival series of services when I visited them and reported good attendance and good interest, but few professions. This church is 29 miles from Rockingham and nine miles from Albemarle. It is not well located for service in connection with either church; but there is a faithful group of people here, some forty-odd members. They proved their faithfulness many years ago when they were left without a pastor.

The Rockingham work vacillates; sometimes up and sometimes down. It has been that way since I have known it. It is rather down now. Of course the loss by death of the pastor, Brother Saunders, a few months ago, tended to disorganize the work, as it always does in such cases. And the slowing down of the textiles has also hurt us here. However, the work is by no means dead, and can, and we believe, will come to life again. At both this church and Melton's Grove the people were raising money to carry to the Children's Home for the 13th. It is fine to see the interest manifested in the Home by these people. We hope to visit Bethesda church later, if possible.

Fourth Quarterly Conferences

Already pastors are fixing the time of their fourth quarterly conferences, and we shall be glad to fill in between these dates as thickly as possible. Can hold two a day, maybe three, sometimes.

Why Not Charge, October 20 at 11 a.m.

West Thomasville church, October 24 at 7 p.m.

Guilford charge, October 27 at 2:30 p.m.

Orange charge, November 3 at 2 p.m.

Plan of Appointments

September 9—Denton charge; Canaan 11 a.m., Piney Grove afternoon, Denton at night.

September 16—Saxapahaw charge; Orange Chapel at 11 a.m., Concord afternoon, Salem at night.

September 23—Cleveland charge; Oak Grove at 11 a.m., Moriah afternoon, Lawndale at night.

September 30—Community church, 11 a.m.; First church, Thomasville, 8 p.m.

R. M. Andrews.

THE TWO BANDITS

Matthew tells us that both of the thieves between whom Christ was crucified railed on him, but Luke says that one of them rebuked his mate, saying, "Dost thou not even fear God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation? And we indeed justly, for we receive the due reward of our deeds; but this man hath done nothing amiss." And he said, "Jesus, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom." What made this rough fellow feel that Jesus was a comer? Did ever a man seem so much like a goner? And even more, why should he think that Jesus was coming into his kingdom? It was the majesty of love that encouraged his hope. He had heard Jesus say, "Father, forgive them; they know not what they do."

Jesus answered, "Today shalt thou be with me in paradise." Thus Jesus saved as he died (Luke 23:39-43). And note that the thief was saved without having any theory of the atonement. He simply ventured on the love that he found in his majestic fellow-sufferer.

The essential truth of our accounts of the crucifixion is illustrated by the fact that Matthew preserves to us an utterance which was a stumbling block to the early Christians. It was the cry, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" It is a great blessing to us that we have the record of it. When the body is worn down with suffering, and we are too weak either to think or to have any emotion save blackest misery, and there is no human sympathy, it seems as though God has entirely deserted us. So we are glad the Savior plumbed this depth of misery. He is all the more divine in His power to help. Note that he did not cease to look to God in this hour of apparent desertion. He simply asked, "Why?" And in so doing he followed in the track of the psalmists who continually clamored out their doubts to the Most High. It is not real unbelief to take our perplexities to God in prayer. According to Luke, Jesus got strength before the end, and, summoning all his energies, he cried out with a loud voice, "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit." That was the hardest circumstance in human history in which to call God Father. By his triumphant faith, Jesus held fast to the Fatherhood of God, and thereby helped all men under every smiting providence.—Kansas City Advocate.

THE WORTHY HONOR ROLL

Fourth Report

Since my last report I have heard directly from only three additional pastors: Bros. Cranford, Spencer, and O. B. Williams, and this brings the total up to forty-five—leaving much to be desired. But I have heard directly from other churches that the work is advancing and preparations being made for September 13 in a fine way.

One pastor called at the District Parsonage recently and reported that one of his churches is ready to respond 100 per cent on September 13, and the others are working.

A hint reached me that some church was going over on this Honor Roll by using the first Sunday offering which usually goes to the Children's Home, to do it. I hope my information was incorrect. Let's all think hard about this thing, and not rob Peter to pay Paul. Surely I heard wrong! To withhold the regular monthly offering and use it to get a church on the Honor Roll, would that be a WORTHY Honor Roll, think you? It would not advance our cause in any sense.

One word about extra gifts. Last year the individual gifts ranged from fifty dollars to dimes, nickels, and pennies. Our Honor Roll is not designed to limit any contributor. The more large gifts, the better. Great oportunity demands great response to the need of the world.

Perhaps it would interest the readers of this report to know that the great St. Paul's Cathedral in London, which cost seven and a half million dollars, was built of sixpences (about 12 cents in U. S. money). King Charles II of England required that a tax of sixpence per ton be paid for every ton of coal that was brought to the port of London, and the money that was gained in this way went to pay for the building of this great cathedral.

If our 30,000 church members in North Carolina average only twenty years each, and all contribute to this Worthy Honor Roll, figure it out for yourself and see if 30,000 birthday offerings of 20 cents each doesn't make $6,000.

"To be alive in such an age!
With every year a lightning page
Turned in the world's great wonder-book
Whereon the leaning nations look
Where men speak strong for brotherhood,
For peace and universal good;
When miracles are everywhere
And every inch of common air
Throbs a tremendous prophecy
Of greater marvels yet to be.
O thrilling age!
O willing age!
When steel and stone and rail and rod
Welcome the utterance of God,
A trump to shout His wonder through,
Proclaiming all that man can do.

"To be alive in such an age!
To live in it!
To give in it!
Rise, soul, from thy despairing knees,

"Think highly of thy brother's need,
Give thanks with all thy flaming heart,
Crave but to have in it a part—
Give thanks and clasp thy heritage—
To be alive in such an age."

MRS. R. M. ANDREWS.

◆

—When we read that the chief priests, after Jesus was nailed to the cross, looked on him as he writhed in agony, and made merry, we shudder at ourselves and our possibilities, as we remember that we are of the same flesh and blood; and we are the more frightened because these men were the constant students of Holy Scripture, and doubtless were persons of outstanding culture and probably quite charming at dinner parties.—Selected.

OUR STORY PAGE

THE BEAVER BUILDS HIS DAM

No American animal is more clever than the beaver in building his home. No engineer reveals greater skill than he in interlacing his hut to protect his tribe against natural enemies, such as the wolf and bear, or trappers. The entrance is under water, enabling the beaver to pass in and out even after ice has formed on the pond.

In appearance the beaver hut resembles the igloo of the Eskimo. The foundation is laid in a circular shape to a thickness of about six inches, and in a most wonderful way it increases bit by bit, formed to resemble a perfect dome. Throughout the shape is symmetrical, both interior and exterior being very smooth, and the work has the appearance of having been executed by a mechanic using a trowel.

The dome is the real home of the beaver family. A shelf, three or four feet long, provides a comfortable place for the animals to curl up closely in their beds, which are made by stripping yellow birch into long shreds, somewhat like the brooms made by the Indians, which keep the animals warm and contented. In the fall, just as killing frosts appear, the house is carefully plastered with mud, with the exception of a small place at the top, which serves as a ventilator. Then nature furnishes the extra covering in the deep falls of snow.

On a "floor" beneath the sleeping quarters is a cozy little room about four inches above water level, which is used for drying the fur after a swim, and as the dining room. Six inches above is the bedroom, so that the water would need to rise ten inches or a foot before it would trouble the inmates.

For going and coming, or to make a way of escape from the meddling otter, two holes are made in the dining room floor, which lead directly to the water. Under the water tunnels are dug in the bank some distance from the house to furnish other ways of escape.

After the dams and lodge are completed, the weaver works hard during favorable weather gathering stores for the long winter season. His favorite food is the cambium layer or green part just under the bark of trees. When the bark is properly seasoned the logs are cut into lengths varying from two to 12 feet and are lowered to the bottom of the pond near the hut. This pile is of considerable size, for it must furnish food for the entire family from four to six months.

If the dam be firm and the stock of food be ample, the beavers may remain in their home, under the ice and snow, the entire winter. Here, occasionally diving through the holes in the dining room floor to their pantry below, for a log or two, they rest, sleep, and spend the only vacation of which they know.

Few people know that the beaver carries a pair of pinchers. Yet this is a fact. Now and then, in cutting wood up into the right lengths, and in peeling logs and shrubs, the animals get slivers embedded in their gums or wedged between their teeth. How they managed to get these out unassisted long puzzled man.

"They pull out slivers with their pinchers," declared the veteran woodsman. "Each beaver has two sets of pinchers, which he always carries with him. The toenail of the second toe from the inside of each hind foot is radically different from the others; it is really a pair of nails, hinged at the base, and two of the knife-edges coming together make an ideal pair of pinchers for handling small objects, like slivers. Thus, each beaver actually has two sets of pinchers, one on each hind foot."

The influence that the fabled she-wolf had in founding the Roman Empire was insignificant compared with the influence of the beaver in opening up and developing North America. The skin of this water-baby was the powerful magnet which attracted white explorers, trappers and traders from the Old World.—Our Dumb Animals.

PLAYING SCHOOL

"Hurry up, Sam, it's your turn to be teacher this afternoon!" called Selma.

"Everybody take seats," answered Sam rather breathlessly as he ran up. "Sorry, the teacher's late, but it couldn't be helped. Is everybody here?" he continued.

"Oh, Teacher, please let me call the roll," begged Allen, and proceeded, without waiting for the teacher's reply, to name rapidly: "Martha, Marion, Bobby, Selma, Helen, Jane, Kent, Shirley, Jimmy, Luther, Patsy, Nancy, Marvin. Everybody's here, Teacher, and on time."

"All right then," said Sam solemnly, facing his eager scholars, "on account of your very bad spelling we'll start with our spelling lesson. I hope you children have put proper time on your lessons and haven't wasted it skating and scampering around. Martha, stand up and spell 'frozen water,' but use only three letters."

"I can't do that; 'water' by itself has five letters."

"That's a zero for Martha for not knowing an easy little word. Marion, let's hear from you."

"Perfectly simple, i-c-e, frozen water," Marion answered quickly.

"Bobby, spell 'black fluid' with three letters," requested the teacher.

"I-n-k," said Bobby with a deep bow.

"Now, Teacher, let me ask you a question," requested Marvin. "What is the longest word in the dictionary?"

"I'll tell him that," Shirley offered, anxious to display her knowledge. "The longest word in the dictionary is 'smiles' because there's a mile between the first and last letters."

"Our spelling lesson time is up, I'll try you on 'rithmetic. Listen closely and do as I say and I'll tell you your answers without knowing what number you started with. Your teacher is really a bit of a magician," announced Sam, the teacher, proudly. "Here's the problem. Think of a number."

"It's thought of," giggled Patsy, "mine's 6."

"Mine's 10," cried another. The children all took different numbers.

"Don't tell me your numbers; do as I say," commanded Sam. "Multiply your number by 3; then add 1 to what you have; again multiply by 3; now add the first number you thought of. Has everyone finished? All of the answers end with 3 and begin with the number you thought of first. Is that clear?''

''Now I'll tell one. Take a number; double it; add 4; divide by 2; take away the number you thought of first; your answer is 2.''

''Your answer will always be half of what you add,'' explained Jane.

''You get me too dizzy with your numbers,'' said Sam; ''we'll do something less tiring. We'll have an English poetry lesson. Nancy, you're shy and everready, arise and recite.''

Nancy stood up and, bowing slightly, said:

Willie tied the baby's ear
Firmly to the chandelier.
Baby chuckled, full of glee:
'Twas his ear of corn, you see!

The children clapped heartily, then Helen added another verse:

Willie took the baby's tongue,
'Round and 'round the room he swung.
Baby seemed to like it though—
'Twas his wagon-tongue, you know.

''Good, very good,'' commended the teacher. ''I'll now declare a recess to last until tomorrow afternoon when Miss Marion will be the beloved teacher. Study the following questions for tomorrow's geography: 'If it turns cold, what will Dela-ware?' 'In case of a flood where will Mary-land?' Go quietly, children, and be good.''

''We will not,'' the children answered in chorus, ''let's ride our bikes.''—Sue Craig in The Christian Evangelist.

A BEAUTIFUL FATHER

''Tell your mother you have been very good boys today,'' said a school teacher to two little new scholars.

''Oh,'' replied Tommy, ''we haven't any mother.''

''Who takes care of you?'' he asked.

''Father does. We've got a beautiful father; you ought to see him!''

''Who takes care of you when he is at work?''

''He takes all the care before he goes off in the morning, and after he comes back at night. He's a house painter, but there isn't any work this summer, so he's doin' laborin'. He leaves us a warm breakfast when he goes off, and we have bread and milk for dinner, and a good supper when he comes home. Then he tells us stories, and plays on the fife, and cuts out beautiful things for us with his jackknife.''

Before long the teacher did see the home of that father. The room was a poor one, graced with cheap pictures, autumn leaves, and other little trifles that cost nothing. The father, who was at the time preparing the evening meal for his motherless boys, was, at first glance, only a rough, begrimed laborer; but before the stranger had been in the place ten minutes the room became a palace, and the man a magician.

His children had no idea they were so poor, nor were they, with such a hero as this to fight their battles for them. This man, whose grateful spirit lighted up the life of his children, was preaching to all about him more effectively than was many a minister. He was a man of patience and submission to God's will, showing how to make home happy under the most unfavorable circumstances. He was rearing his boys to be clean-minded citizens, rather than become burdens to society in the days that are coming. He was, as his children had said, ''a beautiful father,'' in the highest sense of the word.—California Voice.

A DOCTOR ON THE EFFECTS OF ALCOHOL

Here is a book by Dr. Haven Emerson, who is professor of public health practice in Columbia University. He doesn't set out as a propagandist either for or against the use of alcohol. He is writing on Alcohol: Its Effects on Man, to provide schools and colleges with a text-book on the subject; so he presents calmly the facts that have been ascertained by intelligent observation and careful research.

In the preface Dr. Emerson lists 15 points concerning which, he says, ''there is agreement among students and teachers of the medical and associate sciences.''

1. Alcohol is a narcotic which, by depressing the higher centers, removes inhibitions.
2. Outside of the nervous system and the digestive tract, alcohol used as a beverage has little demonstrable effect.
3. It is a food, utilizable as a source of energy and a sparer of protein, but it is such only to a very limited extent.
4. It is improbable that the quality of human stock has been at all injured or adversely modified by the long use of alcohol, although the effects on the individual are often devastating.
5. The therapeutic usefulness and value of alcohol are slight.
6. It may be a comfort and a psychological aid to the aged.
7. It does not increase, and it sometimes decreases, the body's resistance to infection.
8. By releasing inhibitions, it makes for social ease and pleasure, and herein lies one of its great dangers.
9. Its effects are best studied by changes of conduct.
10. It impairs reason, will, self-control, judgment, physical skill, and endurance.
11. It may produce situations from which crime and social lapses result.
12. It is a frequent destroyer of health, happiness, and mental stability.
13. Its use commonly lowers longevity, and increases mortality.
14. It is used primarily for its psychological effect as a means of escape from unpleasant reality.
15. It constitutes an important community health problem.

In the body of his book, Dr. Emerson takes up and makes an interesting exposition of these 15 points. A careful study of the book should re-inforce a person's convictions and steady his stand for personal total abstinence. Here, also, are fundamental and incontrovertable facts and reasonings that will aid parents, teachers, and ministers in their work with the young. It is never wise to over-state. Dr. Emerson guards against exaggeration. Plain, unvarnished facts and principles may not be so striking at the moment—but they are more effective in the end.

Luther K. Long.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Friendship, Fallston	$ 4.66
Caroleen S. S.	1.68
Maple Springs, Forsyth	5.00
Spring Church, Spring Church	6.20
Hope S. S.	1.00
Mrs. O. G. Templeton, Union Grove, Mocksville, for September 13	.50
Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Williams, special	5.00
Mrs. A. H. Guire, Lenoir, for Sept. 13	1.00
Bellemont S. S., Mt. Hermon	5.36
Spring Hill, N. Davidson	2.58
The W. S. Cecil class, Pleasant Grove, clothing child	5.00
Moriah S. S.	4.35

Clothing and Other Gifts

The women of Kernersville church, six pieces of underwear and goods for 5 dresses. Mr. W. F. Grabs, another load of apples. Mr. J. A. Hege, Thomasville, one box of clothing.

The school dresses and other clothing for girls are coming in splendidly. This is greatly appreciated. There are a few yet to be heard from, but we are encouraged to believe that this promised clothing for girls will be in befere school opens. This is helping greatly. You see we do not keep a seamstress any more so the clothing made in our sewing room must be supervised by one of our older girls who has taken Home Economics in school. We are doing our very best under adverse circumstances, so we are all the more thankful to all those who are helping so cheerfully and so nobly.

Our Coal and Our Boys' Clothing

On faith we have made the venture and have ordered one carload of coal. We have been putting in two carloads at this time of year each season, but this time we must wait. This carload will cost about $265.00 f. o. b. High Point. Please send in your first Sunday offerings as speedily as possible.

Our boys all need clothing, so please send us boys' clothing and money to buy boys' clothing. Also shoes for both boys and girls. We will have to have over 100 pair of shoes very soon.

Children's Home Day

This is our last call. Come to see us on September 13. Program will begin at 10:30 a. m. Speakers, Dr. C. K. Proctor, of Oxford, N C., and Dr. C. W. Bates, of Winston-Salem, N. C. Come on time, and come with a well-filled basket of dinner. That is one day in the year we will not prepare dinner. We are inviting ourselves to eat with you. Please park your cars on campus at boys' dormitory.

Pictures in the Making

Those promised reward pictures are in the making. Before September 13th we will have in hand brand new pictures of the Home, the grounds and all the workers and children. These pictures are to be given to all churches which enroll and collect from a number of people equal to their church membership a penny per year for their ages. We trust all thoroughly understand this proposition and that we will be privileged to give a new picture of the Home to a number of churches.

Your membership may be scattered, but it should not be difficult to enlist church members, Sunday school pupils and friends equal to your church membership. The pictures will be ready. Come prepared to get one.

We are thankful to everyono who in any way is helping us to carry on in these trying times.

Yours in His blessed service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

◆

PAYMENT IN KIND REJECTED

England didn't think very much of America's suggestion that John Bull pay part of his war debt obligations in kind (commodities). While there is little doubt that all of the defaulting European debtor nations could pay their instalments promptly if their officials were sominded, there is really little wonder that England did not swallow the bait in the "in kind" suggestion. In the first place the suggestion of such payment must be regarded as resembling one of those trial balloons which explodes when it goes us to a certain height. Secondly, British exports to the United States are rather limited. Last year the value of that country's exports to this country was not much more than half th e amount due on war debt annuities. Further, the commodities so used would have to be those offering the least competition to domestic products. In 1933 nine commodities—coffee, can sugar, raw sik, newsprint paper, would pulp, tin, rubber, hides, skins and furs — bade up 44 per cent of the value of all imports into the United States. With the exception of sugar and certain of the hides and furs, most of these articles enter duty-free because they are considered non-competitive. Thus, to avoid complaints of competitio payments in kind would necessarily have to be made up chiefly of such commodities, which already constitute the bulk of our non-competitive imports.

Baron Manrice de Rothchilds, scion of the famous house of Rothschilds, and a prominent members of the French Senate who is now visting in this country, announced that he believed that if the idea of part payment in kind is applied to other nations France will be eager to start negotiations at the earliest possible time. France, you know, is the biggest defaulter of them all, having skipped her semi-annual payments now for more than two whole years. As the whole war debt question now stands Uncle Sam turns out to be the "worrld's worst investor." In the vaults of the Treasury at Washington lie stacks of yellow paper which cost the taxpayers of this nation more than $16,000,000,000. More than 11 billion of this amount represents war debt obligations. And much of it may never be paid in gold, cash or kind.—Pathfinder.

◆

—Miss Lizzie Harden of Julian recently submitted to a major operation in the Wesley Long hospital in Greensboro.

—Mrs. Holly Johnson of Flat Rock church in Guilford county is a patient at the Wesley Long hospital. Mrs. Johnson's husband is superintendent of the Sunday school at Flat Rock church.

—Miss Edna Nicholson of Mebane has come to Greensboro to teach i n the Proximity school. She sang in the choir at Calvary church Sunday morning and favored the Christian Endeavor society with a solo Sunday evening.

MUST HANDLE CHILDREN WISELY

Experience has taught that the parent who strikes the medium in the training of children will have the best success. Neither the "strong-arm" methods nor the one which neglects disciplinary measures entirely has been very satisfactory. Try to instill a sense of duty into the child but don't try to drive it in with a club.

However, unless you want your children to be criminals, you should make them understand that there is such a thoing as right and law. In later life they will have to face the law and feel its lash if they defy it. You cannot expect the rest of the human family to be as lenient toward your children as you yourself are. So if you send them out into the world with the idea that they can do as they please and not suffer any consequences, you are simply preparing them for trouble and plenty of it.

While it goes against the parental grain to use physical force on a child, there are some children to who m a little spanking will do more good than a whole day of arguing. Children love dearly to argue, and the modern child is so smart that he will out-argue his parents on almost any subject.

The argumentative child is a special problem. As a rule they "get over it" when they come to have more experience of the ways of the korld and learn that arguers and grouchers are not popular. No set rules can be laid down fo bringing up children, since no two children are alike. What will make an angel of one child may bring out a devil in the next one.

Parents ought to take their job seriously and avoid showing anger to their children or getting excited. After all, they are your children, you know; they didn't ask to be born.

Even at their worst they are a delight; they are worth a fortune. Parents who work and sacrifice an dmanage so that they can bring up their children in a decent way are entitled to the greatest credit. A hundred such people are worth more than a million of the supercillious and super-cultured rich families, most of whom are too busy drinking and playing around to have any children and too inhuman to care anything for them if they do have them. Blessings on the parents—their task was never harder than it is today.
—Pathfinder.

◆

SUN SPINS EARTH

On the heels of the stated belief that the rotation of the earth will be stopping ultimately due to the slowing down effect of the tides comes the theory that the sun acts as an outside force and adds to the rotary motion of our planet. Advancing on the supposition that the heat and the light of the sun exert a tremendous pressure on the earth the theorist states that this force is greater toward the east becaause the expanded air in he direction gives more resisance. He points out that the eaarth's film of atmosphere is much deeper on the eastern edge because it has been expanded by the sun and therefore receives more of the sun's push than does the cooled air on the western edge. Such was the suggestion made to the Smithsonian Institution by a perrson whose name was not revealed by the secretary of that institution who made the theory known.—Pathfinder.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Christian Endeavor Society, Denton. — As this is the first report from our society to the Herald, we want everyone to know about our work.

Our society is about 65 members strong and we meet every Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock in the church aauditorium. We have the usual officers and committees. Also as our sponsor we have our pastor, Rev. J. T. Bowman and his wife, who take a keen interest in our society.

Now about our programs. Recently we have inaugurated into our society a new idea that we would like to see the other C. E. societies in our conference use. We have found that it has added to our meetings considerably and we believe that it will be most helpful to other societies. This idea is a mimeographed sheet of the regular length. On this sheet we have the following: 1. Order of worship. 2. Christian Endeavor Theme Song. 3. Christian Endeavor Pledge. 4. Let the Beauty of Jesus be Seen in Me. 5. Into My Heart. 6. Offertory. 7. Benediction.

Besides this we have a song that part of our members learned at our Leadership Training school at High Point. If anyone wishes to have a copy of this sheet we will be very glad to send it to them.

Then we have some special work. We have almost finished raising an annual conference claim and having a church bulletin board made. Now we are working on a plan to furnish each Sunday school room with a Bible and pictures and mottos. We have monthly business meetings where these problems are discussed and where our leaders for the coming month are appointed.

We hope that soon we will be receiving letters from other societies and see report in the Herald as to the work in other churches.

JACQUELINE CAMERON,
Cor, Sec. Denton C. E. Society.

Kernersville Church.—We held our annual Sunday school picnic at Guilford Battleground park on Saturday afternoon with a large attendance, and a fine supper served in picnic style; every one seemed to enjoy the whole affair.

Our Sunday school has raised the amount suggested by Mrs. Andrews for the Children's Home (a penny per year of age for every member of the church and Sunday school). We already have our list and money ready for the 13th—and expect to have a delegation attend the Children's Day services at the Home next Thursday.

Our Ladies' Aid society is having a chicken stew supper at the church next Saturday evening from 5:00 p. m. to 9:00 p. m. they are raising the money to pay for paiting the church and will start on the funds for the new furnace which is needed for this winter. Come and enjoy the evening with us. All of our services are being well-attended.

We are tôld by some of the older members of the church that the leragest attendance ever known at Kernersville church was on August the first, when the final funeral rites were held for Dr. L. W. Gerringer, this was Brother Gerringer's first charrge, and he was loved by everyone who knew him. We have held memorial sevices for him at each church. Mrs. Gerringer and the children have the sympathy and prayers of the entire charge.

We held our annual revival services at Sandy Ridge church with Rev. C. G. Isley doing the preaching, the services were well attended and the preaching by Brother Isley was helpful to all. Six new members have been added.

A committee has been appointed to raise the amount requested for the Childrren's Home. The Ladies' Aid society is doing good work.

We held our annual revival services at Ai church with Rev. O. E. Hall of the Blue Ridge Atlantic conference of the M. E. Church preaching each night during the week. Every one seemed to enjoy his preaching and the attendance was good. Brother Hall with his family is living in Kernersville having removed from Marshllburg two months ago because of a malaria attack.

Annual revival services were held at Piney Grove church with Rev. E. A. Bingham preaching throughout the week. Our attendance was good and the preaching by Brother Bingham was fine. The church seems to be revived and two new members have been added. The Ladies' Aid society is doing good work in the raising of money to paint the interrior of the church.

Miss Blanche Ingram is chairman of the committee to raise the birthay offering for the Children's Home; we expect this church to get on the Honor Roll.

A large number attended the birthday supper held for Walter Ingram at his home last Saturday evening. Miss Blanche Ingram was mistress of ceremonies; Grace was said by Rev. E. P. Billups of Kernersville, the number in attendance was estimated to over a hundred. We enjoyed the evening and feel that all the rest did also.

Rev. O. E. Hall preached in the Kernersville church last Sunday night; it was a fine helpful sermon.

We held our third quarterly conferenec and Brother Arnold B. Dwiggins of the Piney Grove church was elected delegate to the Annual Conference, he is superintendent of the Sunday school.

Miss Hazel Hendricks of the Ai church is raising the money for the Children's Home, and she expects to see her church on the Honor Master Tommy Wells of Washington, D. C., is isiting at the parsonage, he is the grandson of the pastor and wife.

O. B. WILLIAMS, Pastor.

Midland.—We have just closed our revival meetings on this charge. Rev. A. D. Shelton helped at Pine Bluff. Bro. Shelton did splendid work. Unfortunately, the meeting closed too soon because of the press of farm work. The people are anxious to have Br. Shelton come back and hold a meeting at a more convenient season.

Bro. J. Elwood Carroll was with us at Love's Grove, and to say the people were delighted with his clear-cut gospel messages is putting it in a mild form.. I am sure that the people see the Christ way of living in a new form.

Rev. J. E. McSwain, formerly of our church, now in the M. E. Church, South, was with us at Midland. He has climbed wonderfully. He is now a "big" preacher. He did fine work and the people were pleased and edified.

Midland is still in the lead on finances. Bro. O. B. Furr is the power back of the throne.

We are looking forward to a good ending of the year.

Our third quarterly conference will be held at Midland next Saturday, September 8th, at 1:30 p. m. Every good official should attend.

W. D. REED.

Hollister—There was an increase in the attendance and offering at Sunday school on September 2. We were very sorry our superintendent, Mr. L. W. Gupton, could not be with us Sunday on account of sickness. We hope that he will soon be well and can come back to Sunday school.

Mrs. E. T. Ellington is planning to take her Sunday school class on its annual picnic to Silver Lake, N. C. on Wednesday afternoon of this week. Mrs. I. A. Crawley of the Baptist church and her class will accompany them.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held in the home of Mrs. E. L. Wood on Tuesday afternoon, August 14. We had a very good meeting with 12 members and six visitors present. We were very sorry our pastor and wife could not be with us in the meeting as they weer engaged in revival services at Bethesda church. We were very glad to have our district chairmen, Mrs. R. M. Robinson, Mrs. W. H. Neese and Mrs. Vassar of Spring Church Charge with us in thismeeting. We enjoyed having these people with us, and the messages they brought to us concerning the work of the Auxiliary. Come again! We welcome you.

The revival meeting commenced at Hollister on the fourth Sunday morning in August and closed the following Friday night. Sunday morning our pastor, Rev. O. C. Loy, brought to us an interesting sermon, basing his subject on Isaiah 6:8. Sunday afternoon Mr. Loy used as his text "Ye are the light of the world," Matthew 5:14. Both of these sermons were highly complimented by the people. Rev. C. G. Isley arrived on Monday afternoon and did the preaching for us until the close of the revival on Friday evening. Mr. Isley did some evxcellent preaching while here. I do not see how any unsaved person can sit and listen to his sermons and not accept Christ as their personal Savior and become Christians. All of his sermons were interesting and helpful. The attendance and interest was splendid at all of the services. We appreciate the fine spirit of co-operation the Baptist and Methodist Episcopal people gave during our revival. The visible results were not what we would like for them to have been, yet we feel as if much good has been accomlished and we believe impressions were made that will bear fruit in days to come.

There were four people to unite with the church by baptism and several reclaimed. To partly express to Mr. Isley our appreciation to him for his services rendered during our revival here, a purse of $25.00 was presented to him by the people. We were very glad to have Mr. Isley's mother with us in the services and to visit in our homes, also Mrs. Loy and children.

Mr. Isley and his mother will find a hearty welcome any time they can come to Hollister. They have won a warm place in the hearts of our people and we shall remember them in our prayers.

We were very glad to have Misses Annabelle and Laura Thompson of Greensboro, N. C., with us in some of the services. Also Mrs. J. C. Edwards of Portsmouth, Va., Mrs. W. A. Ellington of Middlesex, N. C., and other visitors. We are always glad to have visitors in our services.

The third quarterly conference convened at Hollister church on Thursday afternoon, August 30. Miss Winnie Burt was declared elected delegate to the Annual Conference. We were glad to have Mr. Isley and mother worship with us in the conference.

KATHLEEN SHEARIN, Ass't Reporter.

* * *

Asheboro.—Although a large number of our congregation have had vacations this summer and right much sickness among the membership, the attendance at Sunday school and church services has held up well.

Last Sunday there were 261 present at Sunday school as compared with 239 a year ago. The offering was $21.56, this the fourth Sunday offering goes to the Children's Home.

Several of our people attended the revival service at Brower's church Sunday morning Rev. J. R. Hutton of Greensboro is doing the preaching. Our pastor, Rev. R. C. Stubbins, preached a very helpful and interesting sermon at 11 o'clock service on "Casual Contacts of Jesus." The choir rendered a beautiful anthem, "Just As I Am." Miss Loiuse Swaim who has returned home from New York where she took a special course in piano methods at Julliard Summer school of the Julliard School of Music, was at the piano.

We were pleased to have Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk, who was a guest in the home of his sister, Mrs. Chas, F. Smith, worship with us.

Mrs. Wm. C. Hammer came home Saturday from Duke hospital, Durham, where she had an operation upon her knee. Her condition is greatly improved, though she will be confined to her bed for several days on account of the injuries sustained two weeks ago when she fell from the steps of our church.

Earle F. Bulla returned Thursday night from New York City, where he had been with his brother, Alex Bulla, of Trinity, who underwent a major operation in a New York hospital. Mr. Bulla has been critically ill, but is slowly improving now.

Chas F. Cole is recuperating at his home after undergoing an operation for appendicitis in the Randolph hospital, Inc.

Mrs. Annie Cheely is back in the office of the Fox Laundry and Dry Cleaning Co., after an operation in the Randolph hospital, Inc.

Mrs. Cora Redding Mendenhall, of Winston-Salem, has been visiting in the home of her father, W. F. Redding, and recuperating after an operation in a Winston-Salem hospital several weeks ago.

At the third quarterly conference the vote for delegate to the Annual Conference was announced, and John R. Brown was declared elected.

Rev. and Mrs. Stubbins spent several days of last week with their daughter, Mrs. S. F. Thacker, Jr., in Charlestown, W. Va. Their little grandson came home with them for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Lovett announce the birth of a daughter, Clarajo, at the Randolph hospital, Inc., August 1..

The Woman's Auxiliary of the church is busy under the leadership of Mrs. J. T. Pugh. The social room of the church has a different appearance since the ladies had the floor done over and the walls painted. On a recent Friday evening the auxiliary enjoyed a supper in the church, after which Mrs. W. C. Hammer gave in a most interesting way the review of our foreign missionary study, "Japanese Women Speak."

A most enjoyable occasion to all who were permitted to attend was the picnic supper given by the men of the church to the Auxiliary members and others on Tuesday afternoon, August 14th, at Dogwood Lake. A bountiful feast of Brunswick stew, hot weiners and watermelons was enjoyed by everyone. Just before the feast a hymn was sung and two-minute talks were made by T. F. Pulla, Rev. R. C. Stubbins, Frank Burkhead and Rev. N. M. Harrison. Mrs. J. T. Pugh, president, made a response for the Auxiliary. Many expressed themselves as believing this to be the best picnic they ever attended. The ladies are greatly indebted to the men of the church for the delightful food and enjoyable event.

Beginning with next Sunday there will be evening services at 8 o'clock.

REPORTER.

* * *

Siler City.—"But grow in grace, and in knowledge of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ." 2 Peter 3:18. This was the text from which our pastor preached an excellent sermon Sunuday morning. Theme: "A Growing Christian." At the close of this spleudid message the Lord's Supper was observed. Miss Verda Shaw Fox very sweetly sang "The Lord is my Shepherd."

The Baraca's graciously entertaained the Philatheas, teachers and assistant teachers at a fried chicken supper at the city water works on Thursday evening of last week. The occasion was brought about by the Philatheas winning in a contest. A good crowd was present and had plenty of good fried chicken, "hot dogs," pickles, rolls and lemonade. After an enjoyable time spent together all went home filled, with the Philatheas hoping to be the happy winners again.

The fourth Sunday night in August the C. E. society was fortunate to have to address them at their weekly meeting J. L. Moody, local attorney. Mr. Moody used as his subject the topic, "What are the qualifications of a true gentleman or lady?" Mr. Moody is a fine speaker and his talk was interesting from beginning to end. Quite a few of the older people were present and they, too, thoroughly enjoyed hearing him.

Our Sunday school is off in number owing to the summer vacationing, but our collection was above the average, more than seven dollars which goes to our Children's Home.

Mrs. Emma B. Siler is spending a month with her grand-daughter, Mrs. Ben Goss, in North Wilkesboro.

We were glad to have Mrs. Irvin Ellington join our church the third Sunday morning in August. We trust he will be a great help to the church and the church to him.

Miss Olga Smith has returned to her home in Greensboro after spending several days with Miss Minnie Cooper.

Master Eugene Fox is back home after visiting his cousins, Henry and Charm Smith in Greensboro.

Miss Clarice Fox left Sunday for Greensboro where she will take a business course. She will be greatly missed in the activities of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Stone and son, Hubert, are visiting their son, Evans, in Richmond, Va.

Mr. Cletus Whitehead one of our fine young men, who has been sick for quite a while with devil's grippe, is still not much improved. We are hoping he may have a speedy recovery and be back in Sunday school and church.

Mr. T. L. Smith's mother and sister, of Florence, S. C., are spending several days in Mr. Smith's home. We were glad to have them worship with us the fourth Sunday night.

We are sorry Mrs. John Fox is not able to attend Sunday school. Her chair has been vacant the past three Sundays and that is unusual for her as she is seldom absent.

MRS. J. A. COOPER, Reporter.

* * *

Moriah.—Revival services were held this past wtek at Moriah. The service started with the Sunday morning worship. Rev. W. M. Howard, the pastor, delivered the morning message. A picnic dinner was served on the church grounds and a home-coming was the feature of the afternoon service. The program was conducted by the young people. Dr. Pritchard delivered the home-coming message.

Services during the week were held at 10 o'clock in the morning and 7:45 in the evening. Rev. J. L. Trollinger, of the Haw River Charge, conducted the services.

The attendance at both the morning and evening services was unusually good. The meeting closed Friday night. After the morning service, September 2, there were six young people who joined the church. We are more than pleased to have them and also to know they professed faith while young. May the Lord bless each and every one of these fine young people.

REPORTER.

* * *

Matthews Chapel, Greensville Charge.—Our resvival began the third Sunday in August and continued until Friday evening of that week. We had home-coming on Sundday with two services. Pastor Joyner filled the pulpit that day. On Monday Rev. Earl Cook , of Concord, N. C., came to us and did the preaching until the close. Bro. Cook preached to us on the "Marks of the Beast" twice, the last time on the fourth Sunday night to a church filled to its capacity and running over. The attendance was good for each service throughout the week and we rejoice to believe the church was revived. Quite a good many came forward and reconsecrated their lives anew for the Master, with two additions to the church.

Bro. Cook preached to us just plain old fashioned gospel of Christ, which is the power of God unto salvation, and he preached with so much earnestness. "Happy is the man who delights in his labor," and we believe Bro. Cook is happiest when in the pulpit. Although he was a "new man" among our people, yet we were glad indeed to have the privilege of knowing him and having him and Pastor Joyner in our homes. Come again, Bro. Cook, and we wish for you continued success in the Master's work.

The third quarterly conferenc was held at Wesley's Chapel Saturday afternoon, with all churches represented . J. M. P. Wright, of our church, was elected delegate to Annual Conference.

Pastor Joyner was back with us again yesterday after a busy month in the revivals on the charge. We had quite a large congregation.

We hope our Sunday school will get back to normal after being scattered for the past month, some attending the revivals at different churches, some visiting, but we are entering into the work with more earnestness, trying to get everybody interested in the Sunday school work. Rally Day will be observed in our church the fifth Sunday of this month with all-day services.

Mrs. Lawrence Clary, of Richmond, Va., visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Clarke, the third week and attended the revival here. Mrs. Clary will be remembered as Miss Rosa Jane Clarke, and at the time of her marriage was our church treasuer and also Intemediate teacher.

LOTTIE EDWARDS, Reporter.

Orange Charge.—The revival meeting at Chestnut Ridge church began August 26th and closed August 31st. Rev. H. L. Isley did all the preaching except two sermons Sunday, August 26th, one by Rev. B. J. Howard and one by the writer. Bro. Isley was at his best; all his sermons were good.. Not all was accomplished that we had hoped for, but we are grateful for the following results: 11 conversions, four reconsecrations and six additions to the church.

Will be glad to have Bros. Isley and Howard come this way again.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

Spencer.—It has been my privilege during the past two weeks to be associated with the boys and girls and he older men and women of Kannapolis church. I assisted in their Daily Vacation Bible School. The people there are very kind and considerate and are especially thoughtful of their church and pastor, Mr. C. P. Morris. I deeply appreciate the hospitality shown me while I was there and I pray the special thoughts and blessings of Christ upon them.

During the past week I have been holding prayer services throughout the community surrounding my church preparatory to the revival which is now going on in our church. I was very much gratified with the response of my members and especially the interest shown by our neighbors.

Rev. W. M. Howard, of Moriah M. P. church, is conducting our services this week. The crowds have been unusually encouraging this far in the meeting . Especially tonight did we enjoy the vocal solo rendered by Miss Laura Braswell, a graduate of High Point College.

Tuesday evening a group of Christian Endeavorers of High Point, Welch Memorial church, is coming down to be with us and to assist in the music. A special quartet from Kannapolis will also be present to sing several selections. On Wednesday evening special music will be furnished by a quartet and a soloist from Spencer. Again on Thursday another quartet from Kannapolis will be present to sing. This time a large crowd is planning to come from Rev. Morris' church. They are also planning to bring a duet and a soloist. We people of Spencer certainly appreciate such interest on the part of those Kannapolis people. The music for Friday night is not yet definite, however we are expecting to enjoy special music that night also.

We are earnestly praying for a revival that will draw us closer to Christ and we would be deeply thankful for the kind thoughts and prayers of our friends.

AUBERT M. SMITH, Pastor.

Spring Church Charge.—Our special meeting began at Spring church the fourth Sunday in August with a large attendance and closed on the following Friday night. The attendance was good throughout the entire week. Rev. A. D. Shelton was pulpit help and did all the preaching. He delivered a series of strong sermons. They were deep, fundamentally sound, logical, and inspirational.

A large group reconsecrated themselves to the Lord. Six professed faith in Christ and five united with the church. Mrs. Ellis Crew transferred her membership from Danville Christian church to Spring Church.

This church has the largest per cent of members who will lead in public prayer of any this pastor has ever served.

Miss Evelyn and Mr. I. C. Shelton came with their father and spent the week with their friends.

Today, Monday, Miss Elizabeth Massey went to Norfolk, Va., to begin a course in beauty culture. In a few days several of our young people will be off to college.

Our third quarterly conference was held last week. Mr. R. M. Robinson was declared delegate-elect to Annual Conference.

Wm. H. NEESE.

Mount Pleasant, North Davidson.—The feurth Sunday in September Rev. C. L. Grant preached a very inspiring sermon on faith. The trouble of the world today is that people do not have the faith they should have.

The revival meeting begins the second Sunday in September. We are looking forward to a great meeting; also, Home-Coming is to be held at this church the second Sunday. We want all the former pastors, members and friends to come and be with us that day. There will be special music for the day. Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of High Point College, will preach at 11 o'clock.

The fourth Sunday in September Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Murphy and family, from Virginia, visited us, this being their old home church. We are always glad to have them visit us.

REPORTER.

New Hope.—We have been made sad by the loss of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Melvie Belk. Mr. and Mrs. Belk were taken sick at about the same time. Just one week from the time they teok their beds they passed away. Mr. Belk died Friday evening at 3 o'clock and Mrs. Belk died on Saturday morning at 8 o'clock. This was Mrs. Belk's prayer, that they might pass away at the same time and go on together. This is unusual, to see mother and father put away in the same grave. They will be missed so much. Rev. Mr. Henderson and Rev. Fred Love had the privilege to be with Mr. and Mrs. Belk last Wednesday evening. The funeral service was at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. Suith, from Charlotte and our pastor, Rev. Mr. Henderson preached their funeral sermon. One of the largest crowds attended the funeral that has ever assembled at New Hope for such an occasion. They had hosts of friends and relatives, and the most beautiful of flowers were put on their grave. The Ladies' Aid furnished a beautiful basket of flowers and three other wreaths. She was a faithful one of our members. We will miss her so much. When she was not able to be with us she would send us a dime. Her testimonies and prayers will long be remembered.

Pastor Heuderson met with us Sunday night to fill his appointment. He brought a wonderful sermon as always. We like to hear him preach better each time he is with us. We all have learned to love him for he can really preach the truth.

FAYE AYCOTH, Reporter.

Chestnut Ridge, Orange Circuit.—Our reporter, Mrs. Maggie Sykes, has moved near Hebron church, and that has left Chestnut Ridge without a reporter. Our pastor, Rev. B M. Williams, asked me to send in a report and to keep it up until this Conference year closes.

Our revival meeting started here last Sunday, August 25, and closed Friday night following. Our pastor, Mr. Williams, filled the morning hour, and Mr. Howard filled the afternoon. Bother sermons were indeed pressing. We were indeed glad to have Mr. Howard with us; trust that he will come again.

Mr. H. L. Isley came on Monday and was with us until the meeting closed Friday night. We were glad to have him with us and his sermons were indeed helpful. We have a warm welcome in our hearts for him and hope that he can be with us again. We feel that much good has been accomplished and that the church has been greatly revived: 11 converted, four reclaimed and six joined the church.

Mr. Williams will not be with us any more until the fourth Sunday afternoon, but Mr. Browu will fill his place the second Sunday in September. We are planning to have the Rally Day service some time soon.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

ANNIE SQUIRES.

First Church, Thomasville.—If I had the ability to rave like Dr. Pritchard I could tell you some interesting news about the Men's Baraca class. They are increasing in membership so fast that it makes the rest of the classes feel a little bit ashamed when they have to borrow our empty chairs for their folks. From the way the crowd has increased for the past month it looks like they will need more room. We would like to see it when they can no longer find room enough and will have to build a new church. They expect to reach the 100 mark by next Sunday. Seventy-five were present last Sunday.

Miss Edna Wright has been very sick at her home for some time. She is getting along nicely now.

Mrs. J. J. Watts and her daughter, Mrs. C R Westmoreland, were joint hostesses last Thursday for a birthday and bridal shower in honor of Mrs. David Watts, who was recently married. Special music and games were enjoyed throughout the evening. The honoree received many useful gifts.

On Friday evening Mrs. Madison gave a shower in honor of her sister, Mrs. Ralph Leonard. Many of the younger people enjoyed the evening, which consisted of music and games. Mrs. Leonard received many useful gifts also.

Miss Helen Cranford, of Denton, spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Clyde Watts.

Hebron, Fallston Charge.—A very appealing sermon was preached from the 15th chapter of St. John's gospel. A goodly number was out to hear the sermon.

The Christian Endeavor Society is doing good work for our church. Besides repairing and lighting the church a singing school is being conducted by Miss Gertrude Scism each Sunday evening. Everyone is invited to attend, especially the small children.

L. L. H., Reporter.

Mebane.—The Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. George McCauley at 3 p. m. Monday.

The Board of Stewards held its monthly session at the home of Mr. C. F. Jobe Monday evening at 7:30.

Our Spiritual Awakening Campaign begins Wednesday, September 5, at 7:30 p. m. Rev. T. J. Whitehead, of Greensboro, will deliver the opening message.

Prayer meetings were held in the homes of C. F. Jobe, Mrs. Albert King, Mrs. Callie Nicholson, Miss Louis Wilkerson, Mrs. Albert Sykes, Mrs. W. J. Sykes and Mrs. C. L. Mixon Monday and Tuesday nights of this week.

Rev. and Mrs. Ballard returned last week from Asheville, N. C., where they spent their vacation.

Mrs. J. E. Foust is still in a critical condition.

Mrs. C. D. Sides and baby spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Nicholson.

We were glad to have Rev. G. W. Holmes fill our pulpit last Sunday during the absence of our pastor; his sermon was interesting and uplifting. We are always glad to have a former pastor with us.

We sympathize with Mrs. W. R. Jobe in the loss of her father, Mr. Robert A. Hodge.

MRS. CALLIE NICHOLSON.

Philadelphia, Greensville Circuit.—Dr. S. W. Taylor was our help during the revival meeting the first week in August. A help that we will not forget so soon. His preaching had great influence far and near. The attendance was good every night. It was altogether the best meeting we've had in years. Seven new members were added to the church roll and some went to other churches. Almost the entire audience expressed their desires for his return next year. Remember, Dr. Taylor, we'll not wait 20 years before we have this meeting again. We're anxiously waiting already for the first week in August next summer. Don't forget our date, please! We hope that you are entirely well now.

The Woman's Auxiliary will give a lamb muddle on Philadelphia church ground Saturday night week. Ice cream and lemonade will be served also. Everyone's presence and co-operation will be appreciated. We have around $15.00 in the treasury now, have purchased a new gas lamp for the church, and have sent in $5.00 for General Conference budget. We're fortunate in having Mrs. Joyner serve as president. She and Mr. Joyner are doing their best for our success. To know them means to love them. We hope that more of our ladies will take part and help us out. We have only the faithful few whom we can depend on.

Now that the meetings have all closed we hope to start Sunday school again right away.

We're still grieved over losing our member, friend, and preacher, M. P. Chambliss. He was a real dependable member of Philadelphia church even though he was miles away and a preacher himself. Whenever we called on him for anything he was ready to assist. His checks came every year just before Conference time for his home pastor's salary. Mr. Mannie had many friends, especially among the youth wherever he served. I shall never forget our visit with him over on Vance charge several years ago. We can deeply sympathize with his people whom he was serving when death claimed him, as we, too, lost our pastor several years back, Mr. J. B. O'Briant. We missed him so much during the revival meeting as he always came home for it. We trust our loss is heaven's gain, and that God will keep us safely until one day we can all be members together of the one great church.

God comfort and strengthen his aged mother and may she find happiness daily in the thoughts of her son who was giving his time and service for others.

Flat Rock Charge.—Last Sunday was a good day for Gideon's Grove Church. The Pegram reunion was held, the crowd gathering at 11 a. m. The program consisted of music and addresses. The dinner was spread on a table 147 feet long. W. A. Pegram of Winston-Salem was re-elected president, and Miss Bessie Pegram of near Stokesdale was re-elected secretary. There were approximately 500 people preesnt.

We are glad to report that Mrs. H. L. Johnson, of Flat Rock church, is recovering nicely from an operation in Wesley Long hospital, Greensboro.

Our appointment for next Sunday will be at Gideon's Grove at 11 a. m. and Flat Rock at 3:00 p. m.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Shiloh, Shiloh Circuit.—Shiloh's pastor, Rev. C. E. Ridge, did the preaching in the revival meeting. We wish we might give the gis of each message, but that would require too much space. However, we will give the texts or subjects in the order in which they came:

I. Sam. 3-1: "And the word of the Lord was precious in those days, there was no open vision."

I Kings 19:13: "And behold, there came a voice to him and said, What doest thou here, Elijah?"

Ps. 51:10: "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me."

Matt. 4:19: "Fishers of Men."

"And Abraham said, My son, God will provide himself a lamb for a burnt offering."

I. Peter 3:15, 16: "Why I'm a Christian."

John 13:34: "New Commandment."

Matt. 27:22: "What shall we do with Christ?"

II Cor. 8:9: "Poverty That Made Others Rich."

Friday, 3 p. m., service for young people; illustrated sermon.

Phil. 3:13: "A Set Purpose."

Matat. 19:27: "Reward of a Christian."

Mark 14:3: "Breaking the Alabaster Box."

Matt 1:21: "And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus; for he shall save his people from their sins."

Luke 9:62: "Taking hold of plow and looking back."

Three new members were received by letter at this service, thus bringing the total to 21.

We were glad to have three of our home boys back with us—J. Richard Berrier, Tom Berrier and Curtis A Leonard and small son, Curtis, Jr.

Mrs. Raymond Fritts, who has been sick for some time, is improving.

REPORTER.

Concord, Saxapahaw Charge.—We are very proud that we have got some much needed improvement done on our church and hope to get it painted inside and out soon.

We were very glad to see a large number present at church Sunday morning. Mr. Loy brought to us another good message. Would to God that the people would take these messages to heart and not only be hearers of the Word of God, but doers.

Miss Leslie Johnson, of High Point, her mother, and two of her aunts, were visitors with us Sunday. We were glad to have them and also other visitors with us.

On the first Sunday in last month Mr. Jimmy May and Clifton Zachary united with our church. We are very glad to welcome them into our fellowship, both coming to us by profession of faith. Hope they will be a blessing to God and His work.

We were glad to see Brother T. H. Moore and Mrs. Moore at church Sunday after an absence of some time, as this was the first time he had been to church since he came home from Duke Hospital. He stayed there 16 weeks. On Sunday after he came home from the hospital about 125 of his neighbors, friends and relatives met at his home and made him a dinner. He seemed to enjoy it and was glad to see everyone. Mrs. T. L. Ray and children from Baltimore were there at that time.

Mr. Roy Roberson of our church has been elected delegate to Annual Conference.

We are looking forward to Dr. Andrews' being with us the third Sunday afternoon of this month.

BESSIE COBLE, Reporter.

Asheville.—Our Sunday school report is different this week. I am glad, because it encourages competition. I just know that the Philathea class is going to work much harder this week to regain their status. The Fawcett Bible class led in both attendance and collection; Mrs. Williams' boys did not fall down though, they continue to lead the Children's department in collection.

I am sorry I failed to mention the men's quartette which sang Sunday night a week ago. That comes of not staying for church, one always misses something, eh? I understand that the quartette, composed of Messrs. Ballard, Bailey, Hornaday and Eller, sang "A Friend to Man." It was enjoyed so much by all present. Hope you will pardon me for leaving you out last week.

We took our collection for the Children's Home birthday fund on Sunday. It amounted to $9.80, and there is some more to come in next Sunday. We feel that this is pretty good, and whether we qualify for a picture of the Home or not, we will be more than repaid, if our small amount will help at the Home.

Auxiliary circles are meeting this week as follows: Circle No. 1, Mrs. J. R. Moore, chairman, with Mrs. H. O. Charnock, 45 Montview Drive, Thursday at 3:00 p. m. Circle No. 2, Mrs. J. F. Minnis, chairman, with Mrs. Hale Thomas, 169 Hillside St., Thursday at 3 p. m. Circle No. 3, Miss Frances Cunningham, with Mrs. J. F. Minnis, 165 Hillside St., Tuesday at 8:00 p. m.

Enthusiasm has been lacking somewhat in the Woman's Auxiliary lately, but with the advent of the exhilirating fall weather, we hope to rally full force and continue the splendid work always carried on by our women.

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Younginer and their daughter, Mildred, were with us again on Sunday. Mildred has been away all summer, visiting in Virginia, and all the family have just returned from spending ten days in Chicago visiting the World's Fair. M. L. B.

English Street.—Since our last report quite a number of things have happened. Our old church building has been torn down, and we are now having services in a building at West End, which R. B. Gantt of this city has so kindly offered to us for use until we can erect a new church building. We hope to have our new building underway in the near future. Mr. Gantt, the purchaser of the church has also given us the windows, floors, benches and any part of the building we wished to take. This will be a great help when we build our new church. We have been having unusually good attendance at our preaching services since we have moved our place of worship. Also, our pastor, Rev. Hill, has been giving us some fine sermons.

We received a new member into the church on last Sunday evening, Guilford Griffin, a fine young man of our community.

On the past Sunday morning, we were very glad to have several of our pastor's children present in our services, a son of Pennsylvania, one from Virginia, and one from Asheboro, also a daughter from Denton; all of whom visited in his home the past weekend.

We are glad to report that all of our organizations are moving along and doing good work. The Ladies' Aid society is now working on two quilts which they plan to sell. Also, several of the ladies along with the C. E. society have made dresses for the orphanage home. The senior C. E. society is giving a play on Friday evening, September 7, entitled, "A Poor Married Man." The proceeds will go to the work of the society and church.

REPORTER.

West End, Greensboro.—West End got off to a running start Sunday on its loyalty and Church Stewardship campaign with a good crowd attending both church and Sunday school. Our pastor, Rev. T. J. Whitehead, delivered two excellent sermons, the morning subject being, "I Believe in the Church," and the evening subject, "Stewardship Parables of Jesus; According to Capacity."

An attendance contest was started in the Sunday school as a whole, with a prize being offered to the individual scoring most points at the close of the campaign. Much interest is being shown and it is hoped that new members and visitors as well as the church will benefit from this.

The Foust Bible class will have a Brunswick Stew at the church on Tuesday evening, September 11, beginning at 5 o'clock. Anyone liking old-fashioned Brunswick Stew is asked to reserve that date and come out to enjoy a good supper with us.

Circle No. 1 met with Mrs. R. R. Wright Monday afternoon with a good attendance. Mrs. L. W. Routh conducted the devotional using "Choices," as her subject. It was found that we lack only a small amount of reaching our goal for Anniversary Day and are sure of getting the balance in before the appointed day. Plans were made at this time for raising funds for the coming months.

Mr. L. W. Routh will lead in the prayer services Wednesday evening. A good crowd is expected.

Next Sunday is Family Emphasis Day in the Loyalty Campaign. All families are requested to sit together. The sermon subject will be "Religion for the Whole Family."

Kannapolis.—Our special meeting which was in progress all last week came to a close Sunday. There were some 12 or 14 conversions and reclamations. Rev. T. G. Madison of Thomasville was the pulpit help, and he did good preaching. It was a pleasure to have Mr. Madison in our midst during the week and our people all learned to love him.

One hundred and five were awarded certificates at the commencement exercises of the Daily Vacation Bible school held last Friday a week. Mrs. Carrie Braswell who is secretary for the Children's Home in our chuch, made a splendid appeal Sunday for the birthday offering for the Home. It is hoped that our church will do its part in helping to relieve the strain under which Dr. and Mrs. Dixon are laboring. It is our resonsibility too, as a church. They are our children and we must do our part.

Mrs. Eugene Grayson, formerly the efficient reporter of the Kannapolis church, was rushed to a Mooresville hospital last Thursday night with an attack of acute appendicitis. She stood the operation well and last reports from here were that she was improving.

Our pastor, Mr. Morris, accompanied by his father, Rev. J. D. Morris of Fallston, spent a few days recently at the World's Fair in Chicago.

The members of our church have been saddened at the announcement that our splendid young pastor is to leave us in a few weeks. He plans to enter Westminster Seminary this fall.

The different circles of the Ladies' Auxiliary will hold their meetings tonight (Mon.).

The Christian Endeavor society will hold its monthly business meeting and social next Saturday night.

MRS. D. A. McLAURIN.

Spring Hill, North Davidson Charge.—The Ladies' Aid society has recently made a $50.00 payment on the parsonage debt and are still working faithfully with their chickens while the men are raising potatoes. The Ladies' Aid wishes to thank all who have made this payment possible.

Rev. Grant was in the pulpit Sunday afternoon, using as his topic, "Insufficient Religion." He emphasized that we build something that we could rely on always, which would mean a clean Christian life. When Jesus was here He talked by parables, using the things of life as an example. He made it so simple that even a child could understand His teachings. Sometimes we undertake the right thing in the wrong way and consequently fail. The true basis to find the Master is being in harmony with our fellowmen. Many church members hold a grudge against their neighbor and this is called the insufficient religion. We should build our religion on a fundamental structure in order that it may stand the difficulties of life. These remarks were made before an appreciative audience.

There will be an all day Home Coming reunion at our church the fifth Sunday, September 30. We are hoping to organize a Burial association at this time to take care of the cemetery. Full detail of the program has not been released but we are expecting to have a wonderful day and invite all people who are interested in Spring Hill to be with us, especially former pastors, friends and those who have loved ones buried here. More facts will appear in the Herald concerning this Home Coming later.

The Ladies' Aid society and Sunshine Circle will meet with Mrs. Carl Swaim, the third Saturday of this month at 2 o'clock. All of the members are urged to be present.

The Young Girls' Sunshine Circle will sponsor a Lawn Party, Saturday evening, September 8, on the corner lot of the church property. Ice cream, chicken pie, sandwiches and other good things will be for sale and the proceeds will go toward making a payment on the piano. A chief attraction for the evening will be string music by John Swaim and others. We cordially invite you all to attend and help a worthy cause.

EDITH YORK.

KEEPING HISTORY STRAIGHT

For the sake of keeping history straight I would like to make a correction in the history of Moriah church as published in the Herald August 23. The Rev. Mr. Merriwether, who objected to the people reading "The Mutual Rights," was presiding elder of the church and not the pastor. The person who was given a month in which to decide whether he would cease reading the Mutual Rights was the Rev. John Coe, my grandfather, and not the Rev. Mr. Gilbreath. Many times I have heard my father relate the incident.

MRS. W. C. KENNETT.

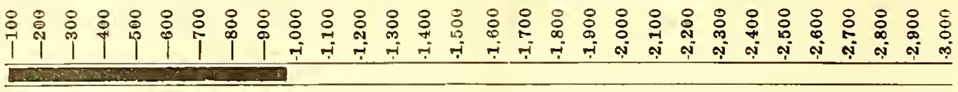
Greensboro, N. C.

—Professor Holt Hunter, who for the paast three years has been principal of the school at Denton, N. C., has moved with his family to Greensboro where he has established a printing business. Brother Hunter is a son of A. L. Hunter of Pinnacle and a brother of Rev. R. A. Hunter of the Forsyth charge.

—Mrs. L. W. Gerringer and children of Henderson are expecting to move to their home at 1113 Bellevue street, Greensboro next Monday. Calvary people are looking forward to having them in the services.

—Mrs. S. M. Johnson, who for a long period of years has been a most active member in our First Church, Winston-Salem, has sufficiently rocovered from a severe illness as to be out some again.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

Herald Directing Committee: J. E. Pritchard, chairman; C. W. Bates, E. L. Douglas.

	%
Lincolnton	94
Shiloh	74
Siler City	74

Just look at the new line-up in my column of honor this week. Siler City noses out Albemarle and comes into my column for the first time. Well, I am sorry for Albemarle to have to take a back seat but I rejoice that Siler City is coming up. Remember that this place of honor is for whatever charges that deserves it. Lincolnton just keeps climbing and she is now so high up she can almost look over the top of the wall, down into the city of victory. Keep it up Lincolnton. And Shiloh moves up a little also. The church, Shiloh, reached its goal weeks ago but the charge has not quite made the grade yet but they are coming.

Owing to theweakened physical condition of Dr. McCulloch, I now go down to his home each Wednesday morning and work up the last page of the Herald and put the new subscriptions on the mailing list. Please continue to send your money to Dr. McCulloch as formerly, but if it is not credited correctly or if there is anything wrong with the mailing list then the criticism should be levelled at me.

A few days ago some one asked me what we meant by Subsidy. It is possible that others are asking the same question and I will try to answer it. Subsidy is an amount that each charge is supposed to pay to the Herald, in addition to the subscriptions, to help meet the running expenses of the paper. Churches with less than 100 members are assessed $2.50; those with membership from 100-200, $5.00; from 200-300, $7.50; those with a membership from 300-400, $10.00; from 400 to 500, $15.00, and all over 500 are asked to pay $20.00. When a church sends in the full amount assessed a star is placed in front of the amount in the column. The subscription quota is based on one subscription to each ten members of the churches. Any local church on a circuit wanting to know how much its quota is can find out by dividing the local church membership by ten.

Now, I am wondering who is going to make a big gain this week.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Charge	Quota	Rec'd	Subsidy
Alamance	47	12	$....
Albemarle	17	12¾	....
Anderson	31	5¼	....
Asheboro	41	26½	*20.00
ASHEVILLE	14	15	*5.00
Bess Chapel-Caroleen	39	11.10	....
BURLINGTON, F'T'N PL.	11	14	*2.50
Burlington, First t	71	17½	*20.00
Bessemer City	13	7.92	....
Charlotte	21	12.2	1.50
Chase City	13	....	....
China Grove	3	.82	....
Cleveland	61	8¾	....
Concord	26	13½	*7.50
Connelly Springs	16	1½	....
Creswell	35	5½	....
Davidson	58	2½	....
Democrat	16	2	....
Denton	48	12¼	....
DRAPER	7	7	*2.50
Enfield	15	10¼	*5.00
Fallston	85	30	....
Flat Rock	63	16	....
Friendship	21	3.42	....
Forsyth	45	10½	2.50
Gibsonville	20	4	*5.00
Glen Raven	47	7¼	....
GRAHAM	27	33.18	*7.50
Granville	59	18½	16.55
GR'NSBORO, CALVARY	29	37½	*7.50
Greensboro, Grace	32	11	....
Greensboro, St. Paul	17	4¼	*5.00
Greensboro, West End	26	11.6	*7.50
Greensville	59	8½	....
Guilford	37	11½	....
Halifax	53	9	....
Haw River	51	14½	....
Henderson	38	23.55	*10.00
High Point, English St.	14	7	....
High Point, First	70	31	8.00
High Point, Lebanon	34	7½	....
High Point, Welch	22	5½	*7.95
KANNAPOLIS	15	23.02	*5.00
Kernersville	31	2¾	....
Lexington, First	45	16¼	*10.00
Lexington, State Street	40	11.11	....
Liberty	35	5	....
Lincolnton	18	16.92	....
Littleton	50	7¾	....
Mebane	28	8	....
Mecklenburg	40	2	....
Melton's Grove	4	....	....
Midland	60	3½	....
Midway-Shady Grove	10	2	....
Moriah	17	5	*5.00
Mocksville	52	4½	....
Mt. Hermon	98	22¼	....
Mount Pleasant	62	11½	....
North Davidson	33	8	....
Orange	71	28½	*22.50
Pinnacle	52	9⅛	....
Pleasant Grove	19	6½	*5.00
Porter	5	....	....
Randleman	45	7½	....
Randolph	74	13	....
REIDSVILLE	10	10	....
Richland	43	4½	....
Roberta	26	7¼	....
Rockingham	15	3½	....
Saxapahaw	57	12	10.00
Shiloh	64	47½	*20.00
Siler City	20	16½	*7.50
SPENCER	3	4	....
Spring Church	32	14½	....
Tabernacle	39	21¼	....
THOMASVILLE, COM.	16	17	*5.00
THOMASVILLE, FIRST	23	23	*7.50
Thomasville, West	12	2	....
Vance	51	11½	....
Weaverville	19	3½	2.50
West Forsyth	62	14	....
WHITAKERS	7	8	*2.50
Why Not	63	6½	....
Winston, First	26	10½	*7.62
WINSTON, SOUTH	3	5	....
Yarborough	10	5½	....
Miscellaneous		6.60	....

Individual churches on circuits raising their quota in full are: SHILOH on Shiloh Charge, EFLAND on Orange Charge.

 Subsidy paid in full.

Methodist Protestant Herald

J. F. McCULLOCH, Editor and Publisher

Published weekly in the interest of the Methodist Protestant Church as an organ of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

PRICE—$2.00 a year, payable in advance.

Papers are discontinued on expiration of the term of subscription. However, subscribers who request it will be marked on our books as "regular," their papers to be continued and payment to be made as near the beginning of the year as convenient.

Subscribers can remit directly or hand their money to pastors, who act as our agents in the field.

In directing change of address, give the old address as well as the new. In renewing, give the same initials as before.

We cannot often supply back numbers.

We acknowledge receipt of money on subscription account by changing the date on the label. If this is not changed within two weeks after your money is forwarded, write us.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Greensboro. N. C.

A GRACIOUS REVIVAL

We have just closed a very fine meeting in the Children's Home. The meeting began on Sunday, August 29th, with three services. We held two services each week day, and closed with three services yesterday, September 2. Dr. W. S. Nicholson, of Guilford College, conducted the meetings. His life has been given largely to work with children and young people. His presence has proved a great uplift to our children. They were all greatly revived, and all who were not already Christians surrendered their lives to Christ. And about 30 of the younger children gave their names for church membership at the closing service.

Every child, who was not already a church member, gave his name except one. He professed faith in Christ but would not consent to join the church. Will each Christian who reads this please breathe a prayer that he may be led into the church.

Faithfully,

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

◆

HERALD SUBSCRIPTION RECEIPTS

Rev. D. R. Williams, West Forsyth	$4.00
Miss Sallie Smith, Siler City	3.50
Rev. H. F. Fogleman, Fallston	2.00
Rev. G. L. Reynolds, Why Not	2.00
J. J. Mallard, First Ch., Lexington	1.50
Rev. J. R. Anderson, Albemarle	1.00
Mrs. D. M. Pender, Orange	1.00
Mrs. F. S. Stockard, West End, G'boro	1.00
Rev. J. E. Pritchard, Calvary	1.00
Rev. N. G. Bethea, Gibsonville	.50
Rev. J. A. Burgess, Alamance	.50

On Subsidy

Rev. N. G. Bethea, Gibsonville	$5.00
Rev. N. G. Bethea, Fountain Place	2.50

◆

—Brother W. T. Hanner of Julian has recently been elected President of the North Carolina Nurserymen's association.

—Miss Elizabeth Williams of Calvary church will leave next week for Powell's Point, between the Albemarle Sound and the ocean, where she will teach music.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

ONE IS YOUR MASTER EVEN CHRIST AND ALL YE ARE BRETHREN.

Rev H L Isley 2feb5

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., SEPTEMBER 13, 1934 NUMBER 42

Why Support Financially?

By N. G. Bethea

There are many people who still doubt if there is any profit coming to them from contributing of their means to good causes, which goes to prove that they have never studied the question from a Biblical standpoint.

Is there anything to be gained by giving more than "saving the face" or not having the name of being close-fisted,—"not doing my part," as some term it? Then there are those who give because they feel as if they must at least put on as good a show as others. Then there are those who feel that if it is worthy they should give in order to help those who are in need, or, to make investments that would help should they ever be in need.

Are any of these scriptural? Do any of these bring the real profit that it to be found in letting the "love that never faileth" be the motive of all giving?

If giving is a trait of God, and we only have to read the best known verse in the Bible to see that it is, then to cultivate that which makes us godlike must surely bring to us a richer experience for so doing. To become like God is surely the ambition or desire of the one who wishes to have power with God and with man. Our surest way to be in touch with God vitally is to have as many godly qualities as possible. And these begin by the new birth, and if the proper growth in grace is kept up, there is that development which begins to measure up to God's cubic measure as revealed in John three sixteen.

In this verse we see something of the height of God's love, "so loved," etc., that He gave; love, the source of true giving. The depth is shown in that the test in all true giving is its cost; "gave his only begotten Son." David, a man after God's own heart, said, "I will not offer that to the Lord which cost me nothing." Gave all He had that would save.

The breadth of this giving is the word, "so loved the world." Those who give after the motives first mentioned are not apt to have a world vision. Hence their giving does not develop the trait of God. Nothing broadens a person's mind like having a world vision of the needs of humanity, that not only calls for money, but a love that offers self for others.

Then the length is shown that in this gift eternal life is offered through it. When these four dimensions are lacking in our giving there does not come to us that blessing that is intended in our giving.

We say that faith is a grace; true. We say that knowledge is a grace; true. Others might be mentioned, but Paul says, "See that ye abound in this grace also."

The abounding life is the life worthwhile; then it is not the abounding life with any of these necessary graces lacking.

But the profit-sharing in giving. "Godliness is profitable unto all things." Have we not seen that love-prompted giving is being like God? Surely it is profitable then to give. Why? "Give and it shall be given unto you." How much then must I give? That question arises from two different kinds of givers.

Some say, "I am no Jew, consequently I do not believe in tithing." Did you ever know many Jews who were not prosperous? Did you ever know any tither who was not prosperous? I do not mean rich. There are many prosperous servants of God who are not rich. They do not care to be. But they are prosperous, and especialy so in the things that make for the best in life. Usually the person who is against the tithe and boasts that he is not a Jew is irregular in his giving, and sometimes falls far below the divine standard.

To the person who wants to do the thing that will have the best effect upon himself, and others, many times gives more than a tenth. Let me say here, however, that there are many people who have a misunderstanding of what a tithe really is. It is not what we have left over after we gratify every desire for our own satisfaction. God's part is the first fruits.

People who are getting the profit out of giving that God desires that they should have, are the ones that give till they feel it. Let that be a tenth or more, never less. "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth." That is my promise, and yours; yes, it belongs to all who scatter real gifts of time, talent, and money, and do not make God the least in the giving of all these.

Do you really sacrifice anything for God? Is there a joy that you have given something worthwhile, or do you rejoice in the fact that you do not have to give any more than you do?

Giving should be done with joy. Do you know of any liberal givers that rejoice in what they do? The happiest are those who give their best. We have nothing to rejoice over if we withhold all the year and then give in a lump sum what may seem to some to be a big amount, when in reality it is not according to the year's prosperity.

Another thing: There are many people who give such a small amount that others gauge their giving and make it small according to what others have done. "Let your light shine" here as well as in other lands.

How often we hear it said, "So and So gave five dollars, and I know that if that is his part, one dollar will be big for me." Be careful, brother, that you do not cause your weak (stingy, of less ability than you) brother to fail in the things that he should do. Many are stumbling blocks right here.

If there was giving according to ability as we are taught in the New Testament to do, we would not have to split hairs over the methods by which it should be done. I am sure that a good many good plans fail because we are afraid of the individual who tries to set the standard of the giving and the way it should be given.

After all, I am pleading for us to get what belongs to us from God as Christians; for until we stop robbing God, we may expect to be in arrears in all these things that go to make fat souls, and lives with the overflowing blessing.

AFTER THE WAR IS OVER

By LUTHER K. LONG

Following Hitler's so-called "blood purge" in Germany, and the suppression of revolutionary disturbances in Austria, there were serious indications that another European war was imminent. That condition has since cleared to a considerable extent.

Mussolini, however, warns his people that war may come at any time, and he urges the necessity of making Italy a military, even a militaristic, nation. Their army, and especially the flying forces, are being kept in training ready for an emergency call.

A person who wants to take a reasonable view of the possibilities ahead of us should know at least enough history to realize how little that is desirable has come as a consequence of war, and how much that follows fighting is detrimental even to the victors.

At the close of the Civil War the South was prostrate. The ministers and churches there had twisted Scripture into supporting slavery, and Christian leadership had given support to the fighting. The North was not so much better off. Bitterness and hatred filled many hearts, and vengeance was advocated as the proper order of the day. Christian leadership was, in large measure, out of harmony with the spirit of Christ.

When Jefferson Davis, late President of the Confederacy, was captured, the New York Independent voiced the sentiments of many Northern church people when it said:

"The arch criminal is in our hands. Guilty of treason, guilty of perjury, guilty of barbarity, guilty of murder—such is the indictment against Jeff Davis. What shall be the punishment? . . . On whatever charge he may be tried, let his trial be dignified, passionless and impartial, and after the sentence let the death penalty be solemnly executed."

In 1868 William Lloyd Garrison wrote: "The South is shattered, disorganized, bankrupt, helpless; still animated by a demoniacal spirit toward all that pertains to free institutions and the general popular enlightenment, still disloyal in spirit and conduct; still wishing to rule in Hell rather than serve in Heaven. Cursed by her old slave system beyond all that imagination can depict or language express, she is both morally and intellectually incapable of self-recovery and needs help in every way and of every kind." Some of these things were true enough, but the spirit of these Northern brothers was not at all conducive to understanding and speedy reconstruction.

The attitude of the South wasn't any better. Bishop Elliott, Episcopalian, in a Thanksgiving sermon preached in Savannah, Georgia, September, 1862, spoke of the opposition to slavery as "presumptuous interference with the will and ways of God." He interpreted certain things in the history of the states as showing how God was working for the interests of the South's beloved institution: When slavery was endangered by the scanty profits which were yielded to the planters by their old staples of indigo and rice, God permitted a new staple to be introduuced—cotton. . . . When the border states which could not profitably grow this staple were calculating the value of the slave institution for themselves, and were actually debating in convention its speedy extinction, a sudden and unexpected value was given to their old staples of wheat and tobacco; men again called it a happy accident, and the slave rose again into importance, and God used self-interest to check the disposition toward emancipation."

Near the close of the war, the Southern Presbyterian Church, by its general assembly, voted: "We hesitate not to affirm that it is the peculiar mission of the Southern church to conserve the institution of slavery and to make it a blessing to both master and slave."

A song of six stanzas was sung in the South by which many expressed and, supposedly, relieved their feelings. Here are stanzas one, five and six:

O I'm a good old rebel,
Now that's just what I am;
For the "fair land of freedom,"
I do not care a dam;
I'm glad I fit against it,
I only wish we'd won,
And I don't want no pardon
For anything I done.

Three hundred thousand Yankees
Is stiff in Southern dust;
We got three hundred thousand
Before they conquered us;
They died of Southern fever,
And Southern steel and shot;
I wish it was three million
Instead of what we got.

I can't take up my musket
And fight 'em now no more;
But I ain't a-goin' to love 'em,
Now that is certain sure.
And I don't want no pardon
For what I was and am;
I won't be reconstructed,
And I don't give a dam.

Both North and South had been guilty of resorting to the use of a very crude, cruel, unchristian, and ineffective method of settling questions that should have been submitted to the forum of intelligence and advanced Christian thinking. People can't fight each other for four long years, maiming and killing men, destroying each other's property and laying waste each other's territory, and then at once resume relations of concord and co-operation.

The World War was a civil war on an immense scale. The world had become a neighborhood. Nations knew about each other's affairs. They had shared in research work, inventions, and the agencies of speed and power and material betterment. It was perfectly natural—even if diabolical—to turn in armed conflict all these beneficent inventions into agencies of pain and death and destruction. They will be used to a greater extent in another war if, and when, it comes. It was perfectly natural—even if altogether unchristian—to use lying propaganda on both sides to stir up and increase hate and to use the Christian appeal for unholy purposes. Will that be done in another war to which our boys and men will be called? I am sure that, should war come, the effort will be made by the powers that be to have us all carry on as usual.

But will the church go into the fight as on former occasions? A few opposed the last war. Thousands of ministers of many denominations are now pledging themselves that never again will they bless war, never again will they give up their pulpits to the advocacy of slaughter and destruction. There are already enough of these to make considerable impression. Some attitudes may be extreme, but war advocates must reckon with them.

So futile was the World War, so little was settled by means of it, so dreadful was the slaughter of young manhood, and so lasting have been the evil consequences to the entire world—to victors as well as vanquished—that every religious person in every nation should be ready to renounce war forever. By continued agitation and organization—and more agitation—we should turn the thought and effort of legislators and executives to the task of finding and using other methods of settling international disputes.

> "Thy Kingdom come, O Lord,
> Wide-circling as the sun;
> Fulfil of old Thy word
> And make the nations one,—
>
> "One in the bond of peace,
> The service glad and free
> Of truth and righteousness,
> Of love and equity."

PROCRASTINATE

It's a long word. It means "to put off." Those who put off doing what they ought to do are procrasinators. Some preachers can be accused of procrastination. They have put off sending me the names and addresses of their delegates. Are you, my brother, one of them fellers? You can easily come out from among them and be separate by doing now what I asked you to do three weeks ago—drop me a card with the name and address of your delegate, your name and charge. I have heard from 23 charges out of 85.

C. W. Bates, Secretary.
906 Carolina Ave., Winston-Salem, N. C.

—The government's plan to insure loans for property repairs or remodeling is applicable to loans to churches.

THE CHILDREN"S HOME HOME-COMING

By J. E. Pritchard

Before these lines are read by the public, the Home-Coming Day at the Children's Home will have passed and the tale will be told as to how the people responded to the idea of paying off the indebtedness there. Of course it is too late for any last minute appeal even if I were authorized to make one. But those of us who have the welfare of the institution at heart will await the day with a certain degree of anxiety. So much is involved! There is the need of the Home and of the children. The indebtedness is grinding and with creditors pressing, those in authority could not possibly feel as comfortable as they would feel if the Home were free of debt. Many of these children have nowhere else to go. The depression which has made it hard to finance the Home has also made it hard for the children to finance themselves. Under normal conditions, relatives might be found who are able to care for them, but not now.

But the side of it that I have presented is not the side that I started out to present. I want us to think of how much that Children's Home has meant to the N. C. Annual Conference. It has been one of the rallying points for the entire conference. It is true that some people have never warmed up to the Home as much as some of us think they ought to do; however, we have no quarrel with anyone about that. But it is safe to say that the Home has been a blessing to many people that have never sent any children there. It has furnished the opportunity for many people to give of their time and their substance, and their souls have grown great. Many people in the conference today—and there are many gone to heaven—who are bigger and better because of the Home.

While I do not claim to be one of the ancients, yet I can recall the time when there was no home for children among us. There was nothing for us to rally around except the church paper, which has also been a blessing. It is true, we have had our local churches for more than a hundred years, but these have not furnished the opportunity for people to become united in a common cause. The truth of the matter is, our churches were so widely separated that we hardly knew they existed. Then in 1910 we heard that a home for orphan children was being established. Credit for establishing the home has already been bestowed upon the heads of those who were worthy of it. But I am inclined to think there is one more who should have a little more recognition in this matter. That person is Rev. G. L. Reynolds, who was running the school at Denton and who was in the very front ranks of those who were in favor of establishing a home there. It is generally understood that he agreed to teach the children free of charge besides doing other things for them if the home were established there. And it was established there! All honor to Denton and to those responsible for establishing it there. Then it was decided that it would be wise to move it to High Point, and with this the most of us agree. Then there was a campaign for funds, and finally the buildings began to go up and our hearts began to throb with joy as we saw that we were to take our place alongside other denominations who wanted to care for helpless children and thus fulfill the law of Christ. During the history of the institution there have been many great days. The day of the laying of the cornerstone, the dedication day, and many days—all of them have been great days, and as we have mingled together and studied our problems together we have thanked God and have taken courage.

But at first we were dreaming of what we were going to do. Now it is no longer a speculation but it is a matter of history as to what we have done. The buildings have been erected and the Home has been turning out its product—ah, there is always the rub. Will the thing do what we want it to do? Will it produce men and women that the church can be proud of? While there may be a few exceptions, yet I would say that the church has nothing to be ashamed of in the lives that the Home has produced. It has been my good fortune to be pastor of several young people that have come out from the Home, and I want to give my testimony to the fact that they have measured up. Of course they were not angels. We did not expect them to be. They are just young people with their hopes and aspirations as the rest of us have ours. But they have been real young people and the most of them are making good. And as the years come and go I am of the opinion that the church can be still prouder of them.

It is also doubtful whether we have ever undertaken anything that the people got as much pleasure out of contributing to as they have the Children's Home. Offerings have always been voluntary. No assessment has ever been levied. The Annual Conference has stood back of the institution, and yet is has wisely left the matter in the hands of the people as to their gifts. And while there has been some difficulty in financing the Home during the past few years, I still believe our people will come to the rescue of this worthy institution.

It is a worthy institution and is being conducted economically by most worthy people, so why should we fall down in our greatest opportunity?

So this letter is to congratulate the Home on its achievement, and to congratulate all those who have had any part in its development and it is to wish continued prosperity to the one institution around which we have rallied and because of which we have become a greater people and a greater church.

LET 'EM ROLL

What to all intents and purposes was an animated log followed by a group of more or less interested spectators, rolled by the gate of the Rehuri School in Rahuri, India, about vesper time one Sunday evening. Then the log evolved into a man rolling himself to glory at the rate of five miles per day. He had been on the road for four and a half months. His destination was the temple of Pandharpur, domicile of the god Vithoba. Says Miss E. Loleta Wood, who saw the man: "To this god the man will bring his offering of a bruised and broken body hoping to receive in return that peace and soul-happiness that comes when the heart has found God. With scenes like this unfolding themselves at our very doors, do you wonder we become a bit heartsick when we hear uninformed persons saying that there is no further need of missions and that the religions of India and China or Africa are better suited to their needs than is Christ's message of love?" —Selected.

THE DAY OF REDEMPTION

There will come a time when the Lord God will take unto Himself His spiritual inheritance,—those redeemed by the blood of Jesus and filled with the Holy Spirit—and bestow upon them their reward. He will come in glory with a mighty triumph and the dead in Christ will be caught up to meet Him. It is very sad indeed to learn that some of the present-day Christians are content to live as they now live in the world and do not hope for the immediate return of our Lord. I think that the day should be looked forward to with joy; for our Master cometh in exalted glory to take us to the mansions and delights that we will share with Him. The thought and hope, "the day of my redemption draweth nigh," should be high in the mind of the Christian. He should anticipate it with gladness.

"Behold, he cometh with the clouds; and every eye shall see him." Rev. 1:7. His coming shall be as a thief in the night, or as a man returning from a long journey. No man knoweth the time, either when he himself will die, or when the Lord will return. God tells us to be ready; he does not say, "Get ready," but "Be ready." It is true, dear friends. Our Jesus went away, sending us the Holy Spirit on his departure, and He must return. Oh, what rejoicing! That will be one of the greatest moments in the life of the true Christian. At the first resurrection, Christ will come as a thief in the night to steal away his saints from a world of tribulation. At the second, those who "were left" will be brought before Him for judgment.

There is a song that reads, "And I shall see him face to face." It will surely mean something to be able to stand before the mighty eye of our Lord and hear his words of approval. But, oh, how awful to hear "Depart from me . . " Even if there were no hell it would be desolation to be exiled from Jesus—for eternity! Yes, it would be more than desolation.

However, these thoughts should not lead to discontentment with his lot on the part of the Christian. There is much to be accomplished. Jesus would not have us be idle. We must work and fight and pray, and serve gladly where our Father puts us. We are to prepare for the final winding up of events when He shall come again. Serve God joyfully all of the days of your life and work for the salvation of others. We should be more than glad to obey Him, and let Him have His way in everything, for it is by His marvelous plan that our salvation is even possible.

And in the words of another song, "I want to be found ready when He comes." The important thing is to be prepared to meet God, and to be a fruitful tree. Don't bury your talent, for some time, we do not know when, Almighty God will require it of you, with interest.

CHARLES W. STONE.

Siler City, N. C.

"And what was Joshua's experience? Well, he told the people almost with his dying breath, "Ye know in all your hearts and in all your souls that not one thing hath failed of all the good things which the Lord your God spake concerning you." And this will be thy experience, too, O my soul!" —Thomas Champness.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

These Churches Pay A. C. Budget in September

Pinnacle, North Davidson, Mocksville, Moriah, Midland, Littleton, Democrat.

These Churches Have Paid Some A. C. Claims

Gibsonville—All claims.

Kannapolis—Church Extension, A. C. Expenses, College assessment.

Denton Charge—Canaan church, A. C. Expenses; Denton church, Superanuates, A. C. Expenses.

Spring Church—A. C. Expenses; Pleasant Hill, Superannuates.

Vance Charge—New Hope and Spring Valley paid Superannuates.

First Church, Thomasville—Church Extension.

Randleman Charge—Worthville church paid A. C. Expenses, A. C. Debt, Superannuates, Church Extension; Randleman, paid Church Extension; New Salem, paid Church Extension and A. C. Expenses; Level Cross, paid Church Extension.

Yarborough Chapel—paid Church Extension, A. C. Expenses, and A. C. Debt.

Anderson Charge—Fairview church paid A. C. Expenses, A. C. Debt, and Church Extension.

Concord, First church—paid Church Extension, Superannuates, and A. C. Expenses.

Calvary church—paid Church Extension, A. C. Expenses, A. C. Debt.

Enfield—paid A. C. Expenses and College.

Whitakers Chapel—paid A. C. Expenses, Church Extension, Superannuates.

West Thomasville—Superannuates, A. C. Debt.

Guilford Charge—all churches paid A. C. Debt, Superannuates, Church Extension.

Community Church, Thomasville—paid Church Extension, Superannuates, A. C. Expenses, A. C. Debt.

Whitakers—paid A. C. Debt, A. C. Expenses, Church Extension and Superannuates.

Shiloh—paid World Service, A. C. Expenses, A. C. Debt, Church Extension, Superannuates.

Friendship, same charge—paid College, A. C. Debt, A. C. Expenses, Church Extension and Superannuates; Greers, paid College.

Saxapahaw Charge—Concord church, paid A. C. Expenses.

Pinnacle Charge—all churches paid Church Extension.

North Davidson Charge—Mt. Pleasant paid Church Extension; Canaan, paid Superannuates and A. C. Expenses.

Mt. Pleasant and Pleasant Union—paid Church Extension.

Mt. Hermon—Cedar Cliff, paid Church Extension and Superannuates.

Kernersville Charge—all churches paid Church Extension.

Orange Charge—all churches paid Church Extension.

Siler City Charge—Piney Grove paid Church Extension and A. C. Expenses.

Creswell Charge—Mt. Hermon paid Church Extension.

First Church, Burlington—paid Church Extension and A. C. Expenses.

Graham—paid A. C. Expenses.

Greenville Charge—Matthews and Philadelphia paid A. C. Expenses; Wesley, Church Extension and Superannuates.

Tabernacle Charge—Julian, paid A. C. Expenses and Superannuates.

Roberta—paid A. C. Debt.

St. Paul—paid A. C. Expenses and Superannuates.

Draper—paid Church Extension and A. C. Expenses.

Mebane Church—paid A. C. Expenses, Church Extension, Superannuates.

Weaverville Charge—Weaverville, A. C. Expenses, Superannuates; Mt. Zion, Superannuates.

State Street Charge—Bethesda and State Street, Church Extension and College Maintenance.

First Church, Lexington—paid A. C. Expenses, Superannuates.

Welch Memorial Church—paid A. C. Expenses.

The above is given as a set-up of the achievements of the churches on these Annual Conference claims. Many churches have paid part of several of these claims which are not mentioned here. We hope to add to this list as the claims are paid and to run in the HERALD the names of churches which have paid all claims during October. If the pastors and official boards will get busy on this at once we hope to exhibit a good showing for the year by the first week in November.

Pastor Appointed for First Church, High Point

Brother J. Clay Madison has been appointed pastor of First Church, High Point.

Denton Charge, Rev. J. T. Bowman, Pastor

This is a five-point charge. I visited three of the churches last Sunday, Canaan, Piney Grove and Denton, in the order named. These are the stronger churches of the work, and there were present about the usual congregations at the first two churches, these being the regular services. The service at Denton was an extra service, and made a conflict with one of the other denominations, but the pastor thought we had as many as usual; there was a fine attendance.

This is Brother Bowman's first year on this work, but he appears to be getting a good grip on it, and the people are co-operating with him, so far as I could ascertain. He and Mrs. Bowman are doing an especially fine piece of work at Denton with the young people. It was obvious to a visitor, and the people appreciate it. A mimeographed order of worship is given those in attendance to guide them, which would do credit in any church, and the youth are showing their appreciation by their attendance, and use of it.

The church building here is in good repair and will naturally attract the stranger to the town. We also have some very fine men and women leading here, which helps so much. It makes one's heart ache to attend services in some churches and see the great need of leadership. The people could be found to fill the church, and they would go there, if there were those there to lead them in the work of the church. It is too bad to see a Sunday school period almost wasted by those who do not know what to do to make it worth while. Here is our problem in far too many communities. It is being relieved somewhat, but we are still in need of those who, like Gideon, can say, "Look on me and do thou likewise."

Some Quarterly Conferences

Why Not—October 20 at 11 a.m.
West Thomasville—October 24 at 7 p.m.
Shiloh Charge—October 26 at 2 p.m.
Denton—October 26 at 7:30 p.m.
Guilford Charge—October 27 at 2:30.
Orange Charge—November 3 at 2 p.m.

Plan of Appointments

September 16—Saxapahaw charge; Orange Chapel at 11 a.m., Concord afternoon, Salem at night.

September 17—M. P. Ministers Association, Greensboro.

September 23—Cleveland charge; Oak Grove at 11 a.m., Moriah afternoon, Lawndale at night.

September 30—Community church, 11 a.m.; First church, Thomasville, 8 p.m.

October 7—West End, Greensboro.

October 14—Connelly Springs charge.

October 21—Grace church, 11 a.m.; First church, Lexington, afternoon and night.

October 28—Shiloh charge; Greers Chapel at 11 a.m., Friendship afternoon.

R. M. Andrews.

OUR CHURCH

Is it true that our church is losing its spiritual power? Of course, we have perhaps the best organized, best directed church along technical, financial, and business lines of any Protestant denomination. However, I am not speaking of the technical side, but of the spiritual side of our church. Oh yes, we have the same doctrine all right. We have what is to be considered a very fine set of educated ministers; but why is it that the real, old-time, Holy Ghost meetings, when the Spirit of the Lord held sway, are not so numerous in our church? Why is it that old time revivals and otherwise when seekers fell at the altar, are becoming scarce? Can it be that every soul within reach of our church has been saved? The fire does not seem to often fall any more—it does in some churches. Where is the church that Luther started! Alas, it seems that a diffusion has taken place, and worldly affairs have become too important in the church.

Yes, the form is here, but where are the essentials that go into it? Has the place that prayer has occupied in our church, and in the homes of members, gone? Oh Christians, let us pray more. "Men ought always to pray and not faint."

It seems that the center from which our activities are conducted has departed from the place of our knees and on our faces! Jesus not only felt the need of prayer and talked of it, but He prayed. God help us to say, "Is it I, Lord?"

Our church has lost something. Is it prayer?

Charles W. Stone.

A FOURFOLD CRUSADE

From the President's Report to the Ohio Annual Conference

By John Clark Williams

I would call this conference, and all Christians everywhere, to a fourfold crusade in the name of the Master.

1. An Avalanche of Good Deeds

One of the most beautiful things said of Jesus is that he went about doing good. We are charmed by this fact. The ideal disciple is the one who approaches the Master in this respect. The life of mankind needs to be flooded with an outpouring of fine, blessed living, on the part of Christian people, who do not weary in well-doing, whose hearts find their chief joy in doing things by which others are blessed, and who for the sake of Christ and mankind will give themselves completely in meeting the opportunities which arise.

The church needs a new baptism into his grace. There is a woeful lack of it manifest at times when people of God act like pagans. Pagan ways of selfishness, thoughtlessness of others, personal ambitions, greed, avarice, battle for admission at the doors of the church, and at the threshold of our personal lives. But until we joyfully, constantly, triumphantly pour out a flood of good deeds, blessing the race, we will neither well represent the Master, nor awaken in the hearts of others a longing after our faith.

2. The Right Use of Money

We Christians are on trial today. Since John Calvin broke down the Christian ideal of poverty, the church has had a battle to control wealth in the interest of the Kingdom. Today no Christian among us asks to be poor. Rather we seek wealth and what seem to be the advantages of wealth even if that go beyond the desire for a high standard of living. The abundant life is thought of in terms of bath tubs, radios, autos, bridge tables, electric fans, frigidaires, quite as fully as in terms of sins forgiven, righteousness, peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost. Money makes the wheels go round, therefore money must be secured. John Wesley saw clearly that if the Christian became rich his problem of the right use of money became much greater than when he was poor. In the Middle Ages Jews and sinners were the great money-lenders. Since John Calvin's day Jews and sinners have had strong competition among Presbyterians, Episcopalians, now and then Methodist Episcopalians, and once in a long time a Methodist Protestant. The One who became poor that we might become rich had something finer than material wealth in mind. Yet the wealth of the world had better be in the hands of the saints than in the hands of the sinners, provided the saints are blessed with a moral armament invulnerable to pagan impulses. But just now it's not the sinner who is withholding his money from God or is short in his sacrifices, that concerns us. It is the churchman who withholds, and his withholding "tendeth to poverty." In all the centuries there was never a greater need than now that churchmen of all classes manifest the Spirit of Christ in the handling of money and wealth. We cannot be wholly Christian while our ideals of acquiring and of use of money and wealth are pagan. A financial code for the church would have to begin with "The tithe is the Lord's"—a standard that our General Conference will not write into our church law or one-third of our people accept in their personal living. A crusade for Christ will include our money, else it will not include our hearts.

3. Soul-Winning

We must return to soul-winning as our chief goal. Nothing short of this can be a crusade for Christ. Either we have concluded that sinners are saints in the making, or we have no message for them, or we have no passion to win them, or we are too self-conscious to present our cause, or the people are waiting for the preachers, or the preachers are waiting for the evangelists.

Our record this year as well as that of recent years demands either that we as pastors become more evangelistic, or that we return to the custom of setting apart a group of men who seem called especially to do the work of evangelists. We must turn anew to this soul-winning task, else there is no use of thinking in terms of a crusade for Christ.

4. Break Every Yoke

The prophet Isaiah almost in despair cried:

"Is not this the fast that I have chosen? to loose the bands of wickedness, to undo the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke?

"Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that are cast out to thy house? when thou seest the naked, that thou cover him; and that thou hide not thyself from thine own flesh."

There is a militancy in the spirit of the church, which is normal. Aside from rites and ceremonies there must be a disposition to put away from us evils of every sort. The methods must be in keeping with the spirit of Christ. Many situations persist because of our apathy. Someone has said, "The Age is marked by the three A's: Avarice, Appetite, and Apathy." Evils are flourishing because of these. They affect us all—the last especially. Apathy is the paralytic blight of today. It is a semi-conscious suppression of our sense of right and duty, with a disposition to pass into a religious coma. Someone must cry aloud, "Awake! thou that sleepest. Who is on the Lord's side let him go up to the help of the Lord against the mighty." "Break every yoke."

The yoke of ignorance must be broken if an enlightened humanity is our goal. Ignorance is death-dealing,—spiritually, mentally, morally. Christianity and ignorance are incompatible. Wisdom and knowledge must do team work. Let a prayer be offered for every school. Christian culture trains the light of hope and holiness upon society, progressively promoting human well-being.

Break the Yoke of Evil

Society is beset by death-spreading evils—diseases of the body, immoralities, pagan ambitions dripping in blood, uprisings against social conventions of recognized merit, crushing of human hopes. Shall the Messiah have come in vain for the masses and multitudes?

Break the Yoke of Public Wrongs

The aspiration of sincerest hearts the world over is a by-product of the Gospel. That men try Communism, Socialism, or other forms of modern political and economic expression need surprise no one. Social progress is inherently related to the will of groups to take a dare, to make an adventure. Christian standards produce dissatisfaction with wrong conditions. The Gospel of Christian idealism has far outrun the living evidences of its practical social worth. Our racial yearning after the better things has been aroused to passionate fury, by gleams of the Kingdom of God on earth, without there having been born in the heart of life, the realization that righteousness, good will, and self-sacrifice are assential to the achievement of the Kingdom. The sale of the public welfare for business advantages, for political partisan success, for class benefit, is a yoke to be broken.

The traffic in liquor is a traffic in souls, a traffic in crime, a traffic in death. Revenue from that source disgraces the State, compromises honor, offends God, shames wisdom, mocks patriotism, and should consign its advocates to a fool's banishment, if not a traitor's fate. This traffic, fathered by our shocked business desperation, mothered by our seared political conscience, born on the front porch of expediency, while most of the church accepted its false heralds as if they had never been known to lie. This nation's enemy Number One at the height of his iniquity with his kind in crime, never once held an ounce of peril to the ton held by this reborn thing. Ninety-nine per cent of the people condemned Enemy Number One, rejecting his way, while seventy-five per cent of this nation now, knowing its evil, palliate this thing—compromise with it—vote for those who sustain it. This is the moral peril of our day. This yoke must be broken.

The spiteful eviction of the poor from tenement houses out into the roadside hospitality beats the tales of feudal times. To respond to the demands of labor with the guns of the militia is to debase the purpose of Government. To longer allow the private manufacture of the materials of war is to entrust the peace of the world to the mercy and morals of avarice.

These Yokes Must Be Broken!

Time does not allow me to call attention to more. You are concerned as well as I. You will do your part. But if we are to make next year carry forward in this work of the Master, we must strengthen the ties that bind us together, sweeten our fellowship with all the people of God everywhere, train our hearts in the wholesome business of loving mankind as the Master loved, and quicken our perceptions as to the difference between right and wrong, conscious of this fact: that God's will can be done on earth, as it is done in heaven.

Onward with the Infinite!
Climb the golden hill
Of noble purpose, holy will.
Let words be spoken
As yokes are broken,
Befitting the Master's praise,
Upholding the Master's ways;
Till the Kingdom come,
On with the Infinite!

◆

"Therefore do not be terrified if you feel too entirely unworthy and impure; for if your thoughts are fixed on that you will forget and lose this confidence and trust in Christ."

YOUR RELIGION—AND YOU!

The following statement from Dr. Robert E. Speer is well worth the reading by any young person. Yes, re-reading again and again:

"Any man who has a religion is bound to do one of two things, change it or spread it. If it isn't true, he must give it up. If it is true, he must give it away. This is not the duty of ministers only. Religion is not an affair of a profession or of a caste. It is the business of every common man. There is no proxy religion. Each man has his own. If he hasn't, he has none. No other man can have it for him. And if he has his own, then he must propagate it, if it is true, or repudiate it, if it is false.

"The idea that the world or any one land is to be evangelized by one section of the Christian body is preposterous for many reasons: chiefly because a faith that does not make every professor eager to propagate it is not worth propagating, and will not be received by any people to whom it is offered. The religion that would spread among men must be offered by man to man, and its power must be seen in dominating the lives of all its adherents and making them eager for its dissemination. This is essential as a testimonial of worth.

"The minister is to be simply colonel of the regiment. The real fighting is to be done by the men in the ranks who carry the guns. No ideal could be more non-Christian or more irrational than that the religious colonel is engaged to do the fighting for his men, while they sit at ease. And yet, perhaps, there is one idea current which is still more absurd. That is, that there is to be no fighting at all, but that the colonel is paid to spend his time solacing his regiment, or giving it gentle, educative instruction, not destined ever to result in any downright, manly effort on the part of the whole regiment to do anything against the enemy.

"Laymen are bound to propagate their religion by speaking about it, by preaching it, in fact. Telling men the Gospel, explaining what Christ can be to a man, is preaching, as scriptural as any preaching can be made. Ministers ought to make this plain, and lay the duty of such preaching upon all their laymen, and teach them how to do it. It makes no difference if it is done haltingly. A broken testimony from a laborer to his friend is likely to be more effective than a smotoh and conclusive morning sermon. The true ideal of Christian evangelism is the propagation of Christianity, not by public preachers so much as by private conversation and the testimony of common men.

"And no religious propaganda is likely to accomplish much that does not spring from, and rest upon, a family life, visibly influenced by religion. If men talk about Christianity to their fellows and have religionless homes, or homes marked by unkindness, harshness, distrust, their talk is as sounding brass and clanging cymbals. The home is the test of religion. And the best fountain and corroboration of religious testimony is the Christian home, where the family has its altar, and prays and worships as a family, openly and unitedly, before the Father after whom it is named. When all our homes are evidently filled with the Spirit of Christ, then the Gospel will spread as it will never spread from church or chapel."—The Covenanter Witness.

A PRAYER

This beautiful composition was found in Charleston, S. C., at the time of the Civil War. It was printed on very heavy satin and is a great literary curiosity. It appeared recently in a bulletin of a Methodist church in Pennsylvania.

THE LORD'S PRAYER

Thou to the mercy seat, our souls dost gather, to do our duty unto Thee
OUR FATHER
To whom all praise, all honour now be given; for Thou art the great God
WHO ART IN HEAVEN
Thou, by Thy wisdom, rulest the world's whole frame, forever, therefore
HALLOWED BE THY NAME
Let never more, delay divide us from Thy glorious grace, but let
THY KINGDOM COME
Let Thy commands opposed by none, but Thy good pleasure and
THY WILL BE DONE
And let our promptness to obey be even the very same
IN EARTH AS 'TIS IN HEAVEN
Then for our souls, O Lord, we also pray, Thou wouldst be pleased to GIVE US THIS DAY
The food of life wherewith our souls are fed, sufficient raiment, and
OUR DAILY BREAD
With every needful thing do Thou relieve us, and of Thy mercy, pity
AND FORGIVE US
All our misdeeds, for Him whom Thou didst please to make an offering for
OUR TRESPASSES
And forasmuch, O Lord, as we believe that Thou wilt pardon us
AS WE FORGIVE
Let that love teach, wherewith Thou didst acquaint us to pardon all
THOSE WHO TRESPASS AGAINST US
And though sometimes Thou find'st we've forgot this love for Thee, yet help
AND LEAD US NOT
Through soul or body's want, to desperation, nor let earth's gain drive us
INTO TEMPTATION
Let not the soul of any true believer fall in time of trial
BUT DELIVER
Yea, save them from the malice of the devil, and in both life and death keep
US FROM EVIL
Thus pray we, Lord, for that of Thee, from whom this may be had
FOR THINE IS THE KINGDOM
This world is of Thy work, a wondrous story, to Thee belongs
THE POWER AND THE GLORY
And all Thy wondrous works have ended never, but will remain forever and FOREVER
Thus we poor creatures would confess again, and thus would say eternally
AMEN.

OUR STORY PAGE

SELFISH SUSAN'S LESSON

Susan was the happiest little girl on Cedar street when she came home one afternoon and found a lovely new rope swing under the apple tree in the back yard.

"O father!" she cried eagerly when she discovered the treasure. "I'll not fret to go outside my own yard any more to play, for I am always happy when I swing, and nobody else on the street has a swing, so everybody will want to come in my yard to play."

Now in that instance it happened that Susan was right; there wasn't another swing on Cedar street, and the very next day after she found one on her lawn the children began tripping in to have a ride in it.

"This my swing," announced Susan when she found Tom Carr and Katie Moore, her closest neighbors, waiting to try it out, "and nobody can swing in it but me."

"Please, Susan," they teased, "let us have a try at it."

"No, indeed!" retorted Susan, "nobody but myself is going to swing in this swing." And accordingly she crawled in and started swinging.

For a little while Katie and Tom hung around, thinking maybe Susan would change her mind and invite them to ride—once, at least—but she didn't, and eventually they departed, and once they left, they decided they would not return any more until Susan invited them.

A few days went by and Susan did not miss her playmates in the least, but finally the newness of the swing wore off, and Susan began to wish she had some one to run about the yard with, and then she decided since nobody came to play in her yard that she would run over and play with her neighbors. But—oh, dear—what a cool welcome she got when she slipped into the Moore yard.

"I came over to play spy with you and Tom," said Susan pleasantly.

"Three is too many to play 'I spy' in our yard," responded Katie.

"You had better go back and swing," announced Tom

Then suddenly Susan had a queer feeling around her heart, and a mist of tears gathered in her eyes, for instantly she realized she was getting a tasteof her own medicine, and she didn't like it.

Just for a minute Susan stood looking at the playmates she had snubbed and been snubbed by in return, and then she moved closer to them.

"Listen, now," she said soberly, "I know I am to blame—but even a swing isn't worth while if you haven't anybody to enjoy it with. Come on over and try it out."

"You mean it?" exclaimed Tom.

"Sure, I mean it," answered Susan, "I've discovered selfishness doesn't pay, and it's far more fun to divide what you have with your friends."

And once having made this doscovery, Selfish Susan became a thing of the past, and developed into a most delightful neighbor.—Olive Plants.

RAGGED TOM, THE SURETY

On Sunday afternoon a big boy stood at the door of the Sounday school. He was so bad that he had been turned out of school the Sunday before. His father and mother brought him, and begged he might be received in again. The superintendent said: "We should be glad to do him good, but we are afraid he will ruin all the other children. It is very bad for a school when a big boy sets a wicked example."

"We know he is a bad boy at school," said the parents, "but he is ten times worse at home, and he will be lost if you do not take him back."

"We could take him back if we could secure his good behavior. I will see," thought the superintendent.

So he stepped back into the school and rang the bell for silence. All listened while he said, "That boy wants to come into the school again, but we cannot take him back without making sure of his good behavior. Will any one be surety for him?"

A pause followed. The elder boys shook their heads. They said they knew him too well. The others did not care for him. But one little boy pitied the big bad boy, and was very sorry no one would be surety. The little boy went by the name of "Ragged Tom." It was not his fault that he was ragged, for his mother was very poor. The superintendent heard the little voice, "If you please, sir, I will, sir."

"You, Tom? A little boy like you? Do you know what is meant by being a surety, Tom?"

"Yes, sir, if you please; it means that when he is a bad boy I am to be punished for it."

"And are you willing to be punished for that big boy?"

"Yes, sir, if he's bad again."

"Then come in," said the superintendent, looking to the door; and the big boy, with a downcast face, walked across the floor. He was thinking as he walked, "I know I'm a bad boy, but I'm not as bad as that! I'll never let that little fellow be punished for me—no, never." God had graciously put that thought into the big boy's mind.

As the children were leaving school, the superintendent saw the big boy and little Tom walking together. He said to himself, "I am afraid that boy will do Tom harm. I must go and look after them."

When he reached the cottage where Tom lived, he said to his mother, "Where is your son, Tom?"

"Oh, he's just gone upstairs with a great big boy he brought with him. I don't know what they're doing."

"May I go up?"

"Oh, yes, sir."

The superintendent went softly and quickly up the stairs, and as he reached the top, he could see through the door that Tom and the boy were kneeling together. He soon heard Tom's voice saying, "O Lord, make this boy that has been the worst boy in the school, O Lord, make him the best."

The superintendent knelt down by Tom's side, and they all prayed together.

God heard him, and He made the big boy one of the best boys in the school, and raised up friends for "Ragged Tom," who put him to school, and after that sent him to college, so that at length he went to be a missionary to the heathen.—Unknown.

OUR CHILDREN'S HOME

Baraca Class, Gibsonville clothing child	$5.00
Matthews Chapel	1.00
Whitakers S. S.	5.00
Elbaville, S. S. and Church, Mocksville.	5.35
Union Chapel S. S., Granville	6.45
First Church S. S., Winston-Salem	10.00
Kannapolis S. S.	6.00
Chestnut Ridge S. S., Orange	1.50
Mt. Hermon S. S., Mt. Hermon	2.60
Concord, Saxapahaw	2.00
Glen Raven S. S.	3.44
Bess Chapel S. S.	1.67
Community Church S. S.	4.82
Concord S. S.	20.00
Gibsonville S. S.	6.70
State Street S. S.	3.56
Worthville S. S., Randolph	7.11
Mt. Pleasant S. S., Mt. Pleasant	7.00
Midway S. S., Haw River	2.61
Brown Summit S. S., Haw River	1.00
Fairfield S. S., Guilford	2.00
Hickory Grove S. S., Guilford	1.45
Midway Church	8.00
Pilot Church S. S., Pinnacle-Mt. Zion	2.55
First Church S. S., Thomasville	15.00
First Church S. S., Lexington	6.00
Saxapahaw, Saxapahaw	2.00
First Church S. S., Burlington	37.07
Siler City S. S.	7.12
Mt. Pleasant S. S., N. Davidson	1.20
Mt. Lebanon, Randleman	3.66
Mt. Lebanon, Randleman, Specials for September 13	12.98
The Gleaner's Class, Fairmont, W. Va., feeding child	5.00
New Hope, Vance	2.00
Whitakers Chapel, Enfield	2.50
N. C. Branch, Woman's Auxiliary, by the treasurer	106.83
Philathea class, Gibsonville, feeding child	11.25
Friendship S. S., Mt. Hermon, August and September	10.00
Pleasant Grove S. S.	6.51
Sale of old clothing, kindness Miss Martha Parsons	6.00
Mitchell's Grove S. S., Guilford	2.00
Maple Spring, Forsyth, special for September 13th	18.34
Harris Chapel, Vance, special for September 13	2.00

Clothing and Other Gifts

Mrs. Hite, Henderson, N. C., 2 coats, 17 dresses, 3 blouses, 2 aprons, 2 pair bloomers, 2 pair gloves, and 9 pieces of underwear.

Woman's Auxiliary, Maple Springs, Forsyth, 33 half-gallon cans of fruit and vegetables.

The children of Ionia, Mo., 15 Missouri mules (toys).

We are profoundly grateful for so good a report this week. We also greatly appreciate the individual boxes of clothing which are coming in from the various groups of women throughout the Conference for our girls. These packages are being acknowledged from the office.

Children's Home Day

Thursday of this week is Children's Home Day, and the day itself will tell the story of the results of "A Worthy Honor Roll." We are hoping for good results, and we know ahead of time that some churches will make good reports. We thank all our people for their interest in the Home.

Still Pleading for Our Boys

We have 52 boys, all of whom need clothing for the winter. And both boys and girls need shoes. Good used clothing will help, but it is going to take money in the main; for not a great deal of used clothing ever comes in for boys. We take it that your boys wear out their clothing until very little of it reaches us.

Produce

Produce is beginning to come in. Gather yours and bring it to us if you can. If you cannot bring it, please let us know and we will send for it. Grain products and potatoes will be very helpful this fall. Thank you and God bless you every one.

Just as we were ready to mail this report Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Smith, of Tabernacle, came with 60 watermelons and gladdened the hearts of all our children.

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

◆

TOMATOES PROMOTE HEALTH

Good teeth, freedom from disease and a good appetite are the three things promoted by the rich vitamin content of tomatoes. Of course tomatoes must appear upon the menu daily if good results are to be expected. The caso with which tomato juice is made and canned makes the fellow with a garden especially blessed. With a good supply of tomatoes there is no reason why there should not be tomato juice for the family the year round. Choose tomatoes which are very ripe, wash and cook them and then press them through a sieve. Heat the resulting juice to the bboiling point and can. The seasoning should be done at the time of the first cooking and it might be found desirable to add sweet peppers and mixed spice at this time. Three peppers and teaspoonful of sice to each bushel of tomatoes should be sufficient.—Pathfinder.

◆

CHURCH UNION MEET

The Commissioners on Church Union, representing the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church, held their initial meeting in Chicago, August 28-29, with about 35 Commissioners present. In due time an official report of the meeting will be prepared by the three secretaries and given to the press. I cannot, of course, anticipate that report. I may say, however, that the meeting was characterized by an unmistakable desire for union, and by thoughtful, earnest, prayerful effort to bring these three churches into organic fellowship.

S. W. TAYLOR.

◆

COWLICK HUMAN

While it may a source of constant irritation to the mother who likes to have her little boy look neat and well-groomed, part of the time, at least, the cowlick is an indication that its owner is a little farther removed from "cousin ape" than some of our scientists would have us believe. According to Dr. T. B. Stewart, of the Smithsonian Institution, it is something which is never found on the ape. The orangutan has a hairformation which does resemble it some but it is way back on the head and never near the crowd where the plume appears on "Sonny's head.—Pathfinder.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

NOTICE TO THANK-OFFERING SECRETARIES

Having been misinformed myself as to the month for the Fall Thank-Offering Service, I have possibly misinformed some of you. SEPTEMBER is Thank-Offering month for the N. C. Branch of Women's Work, and not November. Therefore, if you have not already planned your program, please do so at once, and hold the service at the first convenient date. Interesting programs have been prepared by Mrs. Henry H. Maier, and are published in the August and September issues of the Missionary Record. Additional copies of these issues may be had by writing Miss Bettie S. Bittingham, 516 N. Charles Street, Baltimore, Md.

Last year N. C.'s September Thank-Offering amounted to $402.28. Let's go over the $500 goal this year! You can help do this by urging big offerings in your local Auxiliary. If you desire additional Thank-Offering boxes or envelopes, or other information, please ask for it. Please write and tell me the amount of your Thank-Offering as soon as convenient after your special service.

Yours for a big Thank-Offering,
MRS. RALPH H. VANCE,
Sec'y Thank-Offering N. C. Branch,
High Point, N. C.

◆

SOMETHING TO DISCOURAGE BUGS

Sodium fluoride is good insecticide for many of the pests that infest the kitchen and other parts of the house. This is a heavy powder and it can be sprinkled around almost anywhere and will not blow away. It is also non-poisonous, which is a great advantage. Children and household pets will not be in danger from it. For roaches it is especially effective. It can even be sprinkled in ice boxes and on shelves where food is kept. It will kill fleas on animals. If the animal's fur is brushed well afterward no discomfort will result. Sodium fluoride can also be used to advantage around chicken houses, etc. Even ants show a dislike for it.—Pathfinder.

◆

AN OBSERVATION

Doubtless more banks would be "liquid" if they had rolled
Some of the water from the stocks that were sold;
At least they would be wiser if only they knew
The moisture content of the bonds that are "dew."—Guion Lee in Pathfinder.

◆

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE

In looking over the Honor Roll as published in the Journal of the last Annual Conference, I recently noticed that First Church, Winston-Salem, was not credited with having raised its quota in full of Herald subscriptions. This recognition should have been given and I am sure that I wrote it down that way. We'll blame it on the printer.

J. E. PRITCHARD, Former Pastor.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Asheville.—I just knew that Philathea class would rally. They led the Adult Department in both attendance and collection this week. Wake up, Fawcett Bible Class, make them work to keep ahead. The Men's Class, which heretofore has been few and far between, rallied on Sunday and bids fair to be a real rival of the Philathea Class. You are going to have to work now, Philatheas, to keep ahead of both the Men's Class and the Fawcett Bible Class; but with your enthusiastic president, Mrs. Robey Wilson, and your efficient teacher, Miss Cunningham, keeping ahead will be just play.

Hurrah! I knew those Junior Girls would do it! They were ahead of the Junior Boys in collection Sunday; so, Junior Boys, you will have to get a move on you. Miss Irene Miller, Junior Girls' teacher, is an enthusiast, and her class is catching some of her spirit. Mrs. Bolick's Beginners are still way ahead in attendance. Good for the little folk! Our Sunday school is certainly doing well now.

We are real sorry to be losing Miss Josie McNeill from our Children's Department, but happy that she is going to be able to attend High Point College again this year. Miss McNeill has been our Primary teacher for some time and a splendid teacher she is, too. Mrs. McNeill is going to High Point, too, and we shall miss her equally as much as Josie. Both are such earnest workers. We shall be looking forward eagerly for their return in the spring.

Mrs. W. E. Teague will also be away most of the winter. She is to visit her children in Charlotte, N. C.

Did I say, last week, the Woman's Auxiliary was lacking enthusiasm? Well, I was all off; and I beg pardon, ladies! The three Circles were well attended this week and plans are now going forward for a supper to be given at the church Wednesday evening from 6 to 8 p. m. It is to be a real "preacher" supper, and I am sorry this paper comes out too late to extend to all of you a cordial invitation. Ladies in charge of arrangements are: Mrs. J. F. Minnis, Mrs. Hale Thomas and Mrs. G. P. Younginer. The women are also working hard on garments for two of the children at the Home. We are very glad to be able to do our bit in this way, too.

Our Children's Home birthday fund, according to Miss Clouse, chairman of that fund, has reached the sum of $11.28. We are proud of this amount, and although we are not qualified for a picture of the Home we are honestly glad to be able to help this much.

Mr. Minnis, before his sermon on Sunday, urged a special drive for this week to raise one-half of our A. C. claims. We are going to do it, too. Sometimes one wonders where the money comes from; but it comes. The people in the Asheville church have "a mind to work," as Mr. Minnis admonished us in his sermon of the morning. He preached from the text: "So built we the wall; for the people had a mind to work." (Neh. 4:6.) With "a mind to work" any group can accomplish great things, so we expect to report next week that we are "over the top" in this matter, too.

I failed to mention last week the union services being held by the five churches in this section of Asheville during the month of September. It is a great step, in the right direction, when five churches of different denominations can unite and worship together. The attendance is splendid and everyone is deriving great benefits from the messages. It gives each church a chance to see what others are doing; and it is believed will result in each group working harder so as not to be deficient in any manner. The service Sunday night was at the St. Mark's Lutheran church, with the Rev. John R. Chapman, Congregational church pastor, bringing the message.

Miss Fannie Miller, who has been absent for months because of work, was present for Christian Endeavor Sunday night. We have missed Fannie greatly and hope she will now be able to attend more regularly.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hanner and family visited in Athens, Ga. this week. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McIntire and daughter, Jane, have been away too, visiting Mrs. McIntire's family. We were glad to have both families back with us again on Sunday. Miss Louise Hanner will be leaving again on Tuesday of this week for Berea College, where she is in school.

Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Williams are expecting to be out of town this week, for a much needed rest.

Third quarterly conference is to be held at the church Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. Mr. D. J. Eller was elected our delegate to the Annual Conference at a special election held this past Sunday.

Mr. Boling is actually able to walk about, although still having to wear the cast about his neck. He is reported to be rapidly recovering and we are all so grateful.

M. L. B.

North Davidson.—Sunday was another good day for us at Mt. Pleasant. It was Home-Coming and the beginning of our special meeting. Dr. G. I. Humphreys, president of High Point College, preached the sermon. His text was Philippeans 4-19, and every one enjoyed the message. Dr. Humphreys, we hope you will soon be in our midst again. In the afternoon we had a lot of good singing and some splendid speeches by Mr. Lee Berrier of Thomasville, Mr. Horney Berrier of Canaan, also Mr. Carl Clodfelter of Canaan. Mr. Fred Craven and Mr. Paul Livengood of Bethany Reformed church had a part in the prayer service. The Canaan and Bethany Male Chorus, a quartette from Thomasville West End M. P. church and the Hedgecock Sisters furnished the music.

The girls' Sunshine Circle of Spring Hill gave a lawn party Saturday which was largely attended. They must have cleared from the preceeds twenty-five or thirty dollars. I feel sure they are in a position to soon make their payment on the piano.

We have been struggling along with the parsonage debt, we are making some payments, the ladies of Canaan have just paid $80.00, Mt. Pleasant, $25.00 and Spring Hill, $50.00. This is the ladies' work and you can see what the ladies are worth. Their activities encourage us to push on. When the tobacco market opens the men will line up with them and we will remove this debt.

We are looking forward to the fifth Sunday in September which is Home Coming day at Spring Hill. Sunday school at 10 a. m., sermon at 11 a. m., and dinner on the grounds. In the afternoon Rev. T. J. Whitehead of West End, Greensboro, will give us the afternoon message. We will have special music throughout the day. If you have loved ones buried here we hope that you will attend. We want to organize a Memorial association. Come and spend the day with us.

It is not long until Annual Conference. We have plenty of work yet to do, although I feel sure we will have a good report to carry to Conference.

C. L. G.

Friendship. — Revival services began here Sunday evening, August 26 and closed Friday August 31. We had a splendid meeting with a large number attending. Rev. R. L. Vickery delivered the sermons.

Sunday school met here Sunday at the usual hour, 10:00 a. m., with fifty present. The number has been increasing for the past few Sundays.

The Christian Endeavor met Sunday night at 7:30. It also seems to be increasing.

Preaching service will be held next fourth Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

NADINE RICE.

Greensville Charge. — Our special revival services began at Hobbs the four Sunday in August and closed the following Friday night. Rev. Earl Cook of Concord, N. C., did the preaching. He preached the gospel in the good old-fashioned way; the people heard his messages gladly, and many have asked for his return next year. We trust that he will be with us again. So, do not forget us, Bro. Cook, when you make your plans for 1935. There were about ten conversions and reclamations and the church was revived. Two new members united with our church last Sunday: Mrs. Osborne Phillips, from Fountain Creek Baptist church, and little Elaine Pair.

Elaine was badly hurt during the meeting; she is able to attend school and is wearing her sweet little smile again.

Mrs. Enoch P. Pair has been ill since our meeting, but she is better at this writing.

Mrs. I. A. Jones and two sons of Richmond, Va., Mrs. Tom Barnes and children, Mrs. Stotesbury and two sons of Drewryville, Va., Mrs. I. L. Daniel of Suffolk, Va., and Mrs. Iness Moore of Washington, D. C. visited relatives in our vicinity and attended revival services here.

Our hearts were made sad to learn of the illness of Mrs. E. G. Cowan; we trust that she has recovered. Rev. and Mrs. Cowan will always be kindly remembered by the membership at Hobbs and we pray God's blessings upon them in the Master's service.

Mrs. H. L. Powell, her two children, and two grandchildren visited some friends on this charge the third week in August. It was a pleasure to see them again.

Pastor Joyner brought us a very good message last Sunday using for his subject, "Be still, and know that I am God." He said that's what America; the church; and individuals need to do today: that would increase our faith in God and in each other.

New interest is being shown here under the pastorate of Brother and Mrs. Joyner, and we trust that the Annual Conference may see it to return them to Greensville charge for another year. The parsonage looks like "home"; improvements have been made on the inside and flowers are blooming on the lawn. May God answer their prayers and help them to see some of the fruit of their labors. DORA J. PAIR, Reporter.

◆

Pensacola, Democrat Charge.—I am kindly late with my few news items from this church. We are getting along very nicely. Rev. D. I. Huss filled his regular appointment at this church the fourth Sunday in last month. Brother Huss is always present to fill his regular services. He does not disappoint his congregations. He preaches for us good and interesting sermons. Rev. Huss is liked very much by the people of our church.

Our Sunday school isn't so large in number but those who belong to it come regularly. We wish to increase in number. We are planning to have a watermelon feast real soon for the children in our Sunday school. The officers of our Sunday school attend regularly.

The folks of our church have canned 100 half-gallon cans of things for the Children's Home. We plan to raise some money next Sunday for the Children's Home.

Mr. M. H. Blankenship of our church was elected as our delegate to the Annual Conference. We are working to raise our church claims. We want our delegate to have a good report from our church when he goes to Conference. V. B.

◆

Enfield. — Our revival services began on Wednesday night, August 23, with our pastor preaching a fine sermon on that night and Friday night. On Thursday night we were fortunate in hearing Brother O. C. Loy of Halifax charge. Rev. J. Elwood Carroll (our pulpit help) was unable to come until Sunday night, August 26. The meeting closed the following Friday night. Al of the services were very fine.

Brother Carroll was with us three years ago, our people liked him then and most especially this year. He brought to our people a series of wonderfully inspirational sermons. We are most grateful to him for the services rendered our church and community; we enjoyed having him and his most likeable wife in our homes and hope that it may be our good pleasure to have him in Enfield again. We trust that much good may result from the work of our revival.

The Woman's Auxiliary met August 27 in the home of Mrs. N. W. Cousins, with Mrs. Yancey Spivey and Miss Mary Sykes as joint hostesses. This was mostly a business meeting, followed by a social hour. We were glad to have the following visitors at this meeting: Mrs. J. Elwood Carroll, Mrs. Al Vinson and Mrs. J. P. Allred of Whiteville.

Our study class met last Friday afternoon at the parsonage, at this time we began our study book "Japanese Women Speak."

The third quarterly conference met at Whitaker's Chapel church. This meeting was well attended and some good reports were made, especially fine was the pastor's report. Mr. Stanley Whitaker was declared delegate to the Annual Conference at this meting.

Mrs. Mary Barnhill, on of our faithful church and auxiliary workers, is visiting her daughter in Durham at the present time.

Mrs. Delia Bustin another of our older and loyal members has been enjoying unusually good health for her age. Mrs. Pike continues on the sick list. We miss her in all our church work.

There has been a few improvements made at the parsonage this summer. Dining room has been papered and painted and the kitchen painted. We are grateful to Brother George Parker for most of the painting as he very generously gave of his time to do this work. There are still other improvements we wish to make before winter so the building will be more comfortable for our pastor and his splendid co-worker, as we are hoping that they will want to return here again. With best wishes to all readers and workers.

REPORTER.

◆

Pilot Church, Pinnacle Charge. — We are glad to report that our church is doing very well at present. The Sunday school is one of the best as we have had an unusually good attendance all this year. The choir has taken a greater interest in singing since we purchased new song books last fall, and we are greatly encouraged by this as a good choir and a good Sunday school are a great help to any church.

The revival meeting began at our church the fifth Sunday in July and closed on Friday night. Rev. Glenn Madison was the pulpit help. His sermons were all good and greatly enjoyed. He endeared himself to the people at Pilot church. We are always glad to have Brother Madison in our homes and in our church. As a result of his preaching there were two professions; one joined the church and was baptized last Sunday morning before the preaching hour.

We are glad to welcome this new member, Mr. Claude Crews, into our church, and we hope that he will be a true follower of Christ. There was a good attendance at preaching last Sunday.

On the first Sunday in October we expect to have our Home Coming. There will be singers from other places and also speakers. We invite every one to come and enjoy the occasion with us.

Almost all the crops have been harvested in this community. The tobacco crop is of a very low quality. The hail did lots of damage around here and we have had an unusual amount of rain.

With best wishes to the Herald and its readers. REPORTER.

◆

Mt. Pleasant Charge.—It has been a long time since there has been a report in the paper from this charge, but we have been moving along, getting a few things done in the meantime.

During the months of July and August we have held a Vacation Church school at both Pleasant Union and Mount Pleasant churches. Miss Maxine Taylor supervised and taught in both schools. It was the second year that a school has been held at Pleasant Union church, but it was the first attempt at Mount Pleasant church. In the two schools we enrolled 124 sudents and gave 98 certificates for attendance and satisfactory work done. Miss Taylor did a fine piece of work in each of the schools and made many friends in the two communities. The schools were, apparently, a great success and there is much enthusiasm for others another year.

On the fourth Sunday in July, immediately following the Vacation Church school, we began a series of revival services at Pleasant Union church. Dr. N. G. Bethea preached on Sunday afternoon and twice each day during the next week, through Friday night. Even though there were no conversions and have been no additions to the church we had a good meeting and the church was revived.

On the third Sunday of August the meeting begun at Mt. Pleasant church. On Sunday we had two services. At 11:00 o'clock I preached to a large congregation. At the afternoon service we held the Vacation Church school commencement, which was enjoyed by a large audience. On Monday Mr. R. S. Troxler came and did the preaching through Friday night. Mr. Troxler was once pastor of this charge for five years, leaving here 18 years ago this fall and had not returned since that time. He is loved and respected by the people of this community, as was evidenced during his stay with us. We had a fine meeting, with more than 35 conversions and reclamations. Since then 26 have joined the church.

We realize that the conference year is almost at its close and we have a lot of money to raise before that time, but we are working at the task and hoping that we may be able to face the Annual Conference with every claim paid in full.

◆

Spencer.—Our revival meetings began September 2. Our pastor, Rev. Culbert M. Smith, came over the week before and held prayer meeting in our homes; I think the revival really begins there. We know that we have a good young preacher that is trying to build up our church here. Rev. W. M. Howard came on Monday from Moriah church and preached for us. He was our pastor last year and we were glad to have him back with us and to listen to his inspiring messages.

Rev. C. P. Morris from Kannapolis with his people came and rendered some splendid songs nearly every night. We appreciate Brother Morris and his people's services, also the co-operation of the people from the other churches of Spencer. We had the best attendance this meeting we have ever had: two joined the church and we hope to have more soon. We feel that much good has been accomplished.

Our Sunday school had the larges number present that we have had for sometime.

MRS. A. L. MOORE.

◆

Liberty.—Our pastor, Rev. Fred R. Love, filled his appointment Sunday evening. A large congregation was present to hear him. Verily, we have our feasts of spiritual food set before us in Liberty church. In love and marked earnestness, he has preached the pure Word, even Jesus Christ the Savior, our Risen Lord. We are spiritually blessed by these love feasts.

Our revival meeting begins the third Sunday in September. Remember the time—next Sunday. We cordially invite any neighboring churches to attend these services. Rev. Geo. R. Brown, of Reidsville, will assist. "The harvest truly is great. Pray ye therefore, the Lord of the harvest that he will send laborers into his harvest." We desire the prayers of all who read this, for our meeting.

On Sunday evening our Chritian Endeavor had for their topic, "Courage," led by Miss Frances Jones.

A number of our dear young people have gone away to various colleges: Mary Bowman Shepard, Marjorie Elkins and Helen Dameron to High Point College; Vernell Allred to Appalachian State Teachers' College; Parks and Dudley Coble to Mars Hill; Katherine Underwood to Coker College, Hartsville, S. C., and Paul Shepard Hardin to Wake Forest.

Mrs. V. H. Dameron was hostess to Circle No. 1 of our Woman's Auxiliary for the August meeting. Mrs. Mamie Smith led the devotional. The program was in charge of Mrs. A. D. Gregg, chairman. The hostess served delicious refreshments, assisted by her daughter, Betty.

Circle No. 3 met at the church.

Mrs. Wade Hardin will entertain the Book Club next Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Isley are the proud parents of a little girl, Norma Fay.

A goodly number are attending prayer meeting each Wednesday evening.

Let us not forget to read the Bible, meditate thereon, and practice its teaching.

BERTINE SHEPARD, Reporter.

Shady Grove, Connelly Springs Charge.—Our revival closed August 21st with 42 conversions and 18 united with the church.

Our pastor has just closed a revival at Shiloh church, which is on this charge. There were 60 or more converted and 23 united with that church. They are expecting more to join. Some of the members said it was the most wonderful meeting they had ever experienced.

We trust that these revivals will not stop in the hearts of the people. The Ladies' Aid is still doing very good work. The total amount raised this year is $77.75. The Society has made a Yo-Yo Spread, which will be sold Saturday, September 15th, at Mr. J. P. Ingles. We will also sell ice cream and sandwiches at this place.

RUTH AIKEN, Reporter.

Efland, Orange Charge.—Circle No. 3 of our Auxiliary feels that it has passed its first milepost successfully. This band of young ladies met on the first Monday evening in September with Miss Melba Gulley. Miss Mabel Sykes, leader, had planned the program to center our thoughts on China and Japan. To this meeting Mrs. O. E. Bivins of Circle No. 1 brought some very helpful information and in her usual pleasing manner complimented the girls on their success and urged them to press on with the one aim in view for which we are all striving.

Plans were made for a Brunswick Stew supper the following Saturday evening. In spite of the continued rain through the week, Misses Margaret Efland and Margaret Freeland continued their preparation and were overjoyed when Saturday come with its sunshine. One seldom sees a happier band than the group who worked with their leaders to make this occasion a successful one. We feel that it was a success financially, for it netted us about $21 in cash to add to the expenses of the church, besides a very pleasant evening spent with friends.

The other circles have completed a winter outfit for one of the girls in the Children's Home. We hope she will get as much pleasure from wearing this outfit as the ladies had in getting it up.

Mrs. E. S. Taylor is collecting birthday pennies and will be heard from later. We hope she is as successful with this, as she has been with former undertakings.

Our Rally Day Service will be the third Sunday evening in September. Misses Margaret Efland and Kathleen Brown are preparing the exercise for this service.

Rev. and Mrs. Williams have been in Creswell with Rev. Bingham in a revival for the past week.

Mr. Archie Grey Williams spent part of last week in Burlington with his brother, Currie, who is connected with the Life Insurance Company of Virginia.

Our Sunday school has purchased new songbooks recently. We feel that singing is a great asset to our services and hope to improve it.

REPORTER.

Midway, Haw River Circuit.—Our pastor preached a wonderful sermon Sunday morning. Some say it was the best yet. I don't know; they are all good. Bro. Trollinger has been with us six years, and yet we hear such expressions as this: "That was the best one he has preached," "He gets better all the time."

There are only three more preaching days before Conference. There is much to be done, but we are hoping for a good ending of the year. At the third quarterly conference the vote for delegate to the Annual Conference was announced, and R. P. Butler was declared elected. He is superintendent of the Sunday school at this place.

Our revival was held in June. Dr. J. D. Williams did the preaching. All his sermons were interesting and helpful. The visible results were not what we had hoped for, yet we feel sure much good was accomplished that will bear fruit in days to come. We hope Dr. Williams will come this way again.

Our Sunday school is moving along nicely. We have good attendance and all seem interested in the work. Several of our young people will be leaving in a few days, some to college, others to teach. We hope for them a successful year's work.

MRS. G. W. APPLE, Reporter.

Charlotte Church, Richland Charge—Our special meeting closed Friday night. Our pastor did the preaching, delivering some very good sermons. Although there were no conversions, we feel that our church has been greatly revived.

A large number of former members and friends worshipped with us on the first Sunday. We are always glad to have our friends come back.

The Woman's Auxiliary will meet with Miss Loula Andrews Thursday evening of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Richardson announce the birth of a daughter, Doris Louise, August 22.

Odell Redding, one of our most faithful Sunday school members, is a patient at the Orthopedic Hospital, Gastonia.

Gilbert McCain, who has been sick, was able to attend Sunday school last Sunday.

Mrs. M. M. Routh continues right sick.

Misses Nannie Harris and Mary Ellen Bulla entertained with a surprise birthday party Saturday evening at the home of Miss Bulla. This was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Worth Bulla and son, Richard, all three celebrating September 8th as their birthday. They received several gifts. The Bulla quartet gave a number of humorous selections, which were enjoyed very much. Games and contests were enjoyed during the evening. Mrs. Clay McCain, Bill Dickens and Vernon Phillips were winners in the contests. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

REPORTER.

Hawkins Chapel, Littleton Charge.—We were glad to have with us the first Sunday evening Rev. L. S. Helms, of Draper. He did the preaching. His sermon was greatly enjoyed. We hope he can be with us again. At this service Mrs. Edward Hawkins and Mr. Edward Green joined our church by letter.

We feel that much spiritual gain was made in our revival services. Our pastor, Rev. R. L Vickery, did the preaching, as it was the request of the people. We had several conversions and three members were received into the church Sunday: Alice Mae Glasgow, Margaret Pittard and Hazel Faucette. Let us pray that they may always do the Master's will.

Our Sunday school superintendent, Mr. Edward Hawkins, has asked the Sunday school to do some memory work from different parts of the Bible.

We did not have prayer service after Sunday school the first Sunday morning because many people wished to attend the all-day service at Corinth.

Our Sunday school treasurer, Miss Mary Green, will leave in a few days to enter college at Greenville, N. C.

Lillian and Frances Hawkins were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vincent's children Sunday.

We regret to report Mrs. Squire Callum and Mr. E. B. Pair have been very ill.

Miss Virginia Pittard has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Martha Snipe, of Roanoke Rapids.

Miss Gaynelle Green, of Roanoke Rapids, was the guest of her mother, Mrs. R. E. Green, Sunday before last.

September 5 Mrs. Mollie Hawkins, of Roanoke Rapids, was surprised on her 87th birthday. Her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren gave her a supper, which she greatly appreciated and enjoyed.

The Conference year has almost come to an end and much work remains to be done. May we all do our best to finish the year creditably.

MRS. CLAUDE HAWKINS, Reporter.

First Church, Charlotte.—Have had but little time to write since mid-spring. Early in the year we decided to make a real effort to offset the usual summer slump. In our programs we have sought variety and definiteness and with such results that we have scarcely felt the summer pull either upon our attendance or offerings. Two recent Sundays the Sunday school was off, but otherwise it has been at its best all the while. The third quarter recorded the best average attendance for the entire year.

Interest in every department of the work is going well. In April Mrs. G. W. Stegall, chairman of the Pastor's Aid Committee, organized a Parsonage Association to assist with the monthly payments on the church debt. As a result we have had an additional income of about $30.00 per month. This income has given lots of relief t o our program. Financially, we are much improved, as our income has increased for all purposes somewhat more than 50 per cent thus far this year over that of last. We will pay all A. C. B. claims and about $100.00 on World Service. We have about doubled last year's contributions to the Children's Home. Expect to raise our Herald deficit and subscription allotment.

The Woman's Auxiliary is doing well and will be in position to pay their budget in full. The Wilma Shaw Bible class of women is doing a fine thing financially for the building fund. This class is always working and earning and is consequently contented and happy. Other classes and the two C. E. Societies are also contributing to the debt fund.

I have been away from home quite a lot this summer. Have only been absent from the pulpit one Sunday, but I have been preaching twice a day for six weeks. I have given four weeks of service to two M. E. churches, one in Florida and one at Monroe, with pleasing results. Was with Brother J. D. Morris at Bess Chapel and Rev. J. R. Anderson at Albemarle. It was a real pleasure to be associated with these brethren and their fine people.

We are expecting other fine things to happen before the meeting of the Conference.

G. H. HENDRY, Pastor.

Winston, First Church.—Things are beginning to happen again over in these parts. I'll take a little space to tell you about them.

The Baracas gave a watermelon cutting last Friday night, inviting themselves and the rest of the Sunday school. The affair was held in Washington Park, and was fairly well attended. Some may not have liked watermelon, others may have been kept away because of the threat of rain. Those who came and ate enjoyed it.

With the coming of fall the circles of the Woman's Auxiliary are taking on new life. The treasurer reports much more raised this year than was raised last year to the same date. If the women folks keep up that pace they will raise the budget without undue effort.

The Superannuate and College assessments are about raised in full. The others will come up, we think, quite a good deal having already been paid in on most of them. The classes are largely responsible for raising the amount apportioned for Superannuates.

We were glad to receive two new members last Sunday week: Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Foster, by letter from State Street, Lexington.

Some weeks ago the Baracas gave a "Womanless Supper," the proceeds from which were set aside toward securing the materials for a moveable-type bulletin board. The board was finished and set up last Friday in time to advertise the special meeting. We hope to use it as a wayside pulpit as well as a means for calling attention to the services of the church, so that he who runs may read and be helped.

The Baracas voted a couple of Sundays ago to clothe a boy at the Children's Home. As soon as we find out the cost, a check for the amount will be sent Dr. Dixon. (Here is an opportunity for Baracas, or organized men's classes, to do a good piece of work).

C. W. BATES, Pastor.

Midway Church.—We have made a special effort to have every family represented in the birthday offering for the Children's Home. We believe this dream realized when 25 families responded with their offering in which 43 people were represented with a gift of a penny for each year, running from the two-year-old to 61 . Te chairman of the committee, Mrs. Leo Palmer, turned in $8.39 collected in this birthday offering to Mrs. A. G. Dixon on September 6.

And now we have a more vital interest in the Home than ever. For Midway has a girl there. When it was announced at the Ladies' Aid last week that Dr. and Mrs. Dixon had given us interest in one of the children, a most enthusiastic group of women volunteered to give school clothing to her. A box will be sent this week. It is human nature to feel a deeper interest in personal ownership, so we believe this a splendid plan to create deeper interest in the Home.

We are so very happy to report our Ladies' Aid voted at last meeting to become an Auxiliary in the October meeting. To some of us who have worked toward this end for years this is very happy news indeed. We can now do greater work than ever.

The plan s for Midway's booth at the Fair are moving along swiftly. Our president, Mrs. Everett Walters, is untiring in her efforts to make this a successful year, and she is backed by competent officers and a willing membership.

MRS. LEO PALMER, Reporter.

THAT HERALD SUBSIDY

In Dr. Pritchard's article on the last page of last week's Herald, he says someone asked what was meant by Subsidy. And he answered it, he says, by stating that "Subsidy is the amount that each charge is supposed to pay to the Herald in addition to the subscriptions, to help meet the running expenses of the paper." That explanation is good as far as it goes. As a member of the Herald Committee, I'd like to carry it a little farther.

There are certain fixed charges connected with printing, as with any other business. Until those fixed charges are met from the sale of the product, in this case 50 issues of the Herald for each subscription, there can be no profit. Not only will there be no profit—there will be loss. And the loss will depend on how far short the income to meet those fixed charges is below the cost of production. For example: It costs just as much to set up the type for a single number of the Herald as it would if 3,000 copies were printed. The labor cost varies but little whether 1,500 copies or 3,000 copies are printed each week—and the labor cost is the largest of the fixed costs in producing the paper. Other costs, such as paper, power, and the like, will be in proportion to the number of copies printed. The paper for 300 copies will cost much less than the paper for 3,000 copies; likewise the power for running the press. But the proportionate cost is much less than the income from that additional 2,700 copies would be.

What I am trying to say can be made still clearer:

The cost of printing 1,500 copies of the Herald for one issue is $67.50. For 50 issues, or a year, the cost of 1,500 copies each week totals $3,375.00. The cost of printing one issue of 3,000 copies would be only $30.00 more than the cost of 1,500 copies, or $97.50 per issue. The cost of printing 3,000 copies a week for 50 weeks, then, would be $4,875.00. Now, the income from 1,500 subscribers at $2.00 each would be $3,000, while the actual cost of printing that number of copies would be $3,375.00—a deficit of $375.00 in the printing cost alone, with no provision for salary for the editor, his office expense, or the mailing cost. The income from 3,000 subscribers would be $6,000.00. The cost of printing 3,000 copies for 50 issues totals $4,875.00—a surplus of $1,125.00, which would go to the editor for salary, office expense and postage.

Reduced to tabular form, the above paragraph stacks up like this:

	1,500 Copies	3,000 Copies
Printing cost	$3,375.00	$4,875.00
Income, subscriptions	3,000.00	6,000.00
Loss	$ 375.00
Gain		$1,125.00

Since the circulation of the Herald in the past few years has ranged between 1,000 copies and 1,500 copies per issue it can readly be seen that even with the subsidy payments which have come in there has accumulated a deficit of several thousand dollars. The printers have had to carry that deficit. At the price they charge for printing the Herald if all they money they ask should come in they would only break even. The question is, How much of that deficit, if any, shall we ask McCulloch and Swain to assume for the privilege of printing the Herald 50 times a year? The only honest aanswer is: Why, we don't expect them to assume any of the deficit. If there is any deficit the churches of the Conference will assume it; it is only right that they should.

Once the accrued deficit is retired the only way to avoid a future deficit and assure an income sufficient to allow a profit is to increase the subscription list, this to be supplemented by small amounts in the form of subsidy from the various churches of the Conference. The size of the subsidy payments will be governed entirely by the number of subscriptions secured.

The black line of the barometer indicates that only about 1,000 subscriptions have been received in this fiscal year, and the year is almost gone.

I also urge you to raise the subsidy and by that much reduce the deficit. And at the same time secure subscriptions to the paper and make it possible to turn deficit into profit.

I want to commend Dr. Pritchard for the fine service he is rendering the Conference in the effort he is making to boost the Herald. Subsidy and subscriptions is your response to that effort.

C. W. BATES.

—The armament's yearbook, published by the League of Nations, shows that the world's expenditures for national defense increased by $241,000,000 (in gold standard dollars) from 1932 to 1933.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Shaw

James Arrington Shaw, 58, died Thursday afternoon, September 6th, at his home, Liberty, Route 2, near Nathanael Greene School, Guilford County, after an illness of four and one-half months.

